Towed cars get refunds

By STEVE LYSAKER
 Campus editor

Students whose cars were towed from the O'Brien Stadium parking lot last Thursday will receive reimbursements for towing expenses, said Lou Hencken, acting vice president for student affairs.

After a number of students had vehicles towed from the stadium parking lot last Thursday, many complained they were not informed their vehicles were to be moved.

Hencken said a sign on the gate to the stadium parking lot states vehicles are to be moved from the lot from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Thursday due to a drivers' educa-

Union show 'larger than life'

By ROBERT SANCHEZ
 Staff writer

The Student Activities Office is expecting Tuesday's Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Open House to live up to its "larger than life" billing.

An annual event, the Open House is meant to inform new and old students about stores and services the Union provides.

"It's not just a building with McDonald's," said Kristie Kirchner, administrative assistant for the student activities office.

Administrative Assistant Paul Putman agreed with Kirchner that the student perception of what the Union has to offer is narrow. The Open House, Putman said, will contain a variety of specials, giveaways and entertainment throughout the day.

The activities, provided by each department in the Union, should entice students, Putman said. The students would then be able to find the Union has a lot to offer he said.

"There is something to appeal for everyone," Putman said.

Putman said the activities should draw a number of students to the event and he expects traffic though the Union to "at least double or triple" as a result of the Open House.

"College students always show up for free food," Putman said.

From 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the University Ballroom, the One Ton Sundae will be sure to end a few diets. On the lighter side, the Rathskeller will pass out free Yoplait yogurt.

Students who want to keep their college memories on film can do so at the Open House. From 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the University Ballroom Fun Flicks will give students the opportunity to make their own video. Catch a Wave, from 12 p.m. to 3 p.m., takes place in front of the Bookstore and will allow people to surf without actually having to go to the ocean.

Hypnotist Dan LaRosa will end the day with his "Humorous Hypnosis Comedy Show" at 7 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

There will be specials throughout the day for those in search of good deals to fit their college budgets. The bookstore will have a sale on a number of items and the Sugar Shack will offer 25 cent popcorn and 50 cent pretzels. Other specials, like free check cashing, will be offered at the Craft Depot, Copy Express, Rathskeller and McDonald's.

Students can also register for giveaways including a mountain bicycle, tickets to Chicago and passes to University Board events. Winners of the giveaway prizes will be announced at La-Rosa's show.

For those who want to see everything the Open House has to offer but are limited by time, Putman has a suggestion.

"Everything will really get started about 10 or 11 a.m.," Putman said. "A good time to come is around lunch time when everything is going on."

Parking spaces temporarily closed

Thirty-two parking spaces in J-Lot located in front of O'Brien Stadium will be closed starting Wednesday for about a month, university police announced Monday.

The spaces, in two rows of 16 on the lot's southwest corner, will be blocked off later this week with flags and barricades. These spaces will only be open to university-owned vehicles while construction work is done near the Physical Plant on the lot where Eastern's cars are normally parked.

Eastern police said the work is expected to take about 30 days after which the spaces will be open again.

They suggest open spaces in W-Lot across Fourth Street from Taylor and Lawson residence halls and in the lot along Ninth Street just west of Greek Court.

Hypnotist makes debut at Eastern

By CHRIS KARWOWSKI
Staff writer

Hypnotist Dan LaRosa will perform his "Humorous Hypnosis Comedy Show" at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The event is free of charge and open to students as well as the general public.

LaRosa's show is part of the University Union's Open House which is to expose students to the wide variety of options the Union can provide for them.

Although LaRosa performed at several other places, is a newcomer to the Eastern entertainment circuit. Kristie Kirchner, administrative assistant in the Student Activities office, said LaRosa was spotted at many regional conferences and was asked to perform here.

Kirchner said during the show LaRosa will ask volunteers to come up on the stage to be hypnotized. After the process of hypnosis is performed on the volunteers, they will perform tests to prove to the audience they are hypnotized. Such tests might include making the volunteers believe they are children again or possibly a famous rock star.

Kirchner said LaRosa's show should last about an hour and a half with LaRosa staying afterwards to answer any questions about hypnosis or the show.

tion course which is held in the lot. He added students should also have been informed of this when purchasing their parking permits.

"It was our impression we gave everyone information that cars would be towed if they weren't moved from the lot (on Thursdays)," Hencken said.

"There was a problem with communication, whether it was on the part of the students or the parking staff, and we're willing to back up (the towing expenses)," he added.

Hencken said approximately 32 vehicles were towed last Thursday and officers are still attempting to phone owners of the vehicles to notify them that they will be reimbursed for their towing expenses.

He added the money to pay back the owners will be taken out of Eastern's parking account.

Hencken also said measures are being taken to prevent such a large number of vehicles from being towed again.

"We hate to tow cars," Hencken said. "To prevent this from happening in the future, there will be three signs (in the stadium lot) by Thursday."

"One thing that was unbelievable about (last Thursday's incident) was that cars were trying to park in the lot while a number of cars were being towed - the officers had to stop them and send them out of the lot," Hencken added. "This is why we're going to have three signs."

"Students will also have to sign a notice of the (stadium) parking rules when they get a permit," he said.

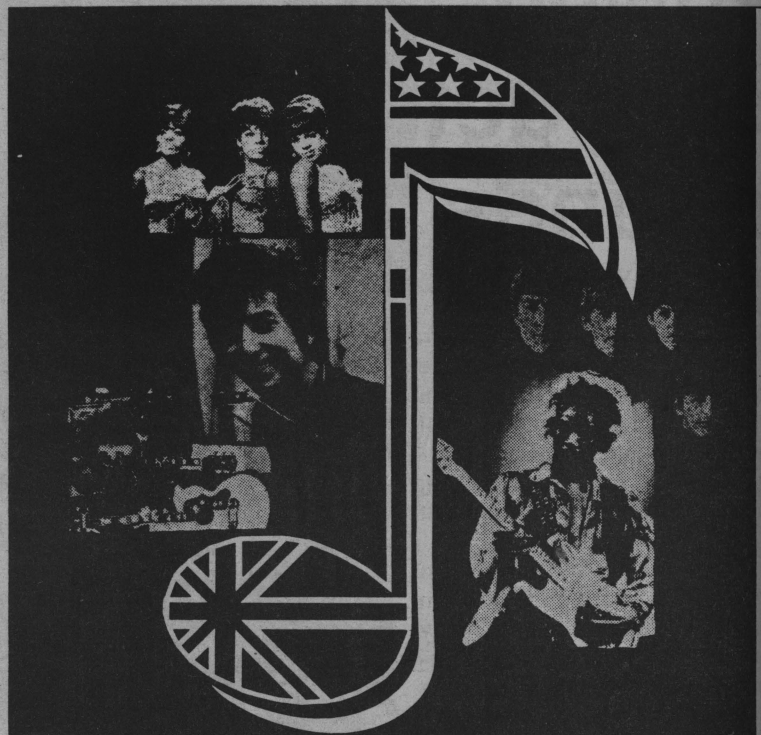

Hencken also said notices concerning the parking rules will be placed in a future edition of The Daily Eastern News and that the rules were also being stapled on every temporary parking pass issued.

Although Hencken admits to "confusion" and "possible human error" concerning last week's parking debacle, he said towing will resume again at 10 a.m. this Thursday in order to move any cars before the drivers education course begins at approximately 1 p.m.

"It takes awhile to tow 30-some cars - that's why we start towing at 10 a.m.," Hencken said.

"But I really hope there are no cars (in the lot) on Thursdays for the remainder of the semester," he added. "If this happens again, the students will have to pay."

Students to star in videos

By NICHOLL A. MCGUIRE
Staff writer

Students will get a chance to star in their own music video or movie by participating in the Fun Flicks MTV video show Tuesday.

The event will take place from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the University Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Cecilia Brinker, assistant director of student activities, said the same event was held a few weeks ago with some success.

"(Fun Flicks) started out in the early afternoon hours," Brinker said. "By late evening it began to pick up. We had a pretty good turnout - 40 students participated."

Brinker said the videos students made a few weeks ago will be shown during Tuesday's event. This will give students a chance to watch themselves in action.

"This is a fun event," Brinker said. "Students can make their own MTV style video by lip syncing to their favorite top 40 hit, R&B or rap song."

Brinker said that the Fun Flicks will also allow students to make their own mini-movie.

"Students can make a minimovie of themselves flying like Superman, walking in space or (acting) in a western," Brinker said.

Brinker said that props and costumes will be provided by Fun Flicks. There will also be special effects and scenic backgrounds to go along with the videos.

The cost is $2 to perform in the video, which the participant will be able to keep. The cost for any additional videotapes will be $7.

"Students can be a star or a legend in their own mind for a reasonable cost," Brinker said. "Those students who don't want to participate can watch, its entertainment."

Faculty senate agenda opens on Tuesday

Committee appointments are on the agenda for the Faculty Senate when they meet in a regular meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Board of Governors Room in Booth Library.

Ed Marlow, senate chair, said there's not much on the agenda because of the presidential search. Many of the senate members were occupied with attending interviews with the presidential candidates the last two weeks.

"I'm looking for a rather short meeting," Marlow said. "I don't look for anything particularly pressing to show up."

Marlow said the senate will also hear committee reports along with making appointments to committees.

Parking ordinance tops city agenda

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

An ordinance that eliminates all 24-hour reserved parking in city lots near the square tops the agenda for Tuesday's regular Charleston City Council meeting.

The city council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers in City Hall, 520 Jackson Ave.

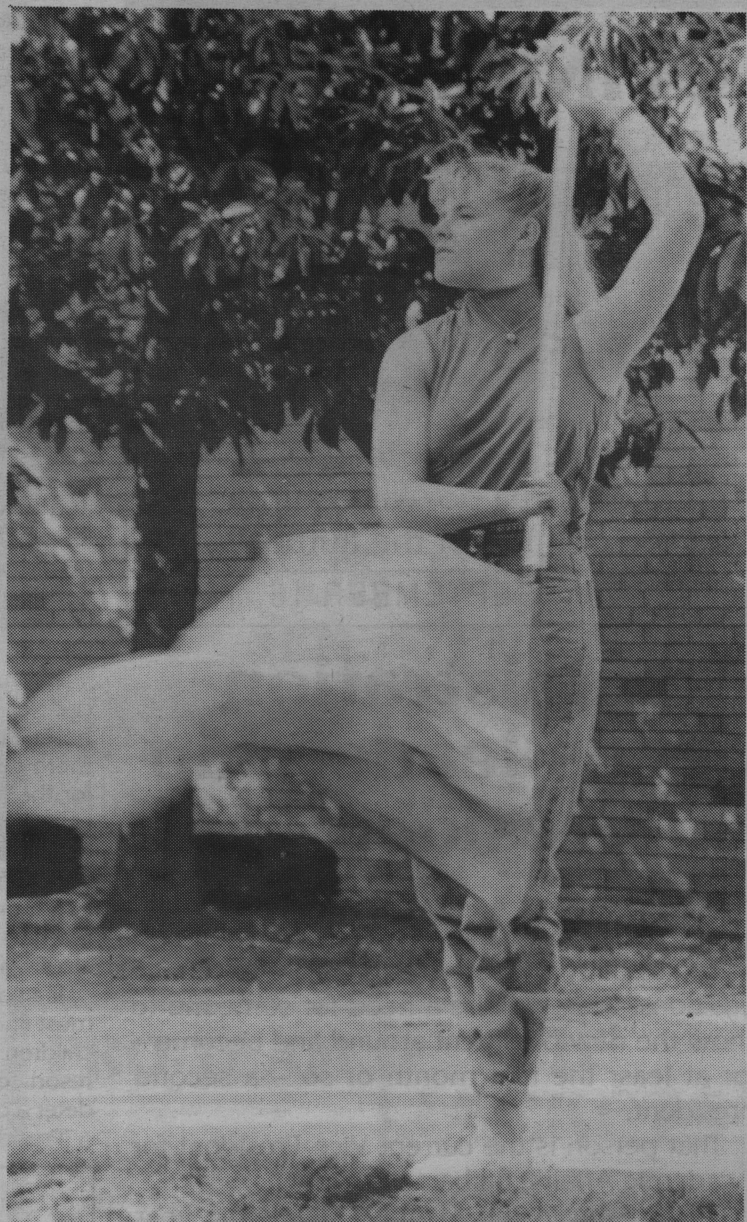

At their last meeting, council members tabled the sweeping parking resolution, placing it on file for public inspection. With only minor language changes, the council will vote on the resolution Tuesday.

The city parking board recommended the measure in July to alleviate perceived parking congestion in the city lots. Commissioners said at their last meeting that, if passed, they would review the ordinance in four months, if its provisions cause more problems in an already confusing and heated debate over parking availability in the business district.

The legislation would eliminate all 24-hour reserved spaces in city lots with the exception of Lot F south of Madison Avenue. Under the ordinance, reserved spaces would be in effect from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The lots would open to the public at all other times.

In other business, commissioners will consider a new contract with the Charleston Police Department through the Fraternal Order of Police. The contract has been in negotiation for several months and council members said the resolution was not ready for a vote at the last meeting.

Administration needs leadership in 'president' Hill

Steps to secure a new president are in their final phases, and while the addition will bring added stability to Eastern and its five executive positions, there will be a need for someone to show the new president around and become – for at least the first month or so – a second president.

That person is the current Vice President for Academic Affairs, Barbara Hill.

Since early in the 1991-92 academic year, Eastern's four vice presidents have been in a state of fluctuation and change; first losing the academic affairs vice president and then, later in the year, the student affairs vice president.

Editorial

With the retirement of President Stan Rives, an inexperienced administrative staff was guaranteed.

The appointment of Eastern's new president will bring the number of new administrators up to three. The retirement of Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams brought Lou Hencken to the position just this summer. Robert Kindrick, Eastern's previous VPAA, left early in the 1991 fall semester.

Although she was only picked this summer as the permanent VPAA, Hill held the position throughout the 1991-92 school year in an interim position, and currently plays the role of interim president until a final choice is made.

While Business Affairs Vice President Charles Colbert and Vice President for Development Stephen Falk have both been in their positions longer than Hill, they are more concentrated on the faculty-end of the university and are less a part of the student-oriented administration.

Immediate issues need to be addressed. There is no permanent physical plant director and no satisfactory ways to expand the university's population in a cost-effective manner.

The News hopes that Hill and the other vice presidents see the need for a "second president" and hopes that Hill answers the call. A rough transition for the new president will only mean that Eastern will stall in its attempt to grow and improve its status and reputation.

To The News, it will be the actions of Hill that decide whether or not the president's transition is a smooth, or a rough one.

TODAY'S QUOTE

Should I, after tea and cakes and ices, have the strength to force the momentum to its crisis?

Thomas Sterns Eliot

Education an elementary problem, too

As students, administrators, professors and staff at a higher educational institution funded by the state, it is our responsibility to be concerned about the welfare of public, especially elementary schools.

The education our elementary schools offer children affects the validity, strength and worth of our degrees.

If, when the children now in elementary and high schools graduate, their educations are substandard, public universities like Eastern will have to lower their admissions requirement to maintain a healthy enrollment.

Thus, in 10 years employers will look at our degrees and lower their worth, reading into our degrees the lower standards of the university, instead of placing value on the education we are receiving today.

Although the problem in education isn't very apparent in Charleston, there is definitely a problem – especially in Chicago schools.

Because schools are funded by property taxes, children of higher income parents attend schools in neighborhoods where property value is higher, generating more tax revenue for the school and a better education for the students. Children who come from poor families usually attend schools in poor districts with fewer tax dollars and an inferior education.

Schools in districts that have low property taxes have less money to offer extra curricular activities, hire good teachers and buy good, modern classroom equipment – all of which are essential to a good education.

If a school offers few extra curricular activities, children must find other things to occupy their time. The older the children get, the more likely it is that these children will resort to gangs, drugs and crime activities that usually deter a child from school.

President George Bush and Democratic candidate Bill

Jamie Riley

Clinton have both declared education as a top priority and have devised solutions to the education nightmare.

Bush's plan, which has already been rejected by Congress, is to give parents a $1,000 voucher per child to attend a public, private or religious school of the parents' choice. This, he says, will make it easier for all children to get the same education.

The problem is, most private schools' tuitions are higher than $1,000 per year and working-class families often don't have the time, money or method of transportation to place their children in and out of a district school that offers a better education.

Bush is also offering a $500 voucher to parents whose child transfers to a better public school. The money is to be used for transportation, supplemental educational materials or private tutoring. The remaining $500 goes to the school.

However, this could lead to overcrowding of the better public institutions, lowering the educational quality.

Governor Clinton has tried a very similar and successful plan in his state. The state offers a $1,000 voucher to afford parents ability to choose the best public education available to their child. The difference is Clinton's plan extends only to public schools and not to religious.

Despite the success of Clinton's program in Arkansas, on a nationwide level, the success would be less likely. In Arkansas, Clinton doesn't have the problem of overcrowded slums and the level of deterioration larger city schools have reached.

We must also question the candidates on the legitimacy of their reasons for making education a top priority. Clinton's plan, in effect since 1989, seems valid enough, but what about back-up plans?

We are the future of this country. We the students are "We the people." We must let Bush and Clinton, in addition to our state Congressman know that the children are our nation's future, and neglecting us is the worst neglect possible.

– Jamie Riley is a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn...

Accuracy errors hurt columnist's views on races

Dear editor:

There is a lot of student concern about Jamie Riley's article, "A generation in search of an X-hero" (The Daily Eastern News, Sept. 8). One problem is her constant use of the word "black." It was not only that use, but her grouping of the African-American race into a stereotype. Some of the facts used in her column were incorrect as well.

I am not African-American and neither is Jamie. However, when writing about an important African-American figure, I would certainly get the facts straight first. Where exactly did Jamie get her facts from? I think it's time to go back to the library.

The concept that all African-Americans would agree that Malcolm X is their main hero is ridiculous. Deciding upon a consensus is quite difficult when only 100 people are involved. Everyone has their own individual personality and preferences. No one, not even Ms. Riley, can use either pen or sword to change that.

I believe whole-heartedly in the first amendment. Jamie has every right to have her article published. Why she would allow herself to be left wide open is beyond me. If her intention was to deglorify Malcolm X, she was not clear. She might have been trying to discourage skipping school to see the movie. In either case, she was completely unsuccessful.

Concerning the first amendment, not only should there be freedom of speech, but freedom of thought as well. No one should tell another person who they can view as a hero. Each American has the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, or so our founding fathers wrote. If the "blacks" want to have Malcolm X as their hero, they are entitled to do so.

It is unprofessional to generalize an entire race. Furthermore, having the correct facts on a controversial issue is imperative. Last but not least, it is not fair to impose your opinion upon someone else.

By the way, was Jamie being sarcastic when she proposed that Spike Lee should be the new hero? I was certainly confused.

Sculptor to begin on artwork

By JONI LAMB
Staff writer

Lumpkin Hall will be the site of a large scale sculpture, which is slated to begin construction as early as this week.

When Lumpkin Hall was built two years ago, the state required that a portion of the money used to fund construction be designated for artwork.

Sculptor Dann Nardi was selected from a total of 77 artists being considered by the nine-member Fine Arts Review Committee. The committee was headed by Michael Dunbar of the Illinois Capital Development Board. The CDB is a state agency in charge of construction and renovation for Illinois that deals with anything non-road related. According to Dunbar, the project will cost approximately $32,000.

The money for the sculpture will be appropriated from state funds. Mia Jazo, of CDB, said that Illinois law mandates that "art must be in a public building."

The law refers to places where the "public can benefit from the placement of art." This would not include a prison, dormitory or mental institution.

Dunbar said the percentage set aside for the expense of displaying artwork is "one-half of one percent of the Lumpkin Hall construction appropriation."

In order to insure the architectural compatibility, Robert Gruber served on the Fine Arts Review Committee. Gruber, of Rettberg-Gruber Architects of Champaign, was the top project architect for Lumpkin Hall.

Other members of the committee include Tom Poludniak, CDB project manager; Pat Mahler, Coles County Board member; Michael Watts, Illinois State Museum director's appointee and director of Eastern's Tarble Arts Center; James Armsey, Illinois Arts Council chairman's appointee and Milburn Smith, Charleston mayor's appointee.

Vic Robeson, the assistant to the vice president for business affairs and Ted Ivarie, dean of Lumpkin College of Business, served on the committee as representatives of Eastern.

Jazo said the sculpture must be "durable and enhance and complement the architecture of the building."

Nardi's model must first be approved by the committee. After he receives permission, the project will begin outside at the northwest corner of Lumpkin Hall.

Police investigate egg bombing

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

Charleston police continue to investigate two incidents of disorderly conduct which occurred Sunday night along the same street.

Sylvia Montgomery, 54, of 1831 McComb St. reported that an unknown suspect or suspects threw at least a dozen eggs and wet paper towels at her house between midnight and 7 a.m.

Charles Darby, 44, of 1754

Police Blotter

McComb reported a similar incident at his residence the same night.

Other items among Charleston Police Department reports include:

- Donald J. Cordes of 718 10th St. reported criminal damage to his vehicle Friday. Cordes told police his truck had its windshield broken while parked at 708 10th St. Damage is estimated at about $250.

• Arlene McGowan of 1330 A St. reported criminal damage to her property at 1309 Fourth St. Thursday. McGowan told police she discovered holes in a stained glass window under renovation at her business Thursday morning.

• Eastern student Stephanie A. Waltrip, 22, reported theft of her tote bag Friday from a storage room at Marty's at 1666 Fourth St. Its contents were valued at $276.

Oustanding teacher speaks on education

By ELIZABETH RAICHLE
Activities editor

Edward M. Schroeder, winner of the Outstanding Teacher Award of 1991, will present a motivational talk at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Coleman Lecture Hall.

The lecture will deal with how to be an effective teacher and why one should teach.

Schroeder teaches at the middle school level at Coolige High in Granite City. Carol Helwig, chair of elementary and junior high school education, said Schroeder is excited to speak at Eastern.

Helwig said she believes the lecture will be beneficial to all those who wish to teach elementary or junior high school students.

Schroeder currently speaks coast-to-coast to diverse groups of all sizes and is known for being one of the most motivational and stimulating speakers in the country, Helwig said.

Schroeder is famous for his energetic and humorous teaching style. He told The St. Louis Post-Dispatch that he sees himself as "51 with the mental age of 16."

Schroeder has appeared on "The Tonight Show," "Live With Regis and Kathy Lee," "Inside Edition" and "CBS This Morning."

BSU activities discussed

By SUSAN KIEL
Student government editor

The Black Student Union will meet at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Charleston/Matton room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union to discuss upcoming BSU sponsored activities.

BSU Vice President Elecia Dexter said the group will also be updating plans for the organization's homecoming activities.

"We will be deciding on what our color and theme (for homecoming) will be," Dexter said. "We will also be making plans for the window painting activities."

Also to be discussed at the meeting are the BSU sponsored "Sexy Ladies Contest" on Oct. 6 and the BSU "Gong Show" on Sept. 22.

Dexter said both events are "open to everyone" and the BSU is hoping for a large turnout.

The "Gong Show" will be held in the Rathskeller Sept. 22. There will be a $3 entry fee for any students wishing to participate. Organizers said they are looking for interesting acts. The winner will receive a "surprise prize," which will be announced at the conclusion of the competition, organizers said.

Retirement topic of speaker

A lobbyist for state university retirees will discuss possible fall Illinois General Assembly changes that affect retirement benefits.

The discussion will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the Charleston/Matton Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

David Wiant, legislative liason of the State Universities Retirement System, will speak on "What We Can Expect from the Fall Veto Session." The lecture is part of the regular meeting of Eastern Illinois University Annuitant's Union, a group of Eastern Retirees.

Wiant plans to discuss an overview of the Illinois General Assembly fall veto session along with changes that might be made in issues affecting university retirees. Among them are pension funding, the dormancy period for unclaimed bank funds and early retirement.

Wiant speaks every few months at university retirement organizations to keep the members updated on State Universities Retirement System actions.

New fraternity begins rush

campus editor

An interest group of 13 members hoping to add Phi Delta Theta to the 12 existing fraternities on Eastern's campus.

The group will begin a week of normal rush parties beginning at 8 p.m. Tuesday with a meeting at the Alpha Sigma Tau house in Greek Court, said Jason Dotson, vice president of the interest group. Dotson said plans to add Phi Delta Theta to Eastern's Greek system began during the spring semester of 1992 when the interest group began to form and became a recognized student organization. Since then, Dotson said "everything has been going as planned." Although some 25 men are needed to "get things going," Dotson said he would like to see more participate in the forming of the new fraternity.

He added the addition of Phi Delta Theta would give interested members a chance to become "founding members" of an organization and

I would like to see (Phi Delta Theta) become the number one fraternity at Eastern – not only socially, but academically.

Jason Dotson
Interest group vice president recruit the fraternity's first pledge class in the spring of 1993.

Dotson said the next step after the rush is to send in information requested by the general headquarters of Phi Delta Theta and to have the headquarters approve the petition sent in by the interest group.

Among the information generally requested by the headquarters are current officer positions and a copy of the new fraternity's by-laws, Dotson said. He added the headquarters will check to verify that officer positions are filled.

Although Dotson is currently serving as vice president for the interest group and Tony Perez is serving as the president, Dotson said the group will hold elections for officers in two weeks and all positions will be open.

Dotson added although he is unsure how long it will take before the group is notified as to whether or not they will be granted a charter, he feels the fraternity has a future on Eastern's campus.

"I would like to see (Phi Delta Theta) become the number one fraternity at Eastern – not only socially, but academically," Dotson said.

Memoirs' premieres Wednesday

TAMALA GANT
staff writer

"Brighton Beach Memoirs," Neil Simon's autobiographic play, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the University Theatre.

The play deals with the daily life of the Jerome family who encounter traumatic experiences in their lives which they are forced to confront and resolve.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" is one of Simon's more mature plays," said Clarence Blanchette, the play's director and designer. "It was chosen because it is the type of play that most people can relate to. It deals with human relationships in the family unit such as parent to child and brother to sister."

This summer both "Brighton Beach Memoirs" and "Barefoot in the Park" were performed. The theatre department's faculty decided to present the plays again this fall.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" makes up the first part of the Jerome family trilogy. The other two plays are "Biloxi Blues" and

"Broadway Bound."

"I think a lot of college students would like this play because it has a serious side as well as a funny side to it," Blanchette said.

When asked who would star in the play, Blanchette said, "There are no stars in the play, only actors and actresses. These are students who are considered as an acting ensemble. Everyone is equal and on the same level."

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" will continue through this week and next week.

WHEN YOU THINK HOW WELL BASIC APPLIANCES WORK, IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE ANYONE EVER GETS ON AN AIRPLANE.

BY GARRY TRUDEAU

"You know, it's so ridiculous. If I don't call my parents every Sunday at exactly 5 o'clock, they think I was kidnapped by aliens, or something. Anyway, one Sunday me and Mark, we decide to take-off and check out the city. So we're hanging out and I look at my watch. 5 o'clock. Alright, so my calling card and I head down to the local pool hall. (Which I happen to know has a payphone.) And I tell the folks the Martians send their best."

No matter where you happen to be, the AT&T Calling Card can take you home.

It's also the least expensive way to call state-to-state on AT&T, when you can't dial direct. With the new AT&T Call and Save Plan, you'll get special discounts on AT&T Calling Card calls.* And once you have your card, you'll never need to apply

Olson strives for excellence on and off court

writer

Most successful teams need a player whose heart goes beyond expectations placed upon them. At Eastern, senior volleyball player Lori Olson exemplifies that level of dedication.

"I've always been an impulsive player; I like being busy," Olson said. "Between all the time spent with volleyball, I still put in numerous hours of studying. On top of that, I'm also in a sorority." Most people do not realize the level of dedication that takes place in athletes when it comes to competing on academics. For instance, the Lady Panthers just returned from a five-day road trip to compete in the Hofstra University Tournament. Five days away from Charleston means endless headaches from trying to schedule quizzes and tests that were missed.

The only thing I don't like is missing a lot of classes," Olson said. "Especially in September, when the beginning is the most important. Most of my teachers are very accommodating with me but I've heard of stories where professors don't realize that we're representing Eastern when we're in sports," Olson added.

The senior outside-hitter, who majors in health studies plans to go into physical therapy. She carries an outstanding 3.81 GPA into her final year of college. Olson has been recognized the past six semesters as a member of the Academic All-Conference team. More recently, Olson earned a perfect 4.0 GPA in the spring semester of 1992.

The double-duo of combining books and volleyball sometimes has an adverse affect on the three-time letterwinner.

"Academically I'm satisfied with my accomplishments but there are times the aches and pains from practice really take their toll on me," Olson said. "Sometimes, after volleyball, I feel like I'm over-the-hill and I'm only 21."

With the Mid-Continent Conference opener taking place Thursday at Wright State, Olson looks forward to getting her final conference season underway.

Looking back upon her career, Olson remembers her early days in college. She also has advice that may be beneficial to underclassmen and freshman teammates.

"I didn't see much time during my freshman year; I did a lot of sitting," Olson said. "But, if you work hard everyday in practice and try your best, eventually you'll get your chance on the court."

Athletics, as long as Olson can remember, has always been an instrumental part of her life.

"I've always been a tomboy, and playing sports namely volleyball is something I enjoyed," Olson said. "My parents have always been real supportive of anything I chose to do. Even if I didn't play college volleyball they'd still have been behind me."

Olson talked about the major differences she noticed between high school and college volleyball and the struggles that came along.

"It was very hard at first getting used to the two-a-day practices in college," Olson said. "Another problem everyone faces in college is the fact that you don't know any of your teammates...once, you start making friends on the team then the rest becomes easy."

Eastern volleyball coach Betty Ralston had nothing but praise about Olson's contributions on and off the court.

"Lori's a very hard worker. She really pushes herself to the limit and tries as hard as anybody to give her all for the team," Ralston said.

"I think the other girls on the team notice that Lori goes beyond the limit when it comes to being able to push herself and do anything she can for the team. She isn't the tallest player but her quickness and defense make up for lack of height. She transfers her intelligence into her game as well," Ralston added.

Hofstra gets Eastern ready for conference

By JOHN FERA
Staff writer

Eastern's Lady Panthers set sail to test uncharted waters this week as the new Mid-Continent Conference season begins. Coach Betty Ralston hopes after three successive matchups this coming Friday, Saturday and Sunday that her squad will be doing more than treading water or the unthinkable-drowning.

The Panthers recently returned from a long five-day trip to New York which saw the team go 1-3 in the Hofstra Invitational. However, the team's record was by no means an indication of how successful its weekend went.

Although disappointed with the team's 2-6 overall showing, Ralston has been glowing with optimism especially after the play at Hofstra.

"We really performed admirably against Arizona State," Ralston said. "Although they destroyed us in the first two games, we came back and beat their starters in the third game 15-10. In the fourth game, we led 7-0 at one point, before ASU finally came back.

"I didn't expect Providence to play that well. They're a young team and we scouted them on Thursday and they played very sloppily against Hofstra. When we played Providence, they seemed to dig everything we threw at them. It was a real tough match to lose but I can't fault the effort I saw because the people gave their best."

Going into the conference season, Ralston's two mainstays again will be outside-hitter Susie Green and middle-hitter Kim Traub. Green was named to the All-Tournament team at Hofstra. Presently, Traub is ranked 19th in the nation with a 1.77 blocks per game.

With conference play beginning later this week, Ralston says there are still a few individuals that need to turn their game up a notch.

"Beth Foster has done a good job defensively, especially getting blocks," Ralston said. "However, we need Beth to become more offensive-minded.

"Shelly Carey played well this weekend at Hofstra but she needs to get better in terms of her blocking."

One player who rose to the occasion at Hofstra was sophomore outside-hitter Kaaryn Sadler. Sadler's play definitely gave Ralston a hope for big things to come in 1992.

"Kaaryn stepped in for Lori Olson and really provided us with an offensive spark we were missing," Ralston said. "Kaaryn scored 14 kills in one match at Hofstra, certainly a career high for her."

Men's tennis team tops Indiana-Purdue 9-0 in opening meet

By MATT MAHARG
Staff writer

The men's tennis team started off strong with a 9-0 victory over Indiana-Purdue University in Indianapolis Monday afternoon.

"I think they were a little weaker than last year," coach John Bennett said of Indiana-Purdue. "But still, we looked ragged at times because we still aren't in top condition."

One thing Bennett was a little disappointed about was the impatience displayed on the court.

"I knew we'd win the match, but again we tried to put away points too early during a volley," Bennett said.

"We're going to have to improve on that because we won't get away with it against stronger teams."

George Macey and Pat Mellin appeared to be the only two who had a struggle, as both of their singles matches went three sets. Brad Rozboril at No. 3 won 6-4, 4-0 before his opponent retired.

Brad Alexander at No. 4 won 6-2, 6-3 while Ryan Ivers and Jeff Lindstrom also won in two sets at No. 5 and 6 respectively.

It was in doubles that things worked a little differently than the normal procedure. Rozboril's and Alexander's match at No. 1 was won by default because one of Indiana-Purdue's players was injured.

"After that, I decided to play them at No. 2," Bennett said of Rozboril and Alexander.

The two won a shortened match 8-2 while Jeff Lindstrom and Brandon Kuhl won their match 8-1 for a sweep of the doubles matches.

"Still we're going to have to improve on our consistency," Bennett added. "We'll be working on that in practice."

Eastern won't have long to practice before their next action, which will be in the Redbird Classic at Illinois State University in Normal Sept. 18-19.

"We've also got a dual match scheduled with Northern Iowa at the end of the tournament Saturday and I think we can win that one this time with the talent we've got.

"They've given us problems in the past and I'm hoping we can come up with a victory this time."

The action Friday at Illinois State will get started at 11 a.m.

Double trouble McElroy a 2-sport star for Panthers

By KEITH FARROLL
Associate sports editor

Sophomore football player Ray McElroy was a surprise package of sorts for coach Bob Spoo and the Panther football program.

McElroy initially came to Eastern to run track. But when football season came rolling around, he also was looking for a spot on the Panthers' football roster.

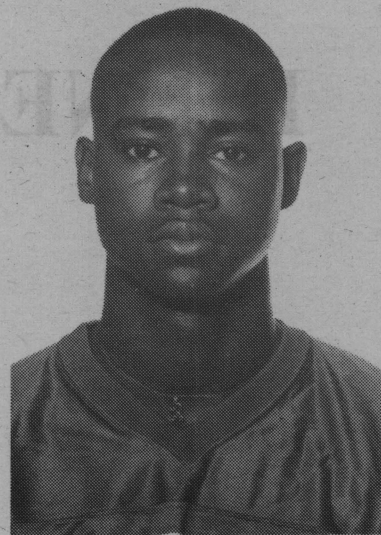

"We don't know who encouraged him to come out, but we are certainly glad that he did," Spoo said.

Last season, McElroy, who is a Proviso West High School product, started on special teams while earning the starting job at cornerback for the final three games of the season. At cornerback in those final three games, he recorded 21 tackles including a quarterback sack.

On the special teams unit he not only led the team in returning kickoffs, but he also led the Gateway Conference with a 26.2 yard return average.

"In all my 31 years (associated with football), it's extremely rare for a true freshman to come in and perform," Spoo said. "In my experience (at Eastern), (quarterback) Jeff Thorne was able to do it. That's really an extraordinary accomplishment for a freshman."

Spoo said that McElroy has the raw skills which makes him an effective football player.

"There's a lot of things he had to learn, but he has certain qualities that allow him to learn fast," Spoo said. "He's got great speed and he is a good athlete. Those two factors would allow an individual to respond to be able to play."

This season, McElroy, again, has a lengthy list of football duties. He is not only a full time starter at corner back this year, but he is also on most of the special teams.

So far, on the special teams unit, he leads the team in returning kickoffs with a 23.8 yard return average. In addition, he blocked a punt in the Austin Peay game which set up the winning touchdown.

With the score knotted at 7-7 in the third quarter and Austin Peay punting, McElroy's job was to block. He lined up outside the line and went unblocked and deflected the ball to Eric Wood, who ran the ball in for the go-ahead and winning touchdown.

He also had five tackles in the Austin Peay game and had eight tackles in the game against Marshall.

Spoo commended McElroy on his dedication to football.

"I don't know if he had a great deal of exposure to football, but he has certainly adapted very well," Spoo said. "He's a guy, in terms of playing time, who is on the field constantly. I think he likes the opportunities. I'm sure he must be tired, but he gives it his all."

McElroy's favorite athlete is "Rocket" Ismail, which makes sense because Ismail was, of course, a standout football and track star at Notre Dame.

As far as his track season concerned, he was part of a 1,600-meter relay team which won the outdoor conference meet this season. Also, he ran the 400-meter and finished fourth in both indoor and outdoor meet and sixth in the 200-meter.
