Seminar will remain part of curriculum

By ARINNE CURTIS
 Staff writer

Senior seminar will remain a part of Eastern's general education curriculum - for the time being. However, their elimination could be reconsidered in the future, Eastern President David Jorns said Sunday.

"Right now, we're not inclined to eliminate senior seminar," Jorns said. "We weren't able to predict for sure that we would be able to save the money that we needed."

The Council on University Planning and Budget had recommended in February the elimination of senior seminar classes as part of its plan to reallocate $1.6 million of Eastern's internal budget. It estimated that eliminating senior seminars could save $150,000.

Jorns also said elimination of senior seminar courses would inconvenience many students, and that such a move just isn't worth the trouble right now.

Consideration of ending the seminars has been postponed for now, and no date has been set for reconsideration, Jorns said.

Barbara Hill, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said another reason for keeping the program was to allow faculty the opportunity to maintain their salaries.

"The money we would have to generate would have to come from faculty salaries," Hill said. "We did not want to prevent faculty from having the opportunity to have that salary."

Fifteen to 20 faculty members teach senior seminar courses.

Kipp Kruse, a zoology professor and a senior seminar committee member, said he understands the elimination of senior seminar would have saved money only if two credit hours were knocked off the general education requirements.

"If you were to cut this out, the faculty would have been teaching another class in their discipline," Kruse said.

Hill said another reason the administration decided not to abolish the courses was because senior seminar has been a general education requirement for two years. Also, the Council on Academic Affairs would have to be consulted before the seminars could be eliminated.

Kruse said the faculty's objective in creating the senior seminar courses was to offer students classes that developed critical thinking and writing skills in a discipline outside of their majors. Since the seminars have been successful, he said it would not have been a good idea to abolish the classes.

Reactions of senior seminar instructors to the announcement that the program will remain part of general education were mixed.

"If they're willing to fund it as a regular seminar - with a limit of 12

Eastern steam and pipe fitter Bob Beasley removes ceiling tiles while determining the location of a water leak that spilled nearly 1,000 gallons onto the floor of the ceramics room in the Fine Arts building Sunday afternoon.

1,000 gallons flood Fine Arts

By ADAM McHUGH
 Campus editor

A broken pipe is being attributed as the cause of a 1,000 gallon leak that occurred Sunday in the ceramics/pottery room of the Fine Arts Building.

Brenda Tucker, an Eastern job service maintenance worker, spotted water pouring through ceiling tiles at approximately 4:50 p.m.

Tucker said she called her supervisor at 4:55 p.m., stating that water had been spouting out of the ceiling for about 15 minutes when she had arrived.

"I knew right when I walked into the room that there was trouble," she said.

Tucker said she then called the University Police Department, which arrived within minutes.

At 5 p.m., Tucker said she called a member of Eastern's steam and pipe fitter services.

At about 5:45 p.m., building service employees Charles McKinney and Leland Kirkley arrived, assessed the situation and returned with a wet/dry vacuum around 6 p.m.

McKinney and Kirkley began collecting the water in the 10-gallon vacuum, with the water still pouring out of the broken pipe.

Ballot set for April 21 senate elections

By SHERRY SIDWELL
 Student government editor

With only nine days to go until the April 21 Student Government election, the ballot is set.

Six candidates will vie for five executive senate positions. Twenty-four candidates are running for 19 open senate seats.

Candidates for executive senate positions include Luke Neumann for student body president, Chad Turner and Shirley Von Bokel for executive vice president, Blake Wood for financial vice president, Ron Carmona for Board of Governors representative and Matt Giordano for chief of staff.

Neumann, a junior, is running as an Integrity Party candidate for the position of student body president. Neumann is currently speaker of the senate.

Turner, a junior political science major, is running as an Integrity Party candidate for the executive vice president position. Turner is currently a senate member.

Von Bokel, a junior health studies major, is running as an independent candidate for the position of executive vice president. Von

Senate forum on Monday

Students are invited to learn about Student Government issues in an open forum Monday titled "Get to Know Your Student Government."

The forum, which will take place at 7:30 p.m. in the Taylor Hall lobby, will feature a panel of past and present Student Senate members.

"Its main goal is to give students an opportunity to learn about issues that will affect them," said senate member Bobby Smith. "It's a chance to enlighten students and let them know what's going on." Smith will be a member of the panel.

Smith said topics may include changes to be made in the textbook rental system, the proposed college restructuring and the upcoming April 21 Student Government election.

Smith said the forum was organized by Jeff Waldhoff, a former senate member and Taylor Hall resident assistant.

Waldhoff was unavailable for comment Sunday.

- Staff report

Bokel is a former senate member and the only independent vying for an executive position.

Wood, a senior political science and history major, is running as an Integrity Party candidate for the position of financial vice president. Wood is a former senate member and a former speaker of the senate. He ran unsuccessfully for the position of executive vice president in the 1992 spring election.

Carmona, a senior engineering and economics major, is running as an Integrity Party candidate for the position of Board of Governors representative. Carmona is currently financial vice president of the senate and chairman of the Apportionment Board.

Giordano, a sophomore political science major, is running as an Integrity Party candidate for the chief of staff position. Giordano has been a member of the senate since February 1992.

All executive senate positions receive full-tuition waivers.

Nineteen senate positions will be filled in the election. Six-and-a-half on-campus seats, four full off-campus seats, two one-half off-campus seats and seven at-large seats will be open, said Senate Elections Chairman Jody Stone.

A half seat is open for only one semester and up for re-election in the fall November election.

Stone said an additional half off-campus seat opened when senate member Dan Fultz resigned.

"(Fultz's) term was going to end in the fall semester," Stone said. "But I believe he was going to graduate in May and would have vacated the position anyway, so his resignation saved the senate the time of finding a replacement for him in the fall."

Creation forum on Monday

The founder and director of Creation Education Association, Inc., will use scripture and science in his attempt to disclaim the theory of evolution Monday in the University Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Founder Eugene Sattler's presentation, "Evolution: The Incredible Hoax," which is being sponsored by the Christian Campus Fellowship, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Sattler will discuss the issue of dinosaurs roaming the planet before humans and the meaning of the Great Flood to science and Christianity.

Tina Kramer, a senior elementary education major and one of the coordinators for the event, said, "I think a presentation like this needs to be brought to campus because there are so many views on it."

students - then I think it should be kept," said Robert Barford, a philosophy professor who teaches a senior seminar on the future of humanity. "But if it continues as it is, a two-hour lecture course, it's less appealing in the light of other urgent needs of the university."

Ronald Wohlstein, a sociology professor who teaches a senior seminar course on social movement, crowds and violence, was supportive of the decision.

"I think it's an important part of the general education program," Wohlstein said. "If you look at it historically, it has always gotten a good amount of support."

However, Wohlstein said if money is an issue, then the Council on Academic Affairs should look at the entire general education program to decide where it can save money.

Leak

At approximately 6:15 p.m., Bob Beasley of Eastern's steam and pipe fitters services arrived.

After examining the leak, which by this point had been pouring out of the pipe for an hour and thirty minutes, Beasley located the cutoff valve and shut off water to the building.

Tucker said that a less-serious leak occurred Saturday in Room 110, adjacent to the ceramics/pottery room.

Beasley turned the water back on at 6:45 p.m. to locate the exact area of the pipe burst.

As of 7 p.m., there was no assessment of how much damage was caused by the leak, but Beasley said damage was little more than ceiling tile saturation.

Ballot

Board member ready to work

By CHRIS SEPER
Managing editor

Stuart Kaeding is a busy man. He is a member of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, university concert band, university theater productions, National Student Speech Language Hearing Association, has volunteered for Eastern's special Olympics and Big Brother/Big Sister, was 1993 Homecoming co-chairman, made the dean's list three times, is on the national dean's list honorary and an All-American State Scholar.

Along with a major in speech pathology, Kaeding has a double minor in English and history.

But Kaeding has found room for one more activity in his life — he will serve as The Daily Eastern News' public editorial board member.

"I see myself as a communication liaison between the school community and The Daily Eastern News," said Kaeding, who began work Sunday.

Stuart Kaeding

Kaeding's position means he will help decide the editorial positions of The News. Editorials represent the opinion of the paper's editorial board and are run along the left side of the opinion page each day.

Duties for the public seat include attending and contributing to a weekly editorial board meeting, sitting in on full newspaper staff meetings, observing the editorial page in its production, reviewing daily editorials and learning the basic workings of The News.

Kaeding said he would like students to come and speak to him about their campus concerns so he could bring them to the editorial board meetings.

"I plan to take the concerns, ideas and opinions expressed to me and make sure they're heard at the weekly meetings and make sure other members of the editorial board are aware of students concerns and opinions," Kaeding said.

The newspaper's executive editors decided to add this open editorial board seat to help The News accomplish its primary mission, said Cassie Simpson, editor in chief. The News' mission is to serve as the voice of the student body and provide campus coverage along with city, state and national news.

Weaver plans to fight cuts in education

By JOHN FERAKE
Administration editor

State Rep. Mike Weaver said Sunday he will try to boost Eastern's 1994 operating budget closer to the Illinois Board of Higher Education's recommendation for a 2.7 percent increase, which Gov. Jim Edgar trimmed last month to a 1.1 percent hike.

For last year's 1993 budget, Edgar proposed that Eastern receive the same amount it did in 1992, but because of a shortage in higher education funds, he was forced to make a 3 percent cut in Eastern's budget, limiting operations funding to $52.6 million.

In its recommendations to Edgar for the 1994 operating budget, the IBHE proposed that Eastern receive $54.1 million — an increase of 2.7 percent from last year's budget. After Edgar trimmed the recommendation to $53.1 million, the increase amounted to a modest 1.1 percent hike. That figure would still give Eastern an additional $500,000 in funding over last year's budget.

Eastern President David Jorns said if the $500,000-plus the university is slated to receive under Edgar's proposal is approved, most of it would be devoted to spending outlined in the Priorities, Quality and Productivity Initiative and to purchasing sorely needed library equipment.

"All of the budgets are different. I've been at Eastern when there were years we didn't even get an increase in state funding," said Weaver, R-Ashmore, who has served as an instructor of management/marketing since 1979 and is spokesman on the House Higher Education Committee.

"We still need to try and get more funding for Eastern though, and that's what I plan on doing," Weaver said.

Weaver said before Edgar's recommendations for higher education funding go into effect, deliberations and voting on the measures start in the state Senate. He said once the budget is passed by the Senate and forwarded to the House, he will advocate more funding for building operations and faculty salary increases.

"We've got a salary compression problem right now at the universities where people who have been teaching for 20 years are getting paid less than instructors who are just starting out," Weaver said.

Eastern is involved in a $1.6 million reallocation process that was recommended by the Council on University Planning and Budget.

Senate may vote on kill bill

By JOHN FERAKE
Administration editor

A bill calling for the elimination of the Board of Governors and Board of Regents is expected to be on the state Senate floor this week and may see a vote before Friday, said state Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Ashmore.

The bill sponsored by state Sen. Aldo DeAngelis, R-Chicago Heights, calls for the elimination of both governing boards that together oversee eight state universities. The bill calls for the two bodies to be replaced by local boards at each university.

Weaver said he expects the bill to pass. Michelle Brazell, spokeswoman for the BOG, also said that BOG officials are expecting the bill to pass in the Senate. However, Brazell said the legislation is expected to run into its biggest roadblock in the democratically controlled state House.

Weaver and State Rep. Bill Edley, D-Macomb, had been working on a higher education compromise on the bill, but both have delayed talks until the bill is passed in the Senate and reaches the House.

Edley said he is against the creation of local governing boards for each of the state universities. "Until I have proof that creating local boards will save any money, I will not support the BOG elimination," Edley said.

The BOG oversees Eastern, Western Illinois, Northeastern Illinois, Governors State and Chicago State universities. The BOR oversees Northern Illinois, Illinois State and Sangamon State universities.

Out of the proposed $1.6 million, $1.2 would be used for raises in faculty salaries.

One bright spot in Edgar's budget proposal was the freeing up of $11.3 million for the renovation of Buzzard Building, which is used by the College of Education, the journalism department, WEIU-TV and radio, and Student Publications.

United Nations undersecretary to speak

Chaozhu Ji, the undersecretary general of the United Nations, will visit Eastern Monday to give an address titled "The United Nations of 1993 and Beyond."

Ji, who is from China, will lecture from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Buzzard Building Auditorium.

His appearance, which will consist of 20 minutes of lecture and 40 minutes of audience questions, will be preceded by several activities slated for Monday afternoon. These include:

- 1:15 p.m., press conference in the Oakland Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.
- 2 to 4 p.m., International Tea at the International House on Ninth Street sponsored by the International Student Office. Lou Hencken, vice president for student affairs, will introduce Ji at 3 p.m.

- 5:45 to 7:15 p.m., banquet in Ji's honor at E.L. Krackers sponsored by Pi Sigma Alpha fraternity, an honorary society for political science students. During the banquet, Ji will be inducted as an honorary member of Pi Sigma Alpha along with student inductees.
- 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., Ji's speech.

As the second-highest ranking office-holder in the United Nations, Ji works directly under U.N. Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali.

Ping Chen, an Eastern political science professor and coordinator of Ji's visit, said he expects about 400 people to attend the address.

Some of Ji's other notable diplomatic accomplishments include:

- Counselor for political affairs, Chinese liaison office, Washington, D.C., 1973-75.
- Member of the Chinese delegation to the Korean armistice negotiations from 1952-54.
- Deputy assistant foreign minister for interpretation and translation, 1954-73. Ji was the top English-Chinese interpreter for Chairman Mao Tse-tung and premier Chou En-lai.

Students can't complain about fraternity bias

While Student Senate-Delta Tau Delta bias has been an issue as of late, it seems few care enough about the issue to actually do anything about it. If they did, more independents would have run in an attempt to end their domination.

At least three of the five executive candidates will be members of Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Integrity Party member Luke Neumann (student body president) and independent candidate Shirley Von Bokel (executive vice president) are the only executive candidates not a part of Delta Editorial Tau Delta who filed petitions before the April 9 deadline.

Integrity Party candidates and Delta Tau Delta members Blake Wood (financial vice president), Ron Carmona (Board of Governors representative) and Matt Giordano (chief of staff) are all running unopposed. Chad Turner, candidate for executive vice president, the only Delta Tau Delta member facing opposition.

If students want to see a change, they were more than welcome to file an election petition. But since students sat back and did not file, they have closed the door on the opportunity to make change.

There are nine independent candidates running for 30 senate and executive positions in the April 21 Student Government election. Only Von Bokel is running for an executive post, three are running for one of the six and a half on-campus seats, one is running for one of the four off-campus posts and four are running for one of the seven at-large seats.

If people were truly concerned about the number of Delta Tau Delta in the senate, they would have taken opportunity to do something about it. They could have run for positions themselves, but now it is too late.

Delta Tau Delta domination is nothing new. Seven members of the fraternity currently hold seats on the senate.

By the indication of the students, they seem to have no problem with the number of members. If these people want to do the job and nobody complains, then they should go ahead and do it.

TODAY'S QUOTE

Open seat is just the beginning

He's the student's voice, and you had better use him.

Sophomore speech pathology major Stuart Kaeding is the first person to take the public editorial board seat in The Daily Eastern News. His purpose is to serve as the non-staff voice in The News' editorial board meetings.

"I plan to take the concerns, ideas and opinions expressed to me and make sure they're heard at the weekly meetings and make sure other members of the editorial board are aware of students concerns and opinions," Kaeding said.

Members of The News, while we are students ourselves, risk getting out of touch with many of readers due to the time we spend working in the newsroom. Kaeding will give us a breath of fresh air in deciding our editorial policies and better serving as a voice for the student body.

But his addition to the editorial board is only part of a series of changes we at The News hope will increase student input to the paper. Most of these changes focus on the editorial page.

The editorial page itself is designed as a forum for the students. Regular columnists are meant to entertain, spark debate and inform students while the editorials are used by the newspaper staff to take a stand on current issues about the campus, city and nation.

Our changes are geared mostly toward making the pages a student forum as opposed to a staff soap box.

The recent addition of a weekly opposite editorial

Along with our weekly opposite editorial page, we have renewed our efforts to get more non-staff guest columnists printed every Thursday. Traditionally, that has been the day we use guest columnists.

Guest columnists can be from the community, the faculty or from students and they serve the same purpose as regular columnists, but allow the students, faculty and city residents a chance to add their opinions on various issues.

We continue to encourage your letters to the editor, and hope these changes will bring both students, faculty and members of the Charleston community closer to The News.

We have also rededicated ourselves to accuracy by way of our correction policy. Corrections will periodically include the names of the executive editors and the phone number of The News so students can call if they notice any errors.

The mission of The Daily Eastern News is to serve as the voice of the student body and provide campus coverage along with local, state and national news. We serve this school, and if anyone thinks we have failed to do our jobs, they should tell us.

None of our changes are revolutionary, but it is the sincere hope of The News that readers get more involved in becoming a larger part of the paper.

Call us, criticize us and, most of all, talk to Kaeding. He is your voice in the editorial board meeting.

Who knows, you might actually change something.

- Chris Seper is managing editor and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn

Students must reclaim senate from the greeks

Dear editor:

On April 25 the students of Eastern will turn out and elect their representatives to the Student Senate; or will they? In theory, the senate is to ensure that the opinions, ideas and beliefs of the students are represented and communicated to the administration of the school.

In reality, the senate has become a playground for the university's greek organizations, and this year's election seems to be holding to that tradition.

In recent articles, The Daily Eastern News has quoted the Integrity Party candidates as stating that the dominance of greeks on the senate does not lead to an undue amount of influence on the part of fraternities. I feel that this statement is false. Even though the intention may be harmless, any one time a group gains a telling superiority over another, prejudice and bias will result. Most of the greeks who get elected do not live in the university dorms, and most don't have the same background as the average students at Eastern. This leads to a situation where the majority of the students may be concerned about a certain set of issues, but the greeks on the senate, not having the interests in mind, are concerned with what they feel is important.

This is not to say that I feel that greeks have no place on the senate; however, I do feel that place should be in proportion to their standing as an interest group on campus.

The blame for this problem with the senate is with the voters. Low turnout has enabled the greeks to win through their block voting.

The choice is yours. You can leave things the way they stand and hope your views get represented, or you can take charge of your senate and elect candidates that represent all the students.

Andrew Gardner

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News encourages letters to the editor concerning any local, state, national or international issue.

Letters should be less than 350 words. For the letter to be printed, the name of the author, in addition to the author's address and telephone number, must be included. If necessary, letters will be edited according to length and space at the discretion of the edit page editor or editor in chief.

Anonymous letters will not be printed.

If a letter has more than three authors, only the names of the first three will be printed.

Renting books ignores education's base

At the joint faculty student forum in February, we presented arguments in favor of a purchase system for textbooks; however, not surprisingly, only the arguments in favor of maintaining the Textbook Rental System appeared in The Daily Eastern News article on the next day. We argued along the following lines.

Continuing the tradition that began in Athens in the 4th century B.C., entry to the university should be a unique event in the life of the person and the life of the community, for it provides the time and space for the intellectual, aesthetic and spiritual foundation of the self free from all the pressures of social, economic and political life. At the same time, it provides the free consideration of the truth and justice for the defense of the community against the corruptions that are everywhere apparent in human societies.

Such education is the preserver and defender of our humanness. According to this tradition, "liberal" (from Latin, libra "free") education is the core of the university.

The few universities in America that continue to retain the Textbook Rental System are, like Eastern, mostly former normal schools, (i.e. vocational training institutions). The Textbook Rental System is hung over from the days before Eastern became a university (pre-1967), and it has the effect of retarding the transition to authentic university education, showing still the tie to the vocational model.

One student at the forum is graduating this spring and proudly stated that he has never purchased a single book while at Eastern. A freshman student said she "had no interest" in any of the courses that provide the liberal or "core" education, and that she should not have to be saddled with the purchase of such books.

For her, only the major counts (i.e. job training). Instead of awakening this freshman to the release that the university offers from such a drudge-like and servile attitude, we abet and encourage this attitude by making the Textbook Rental a selling point. If you come to Eastern, you won't have to buy any books, your books can be discarded at the end of the semester, like old newspapers.

What stands out here is the essentially class-based nature of education at public universities such as Eastern.

William Addison

Robert Barford

If you are a person of wealth, you can attend a private university where the purchase of books is taken for granted. You can pursue the traditional liberal education as described above, followed later by professional training.

Grounded in the ideas of history, philosophy, literature arts and sciences, you can make a decisive difference in communal and political life.

But students of modest means must attend public universities such as Eastern, which remain bound to the vocational models dominated by political and economic bureaucracies. The pressure to identify the student as a commodity that the university produces for sale on labor markets becomes overwhelming, and all the more so today. Reducing costs on the production of this commodity, e.g. by having the Textbook Rental Service, becomes a major competitive advantage. Liberal education is peripheralized, books become recycling inputs and professors become information dispensers according to this economic model.

But students are the real losers in this model, for the opportunity to develop the foundation for the life-long project for the realization of their humanity is denied them, since they are from the beginning bound into the drudge of the work world.

The community too loses because students educated at Eastern will not have sufficient liberal education to compete with "elitist students" who, because of their liberal education, will be far more conversant with the power of their culture-shaping ideas.

The inequalities both of a political and economic sort will continue to be reproduced at institutions such as Eastern, and this will work to the detriment of our democratic ideal of equality.

In our view, Eastern could become one the premiere small liberal arts university in the state of Illinois without sacrificing the goals of professional training. All it would take is real educational leadership, beginning with the creation of a substantial bookstore and purchase system.

Students' riotous living just as part of growing up

Every spring for a roughly two-week period the nation's colleges and universities suspend classes during the third quarter of the winter semester to give students and staff a much-needed rest in what has come to be a rite of passage: spring break.

Recently, I happened to catch one of the nighttime tabloid television shows broadcasting a segment of this springtime phenomenon. College students vacationing unchaperoned on the warm shorelines of Florida, Texas and Mexico were experiencing for the first time life without constraints. No parents, no teachers. No schedules.

The next morning, a discussion concerning last night's broadcast was taking shape. Jim, one of the therapists I worked with at a local psychiatric hospital, was thoroughly upset with what he had seen. Knowing that Pandora's box was spring loaded, I took the bait.

He told me how this incidence was a microcosm of the rapid deterioration of our society and its young people. He painstakingly described how sex outside of marriage was, in biblical terms, not only morally wrong, but this unspeakable act that was doubly problematic by its mix with the use of alcohol and drugs.

He said that when these kids start drinking and loosening up, before you knew it, fornication and unspeakable acts of lust would make perpetual sinners of them all. I pointed out the standard arguments concerning growing up such as every generation does this in one form or another, and parents will always have to deal with letting go of their children and giving them some responsibility and credit for monitoring their own behavior.

I said that although many young adults participate in this ritual every spring, a week or 10 days later, they're back in class none the worse for the wear, with memories and experiences they to cherish for the rest of their lives.

My effort to explain to Jim that this period of a person's life is one in which there is a certain amount of role experimentation and "finding oneself" and that this rite of passage should not be denied any young adult was met with terror and fear.

It was then that I realized to who I was talking. A member of the moral police.

As I sat and listened to the next barrage of why he'd never let his kids junket halfway across the country to participate in this fundamentally evil practice, I abandoned all hopes of at least softening his stance. I wonder what would have happened had the topic been abortion?

I guess if I could leave students with one thing, it would be to enjoy yourself and this time of year and period in your life. Reality will set in soon enough.

But that doesn't mean throwing caution to the wind. Think a little about what you are going to do before you do it. Establish some guidelines and stick to them. Ask yourself if your behavior will be of detriment to another's physical, mental, emotional or spiritual well being. If the answer is yes, think again.

Above all, give yourself some credit that you will be able to make some good choices. That may be the best advice of all.

Eastern assists with person's dire problems

Dear editor:
Good news! Good acts are performed and carried out at Eastern. Recently, I ended up in the hospital twice in one month, and all were very serious illnesses.

I have lived in both the real world and in Eastern's world. Right now I am facing two months without an income and reaching out to the real world for financial help and keep on running into the blank walls with no results.

I called a church and the first words out of their mouth, "How much do you need?" Unbeknownst to me, my supervisor Mike Clayton investigated if there was any way I could receive help (He's also a Christian.).

He found out there was and put the wheels into motion. The result, through the kindness and generosity of people like President David Jorns, the staff in the benefits office, and Clayton, I was able to receive the help I needed so desperately.

Also, thanks to all the people care about your well-being and are willing to help out. And a special thanks to all Christians who took the time to care and pray. But first of all, thanks to God who truly takes care of his people. Everything in life is not truly cold and uncaring or negative.

Good things really do happen.

Grunge suffers from treatment as mere fashion

Dear editor:
I cannot believe what was being shoveled in my direction in the "Verge" on April 2. The "grunge" look is not a fashion statement, but a frame of mind. By labeling it and capitalizing on it, the entire point is lost. You people are truly clueless about thrift stores and resale shops. The idea is to keep prices low while still getting a decent piece of clothing.

"Just Spence's" is one of the largest scams on this feeble planet of ours. How can you honestly say there are deals to be had there.

I went once and that was enough for me. I found a sweater that any self-respecting thrift or resale shop would have been for $5, tops. These money-sucking parasites wanted $40.

If you have money to burn, all the more power to you, but understand when you are getting taken. I was thoroughly disgusted when a grunge fashion show on MTV.

Get a life people. These people looked like absolute, bona fide, undisputed losers. If you actually spend time trying to look used and dirty you have too much time on your hands.

I understand wanting to look a certain way, but I have seen people spend two hours getting ready to look grunge. This is pointless, useless and utterly mindless.

To everyone that is into this look as merely a fashion statement, get a brain, get a life and get a new fashion because everyone who truly lives like this is getting sick.

Health fair features discussion

By ADAM McHUGH
Campus editor

Eastern students will have a chance to ask a panel of nine medical professionals from throughout the area questions about careers in medicine Monday at Eastern's Fourth Annual Career Health Fair.

The fair, which will run from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, is sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Delta, a pre-med honor society and service fraternity.

Some of the careers represented at the fair include general practitioner, physical therapist, veterinarian, pharmacist, chiropractor, nurse and medical technician.

All nine medical professionals are from either the Coles County area or Effingham.

Rod Bailey, a junior zoology major and one of the coordinators of the event, said, "This is a chance for students interested in medicine to see what it takes to make it in certain fields. That is the purpose of the fair."

Bailey said each representative will have a separate booth, and students will be free to ask the various professionals questions.

"This is pretty much an open forum-type event," Bailey said. "Students won't have to listen to a lecture or watch a presentation, they can simply ask the questions they want."

Amy Biggs, a senior zoology major and the other coordinator of the fair, said along with Eastern students, high school students from around the area have been asked to attend.

"We sent letters to high schools, hoping we can attract some students who are interested in pursuing a career in medicine," Biggs said.

Bailey said this type of fair is popular at universities across the country including the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign.

"The U of I's chapter (of Alpha Epsilon Delta) does this fair several times a year," Bailey said. "Our chapter is not nearly that big, but it is growing."

Eastern's chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta has around 40 members, Bailey said.

One of the medical professionals at the fair will be Richard Larson, director of Eastern's student health services, who will be representing careers in general practice.

Milwaukee water crisis leaves residents boiling

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The water contamination that has sickened thousands of residents hasn't robbed Dee Lenz of her sense of humor.

Boiling contaminated tap water makes plenty of extra work at the downtown restaurant she manages. But her customers at Turner Hall, famous for fish fries, cope with the water crisis by joking, she said. And the laughter is infectious.

"They say, 'We won't drink the water, we're here to drink the beer,'" Lenz said. "They're not irate - there've been a lot of jokes.

"People ask you, 'How's your diarrhea?' It's almost become a status symbol to have it twice," she said, having had that honor.

Mayor John Norquist last week urged residents to boil drinking and cooking water until at least Wednesday as the city seeks to pinpoint the source of a germ that had contaminated the municipal water supply.

Norquist said test results received Saturday confirmed the presence of the parasite cryptosporidium in water at the city's two purification plants. The plants draw water from Lake Michigan and serve 800,000 residents in Milwaukee and 10 suburbs.

On Sunday, city crews opened fire hydrants in an effort to flush contaminated water out of the system.

A U.S. Environmental Protection Agency engineer on water systems was expected to arrive last Monday.

Dozens of companies donated bottled water and diarrhea-inhibiting medicine and residents volunteered to deliver the goods to the elderly, sick and home-bound.

Many grocery stores, instead of gouging the public for scarce supplies of bottled water, lowered prices a few cents.

"Not only are people in a good humor about it, they're amazing," said Jay Marvin, host of a morning radio talk show where the city's water crisis was the main topic of conversation. "They're patient, they're understanding, they want to pull together."

"Right now, everybody's pitching in and making the best of things," said Bonnie J. Bellehumeur, executive director of Second Harvesters of Wisconsin, an organization that has distributed water to the needy. "Maybe the anger will set in later."

The water-boiling order could remain in effect longer for residents with weakened immune systems, such as people with AIDS and cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy.

King trial unresolved after Easter service

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Jurors reached no verdict Sunday on the police officers accused of violating Rodney King's civil rights, but requested a transcript of testimony from one of the trial's most dramatic witnesses.

Soon after they convened on Easter, the jurors asked for the testimony of California Highway Patrolwoman Melanie Singer, who wept on the stand when she recalled baton blows to King's head.

The request came in a note from the jury's foreman, identified only as a real estate salesman in his late 30s who said during jury selection that an earlier jury's acquittal of the defendants on most charges was "no surprise" to him.

By the end of Sunday's session, jurors had deliberated some 7 hours since receiving the case late Saturday afternoon.

Sgt. Stacey Koon, Officers Laurence Powell, Theodore

Briseno and former Officer Timothy Wind are charged with violating King's civil rights in a beating, which the government says was excessive.

U.S. District Judge John G. Davies said he didn't have the transcript jurors wanted, adding, "Even if I had it, I would not have sent it in because that tends to emphasize testimony."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven Clymer then suggested the jurors be asked if they were concerned about a particular part of the testimony. But Davies said he was reluctant to ask the jurors anything more.

Davies told jurors at the outset of testimony to rely on their memories and notes and would not provide them with transcripts.

Mrs. Singer's testimony rocked the trial near the end of the defense case. She was called as a defense witness but gave perhaps the most powerful testimony for the prosecution.

Average professor makes $46,270

WASHINGTON (AP) - The average college professor makes $46,270 a year, with private university teachers typically the highest earners and those at church-related schools the lowest, a professors' group said Friday.

Those on the faculties of private, independent colleges and universities earn an average of $51,570, while those at public schools averaged $46,000. Teachers at church-related schools are paid an average of $40,370, according to the American Association of University Professors.

Salaries for college professors increased 2.5 percent this year, remaining relatively stagnant for the second year and showing their lowest increase in two decades, the AAUP said.

The findings were based on an AAUP survey whose respondents included 90 percent of the nation's college teachers, the organization said.

The averages are for the current academic year and included salaries of new faculty members. Those remaining in the same position for at least one year gained 3.6 percent, according to survey results. The previous year, salaries increased an average 3.5 percent for all college professors and 5.1 percent for those remaining in the same job.

AAUP said "real" salaries, adjusted to account for the 2.9 percent increase in the government's Consumer Price Index, actually lost ground by 0.4 percent overall but gained 0.7 percent for professors continuing in the same position for a year or more.

The 2.5 increase was the lowest since AAUP began tracking college faculty salaries in 1971.

NATO to patrol Bosnian skies

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - As NATO warplanes prepared Sunday to patrol Bosnian skies, the defiant commander of rebel Serbs said the Western alliance has "no chance" of stopping his forces.

Gen. Ratko Mladic, his troops poised to grab more Muslim territory, branded NATO's plan to enforce a U.N.-imposed no-fly zone over Bosnia a prelude for the use of Western air power against the Serbs.

But he and a top Croatian general agreed that the enforcement of the flight ban, to begin Monday, would have little immediate military effect. Most of the Serb military campaign has been fought by ground troops.

Sarajevo cathedral bells rang, and candles of hope were lit, but Easter Sunday brought little respite in Bosnia's war. Pope John Paul II, in his Easter message, called the war "an atrocious drama."

Angered by the planned NATO patrols and last week's discovery of ammunition hidden aboard a U.N. aid convoy, Serbs have shown increasing disdain for international peace efforts.

President Clinton's envoy to former Yugoslavia, Reginald Bartholomew, was due late Sunday in neighboring Croatia.

He was to fly Monday to Sarajevo, where the U.N. humanitarian airlift to besieged residents remained suspended after Serb fighters moved anti-aircraft artillery near the airport.

As tensions continued to rise, U.N. officials canceled an aid convoy scheduled for Monday to Muslims in Srebrenica, an eastern Bosnian town ringed by Mladic's troops.

Eight people were killed and 24 wounded across Bosnia during a 24-hour period ending at midday, Bosnian officials said Sunday.

Citing the continuing clashes, a Bosnian government statement said military commander Gen. Sefer Halilovic would not attend talks Monday at Sarajevo airport with Mladic, as the Serb general had requested.

Nearly 60 Dutch, French and U.S. warplanes at an Italian base and on aircraft carriers in the Adriatic Sea are to start enforcing the flight ban Monday at 2 p.m. (8 a.m. EDT). The operation is the first time the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has projected military might outside alliance territory since its founding in 1949.

Mladic, in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from his base in Pale, east of Sarajevo, said NATO has identified Serb ground positions as potential targets.

"If events take a turn for the worse, NATO plans to bring in 450 to 500 warplanes as reinforcements," he said, quoting what he claimed were "sources close to NATO."

Asked whether NATO jets could force a change in Serb tactics, Mladic said: "They have no chance."

Gen. Antun Tus, Croatian President Franjo Tudjman's top military advisor, said on Croatian radio that it was too late for the no-fly zone to have any military effect.

Clutch hitting lifts White Sox past Yanks Cardinals fall out of 1st place

CHICAGO (AP) - Joey Cora had a basic formula for his winning hit.

"I hit it good and run like hell. That's all I did," Cora said after his two-run triple in the sixth inning led the Chicago White Sox past the New York Yankees 6-4 Sunday to avoid a three-game sweep.

"I never thought it was out. I just tried to get a base hit and keep the rally going," said Cora, a lifetime .246 hitter who is batting .353 subbing for the injured Craig Grebeck at second base.

Cora, still looking for his first homer in the majors, is now leading off after Tim Raines suffered a thumb injury Friday and will miss about six weeks.

"I've led off before in the minors and winter ball," he said.

"Leadoff is overrated because you lead off maybe once a game," he said. He was 0 for 2 in two times he led off an inning.

New York outscored Chicago 23-6 in winning the first two games of the series.

"This was not a must-win game, but it's a win," Chicago manager Gene Lamont said. "The Yankees are swinging the bats well and if your pitching is not sharp, they're going to bump you around." Jack McDowell (2-0) got the victory despite giving up 12 hits and four earned runs in 6 2-3 innings.

"I knew we were going to score some runs with the lineup we had out there," McDowell said. "My pitches are starting to come around. It was better than the last time out." McDowell gave up four runs in seven innings on opening day in Minnesota.

Roberto Hernandez came in to get the final out of the game, striking out Danny Tartabull for his first save. It was Tartabull's third strikeout of the game.

Cardinals fall out of 1st place

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Cincinnati had 12 singles in the first four innings against Bob Tewksbury and then held on to beat St. Louis 4-3.

Rob Dibble walked three batters and allowed two runs in the ninth inning before getting a great defensive play to end the game for the save.

Pinch-hitter Luis Alicea drove in two runs with a two-out single but pinch-runner Ray Lankford was an easy out in an attempt to score the tying run after Dibble made a wild throw to third. Left fielder Cesar Hernandez picked up the ball in foul territory and threw out a sliding Lankford.

Roberto Kelly and Chris Sabo each were 3 for 3 against Tewksbury. Kelly scored twice and Sabo drove in a run.

Schilling pitches 3-0 shutout over Cubs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia Phillies figured they would hit this season, but so far the pitching looks pretty good, too.

Curt Schilling (2-0) tossed a four-hitter as the Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs and Jose Guzman 3-0 Sunday to take two of three games in the series.

Schilling, who had 10 complete games and four shutouts last season, struck out eight and walked one as Philadelphia improved to 5-1.

"I'm not a strikeout pitcher," Schilling said. "I just look for spots to try to get them."

The only serious Cubs' threat came in the seventh inning. Mark Grace walked and one out later, Candy Maldonado was hit by a pitch.

Schilling then struck out Sammy Sosa and Rick Wilkins.

"I was kind of tense there in the ninth," Schilling said, "I was hoping (manager) Jim Fregosi wasn't coming out of the dugout. I always want to go nine."

The Phillies scored two unearned runs in the first inning. With two outs, Guzman (1-1) walked John Kruk and Dave Hollins singled.

Darren Daulton's high fly to left field was dropped by Maldonado allowing both runners to score.

"It really hurts when a bad play costs a game," Maldonado said. "The wind kind of got it and the sun was tough, but I should have used my glove to protect my view. I spoiled a great job by Guzman."

Daulton hit his fourth homer of the season off Paul Assenmacher in the eighth inning.

Guzman gave up four hits in 6 1-3 innings, struck out three and walked four.

Men's tennis team gets swept at NIU dual meet

When asked how the Eastern men's tennis team did this Saturday in a conference dual meet against Northern Illinois and Valparaiso, head coach John Bennett's first response was "Well, we had nice weather."

The Panthers were dominated by both the Huskies and the Crusaders at DeKalb, dropping 4-0 decisions to both teams. In fact, the Panthers never won a completed match all day long.

The closest Eastern came to a win was Brandon Kuhl, who was winning 6-4, 5-1 at No. 5 singles against Northern Illinois before his match was called. The match was stopped under a new NCAA rule that ends all play as soon as a team winner has been determined.

"Even though they tell everyone beforehand, it's still upsetting to the guy out in front to have his match stopped and not get credit for a win," said Bennett. "The NCAA is trying the rule this year, but to be honest, we needed to do it because of time constraints that day."

Bennett was not surprised by the results, noting that both the Huskies and Crusaders have strong programs. Still, he would have liked to have seen a stronger performance by his Panthers.

"We showed some slow foot speed and we really need to work on that," said Bennett. "We also have to work on giving 100 percent all the way through our matches. We did that for the most part, but when we were down and it looked like it was over, we started to let up.

"Part of the problem though was that we don't have our outside legs yet after all the rainouts we have had," added Bennett. "Hopefully with the matches this week and some running and jump rope work we can start to get those back."

Eastern had had its previous three matches canceled because of the weather.

The Panthers return to action Thursday, traveling to Indiana to take on Vincennes.

Johnson, who threw Sunday's game, gave up eight runs in 6 2/3 innings, but only two of those runs were earned. Johnson's defense committed five errors behind him as he fell to 2-3 on the year.

"We just stunk it up on defense (Sunday)," Callahan said. "We didn't come ready to play."

Saturday's opening game mirrored Sunday's finale. Eastern starting pitcher Basil Clausen was solid on the mound, but his defense sputtered behind him. Clausen gave up four runs in 5 1/3 innings, but none of Wright State's runs off of him were earned. Clausen fell to 2-3 on the year.

Eastern lost the opener 4-1. The Panthers only run came on a Lance Aten solo home run in the sixth inning off of Wright State's Brian Anderson. Anderson, who improved to 4-1, gave up five hits over six innings for the win.

"Basil did a great job (Saturday)," Callahan said. "He just got beat by a better pitcher. The guy he threw against could be a millionaire in a month. (Anderson) is one of the top pitching prospects in the country."

The only game of the weekend that Eastern's did not commit an error was the only game that the Panthers won. Junior Mike Fahey scattered four hits through seven innings as the Panthers pulled out Saturday's second game 2-1.

With the game tied at one in the seventh, the Panthers put runners on first and second with no outs. Aten, who went 3-for-3 in Saturday's second game, laced a single to rightfield and the throw to the plate rolled to the fence which allowed a run to score.

"That was a big win," Callahan said. "Fahey threw one of the best games of the year."

The Panthers return to action Wednesday when they travel to Bradley for a non-conference doubleheader.

Expos demolish Rockies; Astros, Braves, Padres win

DENVER (AP) - Colorado looked like an expansion team Sunday as rookie Mike Lansing tied a Montreal club record with five hits, including a home run, to lead the Expos to a 19-9 victory against the sloppy Rockies.

The Expos, ending the Rockies' two-game winning streak and avoiding being swept in the three-game series, also got homers from Marquis Grissom, Tim Spehr and Archi Cianfrocco in a 22-hit attack.

The 19 runs also tied a Montreal record. The Expos scored 19 runs in a game on six previous occasions, the last time on June 17, 1979, in a 19-3 win over Houston.

The Rockies, who scored 29 runs in the series, set another attendance record. Sunday's crowd of 66,987 at Mile High Stadium gave them a total of 212,475 for the three-game series, breaking the old major-league mark of 188,081 set by Cleveland against the Yankees on Aug. 6-8, 1948.

Montreal scored in each of the first seven innings, getting to Colorado starter Butch Henry (0-1) for five runs in the first four.

Jimmy Jones (1-0) pitched five innings and gave up nine hits and four runs for the victory in a shaky effort.

The Expos scratched out another run in the fifth inning off reliever Willie Blair, and Grissom hit a three-run homer deep to left field off Blair in the sixth.

Astros 5, Mets 4

NEW YORK (AP) - Chris James, making his first start of the season, went 3 for 3 and drove in two runs and the Houston Astros beat the New York Mets 5-4 Sunday for their first three-game sweep at Shea Stadium in 10 years.

Greg Swindell (1-1) won for the first time with Houston. He shut out the Mets on one hit and one walk through six innings, but Eddie Murray's 415th career homer started a four-run seventh.

The Astros' first three-game sweep in New York since May 1983 also gave them victories in their first three road games of a season for the first time since 1986.

James, who had doubled as a pinch hitter in his only at-bat of the year, doubled and singled twice, making him 6-for-6 lifetime against Pete Schourek (0-1). He also drew a walk from Jeff Innis before leaving for a pinch runner with a 5-0 lead.

James hit an RBI single with two outs in the first inning and Andujar Cedeno tripled home a run in the second. James doubled with two outs in the third and scored on Ken Caminiti's single.

In the fifth, James' RBI single with two outs finished Schourek.

Steve Finley doubled off Innis to start the seventh and slid home neatly on Jeff Bagwell's single.

Braves 3, Dodgers 0

ATLANTA (AP) - The outstanding pitching of the Atlanta Braves continued Sunday as John Smoltz and Mike Stanton combined on a four-hitter in a 3-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Despite a .183 team batting average, the Braves have won five of their first seven because of the pitching, which has allowed only seven earned runs in the seven games, an ERA of 1.00. The starting pitching has been even more effective, allowing only four earned runs in 56 innings, an ERA of 0.64.

Smoltz (1-1), who pitched a complete game in losing 1-0 in Chicago on Tuesday, struck out eight, walked five and hit a batter in eight innings. Stanton finished for his third save.

Ron Gant hit a home run off Ramon Martinez (1-1) in the first inning and Deion Sanders added a two-run pinch single in the eighth.

It was the Braves' third shutout in the seven games. Greg Maddux and Stanton combined to beat Chicago, 1-0, on opening day and Pete Smith and Stanton defeated the Dodgers, 2-0, on Friday night.

Smoltz ran into trouble in two innings. In the third, the Dodgers loaded the bases with one out. The right-hander, however, got Darryl Strawberry on a shallow fly to left, with the runners holding, and Tim Wallach on another fly to left.

Padres 6, Marlins 2

MIAMI (AP) - Fred McGriff sparked the sluggish San Diego offense with three hits and three runs scored as the Padres beat the Florida Marlins 6-2 Sunday.

Tony Gwynn also had three of the Padres' 13 hits, singling and scoring in the first inning and doubling in a run in the ninth.

Phil Plantier drove in two runs for San Diego with a first-inning sacrifice fly and an eighth-inning single.

McGriff singled home a run in the first inning and later scored.

He doubled and scored in the sixth and eighth innings.

San Diego starter Andy Benes (1-1) allowed eight hits, struck out seven and walked two in seven innings. Gene Harris picked up his first save with 1 1-3 innings of perfect relief, following two shutout innings and a victory Friday night.

Kansas City finally wins while Tigers, Brewers fall

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Kansas City won its first game of the season after five losses, beating Minnesota 2-1 Sunday behind the hitting of rookie Phil Hiatt.

Hiatt singled home a run in the second, singled in the fifth, and homered off Kevin Tapani (0-2) in the seventh to break a 1-1 tie.

It was the first career homer for Hiatt, who leads the Royals with six RBIs. The third baseman was called up when Keith Miller was hurt on opening day.

Tom Gordon (1-0) got the win with two innings of two-hit relief of Hipolito Pichardo, who gave up three hits and one run in five innings. Jeff Montgomery pitched the final two innings for his first save.

Tapani gave up six hits and two runs in 7 1/3 innings. Gene Larkin singled and scored on Terry Jorgensen's double in the first for a 1-0 Minnesota lead.

The Royals, the last team in the majors to win a game this season, tied it in the second when Hiatt singled in Brent Mayne.

Curtis Wilkerson was thrown out at the plate on a grounder to first base in the third inning, the fifth Royals runner to be out at the plate in six games.

Kansas City, which has scored 18 runs in six games, had runners at second and third with one out in the third, but failed to score when Wilkerson was thrown out and Felix Jose grounded out.

Angels 7, Tigers 6

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - J.T. Snow's suicide squeeze scored the tiebreaking run in the fifth inning as California edged Detroit 7-6 Sunday.

Snow's bunt to the left of the mound protected Gary Gaetti's dash home from third base, and snapped a 5-5 tie. After Tim Salmon singled with one out, Gaetti walked to set up Rene Gonzales' run-scoring single, which sent Gaetti to third.

The Angels made it 7-5 in the eighth on an RBI single by Chad Curtis, his fourth hit of the game.

Detroit cut it to 7-6 when Scott Livingstone homered with two outs in the ninth off Joe Grahe. But Grahe got Kirk Gibson on a groundout for his first save.

Chuck Crim (1-0), who relieved Mark Langston, picked up the victory after holding Detroit to an unearned run in two innings.

Bill Krueger (0-1), rocked for six runs in 4 2/3 innings, was the loser.

A wild pitch by Krueger with the bases loaded in the first inning resulted in two runs. Curtis scored from third and Gary Gaetti came home from second when catcher Chad Krueger's throw sailed wide as the pitcher covered the plate.

Skeeter Barnes' sacrifice fly made it 2-1 in the top of the second, but the Angels made it 4-1 in the bottom of the inning on Luis Polonia's run-scoring grounder and an RBI single by Curtis.

Langston, who gutted out a 120-pitch complete game victory on opening day, was forced out after three innings Sunday by a strained muscle in his left rib cage.

Athletics 8, Brewers 2

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Sean Hillegas pitched six shutout innings and Dave Henderson hit his first homer since 1991, leading Oakland to an 8-2 victory over Milwaukee on Sunday.

Hillegas (1-0), signed by the A's as a free agent for last year's pennant drive, struck out six and walked three before getting relief from Joe Boever and Rick Honeycutt.

Oakland's Rickey Henderson hit his 200th career homer in the eighth, a two-run shot off Graeme Lloyd.

The A's scored a run in the first off Milwaukee's Bill Wegman (0-2) when Rickey Henderson walked, went to third on Jerry Browne's single and scored on Ruben Sierra's groundout.

Dave Henderson led off the fifth with a homer to give Oakland a 2-0 lead. Henderson, who spent most of last season on the disabled list, had not homered since Sept. 26, 1991 - against Texas at Oakland Coliseum.

Eastern sophomore shortstop Melesio Salazar hits a ground ball Saturday against Wright State at Monier Field. The Panthers lost two of three games to the Mid-Continent Conference opponents from Ohio over the weekend, winning only the second game of Saturday's doubleheader 2-1.

Panthers lose two to Wright St.

By DON O'BRIEN
Staff writer

Merely hanging with good competition is starting to get old for Eastern baseball coach Dan Callahan.

"We have proven that we can play against tough competition," said Callahan following the Panthers' 9-2 loss Sunday to Wright State at Monier Field. "That isn't good enough though. You don't play college baseball just to get close to winning - the game is played to be won."

The Panthers dropped two of three games to Wright State over the weekend, opened their Mid-Continent Conference season with a 1-2 mark and moved to 11-15 overall.

After splitting a doubleheader Saturday, Eastern had a chance on Sunday to take the series from the defending Mid-Con champions. But poor fielding put the Panthers in a hole early.

The Raiders, who improved to 4-2 in Mid-Con play and 12-9 overall, scored a pair of unearned runs in the second inning to take a 2-0 lead. They added a run in the third on an RBI double off the bat of Doug Lowe for a 3-run lead.

Eastern countered with a pair of runs in the bottom half of the third on an error and an RBI double by second baseman Jeff Guest, who went 2-for-4. That would be all the offense the Panthers would produce though.

The Raiders tacked on a run in the fourth inning when Tyler Iller stole home. They scored four more runs in the seventh and closed out the scoring on a Brian Buck solo home run in the ninth.

Pitching wasn't the Panthers' problem on the weekend, though. All three Panther starters held their own. Derek

Weather does not dampen EIU Invitational

By BRIAN HARRIS
Staff writer

The stormy weather cleared out just in time Friday to allow the majority of the EIU track and field invitational to take place under sunny skies.

The contestants in the decathlon, however, didn't have such luck, as they fought wind and rain during most of the 10 events on Thursday and early Friday.

That didn't stop former Eastern All-American Darrin Steele, competing unattached, from achieving one of his best ever point totals for the event.

Steele won the event by a commanding 938 points, finishing with a score of 7,492. The total fell short of his goal of 7,800, but this weekend's meet was only his second after an injury last spring kept him out of competition for the majority of 1992. Eastern freshman Jay Carey placed sixth overall.

The meet was unscored, but attracted teams from Ferris State (Mich.), Lincoln, Northeast Missouri, Lindenwood, Indiana State and the Terre Haute Track Club.

The sun did come out for the latter half of Friday's competitions and all of Saturday's. However, strong winds in O'Brien Stadium at times gave the Panthers as much competition as the other athletes.

Although a strong headwind on the straightaway kept the sprinters from their best clockings, it didn't stop Eastern's Obadiah Cooper from winning the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes. Both of his wins came at the expense of Eric Clemons of Lincoln, whom Cooper beat narrowly (10.82 to 10.84 seconds) in the 100. Eastern's Don Rice placed third in that race.

"I thought we had a pretty good meet considering the injuries we've had," said head coach Neil Moore. "Obadiah has been having some knee trouble. He ran well off of very little training. Hopefully he'll be 100 percent come next week."

Jim Sledge took the 110 high hurdles with ease, but the wind kept him a half-second off his best time with a 14.59. Sledge was the busiest Panther of the weekend, as he also competed in the 100 (prelims and finals) where he placed fifth, and the 4x100 and 4x400 relays. Eastern placed second to Lincoln's speedsters in both events.

"Sledge ran a lot of races this weekend, but was still ready to go for that 4x400 at the end of the meet," Moore said. "But that's real typical of him."

The 10,000-meter race Friday night under the lights wasn't much of a race at all for Scott Touchette. The Panther senior took a commanding lead after passing the mile mark in 4:47.1, and continued on to win by over 24 seconds with a time of 30:58.00 for the 6.2-mile race. Touchette's time cut 51.25 seconds off his previous best despite the fact that he ran the majority of the race by himself.

His effort was so dominating, in fact, that his split time at 5,000 (15:16.0) was 4.86 seconds faster than the time that won the open 5,000 on Saturday.

Eastern had another blowout distance performance from Nate Shaffer, who won the 1,500 by seven seconds in 3:56.10. However, assistant coach John McInerney said both Touchette and Shaffer would have run much faster had there been better competition.

"Touchette had an outstanding race, and so did Nate," said McInerney. "Even though Touchette ran a personal-best, he was still looking to run faster. But doing it on your own is real tough. I think they would've both done better had they been pushed."

Besides Steele, the meet saw three other former Eastern track stars return to take top honors in their old specialty events.

Nevin Govan, the school record-holder in the indoor long jump (25-4 1/2), who hasn't competed in a year, took that event by an inch at 24-2 1/2. 1991 and 1992 All-American Braidy Miller took the hammer and discus throws, while 1989 grad Darrin Barber claimed a win in the javelin.

Other Eastern standouts included Kenric Bond, who was narrowly beaten in the 800, but took second with a season-best 1:54.16.

Brent Miller was also second in the shot put with a distance of 53-8 1/4. Brett Carlson finished second in the 3,000 meter steeplechase, while teammate Eric Graham took third.

Vinnie Wade Bey ran a season-best of 49.33 in the 400 for third place, while Bryan Rebham tied for third in the pole vault at 15-0. Freshman Cory Utterback cleared 6-6 in the high jump for fourth. His performance ties him with four other athletes for ninth place on Eastern's all-time list.
