BOG then answers to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

A similar arrangement exists for the BOR in governing Illinois State, Sangamon State, and Northern Illinois.

Many have called the system excessive. Under many other states' systems, Eastern and the other four BOG universities would report directly to the state's board of higher education.

Groves criticized the fact that university presidents were the inquiry's primary source of information.

"This suggests that nobody else has a valid perspective," he said in his letter. "Even they (the presidents) have such a diversity of viewpoints that no valid consensus emerges."

Groves further cuts down what he calls "pure conjecture" throughout the report. In its analytical section, the inquiry claims that the two boards do not keep records that allow cost comparison and that the presence of professional Board staff causes friction between the Boards and their universities. There is no evidence presented in the report to support these assertions, Groves said.

The inquiry states in its opening paragraphs that it failed to come to any definitive conclusion. Groves agreed saying the report offers little useful data.

"We've had lots of studies of the 'system of systems' in the past, but this is the least impressive of the lot," Groves said Wednesday. "I don't think this threatens our existence. The legislation introduced last spring to abolish (the boards) didn't go anywhere."

In response to Weaver's allegations that some members of the boards are unqualified to hold their positions because they don't hold college degrees, Groves said no one on his personal staff is without a university degree.

"I don't have a problem with the qualifications of board members. If Mike Weaver does, he should take that up with the governor," Groves said.

"We have had people on the board in the past without degrees...all of them with a deep commitment to education," he added. Groves mentioned former BOR member Charles Shuman of Sullivan who, despite not holding an academic degree, sat on the board throughout much of the 1970s.

"(Shuman) was president of the American Farm Bureau and had been acquainted with every president since Hoover. Even without college, he was exceptionally qualified with rich experiences in life and work," Groves said.

Board members for the BOG and the BOR are nominated by the governor and approved by the senate. Trustees for the U of I and SIU boards are elected, Groves said.

BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said that all the members of the BOG hold degrees but that some in the past, including former chair James Altoff, have not.

"(Everyone) on the board has had a wide range of experiences," Brazell said. "They make very valuable contributions. A college degree is not only not required, it isn't necessary to serve the community interest."

"The report doesn't present a compelling case to change. A fair airing of the issues would be beneficial to both sides," she added.

However, neither Brazell nor Groves plan to initiate any hearings on the issues presented in the inquiry.

BOG Chancellor Thomas Brazell was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

Members of the faculty plan to demonstrate at the University Union during the meeting, which is a reaction to the recent inability of the BOG and the University Illinois Professionals, the union representing Eastern's faculty, to negotiate a contract.

Rives, however, supports the faculty's efforts. "It is absolutely appropriate for them to do that and this is not the first time that has occurred," he said. "It is the American way of letting your concerns be known."

"There are absolutely no differences of opinion, that I know of in this university, about the faculty salary levels not being as high as they ought to be," he said.

If approved by the BOG trustees, the budget recommendations are submitted to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, Rives said, and if approved by the IBHE, the recommendations are considered by the Illinois General Assembly.

Other important elements of the recommendations include funding for the implementation of the new general education curriculum to be implemented in the fall of 1992 and funding for equipment necessary in meeting the educational needs of students.

"Equipment is a very special concern," Rives said. He added that a university has to have certain equipment, such as computers and instructional laboratory materials, to properly prepare students for their careers.

Rives said Thursday's meeting is "absolutely critical" in the university's efforts to receive adequate funding. However, he said that any speculation of the consequences of not receiving those funds was premature.

"It is admittedly the first step in the process. What we've got to get out there is a very clear definition of our needs as an institution," Rives said. "Quite obviously we're looking at tight financial times."

Rives said unless we begin with a clear articulation of what our needs and priorities are "we're not going to get anywhere in the budget process."

Rives has also submitted a report to the trustees outlining action items, including recommendations for awarding two honorary doctoral degrees, an expenditure recommendation for the purchase of data processing equipment and assignment of defaulted student loan collection to the federal government.

Upon approval, Eastern will award honorary doctorate degrees to retired Eastern professor Bertrand Holley, and John Theodore Sanders, Deputy Secretary in the United States Department of Education, a humane letters and public service respectively.

Among the various projects in the BOG system deserving attention, Eastern's Buzzard Building has been in need of remodeling for many years. Although the project hasn't received the necessary funds, Rives said he is positive about Eastern's chances of receiving the $11.3 million needed for the remodeling.

"It's a terribly energy inefficient building and we have made that request (for remodeling) for several years," Rives said. "It is, in the best of my knowledge, the single highest priority in the Board of Governors system."

Rives added the building needs to provide access for the handicapped.

to ICTC for billing services for twelve months, a five percent telecommunications excise tax to the state, the salaries of its office employees, office supplies costs and "all of the expenses of a normal office."

Also included in the office's expenses is the creation and extension of a campus-wide integrated voice and computer network, already partially functional in some areas of campus, that will give faculty, staff and students access to many data bases, electronic mail and other services, Henard said.

Eastern's telecommunications office has collected campus telephone bills since 1987, when the university and the Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company signed a 10-year contract for the company to provide the university's phone service, Henard said.

Students Come See the New Student Recreation Center

Dedication Ceremony

Thursday, September 12, 1991 at 1:30 p.m.

Cutting the ribbon

Edgar to dedicate recreation center

By CHRIS SEPER
Staff writer

The equipment is in place, the floor has been laid out and the workers have left as the $6.4 million Student Recreation Center prepares for its dedication at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

"I think it will be a real exciting event for everybody," said Shelly Flock, public information specialist for Eastern.

In attendance for the event will be Governor and Eastern alumnus Jim Edgar, Student Body President Martha Price, Sen. Harry "Babe" Woodyard, R-Chrisman, Rep. Michael Weaver, R-Chrisman, Board of Governors Universities Chair Robert Ruiz, BOG Chancellor Thomas Layzell and Eastern President Stan Rives.

Both Price and Edgar will dedicate the center.

"It's great. The kids are going to be ecstatic with it," said Dave Dutler, director of recreational sports. "We're opening a facility that we never had before with space we've never had before."

The next step after the dedication — which should come to a close around 2:30 p.m. — is to control access to the center, Dutler said. Casual control will be exercised now, but Mon., Sept. 23, will see a regular check of student I.D.s for admission to the facility.

Although most of the equipment in the center is fully functional, three pieces of equipment still remain on back order for the facility. One of those is the aerobic body master machine, which will be the only one in the center.

The equipment is expected to be functional in two to three weeks, according to Dutler.

The beginning for the center came when a student referendum passed in 1989, giving the go-ahead to use $55 from each student to balance off the $6.4 million cost.

The 70,500 square-foot addition to Lantz Gym, which has been in student use since Aug. 29, includes a jogging track, a 25-piece free-weight set, body-part machines, six basketball courts convertible to badminton and volleyball courts, and three multi-purpose recreation areas.

The idea of running the recreation center at full power is exciting to Dutler, who said his biggest challenge will be the control and scheduling of people that he claims are sure to flood in to use the facility.

"This is the exciting thing about it; I don't know what to expect," Dutler said. "There's going to be a lot of action in the morning and quite a bit in noon hours. It'll work out to be an interesting phenomenon to spread out the utilization and see how much there is and how (much) accessibility there is."

"I anticipate quite a bit of activity," he added. "It'll be bonkers. The kids are going to appreciate more as they come over and see how great (it) is."

Although coming to a glamorous close, the construction of the recreation center has been riddled with problems. After opening publicly two weeks behind schedule, the center has drawn complaints from undergraduates because there are no bathrooms in the facility.

Graduate students have also voiced complaints about the center because they did not get to vote on the referendum for the facility but still have to pay for it.

New language requirement can be fulfilled in high school

Editor's note: This is the first article in a series outlining the segments of the new general education curriculum implemented next fall.

By JILL BAUTER
Administration editor

Although the new general education program to be implemented next fall requires more semester hours than the present program, incoming students who took foreign language in high school may satisfy that requirement early.

Stephen Whitley, director of general education and senior seminar, said an increasing number of incoming students take foreign language at the high school level.

"The information that we get through ACT on entering students indicated that 80 to 85 percent of the students who apply and are admitted to the university will have had two years of foreign language," he said. "More than that have had at least one year."

Six hours of foreign language is required under the new curriculum. However, one year of high school foreign language counts as three semester hours of the foreign language requirement. Therefore, freshmen who have taken two years of a foreign language in high school are exempt from that general education requirement upon enrollment at Eastern.

"Foreign languages are certainly a weakness from the standpoint of our society's strengths," he said. "It's just not something we have done well over probably the last 50 years."

Eastern, like other universities nationwide, has chosen to include foreign language requirements in its general education program to promote an appreciation and understanding of different cultures and to meet the rising demands of international business, Whitley said.

Currently, Eastern offers French, German, Latin, Russian, Spanish and language and culture of the deaf. Whitley said he and President Stan Rives hope to add languages in the future, including Japanese.

"We have experienced a situation where the Japanese have learned English in order to come to this country to sell goods," Whitley said. "We have gained from them the assumption that people will learn English in order to do business."

However, Whitley said that assumption has not been good for American business. For example, Whitley said, "If you're going to be successful in the business world and go to Japan and sell products, you'd better be more than familiar with the Japanese culture and you'd better have a good command of the language."

In addition to the new requirement, a proficiency test will be available to some students allowing them to be exempt from the six semester hours of foreign language. The test, however, is only available to students who have learned a foreign language outside of a classroom.

"The question was suppose we have a student that comes to us from India and whose English is quite good," he said. "The decision was to allow that student proficiency in that dialect to demonstrate that they do have a second language capability."

Gerber meets opposition

In seeking senate's OK

By CHARLENE BURRIS
Staff writer

Although Brett Gerber was approved by the Student Senate as chief of staff, he met with stiff opposition from several senate members at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

Nineteen senate members approved the nomination, five disapproved it and three abstained.

A motion to move the meeting into executive session was overwhelmingly denied because senate members thought the students which they represent have a right to know about senate happenings.

Opposition from Gerber's nomination stemmed from an anonymous letter concerning Gerber's past involvement in other organizations. Past problems concerning homecoming and greek week committees were addressed although the allegations could not be proven.

"(The letter) was unfounded in all of its points," Gerber said. Some people "want to see Brett Gerber fail," he added.

Gerber, nominated jointly by Martha Price, student body president, and Blake Wood, speaker of the senate, was chosen from four applicants for his past experience on the executive board and overall student government experience.

Although all of the applicants were excellent, Gerber's past positions as Board of Governor's representative and speaker of the senate made him the "best man for the job," said Kristy Koch, student body executive vice president.

Gerber's goals as chief of staff concern improving the textbook rental system, solving parking problems and "quelling faculty senate."

New computers for police won't fix parking woes

The University Police this week will begin using a new computer system to issue tickets to parking violators.

The automatic system will allow officers to type a ticket into a hand-held computer, which will then print out a ticket.

This new system is supposed to be more efficient and eliminate some of the work hours spent on the old manual system where officers have to write out the tickets.

In addition, ticket information will no longer have to be manually entered into the main computers by officers at the University Police Department.

With the new system, the ticket information can be transferred directly from the hand-held computer to the main computer. This will eliminate a lot of time and manual labor.

The system also costs $41,340.

The money to pay for the system came from an auxiliary activities fund, also known as the university's parking account, according to Suzanne Chouinard-Stiff, administrative aide to the vice president for business affairs and a member of the parking committee.

Chouinard-Stiff said that all money made from parking goes back to parking in the form of repairs on old parking lots, new parking spaces, etc.

Was this computer system worth the money?

Chouinard-Stiff said the system is supposed to more than pay for itself in increased efficiency.

And with more efficiency in writing and collecting parking tickets, expenses will be cut in issuing tickets thus collecting more money for the parking account.

Chouinard-Stiff said any extra money made with the new system will go back into parking – yet the university has no plans to build more parking, which many drivers on campus say is needed.

It remains to be seen, then, if the new automatic ticket system will in the end be worth what it will cost to implement.

Without some relief in the shortage of parking on campus, it doesn't appear that the means would justify the ends.

A week ago today, I think I probably read the stupidest thing ever printed. It was on page one of The Daily Eastern News.

Lemme give you a hint if it hasn't whizzed through your mind by now: The headline read "Money, space prohibit Rec Center bathrooms."

I didn't believe it. I closed my peepers – just to make sure I wasn't seeing things – opened 'em and looked at it again.

Still there. "Money, space prohibit Rec Center bathrooms."

Gee whiz, I muttered to myself as I read the article. Somebody better get one of those port-a-potties and put a few of 'em over by there.

Or at least leave a mop out somewhere.

After reading Chris Seper's article I still couldn't believe it. For purposes based solely on the facts that A. I couldn't believe it, and B. I know how it feels to have to hold it for a length seemingly equivalent to this year's state budget talks, I had to get the inside poop from the source.

"You mean to tell me," I asked Chris, "There's nowhere in that gigantic new gym to make a deposit?"

"Nowhere at all," he said.

"So what do ya do if ya gotta, I mean if ya really gotta —"

"Run like hell," Chris said.

Picture that. 70,500 square feet of Rec Center. And nowhere to go.

But it gets even worse. "I think it's an excellent decision," said Physical Plant honcho Vic Robeson (a.k.a. "the guy who has to answer for this accident just waiting to happen (A member of the Rec Center planning committee)"). "It held the cost of the facility down and you got more facility for the money."

Yeah. But you left out the most important facility of them all, Vic; Remember, fellow students, we each peed, uh, paid, $55 for this "wreck center."

But I do have a theory for this lack of luxury – it's a plot between the university and the city of Charleston to line both of their administrative pockets. About a year ago this time, Charleston Mayor Wayne "the streets runneth over" Lanman said he would like to fine residents (a.k.a. "some of us here college kids") who are caught urinating in public $250 as well as recommend a semester suspension for that offender from the university.

So here's what could happen:

1. The Chucktown City Council passes Lanman's "trickle down" theory faster than you can say "hey man, pull over before I"

2. Charleston City Police and university police donning rubber golashes – roam the outside of the Rec Center like prison guards (Hey! the Rec Center kinda does look like a minimum security lock-up from the outside).

3. Every time a Rec Center utilizer has finally realized that he's had one swig of Gatorade too many nab 'em in the act! The university gets $25 and one less body roaming campus (the student's room and board non-refundable, of course), and the city gets $250 out of it. Another city/university-merged scam in the making.

To further emphasize the stink of this flushing scam Dean Thayer, the state department of public health chief plumbing inspector (a.k.a. "somebody with common sense") said he couldn't believe the lack o' johns, regardless of it's unfortunate legality. Maybe he could, based upon his position, take some action that could lead to the rejoicing sounds of toilets flushing in the future.

But for right now, the Rec Center doesn't have a pot to piss in, only a window to throw it out of.

It's too bad, though, that Vic Robeson probably won't be walking by the window when that bucket decides to be thrown.

Letters on racism reveal disturbing attitudes

Dear editor:

For the past three weeks we have been reading (letters to the editor by) students on campus. Some were totally ignorant and offensive like Jane Grandel's ("One minority fed up with being counted out," Sept. 3) and others were more accurate like Otis Benefor's recent article (Reader angered by "fed up" letter," Sept. 9). Collectively, the articles have caused a latent sense of racial indifference.

First beginning with the cartoon depiction of people of color and Affirmative Action, (the newspaper's subsequent apology for the drawing, and the response from the young lady who thought the apology was pointless ("Tell the truth and say you're sorry?" Sept. 4)! Collectively, these incidents could be catalyst for a considerable amount of acrimony toward each other in the microcosm we call Eastern Illinois University.

We all have to live on this campus together. Don't you all realize that we are supposed to be open-minded citizens attempting to debunk perceptions of stereotypes about one another instead of supporting them. In the next months there are events on campus that can be termed "racial."

Some of these include, the Homecoming events, Martin Luther King Jr.'s day and vigil (unfortunately), and Miss Black EIU in African American History Month, respectively.

If we are becoming argumentative over people's perceptions of each other then we could be in trouble when these events take place. So please let's all chill and if possible, talk. This is why Cultural Diversity, Student Senate and other organizations and forums exist.

Stepp has no right to knock greek system

Dear editor:

I am writing this letter in response to Jeff Stepp's "The masses can come out, it's clear" column on Friday, Sept. 6. First of all, I would like to say that I (as well as many others, I'm sure) don't appreciate you putting down the greek system unless you know exactly what you are talking about. Obviously, you don't! If you were at all familiar with the greek and their "system," you would see the benefits of being a member of such an organization.

Not only do we (the greeks) have social functions, but we also focus on such things as scholarships and philanthropies. Greek organizations require involvement, leadership and commitment. As a freshman or transfer student, joining a fraternity or sorority helps in getting acquainted; immediately, people are available to you and you can count on them, no matter what.

We do not seclude ourselves from "non-greeks"; it is people such as yourself who have these false notions that shut yourselves off from knowing any of us. I have friends both in the greek system and out, neither of which I see as "better" than the other.

Each person who attends Eastern has the opportunity to become a member of the greek system; it is each individual's choice whether or not to be a part of it. All I can say to you, Mr. Stepp, is "Don't knock until you try it!"

CAA to reevaluate majors

By TYLER PIERCE
Staff writer

The Council on Academic Affairs at its Thursday meeting will open discussion on the study of undergraduate majors, according to CAA Chair Ken Sutton.

"(So far) we've just dealt with the general education requirements that everybody takes," Sutton said. "Now we're going to be looking at the kind of thing that each major is supposed to do."

The meeting be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Arcola/Tuscola room of the Martin Luther King Jr.

University Union.

Sutton said the Study of Undergraduate Education has made some recommendations on what courses majors should include.

"We are going to consider whether the council wants to take the direction of that study or its own direction," he said.

Sutton added that the council must first get its criteria straight for the study of majors.

"The first thing we've got to do is talk about what should go into any major," he said. "Then the departments would know the kind of thing that we would like them to show us."

"It would appear that the logical way to go is that people who have already gathered a lot of information about their major will come in first (for discussion)," Sutton added.

Also on Thursday, the CAA will vote on a motion to create a committee to help the CAA evaluate the new general education program.

Sutton said the council will first create a subcommittee that will determine the composition of that evaluation committee. The CAA has debated the proposal of the committee at its last two meetings.

Questions about Greek Court housing answered

Editor's note: This is the third in a four-part series on housing on and off campus.

By MIKE GRANSE
Staff writer

Now that the incessant rumbling of the bull-dozer and the shrill screeching of the table saws have subsided, Eastern students have many questions about Greek Court — including questions about quality of life at Greek Court.

According to Kelly Miller, Greek Court coordinator, the housing project was constructed under the direction of President Stan Rives for three main reasons.

First, many of the off-campus fraternity and sorority houses were designed as single family residential homes, not as 28-person chapter houses, Miller said.

A second reason Greek Court was built, she added, was that moving the Greek population out of the residential neighborhoods was a way to make rush and other activities easier to monitor.

The third reason for the construction of housing exclusively for Greeks was to establish a greater unity among the various chapters of the Greek community, Miller said. With the new chapter houses — twelve in all — so close together, it is more convenient for the organizations to have functions together and to collaborate on various projects, according to Miller.

Living in Greek Court costs $1,347 per semester, the same amount that non-Greek students pay per semester to live in a residence hall. Miller said the quality of life in Greek Court can best be compared to that of Stevenson Hall, which is one of the better halls on campus.

Each room in Greek Court houses two people and every two rooms share a bathroom with a shower.

Visitation rules vary from house to house as determined by their national charters, Miller said.

One disadvantage to life in Greek Court is that the houses were not originally equipped with pool tables or video games. Since the time of construction, some houses have purchased these amenities with money from their own treasuries, she said.

Greek Court does not have a food service, but Miller said meals are prepared at Carman Hall Food Service and then taken to the houses. Noon meals are not provided, so Greek Court residents have to get lunch in the food service of their choice.

Campus phone bills to build computer service

By STUART TART
Editor in chief

Money generated from campus phone bills is being used to fund the implementation of a campus-wide computer network that will give staff and students access to a variety of services, such as data bases and electronic mail, said Eastern's associate vice president for computer and telecommunications services.

The telecommunications office's expenditures were questioned by Faculty Senate Chair David Carpenter last week, who said the office is not spending enough of its income to benefit students.

The decision to build the network was made in 1986, when the university looked into the possibility of awarding a contract for the development of a complete campus computer system that integrates voice and data, Associate Vice President Dave Henard said.

Although the cost of the project was originally estimated at $10 million, that cost was reduced to $2 million to be spent over a six-year period after the university decided to install the system primarily on its own. Henard said.

This decision was made after Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company agreed to construct the voice components of the system as part of a 10-year service contract negotiated with the university in 1987.

The telecommunications office and the Physical Plant are constructing most of the rest of the system, Henard said.

"We've done the job for considerably less than we would have if we had gone for the bids originally," he said.

Ninety percent of the funding for the cabling components comes from the telecommunications account itself, Henard said, while about 10 percent will come from state-appropriated funds.

However, Henard said building the computer system has not resulted in higher phone charges for students or staff.

"We have never increased the telephone rate above the level before we negotiated the telecommunications contract (with ICTC in 1987)," Henard said. "In fact, we've lowered the rates."

The idea, according to Henard, is that all of the campus computers will be part of the same system and will have access to the same services.

"The concept is to make Eastern a technological campus," he added. "We are building an infrastructure we can grow on," Henard said.

The university already has the system in operation in some parts of campus, he added, including in some staff offices, the CD-ROM system in Booth Library, and the computer lab in room 304 in Old Main.

Henard said the system will benefit students also, as there are plans to have computer laboratories in residence halls by 1992.

RHA chairs to be announced

By SUSAN KIEL
Staff writer

The Residence Hall Association will announce Thursday the chairs of its student committees.

"Right now RHA is in the getting to know each other stage," said RHA President Ryan Zufall. "The committees have been organized, and their chairs will be announced at (Thursday's) meeting."

The RHA's standing committees are new ideas and activities, student public relations and policy and finance.

In addition to standing committees, there are three ad-hoc committees that are Hollywood Squares, haunted house and homecoming, Zufall said.

The group's second meeting of the year is at 5 p.m. in Weller Hall.

"I'm really surprised at how easily things are going," Zufall said. "The executive board has really been doing a great job."

In other business, RHA will finalize plans for a "get-to-know-you" retreat to Mattoon's Camp New Hope.

Camp New Hope provides the opportunity for new and old members to get to know each other better, and for new members to learn more about the organization, Zufall said.

"My main goal for the meeting is to try and keep new members interested, and returning members rearing to go," he added. "I can't stress enough how important Camp New Hope is; it gives everyone a chance to get to know about each other."

Purchasing department holds celebration

NADINE ALOISIO
Staff writer

Eastern's purchasing department this week continues to celebrate "National Buying for Higher Education Week," and welcomes interested staff and students to come by and see the department.

Elda Hall, director of purchases, along with her seven-member staff, handle the university's purchases of about $12 million in goods and services annually.

The department makes many purchases so that specialized classes can operate, Hall said. For example, she said, the purchasing department buys frogs for the zoology department.

"The staff here has been great," Hall said. "We have had good relations with the departments, and anyone should feel free to call on us anytime. We would be happy to help."

To begin the process of buying equipment, Hall said, her department first receives a request for material from the instructor on what good or service is needed. The request then goes through a bidding stage and is followed with a receipt of goods and approval for payment.

Hall said the week's celebration began on Monday with a luncheon at her home. The department then had an open house and reception on Tuesday.

Hall said anyone is welcome to come to the purchasing department to see the operation first hand during the rest of the week.

Majors

A poll of Eastern students say student loans don't influence their major

Story by Eleanor Niemann

When Chris Wilson came to Eastern in 1987, she had two things in mind — choosing a major and the amount of student loans she would owe when she graduated in 1991.

The decision came hard. She knew she wanted to pick a major she would enjoy, but in the back of her mind she thought of the loans she would have to pay off.

"I was pretty torn. I don't like being in debt, and the thousands of dollars in loans scared me. I wasn't going to go off and major in something that I wasn't going to be able to get a job in," said Wilson, now a senior.

In the end, Wilson decided to major in business management, a subject which she enjoys.

"I don't feel like I sold out at all. I like my major, and now I'm not worried as much about paying off my loans," Wilson said.

Like Wilson, many other Eastern students said student loans shouldn't influence their choice of a major. According to a recent survey taken on campus, 80 percent of the 20 students surveyed believe students do not pick a particular major solely because they will have loans to pay off.

In addition, outstanding loans proved not to influence the choice of major for a majority of students who had taken out loans. Out of the 20 students, only nine received student loans. Only three students said their loans influenced their major, which will enable them to make enough money to pay back their loans.

In fact, only four out of the 20 students said loans might be a factor in choosing a major.

One of the four, a 20-year-old accounting major, said he had to choose a major that he knew would give him enough income to pay back his student loans. He wanted a major to give him enough money to enjoy the lifestyle he wants.

"I think a majority of business students who have loans picked their major because they know they are going to make money," he said.

It's not only students who think loans can influence choosing a major.

John Flynn, director of financial aid, said student loans can play a small part in choosing a major. He reasons the cost of attending Eastern is the same whether it's for an education or business degree. Since business majors usually have higher starting salaries, the business major will have an easier time paying off the loan.

On the other hand, Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said loans don't matter, adding, a student will major in a subject interesting to them.

"Most students don't go into the placement office and ask what's hot," Williams said. "They (students) think of the immediacy like what do I like? What do I want to do in life? What things do I see that will benefit me in a personal manner?"

The bottom line is a prevailing attitude that students should major in what they are interested in, not by how much money they will make, according to the survey.

As Tom Milowski, a graduate economics student, noted, students shouldn't measure the monetary potential when choosing a major.

"Eventually you will lose happiness if all you're worried about is making money," he said.

But money is what is needed once a student with loans graduates. All students who take out loans have on common bond — debt.

Loans are the most common type of aid received at Eastern, according to Flynn. Last year, Eastern authorized more than $4 million in guaranteed loans, which includes Stafford, Parent Supplemental Loans for Students and Supplemental Loans for Students.

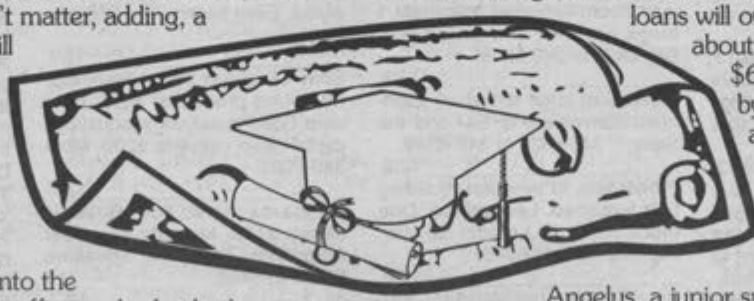

The Stafford and Perkins loans, which have a interest rate of 8 percent and 5 percent respectively, are awarded on the basis of financial need.

Before 1987, the Stafford loan was not need based. Since it is now, the amount of money a student can borrow has lowered, Flynn said.

Approximately 25 percent of the student body receives loans according to Flynn. Even though the cost of attending college has gone up, the average student loan indebtedness has gone down at Eastern because of changes in eligibility. On the average, an Eastern student with loans will owe about $6,600 by graduation day.

Sharon

Angelus, a junior speech communications major, said she will have about $5,000 in loans when she graduated in May 1992. She doesn't have any estimate on how much her monthly loan payment will be, but said she isn't worried about paying the debt.

The repayment may come as an unpleasant surprise to those who are in debt. If a student has borrowed $4,000 in Stafford loans, he will have to make 119 payments of $50 per month. Interest on the loan alone would be $1,972.48.

According to Flynn, Eastern students don't have a problem with paying back their loans compared to those at other Illinois universities.

"Eastern has one of the lowest default rates of Illinois state schools," he said. "Only the University of Illinois is lower."

The default rate on Stafford loans at Eastern last year was 4 percent and 2.5 percent on the Perkins loans.

"Anything less than 20 percent, which is where the university has to start writing default management programs is good," Flynn said.

Of the $28 billion in a national pool of aid, about 48 percent is in the form of loans, up from 40 percent in 1980, according to recent survey by the College Board. But this increase isn't enough.

The cost of attending an Illinois university has increased 287 from 1977 to 1989, according to a November 25, 1990, Chicago Tribune article.

Student financial aid increased 62 percent during the 1980s but still failed to keep pace with soaring college cost, said a report from the college Board.

If a student is turned down for a loan, student employment is an alternative. Jennifer Pudlo, a senior history/speech communications major, works in the music department as a student worker. She was first hired in the college work study program as part of her financial aid package.

"I like it (college work study)," Pudlo said. "It makes you feel like you've earned your money to get an education and it's not just handed down to you."

Pudlo has taken out student loans in the past, but has not always been eligible for them every year.

Middle-income, working class students like Pudlo have had greater difficulty qualifying to borrow money as eligibility rules have tightened, according to an April 14, 1991, article in the Champaign News-Gazette.

Over the 15 years, the emphasis of federal aid has shifted from direct government grants to guaranteed private loans. In 1975, grants made up 80 percent of all federal financial aid. By 1989, however, they accounted for 49 percent, said the Champaign News-Gazette article.

Even though college expenses have soared, Eastern does have an advantage to together schools—cost.

The costs of attending Eastern is about $5,000 a year. Housing and fees will go up a total of $255 for the 1991-92 school year, and students also face a possible increase of 5 percent in tuition.

Although student loans could mean major debt to some, only 22 percent of the students surveyed said they were worried about paying off their loans.

"I'm not worried about paying back my loans," Wilson said. "As long as I'm happy at my job, that monthly payment won't hurt me too much."

We're looking for seniors who like working with all kinds of hardware.

Careers in data processing, accounting, actuarial, and auditing at State Farm.

At State Farm, we understand the concept of "work." Believe it or not, we also understand the concept of "play."

That's because we don't think you can be really outstanding at the first without having an appreciation for the second. Which is exactly why a career at State Farm in Bloomington could be the ideal place for you.

You'll work for one of the country's most respected companies on the most advanced computer equipment in the industry. You'll be challenged and stimulated. You'll be rewarded with excellent pay and benefits. You'll make your classmates very envious.

What's more, you'll also have time to appreciate the finer things in life. That's because Bloomington isn't just a great place to start a career, it's a great place to live, to enjoy, to start a family (if, indeed, you're ready to start thinking about that). In addition to the community's pleasant neighborhoods, inviting parks, and other recreational facilities, you'll find two universities that offer a host of cultural and social activities to take advantage of.

If you're a senior with a math, accounting, data processing, or computer science background, come talk to us at your college placement office. We're looking for people who are motivated and outgoing. People who enjoy challenges on the job — and away from it. After all, you're not just looking for a great job. You're looking for a great way of life.

Construction of new street to be completed this fall

By KRISTA STIFF
Staff writer

Charleston will soon have a new street to add to the city map after more than a year of construction in the south part of campus comes to a close.

Construction of the street extending from Fourth Street, behind Lawson and Andrews Halls, to Route 130, will be finished in late fall, according to City Engineer Mark Dwiggins.

The cost of the project was roughly $1.2 million, with two-thirds of the funding provided by the city and one-third provided by the state, Dwiggins said.

"Construction has gone very smoothly," he added.

The idea to place a street extending from Fourth Street to Route 130 "originated as an exchange," Dwiggins said. "The city gave Johnson Avenue (between Seventh and Ninth streets) to Eastern for use as a parking lot, and in exchange Eastern allowed the city to put in the new street."

He said the university and the city of Charleston both expressed interest in putting the street there, and Dwiggins praised Eastern's cooperation in the construction.

"The city has been working with the university to fulfill both groups' needs," Dwiggins said.

The main reason for building the street is that there is too much traffic on Charleston's residential streets by travelers going to and from Route 130, according to Dwiggins.

"There was a need by both Eastern and the city to have a street extending all the way through, from Fourth to Ninth and from Ninth to Route 130, without going through residential areas," he said.

The street has not received an official name yet, Dwiggins noted.

"Tentatively, it will be called McKinley from Fourth Street to Ninth Street and Taft

Former Eastern star guard Jay Taylor in his days with the New Jersey Nets.

Taylor inks contract with Timberwolves

Jay Taylor, the all-time leading scorer in Panther basketball history, has signed a two-year contract with the NBA's Minnesota Timberwolves. The terms of the deal were not disclosed.

The 6-foot-3 guard participated in the Timberwolves' rookie/free agent camp and was a member of the Minnesota squad that competed in the Midwest Revue and the Los Angeles Summer League. He averaged 11 points and three assists in seven summer games.

"Jay showed good leadership and did an outstanding job running the club at the Midwest Revue as well in L.A.," said assistant coach Sidney Lowe, in a released statement. "He shot the ball extremely well and was also able to keep the other guys in the game by getting the ball to the open man."

Taylor was a member of the Grand Rapids Hoops of the Continental Basketball Association during the 1990-91 season where he averaged 17 points per contest and three assists in 55 games. He was also selected to play in the CBA All-Star game, in which he scored 16 points. Taylor was also included in the CBA's Long Distance Shootout.

Taylor, a native of Aurora who was an All-American guard for the Panthers in 1989, holds various Eastern and Mid-Continent scoring records. Among his many records are: Mid-Con and EIU records for points in a game (47 vs. Chicago State in 1989), points in a season (748 in 1988-89), scoring average (23.4 ppg in 1988-89) and is number one on the Eastern all-time scoring list with 1,926 points.

Taylor's first professional experience came with the New Jersey Nets in 1989 after being signed as a free agent. He was released by the Nets on Dec. 20, 1989 and wound up with the Wichita Falls, Texans of the CBA. Taylor is expected to report to the Timberwolves' 1991 Training Camp when it opens Oct. 3 at the Arena Health Club in Minneapolis.

Holyfield speaks out about Tyson situation

NEW YORK (AP) - Heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield said Wednesday that Mike Tyson's indictment for rape has emphasized the good guy-bad guy aspects of their Nov. 8 title fight.

"I understand people will be pulling for me more because of the indictment," Holyfield said during a conference call with boxing writers. "When more people want me to win, it gives me more inspiration."

Still, Holyfield said, Tyson's problems should not affect the fight.

"It's not personal," he said. "We're not talking personal lives. It's who's better in the ring, not outside the ring. I just know Tyson from boxing. I'm not a judge. I've learned to keep my personal opinions to myself."

Holyfield said he did not know if the charges would hurt Tyson on fight night.

"I thank God I don't have negative (attention)," he said. "If I don't have positive attention, I'd rather have none at all."

Although women's groups and some people in boxing have urged a postponement, Holyfield, who will make $30 million from the $100 million promotion, said he thought the fight should go on as scheduled.

"They've got their opinions," he said. "I don't worry about what anybody else is saying. You've got to look at anybody with a regular job. Is it right for a man not to be able to make a living?"

And Holyfield said he does not anticipate a postponement.

"I have my job," he said. "That is to go ahead and train hard and prepare for what I might have to face when I get in the ring."

Holyfield said Tyson's problems have hurt the promotion rather than helped it.

"The media has taken a lot away," he said. "They're writing more about the incident than they are about Holyfield-Tyson."

Holyfield said he would not be disappointed if Tyson's troubles caused the fight to be postponed.

"Why should I be disappointed?" he said. "I'm the heavyweight champion of the world."

Sox, Cubs, Cards all fall Wednesday

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jose Canseco's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning, his third RBI of the game, gave the Oakland Athletics a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox on Wednesday.

Canseco also hit his 38th homer and singled in a run to increase his RBI total to 101. He is the first Oakland player to have five 100-RBI seasons.

Jaime Quirk doubled to start the eighth off losing pitcher Steve Largent (0-1). With Scott Lirio pitching, pinch-hitter Bruce Law's sacrifice sent pinch-runner Willie Wilson to third.

After Rickey Henderson was intentionally walked, Bobby Lieke was brought in to face Canseco, who lofted a high fly to center field. Wilson scored and moved ahead of Lance Johnson's lead to the plate.

Dennis Eckersley (4-3), who struck out two outs to stop a Chicago rally in the top of the 10th, was the winning pitcher.

Todd Van Poppel, Oakland's top left choice in 1990, was spectacular in his major-league debut — for three innings. The 19-year-old right-hander struck out five batters and carried a no-run and 1-0 lead into the fourth.

Tim Lincecum singled to start the eighth and Robin Ventura bunted a hit before Dan Pasqua tripled for two runs.

Carlton Fisk, already in the major leagues when Van Poppel was born, hit his 369th career homer. Fisk's 15th homer of the season tied him with Ralph Kiner for 38th on the career list.

Craig Grebeck added an RBI single later in the inning to make it

5-1. Van Poppel lasted 4 2-3 innings, allowing five runs and seven hits, with a walk and six strikeouts. His mound opponent, Wilson Alvarez, was the last teenager to start a game in the major leagues. Alvarez was 19 when he started for Texas against Toronto on July 24, 1989.

In the bottom of the fourth, Alvarez gave up Canseco's 38th homer, and the A's added three in the fifth off Alvarez and reliever Don Pall. After the A's loaded the bases with none out off Alvarez, Pall gave up Harold Baines' RBI grounder and run-scoring singles to Dave Henderson and Canseco, tying the game.

Mets 4, Cubs 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Tony Castillo allowed just three singles in six innings and pitched the New York Mets to a 4-1 victory Wednesday over the Chicago Cubs.

Castillo (2-1) walked one and did not have a strike out in his first start for the Mets and the fourth in his major league career. He faced Cubs starter Frank Castillo (6-4), who worked 6 1-3 innings, giving up eight hits and four runs.

Keith Miller led off the game with a double into the left field corner. He moved to third when Jeff Gardner dropped a single into short left field and scored as Howard Johnson grounded into a double play. After one out in the Mets seventh, consecutive singles by Gregg Jefferies, Chris Donnels, Todd Hundley and pinch-hitter Terry McDaniel gave New York a 3-0 lead.

After Miller walked to load the bases, Frank Castillo was relieved by Chuck McElroy. Pinch-hitter Kevin Elster's sacrifice fly to center scored Hundley for a 4-0 lead.

Tim Burke came in to pitch for the Mets to start the seventh inning. After two outs, Hector Villanueva hit his eighth home run for the Cubs' only score.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Zane Smith pitched a six-hitter and hit a run-scoring single Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1 and raised their NL East lead to 10 and one-half games, their largest of the season.

Orlando Merced drove in two runs for the Pirates, who have the best road record in the major leagues at 42-29, including victories in five of their last six road games. The Cardinals, second in the NL East, have lost seven of eight and have scored only 10 runs in their last six games.

Smith (14-10) struck out three and walked none. He's walked only four in 65 innings over his last nine games, and entered the game leading the league with an average of 1.2 walks per nine innings. Smith is 2-0 with a 1.07 ERA in four starts against St. Louis, including a one-hitter May 29.

Merced hit his ninth home run, and second in three games, leading off the fifth. Smith and Merced each had a run-scoring single in the sixth off Bob Tewksbury (9-11).

Panthers overcome slow start for win

By KEN RYAN
Staff writer

Eastern's soccer team did not exactly come out on fire Wednesday afternoon, but it still had enough to put away the Fighting Illini of Illinois 3-1 in an exhibition match at Lakeside Field.

The Panthers had some early opportunities but were unable to finish off the plays. Five minutes into the contest sophomore Jim Harkness received a long, high pass from forward George Janovich, but Harkness' attempt to head the ball in was denied by the Illini goalie.

Head coach Cizo Mosnia said that he has no explanation for his team's slow starts so far this season.

"We are just slow in getting started for some reason," Mosnia said. "But I think that will come around as the season progresses."

Janovich, who scored Eastern's third goal, thought that the team played well, but he also felt that the team came out a little slow.

"Overall we pushed the ball well," Janovich said. "It's just that we have to settle down in the first half and execute our finishing. I think we did a good job of exploiting their weaknesses, so that led to a quick attack for us."

"The only thing I think we can improve on is we came out a little flat in the first 10 minutes. We have to get into the game a little quicker because if we go up against a national power, we may get into trouble early on."

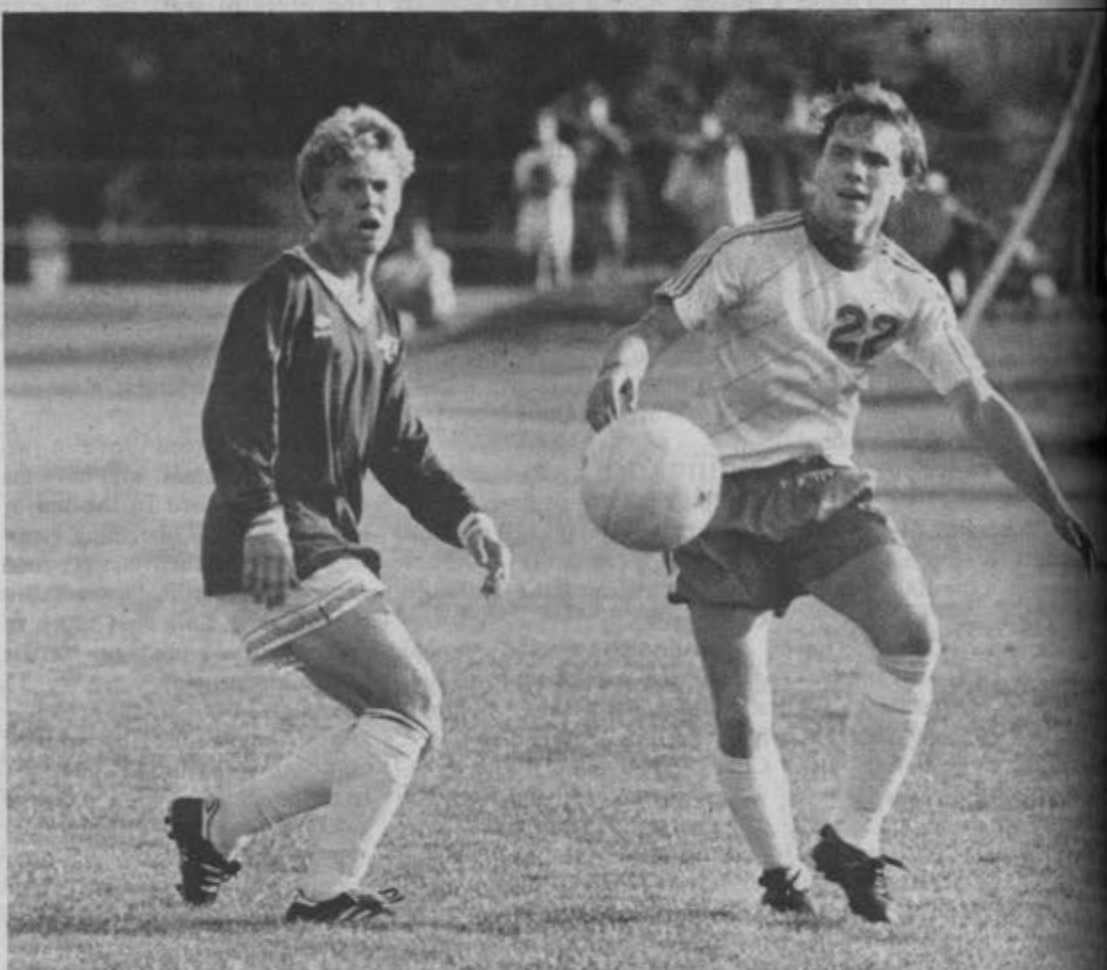

The Illini, in one of their few chances to score, took the ball downfield and got a shot off, but goalkeeper John Gouriotis, who had three saves in the first half, came away with the save on a rocket shot by Illinois.

Freshman Paul Agyeman, who was just honored as the Mid-Continent Conference Player of the Week after scoring five goals and adding an assist in the Panthers first two games, entered the game at 30:00 and seemed to give a boost to the Panther squad.

Eastern staged a number of attacks, with Agyeman and senior forwards LeBaron Hollimon and Terry Dixon all getting off quality shots on goal. But the Panthers still could not capitalize on the opportunities and went into the intermission in a 0-0 deadlock.

Eastern came out strong in the second half and finally broke into the scoring column at the 53:41 mark when Agyeman continued to showcase his skills, lofting a perfectly placed shot over the head of the Illini goalie to put the Panthers up 1-0.

Eastern then wasted little time, scoring less than five minutes

Eastern senior midfielder Terry Dixon looks to control the ball as an Illini player tries to defend him during Eastern's 3-1 exhibition victory over Illinois University Wednesday afternoon.

MARI OGAWA/Staff photographer

later when junior forward Jim Davidson nailed a shot into the upper-left hand corner of the net on a pass from Agyeman to make the score 2-0.

The Panthers put the game out of reach at the 12 minute mark when an Illini player got whistled for an intentional hand ball and Janovich scored on the free kick for a three-goal lead.

Janovich, who missed most of last season with a pulled hamstring, said that he is glad to be back playing and contributing to the team.

"I've been very happy with my performance, considering last year when I was injured most of the season," Janovich said. "I feels good to be finally healthy and out here doing my best."

The Panthers were unable to hold on for the shutout, however, as the Illini scored with 47 seconds left in the game to make the final score 3-1.

E. Washington not looking forward to trip

By DON O'BRIEN
Associate sports editor

Eastern Washington head football coach Dick Zornes isn't particularly happy about his Eagle team making an early season trek to Charleston to take on the Eastern Illinois Panthers at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at O'Brien Stadium.

"This game doesn't come at a good time for our team," said Zornes, who has been at the Eagle helm for 12 years and is in his first year as EWU's athletic director. "It (the game) was made by the other athletic director and isn't a well conceived game."

Zornes was talking about the terms of Eastern Washington's contract with the Panthers about playing the game.

The Eagles, a Division I-AA team from the Big Sky Conference are guaranteed $25,000 for playing Saturday's game. Zornes, who has a record of 70-53-2 as Eastern Washington head coach, was disgruntled at the fact that there is no return game (the Panthers traveling to EWU for a game.)

"In the future we are going to need more concrete organization when we enter into contracts," he said.

Like it or not, Zornes does have to bring his team here this weekend. The Eagles are coming off a 20-13 home victory over Cal State Northridge, while the Panthers are trying to rebound from a 42-13 setback to Iowa

Dick Zornes

State.

The Big Sky Conference, which is a nine member league with schools representing four states, is noted for its wide-open play, especially passing the football.

"We aren't quite like most of the other schools in our conference," Zornes said. "We are more balanced. We aren't like Idaho or Montana, whose offenses are premised on the pass. We would like to hint that we run the ball better."

"We are more of a team that leads with the run rather than the pass. We aren't that much of a passing team. We are usually last in the conference in passing," he said.

While not having a passing team the Eagles are also in search of a quarterback. Junior quarterback Mark Tenneson got the staring nod for Eastern Washington last weekend and connected on 15 of 28 attempts for 164 yards and one touchdown, but he was also intercepted four times. Battling him for the No. 1 spot has been Todd Bennett, a freshman from Moses Lake, Wash., who didn't see any action last week against Cal State Northridge.

"We need some leadership on offense," said Zornes, who also commented that the Eagles haven't selected a starter for this weekend.

One constant for the Eagles has been the play of senior running back Tim Mitchell. Mitchell, who is similar to the Panthers Jamie Jones in stature at 5-foot-10 and 184 pounds, rushed for 123 yards in 23 attempts in the Eagles' opener. He did that while nursing a pulled hamstring and it was his fourth 100 yard rushing performance of his career.

"He is a good little running back. He is solid and quick, but he isn't in the same caliber as Jones," Zornes said. "But he is good and solid in our conference."

The Eagle defense is anchored by senior defensive back Kurt Schulz. Schulz, an Academic All-American from Yakima, Wash., is one of two All-American candidates that the Eagles boast on their roster. He holds the Eastern Washington record with 20 broken passes and 203 return yards off of interceptions and is five interceptions short of the Eagle

Harriers to open at Bradley Invitational

By BRIAN HARRIS
Staff writer

The men's cross country team will officially begin its season Friday when it competes in the Bradley Invitational.

Eastern's team has competed once so far this year, that was in its own Alumni Open three weeks ago. The purpose of that race was to give the runners a chance to compete early and to give coaches Neil Moore and John McInerney an idea what condition their team was in.

The Alumni meet was run over four miles, the majority of competitions on the team's seven meet schedule will be run over 8,000 meters (4.97 miles), with the exception of the district meet which is 10,000 meters (6.21 miles).

Leading the way for the Panthers this year are seniors Eric Baron and Scott Touchette. Both runners tied for first place in the Alumni meet. Eastern's lead group may also see some action from freshmen Brian Gray and Nate Shaffer. Although sophomore John Eggenberger may emerge as Eastern's number one man sometime during the season just as he did last year at the district meet.

No matter which one ends up being the team's top dog, the five along with sophomore Kenric Bond and Eric Gray will make year's squad a powerful force.

The coaches aren't sure what teams will be at Bradley but are confident that it will be a quality meet.

"In the past Bradley has shown to be a high quality meet," said McInerney. "We're not really sure on the competition this year, it's really up in the air. In the past, teams like Illinois, Iowa and Illinois State have been there, but this year we're not sure. I'm guessing that there will be about 10 teams competing."

Royer gets hit in first big league at bat

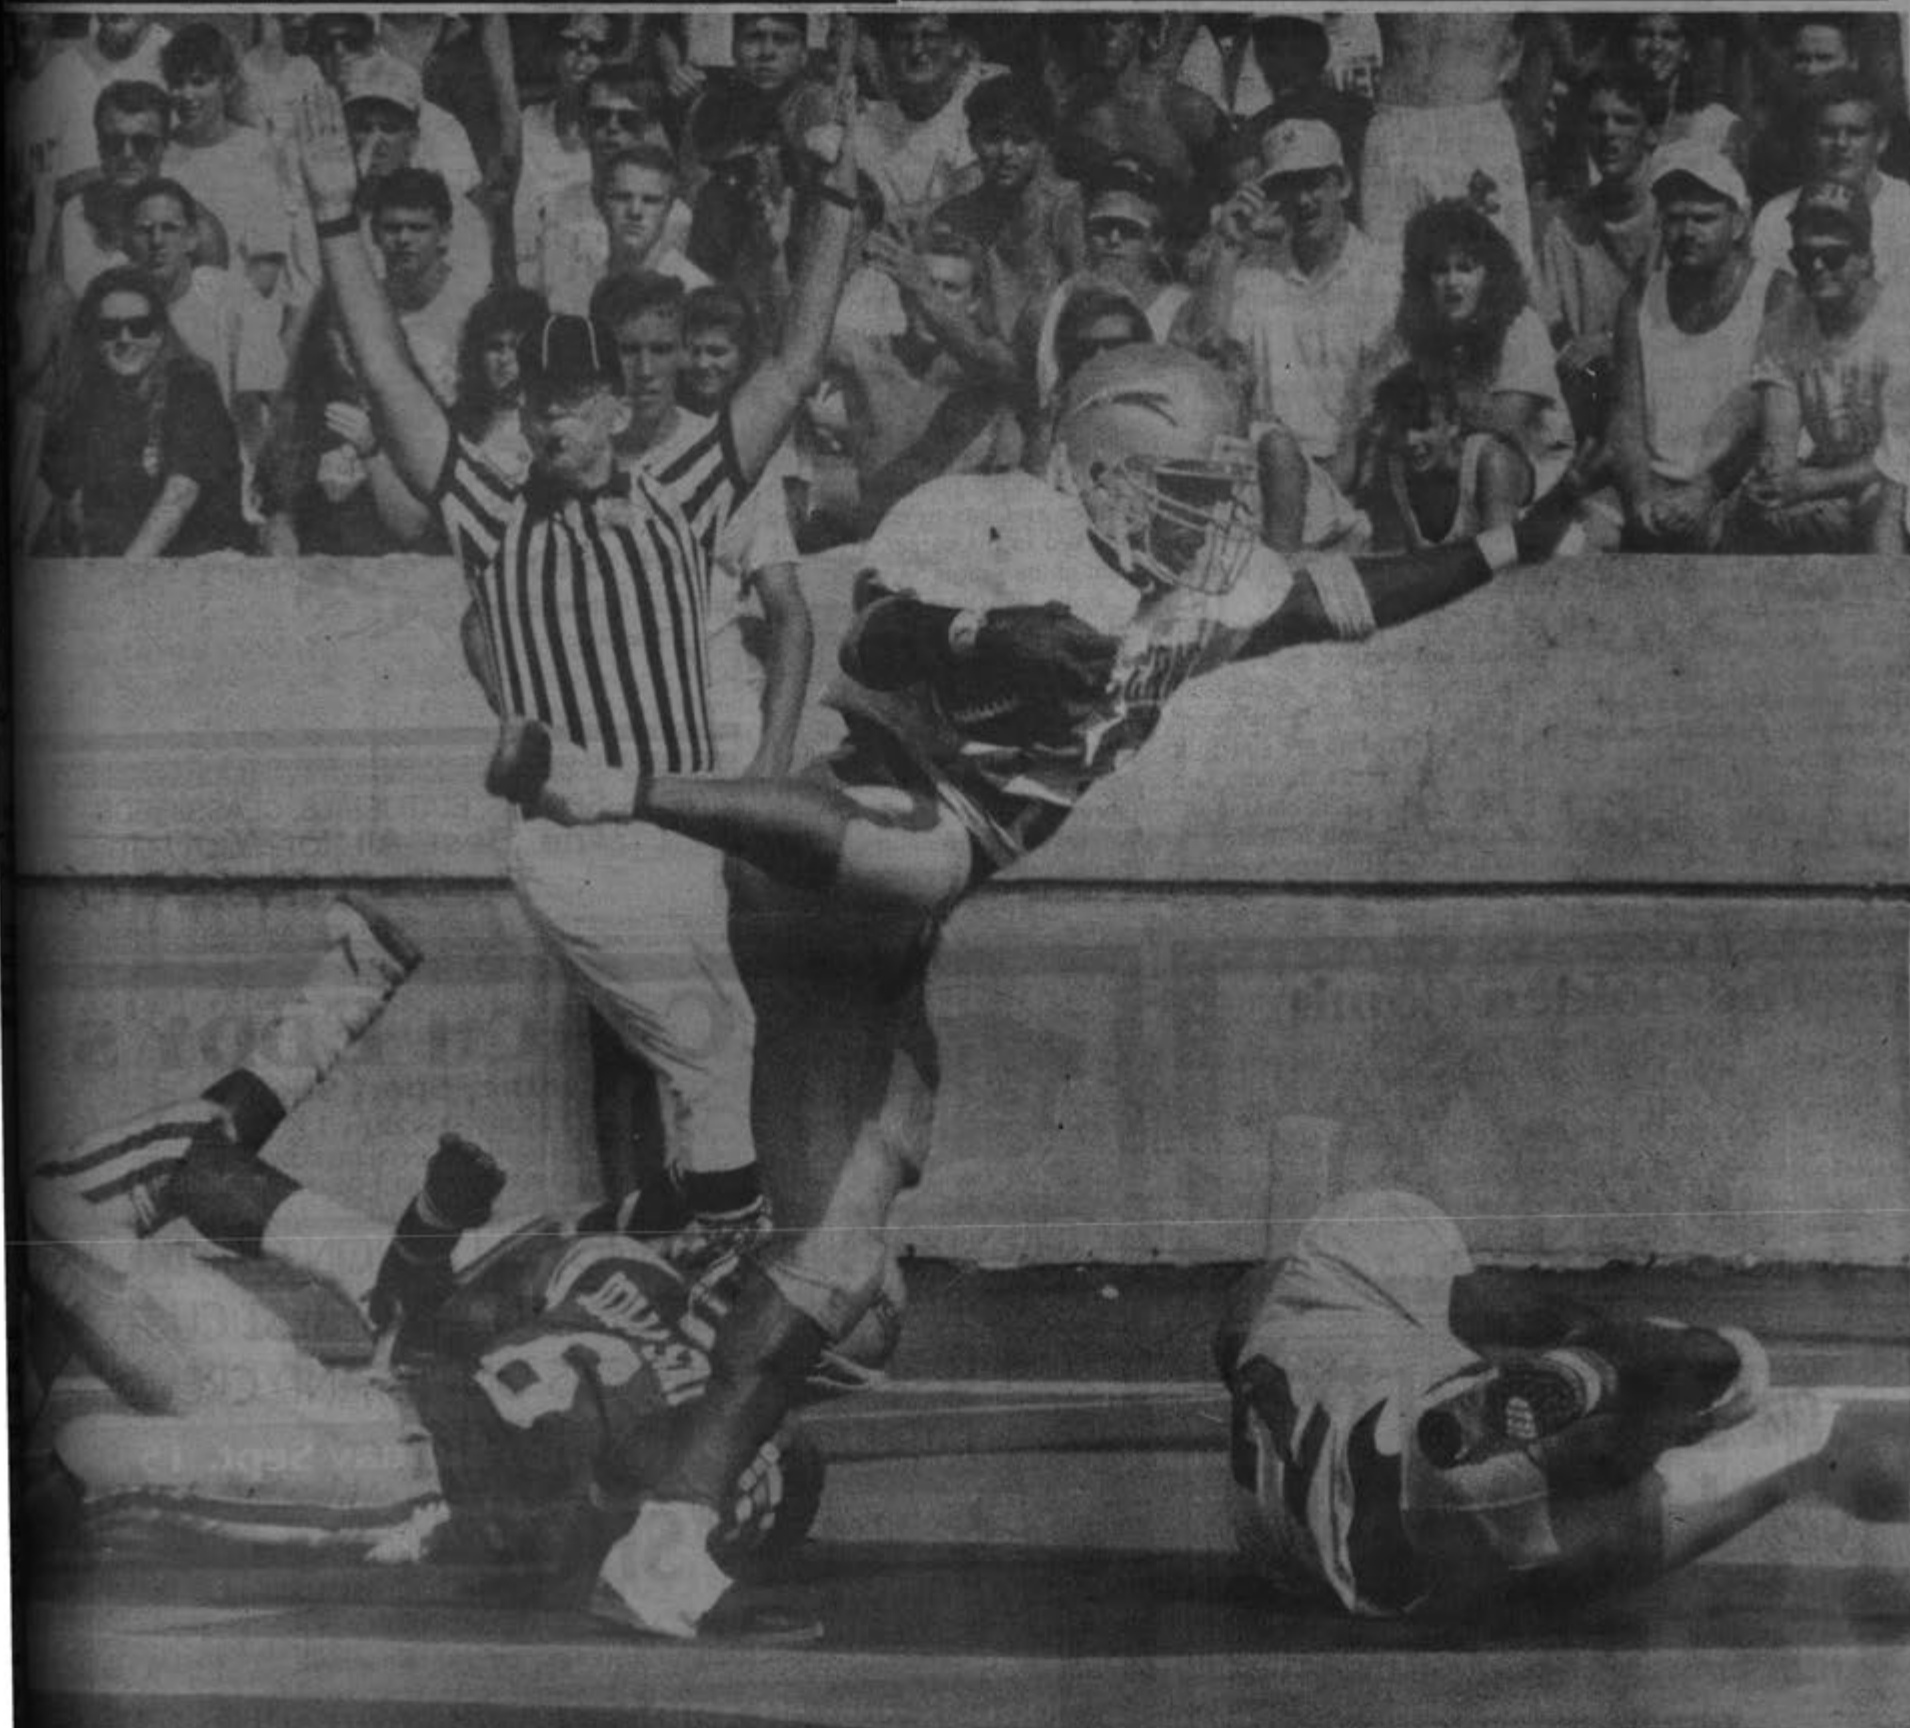

Charleston native and former Eastern baseball player Scott Royer singled for the St. Louis Cardinals in his first major league at bat Wednesday.

Royer's hit came in a 3-1 Cardinal loss to the division-leading Pirates.

Hitting Paydirt Spoo's experienced squad sets sights on Gateway crown

By J. GERBER
Staff Editor

In his fifth season as Eastern's head football coach, Spoo, who took the Panthers to the Division I-AA national title in 1989, looks to make a return trip with his squad, which returns 19 seniors from last season's 5-6 team, who picked his team to win the Gateway Football Conference's title in 1991, said although he has had three losing seasons out of four, things could change this year with the most seniors he's had while at Eastern.

"In the four years that have already transpired, three of them were losing seasons, that's very disappointing," Spoo, who has amassed a 25-23 record at Eastern. "I'm confident the powers to be will be looking at those kind of things. We understand as coaches that if you're in the business, that's part of the turf, part of the job description at most places.

"Being representative, it's in the perspective of the people that control that," he added. "Much depends on their emphasis. Yes, they want to be successful, yes, they want to be competitive. Maybe there is a great deal to do with the progress of your players academically and the image of your football team. In those regards, I feel very good about it."

After splitting their first two games of 1991, (a 62-16 victory over Division II Lock Haven and a 42-13 loss to Iowa State), the Panthers host Eastern Washington (I-AA) at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at O'Brien Stadium. Spoo said the one thing that he isn't happy with is the years other than 1989.

"We're still above .500 as far as the record goes," said the Purdue graduate. "By the same token, I'm not sure that there's any coach alive who wouldn't look back and say that there's some games they shouldn't have lost. That's the one aspect that I'm not pleased about; that in the four years, three have been three less than .500."

Northern Iowa, which was picked to win the Gateway in a preseason poll of coaches and sports information directors, should be challenged in the league race by Eastern and Southwest Missouri State.

"There's so many variables," said Spoo of the conference title chase. "It's hard to predict, but I do continue to feel like there's a strong possibility that we could easily contend for the championship. But I'm sure there's other coaches that feel the same way."

before jumping into Gateway action Oct. 5 against Western Illinois. Spoo said he and his staff are taking a different approach with his squad compared to last year.

"Last year I think we gave them more of a down the line (approach)," said Spoo.

"This year we're really kind of focusing on one game at a time. We're not interested in anything beyond Eastern Washington at this point in time, we hope we've learned lessons from each of our two previous games.

"I've not lost any of the enthusiasm that I had at the outset and I don't think our team has. Their goals are lofty and should be, and they're attainable. So I'm hoping things will turn out like they did a couple years ago."

One of the seniors who has been with Spoo throughout his four seasons is All-America tailback candidate Jamie Jones, who said it makes a big difference that the players know their roles and how to go about them.

"He's (Spoo) been here four years and his system is intact," said Jones, who is averaging 157.5 all-purpose yards per game in the Panthers' first two contests.

"He knows his system better than anybody else and now he's got his players and his coaches to understand the system as well. I think that's going to help us out a lot."

Joining Jones in the backfield is a slew of running backs including junior tailback Edson Castillo, and fullbacks Broc Montgomery and Jamie Pilson. Freshman Bill Korosec, who won the punt return job during the preseason, has also made some contributions.

At quarterback the Panthers are led by sophomore Jeff Thorne, who leads the Gateway in pass efficiency rating.

He has connected for four touchdown passes this season, two of which were caught by senior flanker Jason Cook.

The offensive line returns preseason All-Gateway center Brad Fichtel and four other starters besides one of four Panther co-captains, tight end Tim Moore.

"It still remains to be seen, but you'd like to think the more experienced the players are, the more effective they're going to be on the field," said Spoo. "The more alert and assignment competent they're going to be (by being experienced).

"And hopefully for a group of guys that have been together as long as they have been, the more determined to ensure that this is a successful year. Those are three really important aspects of having this group for an extended period of time."

The Panther defense also returns some talent as well. The line is anchored by tackle Kent McIntyre, who leads the squad with 16 total tackles and four quarterback sacks through two games. McIntyre is coming off of a junior season in which he was honored as a Sport Network All-American.

Joining McIntyre on the line is tackle Dan Dee, right end Joe Remke, and left end Dan Wegrzyn. Also, Derrick Lane, who was selected as the defensive player of the game against Iowa State, should see more time Saturday, Spoo said. Lane collected 10 tackles, a tackle for loss and he also forced a fumble.

The linebacking positions are manned by co-captain Mike Settles and freshman Paul Pennington has seen some starting action alongside the senior from Lombard.

Free safety Tony Farrell, another co-captain along with Jones, leads the Panther secondary. Jeff Miles is at the other free safety position and he is second on the team with Settles and Dee in tackles with 13.

Kevin Gales, who transferred to Eastern from Triton Community College, gets the nod at right cornerback, alongside sophomore Shannon Sutton. Eric Dircks is the starter at the nickelback position.

All-Gateway Conference punter Brian Pindar is averaging 42.9 yards per punt through two games and has never had one blocked in his career. His long punt of the year is 54 yards.

Four Panthers are nursing injuries heading into Saturday's contest against Eastern Washington.

Offensive tackle Dan Purcell (sprained right knee) and linebacker Warren Cushingberry (sprained ankle) are doubtful. Wegrzyn (shoulder) and Cook (bruised elbow) are probable.

Gateway spiker race up in air

BY KEITH FARROLL
Staff writer

At this point in the season, it's too early to tell which volleyball team is going to dominate in the Gateway Conference, but in the Gateway Coaches Poll Northern Iowa was chosen as the team to beat.

The Northern Iowa purple Panthers were picked to be the front runner in the Gateway this year. Northern Iowa has nine returning lettermen including four returning starters. Last season UNI was undefeated in the conference and represented the Gateway in the Women's Invitational Volleyball Championship.

The top four teams, in order, according to the poll are Northern Iowa, Southwest Missouri State, Illinois State and Wichita State.

Eastern coach Betty Ralston, whose team is picked eighth out of 10 teams said it was premature to predict any team to win the conference because the league has become more competitive. She did point out that Northern Iowa, Southwest Missouri State and Illinois State are always a force in the Gateway.

As far as the Gateway Conference tournament is concerned, Ralston said the conference itself features much more competitiveness. She added she would like to see each team play each other two times instead of only one time during the season. To go to the conference tournament, a team must finish in the top four in league standings.

The Lady Panthers will play nine Gateway Conference matches, five of which are away and four at home.

"We want to be successful at home," said Ralston, whose team has gotten off to a 3-4 start. "The better we do now, the better we'll do later. If we do better in the home matches then it will make the away matches easier.

"Three (Northern Iowa, Southwest Missouri State and Wichita State) of the top five teams are away games," said Ralston.

To open up the Gateway Conference, Eastern is scheduled to travel to Southwest Missouri State and the following day the Lady Panthers play Wichita State.

"This weekend we go to Southwest and Wichita, we will be without (junior) Lori Olson. That weekend will not be an easy task. We have to win at least one of those games. I'd really like to beat Southwest," Ralston said.

"The season on a whole should be more meaningful than the last four weeks of the season," said Ralston.

Before conference play begins, Eastern is scheduled to play in the Eastern Michigan Tournament. Ralston believes this tournament will help her team when the conference season starts up. Eastern Michigan is a regionally ranked team.

"You like to schedule tough opponents because we can try new things," said Ralston.

In order for Eastern to be in the race for the top four spots in the Gateway, the team will have to stay healthy.

"We've had our ups and downs with the young team," said Ralston. "Injuries have hurt us. We haven't had all 10 players (healthy) all year. We felt we needed everyone. We have to play nine people every match. Everyone has a role to play."

Presently, junior Shelly Stuckwisch is looking to get back to full strength as she has only seen limited time due to an ankle injury.

"I think we will give people a lot more competition than what people think. We'll surprise some people," said sophomore Kim Traub.

Another thing Ralston stressed which would be important to the season would be its mental and physical preparedness.

"There have been setbacks. We have to be prepared mentally and physically for every match," said Ralston. "We weren't prepared for the Northern (Illinois) match. Other than the Northern match, we played well. We had our chances in the other six matches. Hopefully, that's the only match all year."

Leading the way for the Panthers this year have been sophomores Susie Green, Traub, Amy Van Eekeren and Olson. Green is second on the team with 76 kills and is second with 85 digs. Traub leads the team in kills (80), hitting percentage (.289), and total blocks (32).

Van Eekeren returns as the starting setter. She leads the team in assists with 216 and is third on the team with 59 digs. Olson leads the team with 94 digs and is third on the team with 63 kills.

Traub comes around in sophomore season

BY KEITH FARROLL
Staff writer

After sitting on the bench most of last season, sophomore middle hitter Kim Traub has emerged to be one of Eastern's top guns this year.

"Last year I had a lot of time to watch and see things from the bench," said Traub, who participated in only six games all of last season. "I saw some things and I came out and did what I wanted to do (this season)."

During the spring of last year, Traub injured her knee dancing and re-injured her knee in a volleyball game. She sat out last summer nursing the injury. During the preseason, the knee did not slow her down as she proved herself as the starting middle hitter.

One of the biggest adjustments for Traub was getting used to the higher level of play.

"The speed of play was a lot quicker," said Traub. "I need to watch the ball more than watching the (opposing) players."

"People are going to be gunning for her," said Coach Betty Ralston about Traub's attack. "For Conference, I want her to build her confidence level. We need her to be effective."

Traub has posted some respectable statistics in her first season as a full time starter. Her 80 kills, 32 blocks and her .289 hitting percentage are tops among the Eastern volleyball team.

"I like hitting and blocking both, but they can be really frustrating," said Traub.

"Her strong point is her hitting and blocking. She's very aggressive," said Ralston. "She just had to get her timing down and adjust to the quicker play. Her back row needs work because she has spent most of the time working in the front row. In the spring we'll work with her on the back row."

Traub admits that her back row skills have room for improvement.

"I need to work on my passing

and I can be more aggressive on my serve," Traub said.

She added her personal best game was against Marquette in the final game of the Akron Invitational because her back row was decent.

"I was passing well. It feels good to know that I can help in other areas rather than blocking and hitting," Traub said.

"She wants to turn herself into a complete player. It'll get there," said Ralston. "She's got to keep her front row play good. We'll still play the people who can play in the back row. She has a tough serve so she will see some time in the back row."

With a team which has no seniors on the roster, Traub said one of things she would like to see come out of this team would be a leader.

"We need to establish some leaders, someone we can turn to turn like in the Northern Illinois and the U of I matches," said Traub.

Ralston believes Traub may have put herself in that leadership role.

"People are already looking up to her," said Ralston. "Kim's an outgoing person. She's not afraid to say anything."

Women netters sport new look

By RYAN GIUSTI
Staff writer

New seems to be the popular word around Eastern's women's tennis team this year.

The Lady Panthers return only four letter winners from last year's squad. Five freshmen and a junior college transfer make up the rest of this year's team. But the biggest addition may be new coach John Ross.

Ross starts his first season as women's tennis coach, replacing Grant Alexander, who guided the Lady Panthers for six seasons. Ross doesn't see the lack of experience as a problem.

"I'm very excited," Ross said. "If we get the leadership from our seniors, we will be a tough team to beat."

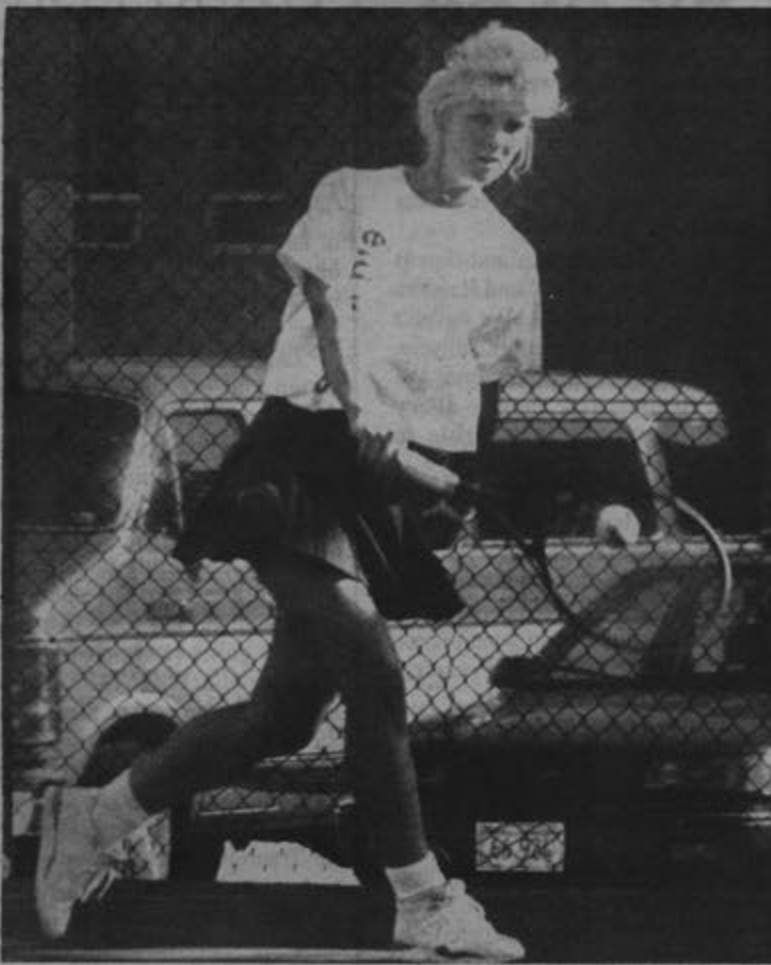

The seniors Ross was referring to are the team's tri-captains: Jill Bachochin, Dawn Brannon, and Missy Holste. Holste will play at No. 2 singles, while Bachochin and Brannon will play singles at Nos. 3 and 4, respectively. Sophomore Kris Madura is the only other player to return from last year's team.

Five freshmen have made the team this year and some may contribute immediately. Samantha Wulfers a product of Normal Community High School, has already been named by Ross as No. 1 at singles. Other freshmen such as Sarah Lackey, Lara McCluskey, Kathy Truman and Melissa Welch hope to make big impacts as well. The remaining singles spots are still undetermined.

Despite being freshmen, Ross said they all play beyond their years.

"I don't see it as a problem," Ross said. "They are extremely mature as freshmen, and I think they will be able to overcome their lack of experience at this level."

Injured junior Lisa Berg rounds out the team's roster. Berg transferred from a junior college and is in her first year at Eastern.

Dawn Brannon, one of three senior co-captains, hopes to lead the new-look Lady Panthers this fall.

With such a young team, Ross said he thinks some teams might take the Lady Panthers for granted.

"I think we will surprise some teams," Ross said. "Some teams seeing we have so many freshmen may take us lightly."

The toughest competition Eastern will face this year in the Gateway Conference will probably come from Illinois State and Southern Illinois.

The Lady Panthers have back-to-back meets on the road against ISU and SIU. Eastern travels to Normal on Sept. 17 to take on the Lady Redbirds, then its on the road again to Carbondale on Sept. 21. These will be two key matchups for the Lady Panthers this fall in their quest to claim the Gateway title.

It will be a tough road Bachochin said.

"Last year's team had a more solid top six," Bachochin said of the team's singles play. "This year's top six is a little shaky."

Co-captain Brannon says it's too early to tell how the team will fare this fall. "We'll just have to wait and see," Brannon said.

The Lady Panthers open their season at 9:30 p.m. Saturday against Sangamon State at Weller Courts.

Booters look to rebound

writer

The Eastern soccer team will be looking to regain its Mid-Continent form this season after ending a disappointing 5-11-2 record last year.

After dominating the Mid-Continent for many years the Panthers finished fourth place a year ago. They have won five of the eight conference championships and have an overall record of 31-6-3 in league play.

The Eastern will be led this season by the return of four All-Mid-Continent Conference players and also a new recruit in freshman Paul Agyeman.

Seniors, Terry Dixon and Tom Pardo, were named to the second team last year, sophomore defender Jim Harkness was a second team All-Mid-Con selection and having four goals and an assist as a freshman last fall and Aaron Hollimon is back for his senior season after red-shirting last year because of a broken Hollimon was an all-conference performer in 1988 and has accumulated 13 goals and 11 assists, while being a three-year starter for the Panther squad.

Pardo and Hollimon were named as co-captains of the team for the second year in a row by head coach Cizo Mosnia. "Tom is very talented," Mosnia said. "He has the ability to take over a game with deceiving passes. He is also capable of scoring goals. Terry is a player you like to have on your team. He is aggressive and very much involved in the game. Tom is a reliable player. He can attack and defend. Tom is our player as well as our leader."

Aaron is an exciting player to watch. He has a good touch on the ball, reads the game well and is capable of scoring, which makes him an asset to our team. Aaron is a leader."

Looking for some scoring after only scoring 23 goals last season, Mosnia recruited Pardo from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

The Eastern opened its season with two impressive victories. The Panthers defeated the leaders of Valparaiso 9-0 in the opener and followed that performance with a decisive 4-0 victory over the University of Illinois-Chicago.

Hollimon and Agyeman have already contributed to the team in a big way. Hollimon scored two goals and added two assists and Agyeman was the leading scorer in the Midwest after the first weekend when he scored five goals and assisted on another.

Those two players are one difference from the team of a year ago Mosnia said.

"They are flashy type of players," Mosnia said. "We lacked that last year. They are able to get the ball upfield and hold it there and that gives the rest of the team a chance to support them."

Another difference that Mosnia points out is the attitude of the team.

"The attitude of the players is much different than last year," Mosnia said. "It is much better this year. The players want to win and they want to prove to the people that last season just was not a good year for them."

Also looking to play a major role on the team this season will be senior fullback Jeff Bullock, who was chosen as the team's most valuable player last year, George Janovich, who scored four goals for the second year in a row and junior forward Tom Waters, the team's second leading scorer in 1990.

Sophomores John Gouriotis and Eric Manibog are both expected to see playing time this year in the net after both picked up experience last season as freshmen.

Manibog played in eight games and had a goals against average of 2.05 and Gouriotis had a GAA of 1.20, while appearing in four contests.

Eastern will need a strong performance out of its goalies this season as they play three teams that advanced to the 28-team NCAA tournament last season in Illinois State, Southern Methodist and St. Louis.

The Panthers play their first of 10 home games at 3 p.m. Sunday when they take on the Hawks of Quincy College at Lakeside Field.

Pardo leads soccer team by example

writer

Being a defenseman on a soccer team often goes unnoticed by an average fan, but Tom Pardo certainly is recognized by head coach Mosnia and his teammates.

Pardo, a senior fullback will be expected to play a major role on the Eastern squad if it hopes to regain its Mid-Continent Conference dominance. Mosnia showed his confidence in Pardo by naming him as co-captain along with Aaron Hollimon for the second year in a row.

Pardo is one of the seniors and is looked up to by the players," Mosnia said. "I think he is a key player in the back and yet he can attack on the offensive end of the field. I think he startled the defense this weekend when he came into the net. He's a good leader. He is going out (his senior season) on a high note."

Pardo, who was a second-team conference performer last fall, and helped the Panthers to two shutouts this past weekend. He said that he tries to lead by example.

"I consider myself a leader," Pardo said. "But I try to be more of a role model to the players. I try to lead on the field and I try to help the other guys by setting a good example."

Pardo, who is not looked upon to score for the team, but still has five assists in his career at Eastern, said that he prides himself more on keeping the ball out of the net.

"My goal is to just stop most goals," Pardo said. "All of our defenders say to each other, let's keep the ball out of the goal and we did a good job of that this weekend."

"As far as the team goes we just want to have a winning season. We're expecting to have a good year and our goal has to be to reach the NCAA tournament."

After the season ends, along with Pardo's collegiate playing career, he would like to continue playing soccer some place.

"I would like to continue playing ball when I am out of college, but I'm really not sure yet," Pardo said. "I'm just going to see how the season goes and then I will make a decision when the year is over."

Top three return for Lady Panthers

By JEFF ORMOND
Staff writer

Eastern's women's cross country coach John Craft leaves no doubt about what he expects from his team in 1991.

"We're not out there to have fun," said Craft. "Our primary thrust is to win. Fun is secondary. Intramural (athletics) is where you have fun. We're out to get first place whenever we can. Our goal is to finish in the top three in the Gateway (Conference)."

Craft's team will aim for first place with three of his best runners returning from last year's squad and some freshmen athletes who hope to make an impact.

Sophomore Brooke Roberts was Eastern's top finisher Saturday in the Lady Panther's season-opening triangular meet at Southern Illinois-Carbondale with a time of 19:16.84, good for fifth place. Senior Laurie Mizener finished 15th overall despite suffering from a severe blister on her foot. And junior Jaye Rhudy placed 10th at 19:40.50.

Craft said Rhudy shows leadership qualities that will benefit his younger runners.

"Jaye Rhudy is my captain," said Craft. "She sets a good example. She gives 100 percent and runs her heart out all the time. If I have to look for one person (to lead), it would be her, (because) of her work ethic and the kinds of things she does for the team. The captain is the glue that solidifies the team."

One of the Lady Panthers' freshmen that has impressed Craft is Amy Bersig, who finished 12th at Southern in her first collegiate race with a mark of 19:58.81.

"Amy has been a pleasant surprise," said Craft. "When you actually see (a recruit) work out day in and day out, she is a surprise because of her work ethic and because of the way (she) is progressing. (Amy) is that way."

"She is a strong young lady and is responding to training well. She's a good worker and also an excellent student. It's a joy to my heart - she does the kind of things that make your day pleasant."

Other freshmen on this year's team are: Jamie Heath, Christy Henehan, Julie Henzler, Irma Perez, and Julie Perkins.

Craft said one of his team's most important meets, in addition to the Gateway Championship, will be the Midwest Collegiate Championship at Kenosha, Wis.

"The big challenge will be Kenosha," said Craft. "We're (deciding now) which nine of us will go to Kenosha." Craft can only enter nine of his 12 athletes in the Midwest Championship.

Craft added that he would probably enter two or three of his runners in the NCAA Regional Championship in November.

"We will go on to the regional competition," said Craft. "We have a few people who have an outside chance of doing well there."

In an attempt to reduce injuries, Craft said he has changed his approach to conditioning his team.

"We've made some radical changes," said Craft. "They will not be allowed to run on roads. All of their work is on grass. I'm hoping that will eliminate injuries like tired legs. For conditioning, we're using the pool once a week in our morning workouts."

The Lady Panthers travel to Peoria Friday to compete in the Bradley Open.

Newcomers hope to lead Harriers

BRIAN HARRIS

Staff writer

As the men's cross country heads into its season, one goal looms in the distance - winning the Mid-Continent Conference meet.

Last year with the Fagan phenomenon of twin brothers Jim and John leading the way, the Harriers finished a close third.

Now, with a strong lead group, and with talented newcomers, the Panthers expect to have a better showing. This year the team will host the Mid-Con championships on a newly laid out 8,000-meter course at Lantz Gym.

Coaches Neil Moore and John Shaffer both said that the new members will make a significant contribution.

"We have a good group of people that could make a contribution," said Moore. The primary goal is to win the conference meet. Our first year in the conference we missed winning by one point and we have been striving to get it ever since. This year we have a real chance."

Eastern's leading runners include seniors Eric Baron and Scott Touchette. Both made big improvements last year in track.

These improvements will undoubtedly deliver benefits in cross country.

Sophomores John Eggenberger and Kenric Bond will be among Eastern's front runners as well.

Eggenberger was Eastern's top performer in the District IV meet last season with a 32:54.6 performance over 10,000 meters.

Bond is Eastern's top returning 800-meter runner in track (1:53.3), and was also on last year's traveling team in cross country.

Newly acquired freshmen Brian Gray and Nate Shaffer could also contribute significantly this season. Gray, a native of Peoria was Eastern's fourth runner two weeks ago at the Alumni Open, which was run over four miles.

Shaffer, a graduate of Lincoln Way High School in New Lenox, was a state finalist in the 1,600-meter run his senior year.

Panther golf squad has Lueken 'excited'

By R.J. GERBER

Sports editor

Eastern golf coach Paul Lueken, who begins his seventh season at the helm, will field the biggest roster of his career as the Panthers will try to improve on their sixth-place Mid-Continent Conference performance of a season ago.

"I'm excited," said Lueken, who also serves as an assistant athletic director at Eastern. "We've got 13 guys on the roster and that's the most I've ever had. People have turned out and I can't cut it down."

"We've got some new players so it's going to be fun. (Freshman) Brian Holmes should get some experience right away. We're going to throw him right into the fire. Tom Rank is our No. 1 guy and after Nos. 3 and 4, everybody's pretty even."

The Panthers will be without the services of two-time all-conference performer and 1988 Mid-Con medalist Kevin Triefenbach, who graduated.

The Panthers' top returning player is Rank, the only senior on the 13-man roster. Rank tied for 15th place in the conference last season, firing a three-round total of 231. Also back are sophomores Craig Cassata and David Henry. Cassata tied for 34th among 45 players and Henry tied for 37th.

Eastern hosts its own invitational Sept. 27 and also competes in the Illinois State Invite Oct. 6-7. The Mid-Con Tournament is Sept. 30-Oct. 1.

Jones looks to spearhead Panther offense

File photo

All-American candidate Jamie Jones leads the 1991 Panther rushing attack. The Panthers hope to nail down their first playoff berth since 1989 with the help of Jones and 18 other seniors.

Good things in store for Panthers

It's time to gaze into the crystal ball and see what's in store for the 1991 version of the Eastern Panthers.

The facts are that the Panthers should be good, damn good. With senior All-American candidate Jamie Jones, a three-year starting tailback, leading the rushing attack and a fully recovered Jeff Thorne back to his quarterbacking duties, the Panthers will put a lot of points on the board.

They proved that early in the year when they demolished Lock Haven (Pa.) University in what turned out to be a warm-up contest 62-16.

With a defensive front anchored by senior defensive tackle Kent McIntyre, who was named second team All-American by The Sports Network, and a secondary with preseason All-Gateway pick Tony Farrell, it will be hard for many of the Panthers' Gateway foes to put points on the board.

The Panthers are this year's mystery team of the Gateway. After a third place 3-3 finish a year ago, the Panthers were picked anywhere from finishing first to fifth place in the preseason polls.

Don O'Brien

Associate sports editor

The other three top Gateway teams in the preseason polls were Illinois State, Southwest Missouri State and Northern Iowa, which was the consensus pick as the top team.

The Panthers schedule has both good news and bad news. The good news is the fact that they face two of those three (ISU and SMSU) at home this season. The bad news lies in the last two weeks of the Panther agenda. They host SMSU in a Parents Weekend game on Nov. 16 and turn around the next weekend and travel to Northern Iowa, both UNI and SMSU tied for the Gateway crown last year.

The Panthers more than have their work cut out for them, because their season and playoff hopes will come down to those last two weekends.

They should handle the rest of their Gateway schedule up to those last two weekends. If they should happen to slide through those first four games without a loss, it would take a win in either of the last two games to gain a spot in the playoffs.

So my prediction for the senior dominated Panther team is a final record of 8-3 with a 5-1 mark in the Gateway with a big win over Southwest Missouri at home to clinch a playoff spot.

Three-year letterman climbing rushing charts

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

Senior tailback Jamie Jones gives several reasons why he could move into the top three on the all-time Eastern rushing list by the end of this season.

"I believe it's a mixture of everything - vision, instincts, having to know what down it is and what you have to do to get the first down," said the All-America candidate. "You have to take it play-by-play. Sometimes things just don't go right on plays and you have to adjust. Modify and adjust - we talk about that all the time. I guess I've just been lucky doing that."

So lucky, in fact, that the 5-foot-7, 160-pounder from Kevil, Ken., was selected as a preseason All-Gateway Conference pick, after making the second team the past two seasons.

Jones, who said he chose Eastern over more familiar surroundings such as Murray State, Austin Peay and Tennessee-Martin, was fifth in I-AA last season with 146.3 all-purpose yards per game. This season, after the Panthers' first two contests, he is netting 157.5 per game, but that included only two quarters of action in Eastern's season-opening 62-16 blowout of Lock Haven.

The second-leading rusher in the Gateway last season, Jones, said he had nothing goal-oriented in mind when he came to Eastern as a freshman.

"I didn't really have any goals set career-wise when I first came in," he said. "but now, I can look back and see that I've made my mark at Eastern, and look back and see what I've accomplished."

His 2,063 rushing yards coming into his senior campaign rank him sixth on the all-time Panther list, but center Brad Fichtel has bigger plans for Jones. Fichtel said it was a goal of the Panther offensive line to make Jones the leading rusher in the country this season; something that Jones, himself, doesn't think about much.

"That's the way I look maybe those things will come. But you always goals as a person and offense. That's one of the men's goals and even don't reach that goal, we striving harder to reach goal, to make us better. It seem like it's unattainable, that's going to make me harder to do better on down road."

After making the playoffs in 1989, Jones said the experienced Panther squad, which includes 19 seniors, realizes that it has the potential to get back to season action.

"It's obviously a goal with much experience and I think is a team that is capable of going to the playoffs," he said. "We look at it in steps. We look at it as winning the conference championship first, and then moving on to the playoffs. We have a lot of those people who were on that team before, we know what it takes and we know what we have to do to get there. We're taking it slow and we fully we'll be there."

He added that the Panthers know they will be in a dogfight for the Gateway Championship but the experience of playing should be an asset.

"It's a lot more competitive definitely, this year. Each game in the Gateway you can't get ahead to the next week because you've got to worry about the next week. To win the Gateway Conference you've got to win all your home games - at least and almost all your road games. So it's going to be a tough one and I think we know that."

There is one more thing the sleek running back hopes to accomplish before his time at Eastern Panther is through - beat Northern Iowa.

"Personally, and the team would like to beat Northern Iowa up in the dome because we've never done that here at Eastern. I'd like to be part of that. As an organization - football team - it would be an honor to be the first to do something like that."
