HALLELUJAH! Evangelist tests Eastern's waters, finds parting is such sweet sorrow

Most people wouldn't think an evangelist preacher would care much about a rock group. But for minister Jim Gilles, Van Halen helped change his life.

Gilles, a 22-year-old evangelist who preached to a crowd of students on the Library Quad Thursday, was "born again" in the middle of a 1980 Van Halen concert.

The Evansville, Ind. native found God during the concert when lead singer David Lee Roth crooned, "Not even God can save your soul."

Gilles said he was stunned by the lyric and wondered why it was true. Roth and the rest of Van Halen answered Gilles with their next song, "Running with the Devil."

It was then that Gilles said he realized he was on the road to hell as a drug and sex-crazed teen-ager. He said he "pleaded to God to save him."

Almost two years later, Brother Jim said he started preaching his fire-and-brimstone message on college campuses. And for the last two years, Gilles has spread his word on 144 campuses in 36 states.

That word, Brother Jim said, is "Repentance toward God and faith in Jesus."

Gilles claims that the bad news in the world is that sinners are separate alliances and enemies of God. The good news, the evangelist said he conveys to college students, is that salvation can be attained through Jesus Christ.

"Sinners need the bad to realize the good. They have committed a crime against God's law," Brother Jim said.

Gilles said he is a member of a full-gospel church that bases its beliefs on the bible. The members are all born again, believing and living in Jesus' love and hating the devil.

"We are normal Christians and when we arrive among subnormal Christians, such as the ones at Eastern, they think we are extraordinary," he said. "It was the same way with Jesus, everyone thought he was a radical."

Some in the crowd of students who gathered in a circle to listen to Gilles preach, may have thought the evangelist was a radical. But those interviewed said they gathered because they enjoyed listening to the preacher—and harassing him.

Freshman Jeff Moore said, "I was in a bad mood, but now I'm having a great time. I hope 500 more of these guys come."

Junior Pete Trainer agreed with Moore adding, "He is fun to harass."

Freshman Don DeVore was more critical of Gilles. "He is full of crap. He's someone else's puppet that doesn't know what he's talking about."

Gilles said he is aware of the students' harassment, but tries "filter out the garbage and avoid the foolish questions. I answer the intelligent questions and go off them to make various points."

Students gathered on the quad seemed to enjoy the new minister, but at least one preferred the regular evangelists who include Eastern on their ministry circuit.

Sophomore Harvard Aldort said he misses Brother Max because he was more fun. He added, "I can't wait for Brother Jed and Sister Cindy next week."

Brother Max sermonized on the quad last year. Brother Jed and Sister Cindy have preached together here periodically. The couple are reportedly teaming as man and wife now.

“...We are normal Christians...It was the same way with Jesus; everyone thought he was a radical.”

Not all first-day classes meet required time

by Linda Lance and Judy Wiedman

Despite a university policy requesting instructors to meet the entire first day class period, random interviews taken by The Daily Eastern News show that class length once again varied with the instructors.

In 1982, then-Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives sent a directive asking department chairmen to emphasize to faculty members "that the first day of class is to meet for the total time period scheduled."

Rives said the loss of a class day which allows students to add/drop before classes start made it necessary for instructors to utilize every day in the semester.

"I do, therefore, ask that each chairperson be sure that every faculty member understand that the first class period of each semester is to meet for the entire length of time for which that class is scheduled," the directive said.

Rives indicated Thursday that his position has not changed since he sent the directive. He added that he believes most instructors are following his request.

"We conducted a spot check last year and the response from most of the teachers was good" regarding the request, he said.

However, Rives said the varied course content in some classes, such as physical education courses, may prevent instructors from teaching during the entire first class period.

He added that the policy is now in the hands of Eastern's new Vice President for Academic Affairs, Edgar Schick.

Schick said Thursday that the first class day should be "treated as a regular university calendar day."

However, some teachers contacted Thursday said their classes met only briefly.

Psychology instructor Mark Davis called the first class period the "least important day out of the semester."

Davis said that he makes sure students understand the mechanics of the course, and answers any questions the students may have.

Physical Education instructor Thomas Akers added that he may let classes out early because students may not have proper clothing needed for the class.

Police to offer way to protect valuables

by Sheila Billerbeck

Pamphlets designed to record serial numbers of valuables will be made available to Charleston residents and Eastern students Tuesday.

Herb Steidinger, Charleston's assistant police chief, said the pamphlets were coordinated through the Charleston Police Department and Eastern's Campus Security Department as a public service.

"It's the first time we've done this," Steidinger said. "It's mainly a courtesy we're offering to the students and residents."

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said he received the printed forms Thursday and will deliver them to Housing Director Lou Hencken

Friday.

Hencken said pamphlet distribution on campus will be done through the residence hall mailboxes Tuesday.

"We thought it would be better to put them out on Tuesday because a lot of the students will be gone Friday," Hencken said.

Larson said the pamphlets are designed so students can write down the serial numbers of their televisions, stereos, bikes, credit cards and other valuables in case the property is stolen.

Students should keep the serial numbers and store them someplace safe, he added.

Steidinger said off-campus students and Charleston residents can pick up the forms at the police station, located on the Charleston Square.

"We don't know how many people will take advantage of this," Steidinger said, "but if somebody has something stolen, we need to know serial numbers before we can make out a police report."

Larson said when valuables are stolen, the property may never be reclaimed without proper identification.

"If the serial numbers aren't marked down, a person might not get his stuff back because he doesn't have enough identification."

Although Hencken said theft is not a problem in the residence halls, "Just to prevent one theft would make the whole thing worthwhile."

Judge clears Zaccaro's actions

NEW YORK—A judge Thursday removed John Zaccaro as manager of an elderly woman's financial affairs, but said there was no reason to believe the husband of Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro had been dishonest in borrowing $175,000 from the woman's estate.

"There is no suggestion of dishonesty or malicious intent on the part of the conservator. Mr. Zaccaro was a forthright witness and the court believes that he sought to abide by the instructions that he was given," said state Supreme Court Justice Edwin Kassoff in a six-page decision.

However, he said that "the mere appearance of impropriety must be assiduously avoided."

Zaccaro was not present when the written decision was released.

Ms. Ferraro, campaigning in Hartford, Conn., said she thought the decision was wrong "on the law."

"This is not the first time I have disagreed with the decision of a Queen's judge," said Ferraro, a former prosecutor. "I think he's wrong. My husband and I will go on," she said.

"We had submitted a brief to him with reference to situations in which a conservator had been removed and my husband did not qualify under any of those situations," she said.

Washington's veto strikes nerves

CHICAGO—The power struggle between Mayor Harold Washington and his City Council opponents escalated Thursday, with the mayor's foes responding to his veto of $820 million in proposed public works projects with a vow to block major plans and appointments.

"Given his insulting and demeaning and inflammatory statements, and irresponsible actions in refusing to accept any substantive compromise, I expect he will not get a majority vote for any major proposal or appointment," said Alderman Edward Burke.

Washington defended his veto Wednesday of the three projects—the expansion of O'Hare International Airport and two key rapid-transit developments on the South and Southwest sides—by citing amendments in the same bill that would give the council control over city contracts.

Ex-Reagan assistant indicted

NEW YORK—Thomas C. Reed, a former special assistant to President Reagan for national security affairs, was indicted Thursday on federal charges of fraud, perjury and obstruction of justice.

Reed, 50, a former Air Force secretary, allegedly traded stock in Amax Inc. on the basis of inside information from his father, Gordon W. Reed, a member of the company's board of directors, the indictment said. He also allegedly submitted false testimony and documents in a lawsuit involving his trading, it said.

The younger Reed was charged with securities fraud, wire fraud, perjury and obstruction of justice.

The senator Reed allegedly told his son of a plan by Standard Oil Co. of California to acquire Amax stock, according to the federal grand jury indictment. Thomas Reed exploited the tip by buying 500 Amax options, earning $431,000 when he sold them, it said.

Discovery soars after delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Space Shuttle Discovery finally soared into orbit today on its thrice-delayed maiden flight, carrying three communications satellites and a crew that includes NASA's second woman astronaut and its first paying passenger.

"The Earth looks great!" exclaimed astronaut Judy Resnik, as the ship sailed 184 miles high at 17,400 mph. "That's good news," replied Mission Control.

After a last minute wait to get a twin-engine airplane out of the flight path, Discovery lifted off into the blue, cloudless skies on a mission critical to rebuilding confidence in the shuttle's commercial reliability that has been shaken by the series of postponements.

Nine minutes after the fiery departure at 8:42 a.m., Mission Control in Houston reported the launch was perfect and the new ship and its six astronauts were in orbit.

"We are happy the orbiter and its crew finally left town," said launch director Bob Sieck. "The launch team is ecstatic. The only way to get over an abort and two postponements is to have a successful launch."

"I know it's been kind of rough turning this thing around...and getting it ready to go again, commander Henry Hartsfield, 50, told the control center shortly before launch. "We're ready to go and we thank you for it."

The flight combines two missions into one as NASA struggles to get back on schedule and packs 24 tons of cargo, the heaviest yet for shuttle.

Also aboard the 132-ton ship is a drug factory that will manufacture a hormone whose identity has been kept a secret but which is said to be a potential benefit to millions.

Discovery's inaugural, the 12th shuttle flight began almost seven minutes late because a private aircraft had penetrated a danger area near the Kennedy Space Center and was circling seven miles offshore, presumably to view the launch. The countdown was held until an Air Force plane chased the intruder away.

Tom Utsman, shuttle operations manager said the plane "was in the flight line in a dangerous area—not only dangerous to themselves but also" to the shuttle.

A second private plane flew into the restricted area a few minutes before the launch, but it turned away without affecting the count.

White House holds Lavelle papers

CHICAGO (AP)—The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Thursday that a network of his supporters is being set up nationwide to work for the Mondale-Ferraro ticket as well as some independent local candidates challenging slated Democrats.

Jackson said his "Rainbow Coalition" has been formalized and will work in all 50 states this fall for the Democratic national ticket. He also said his supporters will engage in voter registration and endorse state and local candidates.

Jackson, who on Tuesday pledged support for Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale, said the former vice president and his running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, show a far greater commitment to the poor, the elderly, arms control and detente than the Reagan administration.

"There are many reasons to vote," Jackson said at a news conference. "There are almost no reasons not to vote. The issue is not the choice of two candidates but the choice of two courses."

The former Democratic presidential candidate said his supporters will play a critical role in the presidential contest.

"The Rainbow Coalition is needed to defeat Mr. Reagan in November," Jackson said.

Though Jackson will be campaigning for Mondale, he said he and his supporters also are concerned about federal, state and local contests and in some cases, might endorse and work for independent candidates opposing Democrats slated by the party.

"We know that the stakes are much deeper than the top of the ticket," he said.

"When the party will not expand," he said, "new wine must continue to flow another way."

As part of his effort for Mondale, Jackson said he has been invited to meet Friday in Virginia with 13 state party chairmen from the South to discuss a "common agenda."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House is refusing to provide documents on its relations with fired Environmental Protection Agency official Rita Lavelle to a congressional subcommittee—the same issue that touched off last year's uproar over the EPA.

In disclosing the new document controversy Thursday, the House panel also said it believed it had not received all documents Lavelle ordered removed from her office after she was fired as an assistant EPA administrator on Feb. 4, 1983.

Lavelle, who ran the "superfund" toxic waste clean-up program, was convicted in U.S. District Court last year of perjury and other charges arising from her testimony before the subcommittee about her dealings at the EPA with her former employer, Aerojet-General Corp.

In its 318-page report on the Lavelle case and some related matters, the oversight and investigations subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee said it was unable to explore fully Lavelle's contacts.

"Currently, the White House is preventing the Department of Justice from providing the subcommittee with White House memoranda and other documents relating to contacts of White House officials with Lavelle and other EPA officials," the report said.

Adding classes: just another trivial pursuit?

by Andrew Leyden

Optimistic college students have always found ways to cope with the long lines and waits, and Trivial Pursuit has joined the list of the many things students do to pass the time while waiting in the add/drops line.

Also popular in line was sleeping, eating, and reading newspapers, which also occurred outside of the Union Ballroom in large numbers.

Once the doors opened, however, the games boards were put away and the sleeping people woke up so they could try to obtain that course which, for some reason or another, did not make in onto their schedules.

Sophomore Bill Swanson and junior Kate Gregg said they were first in line, which formed at 7:30 a.m. even though the doors didn't open until 1 p.m.

They said they were both trying to get a section of a class that fit better into their time schedule.

Swanson said he was trying to get a section of Mathematics 2120 "Finite," which only had one seat opening, while Gregg said she was trying for a section of a data processing class.

Both students said they wanted to make sure they got their desired sections before someone else.

Farther back in line, sophomore Mike Jordan was passing the time by playing a game of Trivial Pursuit with some friends.

He said he arrived at 10 a.m. to add a class listed as having only seven seat openings. His advice to students waiting in line for a class was to "bring a Trivial Pursuit game and some pizza."

At the back of the line one hour after the doors opened, Linda Nassar, senior, said she was attempting to add a class which she needed for graduation requirements.

She added that she would recommend students "know what their requirements are so they don't have to go through add lines."

Once inside the ballroom, students found out if the time waiting in line was in vain.

Senior Pete Idstein said he waited around for an hour only to find that he couldn't get a senior seminar class.

Many students waiting had ideas on how to make the process of adding classes go smoother.

Senior Meg Hart said the process would be improved if "more help" was "brought in to help register people."

Senior Chuck Davis said extending the hours would also ease the process. Chris Munson, also a senior, said "more seminar sections should be offered because they are in such demand."

Other students found little problem in obtaining their desired class.

Sophomore Jodi Adelman said she didn't have any problems getting the two courses she needed.

Davis said the only improvement that could be made was to extend the hours that add/drops are open.

Golda Franklin, who has worked the add lines for the last 5 years, said the "attitude of the students seemed better this year."

Dave Sardella, assistant director of registration, said, "this year, speaking in a general sense, is the best in years because the faculty was able to provide seats for most students."

For students who still have to add a class, Sardella said the ballroom will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. Friday. He added that a seats remaining list will be posted at 9 a.m. Friday outside the ballroom, and will be updated at noon.

Record prize has Charleston in grip of lottery mania

by Dave McKinney

Saturday Sept. 1 6:59 p.m. could be a historical moment—there is a chance that a minute later, there just may be one mighty happy multi-millionaire whose six LOTTO numbers matched those announced.

The Illinois State Lottery's LOTTO game has been without a winner for three weeks, and the pot has already blossomed to $34 million—as of Thursday the largest prize in North American history.

Joel Feldstein, Director of Public Relations for the Illinois State Lottery, said that by the end of this week LOTTO ticket sales should top $20 million, bringing the pot near $40 million.

But as in those past three drawings, the chance also remains that a winner won't be chosen, and if that happens, Feldstein said to hold on to your hats.

"Oh God! If there's no winner this week, I'm taking a plane to Europe," Feldstein said from his Chicago office. "I couldn't imagine what it'd be like by the end of the next week. It'd be wild!"

I'm not sure the computer system could take a doubling of sales. It's just speculation now, but the pot could go at least $20 million above the Saturday total—at least $50 million," he said.

Feldstein said that sales this week have risen exponentially from Sunday's low of $155,000 tickets sold to Wednesday's intake of $4.8 million. Locally, LOTTO business has matched the frenzied pace statewide.

While Charleston White Hen Pantry manager Tom Craig declined Thursday to specify an exact amount of sales, he said that so far ticket sales this week have already exceeded last week's, with Friday and Saturday yet to go.

At Osco Drugs, 566 W. Lincoln, help has already been stepped up to cope with the increased demand.

Diana Harsell, who said she had been manning Osco's LOTTO machine all day Thursday, said that in the photo department where the tickets are sold at the store, three people, one solely to sell tickets, worked most of Thursday and will work until the drawing.

She estimated that more than 100 people had been in to buy tickets Thursday. And, Feldstein figured that the LOTTO madness was due to plain fun.

"Fun is what the lottery is all about. Think of the entertainment value everyone's getting, fantasizing about being rich," he said. "It's a tremendous amount of fun. You're getting a hell of a lot back in entertainment value for $1 even if you don't win."

Eastern sociology instructor Ronald Wohlstein credited the economy to the buying craze.

"It must be that the economy is not doing well. Damned if I know why people are buying them; the odds are However, Charleston clergyman Rev. John McFarland, of Wesley United Methodist Church, 729 Franklin, said that the LOTTO as well as the Illinois State Lottery system represented "a disturbing kind of phenomenon"—the phenomenon of getting rich quick.

"I think it's a crime that the state wishes to raise its revenues with a state-run operation that treads on the compulsions, poverty and hopes of its citizens," McFarland said.

"Politicians see this as a way not to raise taxes," he said. "But playing the lottery, slapping down a dollar hoping to win a million dollars, is the exact opposite of the work ethic."

Nevertheless, Feldstein said that "the phones are ringing off the hooks" at his Chicago office from network executives in New York.

"They're saying 'if you have a winner, we want him or her first,'" he said.

Common sense kills crimes

While Charleston may seem to be a quiet, peaceful town—unlike the bustling, dangerous metropolis of Chicago—our little town has been the scene of crimes.

As a matter of fact, last semester a rape occurred on campus, while another sexual assault was attempted. And last year, 133 burglaries occurred in Charleston.

Local enforcement officials have noted that many of those burglaries and other crimes could have been prevented with some common sense. So as students make themselves at home for the semester, it would be wise to practice a little preventive medicine.

One of the first prevention measures for ensuring home safety is to make certain doors have secure locks.

Students living off campus should check door and window locks to see that they are in working order—landlords should be notified of any entrance which cannot be securely locked.

But keeping doors locked serves little purpose if keys are kept under welcome mats and other well-known places.

Another common mistake is to advertise being out of the house. Leaving a light on might work to deceive a potential burglar from entering a home.

Students who are away for extended periods of time should also: have mail stopped so it won't accumulate, inform the police about leaving the home unguarded, and notify neighbors so they will be able to watch for foul play.

But in unfortunate instances when theft does occur, recovery of belongings often depends upon whether identification numbers have been marked and recorded. If belongings cannot be engraved, a photographic record should be taken.

To help with property identification, the Charleston Police Department and Campus Security have worked together to create a pamphlet for recording identification numbers which will be available Friday.

Nighttime also summons the potential for crime. The police can help here, too. Walking alone at night is dangerous, but sometimes unavoidable. If walking alone is necessary, try to use a route which is well-lit or call the police and request an escort.

With a little prevention, Charleston can be a safer place to live.

Paper redesigned to set a snazzy pace

Something is different. If you're new around here, you may not have noticed it. Even if you're not new around here, you may not have noticed it. Whether you're new or not, you may not even care.

But something is definitely different. What is different, is The Daily Eastern News. Of course, the staff is different, but then it always is this time of year. What is truly different, is the way the News looks.

After years of discussion and months of trial and error, your newspaper has been redesigned. So what? Big deal, you say? They are legitimate questions. And ones with some pretty legitimate answers.

But first, let's take a look at just what is different. The nameplate, on the front, back and editorial pages and on the front of each section, has taken on a slightly new look. So have the headlines, logos, quoteboxes, staff box and the "Inside" box.

Even the pictures seem a little larger these days. And in the future, the style of print for the stories may change too.

Changes. Some people hate them, some love them and some just don't care. Obviously, those of us who are crazy enough to spend too many of our college days sweating ink here in the newsroom care about the changes in The Daily Eastern News.

But you may think the way the way the old News looked were OK. They were OK. OK enough to help earn us the honor of being the top college daily newspaper last spring.

But we don't want to produce a paper that's just OK. We want to produce one that's great. To borrow a phrase, we want to produce one that sets the pace.

We want to publish a newspaper that sets the pace, not so that we can win more awards. Awards are well and good. We want to produce one that sets the pace, not so that we can get decent jobs when we graduate. That would be nice, though.

News notes:

Madeleine Doubek

We do want to print a pace-setting newspaper, for you, our readers. Believe it or not. We want you to be able to read a newspaper that tells you, better than any other, what's going on at this campus, in this community and around the world.

And in order for you to want and be able to read The Daily Eastern News, it has got to look good. It has got to look sharp. It has got to be attractive to your textbook-weary eyes. Not flashy, or gaudy, but...snazzy.

And quite simply, that is why the News looks different these days.

Some people say 'you shouldn't fix what's not broken.' And they're right. But we're not fixing the News; we like to think we're giving it a tune-up.

So we've changed the nameplates and the headlines and the boxes. We've tried to incorporate a design from what we have available that makes your newspaper easier to read. Without getting technical, we've tried to make the paper a bit more modern looking. And most of all just a little more fun to read.

We hope we have been successful. Maybe you haven't noticed and maybe you have. Maybe you like the differences and maybe you don't. Or maybe it just doesn't matter. That's OK. But if you do feel the urge, let us know whenever you see something good, bad or just plain boring.

After all, The Daily Eastern News is your paper, and we're here to serve you—the best way we know how.

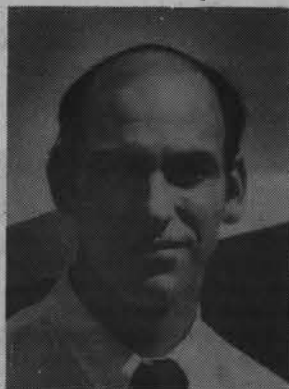

—Madeleine Doubek is editor in chief of The Daily Eastern News.

Promises, promises...

Joe Butler dumps 'silly pledges'

by Linda Wagner

By making some "serious" plans for action, Eastern Student Body President and Silly Party candidate Joe Butler has kept his campaign promise to remember none of his campaign promises.

During his campaign, Butler made pledges such as using all funds from Student Senate budgets for himself and replacing the senate phones with dixie cups and strings. Butler's campaign was based on the "political principles: graft, corruption, decadence and lies."

However, four months after his victory, Butler is saying he wants to be "more upfront" than he was in his campaign. He is now vowing to fight tuition increases, promote more effective lobbying and address campus security problems.

Another of Butler's concerns is voter registration. Because Eastern's student government has been recognized by the state as a bonified civic organization, certified members of the senate will be able to register voters.

"I have high hopes for this," he said. If the projected 1,000 students are registered, government officials "would see students take a voice in the government and take heed of student concerns."

Butler is addressing the issue of campus security as the student awareness committee works to revise the Buddy Button System.

The proposed system would have students wear colored buttons that coordinate with the area in which they live. Students would then ask a person wearing the same colored button to escort them home.

The committee is in the process of revising the system to make it more feasible; however, Butler said he believes the senate "should convince some other school that it will work and sell the buttons to them."

"The paper (The Daily Eastern News) has made it out to be a great catastrophe," he noted. "I don't see that it will make that much difference one way or the other."

Butler said the solution to the security problem is through general education such as Eastern's rape seminar conducted Thursday. "This is far more effective than any button," he added.

In addition, Butler said the summer senate investigated the possibility of implementing an escort service. The senate is looking into possibilities for funding such a service.

Another issue of concern to Butler is Eastern Athletic Director R.C.

Joe Butler

Johnson's proposal to raise student fees for additional athletic funding.

Butler said he will meet with Johnson Tuesday to discuss the situation; however, he declined to comment on where he stands on the issue.

The president also has lighter concerns. Butler said he would like to see "what I consider good concerts" staged at Eastern.

"I want to do things for the students so they recognize what student government does," he said.

Adviser voices mixed feelings on resignation

by Lisa Green

University Board adviser Booker Suggs, who announced his resignation Wednesday, said he has mixed emotions about his departure from Eastern.

Suggs resigned to accept a position with the National Association of College Admissions Counselors.

Although he said he will miss the students at Eastern, Suggs added that he is looking forward to his new position because it is time for a professional career change.

Suggs, who was honored at a reception Thursday afternoon, will take over Sept. 10 as NACAC's assistant manager of National College Affairs.

"I hope" the members of UB "don't feel like I'm leaving them hanging," he said. "I will miss working with them, but I'm excited to work in a new career and environment. That's what's balancing my mixed emotions."

Suggs assumed the position of UB adviser this year after serving as a graduate assistant and working with the Black Student Union and black fraternities and sororities.

"People say you don't grow up working in student activities, but" students "enthusiasm and energy is going to rub off. You stay young at heart if you're going to be sincere in working with students," he said.

Volunteers to raise funds to help national telethon

by Noreen Reilly

Charleston volunteers will be rallying this weekend to help raise money for the national Muscular Dystrophy telethon.

Local organizers said this year's goal is $3,000. Charleston has participated in the telethon for six years and last year raised $3,000.

John Richelderfer, a volunteer for the telethon, said people are still needed to work the phones inside the center from 8 p.m. Sunday until 5:30 p.m. Monday. His wife, Virginia, is the local coordinator.

Most volunteers take pledges over the phone during two hour shifts. Although the telethon is non-stop, Richelderfer said volunteers are not needed between 1:30 a.m. and 6 a.m. because few people call during those hours.

"We'd like to get more of the students involved," Richelderfer said. He added that student volunteers are hard to find because the telethon "pops up right after the students get back" to Charleston.

The telethon will be aired on Campaign's WCIA Channel 3.

A local phone number will appear on the screen so that people can call to make pledges. Telethon headquarters will be set up at the Moose Club at Seventh and Van Buren streets to handle the calls.

A fishbowl also will be set up outside the club and people who want to go door to door to solicit contributions may pick up canisters there, Richelderfer said.

Various prizes, like T-shirts and gym bags, will be awarded to people who collect $30 or more. The volunteer who collects the most money will receive a free tape player, Richelderfer added.

Richelderfer said he expects that nearly $6,000 will be raised in the area for the Muscular Dystrophy Association through various fundraisers.

Moore Business Forms Softball Team raised $803 recently for Muscular Dystrophy by taking 10 cent pledges per run during a softball tournament. A total of $1508 was raised from the game through concession stand sales, Richelderfer said.

Bill Reardon, coach of the softball team, and T.J. Rogers will present a check to Earl Ashmore, organizer of the softball tournament, during the telethon. Ken Belleau is chairman of the softball team, but he will be out of town this weekend.

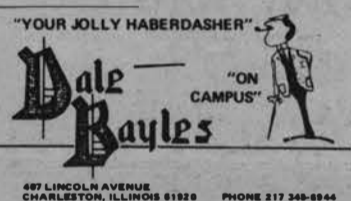

People interested in volunteering to help with the telethon should contact Richelderfer or his wife at 345-9133.

Marching Blue prepares for another season

by Lisa Green

Members of Eastern's Marching Blue have been tuning up and perfecting their steps full-time since August 22.

However, Band Director Greg Clemons said it is not too late for students just arriving on campus to sign up.

He would prefer interested people contact him by Aug. 31.

Experience is not necessarily a requirement to join the Marching Blue—Clemons said dedication and effort is all that is necessary because the style of Eastern's band differs from high school bands.

"People obviously need to play an instrument, but if a person has instrumental experience and can walk, we can teach them to march," Clemons said.

The Marching Blue's first performance on campus is Sept. 15 during the football game against Northeast Missouri State.

Prior to that, Clemons said the band will share the halftime show with the home band at Indiana State University Sept. 8.

The Marching Blue will be getting quite a bit of traveling and will perform Sept. 9 for the Chicago Bears at Soldier Field and on Oct. 14 the band will perform for the St. Louis Cardinals at Busch Stadium.

Clemons said Eastern has a very good band and he looks forward to the recognition the band will gain through television coverage by playing for the large crowds.

The fans at Eastern's athletic events are receptive and supportive, Clemons said, but the two performances at the well-known stadiums are a unique and important opportunity.

Clemons said the band was "well received" when it performed at Busch Stadium last year and that the people were impressed with the band's conduct as well as its performance.

The entertainment director for the Cardinals invited the Marching Blue to return and the band's expenses will be paid, Clemons said. "Evidently they want us back pretty badly," he said.

Beginning Thursday, the band will practice on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for an hour and a half.

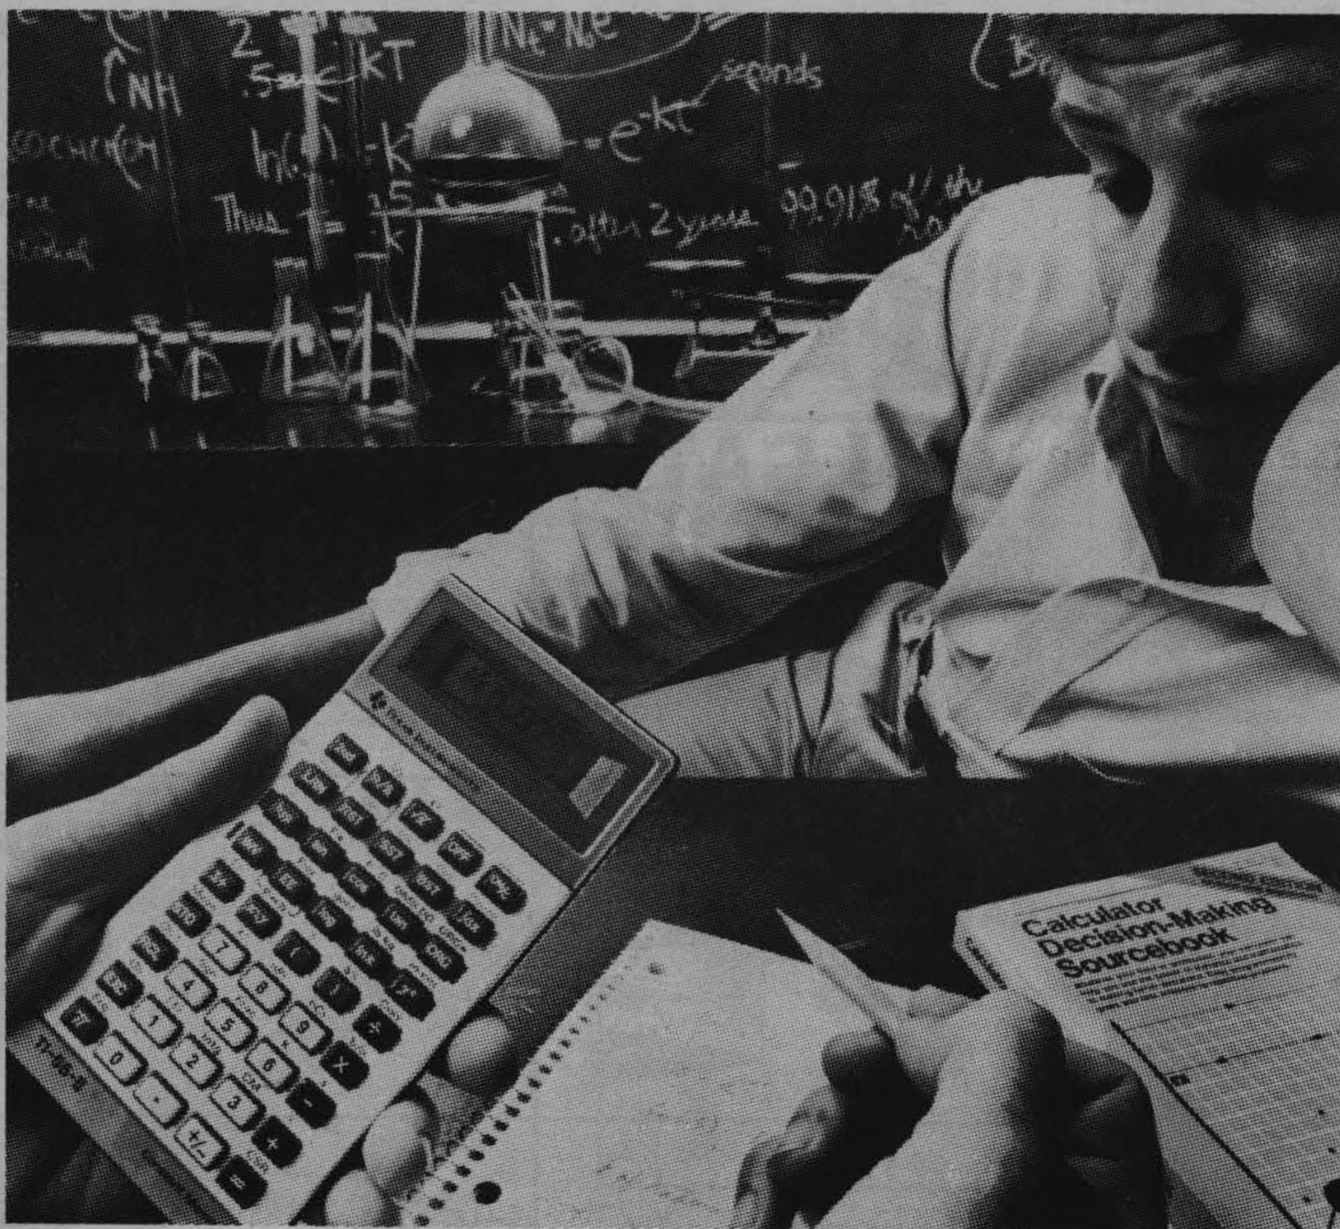

"That doesn't give us a lot of time" before the first performance, Clemons said, "so we have to learn our fundamentals really well."

"We're two days ahead of schedule as far as what I anticipated" with the marching, Clemons said. Instrumentally the band is right on schedule.

Clemons said there are a larger number of freshmen in the band this year because of recruiting efforts. During the spring, Clemons visited schools with talented high school programs and tried to encourage seniors to come to Eastern.

The Marching Blue will try to accommodate a Drum and Bugle style this year, which Clemons said is traditional for college bands.

"I think our fans will find the shows are much more interesting, exciting and visually appealing" he said.

Selective Service Registration Compliance

According to federal and state legislation, any student receiving federal, state, or institutional financial aid must sign a statement of Selective Service Registration Compliance before the award will be valid. Financial aid includes grants, scholarships, tuition waivers, loans, and both Work-Study and regular student employment. The Office of Financial Aid has been given the responsibility for collecting the signed statements. If there are any questions regarding our procedures for collecting the signed compliance statements and/or for withholding awards from those failing to comply with the law, please contact Dona Hays at 581-3711.

Full-Time Academic Student Status

In order to be considered a FULL-TIME student ACADEMICALLY a student must carry AT LEAST 12 semester hours each semester and AT LEAST 6 semester hours during a summer term. For any number of semester hours less than 12 during a semester and 6 during a summer term a student is considered a PART-TIME student ACADEMICALLY. This is the rule by which Records Office certifies students as full-time to such agencies as Social Security, Good Student Discount, etc. If you have questions concerning any of this, please contact Records Office.

James E. Martin
Registrar

Class-Level Prerequisites

Your attention is called to page 92 of the University catalog which stipulates that there are student class-level prerequisites for courses. With exceptions as noted, freshmen may enroll in only 1000- and 2000-level courses, sophomores in 1000-, 2000-and 3000-level, etc. Faculty members are urged to check their class rosters carefully with respect to the aforementioned regulations.

Unless a student has an approved waiver permitting enrollment in courses at levels beyond those permitted by the regulations or where a student presents evidence that additional transfer hours earned have not yet been credited to his or her cumulative hour total thereby changing the class level, such student should be excluded from the class and advised to officially drop.

Official notices

Official Notices are paid for through the Office of University Relations. Questions concerning notices should be directed to that Office.

University is granted the right to inspect and review his education records in accordance with the policies and procedures adopted by the University to implement the policy of the Eastern Illinois University on the Privacy Rights of Eastern Illinois University Students are available in the Office of University Relations, 111 Old

A student requesting access to his education records shall proceed as follows:

1. A student wishing to review his education records shall complete a request to inspect personal records at the designated office where those records are maintained.

2. A student shall be granted access to his education records as soon as possible and no later than 45 days after receipt of his request. The specific time and location for such access shall be determined by the custodian of the record.

3. The custodian shall ensure that the student (a) has filed a written request, (b) presents complete identification, (c) shows only his record, and (d) shows his own record under appropriate supervision.

4. Records or portions of records may be provided to the student upon request for a fee which covers the cost to the University for copying the records. The amount charged for copying charges shall be established by the University.

5. A student may challenge the content of his education records on the basis that one or more items are misleading, inaccurate, or otherwise inappropriate. He may request that the item(s) be amended, corrected, or deleted. (Grade changes are administered under a separate university policy.)

6. If his challenge is not resolved to his satisfaction, the student may make a formal request for a hearing on a form available at the designated office where the records in question are maintained.

7. The student and custodian of the records shall thereafter schedule a meeting with a hearing officer appointed by the University. An ad hoc committee of faculty and administrative personnel, appointed by the President, shall act as an appeal review committee in the event a challenge is not resolved. The review committee shall conduct its hearing according to the established federal regulations and report its decision within 14 calendar days from the date of the request for a hearing. All decisions may be appealed to the President.

If a student believes that the university has failed to comply with requirements of the Act, he may make a formal complaint to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Office (FERPA) of the Department of Education.

Students herein are advised that it is university policy to forward appropriate education records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

The following is a list of student records maintained by the University, including the location and custodian of each:

ACADEMIC, including permanent record, grade changes and removal of incomplete forms, high school transcripts, transcripts and evaluations from other post-secondary educational institutions, academic waivers, letters of academic dismissal, and letters of reinstatement.

1. Final examinations are scheduled on the basis of the first class hour meeting of the week irrespective of whether the first hour is classroom or laboratory activity.

2. Final examinations of multiple-hour classes are scheduled on the basis of the first hour of the multiple-hour block.

3. A M-, T-, W-, or R- prefix indicates whether the first class day of the week is Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday. For instance, M-0800 indicates the scheduled time for the final examination in a class having its first class hour meeting of the week at 0800 on Monday, R-1900 is for a class having its first class hour meeting of the week at 1900 on Thursday, etc.

4. Final examination periods indicated in the above schedule as "Makeup or Arranged" are to be used only in cases where:

a. The first class hour meeting of the week does not conform to the schedule patterns established herein.

b. The meeting of the class appears in the Semester Class Schedule as "ARR."

c. The student presents an approved examination change request.

5. Final examinations for one semester hour courses may be given at the discretion of the instructor and, if given, should be scheduled for the last regular class meeting of the term.

6. Final examinations in courses numbered 4750 or above may be given at the discretion of the instructor and, if given, are to conform to the schedule patterns established herein.

7. Final examinations are to be given in all courses unless specifically exempted under the provisions of #5 and/or #6 above or by departmental recommendation to, and approved by, the Council on Academic Affairs.

8. Students may not deviate from the published final examination schedule without written approval of the Dean, Student Academic Services.

9. Instructors may not deviate from the published final examination schedule without written approval of the department chairperson and Dean of the School or College according to guidelines established by the Vice President for Academic Affairs.

Kicking off the grid season Panthers face early test from Grand Valley

by Jeff Long

Eastern's football team will take its new faces to a new place Saturday and see just how far it has progressed with its youthful squad.

The Panthers, with only five returning starters from last year's 9-3 playoff team, will kick off the 1984 season at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Grand Valley State in Allendale, Michigan.

Saturday's contest will be the first of two consecutive road games for the Panthers, something that head coach Al Molde finds less than ideal.

"Our biggest concern is that we're playing our first game on the road," Molde said. "That makes things more difficult playing away from home, especially with our young players."

For the Panthers, many of the team's players will be making their college football debut. Eastern's roster of 83 players includes only 18 lettermen.

"We're hoping the young players can get adjusted as fast as they can," Molde said. "We're telling them to play it just like a scrimmage."

Grand Valley State, on the other hand, will return 29 lettermen from last year's mediocre 4-5 squad.

One of the Lakers' five setbacks last year came at the hands of Eastern by a 35-21 count at O'Brien Stadium in the two teams' only previous meeting.

The 21 points that Grand Valley scored last year were the most Eastern's nationally-ranked defense yielded against any of its 12 opponents in 1983.

Eastern will be equally hard-pressed in shutting down the Lakers this time around too, due mainly to the return of the Lakers' record-setting quarterback, Jim Lynch.

"We'll need to play well defensively," Molde said. "We have to eliminate their big plays and not let them score from a long way out."

Lynch has compiled some impressive figures in his last two seasons, throwing for 4,074 yards, 40 touchdowns and a 47 percent completion average.

"Our defensive staff has really been impressed with Lynch," Molde admitted. "It will be quite a challenge for a young group like ours to go on the road the first game and face someone with his talents."

It will be a tough early season test on a Panther defense that is relatively untested, and if Eastern is unable to shut down Lynch and Company, the load will fall on Eastern's inexperienced offense to rack up a lot of points.

Last year, Eastern's Kevin Staple ran circles around the Laker defense, setting Eastern's single-game rushing record with 283 yards and four touchdowns. But this year will be a different story.

"Without a doubt we're going to be passing a lot," Molde promised, "because we have several who can catch the ball particularly well."

"We need to eliminate the big play defensively and be able to make sustained drives on offense."

Booters to host ISU in season opener

by Tim Lee

Eastern will start its 1984 soccer schedule against Illinois State at 1 p.m. Saturday, but besides being the initial game of the season, the contest will also feature a first.

Cizo Mosnia, the new Panther head coach, will lead the charges for the first time as will the opposing mentor, Illinois State head coach Tim Carter.

Mosnia, a former Eastern standout, took the reigns from Schellas Hyndman last May and made his debut last week in Eastern's annual alumni game.

Carter enters the game with a little more experience. He was the head coach at Duke in 1983.

This will also be the first regular season game for many freshmen booters, who inherited spots from a very talented class of graduates.

Positions held in 1983 by standouts Eric Hartman, Randy DeRousse, Aldo Esposito, Damien Kelly and Agyeman Prempeh had to be filled this season.

One of the key freshmen who earned a starting role this season is goaltender Scott Simpson from Schaumburg. But the inexperience doesn't stop with Simpson. Mosnia said that the lineup will consist of a few other underclassmen.

Ozzie Molinari, an off-season recruit from London, Canada, will draw his first collegiate start at one wing.

Mosnia said that the loss of most of last year's stars will not drag the team out of contention. He said the key to the season would be how hard the players work.

"We will still be contenders like we were in the past, but it will take a lot of team work," Mosnia said.

Mosnia added that Illinois State should be better this year than in 1983 when the Panthers won 3-0, especially since three of this year's new starters were red-shirted last season.

Panther harriers host alumni meet

by Dan Verdun

Eastern's men's and women's cross country teams will host the 14th Annual Varsity and Alumni Meet at 5 p.m. Saturday south of Lantz Gym.

The meet not only matches the 1984 edition of Panthers against the Eastern alumni runners, but is also open to the public.

The top two finishers in the men's and women's open divisions will be awarded t-shirts. A $2 entry fee will be charged for the four-mile event.

"The event will allow the public to not only see this year's team, but to run an actual course rather than streets or roads," assistant men's coach Tom Akers said.

The Panthers, meanwhile, will use the meet as a "low-key scrimmage," according to Akers.

Akers also said he will be using the meet to select the top five runners for the varsity team.

"We've got 10 runners looking pretty good at this point," Akers said.

Included on that list are returning lettermen Scott Pillsbury, Nick Whiteside, Aaron Shepley and Dan Newman. Mike Samuels, another letterman, is recovering from an injured right knee and will likely be red-shirted.

Pillsbury rates as the anchor of the team, having earned all-conference honors after placing 10th in last fall's Mid-Continent Universities championship. Whiteside and Shepley are each seeking a third letter.

Underclassmen also figure to challenge for varsity positions. Akers said he was very impressed with "super-looking" freshman Jim Maton. Maton set an IHSAA Class A record by winning the state title in the 800-meter run in 1:54.09.

Akers also tabbed Darrin Bishop of Quincy and Matt Mattoon's Dale Righter as freshmen contenders for the varsity squad.

Junior college transfers Mitch McClure and Brian DeRuntz are also likely candidates for the varsity. DeRuntz was an All-American performer at Spring River Junior College and senior Scott Tracy, who was red-shirted last season, will also return.

"We've only had three days of practice, so we're sure we'll have others emerge as good runners," Akers said. "The key to our success this year is going to depend on the leadership we get out of our underclassmen."

Women's head coach Dan Lowery, taking over from John Craft on an interim basis, said he plans to use the meet to get a look at his team under competitive conditions.

With the oldest women's runner being a junior, Lowery is looking to build his team for the future. Leading the women's team will be junior Anne O'Brien and sophomores Penny Lammon and Teresa Paul.

"We're going to run more as a team, since we don't have any super individual to carry us," Lowery said.

Cubs will play day games in playoffs

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball resolved a playoff dilemma with the Chicago Cubs on Thursday, deciding to let them play midweek day games in the National League Championship Series but to start the World Series in the American League city to allow weeknight games.

Under the plan announced by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, the best-of-five playoffs will start with day games in Chicago Oct. 2-3 if the Cubs win the National League East. Both American League playoff games in that case would be played at night.

Kuhn said a stumbling block to installing temporary lights at Wrigley Field were state and local laws aimed at preventing night games there.

"In our discussions with the people in Illinois we decided we could not get relief for either one of the regulations," he said. "So we eliminated the option of putting in temporary lights."

A welcome to the weekend

Charleston parks provide blast to cure weekend blues

by Diane Schneidman

Cabin fever. It can hit at anytime, especially on the weekends. Its victims have been seen banging their heads against dorm room walls.

But fear not. There is a cure for a case of the if-we-don't-get-out-of-this-place-soon-we-will-die syndrome. A visit to some of the surrounding parks can turn a dull weekend into a frolicking good time.

One park which students stricken with the doldrums may consider visiting is Fox Ridge State Park located on Illinois 130 about seven miles south of Charleston.

Fox Ridge provides a wide variety of facilities to help get students out of their rooms and into the fresh air. Visitors can go picnicking, fishing, hiking, camping or simply play at the playground, Joyce Spencer, park clerk, said. The park contains a main pavilion and several other small pavilions with picnic tables. There are also grills to cook hotdogs, hamburgers and other picnic foodstuffs on, Spencer noted.

One such food which one might consider cooking, fish, can be found without even leaving the park. Fishing is provided at Ridge Lake located within the park's grounds. People interested in taking advantage of the lake's fish must have an Illinois fishing license, Spencer added.

Ridge Lake is open Wednesday through Sunday.

After a hearty meal at one of the picnic areas, a nice hike through the woods will help burn off those newly-acquired calories. There are several trails at Fox Ridge, including a trail for the handicapped and an exercise trail.

"The exercise trail has stops set up on the path where exercises are posted and you can stretch out or exercise,"

Spencer said.

If cabin fever has really got one down and a day away from campus does not sound like a long enough time, camping is also available for sleepovers.

"There are four camping areas," Spencer noted, "all of which are for primitive camping—meaning there is no running water available at the campsite." Thirsty campers, however, can avail themselves of the water at the picnic pavilions.

Also, there are two types of campsites at Fox Ridge—regular and walk-in camping, Spencer said. The only difference between the two is that cars may be parked at the one site. At the walk-in, the car is left in a parking lot and the brave campers wander back into the woods. Regular camping carries a $3 pricetag and walk-ins are $2.

Large groups interested in using the picnic or camping facilities should call ahead, Spencer said. The name of the organization and the location preferred in the park is all that is required. Large groups also need a group permit.

Fox Ridge is open from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Perhaps a cold dunk in a swimming pool or a thrilling glide down a waterslide sounds as if it would do more to cool a fever than walking through the woods.

If so, Waterworks Park might be the place to go.

The park is located four miles east of Charleston on Route 16, and features a waterslide, swimming pool and picnic and volleyball areas.

The waterslide is 351 feet high and the pool is 35 by 70 feet. The pool is 12 feet deep at its deepest point, owner Mark McSterin said.

Weekend specials enhance entertainment for students

by Lisa Albarran

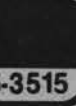

After a long, tiring week of studying hard the last thing you want to do on the weekend is stay home and study. One of the most popular forms of weekend entertainment is going to the Charleston bars to drink and let out all that pent up anxiety from the week. Each Charleston bar offers something different to accommodate the various tastes of college students. One bar which is popular with both residents of Charleston and students from Eastern is the Page One Tavern, 410 Sixth Street. Dave Harris, a bartender at Page One, said, "We are a unique bar in the way that we serve both residents and students. I really believe that everyone feels equally comfortable." Harris said they have two levels at the bar which are further divided into various sections - which makes for a less crowded feeling. "We have a special here every night of the week," Diana Ebeling, Page One bartender, said. "Friday night is 'Pizza Night'. We offer pizza from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. On Saturday night we offer momosa drinks (champagne and orange juice) and strawberry daiquiries for 50 cents, Ebeling added. Mike Knoop, owner of The Uptowner and The Cellar, 623 Monroe Street, describes his bars as different from any of the other bars. "In the Cellar we play jazz and blues. Twice a month we have live jazz bands," Knoop said. Knoop also noted that the Cellar has comedians twice a month. "The headlining comedians are usually off the national circuit," Knoop said. Knoop said that although there are not any specials at the Uptowner, they do offer a membership to their "Key Club". The Key Club costs $15 dollars to join. Membership includes "two Key Club specials per month and two pig roasts a year," Knoop said. "It also includes free entrance into entertainment except comedians." If you enjoy live music you may want to check out Ted's Warehouse, 102 N. Sixth Street. "Our main attraction is that we have live entertainment every night," assistant manager Doug Contrie said. "Besides having pool tables we have daily specials and coupons in The Daily Eastern News," Contrie added. E.L. Krackers, 1405 Fourth Street, is the only disco in Charleston. "We basically play the top 40 hits because that is what we feel that college students would like to hear," manager Jim Severson said. "We have drink specials every night and will be installing a video rock camera for students to see themselves on screen," Severson added. Mother's, 506 Monroe Street, is another dance type bar. "We are the friendliest bar in town," manager Dave Kinniard said. "Mother's is basically your college-type atmosphere." "We have two pool tables and a nightly disc jockey for students who like to dance," Kinniard added. If you are looking for something new and a little more laid-back, Mike Bickers, owner of the Panther Lounge, 1421 Fourth Street - and the newest bar in Charleston - Thirsty's, 221 Sixth Street, believes his bars are the places to go. "We will be having drink specials every night of the week at either the Lounge or Thirsty's," he added. Bickers also said that if you want to know what the Panther Lounge is like you "have to come in and see it for yourself." Bicker's also pointed to the unique qualities of his latest addition to the Charleston bar scene. "We have the longest bar in Charleston," Bicker's said of Thirsty's. "We also have the best pool tables in Central Illinois." "Coming up very soon we will be having a $50,000 pool tournament," Bicker's said. Jerry's Pub, 1508 Fourth Street, is also a new bar which replaced Below Deck in Caesar's Pizza. "We have a very casual laid-back type atmosphere. We play free music and have a television to watch ball games on," owner Jerry Myerscough said. Thirsty after bowling a few frames? You might want to wander into the Indian Lounge, 1310 E Street. "We have $2.50 pitchers of beers and the bowling alley (Bel-Aire Lanes) next door," assistant manager Mary Cougill said. "Our Lounge is basically an Indian decor," Cougill noted. Another bar that offers something different to students and residents is BJ's West, 819 W. Lincoln. "All sorts of people come here," Linda Norman, who has been employed at BJ's for 23 years, said. "We have a club known as the 'Mug Club'. It costs $10 to become a member. T-shirts are $4 and once a month we have Mug Club parties," Norman said. Members can consume all the food and beer they can handle. It's after class on Friday and you want to go for a quickie? Try Marty's, 1666 Fourth Street. "The bar is real cozy and filled with fun-loving people," a bartender at Marty's said. Another popular stop after classes is Ike's, located across from Old Main. However, employees refused to comment on their bar.

More on parks available, the park also has a pavilion with picnic tables for hungry and thirsty swimmers, McSterin noted.

Fun at Waterworks does not end with getting wet and munching. Last year the park began sponsoring a mock scrimmage warfare game.

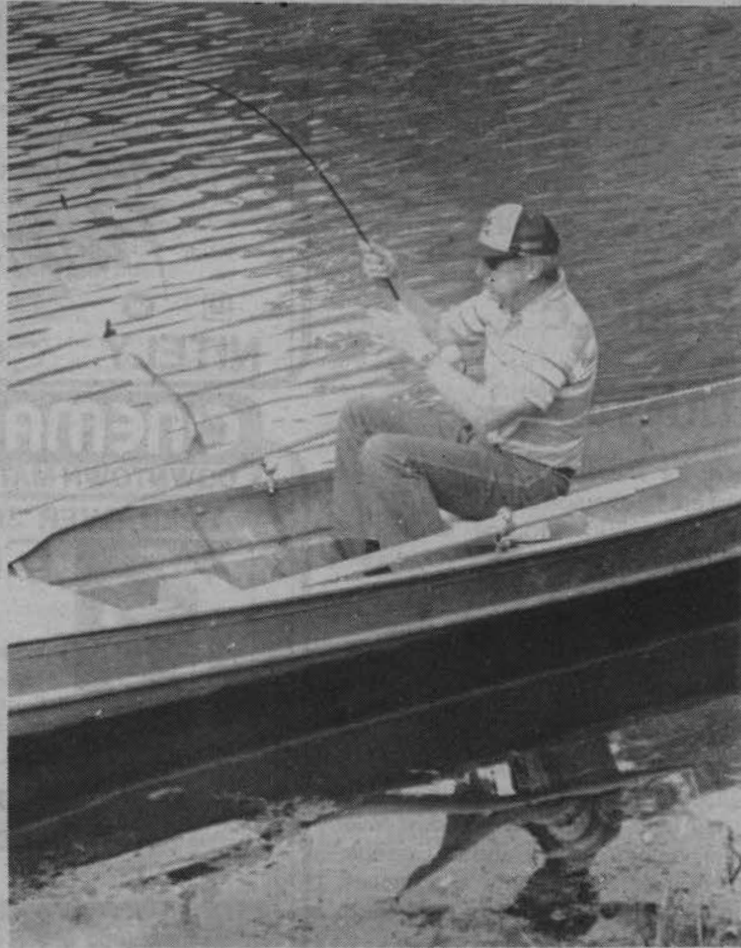

"This is a survival game played with guns powered by carbon dioxide and paint pellet guns," McSterin said. "The paint pellets are pellets which have paint inside them. They burst when they hit you, leaving a stain signifying that you are out of the game."

The games began August 25. A schedule was still in the works at the time of publication. The games are expected to run through October or possibly November, McSterin said.

However, the park will close for the fall and winter on September 16. Until that date, the park will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekends.

Whether its camping out under the stars, picnicking with cohorts, gliding down a waterslide or participating in a mock warfare game, the Charleston area has the parks to beat the doldrums.

The farm is also used for archeological, genealogical, historical and agricultural research, Combs said. "However, research is not our end goal; rather, it is applied to techniques we use to upgrade and restore the farm and cabin."

If one intends to visit the site, be sure to bring a dictionary from the 1840s, because the staff is trained to use the dialect of the time.

In addition to the farm and cabin, the site has a visitors' center featuring displays about the Lincolns and the 1840s, Combs said.

For those who would like to remember their trip back in time there is a gift shop for souvenirs.

The farm is open from 8:30 a.m. to dusk and the cabin's hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The site is administered by the Department of Conservation's Division of Historical Sites.

Area parks offer the chance for students to be in the action or sit back and watch it happen. Clockwise from above: Eastern students find the waterslide at Waterworks Park to be a way to stay cool; this lake at Fox Ridge State Park serves better for scenery than as a place to take the plunge; however, Charleston resident Glenn Williams gets an inside look at the lake as he fishes; and Lincoln Log Cabin State Park provides entertainment during the summer months when local residents participate in the living history program.

Review

Wolf survives solo attempt

LIGHTS OUT Peter Wolf

If anything, Peter Wolf's first solo album proves he is a survivor. The same survivor who worked his way up from the streets of Boston to front a hot rhythm and blues band, The J. Geils Band, and bring it national recognition. And then, five years later brought the group to the top of the charts after the band had nearly faded from the scene.

Now on his own, he, with many friends lending a hand, put out an album which asks the musical question: How can J. Geils get by without Mr. Wolf?

It is easy to see how Pete will get by without the band.

This is an album Wolf could have done with Geils, but Geils could never have given him the diversity his troops provide on Lights Out. Nor would Geils have wanted to venture out unto the land of fifties gutter jazz as Wolf does on Gloomy Sunday.

The main man who helped Wolf produce this party must be Michael Jonzun (leader of the space-funk rap band Jonzun's Crew). Jonzun co-produced, co-arranged and co-wrote seven of the album's 11 tracks. His funk influence is more subtle than if, say, Nile Rodgers (Chic member/David Bowie producer) took control of the knobs. Jonzun is to George Clinton what Wolf is to James Brown in the spectrum of funk—which makes for a great combination.

Other big pluses on Lights Out came from the guitar area. The most notable pop guitar work was from fellow Bostonian and Cars member Elliot Easton. His delicate but incredibly catchy hooks grab the ear and don't let go on the title track, I Need You Tonight, and Crazy.

Springfield native Adrian Belew (member of the latest King Crimson ensemble) shines with his odd-ball licks on Billy Bigtime and the great track Oo-Ed-Didley-Bop.

But the star of the album is Peter. His voice wakes you up and gets you into the world faster than a maid at a Holiday Inn. He shouts, "Lights out, Uh huh, Blast, Blast, Blast," and the room gets darker. He croons, "I can't wait 'til tomorrow," as if he means it.

If this was The J. Geils Band's follow-up to Freeze-Frame, I would imagine the record would be a little less rough around the edges. Some of the productions don't seem to meld together as tightly as Geils' numbers. Also missing is the best American rhythm section—Danny Klein and Stephen Bladd. The great harp work of Magic Dick is gone too.

Another sad note: It is highly unlikely that Wolf will tour soon. And that's too bad, because he is a joy to watch onstage.

However, as I said, Wolf is a veteran rock survivor. He knew he had a lot to prove on this album and he did it.

This is album for lovers of soul and funk lovers, and lovers of the soulful—like Peter Wolf.

The Charleston Speedway cruises on Saturday nights

by John Best

You don't have to travel to Indianapolis to experience one of our nation's most thrilling sports—automobile racing!

While it's not exactly on the same scale as the Indianapolis 500, you can still enjoy watching and participating in exciting stock car races at the Charleston Speedway. It is, as track caretaker Leland Hubbart said, "Central Illinois finest race track."

The speedway, built in the early 1960s, offers stock car racing on Saturdays starting at 8 p.m. and time trials at 7 p.m. with occasional special events during the week.

Hubbart said that the drivers race for the prize, which is known as a "purse."

It can, "vary anywhere from $500 to $1,000," Hubbart added.

If sitting on the sidelines watching the action isn't appealing, Hubbart said races are open to all comers. Anyone who owns a car and wants to enter a race can "knock out the glass and pull roll bars on." Rules and regulations are available from the speedway office.

Drinks are available for thirsty patrons and, although alcohol is not sold at the speedway, the management does not object to having it on the premises.

General admission to the speedway is $4 and kids under 12 are free.

The Speedway is located two miles east of Charleston on Route 133. And please, on the way out there...don't speed.

Tale End

Weekend "Looney Tunes"

Roll out of bed, flick the television on, flop on the couch, assume a hung-over daze and begin to wonder what to do with another weekend in Charleston.

The television tunes in to the "Bugs Bunny/Roadrunner Hour." Such great inspiration for a Saturday morning.

The question that keeps running through my mind is: What kind of excitement can be found on any given weekend in Charleston?

Wild E. Coyote flings himself over a cliff for the 56,714th time—hmmm.

Rather than going to the bars, going to a party or going to the liquor store, I try to be creative with my weekend time.

I do get sick and tired of hearing "whatcha wanna do today?" streaming from friends' mouths every weekend (except at Halloween).

After spending the past summer here, yes, in Charleston, I should be an authority on what the place has to offer.

My list of great and wonderful things to do in Charleston is a decent size—especially since I spent part of the summer as entertainment editor for The Summer Eastern News.

Now the coyote thumbs through an Acme catalog searching for the right device to trap "you-know-who".

As always the first thing that comes to mind is Fox Ridge State Park, located only four miles south of Charleston off Route 130.

If a body is not wanting to venture too far, it's a logical split-second decision.

But a dozen trips to Fox Ridge each semester starts to be as exciting as my dozen trips to Booth Library. Besides, it takes a split-hour to get people, cars, beer, coolers, ice and all the other incidentals together.

A cloud floats over Coyote's head, thunders, then drizzles on his Acme-Roadrunner-Entrapment-Device.

Perhaps the usual fishing, picnicking, shooting pool, camping, intramural sporting, canoeing, drinking, playing video games, dancing, swimming, watching ducks at Lincoln Log Cabin, looking at the Liberty Bell replica at Morton Park and watching the clouds go by would be enough to keep anyone sailing through the weekend.

The incineration button of the entrapment device accidentally activates the Roadrunner "beep-beeps" behind the Coyote—except he's blown smithereens and the Roadrunner dashes off into the distance.

No thanks to the Roadrunner Wild E. Coyote, my hangover begins to subside. The "Amazing Spiderman" is on next. It's time to roadtrip to Charleston with anticipations of another hangover Sunday.

So much for Charleston weekends.
