Annex will be a priority

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

Despite severe state budget cuts, the Coleman Hall annexation is still a top priority on an Illinois Capital Development Board's list for Board of Governors Schools.

An official from the ICDB, which manages state-funded public improvements, said the building project tops the ICDB list of projects for the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body.

The project has also received support from the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance.

However, administrators had hoped to have the project funded for Fiscal Year 1988 (July 1, 1987-June 30, 1988), but Gov. James R. Thompson's budget cuts caused the project's delay.

"The construction funds have not been approved for this fiscal year. Our expectation is that they would start next year," said Eastern President Stanley Rives. "That means we could not start the building until fall of next year."

He said the cuts affected the annexation. "All of the state's financing was tied up in the issue of tax cuts."

He added that if not for the cuts, "It would be very likely the funds would Workers set the new panther, created by Eastern student Jim Hoker, in place outside Marty's Sunday morning.

The bronze statue replaces the concrete ornament destroyed in November of 1985 by a Blazer.

Marty's replaces panther statue

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

Sunday marked the return of the panther—not the pink one but a Fourth Street landmark.

The Marty's panther, an Eastern landmark for 12 years which was destroyed in an accident in November 1985, was replaced Sunday with a new statue.

The new panther, created by Eastern student Jim Hoker, is a black bronze statue similar to the original.

"We're really excited about it," said Dave Kinnaird, owner of Marty's, 1666 Fourth St. "Hopefully it (the panther) will be a part of Charleston's history for years to come. We're really excited about it."

"Jim's a very talented young man and he's done a really nice job making this panther. He's really done a fine job."

The original statue, which like the new one sat in front of the bar, was injured in November 1985 when a large blazer truck, cutting a corner too close and jumping the curb, ran over the animal.

The concrete statue was taken down until a replacement could be obtained.

The original statue was put up in 1973 and had been painted on several different occasions, including green for St. Patrick's Day and pink for Homecoming, by unknown residents or students.

EIU Foundation reaching goal in half the time

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

On his last day as EIU Foundation president, Jim Roberts announced Sunday 78 percent progress toward a $5 million campaign goal in half the expected time.

A year ago, the foundation was only 25 percent toward the goal of raising $5 million in five years, Eastern President Stanley Rives said at the foundation's annual meeting for its officers to give reports.

"Foundation support is absolutely essential to the quality of education at Eastern," Rives said.

"Our campaign goal was $5 million in five years," Roberts said. "We have reached 78 percent in about 32 months," he said, adding the campaign started in early 1985.

"Eastern is on the move, and our objective is quite simple: to make this the best medium-size public university in the nation," Rives said. "The foundation is critical to that goal."

Rives also had some good news and bad news.

"The bad news is we started this year with less operating budget than we had last year," he said. This year's budget is barely more than $39 million, 0.77 percent less than last year's.

Rives said the difference is not negligible. "Considering inflation, that is a considerable cost for Eastern."

He also said it is the smallest percentage decrease of all Illinois universities. He attributed that to

Eastern's "cost efficiency."

He reiterated the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body, is considering a midyear tuition increase.

"Unless additional revenue is found, there will be no salary increase for faculty and staff," he said. "That will have a significant long-range impact."

Speaking of the good news, he reported fall enrollment is expected to break the Eastern enrollment record, which is 10,028. "When we announce our official enrollment on the 10th day (of the semester)," he said. "It will significantly exceed that."

He also reported a 5 percent increase in summer school enrollment, and added this is the second consecutive year enrollment has increased.

BOG representative may favor hike

Further appropriations to Eastern will affect Riordan's decision

By STUART TART
Staff writer

Eastern's Board of Governors Representative Mike Riordan said Thursday he will support a proposed tuition hike, if the BOG schools do not receive further appropriations from the state legislature.

"Of course we'll keep it to a bare minimum," he said, "but the quality of education right now and down the road is at stake."

The BOG has recommended a mid-year tuition hike to its universities after Gov. James Thompson cut $3.5 million from the BOG budget for 1988.

Because of the budget cut, Eastern

President Stanley Rives has announced that a mid-year tuition hike may be necessary at Eastern.

Riordan expressed concern that Eastern will lose good instructors if the recent salary freeze caused by the budget cuts stays in effect.

In an agreement with the faculty union, University Professionals of Illinois, Rives froze faculty salaries at 1986-87 levels.

Riordan said Eastern instructors and other BOG instructors are already paid salaries "well below average compared to other universities." With recent salary freezes, Riordan fears good instructors will leave Eastern for better paying jobs.

"These instructors will look for other opportunities. They won't stay here," he said.

Eastern students have already faced two tuition hikes in two years. Tuition was raised six percent in 1985 and another four percent in 1986. Students also voted last fall to approve a $4.75 increase in their student activity fee.

"Realizing we've had a couple of (tuition) increases, we still must realize Eastern has one of the lowest tuitions in the state," Riordan said.

The BOG will meet on Sept. 14 in Oak Brook, Illinois.

Shuttle rockets pass test after three aborted efforts

Educators give away rewards

Across Illinois, students are learning they can profit from good grades and behavior in school, winning prizes like free pizzas, $100 savings bonds, thousands of dollars for college or even a new car.

It's the era of incentives in public schools nationwide as businesses and philanthropists, trying to do their part for education reform, offer students financial and material rewards in exchange for improved grades, perfect attendance or good behavior.

"I'm a firm believer in a little bit of bribery—I call it incentive," says Judy Steinhagen, principal of Du Sable High School where one program offers seniors a chance to win prizes ranging from clock radios to a new car.

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP)—A redesigned space shuttle booster rocket roared in its first full-scale test-firing Sunday, a crucial step before the planned renewal of shuttle missions next June.

The 126-foot-long solid fuel rocket blasted orange flame 500 feet and a thick cloud of smoke boiled 1,500 feet into the sky above Morton Thiokol Inc.'s desert test site 25 miles west of here.

The rocket used up to 1 million pounds of propellant during the two-minute test, consuming it at a 9,000-pound-per-second pace, said company spokesman Rocky Raab.

"It obviously ran the right amount of time. The plume ran normal, it appears to be a normal, successful test," said Carver Kennedy, Morton Thiokol's vice president for space programs.

The test of the solid fuel booster originally scheduled Thursday, but was aborted three times by test equipment failures.

John Taylor, spokesman for the Marshall Space Center Huntsville, Ala., told reporters Sunday that the first abort, caused by the failure of a water valve for a cooling system, led to two subsequent delays involving computer problems that occurred when engineers tried to reset the countdown.

Aquino berates coup attempt

MANILA, Philippines—President Corazon Aquino said Sunday that mutinous troops tried not only to topple her government but aimed to kill her and her family.

Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile said he was not involved in Friday's coup attempt by up to 1,200 rebel troops led by his former aide. The daylong battle left at least 25 people dead and 275 wounded.

Enrile, fired as defense minister last November after a failed coup attempt, said he refused a request by a U.S. diplomat to use his influence with mutiny leaders to halt attacks.

Loyal troops searched northern provinces Sunday for remnants of the rebel force, including Col. Gregorio "Gringo" Honasan and five other ringleaders.

Sniper kills 6 in shooting spree

BOSTON (AP)—A man opened fire with an automatic weapon in a Boston neighborhood Sunday, killing five people and critically injuring two others before taking his own life, authorities said.

The man shot four people outside a home in the city's Dorchester section before running into the dwelling, witnesses and police said. He shot three people inside the house before committing suicide after the two-hour standoff with police, said Deputy Police Superintendent Robert O'Toole.

A Vietnamese interpreter called to the scene by police said the gunman was a Vietnamese refugee involved in a dispute with family members over money, but police said they had no information about a possible motive.

"Bullets were flying around heads," said paramedic Nichols, who responded to the emergency call.

The driver of a tow truck parked on the street, jumped out of the vehicle, picked up a 3-year-old girl who was shot and carried through gunfire to hand her over to rescuers, Ms. Nichols said.

Coin meters installed in Old Main parking lot

By RUSSELL STARE
Staff writer

Short-term parking in front of Old Main will begin costing drivers some money this week with the installation of parking meters.

According to Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance, 26 parking meters were installed in the parking lot directly in front of Old Main.

Armstrong said that the estimated cost of the project was $6,000. She added that the meters were installed by Physical Plant personnel at a cost of only $4,500.

For 25 cents, an automobile can be parked for 30 minutes. At this rate, Armstrong added, it will be some years before revenue generated from the meters pays back the initial cost of the parking meters.

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said that should a meter expire while the space is occupied, a $10 fine will be levied. This fine will be reduced to $5 if it is paid within the first 48 hours.

Patrolling of the metered spaces will be done by officers and student workers in the same manner parking lots are now patrolled, Larson said.

Armstrong said fines from expired parking meters can be paid at the same place as other tickets received on campus.

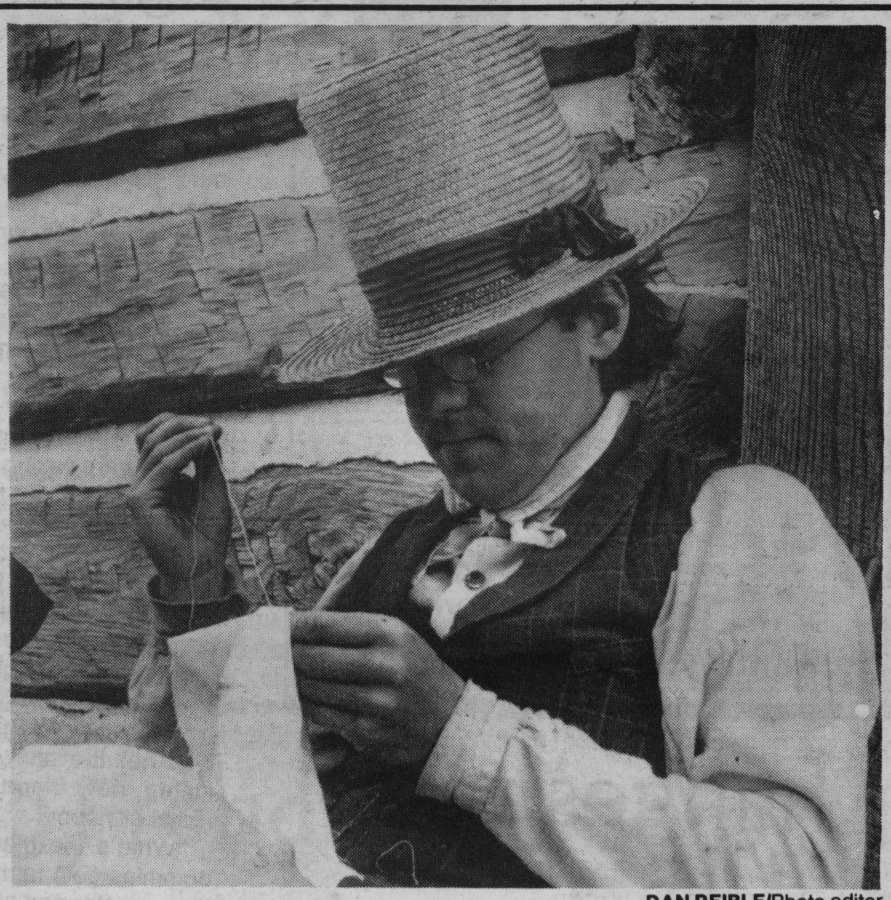

The meters have the capability of being adjusted to allow up to two hours of parking, Armstrong said.

"This is a new experience for us. We hope it will be helpful," Armstrong said, adding that a decision had not been made concerning the length of time that the meters will allow. Different time periods will be tested to find the most effective time for people using the meters, Armstrong said.

Armstrong said that the meters are intended for people who must visit Old Main whether they have a parking sticker and students who want to park closer to Old Main while conducting short-term business.

"It is our intent to look at other spots on campus to have spots that are metered," Armstrong said. She said that spots looked at would be high traffic locations like Health Service to allow greater access for those not having a parking sticker.

Stacy to serve five years probation and is fined $22,500

By CHRYSAL PHILPOTT
City editor

Eastern student Timothy James Stacy of Schaumburg was ordered to pay $22,500 in restitution and fines Friday morning for hitting four people with his car during spring break in Texas.

Stacy, who pleaded guilty July 8 to felony charges of failure to stop and render aid, was sentenced by Judge Jane Brasch of the 103rd District Court in Cameron County, Texas, to serve five years probation and ordered to pay $20,000 in restitution to three of the four victims and $2,500 in fines. Stacy will serve his probation in Illinois.

The restitution will be paid to Donald Deluzio and Curtis Koch, both football players for the University of Colorado; and Pamela Konigsberg of New York City.

Deluzio and Koch both suffered broken legs in the incident, and Deluzio suffered a broken jaw. Konigsberg was treated and released from an area hospital at the time of the incident.

The fourth victim, Frauke Diedrichson of Wilmette, who was also treated and released from an area hospital, will not be receiving restitution, according to Stella Cabazons, court administrator for the 103rd District Court.

However, Diedrichson said in the pre-sentencing report, she plans to file a civil suit against Stacy, said Joe Esquibel, assistant district attorney for the Cameron County District Attorney's office.

According to the Cameron County District Clerk's office and the Cook County Civil Division in Diedrichson's home county, no suit has been filed yet by Diedrichson in either county.

During the spring break incident, Stacy was driving down Padre Boulevard on South Padre Island in Texas at about 2:30 a.m. March 26 when he swerved from the road and struck four pedestrians who were walking on the shoulder of the road.

He was originally charged on four counts of attempted murder, but charges were later reduced to failure to stop and render aid.

Keeping busy prevents Camren from becoming bored

By DONELLE PARDEE
Government editor

One way to get involved is to read the newspaper. At least that is how Student Body President Deb Camren became interested in student government.

Camren said she first got involved with student government her freshman year after reading about the elections in The Daily Eastern News.

"I didn't have any idea what student government was about," she said. "I just wanted to get involved."

Camren's reason for going beyond being a student senator to student body president involved setting goals for herself. All she knew at first was now that she was involved she wanted to go on to be an executive officer.

"If I see something I want, I work very hard to get it," Camren said.

Around the 1986 fall elections people were asking who will be running for executive positions, Camren noted. At first she thought about running for Student Senate speaker, but after not running, she decided to run for president in the spring.

Student Body President Deb Camren

Although she defeated her two male opponents, Dan Beeman and Roger Thomson, in the April 15 elections, Camren doesn't think her sex had anything to do with her victory.

"I know I'm qualified, and I have the most seniority in student government," she said, noting she has heard a little talk around the office, but nothing major.

She added she didn't think there is any difference between herself and a male president. Where the job is concerned, Camren thinks she is just as qualified.

Now that Camren has achieved her goal to be president, she set new goals to accomplish during her term. She plans to focus on filling the student government boards.

In addition, Camren would like to get more involved with the local and state governments. She said this way, "we can keep in touch with the state better and take a stand on policies."

However, before student government takes a stand on anything, Camren wants to re-examine existing beliefs on current state policies.

Before she ran for president, Camren was the Lawson Hall president and a member of Residence Hall Association.

"If I'm not busy, I'm bored," Camren said adding that keeping occupied keeps her from procrastinating.

The junior Mount Zion native spends her summers working in the secretary of state's office in Springfield. She said she likes working in Springfield and thinks it helps her learn more about politics.

After graduation, she would like to do public relations work or maybe go to law school.

Enthusiastic members sought by student government

By DONELLE PARDEE
Government editor

Students interested in getting involved in some aspect of student government can do so by applying to be on a student/faculty board or council.

Executive Vice President Trish Nusbaum said there are about 20 student positions available for the boards.

Although Nusbaum is not an official member of these boards, it is her responsibility to fill the student positions. She said the positions are usually filled by the first Friday in October.

Nusbaum said she would like to get people involved. The boards and the majors each board compliments were listed on a welcome back letter students received.

Interested students need to get an application from the student government office in the University Union.

When all the applications are in, they will be reviewed by Legislative Leadership, a committee which consists of student government executive officers and the chairmen from all of the boards.

Applicants then go through an interview session with members of the committee. The recommended students must be approved by Student Senate before they are appointed, Nusbaum said.

During the interviews, the committee will look for energetic students who are enthused about the board. "We are also looking at their reasons for being on a board," she said, adding, "It is not a hard interview by any means."

The boards are: Apportionment Board, Student Publications Board, Sports and Recreation Board, Performing and Visual Arts Board, Judicial Board, Student Supreme Court, Union Board, Housing

Board, Intercollegiate Athletic Board, Health Services Board, Student Legal Services Board and Library Services Board.

The councils are: Council on Academic Affairs, Council on Graduate Studies, Council on Teacher Education and Council on University Planning and Budgeting.

Changes add convenience to add/drops

This year's new add/drop system turned out to be successful for students and faculty alike, but the ordeal still poses some problems.

Allowing students to add and drop at the same place and time, means that many students are able to pick up much-needed classes the moment they are dropped by others.

Editorial

In previous years, students had to wait several days before finding out if they could add a desired course while all the drop forms were being collected from a deposit box at McAfee Gym.

Even then, simply adding a course could bring on a splitting headache.

The improved method is especially beneficial for seniors who are often caught between a rock and a hard place when they couldn't pick up a graduation requirement.

The new system saves students from having to trek to a second building to handle early semester scheduling problems. Formerly, adds were handled in the Union, while drops were handled at McAfee Gym.

Although the improvement is certainly praiseworthy, it still has a few hitches, which could be worked out by next semester.

One noticeable problem was the disappearance of the class availability board. Granted, because class numbers changed constantly throughout the day, it would be difficult to post such a board. However, without it, students often waited in sometimes lengthy lines only to be told the desired class was closed.

Holding add/drops during the first day of classes is still an absurd practice, which needs to be changed.

Add/drops should be held before classes start so they won't interfere with class attendance.

Having add/drops on the first day of classes is counterproductive to the main reason students come here. Many students are penalized by instructors for missing class—even the first day.

Those who are not officially penalized often suffer in the long run, because instructors frequently begin lecturing on the first day.

We've come along way with the improvements made this year, but let's not stop there. Add/drops can still be a more efficient and perhaps less frustrating experience.

Sign here, unless you're a commie

"Excuse me son," I heard the cigar-scratched voice say. "Would you like to sign this here petition in favor of the greatest man this country has ever seen?"

As I peered to my left I noticed a large—and somewhat overweight—man standing over me with an "Ollie for Pres" logo streaming across his chest. His dress and manner had already answered my next question but what the hell, maybe my instincts were wrong.

"And who might that be?" I said, trying my damndest not to bite my tongue off.

"Why, that would be Lt. Col. Oliver North," he said, knocking over the Budweiser on the bar in front of him as he jumped to military-like attention. "The next president of this here great democracy we all live in, that is, if-in I can git enough signatures on this here petition."

"No, thank you," I said as politely as possible while uncontrollably beginning to snicker. Unfortunately, this was not the answer my large, and somewhat intoxicated, new friend had been anticipating, and he was not at all happy.

"What's the matter boy? You one a them goddam commies goin ta the university?" he asked, with a less than unoffended sneer.

In the three years I've been here, I've always heard these "townie bars" were dangerous for Eastern students, but now it all seemed too real. That's all right Simpson, I thought to myself, keep your cool and everything will be all right.

"No sir," I answered with respect, "I'm not a communist, but I do go to Eastern."

"If-in ya ain't a commie than how the hell come ya won't sign my petition?" he asked.

My mind began to scramble and my heart pounded faster. Do I tell the truth and stand for what I believe or do I lie to avoid feeling the quick and swift justice of those Dingo boots?

What the hell, I thought, this is America and it seems like a real American. He should be more willing to hear my view. After all, he loves democracy and the best part about a great democracy is that it is able to say and stand up for what you believe in. Oh, but those boots are so big . . . what the hell.

"Sir," I said in a squeaky voice, "I can't sign this petition because I think Oliver North would be the president this country has ever seen."

"He may have been a war hero, but I can't vote for anyone who lied to the Congress and the American people, undermined democracy in every way, and formed and did his damndest to go directly against the law for something he wanted and the people—the rulers of a democracy—had unequivocally already ruled down," I said.

Oops, I was starting to get carried away and almost forgotten about those boots.

"What's so bad about all those things boy? At least you didn't ya vote for the second greatest man in the world, Ronald Reagan?"

"No!" I said, realizing I had done it again, not wanting to tempt to get my size 9 shoe into my mouth. My heart was racing again with more fear striking my body in recent memory. Suddenly three men joined in, one a "patriotic" friend, and the only thing I could think of saying as I saw those six Dingo boots rapidly approaching was . . .

"Ollie in '88!" What the hell, in the end I'll be under. And as I felt their hands release me and those Dingo's hit my butt, I knew I did the right thing. —Cam Simpson is an Eastern junior journalism and political science major.

Your turn

Bork's ethical code is beyond reproach

Editor: What does a man under authority do if he is given an order that would not be against the law to follow? He follows it! In this case ethics demands obedience. Even if Mr. (Robert) Bork had thought President Nixon to be breaking the law, Mr. Bork's duty was not then to pass judgment. Ethically speaking then, when Mr. Bork relieves Mr. (Archibald) Cox, Mr. Bork is correct and still above reproach. What's the real crux? Simply that the immoral see their den of iniquity being threatened by the appointment of a constitutionally moral man. Mr. Bork knows what morality is. The majority of his recent predecessors did not. Mr. Bork is the ideal appointment.

United Way expects to raise "$88,000 in '88"

By GRETCHEN IVES
Staff writer

The United Way of Eastern Coles County has announced an $88,000 fundraising goal for 1988.

Glenn Williams, Eastern's vice president for student affairs, will be the guest speaker at the United Way campaign kick-off dinner at 6 p.m. on Aug. 31 at E.L. Krackers, 1405 Fourth St.

"I will be trying to encourage others to take an active role in the United Way," Williams said. "I will be giving a little bit of the history of the United Way, which is the history of people helping people."

Williams, who has been active in the United Way for several years, spoke for United Way's kick-off dinner five years ago.

United Way's goal last year was $77,000. "This year's goal was raised 10 percent higher than last year's instead of the normal 6 percent because it follows the slogan '$88,000 in '88,'" said Rick Thielemann, the campaign chairperson.

Thielemann said he feels the $88,000 can be raised and more. "For the amount of people in Charleston the goal should be higher."

"Eastern is one of our largest contributors. It is one of the largest and well-organized businesses in the area, and a lot of people contribute through the payroll at Eastern," Thielemann said.

"To raise funds we break the city into divisions such as accountants, attorneys, the university and so forth. Then each division has an "out-reach helper" or a division leader and a captain who teach other people how to market and sell United Way in that division," Thielemann said.

"Most people contribute by the using the 'payroll deduction' which is a business that allows a person to deduct any amount they wish directly from their check over a period of time," he added.

Carol Strode, physical plant supervisor, is the division director for Eastern. Eastern student Rita Nielson, of Charleston, will be working with the independent students during the campaign and Eastern student Aimee Sutton will be working with the greek community in raising funds.

"Campus fund-raising is still in the planning stage. Hopefully, by the end of September there will be some activities," said Calvin Smith, the assistant division director and an Eastern speech communications instructor.

"This year we are going to try and get the students at Eastern more involved," Thielemann said. "We have had Eastern as a division of our campaign for a long time, but we have never really tried to get students to get actively involved in fund-raising."

The United Way supports 23 area service agencies such as Big Brother/Big Sisters program, Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts, Coles County Council on Aging, Inc., Central East Alcohol and Drug Council (Hour House) and Coles County Women Against Rape.

For those interested in attending the kick-off dinner, the tickets are $8 per person and may be purchased from Rick Thielemann or board members, Jim Watkins, George Dycus, Jack Logue, Virginia Davis, Paul H. Smith, John Dively Jr., Fred Preston or picked up at E.L. Krackers several days prior to Aug. 31. Checks should be made out to Eastern Coles County United Way and sent to Rick Thielemann, 2619 Village Road in Charleston.

Chair plans to resign, bring French play here

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

Eastern's foreign languages chair is leaving in December, but hopes first to bring a French play here, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 28.

Brigitte Callay, a native of Belgium, has a contract with the Paris-based theater Compagnie (Company) Claude Beauclair. A problem is funding, Callay said. "With the budget cuts, I don't know if that's possible."

Although interest isn't lacking, Callay said a place large enough to hold the event has to be secured. "There is quite a lot of interest from the high schools," she said. "The only problem is we have only 300 or more seats available in the Doudna (Fine Arts Center) theater."

The Union Grand Ballroom has more seats than Doudna—more than 400—but is acoustically inferior, she said.

Callay is leaving Eastern at

Brigitte Callay

the end of the fall semester to chair at Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania.

"I came (to Eastern) for an interview and was impressed by the potential of the university and the potential of the department," she said. "I was looking for a challenge."

Callay said Bloomsburg has, in general, better benefits for employees. It also puts her geographically closer to her family, she said.

It's not so much that I'm leaving Eastern, it's more that I'm going to Bloomsburg," Callay said. Callay noted that she's had a "standing interest" in Bloomsburg since 1963, the year she came to America.

An aspect of Bloomsburg Callay said she prefers to Easter is that the chair is more of a teacher than an administrator.

Being an "administrator" at Eastern consumes much time "so you feel much more bound to your office desk. You don't have time to go do your research," she said.

At Bloomsburg Callay said she will get "roughly the same salary," but five more vacation weeks.

Callay said there will be some aspects of Eastern that she will miss. "It's close to a very good library in Champaign, which is excellent for doing research."

She noted that one weakness of the foreign languages department is it doesn't have enough equipment, such as computers and typewriters.

While at Eastern, Callay taught French and started a tutoring service for academically deprived students.

She has been working in higher education since 1968 after she received a master's degree from the University of Delaware. Callay returned to Belgium and received her Ph.D in medieval studies from the University of Louvaine.

Callay came to Eastern a year ago after spending five years at Clarion University in Pennsylvania, where she also served as foreign languages chair.

"When I came, I was planning to stay a few years," Callay said. "Since the opportunity opened in Bloomsburg, I decided to apply for it."

RHA encourages all interested students to participate

By DONELLE PARDEE
Government editor

Eastern has many different organizations for students to get involved in including the Residence Hall Association, which works within the residence halls on a campus level.

RHA President Bob Gruszka said RHA is comprised of students who were usually involved in an individual hall council. However, students also get involved by other means, he added.

For example, Rookie Runners will become involved in the RHA after their responsibilities as Rookie Runners are over.

Rookie Runners help Eastern students move into residence halls and often times will show the students the campus.

Gruszka added that hall council representatives, who are required to attend RHA meetings, will sometimes bring guests to the meetings. Some of the guests eventually become interested in the RHA and some will attend meetings on their own, he added.

Some members hear about RHA from a hall council meeting they may have attended. "Last year we had about 50-60 members," Gruszka said.

Being a member of RHA also involves programming events for students living in the residence halls, but it is done on a campus level and does not focus on any individual hall.

Some of the RHA programs include a haunted house, talent shows, the Rookie Runner program, "Almost Anything Goes" and several retreats.

RHA has scheduled its meetings for 5 p.m. every Thursday in a different residence hall each week, Gruszka said.

Seminars focus on problems minorities face in college

By AMBER GRIMES
Staff writer

Out of every 10 black students entering Eastern during the fall semester, only five will return for their sophomore year, said Johnetta Jones, director of Afro-American studies.

Minority students have many reasons for not returning, Jones said, adding some include financial reasons, academic reasons, or having a confused set of priorities.

For the next two weeks, in an effort to combat high dropout rates among minority students at Eastern, Afro-American Studies will be sponsoring a number of workshops to assist not only minority students, but anyone interested.

The series of five workshops is geared toward all students in general, Jones said. They will be an hour in length to keep the students' attention span and to not throw too much at the students at one time, she added.

In the first of a set of five workshops, the question "Why Am I Going to College?" will be addressed.

John Coffey, an adviser at the Academic Assistance Center, will attempt to answer that question at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union addition Neoga Room.

Jones said because many students who attend college are unsure of why they are there, the workshop is designed to provide guidance.

"How to Finance a College Education" will be the topic of the workshop to be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Neoga Room.

Questions about where to get the best jobs on and off campus and also information about ROTC will be discussed.

Elmer Pullen, of the financial aids office, and Capt. A. Evans, an ROTC representative, will supply students with information on the availability of funds for a college education.

Financing college is more critical these days because financial aid is disappearing, loans are harder to get, and work/study employment is decreasing at Eastern, Jones said.

Because adjustment to life on a college campus can be difficult for some, social problems will be addressed in another workshop.

A "Social Life on Campus" workshop at 7 p.m. Sept. 8 in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon Room will see students paired up with faculty members.

Topics will include the social opportunities sororities and fraternities provide, life in general, what to do in Charleston and how to cope with men/women problems.

Groups will be separated according to the sex of the members. Jones said the groups will be segregated so participants will feel more comfortable and talk more freely.

Kathy Davies, an adviser at the Academic Assistance Center, will be the women's speaker. James Johnson, art instructor, and William Smith, recreation and leisure studies instructor, are slated to be the men's speakers.

Junior and senior peer helpers will be on hand for the fourth workshop at 7 p.m. Sept. 10 in the Union addition Neoga Room.

"Surviving on Eastern's Campus" will be the topic covered by peer helpers who will be discussing problems students may encounter with other students.

The upperclassmen will relate a variety of experiences they have had while attending Eastern.

The final workshop, "Strategies for Academic Survival" will be held at 7 p.m. in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon Room.

Subjects covered will be tips for making it through college, classroom protocol, things to do and not to do, how to get along with teachers, listening where to go for help and learning the rules of the game.

Davies will also speak about how to perform academically while at Eastern have been approved."

"We have appropriation of funds from the legislature for planning of the new facility," said Theron Aslaksen, director of programming and technical services for the ICDB. "The construction money will be appropriated at another time."

The annexation ranked 19th on the FY88 IBHE priority list, but only the first 17 were funded, said Russ Hodel, deputy director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Logically, the project should move up to No. 2, but, "Frequently, we get emergencies," Hodel said.

The IBHE oversees 12 universities and 50 community colleges, which leaves many buildings that could suddenly need repairs before early next year, when IBHE makes the next priority list.

"Say a tornado blew the top off a building. It could jump to the top of the list," Hodel said.

"We have been given planning funds for this past year," Armstrong said. "We have gotten far along on the architectural drawings of the building."

Ted Ivarie, dean of the Lumpkin College of Business, said the state legislature allocated about $230,000 for planning funds in 1985.

"We have been in the process of planning since that time," he said.

Armstrong said the preparation for construction will be finished by April 1988, but the university cannot accept bids before the funds are appropriated by the state.

She said the earliest the project could begin is July 1988.

Ivarie had a meeting with the Champaign-based architectural firm Rettburg and Gruber Wednesday.

He said Wednesday's meeting was "a matter of refining the configurations of the microcomputer laboratories," adding it was a "comprehensive review of the entire project and a beginning analysis of how the building will be finished and furnished."

He said appropriation of funds next spring could mean the college could move into the facility in 1990.

"If the money is appropriated by spring of 1988, we would request bids in July of 1988 and it will take 20 months for the construction process to be completed," Ivarie said. "We should be able to occupy the building in March 1990."

Ivarie said he has been meeting regularly with the architectural firm and said, "We will have completed in the next few months the planning documents so that once the money is appropriated by the legislature, requests for bids can be issued."

Ivarie said the annexation's estimated cost is $6.2 million. It will add to Coleman Hall 4,600 useable square feet.

The new building will "provide a home for the college of business, bring all the faculty together and provide specialized facilities that will accommodate our unique instructional needs," Ivarie said.

The building will have microcomputer laboratories, case study rooms, auditoriums and student lounges and student areas.

The extra facilities "will give us a lot more space and free up a lot of facilities we currently occupy," Ivarie said.

"That, in turn, will allow the university to meet the space needs for other types of programs," he said.

The Lumpkin College of Business was named after an entrepreneur, R. A. Lumpkin who donated $1 million. The Board of Governors accepted the donation in February.

"I think we are very fortunate to have a very successful businessman like Mr. Lumpkin who sees the benefit of reinvestment in the community that has supported the success of his endeavors," Ivarie said.

relive some fond memories. "Nothing seems to change much," said Frank Uremovich from Chicago. "It's like the old memories, except things seem bigger."

Aside from the memories the four seasons in which he wore a Panther uniform, Uremovich was drawn back by the memory of good friend and teammate, Jim Miklovik.

"He was like a brother to me," Uremovich recalled. "He was a real friend. This is my first year back after 15 away."

For the varsity players, who disposed of the alumni 14-0, the alumni classic afforded them the opportunity to play against some of the greatest names in Eastern soccer history. They also got to see if head coach Cizo Mosnia and assistant coach Guy Callipari practiced what they preach in practice.

"This is fun," said freshman LeBaron Holliman, who scored the game's second goal. "Sometimes coach (Mosnia) will say, 'When I was a player, I did this,' so it's interesting to see his style of play."

However, Roger Gusloff, who played from 1983-87, was glad to be playing with Mosnia instead of against him in practice.

"When I lose the ball out of bounds, I can walk back instead of run back," Gusloff said. "I won't get benched, either. It's just interesting playing with guys you've heard about for years."

"You see these players now, and you can only imagine they were like when they played for Eastern," He added. "I really wish Adade could play. I've seen him play with the (Major Soccer League's St. Steamers."

Adade, who played for Eastern Panthers from 1981-85, playing abilities total the imagination of players and fans. Because of his professional contract with the Major Soccer League, he can only offer support from the bench.

"I wish I could be out there," Adade said. "I love to be here at Eastern."

Present day Panther booters beat alumni 14-0

ROBB MONTGOMERY / Staff photographer

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

There's an old saying that records were made to be broken.

If Sunday's Miklovic Alumni soccer game is any indication, that saying is going to hold true for Eastern's soccer team this year.

The Panthers set match records for most goals in a game and largest margin of victory as they defeated the alumni 14-0 at Lakeside Field.

Admittedly, the alumni team played the entire game with only 11 players, while the varsity had a full compliment of 24 players.

Still, the outburst of goals was pleasing to see, said Eastern head coach Cizo Mosnia.

"Something like this is going to help the team's morale. We hadn't scored very many goals in our previous games (a 4-0 loss to Southern Methodist and a scoreless tie against Southern Illinois-Edwardsville). The players were able to take out their frustrations today," Mosnia said.

A game like this gives everyone a chance to play, as well. "We've used our preseason games to experiment a little bit, as well as see how our players do in game situations.

"Today, we didn't play as well as I would had hoped in the first half, but we got better as the game went on. I do hope we won't be slow starters this season," Mosnia added.

It will be a young team this season, as only two seniors—goalkeeper Mark Simpson and defender John Glendinning head up the squad.

But despite having a young team, Mosnia is pleased with the level of skills displayed by his troops.

"It's a bunch of different kids we've got here this year," said the fourth-year Panther coach. "We are a little green as far as experience goes, but the skill level is pretty high. All they need is a little experience at this level. Once they get a few games under their belt, they'll be all right."

The highlights of the match were multi-goal games from Canadian sophomores Dave Kompore (three goals) and Garry Laidlaw (four goals) and freshman Mario Mihalic (three goals).

Also scoring for the Panthers were Rob Hartman (two goals), LeBaron Hollimon and Kevin Rogan. Hollimon also added two assists.

"We kept up our level of intensity after it got out of hand," said Mosnia. "That was really pleasing to see."

The booters open their regular season this week hosting the DePaul Blue Demons Wednesday and Xavier University's Musketeers Saturday.

Alumni sweat way to 14-0 loss

By JOHN PLETZ
Staff writer

The waistlines were bigger and the legs were more sluggish than in years past, but the talent was still there at Lakeside Field Sunday afternoon.

For the former Eastern soccer players that came back to Charleston for the 14th annual Jim Miklovic Alumni Game, the love for a different kind of football was still in the air.

"The feet don't want to go where the minds want them to, but the moves are still there," said Renny Jrshelis, the oldest alumnus at the game, and a physical education teacher at Charleston High School. Jrshelis, a veteran of all 14 alumni games, played from 1964-68.

Richardson inks deal

LAKE FOREST (AP)—Cornerback Mike Richardson, who led the Chicago Bears with seven interceptions last season, ended his salary dispute by signing a one-year contract, the National Football League team announced Sunday.

Terms of the agreement, signed Saturday night, were not disclosed. Richardson had been seeking to become the highest paid defensive back on the team, with a salary of more than $400,000. When his salary demands were rejected, he asked to be traded, but Bears officials said last week they had received no calls from other teams asking about him.

Last weekend, the Bears began discussing a one-year contract to get Richardson back. "We've given up hope on a long-term deal," Ted Phillips, the club's director of finance, said then.

Richardson began practicing with the Bears on Sunday.

Panthers shuffle Carroll to wide receiver spot

No. 2 quarterback Simon moves into starting role for season opener

By BARRY BOTTINO
Sports editor

In an effort to add to a young and inexperienced wide receiving corps, Eastern's No. 1 quarterback going into spring practice, fifth year senior Pat Carroll, has moved to a wide receiver position.

"I just wanted to do what's best for the team," Carroll said. "I didn't mind (making the switch) at all. I played out there during all of spring ball."

Carroll worked out twice-a-day during spring practice sessions, going through the first practice as a quarterback and the second as a receiver.

"I played there all of spring ball and during Wednesday's scrimmage," said Carroll, who learned the receiving routes during his tutelage at quarterback.

Junior Kurt Simon, who sat out last season after transferring from the University of Hawaii, will take over the reigns of the Panther offense Saturday when Eastern takes on San Jose State in San Jose, Calif.

"We've got confidence in him (Simon) and he has done some good things," Eastern head coach Bob Spoo said.

"He has made a lot of progress and has probably shown the most improvement of all three quarterbacks," said Spoo after late summer practice sessions.

But Spoo also chose to praise Carroll for volunteering to switch over to a wideout, where the Panthers have been deluged with injuries and absentees.

"What Pat did was exemplary. That is exactly what we are looking for—guys who are going to give of themselves. I've got a great deal of respect for him.

"He's a model that we've looked at for all our players to follow. His unselfishness really stresses the 'team' idea."

Yet Spoo downplayed the fact that the switch was made less than a week before the season opener.

"Whoever we would have wanted would have gone in relatively turkey," Spoo said. "The ball is (Simon's) court."

Carroll completed only 12 passes last season in five games, while Simon, a redshirt freshman Eric Arnold had to take a snap in a Panther uniform.

"The only big difference (between Kurt and I) is the fact that I'm older and the fact that I was more of a leader only because I've been with the same teammates for the last two years," said Carroll, who praised Simon's strengths as his accuracy and his ability to read defenses.

Arnold will now become the starting quarterback while continuing his role as long snapper for field goal attempts.

"Eric is going to be good if he puts his mind to it. He is the kind of quarterback that coach Spoo and coach Wright were used to at Purdue. He's a big non-scrambler and he is a smart player," Carroll said.

Arnold is the tallest Panther quarterback at 6 feet 5 inches tall, while Simon comes in at 5 feet 11 inches tall.

The Panthers have definitely had problems in the receiving ranks last year's starting tight end, Derick Wilhelms, absent from practice last season, and freshman Marcus O'Neal questioned for Saturday's opener with an injury to his toe, senior Mike Milosovic out with a knee injury and freshman Ralph Stewart as a victim of Proposition 48.

As for newcomers, junior transfer Alfredo Kamadoi (from Utah Community College) and freshman Mark Sheedy are expected to push for starting jobs along with sophomore returnee Greg Heggs, who did not catch any passes last season.

Junior Mike Macek is expected to start at tight end against San Jose State with sophomore Pat Munn seeing action.

ROBB MONTGOMERY / Staff photographer

Fifth year senior Pat Carroll tosses a pass during a recent Panther practice session behind O'Brien Stadium. Carroll will move to wide receiver for Saturday's season opener against San Jose State in San Jose, Calif., while junior Kurt Simon will become the No. 1 quarterback.

Freshman Mizener tops Panther harriers for fourth place finish

By JAMES BETZOLD
Staff writer

The Eastern women's cross country team posted runners in fourth and seventh places in the Early Runner Invitational against Purdue on Saturday at Lantz Course.

However, head coach John Craft was noncommittal in his assessment of the three-mile non-scoring meet.

"I'm neutral on our performance," Craft said. "We are going to use these times only to set up our conditioning program."

Freshman Laurie Mizener was the top runner for the Lady Panthers finishing fourth overall with a time of 19:19.

"This was my first three-mile race, so I'm not really sure about my time," Mizener said. "I used to run 11- and 12-minute times in two-mile high school races, but I had to pace myself a little more today."

When Mizener neared the one-mile mark, she gained on the three Purdue runners at the head of the pack. About 1 1/4 miles into the race, however, one of her shoes became untied and it hindered her throughout the rest of the race.

"I felt it (my shoe) start to get loose just when I was beginning to make some progress. It kept getting looser and looser and I didn't know if I should try to kick it off or not. It really hurt my concentration."

Eastern freshman Debbie Leslie finished seventh overall with a time of 20:17.

"I ran a 19:52 in the Prairie State games this summer. I was hoping to get under 20 minutes, but I guess I'll have to wait until next time."

Other Eastern finishers included: Lisa Jostes, 20:37 (ninth place); Cindy McDonald, 21:25 (11th place); Lori Albro, 23:29 (14th place); and Christine Slabich, 24:55 (15th place).

Slabich's low finish was attributed to a knee injury suffered during the race. "She said that she heard something pop. We don't know the status of her injury yet," Craft said.

Overall winner of the race was Purdue's Amy Koontz with a time of 18:44.

Senior transfer Marcia Rivard missed the race. "She's not convalescing (from recent nose surgery) the way we expected," Craft said.

"Right now we are waiting for a release from her doctor so she can begin practicing. Her first meet should be on the 11th (Bradley Open at Peoria)."

The next meet for the team will be the Saturday Murray State Triangular in Murray, Ky.

Panther harriers fall to alumni in season home opener, 29-30

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

On a day when present met past, the past taught the present a lesson for the future.

In the Alumni Open, the Cross Country Alumni defeated the present day harriers, 29-30.

Among the alumni on hand to run were: John McInerney, '79; Nick Whiteside, '84; Don Fredericks, '82; Tim Warneke, '83; Grady Smith, '83; Mark Kasper, '83; and Bob Peine, '84.

The top finisher was Nick Whiteside, followed by Warneke, McInerney, senior Panther Scott Colver, junior Shannon Hough, junior Brian Gordon, Tom Buchanan and senior Wells.

"The alumni people that beat us are outstanding distance runners; they were in college and still are in college and still are on the road races," said Eastern cross country coach Akers.

"John McInerney is sponsored by Etonic shoes. Tim Warneke is sponsored by Converse shoes and is trying to qualify for the '88 Olympic trials. And Whiteside is in the service and runs on the West coast, so they are definitely high quality runners," Akers added.

As for the meet, Akers was not disappointed. "I think we did better than last year (they won)."
