Spring concert features 'Bangles'

By MATT MANSFIELD
Activities editor

It's official.
"The Bangles" will be the featured band at the Spring Concert April 7 in Lantz Gym, Student Activities Director David Milberg said.

Milberg said he received a confirmation Friday by telephone from the Kramer Agency, a Michigan-based booking agency.

Although the contracts have not actually arrived yet, Milberg said he's sure "everything is set because we've worked with Ken Knapp (the booking agent) before and he's very reliable."

The Kramer Agency has previously handled booking for Eastern's Parents Weekend concerts, which have been tainted the last two years by last-minute cancellations.

University Board vice-chair Karol Klingel said she thinks the agency is reliable. "It was always the fault of a performer when a show was cancelled and the agency always found us a replacement."

Booking agent Kenn Knapp said "it's terrible when something goes wrong at the last minute, but of course you never can foresee those kinds of things."

Last fall's "Four Tops" concert was cancelled when lead singer Levi Stubbs became ill, but Knapp found a replacement band, "The Commodores," quickly.

Klingel said she's hopeful nothing will go wrong with "The Bangles."

UB concert coordinator Trever Brown said the bid for "The Bangles" and an opening act was $30,000. That figure doesn't include additional expenses such as print and advertising, sound and lights, emergency medical services, security, hospitality, stage crew, ticket printing and other incidental expenses.

Brown said tickets for the concert will be $13.

"The Bangles" is an all female rock group that currently has a single on Billboard's Top 40, "In Your Room." The group is touring in support of its new album, Everything.

The Bangles first two albums, All Over the Place and Different Light, as well as Everything, have met with commercial and critical success.

Milberg said he doesn't know who the opening act for "The

"The Bangles"

Bangles" will be, but the group usually tours with "House of Freaks" or "Hoodoo Gurus."

Knapp said a limited number of groups are touring this spring and considering the size of the auditorium he thinks Eastern's UB has done a fine job. "Eastern is certainly getting one of the best bands who'll be on tour this spring," Knapp said. Lantz Gym seats only 5,600, which has been a drawback in scheduling a band.

Klingel said she's excited about "The Bangles" concert. "I'm sure it will be a great show."

Eastern prepares for 100th birthday

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Administration editor

Although Eastern won't be 100 years old until 1995, preparations are already underway for the university's centennial celebration.

Daniel Thornburgh, director of university relations, is heading a committee organized by Eastern President Stan Rives to prepare for the event. Thornburgh said Thursday that the committee has already set tentative dates for the centennial celebration.

Thornburgh said the celebration will kick off on Founders Day, 1994, get into full swing during the fall semester of 1994 and culminate on May 22, 1995. "Eastern was founded by the state legislature on May 22, 1895," Thornburgh said, adding that classes didn't actually begin until four years later in 1899.

In addition to setting the dates, the committee is also making preparations to organize the university's historical documents into archives. "Presently, there is no one on campus who devotes all of their time to preserving the university's history," Thornburgh said.

"In order to have a meaningful celebration of Eastern's 100th anniversary, we will need to consult historical documents and items," Thornburgh said. He added that the committee is currently working on a plan to hire a university archivist to complete the project.

Also, by the middle of February, the centennial committee hopes to have surveys and letters sent to virtually all groups and organizations affiliated with the university asking for assistance in planning the celebration.

"We will be asking these groups to provide historical data such as when founding dates, names and changes that have taken place throughout the years," Thornburgh said.

DuWayne Elbert, history professor, will then take all of this information and compile a book commemorating Eastern's first 100 years. "It would be impossible for us to do all this research, so we're asking each individual group to help us out," Thornburgh said.

He also hopes the letters and surveys will help generate interest in the centennial celebration. "Although it's still six years away, a proper celebration cannot take place without several years of preplanning," he added.

Choate uses his record for mayoral reelection

By BOB SWINEY
Staff writer

Incumbent Mayor Murray Choate believes his good record in office for the past four years will win him the upcoming mayoral election.

"The platform I am running on for the election is my record," Choate said. "I have accomplished many major things, and hope to do even more the next four years."

Choate, who is retired from the office of admissions at Eastern after 25 years of service, said a major accomplishment was the formation of the Charleston Area Economic Foundation.

The foundation was formed to attract business and development to the Charleston area. It was also the first economic organization to form in this part of the state, Choate said.

Choate is also responsible in helping form the county economic organization which is just in the beginning stages.

Choate, who also serves as liquor commissioner as a duty of the mayor, said the other candidates are making a big issue about the alcohol situation in Charleston.

"As liquor commissioner, my duty is to see that ordinances are upheld and the alcohol situation is controlled," Choate said. "The other candidates are saying they will do this and that if they are elected, but I will stick to the duties of the commissioner."

There are three basic duties for the liquor commissioner. One, the commissioner serves as a legislator in introducing ordinances to the council, which must be approved by the council. Secondly, as an executive, the commissioner must listen to liquor license violations. And thirdly, the commissioner serves in a judicial capacity in considering punishment for offenders.

Choate said he doesn't think the other candidates understand that they cannot just come in and start making changes in liquor ordinances. The council must approve any changes in the ordinances, he said.

In addition to liquor commissioner, Choate said there are many other responsibilities for the mayor.

"I am responsible for all other areas under the council such as police, parking, building and zoning and economic development," Choate said.

Choate said he has the ability to get

Murder attempted at Bradley

PEORIA—A Bradley University student was being held without bond Monday, charged with attempted murder after a police officer kicked open a dormitory shower stall and found him choking a woman, authorities said.

Jeffery R. Clayton, 18, of Chicago was being held on charges of attempted murder, armed violence, attempted sexual assault, aggravated battery, criminal trespass and obstructing police in connection with the attack Saturday morning, police said.

A police officer called to the scene kicked open a shower stall on the fifth floor of Bradley's Geisert Hall dormitory and found Clayton standing over a woman and choking her, authorities said.

Both Clayton and the 19-year-old woman were nude and the shower was running at the time, authorities said. The woman's name was not released.

Police said Clayton attacked the woman with a steam iron and beat her, causing numerous injuries including a bruised lip and cuts to her face and shoulders.

Police were called after another female student heard whimpering, screaming and groaning coming from the stall.

She asked if there was anything wrong and a man's voice responded, "Nothing." The student notified a dormitory official, who summoned police.

Edgar has biggest campaign warchest

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Secretary of State Jim Edgar has the biggest campaign warchest of any state officeholder but a spokesman denies former workers' allegations that they were pressured on the job to help it grow.

Records show Edgar's $1.8 million warchest was built in part on funds contributed by his own employees, the Champaign-Urbana News Gazette reported in Sunday's editions.

Five current or recently retired employees allege violations of the state Political Activity Act, which prohibits employees from soliciting others for political purposes during working hours, the newspaper reported.

But Edgar spokesman Mike Lawrence called the story "rather flimsy," saying it is based on information from "disgruntled employees" who "all had axes to grind."

Lawrence said that on taking office, Edgar adopted a policy that "flat out stated" employees were not to solicit other employees on state time.

Under state law, political fund raising is allowed during breaks, during lunch hour and before and after office hours. The law applies to employees covered by the civil service code as are most workers in Edgar's office.

Louis Nash, a driving examiner at the Champaign Drivers License Examination Station from 1975 through 1987, said supervisors asked him several times during working hours to buy tickets to political fundraisers for Edgar, a Republican.

Lawyers unable to defend North

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for Oliver North said in a court filing released Monday that they would be unable to defend him adequately under a proposed agreement to control the use of classified material North wants to use in his defense.

The proposed agreement "would guarantee a 'cuckoo-clock' trial that would make a mockery of the adversarial process," said North's lawyer, Brendan Sullivan. He said that without the information he wants to present, "we cannot adequately defend this case."

The agreement was worked out between the office of independent counsel Lawrence Walsh, who is prosecuting North, and the Justice Department, which fears that North will spill classified material at his trial damaging to national security.

The proposed order would "gut the defense" by barring

North from using "critical information about the Reagan administration's third-country arrangements for military support of the (Nicaraguan) Resistance and the official non-disclosure of those arrangements," said the filing by Sullivan.

In referring to a "cuckoo-clock" trial, Sullivan was quoting the judge in the Iran-Contra case, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

CONGRATULATIONS!!

Weaver to speak on marketing Wednesday

By MATT MANSFIELD

Activities editor

Monday began American Marketing Association's National Marketing Week and Eastern's AMA has some local activities planned.

On Wednesday, State Representative from the 106th district Mike Weaver will speak to the group at 7 p.m. in the Union addition Kansas room.

Weaver is also a management/marketing instructor and an Eastern alumni.

The Eastern chapter of AMA is

Michael Weaver

bringing Weaver here to talk about marketing, chapter president Randy Sims said. "He'll (Weaver) be talking about marketing, not politics," Sims said. Although Weaver will address the group, the public is encouraged to attend.

Weaver received his bachelor's degree from Eastern in 1973 and his master's degree, in marketing, in 1974.

Strangely enough Weaver also has a master's degree in psychology from Eastern. Because of his political career Weaver said he became interested in consumer behavior, and returned here for his second degree.

Sims said the group wanted Weaver to speak "because he's well known nad successful. A lot of people know who Mike Weaver is."

In addition to Weaver's appearance, the group is conducting a membership drive. "Anyone interested in becoming a member can get information on Wednesday night," Sims said.

Eastern's AMA chapter recently received an efficiency award from the national chapter of the AMA. "Basically, the national group recognized that we're doing a good job and we meet all the requirements," Sims said.

Eastern's AMA chapter currently has more than 160 members.

Sims said the group also plans a trip to St. Louis for the 28th Annual Marketing Conference on Friday. The cost of the trip is $35 and anyone interested can contact Sims for details.

Several marketing professors will be going on the trip with the students. "The conference is a great chance to get in touch with quite a few large firms," Sims said.

Tarble displays unique works by two artists

By MATT MANSFIELD

Staff editor

Eastern's Tarble Arts Center has two unique exhibits currently on display.

Both exhibits are products of a lifetimes' work.

One of the exhibits, "William Hawkins: Transformations," is the work of self-taught, 94 year-old African-American artist William Hawkins.

Hawkins claims to have been painting since the 1930s and yet none of his early work is known to exist. Hawkins was "discovered" in 1981 by artist Lee Garrett, and since his "discovery" Hawkins has been recognized as one of the country's foremost folk artists.

Hawkins' work is included in the Museum of American Folk Art and the Smithsonian Institution, as well as other corporate and private collections.

The Hawkins exhibit was curated for Tarble by Gary Schwindler, an associate professor of Art at Ohio University-Athens and a scholar of "outsider" (folk, nonacademic, naive) art.

Schwindler will present a gallery talk on Hawkins and his work, starting at 7 p.m. Thursday in Tarble's main gallery. An informal reception will follow the talk, and no admission will be charged.

The exhibition features drawings and painting on a variety of subjects, as well as magazine clippings and other nontraditional materials Hawkins uses as source materials which he then "transforms".

Schwindler said the progression from a printed illustration to the drawings and paintings presented in the exhibition is typical of the way in which Hawkins works.

Another exhibit, "The Creative Impulse: Learning Through Teaching - A 20 Year Experience," also offers a non-standard presentation of the role of artist and teacher.

This exhibit is the effort of Eastern art professor Ernie Whitworth, who describes the exhibit as an "artist-selected retrospective exhibition and show and tell series."

The exhibit encompasses Whitworth's work and ideas over the past 20 years. Whitworth said he believes in what students have to say. "I have always assigned projects in class that I was excited about in the studio," Whitworth said, "and many students have had ideas that changed my ideas."

Whitworth's exhibit is dedicated to the memory of his mentor Bob Watts, who was instrumental in the founding of Fluxus, a neo-Dadist movement of the early 1960s.

Watts influence is evident in Whitworth's emphasis on the conceptual, and the use of found objects which serve to de-emphasize the separation between life and art.

Making up the exhibition are constructions, assemblages and collages using found materials; paintings, drawings, sculpture; and video participation.

Some of the pieces in the exhibit were done in collaboration with Whitworth's students, and the exhibition will be altered while on display as the result of on-going "show and tell" experiences.

Whitworth said he'll be presenting a "show and tell" session as part of the Family Sampler this Sunday. Family Sampler will last from 1 until 3:30 p.m.

Scores virus surfaces in lab

By RUSSELL STARE

Senior reporter

Students in Eastern's graphic design classes discovered Friday that no computer on campus is completely immune to viruses infecting the system.

The Scores virus, discovered in Macintosh computers on the University of Illinois campus, Champaign, one and a half years ago, surfaced in the Macintosh computers in Eastern's graphics design lab of the Fine Arts Building Friday.

"So far it has not done any file damage," said instructor Chuck Nivens. After checking students computer disks with a check file called Interferon, Nivens said every disk that had been used at either graphics design or the technical education lab in Khlemm Hall was infected.

"Chuck told me the procedure he was using and the product. It appears that he's doing the job correctly," said David Henard, director of computers and telecommunications services for Eastern's Computer Services office.

Henard was involved with controlling the Brain virus which infected the personal computer labs on campus. The Brain virus is believed to have been present before Christmas.

The Scores virus has been affecting computer systems and applications. Files have yet to be destroyed. "If you've had it (the virus) a little while it only gets the systems. If you have it a while longer it gets the programs," Nivens said he is not certain if files could be infected.

Nivens said the graphics design lab had been purged of the virus by Friday afternoon, but the computers will be checked weekly to avoid a reoccurrence. A weekly check of disks being used on the system will also be instituted Niven added.

Nivens said he will be doing work on his home computer to check disks after finding the infection in a new computer. "If the programs should turn out infected from the factory, that's a quick way of spreading the virus nationwide," he said.

The Scores virus damaged the two hard drives on the Macintosh system in graphics design he said. The system of one hard drive was affected while on the other, "every single application we had was eliminated."

Henard said some computer labs utilizing Macintosh computers are independent of the Computer Services office such as those in (ital)The Daily Eastern News.(ital) "We don't really have anything to do with them," he said, but his office is willing to help during a crisis.

Niven said he will be distributing copies of the Interferon check program free of charge to avoid problems in other systems.

He said the virus did not originate in graphics design, but it does seem to be limited there.

Mayoral candidates to be featured in community forum

By PETE SCALES

City editor

Charleston residents will get a chance to see the candidates for both the mayor and city commissioner seats in action Tuesday night at a forum sponsored by the Coles County League of Women Voters.

The forum will be held at the Charleston Motor Inn, 920 W. Lincoln Ave., and will begin at 7:30 p.m.

"The voters will have a chance to come and listen to prepared statements by the candidates, and then they will be able to ask questions and listen to the questions of others," said Patti Webb, publicity chair for the Coles County League of Women Voters.

Each candidate will be allowed a three-minute opening statement. Questions written by the audience and screened by the League's members will be fielded for ten minutes. The forum will close with each candidate's two-minute closing statement.

"I think a big audience would produce a bigger spectrum of questions," said Webb.

All the candidates for the city positions have agreed to participate.

Bush's budget proposal a welcome one

Finally, a man has proposed to give us what were asking for.

President George Bush's budget proposal for fiscal year 1990, put simply, is one that will shelter the homeless, combat the drug war and fund education.

George Bush's budget is not one that will bolster defense spending, but one that will benefit us, the average citizens. Bush has called for a one-year freeze on defense spending, a $2.7 billion decrease from Reagan's last budget proposal.

Editorial And although Bush's cut is less than one percent from Reagan's budget, it is at least refreshing to note he's cutting from defense instead of spending.

The proposed budget will emphasize domestic programs, finally. In his address Thursday, Bush indicated he would spend $1 billion to create a new program to aid the homeless, and almost $1 billion in new funds to fight the war on drugs — both pledges he had made throughout his presidential campaign. It is an optimistic sign that he's living up to those promises. On a sour note though, Bush has proposed to trim $5 billion from Medicare, which is likely to meet strong opposition from Congressional Democrats.

But Bush's budget is a step in the right direction.

By emphasizing economic growth nationally, Bush hopes to reduce the federal deficit to $94.8 billion, which is well below the $100 cap in the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law. And curbing the federal deficit should be priority number one throughout Bush's administration.

To uphold his vow to become the "education president," Bush has proposed 13 new education programs that would cost $411 through the tenure of his administration, including requesting an additional $100 million for a magnet-school program.

Environmentally, Bush said he is going to "beef-up" the Clean Air Act and has requested additional funds from Congress for acid-rain prevention.

If you read his lips Thursday, George Bush said "my plan has four broad features: attention to urgent priorities, investment in the future, an attack on the deficit and no new taxes." Let's hope he's right.

Traveling Route 47 a step back in time

Nothing can be more frustrating than — in the height of your rush to get home for a three-day weekend — spending about 20 miles of your trip helplessly trapped behind a big, slow, green John Deere combine tractor.

If any of you hail from the north and travel home via Illinois Route 47, you probably know what I'm talking about. Simply put, it is not an exciting trip and in some cases, can be very frustrating.

I don't know what it is with the people who live in the towns that cradle Route 47. They just don't have it together. First of all, in a 55 mph zone, most of them feel obliged to zip along at about 35 mph so they can enjoy the countryside view (like they don't see it everyday anyway). And you can't get around them. You just can't. Each time it looks like there might be enough daylight ahead to give you room to pass, you either enter a no passing zone or a grain truck will approach just in time to thwart your attempt to advance in traffic.

And these people that think they're doing you a favor by traveling 20 miles under the limit, they travel in convoys. When you do get that chance to pass, your move into the other lane and bam — there they are, about 16 of them lined up just like a row of ducks. Most of them drive Ford pick-ups that are about 12 years old. And if they get you mad enough to wave or produce some other sort of friendly gesture, you're risking your life. Some of them chew tobacco and have no hesitations about spitting right out the window and watching the brown wad splat on your windshield. And the others, why, they have shotgun racks behind the seat and can easily drive with one hand and shoot at your car tires with the other.

I will acknowledge that I am usually in an incredible rush to get home and do frequently speed to get there. But you see, if you've ever traveled home on Route 47, you'd speed too. It's the kind of road that you don't want to spend any more time on then you have to.

And the towns along Route 47 are just as unique as the people are. One town in particular, Strawn, has a population of 150 people. If you're traveling modestly, (about 65 mph) it will probably take less than five seconds to drive through Strawn. And a few miles south of Strawn is Sibley. Although a little larger (by about 300 people) Sibley is unique for only one thing. A ceramic, black and white pig erected near the roadside for all passersby to gawk at. Since Sibley is a little larger though, it may take closer to ten seconds before you're out of town. Then there's Mazon. Mazon won't even list what its town population is, but the community center there is the local Phillips 66 gas station.

And the worst part is, these towns, like Strawn and Sibley and Mazon, are the exciting parts of the trip. For every 30 miles of countryside, there is only one town and in most cases, they're about as populated as Strawn and Sibley.

But they're good towns. The people there sit on lawn chairs on their front porch, sip lemonade, play gin rummy, gossip about their neighbors and still talk about what a great president Dwight Eisenhower is.

The first sign of civilization is Morris, about three hours north. My passengers and I have come to the conclusion that Morris is civilized not only because it has a McDonalds, but a Hardee's, a Bonanza, a Pizza Hut and a Dairy Queen. It is a refreshing scene apart from the flat, unscenic, countryside that occupies the majority of the trip.

Then there's Gibson City. Gibson City, about an hour and a half north, is kind of civilized (it has a McDonald's, but that's it) and the most exciting part of the whole town is a soybean factory. Outside of the factory, near Route 47, they post a sign that shows how many days the factory has operated without one of the workers having an accident. The highest I have ever seen is was 214. This weekend, it was 84 days.

I'll bet the next time I go home it will at least be 130.

— Jeff Madsen is the editorial page editor and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

TKE progress measured by GPAs

Dear editor;

As a faculty member interested in the development of the American college fraternity, I was heartened to learn of "the recent success of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity."

One major element of excellence on the college campus is easily measured. I shall look forward to learning of Tau Kappa Epsilon's relative position for spring semester, 1989, compared to the all-campus men's GPA and the IFC chapter standings.

We should ponder the sanctity of life

By PEGGY BRAYFIELD

Our new president vows to foster a kinder, gentler, society. Recently, a paper carried a report that "pro-life" protesters blocked the entrance to a women's clinic in Southern Illinois, jeering and taunting women as they tried to enter.

This has caused me to ponder about what it would mean to affirm the sacredness of all life, and whether in fact our nation, or many of us as individual citizens, have ever taken such a stand. As I pondered, the following fable took shape in my imagination:

Beneath a shady tree, a wise teacher sat quietly meditating, when a group of angry, moral citizens brought to him a woman who had aborted her pregnancy.

They said "Master, this woman is guilty of violating the sanctity of life, for she has killed her unborn child. We say she is a murderess, and should be punished accordingly. What do you say?"

The sage at first paid them no heed, continuing in his meditation. But when they persisted in demanding his judgment, he turned his head, looked each of them in the eye, and said, "You accuse this woman of violating the sanctity of life. I say to you, let him who is without the same sin cast the first stone."

Then each one in the crowd suddenly saw in the eye of his conscience some violation of the sanctity of life for which he had been guilty:

Mr. X. had arranged for his 14-year-old daughter to have an abortion, saying her case was special.

Mr. Z. many years ago had abandoned his pregnant girlfriend, expressing doubt about his paternity and leaving her to cope as best she could.

The Reverend L. and his wife had so impressed their daughter with the sinfulness of unmarried sex, and so sheltered her from the facts of contraception, that when a girl became pregnant out of wedlock, she preferred to secretly abort, rather than turn to her parents for advice and support.

Others among them had condoned violations of life's sanctity equally grievous:

Businessmen G. and H. had polluted the environment with toxic wastes, causing an indefinite number of miscarriages.

Governors M. and N. had opposed legislation to outlaw such pollution, in the interest of promoting free enterprise.

Indeed, most of those present had unquestioningly supported their government in acts of war, condoning even acts destructive to innocent lives.

And so one by one, these moral citizens ceased their accusations and turned away from the woman.

Then the wise teacher, seeing he was left alone with the woman who had violated the sanctity of life, turned and said, "Woman, where are your accusers? Has no one condemned you?"

She said, "No one, sir."

Then the sage said, "Neither do I condemn you. Go, and as much as you find strength within you to do so, live in reverence for the sanctity of all life."

Kindrick to address senate

Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, will address Eastern's Faculty Senate at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Martinsville Room of the Union Addition.

Kindrick will discuss the current policy regarding copyrights and patents on faculty work and answer any questions the senate may have.

Gary Foster, faculty senate chair, said Monday he received a letter from Board of Governors Chancellor Thomas Layzell stating the board would postpone any action on the copyright issue until its April 13 meeting.

The senate had requested a longer time period to examine the copyright and patent policies before submitting a conclusion to the BOG. Foster said the senate needs more time to evaluate the current policy and formulate any changes.

Foster said the big question which remains is over ownership of copyrights and patents. He explained that if a faculty member completes research and work on his own time, then he owns the copyright. But, if the university grants time off or provides funding for work, then the university owns the copyright.

Andrews Hall painting gets mixed responses

By TRACIE STEWART
Staff writer

Instead of waking up to the smell of fresh coffee, residents in Andrews Hall are waking up to the smell of fresh paint.

Andrews residents received notices in January announcing all rooms would be painted starting on Feb. 1, excluding rooms that contained unmovable lofts.

Marianne Kunkel, Andrews Hall assistant counselor, said Andrews desperately needed to be painted. The painting is being done now because during the summer the building is used for campus and conferences, making it a greater inconvenience to paint, Kunkel added.

Linda Lauchner, a resident of Andrews, said the painting is an invasion of her privacy. She said since she considers Andrews her home, the university has no right to paint it without her permission.

Other residents, such as Jennifer Blank, said they are happy to see the improvements and said it is about time their rooms got painted.

"I know one of my friends had her room painted and it was no problem," Blank said. "I don't mind it at all."

Police add new officers

Eastern's University Police Department has increased its staff of officers in order to compare with other Illinois universities' security staffs.

University Police Chief Tom Larson said the university hired two new officers to increase the midnight shift from five to seven officers and to "prevent crimes before they happen."

Larson said the increase is to meet the number of officers staffed at other Illinois universities.

"Increasing the number of officers means we get the areas covered better," Larson said, adding, "the university needs more people at these hours (midnight) when everything is happening."

In addition to the two officers that were hired to increase the security staff, a third officer was hired to replace former police officer Kathy Cartwright.

Eastern's new officers are Adam J. Due, John D. Hatfill and Phil L. Lang.

Funding for the new officers came from the housing office, Larson said. The funding was then approved by Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, and the President's Council.

Sexual harassment topic of seminar

By MIKE YOUNG
Staff writer

The fine line between "kidding" and sexual harassment will be discussed at a Life Skills Seminar at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

The seminar will be hosted for the second time by Rhonda Chasteen, the acting assistant director of Affirmative Action.

Chasteen said she has dealt with sexual harassment complaints while working in the Affirmative Action program and wants to use her experience to educate people at the seminar which is free and open to the public.

"I want them to know what constitutes sexual harassment," Chasteen said. "And I want to let them know what resources are available on campus to deal with it."

The percentage of Eastern students and faculty that are sexually harassed falls in line with the national average of 28 percent, Chasteen said.

Short video tapes of sexual harassment will be shown at the seminar to help people visualize what we are talking about, Chasteen said.

The types of behavior considered to be sexual harassment will be covered in addition to what recourse the victims can take, Chasteen said.

Valentine's Day observed in halls

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
Staff writer

Cupid is alive in the residence halls during February as the halls celebrate the month of love with games and flower sales.

Pemberton Hall has organized a "Mr. Irresistible" male beauty contest Wednesday similar to the "Mr. Carman" contest held last Wednesday.

Any male students interested are eligible for the contest to be held at 7 p.m. in the Pemberton

Hall lounge, said Jill Kosonen, a hall council member.

The contestants will be judged in three categories: sweatsuits, shorts and "bar attire," Kosonen said.

A hall activity similar to the dating game has been arranged for Wednesday in Taylor Hall.

Kathy Derrico, Taylor Hall president, said the contest would be at 7 p.m. in the Taylor lobby. Derrico said as of now, there is one round scheduled where one girl will question and choose one of three gentlemen for dinner at Boomers' With A Twist and dancing at E.L. Krackers.

"A lot of people here have boyfriends or girlfriends either on campus or back home, and this is a way to break the monotony for Valentine's Day," Taff said.

Residence halls, such as Andrews and Lawson, will deliver carnations, balloons or candy that were sold last week to residents to raise money for the hall councils.

Committee positions available

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
Government editor

Applications for two openings, one for a graduate student and one for an undergraduate student, are now available for the Distinguished Faculty Award Committee.

Senate member Brian Moushon, the co-chair of the academic affairs committee which will conduct the first interviews for the openings, said the students will be part of the committee which chooses the distinguished faculty member for the year.

Applications are available Tuesday through Friday in the Student Government office, 201 University Union. The deadline is Friday at noon, Moushon said.

The committee, made up of five faculty members, an alumni representative and the two students, evaluates the teacher applications and conducts the interviews of faculty nominees.

Moushon said the academic affairs committee will conduct the first interviews with the applicants, followed by interviews with the legislative leadership committee of Student Senate, which will make the final choices for the committee openings.

"A person who cares about the university and the faculty members is the kind of person we need for the committee," Moushon said.

Quayle defends John Tower

SPRINGFIELD (AP)— Vice President Dan Quayle defended John Tower and criticized the Nicaraguan government of Daniel Ortega in a wide-ranging Lincoln Day address Monday to more than 1,200 Republicans.

"There's absolutely no reason in the world that John Tower shouldn't be the next secretary of defense," Quayle said of the former GOP senator from Texas, President Bush's embattled nominee for the Pentagon post.

"He was a good chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and I think he should—and I anticipate that he will—be secretary of defense and do a real good job," Quayle said.

Reminding the gathering of his recent visit to Central America, Quayle said the U.S. government is growing impatient with Ortega's failure to live up to promises that Nicaragua would move toward democracy.

"You have a totalitarian government, a Marxist-Leninist government that has not moved toward elections which it said it wanted to do when it came to power in 1978 and 1979," he said.

Quayle said the situation in Nicaragua has not improved in the 13 months since Congress cut off aid to the Nicaraguan rebels and Washington has looked for progress from the diplomatic rather than military front.

"This is a time to test Danny Ortega to see if he is sincere," he said.

Before speaking to the $35-per-ticker Sangamon County Republican Party fund-raiser, Quayle visited Oak Ridge Cemetery, placing a wreath at Abraham Lincoln's tomb and making a stop at the nearby Illinois Vietnam Veterans War Memorial.

Carl Spencer, a veteran whose brother was a prisoner of war in Vietnam, presented Quayle with a petition bearing about 3,000 signatures from people concerned about POW-related issues.

The vice president said he would give the petitions to Bush and would meet with Spencer in Washington later this year.

Massacre memories live

CHICAGO (AP) —Sixty years ago Tuesday, the sputtering of machine guns raked the air of a Near North Side neighborhood and seven members of George "Bugs" Moran's gang fell dead in the St. Valentine's Day Massacre.

It was the Prohibition era's goriest crime and the beginning of the end.

Now Prohibition is dead, and the garage is gone, but the memories live on for some Chicago residents, who vividly recall when "gangland graduated from murder to massacre," as news accounts of the day put it.

A senior citizen's home borders the site, and residents of the Lincoln Park Senior Center say their parking lot is on the very spot where the seven fell. Some residents believe their ghosts still walk.

"I'd be sitting on my reclining chair and hear things moving around the door," said Madeline Bushbaum, 84, who lived in the neighborhood when the massacre occurred.

"We always figured it was the dead ones looking for the ones that killed 'em," said Bushbaum, who has moved out of the room closest to the murder site. "I don't hear 'em anymore, but several people moved out of the building because they said they were disturbed."

At the time of the massacre, "Scarface" Al Capone, notorious leader of Near South Side bootlegging operations, wanted Moran's territory up north.

On that 10-below zero morning, Feb. 14, 1929, four men, two wearing police uniforms, raided Moran's garage headquarters.

They lined up the men against the wall as if for a routine frisk, and instead delivered a heart-stopping Valentine's Day present in a hail of gunfire.

Bushbaum, then a 24-year-old evening telephone operator, was playing pool with guys in the back room of Drake Braithwaite undertakers, about three blocks from the scene. She said she often helped out there, answering the telephone there when the employees went out "to pick up the stiff."

"While we were playing, the garage door flew open and there were the coppers and the paddy wagon," she recalled.

"They brought in two bodies on two slabs and just slid 'em off on the floor and said, 'We gotta go back, we got five more dead out there!'"

Choate uses record

the most state funding available. "If you look at my record, you will find that I have helped get all sorts of grants," he said.

Choate said he lobbied in Springfield to help get the $6 million which was needed to build the new business addition at Eastern. Choate also helped the city to obtain a grant for $400,000 for residents to upgrade their homes on the northwest side of Charleston.

Also, Choate said he has just applied for a $400,000 grant for a new business, Consolidated Telemarketing of America, to locate in Charleston.

Choate said he has also managed the city well enough to keep it out of debt for the past four years.

"When I came in, Charleston's budget was in the red, but we made the necessary cuts to have a balanced budget during my term in office," Choate said.

"Right now, we even have $500,000 in our reserve fund which would last two months if we got in a jam and needed the money," he said.

Choate said other major accomplishments was the establishment of the tourism board, a safety plan for Charleston and an extensive overhaul on the streets.

Choate said he takes care of business as expected and is in the office full-time at just a salary of $7,500 a year.

The main purpose of the mayor "is to give the most for the least amount of money," Choate said. "And I believe I have succeeded in doing that."

Grapplers ready for Missouri

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Associate sports editor

Eastern's wrestling team, riding high after key dual-meet wins over Miami of Ohio and Northern Illinois, puts its 10-2 team record on the line at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Missouri in Columbia, Mo.

The Panthers will have all weight categories filled when they meet the Tigers, a luxury Eastern coach Ralph McCausland has had just three previous times this year.

"Forfeiting matches (because of injury) has been something we've been plagued with throughout the year," McCausland said. "It's encouraging to have everyone."

But McCausland stops short of saying he has a healthy team.

"We have good momentum right now, but we're beat physically," McCausland said. "There are no serious injuries, but we have some nagging ones."

The grapplers practiced twice Monday, but McCausland said there also has been a fair amount of individual preparation for Missouri.

"I've been scouting the high school tournament this weekend, so they've been pretty much on their own," McCausland said. "The guys have been serious about it, though, and that's good to see."

Tuesday's meet was originally slated for Wednesday evening, but there was a scheduling conflict for Missouri's facility.

The Tigers, members of the prestigious Big Eight wrestling conference, defeated Eastern last season at Lantz Gym, but McCausland didn't say that revenge would play as big of a role as it did in the Panthers' win at Northern last Thursday.

"I don't know if revenge will be a factor," McCausland said. "We've seen them at several tournaments this year and our guys pretty much know how we match up."

Eastern's Ray Serbick (134 pounds) and Dave Marlow (142) will likely face the toughest competition from their Missouri opponents, McCausland said. In tournament action earlier this season, Serbick split two matches against Tigers and Marlow fell to a Missouri foe.

McCausland said his squad has found team success lately as a direct result of strong individual efforts.

"The level of intensity we're getting from each guy has benefited both the individual and the team," he said. "We've been stressing no relaxation for the full seven minutes of the match."

Tankers swim by Principia College

By JOHN MAU
Staff writer

Eastern's men's and women's swim teams — like a machine — beat Principia College Saturday in nine out of 13 events.

"We dominated the event," Eastern coach Ray Padovan said. "We were very unemotional. We have a lot of individual scorers."

On the men's team, Sean Brock won the 1500-yard backstroke and Jay Hunt won the 200- and 500-yard freestyle. Jim Berryman won the 1000-yard freestyle, John Fitzpatrick won the 100-yard butterfly competition and Lee Ellis won the 100-yard freestyle.

"They (Principia) were a good team for the size of their school, but we really swept them," Fitzpatrick said.

The women's team took first and second in the diving competition. Lara Martin won the 200- and 500-yard freestyle and Lee Singer won the 50-yard freestyle. Michelle Stoppenhagen won the 100-yard freestyle, Jan Rhudy won the 100-yard butterfly and Stacey Peterson won the 100-yard breaststroke.

Padovan said it was an important win for the tankers. "We needed something to keep up our competition," he said.

"A couple of us did exceptionally well and the rest were mostly average," team captain Sean Brock said.

Lady Tracksters lose, but efforts keep it close

By PHIL CHAPARRO
Staff writer

Eastern's women's track team lost in a dual meet to Indiana State 66-65 Saturday, but the one-point loss cannot put a damper on the solid team effort the Lady Panthers turned in.

The women won nine events, including three by Tina Dawson and two by Lorry Plutz.

Dawson saved her best effort for the last indoor meet before the Gateway Conference Indoor Championships Feb. 24-25, and bagged victories in the long jump (18-4) and the high jump (5-5).

To top the afternoon off, Dawson set a new school and Lantz Fieldhouse record in the triple jump leaping 37-3 3/4, shattering the old mark of 36-10.

"Tina Dawson turned in a stellar performance," Eastern coach John Craft said. "It was her first time she performed in that event all season, and she performed admirably."

Plutz turned in another business-as-usual effort, coasting to victories in the 200- and 400-meter dashes at times of 26.06 and 59.34, respectively.

Dawson and Plutz also teamed up with Jenny Mangrum and Esta Saverson for a first-place finish in the half-mile relay at a clip of 1:45.66.

Laurie Mizener won the 3,000-meter dash at 10.38, Pam Kinkelaar placed first in the 600-meter dash at 1.39.37 and Tracy Hoffman won the half-mile run

Vault record leads tracksters

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's track team, propelled by a new school record in the pole vault, took second in an invitational Saturday afternoon at Lantz Fieldhouse.

Junior Mark Hamilton, a transfer from Parkland College, took first place in the pole vault with a leap of 16-2 1/2, shattering the old mark of 16 1/2 set in 1987 by Lonny Vickery.

Hamilton said he dedicated the jump to senior Mike Giesler, who has aided Hamilton in his comeback from a leg injury.

"I was injured for two years. I took a lot of hell from a whole lot of people," Hamilton said. "The biggest guy I owe this to is Mike Giesler. This is for him."

Eastern track coach Neil Moore said he was pleased by Hamilton's effort.

"That was deserving because Mark has been plagued by injuries," Moore said. "Finally he has his day in the sun."

Another top performance was put in by senior shot-putter Jeff Gennarelli, who competed unattached. Gennarelli has used up all of his indoor eligibility, but will be eligible to compete with Eastern in the upcoming outdoor season.

Eastern's indoor shot put record is 58-2 1/2. Gennarelli took several throws Saturday, with every one of them more than 59 feet and one travelled more than 60 feet.

The NCAA indoor qualifying mark is 59-7. If he was eligible, Gennarelli would already have qualified for the NCAA tournament.

In the meet itself, Eastern took second place with 71 1/2 points, while Indiana State won with 86.

Southern Illinois had 65 points to finish third, Southwest Missouri State had 30 1/2 to take fourth and Western Illinois was last with 18.

"We were very pleased," Moore said. "We are showing a little more depth in some events."

Moore said he was especially pleased with the performance of Jared Thompson, who accounted for 21 points.

Thompson took 2nd in the 55-meter dash and first in the long jump and the triple jump.

But others also excelled for the Panthers.

Junior Don Glover took third in the 55-meter high hurdles with a time of 7.6 and took third in the 600-meter dash with a 1:13.54 time, senior Eric Childs took a third in the 55-meter dash with a 6.52 time, freshman Clint Weber was fourth in the mile run with a 4:22.9 time and junior Scott Stecken tied for fifth in the high jump with a 6-3 1/4 leap.

Sophomore Dan Steele was second in the 400-meter dash with a 49.24 time, junior Robert Holzer was fourth to Hamilton's record pole vault with his own 14-8 3/4 leap and in the 800-meter run, junior Mike Young was third with a 1:55 time, while junior Steve Conlon was fourth with a 1:55.4 time.

Freshman Brent Miller took a third in the shot put with a 48-6 toss, senior Al Oaks was second in the 1,000-yard run with a 2:15.76 time, junior Greg Heggs was third in the 200-meter dash with a 22.43 time and sophomore Dennis Stuhler took fourth in the triple jump with a leap of 44-4.

UNI downs Panthers

Eastern rallied from a 13-point first-half deficit, but couldn't surpass Northern Iowa Saturday at Cedar Falls, Iowa. The purple Panthers solidified their hold or second place in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities with an 83-79 win over Eastern.

Northern Iowa went ahead 42-29 with about a minute left in the first half on a field goal by Jasor Reese. After a field goal by Dave Vance and two free throws by UNI's Nick Nurse, David Olsor hit a three-pointer to cut the lead to 44-35 at the intermission.

In the second half, Eastern came back to tie the game at 52-52 with about 12 minutes left on a six-footer by Jay Taylor, who led Eastern with 25 points.

But Northern Iowa pulled away to another six-point lead before Eastern rallied again. Gerald Jones hit two free throws at 5:06 to tie the game at 67-67. But Northern Iowa hung on to win from the free-throw line. The purple Panthers hit only two field goals in the last five minutes, but hit 12 free throws during that same stretch.

"I thought we played a lot better in the second half," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said in a postgame radio interview. "We played with more intensity and I thought we did a better job of running our offense.

"In the first half we were awful lethargic. Northern Iowa is out playing aggressively, trying to keep us out of our offense, and we're letting them do it."

Samuels said Eastern was lucky to make a second-half run at Northern Iowa.

"We were fortunate to get back in the ballgame," he said. "We didn't shoot the ball well at all, and we couldn't make the big play when we needed it. We'd get close, and we'd miss a rebound or a reasonably good shot attempt. We just couldn't get over the hump."

Eastern senior center Mike West played 24 minutes in his second game since returning from arthroscopic knee surgery.

Not satisfied

Panthers still not happy after romp

By JAMES BETZOLD
Sports editor

It wasn't the attitude you'd expect after a 24-point victory.

Neither Eastern coach Rick Samuels nor his players were happy Monday night after the Panthers (11-13, 4-4 in the Association of Mid-Continent Universities) defeated Western Illinois (6-15, 1-7) 86-62 at Lantz Gym.

"We weren't excited coming off the floor tonight," Samuels said. "I think it was because they felt — as I did — that we didn't play as hard as we can play. I guess we played reasonably well. (But) I wasn't real excited after the game because I don't think our intensity is where it should be for this time of the season."

Said Eastern guard Jay Taylor, who led Eastern with 37 points: "We haven't reached our potential as a team. I think we came out a little flat. We weren't cutting as hard and we weren't coming to the ball (on offense)."

But Western coach Jack Margenthaler was a little more enthusiastic about Eastern's performance, particularly Taylor's.

"He (Taylor) was the show tonight," Margenthaler said. "He's a bonafide All-American, and he's got my vote. I think he's the best player in the league."

One of Taylor's biggest performances of the night came with 5:31 left on an open-court reverse dunk to put Eastern ahead 70-53.

"I always wanted to do one of those before I left," Taylor said. "I guess it's just a carry-over from watching the All-Star Game."

Or maybe the three-point shootout.

Eastern tied a team record with 11 three-pointers, including five in the first half to lead 38-29 at halftime.

Taylor, who had five three-pointers, scored Eastern's first 14 points after the intermission, but Western remained within 10 points with 12:50 left. Eastern edged away and then went on a 16-4 run that started with Taylor's thunderous dunk.

The only other Eastern player to score in double figures was forward Mark Fowler, who scored 14 points after coming off the bench less than a minute into the game.

"It really doesn't matter (if I start) as long as a get in," Fowler said. "When I come in off the bench, I'm a little anxious. I think I take it out on the (opposing) players."

Another key player off the bench was center Mike West, continuing his return from arthroscopic knee surgery, which kept him out of 14 games before his return last week. Although West didn't score, he was a valuable asset on defense.

"I think everybody came off the bench and did a great job," Taylor said. "Mike West is helping us a lot. He's got a big, wide body."

And Samuels said he hopes West's help will spread to the rest of the defense, especially since that's the area where Samuels says intensity is lacking the most.

"He's a key defensively," Samuels said. "I think his intensity could be contagious. I think at this point in the season, we have to emphasize the little things we aren't doing. I don't think we've peaked yet."

Lady Panthers preserve perfect home mark

By DAVID LINDQUIST

Eastern's women's basketball team made quick work of Western Illinois Saturday night at Lantz Gym, running past the Westerwinds 96-63 to climb into a third-place tie with Drake in the Gateway Conference standings.

For the second consecutive game Eastern, now 8-5 in league play, benefited from a strong first half performance — jumping to leads of 18-6, 27-13 and 41-24 against Western.

"I think we're playing harder now," guard Shelly Ethridge said of the Lady Panthers, who led Bradley by 20 points at the half Thursday night. "We don't think about losing again."

Saturday's win for Eastern marked the payback of a 94-79 loss at Macomb on Jan. 12, which was the Westerwinds first win over the Lady Panthers since 1980.

"We had that loss in the back of our minds," said Ethridge, who scored a career-high 19 points Saturday. "It wasn't necessarily revenge, but we knew we didn't play well there."

The Lady Panthers seemingly could do no wrong this time against the Westerwinds, out-rebounding Western 44-36 and shooting an uncanny 79 percent from the field in the second half.

"I'm pleased with where we are right now for our set of circumstances," Eastern coach Barbara Hilke said. "We've stayed aggressive and competitive, and our seniors are providing great leadership."

Eastern has bounced back from last weekend's road losses to Drake and Northern Iowa, which left the Lady Panthers in a fourth-place conference tie with Bradley.

Now the Lady Panthers sit two games back of second-place Southern Illinois with a perfect 6-0 Gateway home record, while Bradley, 6-7, is all alone in the Gateway's sixth place.

"As a senior, Lisa Tyler's been an inspiration to the team," Ethridge said.

Tyler, a 5-11 forward, led five Eastern players in double-figure scoring Saturday with 20 points and also collected a team-high nine rebounds.

"Lisa Tyler has taken control of every crucial situation," Hilke said.

"If I had to attribute any settling down it'd be to Lisa and Shelly."

Even though Ethridge hit a career-high in scoring, grabbed four offensive rebounds and dished out seven assists, the 5-8 point guard's main assignment Saturday was to handle Western's full-court press.

"The press was hard to break for a while," Ethridge said. "They trapped everywhere. Then coach said just clear it out and it was easier to break."

"It seemed like we struggled and struggled and then the dam just broke and we scored with ease," Hilke said.

Following Tyler and Ethridge in scoring was senior guard Sheryl Bonsett, who scored 17 points. Bonsett also had six rebounds, six assists and three steals.

Center Stacy Friedrich came off the bench to score 14 points in 17 minutes of play and forward Bev Williams scored 10 points and collected four offensive rebounds in a reserve role.

"We have young kids giving us quality minutes," Hilke said. "It's nice to see Stacy untrack a little bit
