For Immediate Release:

COMMUNITY RESIDENTS INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN KING MARCH

CHARLESTON – Community residents are invited to join Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity and the rest of the Eastern Illinois University community as they participate in the 26th annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. March Monday, Jan. 17.

The candle light vigil and march will begin at 6 p.m. at Thomas Hall, and will culminate with a program, beginning at 7 p.m., in the University Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The program will consist of musical selections from the University Choir; a short skit from Eastern's performing arts group, Indigo; and other talents from surrounding areas. The keynote speaker will be Norman Greer, EIU professor of speech communications.

Admission is free, and all are welcome.
