Eastern faces possible water rate increase

By LARRY SMITH
Staff writer

Charleston's City Council could sock Eastern with an unforeseen 78 percent water rate hike if they go through on recommendations made by a financial advising firm.

In outlining the finances for revamping the city's wastewater treatment system, the council hired Speer Financial, Inc. of Chicago and made public the firm's proposed solutions Tuesday.

Aside from Illinois funding, the city must come up with $4 million for the project.

Verna Armstrong, Eastern's vice president for finance and administration, said early Tuesday the university had not requested funds for a water rate increase in the 1987 fiscal budget.

"Even a 10 percent increase—that's $6,000—would have a tremendous, negative impact on us. That would have to come from somewhere else."

When reached late Tuesday in Oak Lawn and told of the proposed hike, Armstrong said, "That's a lot of money, and I don't know where that's going to come from. That's going to create a serious problem."

Currently Eastern's fiscal 1987 budget has already been approved—without any water rate increase—by the Illinois Board of Higher Education and will now go to the General Assembly.

That budget goes into effect in July.

Moreover, Armstrong had said earlier that the budgets "traditionally" are cut once they reach the floor of the Assembly.

"This late in the game a rate increase would be a serious issue with us," she said. "The bottom line is the budget is already set for fiscal year 1987, and it would be very difficult at this stage to get additional revenues."

Mayor Murray Choate said he spoke to Armstrong about the 1987 budget and that it was "unfortunate," but he explained that this increase is "due to circumstances beyond the city's control."

Members of Charleston's city council congratulate State Rep. Harry "Babe" Woodyard, Larry McDaniel, a representative from State Sen. Max Coffey's office, and State Rep. Mike Weaver. The council presented the three with pins of appreciation for funds they have gotten for the city.

Choate went on to say that when Eastern was figuring out its budget, the city was still in a "quandry" about its water rates and funding from the state.

While about one-fourth of the rate hike could be absorbed by increased residence hall and student fees, the majority of the water budget is covered by appropriations from the state Armstrong said.

If Eastern were to use the same amount of water as in past years, a 78 percent rate hike would cost the university an additional $300,000.

According to Tim Ryan of Speer, Eastern only pays 75 percent of the cost of the water and Eastern should at least pay cost. He later went on to say that the planned increase would be spread over a three-year period.

Ryan noted water rates had not been increased

King's dream lingers as equality race continues

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

In what would have been his 57th year, the United States will honor Martin Luther King Jr. in the form of a national holiday for the first time.

In a struggle which arguably remains far from over, King set the precedents and the goals. And that battle was for a race and a nation to realize total equality.

In the very student union named after the black Baptist minister, the equality issue remains prevalent in the headlines. In fact, equality has been the foundation beneath modern-day campus concerns including divestment and minority enrollment.

Eastern faculty members recall King as one of the greatest and probably most eloquent civil rights spokesmen this century.

And it was at Eastern that the shock of King's assassination in 1968 scarred—among others—Financial Aids worker Elmer Pullen, then one of the scant 34 black students enrolled here.

"It was almost like a member of the family had died," Pullen said. While it took a few days to get over the initial shock, he said he believes he'll never fully recover.

"I was in a residence hall at the time and it was a real dramatic experience," Pullen remembers.

In terms of schooling, Pullen said he considers himself a product of the '60s—the decade which felt King's impact the most. As an active participant in that era, he said King helped him realize that he had experienced things because "of the color of my skin" and that they were wrong.

King made Pullen realize, for example, that "poor blacks and poor whites" were unjustly being

BOG considers computer discounts, insurance plan

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

Personal computer discounts for students, faculty and staff could be available from the Board of Governors by late March, said BOG spokesman Pamela Meyer.

The computer discounts, and a plan to establish a $125,000 self-insurance fund for member schools will be discussed at this month's BOG meeting Thursday.

The meeting is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. in the Beasley Conference Center at Chicago State University.

Computer discounts up to 37 percent for purchases of personal computers could be offered to students, faculty and staff of BOG schools following an agreement between IBM and the board, Meyer said.

The agreement came about because "administrators decided it was something worth offering that perhaps some universities couldn't offer because of the cost," Meyer said.

The BOG would be able to purchase the computers in quantity, then resell them to students, faculty and staff at a discount, Meyer said. The average cost of the various models will be between $2,000 and $3,000 and limited to one per customer.

Current plans call for purchasing information to be available to students by late March, Meyer said.

The BOG will also consider establishing a self-insurance fund in response to rising costs.

Commercial liability and property insurance rates for public institutions are 3.5 times higher than last year Meyer said.

The plan is "an effort to aid BOG schools in having some type of insurance," and avoid paying the inflated commercial rates, Meyer said.

Plans currently call for $125,000 to be deposited in a bank and used as a fund for all BOG schools to use as insurance. Each school's contribution will be determined on a pro-rated

First civilian elected in 16 years

GUATEMALA CITY—The first civilian elected to govern Guatemala in 16 years said Tuesday his priorities upon taking office would be to improve the ailing economy and control human rights abuses.

Vinicio Cerezo, a 43-year-old lawyer and Christian Democrat, was sworn in at a midday ceremony and became Guatemala's first civilian president since Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro, who served from 1966-70. He replaced chief of state Gen. Oscar Humberto Mejia Victores.

Vice President George Bush, who heads the U.S. delegation for the inauguration, called the event "a most historic occasion" in brief remarks after his arrival Tuesday. "We view this as a turning point not just in Guatemala's history but also a milestone in this hemisphere," he said.

This country of nearly 8 million, half of whom are descendants of the Maya Indians, has an international debt of $2.3 billion. Its economy slumped in the late 1970s when world demand for its chief exports of coffee, cotton and sugar plunged.

New sales tax revenue falls short

SPRINGFIELD—The used-car sales tax passed to support the Build Illinois public-works program is bringing in much less revenue than expected, but officials say it's too soon to call the tax a flop.

The Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission, the General Assembly's fiscal forecasting arm, says the tax may only generate $15 million in the current fiscal year, down from an earlier estimate of $57 million.

While a shortfall from the tax wouldn't affect the $2.3 billion Build Illinois Program, it could strain what already is expected to be a tight state budget for fiscal 1987, which begins July 1.

Revenue from the used-car tax is placed in a special fiscal account, along with a chunk of proceeds from general sales taxes and other levies. Money from the account is used to pay for tourism and conservation programs as well as Build Illinois.

School to keep 'satanic' mascot

VILLA GROVE—The local high school has cheered its Blue Devils for almost 50 years and won't stop now, despite objections from a local minister concerned about satanism.

The school board voted unanimously Monday night to maintain the Blue Devils tradition.

The Rev. Jeff Wells' campaign angered some town residents. Someone left a severed animal head on his church steps Sunday, and he says he'll let someone else carry it on.

"I think my voice has been voiced," said Wells. Most of the 25 people attending the board meeting in this small east-central community supported the half-century-old nickname.

"This hornet's nest stirred up by Reverend Wells is ridiculous," said Harriet Clark. "A name is just how you interpret it."

Secret nuclear testing discovered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States conducted at least 12 and possibly as many as 19 unannounced underground nuclear weapons tests between 1980 and 1984, an environmental group asserted Tuesday.

Citing research based on public sources of information, the Natural Resources Defense Council said the tests showed the Reagan administration had stepped up the pace of nuclear weapons research, despite government figures indicating a stable rate of testing from the Carter administration.

Eight of the unannounced tests could be confirmed based on information obtained from the U.S. Geological Survey or the Hagfors Observatory in Sweden, which detected them in 1983 and 1984, the report said.

"At least four, and possibly as many as 11, (other) tests apparently escaped detection," suggesting experiments with very small nuclear devices, the report added.

"This is indicative of an accelerated pattern that goes directly contrary to many of the things that Mr. Reagan and (Defense Secretary Caspar) Weinberger publicly state," said Robert S. Norris, a political scientist and one of several researchers who collaborated on the study.

"They speak of their desire to get rid of nuclear weapons, but they're building more of them and they are spending more on nuclear testing. And they are operating under a policy of keeping some tests secret on a theory, I believe, that announcing all tests would draw attention to weapons buildup that they would like to avoid."

While no concrete evidence was available, Norris suggested the smallest tests could be related to President Reagan's "Star Wars" research effort. Published scientific papers also suggest that scientists at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California have worked on "low-yield fission warheads" for use on anti-satellite weapons, he said.

Violence against Jews declines

CHICAGO (AP)—Reports of harassment, vandalism and abuse directed at Jews declined by 11 percent nationwide last year, but activities of neo-Nazi groups such as The Order are a growing concern, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith said Tuesday.

There were 638 reports of vandalism against Jewish homes and institutions in 34 states and Washington, D.C., in 1985, down from 715 in 1984, according to the league's annual audit of anti-Semitic activity.

The league's 30 regional offices in 1985 also reported a total of 306 anti-Semitic assaults, threats and harassment, including abusive letters and phone calls, a decrease of 17 percent from the previous year.

In Illinois, there were 34 reports of anti-Semitic harassment and vandalism, most in the Chicago area, compared with 42 in 1984, said Michael Kotzin, director of the Chicago regional office.

Nathan Perlmutter, the league's national director, credits stricter laws, tougher law enforcement and public education with reductions in reports of anti-Semitic activities.

Despite the diminishing reports, he said, anti-Semitism is surfacing in organizations with members who share ethnic and racial prejudices.

Perlmutter pointed to neo-Nazi groups such as The Order. Ten of that organization's members were charged last year in the slaying of Alan Berg, a Jewish talk show host in Denver, and the bombing of an Idaho synagogue.

Military charter planes inspected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Aviation Administration, responding to last month's crash of a military charter plane that killed 248 soldiers, on Tuesday announced an in-depth inspection of two dozen airlines that have Pentagon contracts.

The airlines range from charter operations such as Rich International and Arrow Air, which was involved in the Dec. 12 fatal military crash at Gander, Newfoundland, to major carriers such as American Airlines, Delta Airlines and Northwest Airlines.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, announcing the new inspections, said that while the cause of the Gander crash has yet to be determined, "we want to assure ourselves of the public beyond a shadow of a doubt that the carriers are operating with the highest standards of safety."

Meanwhile, Pentagon spokesman Bob Spillane said military authorities also intend to increase their surveillance of the airlines with which they do business. They will increase the number of spot checks on civilian jetliners serving military bases, put more "check riders" on board military charter flights, and conduct informal reviews of the airlines' performance once a year instead of every two years, he said.

Rives recommends 'veteran' for dean post

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

William Buckellev, a 24-year veteran of Eastern, will be recommended to temporarily fill the post of dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, President Stanley Rives said.

Rives will recommend Buckellev for the position of acting dean of the college at Wednesday's meeting of the Board of Governors.

Rives' recommendation follows Buckellev's selection by Edgar Schick, provost and vice president for academic affairs, and a nine-member search committee headed by Barbara Owens, dean of applied sciences.

It is likely Rives' recommendation will be approved. Although he declined to say the board would do so without question, Rives said it is "usual" for the BOG to approve such recommendations.

"I'm just delighted," Buckellev said. "It's a real challenge to follow someone like Dean (Walter) Lowell. Hopefully, we can continue this college's fine tradition and perhaps explore new ground."

Buckellev said because this is an interim position, any new ground would involve "plans we were already talking about," before Lowell's retirement. Buckellev declined comment on any plans.

Following through on existing plans would be consistent with the job description of acting dean.

According to the Nov. 15, 1985 issue of the University Newsletter, the job description included that "the applicant must be in agreement with and support for the academic goals" of the college.

Rives said they have not set a date for the position to be filled permanently. He said other administrators would like to have a study done to determine the future direction of the college prior to finding a permanent dean.

If the recommendation is approved, Buckellev will serve as acting dean from March 1 to at least Aug. 31, 1986, or until a permanent dean assumes office. Lowell is taking a six-month administrative leave on those dates prior to his official Aug. 31 retirement.

Rives said Lowell and Buckellev are currently working together to ensure a "smooth transition."

The recommendation follows an internal search in which three others, all from within the college, applied for the position. Buckellev, is currently the coordinator of graduate studies for the college.

Acting dean William Buckellev

Buckellev's experience was seen as a plus by those recommending him for the position.

"Let's face it he's been here a long time," said search committee member

Thomas Woodall. "He knows the campus and he knows the people."

Buckellev has been an instructor in the college since 1968, when he earned his doctorate from the University of Arkansas. He has been the coordinator of graduate studies of the college since 1977 and served as chairman of the department of physical education from 1973 to 1977.

Buckellev first joined Eastern's faculty in 1962 as director of outdoor recreation. From 1970 to 1973 he served as director of laboratory school physical education program.

"There is no question Bill is an excellent choice," Rives said. "I think there were four excellent candidates for the position. Any one of them could have done the job well."

Other applicants were J.W. Sanders, a physical education instructor; Larry Ankenbrand, chairman of the department of physical education and Ewen Bryden, chairman of the department of recreation and leisure studies.

The acting dean's responsibilities include managing the day-to-day affairs of the college during Lowell's leave-of-absence and attending meetings of the council of deans.

Rep. Bruce sets conference to 'touch bases'

U.S. Rep. Terry Bruce, D-Olney, will hold a press conference in the Union addition Effingham Room at 3 p.m. Thursday, press secretary Larry Clinton said Wednesday.

Clinton said the press conference, one of several Bruce is staging in the 19th Congressional District this week, is a "general" meeting to answer questions from reporters on a wide range of subjects.

Clinton said Bruce expects to discuss the national debt, farm programs, cuts in the education budget and other issues.

"He is attempting to touch base with as many different areas as he can," Clinton said.

Bruce, a first-term congressman, was recently ranked as the number-one voting-attendance representative from Illinois by Congressional Quarterly, a publishing house noted for its close coverage of Capitol Hill.

According to an Associated Press story on the study, Bruce voted either "yes" or "no" on 99 percent of the issues that came before the House in 1985.

Faculty Senate discusses tuition payment survey

By TERI BROWN
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday discussed a survey taken during central registration concerning the tentative tuition/fees installment plan.

Committee chairman Dick Goodrick said the surveys were given to 500 students who attended Eastern during the 1985 fall semester and registered for the 1986 spring term. Goodrick, senate member Scott Smith and Student Senate President Floyd Akins administered the survey.

Goodrick said, "Two hundred (or 40 percent) of the students reported they were engaged in the registration process because they didn't have the money for pre-registration."

The results of the survey, he said, are the first hard statistics the committee studying the tuition/fee installment plan has received.

Senate member Gerald Sullivan said, "We obviously need more courses for students.

"Courses are canceled that would fill up or would have filled up earlier if people didn't have to pay (in one lump sum)."

Goodrick said about 200 of the remaining students forgot to pre-register, while the final 100 surveyed had other reasons for waiting until central registration.

In other action, the senate agreed to invite Glenn Williams of student affairs, to discuss campus security problems with the senate.

"A lot of people have the awesome responsibility of holding keys to departments," Sullivan said, adding that "more security should be used."

Senate member Terry Perkins also gave a report on the EIU Foundation's refusal to divest funds from apartheid South Africa despite recommendations from both Faculty and Student Senates to do otherwise.

The Foundation currently has $229,013 invested in ten U.S. companies with bases in South Africa.

"It seemed evident to me that what we had to say had very little impact," Perkins said.

Applications for graduation due

The application deadline for spring graduation is Friday, Registrar James Martin said.

Students who wish to apply should go to the Records Office, 119 Old Main, Martin said. There is a $15 fee.

Students who are reapplying for graduation will not be charged, he said.

Although most students, depending on their majors, must wait until the grading period in which they attain 70 hours to apply for graduation, Martin said he urges students to apply as soon as they are able.

Education good beginning for AIDS policy

Although no cases of AIDS have been reported at Eastern, administrators made a wise move in drafting a university policy on AIDS.

This a policy could prevent many problems if an Eastern student was diagnosed as having the disease.

Editorial Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said last semester officials began considering a policy based on what is known about AIDS and what other universities have done.

However, Eastern's policy, which has been sent to the Board of Governors for review, should be made public to Eastern's faculty and students prior to its approval. All we currently know is that Eastern's policy, which the BOG is reviewing for legal problems, is more educational than restrictive.

Jack Bleicher, BOG vice chancellor for legal and student affairs, said, "At this point, AIDS has a lot of uncertainty. The most important thing to do is prevent contracting the disease and the best way to do that is to educate."

With that statement, Bleicher hit the nail on the head. The uncertainty society has about AIDS victims needs to be conquered. Education is a good start.

The sermon has been preached again, and again: AIDS primarily affects homosexuals, intravenous drug users and hemophiliacs. It is transmitted through sexual contact or blood transfusions.

The good news is that out of 94 Eastern students polled last semester by a sociology class, 67 percent said they believed AIDS victims should be allowed in classrooms. While 94 students may seem like a small number, it represents nearly 1 percent of Eastern's enrollment. Maybe the rationalization that helped those students arrive at their decision could spread.

Eastern administrators also recognize that AIDS victims should not be treated as lepers. If a student were to contract AIDS, the case should be handled on an individual basis.

Anxious sales tactics cause stench around Bears' broadcasting booth

I wish Pat Summerall didn't do the play by play for the Bears. Every time I see him I just cringe because I know that he smells terrible.

Not that I have an extra sensitive olfactory organ or anything, but I am so overridden with guilt because I know it's my fault that he reeks.

If I was ever on the David Letterman show, I would tell this story about my brush with greatness.

For the past two years, I have worked holidays and summers at one of those preppy, expensive small stores that Oakbrook is so well known for. It wasn't a bad job. Not too many people ever came in and the ones that did usually dropped a bundle which made for easy days and big commission checks.

There were three times when I could count on an especially big check. Christmas, Father's Day and the Western Open.

The Western Open meant especially good business for me because my brother caddied for it for the past three years and would casually slip my business card to all the golfers.

To be honest, when Summerall walked in the store and started thumbing through the $37.50 golf shirts, I didn't even know it was him.

I approached him with my usual snooty "I don't care if you buy anything or not" attitude. I don't know, for some reason the store's clientele responded well to that approach.

Pat (I feel at this point I think I know him well enough to call him by his first name) handed me a red and blue stripe shirt and said he would keep looking.

After about 15 minutes of wandering around the store, he approached the counter. I asked the annoying question that everyone who works in any kind of store insists upon asking, "Will there be anything else?"

Pat made the mistake of asking if we carried any aftershave. "Sure," I said knowing that we didn't carry anything that even resembled how any man would want to smell.

The store insisted upon carrying things no other human being had ever heard of. That way they could

Personal file:

Jean Wright

say that they carried it "exclusively." Puff puff.

There were three different kinds of cologne we carried "exclusively," but I noticed there was only one kind of aftershave left. Pat looked at what we had and said, "Well, I never heard of any of these. Which do you like?" Big mistake, Pat.

I would sell a deaf man a stereo if I thought there was money in it for me.

Naturally, I liked the only one we had left. Luckily Pat didn't ask to smell it or see it for that matter.

The bottle of "exclusive" aftershave had stunk the bottom of it. You shake it to "unleash the masculine scent." I think this aftershave was "exclusive" because no normal store would carry it.

Pleased that I had pawned off the last bottle of that wretched stuff, I asked Pat how he would like to buy for it.

"American Express," he said. Of course, I was stupid of me. He handed me the gold card, yes, and it was just like in the commercial. I didn't know his name, but I knew his card.

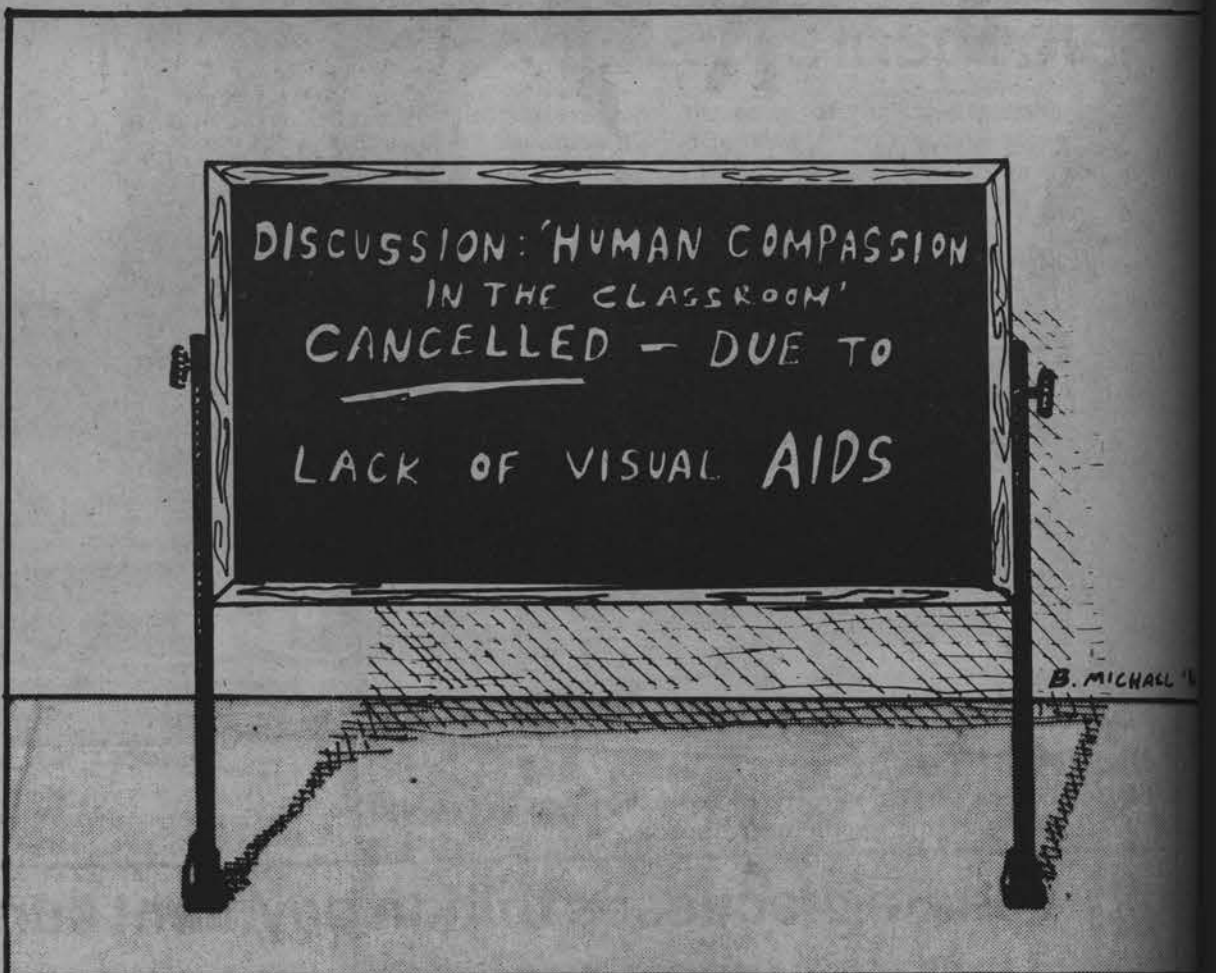

After I had overcome my brush with greatness, my guilt started to settle in.

I wish I hadn't sold it to him. I felt like saying "I smell it. It stinks!" But I didn't. I let him go. My god, I got the best of me.

For the next few days I watched the Western Open thinking Pat or his co-anchor would say something about how bad he smelled, but they never did.

Maybe Pat liked the aftershave. Maybe it really wasn't that bad. Last time I was home, I saw Norm Marcus was carrying it.

Well Dave, that was my brush with greatness. —Jean Wright is the campus editor for the The Daily Eastern News.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor.

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Letters submitted without a name (or a pseudonym) or without a telephone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

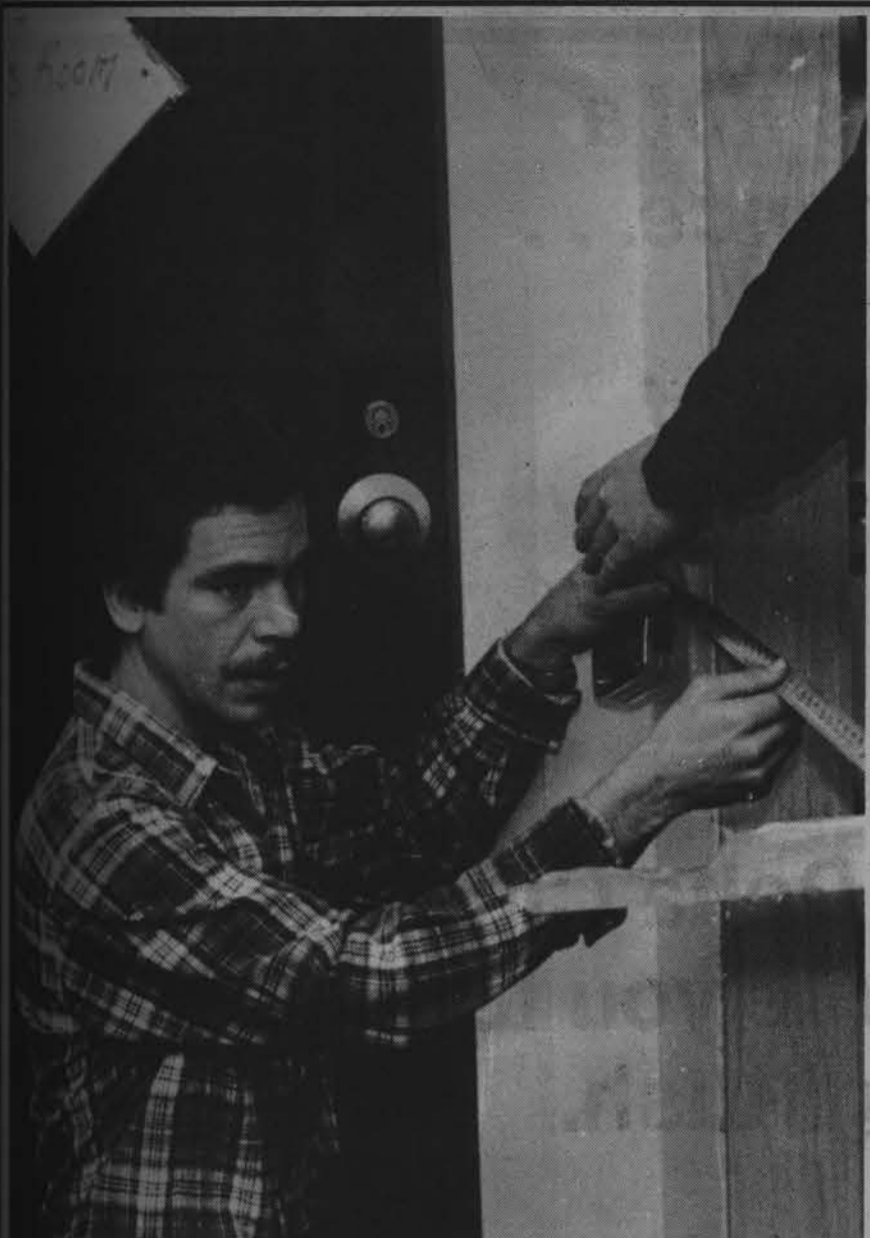

Authorship of letters will be verified by telephone or by means otherwise specified by the author prior to publication.

Letters should not exceed 250 words. Letters which exceed the 250-word limit will be edited to conform with author's permission.

Authors addressing controversial issues must come at a time for rebuttal.

Local waste site examined
EPA reviewing solutions

GREENUP (AP)—A toxic-waste site's possibly hazardous effects on the 1,700 residents of this southeastern Illinois community are the focus of a preliminary report that may be complete by mid-February, state officials say.

In the late 1970s, investigators discovered polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) and other suspected cancer-causing chemicals on the six-acre former A&F Materials oil-reclamation site and in groundwater under the site.

The multimillion-dollar surface cleanup was completed last fall, and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is still negotiating with companies responsible for the groundwater contamination.

"We just had a 30-year-old die from a brain tumor, and there are three more terminally ill with brain tumors who live within a five-mile radius of the waste site," said Winona Saathoff, acting public-health director for Cumberland County.

"It hardly seems fair that I can't tie in their illnesses with that dump site," she said.

The Illinois Department of Public Health interviewed many residents while the cleanup was going on last summer and fall. At the time, the A&F site was rated the state's worst toxic site.

Department investigators "are in the first stages of analyzing all the data they gathered," said agency spokeswoman Mary Huck.

"Our people are hopeful that by mid-February they can go to Greenup and talk to people who are interested as to what they have at that point," Ms. Huck said. "It won't be before the end of March that a full report is completed."

A&F Materials operated on the site at the southwest edge of Greenup from 1977 to 1980, accepting oil waste from companies including ALCOA, Northern Petrochemical Co. and McDonnell Douglas Corp.

In hot weather, residents complained that fumes from the site permeated the air and burned their throats and noses.

The site, on the floodplain of the Embarras River, is now a barren field. Residents say there have been no problems since the completion of the surface cleanup.

John Thompson, director of the Central States Resource Center in Champaign, said he is not optimistic about the EPA's handling of the groundwater cleanup.

"They are probably going to do nothing more than monitor the groundwater," he said.

Student Senate to discuss security poll, fee increase

By AMY CARR
Staff writer

Eastern's student government is currently polling 1,000 female students on campus security, with the possibility of a $1.20 per semester fee increase to fund a night student patrol.

The survey, which was created to find out if women feel safe on campus, will be discussed at the Student Senate meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola/Tuscola Room, Student Body President Floyd Akins said.

The survey, Akins said, is an attempt "to find out what they (students) want."

Only students who will attend Eastern next fall will be surveyed, and the survey will be conducted by Delta Zeta sorority members in face-to-face interview, he said.

One of the major questions included on the survey asks if the student would be opposed to paying a $1.20 per semester fee to fund night student patrols.

The fee would enable the university to provide students with better security around the clock, Akins said.

Akins made his security proposal, consisting of a night patrol comprised by students, during his student body president campaign last spring.

The patrolling students would wear a recognizable uniform and would be equipped with two-way radios which would connect them to Campus Police.

The students could not intervene, but they could alert the police if they saw a student being attacked on campus.

Akins brought his proposal to the Campus Police this school year, but the proposal hasn't been acted upon and police have said students would need to be supervised and trained.

Even if students surveyed overwhelmingly support the fee increase, it would still have to go before the whole student body in referendum form before approved.

Akins said he will probably not bring the fee increase to the referendum stage if students surveyed do not support the measure by at least 80 percent.

In addition, Board of Governors representative Mike Ashack will introduce the $1.20 fee at Thursday's BOG meeting, Akins said. Ashack will ask the BOG whether it could fund the security patrol if the survey shows students do not want to pay the cost.

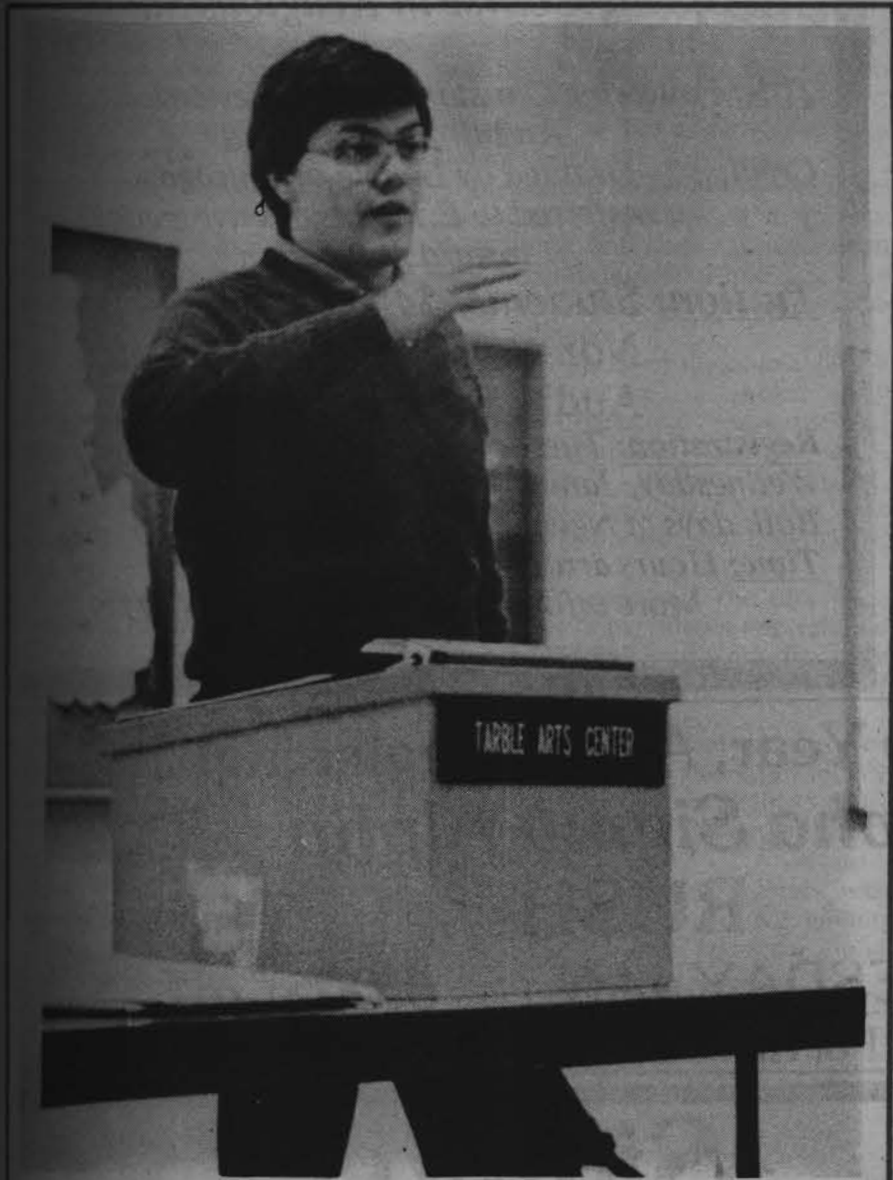

Another question on the survey asks if students feel lighting on campus is adequate, and whether they feel this is the university's responsibility, he added.

A portion of the funds would be used to improve lighting throughout the campus, Akins said.

The survey also asks if women feel campus police remain visible throughout the day, and evening hours.

In other business at the senate meeting, Senate Speaker Joe O'Mera said he will deliver an address to the senate on semester goals.

Appointments to senate committees will also be brought before senate for approval, O'Mera said.

since 1980 and usage had remained stable but expenditures had increased. He added "some users are receiving water at or below cost."

Eastern uses approximately 30 percent of the city's water supply, according to the study by Speer.

Commissioner Wayne Lanman said the average rate for users in the city now is $3.75 per 1,000 gallons of water. According to the study, he added the rate would have to be increased by $1.60 or 42.7 percent to $5.35 per thousand gallons.

Council Executive Assistant Chris Bezuki said that the average home would see an increase of $32.10 per year.

The university's average rate is $2.73 per thousand gallons and would have to be raised $2.13 or 78 percent to $4.86 per 1,000 gallons.

City Attorney Tony Sunderman said the city had not increased the rates since 1980 and the total cost of the break even point is not the entire $1.60.

When asked by Sunderman where a break even point would be, Speer President Woody Barce said his firm had yet to figure that amount.

Choate said that the council has very little choice as to the rate increases and asked Barce when would they have to go into effect. Barce replied that it would have go into effect very soon in order to catch state deadlines.

The council decided to have another special meeting Friday at 6 p.m. to draw up the ordinance and place it on file for public inspection and later have a special meeting Jan. 24 to pass the bond ordinance.

In other business, the council held a press conference in which they awarded Charleston Sequicentennial pins to Republican State Representatives Harry "Babe" Woodyard, Mike Weaver and State Senator Max Coffey's administrative assistant, Larry McDaniel.

Mayor Choate said the pins were given to them in "special appreciation of courtesies and hard work they have accomplished for the city of Charleston."

"We want to commend you for securing the $40,000 emergency money for the construction of the finger dikes at the dam and the Embarass river," Choate said.

Choate also said the legislators were instrumental in obtaining 6.2 million dollars for the city from the Build Illinois program.

basis.

Meyer said Gov. James Thompson signed legislation in June 1985 allowing such insurance funds.

In other business, Eastern President Stanley Rives will recommend that William Buckellew be appointed acting dean of the College of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Buckellew, if his appointment is approved, will replace Walt Lowell, who begins an administrative leave on March 1 and plans to retire on Aug. 31.

The new acting dean will assume responsibilities on March 1.

According to Rives' report to the BOG, purchases Eastern plans to bring before the board include:

- IBM computer terminals and other equipment for $31,243. The equipment will be used for common software projects for the offices of financial aids, personnel, planning and budget, and accounting.

- 420 tons of pebble lime for $23,940 from Mississippi Lime Company of Alton, Ill. The lime will be used in the desulfurization process in Eastern's coal furnaces to remove sulfur and other contaminants from the gas before it is released into the atmosphere.

- 125 tons of sulfur ash at $19,675 from F.M.C. Wyoming Corporation in Philadelphia, Penn., also to aid in the desulfurization process.

- 52 window units for Ninth Street Residence Hall for $19,707.23 from Illini Pella, of Terre Haute, Ind. The existing windows will be replaced with double-plane, wood-frame, aluminum-clad windows half the size of existing windows. Installation will be done by university staff.

- Furnishing and installation of an air conditioning system for the radio and television center from Harshman Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Co. of Sullivan, Ill. The WEIU-TV transmitter requires air conditioning.

- A round-trip charter of a 79-passenger jet from Britt Airways, Terra Haute, Ind. for $11,642 to transport the football team for a game at Northern Michigan University.

- A nine-passenger station wagon from Miles Chevrolet, Inc., Decatur, Ill. for $9,927 for use in the university motor pool.

- An additional $8,593.31 due to cost-overruns on a new building to East Central Illinois Older American Resources, Inc., Bloomington, Ill.

Funds are available in the Title III grant and budgetary authority has been granted by the East Central Illinois Area on Aging, Inc., to cover the additional cost.

Eastern has a lease agreement to pay ECIOAR $223,606 for 3,352 square feet to be used as an office building for the East Central Area Agency on Aging and for food preparation and and distribution by Eastern's Senior Nutrition Program.

Because of changes in the kitchen facility, the final cost of the facility exceed the the original amount by $8,593.31.

treated as second class citizens.

Journalism instructor James Saunders agreed.

"Of course, I think of him often in terms of the things he did for me," Saunders said, adding that he believes it was King's "prodding" that has enabled him to realize more political and personal freedom.

For example, blacks began to receive better seating in theaters and restaurants, Saunders said.

But beyond making people aware of inequalities between the rich and the poor, the whites and the minorities, Pullen and Saunders both said King had traits rarely found in any man.

Shunning the dangers of leading and working within crowds, King spoke of and insisted on peaceful tactics.

"The fact that he was able to be on the front line—in the firing line—every day, probably his ability to mingle with the people. The crowds were never too large or too dangerous. These are only a part of what made him such an effective and charismatic man," Pullen said.

Both Pullen and Saunders said they thought King had an uncanny ability to pull emotion from every word of his speeches.

Saunders said he will always remember what he felt standing on the balcony in Memphis where King was slain.

"It was a very special kind of feeling and he was a very special kind of man—a man like him comes around perhaps only once in a century."

While Pullen said other leaders have personified some of King's qualities, he said none have been able to duplicate the "man as a whole."

Saunders agreed, but conceded that Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Tutu of South Africa personifies a style similar to King's.

"Just as Martin Luther King operated on the threshold of danger or the threshold of death, he, too, operates," Saunders said. "But despite the danger, they both pressed on."

And pressing on with King's ideals is a must, Pullen said. In lowering unemployment, cutting the income gap between whites and minorities and improving the educational level of minorities, there is still work to be done, he said.

"I just think that we, as poor folk and black folk, must continue the struggle. . . It appears as long as we're around, we have to struggle to improve and not give up the ship in the struggle for excellence."

"I'm convinced we have a great nation, but we could be a helluva lot better if we could have total cooperation."

Thus, the legacy of the "dream" King spoke of lives on.

Fair presents fresh ideas to RAs

By DEBBIE PIPPITT
Staff writer

A programming fair held last week for resident assistants was "worthwhile," said Donald Schaefer, of the Placement Office.

The fair, which was in the Union Grand Ballroom, was sponsored by the Resident Assistant Relations Committee.

Ideas and programs to have in residence halls were presented by residence hall counselors Beth Tankersley and Lynette Baer.

The program was designed to provide resident assistants and hall programming with more resources," Tankersley said.

Baer said the program was tied in with the creation of a "Programming Resource Guide." The guide includes 100-150 programming ideas that students might enjoy and that are beneficial.

About 13 booths were set up, representing various services and activities on campus and in Charleston.

Schaefer said, "My impression was that it seemed worthwhile."

He added that in learning things about other departments he "broadened his horizons."

RA Stacy Birch said, "It's a good way to get RAs and others involved in programming more aware of opportunities available."

Birch also said it was a good way to find out about educational programs.

Tankersley said the idea came from a similar program she attended as a student at Central Missouri University.

"We wanted to expand it," he said, adding that he thought last week's fair was successful.

"They had a lot of good ideas," Tankersley said.

Both Baer and Tankersley hope to see the program held again in the fall, but with some changes.

Baer said if the fair is sponsored again next year she'd like to see more participants, especially from the community.

Anxious eating focus of forum

By CAM SIMPSON
Staff writer

Eating disorders will be the focus of a Counseling Center workshop 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Rathskeller Balcony in the Union.

"Anxious Eating—What To Do," will feature Genie Lenihan of the Counseling Center and Bill Kirk, Eastern psychology instructor, as the main speakers.

Lenihan said recovering patients will also speak at the workshop.

The forum will discuss anorexia and bulimia and the "dangerous dilemmas of dieting," Lenihan said.

Anorexia and bulimia are emotional disorders with physical symptoms, she said.

"Anorexia is a deliberate starvation in order to become thinner."

Bulimia is a disorder in which the victim overeats, then purges through the use of laxatives, diuretics, deliberate fasting and induced vomiting.

Treatment options, Kirk said include group therapy and private counseling through the Counseling Center as well as peer counseling through an internship program in the psychology department.

"There is a great pressure on young women to be thin. Success is measured by appearance," Lenihan said.

Since "there are often family problems" involved in these disorders, "lots of tips for family and friends" will be offered, Lenihan said.

The forum will give a better understanding of how to recognize the symptoms and what should be done about them.

U.S. refuses firm stance on Iran's search of ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States asserted Tuesday the right to have Navy warships protect American flagships against "forcible actions" in the Persian Gulf but refused to say whether interceptions by Iran would be permitted.

The ambiguous U.S. stance was taken at the State Department where spokesman Charles Redman cautioned that boarding ships to look for weapons for Iraq was "a potentially dangerous game."

Six armed Iranian sailors stopped the President Taylor on Sunday, boarded it for 1 hour and 45 minutes, found no war supplies and permitted the ship to go on to Fajaira in the United Arab Emirates to pick up cargo for India.

The administration on Monday said Iran, which is at war with Iraq, appeared to be acting within its rights. Twelve American passengers on the President Taylor said they feared the Iranian marines would kidnap them.

"We heard about hostages so often that we were scared of becoming captives when the gun-toting Iranians boarded the ship," Frances Kirner, of Belmont, Calif., told the Associated Press.

"The Iranians said good morning to us," she said. "They were polite, smiling, but not friendly smiles."

Mrs. Kirner said she overcame her fear, picked up her camera and "started shooting snapshots" of the intruders, who did not object.

'Superlearning' life skills seminar rescheduled

"Superlearning," a life skills seminar originally scheduled for noon Wednesday has been postponed.

The seminar, which will be at noon Jan. 22 in the Union addition Tuscola Room, will be led by Dr. Robert Saltmarsh of the educational psychology department.

Saltmarsh said the seminar will last about 50 minutes and will focus on what he likes to call "resource states."

Resource states, he said, are "means by which to assemble optimal learning."

"Each person operates on different levels of functioning," Saltmarsh said.

He added that some of those levels are good but some interfere with the learning process.

The seminar will be free and open to the public.

Whipped Huskies

Grapplers dominate NIU, take match, 25-14

By MIKE NELSON
Staff writer

Eastern's wrestlers rolled on to an undefeated 6-0 record as they overpowered Northern Illinois University 25-14 Tuesday night in Lantz Gym.

"I was really pleased with our performances tonight," said Eastern coach Ralph McCausland. "It was good to see some exciting bouts."

McCausland was referring to the two close matches in the 158-pound class and the 190-pound class. Eastern's Chris McFarland, who holds the best record for the Panthers at 20-2, came from behind to defeat Northern's Mike Green 8-5. Green came out strong taking a 2-1 first period lead, and increased that lead to 3-1 after two periods.

McFarland came back in the third to close the gap at 5-4. With time running out McFarland threw Green for a two-point take-down. McFarland also received two back points, as he won the match 8-5.

Eastern's Rob Kelly (190) came up on the other end of his nail-biter as he lost to the Huskies' Mike Carpenter 2-1. The two wrestlers were scoreless through two periods, and the only scoring in the third period came on an escape and a false start to make the score 1-1 at the end of the match. But the Northern wrestler received one point for riding time and took the victory 2-1.

"We still need to work on our shape more, we wrestled well, but were lacking in our shape," McCausland said.

Craig Sterr got Eastern started, as he pinned Tony Caldoane with 2:10 remaining in the first period. For Sterr it was his third consecutive dual meet victory.

After Northern took victories in the 126-lb and 134-lb classes, Eastern's Paul Cysewski (142) came through with a 5-3 win to give Eastern back the team scoring lead 9-7. Keith Presley (150) then improved his individual record to 14-8 with a 10-4 victory over his NIU opponent.

Ozzie Porter dominated Bob Fousek 13-1. This widened Eastern's team lead to 20-7. Porter's inhis first start, but was defeated 6-1 by Tony Piotrowski.

"Loren wrestled well for his first start," said McCausland. "He needs to get into better shape, I think he was lacking in that area."

Cager Crook threatens to break into 1000-point club

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

Just two seasons ago, Eastern guard Doug Crook suffered a broken wrist that forced him into the frustration of a red-shirt season and clouded his collegiate basketball career.

But today when Crook reflects back on the disheartening injury, the fifth-year senior looks upon his setback as a "blessing in disguise of sorts."

"I'm not glad that the accident happened because I can still tell, I can still feel it. But as far as school and basketball go, it has helped a lot," Crook said.

"I've got to play my last year with (Jon) Collins and (Kevin) Duckworth," Crook said. "The extra year has helped me get my (marketing) degree also."

And Crook, a Vincennes, Ind. native, is making the most of that extra year.

He is tied with point guard Norm Evans for the team lead in both steals (31) and assists (48), while ranking third in scoring (13.7).

Crook has also logged more than 33 minutes of playing time per game this season.

"I lifted weights four nights a week and ran over the summer because of the increased playing time I knew I'd see this year," Crook said.

Along with his boost in playing time,

PAUL KLATT / Staff Photographer

Eastern's Doug Crook takes one of many jumpshots that have made him and the Panthers a success in his fifth year on the squad.

the pressure of leadership on Crook has also been increased this season.

"It's (pressure) pretty evenly distributed among Jon, "Duck" and myself, so that helps," Crook said.

While the pressure may be evenly distributed among the three seniors, the focus and attention is not always.

"It really doesn't bother me because my time will come," Crook said.

"Maybe down the road it's going to help me out because they're (opponents) going to be looking to concentrate on stopping Collins and Duckworth more, which will maybe give me a little room to do some things I can do."

One of things that Crook can do is score from the perimeter. That skill is vital to Eastern's success this season because it prevents opponents from collapsing inside around Duckworth.

Yet, Crook is far from satisfied with his shooting performance thus far this year.

"I don't think I've hit on all cylinders yet," Crook said. "I've been shooting something like 7-for-15, 8-for-15 (a game); I should be shooting like 10-for-15 or 11-for-15."

While Crook has not been happy with his shooting from the field, the 6-1, 185-pounder has enjoyed a strong season at the free-throw line.

Crook leads the team with an 84.9 percent output from the charity stripe.

But, not only have natural talent, hard work and dedication played a large role in his career, so has Crook's family.

"My parents (Dean and Doris Crook) have been great, they've given me so much support," Crook said. "I love it when my parents are in the crowd and watching, I just try to go out and do well for them."

The strong influence of his family is not so surprising when one considers that Crook's uncle, Dick Carmichael, played for the Panthers in the early 1960s.

What is surprising, however, is that Carmichael didn't encourage his nephew to attend Eastern.

"He wanted me to go to Vanderbilt, to be close to where he is," Crook said.

Fortunately for the Panthers, Crook chose Eastern over several larger schools who made offers following a senior year in which he led Vincennes Lincoln to the Indiana state title and was named state tournament MVP.

As his career begins its downward descent, Crook stands just 54 points shy of the 1,000-point mark. Thus, how would he like fans to remember him?

"Just that I typified an athlete at Eastern," Crook said. "I came and I worked hard in my sport. I contributed and I've been in a program that's made great strides for Eastern."

"I got my degree, and maybe look back and see the members of that '85-'86 team, '84-'85 Mid-Continent tournament champs, and see my name there with the other players."

Bears leave hoopla again

LAKE FOREST (AP)—Coach Mike Ditka has this thing about togetherness, and the best way he can keep the Chicago Bears together is to get them out of town.

This time Ditka is taking the National Football Conference champions to the University of Illinois for their early preparations for the 20th Super Bowl against the New England Patriots in New Orleans on Jan. 26.

They will work out under a newly inflated bubble that covers Zuppke Field at Memorial Stadium in Champaign.

Getting the team away from home, away from the hoopla, has become a Ditka trait.

In each of the past two weeks he took the team to train in Suwanee, Ga., outside Atlanta at the Atlanta Falcons' training site.

"The (New York) Giants said they didn't know why we were leaving town," Ditka said. "The (Los Angeles) Rams said they didn't know why we were leaving town."

Pointing to his head and trying to hide a smirk, Ditka said, "Now they know."

Whether going to Suwanee had anything to do with it, the Bears beat the Giants 21-0 in the playoffs and followed with a 24-0 whipping of the Rams on Sunday for the NFS title and the team's first trip to the Super Bowl.

But why Champaign?

"Seemed like a good idea," said Ditka. "There are nice people in Southern Illinois."

Like many Chicagoans, Ditka apparently considers outside the city Southern Illinois. Champaign actually is in central Illinois.

Even so, Ditka never does anything

Bears' 'Super Shuffle' slides up music charts

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears, who can carry a tune as well as a football, are scoring big with their "Super Bowl Shuffle" record, tape and video cassette.

The rap song—the No. 1 requested song in Chicago—is climbing Billboard magazine's top 100 pop record chart and the video manufacturer says the cassette's a best-seller.

In the video, 24 uniformed Bears strut their stuff and sing. Between spotlight solos, the rumbling chorus goes like this:

"We are the Bears' shufflin' crew, 'Shufflin' on down, doin' it for you."

"We're so mad, we know we're 'Blowin' your mind like you knew we would."

"Shuffle" was taped weeks before the Bears ensured their trip to the Super Bowl, and "we had a lot of comments that we might be jinxing them," spokeswoman Gwyneth Lloyd at Red Label Records of Chicago, which produced the song, said Tuesday.

"All that's been put to bed."

without good reason.

He figures he will have the complete privacy he seeks at Champaign. But working indoors under a bubble and on AstroTurf also will simulate conditions under which the Super Bowl will be played in the Louisiana Superdome.

'Team of destiny' Bradley returns to AP hoop Top 20

PAUL KLATT / Staff Photographer

Oops

John Collins, Eastern's leading scorer, seems to be having a little more trouble hanging on to the ball than usual. Collins has been averaging an even 20 points a game for the 10-4 Panthers.

PEORIA (AP)—Bradley University has hit the highs and lows of college basketball, touching bottom in a 1950s scandal that rocked the game and rising this season to a 16-1 record and its first appearance in The Associated Press' Top 20 in more than two decades.

The Braves' latest resurgence—to the 20th spot in the AP poll released Monday—couldn't have been better timed for tempestuous Dick Versace, who came to the Peoria school as head coach in 1978 and has been rumored to be on the way out more than once.

"I don't run them (polls). I just try to get in them," Versace said Tuesday. "It makes it a lot more interesting."

Being ranked "is like the difference between playing poker for fun and playing poker for money," he said.

Versace served most of his coaching apprenticeship in Chicago and pulled off may recruiting coups for Bradley in that city.

But until this season, he did not find the blend of speed, talent and toughness that is boosting the Braves into the top ranks.

Through three middling seasons, point guard Jim Les provided leadership for the Braves, but the breakthrough didn't come until Mike Williams, a 6-foot-8 center, came in to shore up the middle, and 6-4 sophomore Hersey Hawkins established himself as the Braves' big-play man.

Hawkins pulled off his second straight miracle finish Monday night, canning a long jumper at the buzzer to force Dayton into overtime, where Bradley pulled clear to post a 79-77 win.

The shot against Dayton came off a 70-foot inbound pass from Les, almost a replay of the combination the two put together Saturday to beat Drake at the buzzer.

"A one-in-a-million shot," Les said of the Dayton effort.

"But with this team," he added, reconsidering, "we're a team of destiny. We find ways to win games and stay in games. So I guess I had a little bit of hope."

The arrival of the silver-haired Versace eight years ago renewed hope the school could return to the heights it had achieved twice before.

The first heyday of Bradley basketball came in the late 1940s and early 1950s, when Paul Unruh and Gene "Squeaky" Melchiorre made Bradley a national powerhouse.

The Braves reached their college basketball apex in the 1950-51 season, playing in the finals of both the National Invitation Tournament and the NCAA tournament, and losing both to City College of New York.

But they hit the bottom just as fast, with Melchiorre and several other players turning up at the center of a national point-shaving scandal, admitting they accepted cash.
