Communications disorders department chair to step in till June

By DEANA POOLE
Administration editor

Bob Augustine, chair for the department of communications disorders, has been appointed as acting dean of the Graduate Studies and International Programs to replace former Dean Tom Gladsky, who resigned last month.

Augustine will fill the dean position until June 30, 1998, while continuing his duties as chair.

Terry Weidner, vice president for academic affairs, made the final decision in Augustine's appointment.

"He is a person that has a great deal of administrative experience ... and I think he has the confidence of department chairs, as he was the head of the Council of Chairs," Weidner said.

Weidner said a task force will be formed to determine whether Augustine will fill the position permanently or if a search is needed.

"We are going to establish a task force as required by the Illinois Board of Higher Education to look at all of our graduate programs and depending on the outcomes of the research by the task force, there is a potential for his appointment to be extended," Weidner said.

Augustine said the next year will be essential for emphasizing the success of Eastern's graduate school program.

"I think it will be important for us to identify the outstanding contributions that the graduate program has contributed to this campus," he said.

Eastern seeks $500,000 budget reinstatement

Officials looking to regain money cut from fiscal year 1998

By DEANA POOLE
Administration editor

Illinois Senator Judy Meyers and Chris Merrifield, Eastern's liaison to the capital, will propose a supplemental appropriation bill next month in an attempt to reinstate the more than $500,000 cut from Eastern's fiscal year 1998 operating budget.

In June, the General Assembly reduced the university's fiscal year 1998 budget to $64,215,300, which is a $531,600 reduction from the governor's recommendation of $64,746,900.

Merrifield said a meeting tentatively is scheduled for Oct. 2 for she and Meyers to meet with members of the appropriation staff and the governor's office to present the idea of introducing a supplemental appropriation bill. She said the veto session will be held Oct. 28 to Oct. 30 and Nov. 4 to Nov. 6.

"Usually there is a supplemental appropriation bill during the veto session to provide more money for fiscal year 1998, it is not an appropriation for the next year," she said.

"Our concern is that the amount (of money cut) is higher than I would have like to see," Merrifield said.

She said 1.1 percent of Eastern's budget was cut, which was the highest proportional cut of all the Illinois

Pike chapter house goes alcohol free, apologizes

Fraternity wants improved image after Homecoming

By SCOTT BOEHMER
Campus editor

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity has created a no-alcohol policy for its chapter house and issued a formal apology for its actions last year.

In Friday's edition of The Daily Eastern News, the fraternity placed an advertisement with its apology and the corrective actions they are taking.

Pi Kappa Alpha President Richard Carey said the decision to go alcohol-free was instituted a few weeks ago both as an attempt to improve the fraternity's image on campus and take on "a leadership role."

Last year, the fraternity was placed on probation because of their actions at the Homecoming parade. During the parade, members of the fraternity got into trouble

'Oprah' show to run through 1999-2000 season

Movie role as a slave gives Oprah renewed incentive

CHICAGO (AP) — Oprah Winfrey says portraying a slave in a movie filmed this summer gave her a fresh understanding of her life's work and the incentive to do another 400 talk television shows.

Winfrey dispelled rumors that she might abandon her top rated show and told a live TV audience Monday that she will continue hosting "The Oprah Winfrey Show" through the 1999-2000 season.

She sang from an old spiritual and said it could be her new theme song: "I believe I'll run on to see what the end will be. I believe I will work on to see what the end will be." In June, when the show went on summer break and she began filming a movie version of the novel "Beloved," Winfrey said she didn't know if she would renew her talk show contract with King World Productions Inc.

"But doing 'Beloved' was a life-changing experience for me," she said. "I realized more than ever that coming from a ... legacy where you have no voice, to be able to speak to the world every day is a gift." It was this, she said, that encouraged her to go beyond this 12th season.

"I've thought long and hard about the reality of doing 400 more shows," she said. "I want to use television not only to entertain, but to help people lead better lives. I realize now, more than ever, that the show is the best way to accomplish these goals." Her decision is a blessing for King World, the show's distributor whose stock lost 2 percent of its value earlier this month on a rumor that Winfrey would not return.

"The Oprah Winfrey Show' has set and maintained television's highest standards of quality for more than a decade, and we're thrilled that Oprah has decided to continue on," King World Chairman Roger King said in a statement.

universities. She said the majority of the money was cut from the area of personal services, which includes faculty and staff salaries.

"To put that into perspective, for every one percent that is about $400,000 in salaries," she said.

Merrifield said although a supplemental appropriation bill does not guarantee reinstatement of money, she is confident Eastern will be supported by senators in their pursuit.

Merrifield said if the bill is accepted during the veto session, it will return to the legislative body it originated in. After being accepted there, it will move to the other legislative body and then be sent to the governor for approval. She said she did not know whether the Senate or the House of Representatives would write the bill.

She said the meeting with the appropriation committee will most likely result in a bill being written.

"Normally there is a bill," she said. "Usually (a large cut) is just a mistake made at the last minute. It's just impossible not to have some error in there."

Merrifield said the cut was made during the last few hours of Eastern's budget review in June.

Merrifield said she began planning a supplemental appropriation bill the day Eastern's budget was cut.

4th breakdown leaves Mir in the dark again

MOSCOW (AP) — The fourth computer breakdown in two months left a darkened Mir drifting through space Monday, less than two weeks before a scheduled docking with a U.S. space shuttle.

The Russian-American crew kept essential functions operating and was in no danger, officials said. But the shutdown provided new fodder for critics who fear the Russian station is unsafe after 11 years in space.

After a day of in-orbit tinkering, the Mission Control press service announced that everything should be back to normal on Mir within two days. The crew rummaged through the station's broken computers and found enough spare parts to assemble one functional system, which responded positively to tests late in the day.

Most of Mir's systems remained shut off in the wake of Sunday's breakdown, to conserve energy in case computer problems appear. The orientation systems and main oxygen generators were down and temperature controls and lights were switched off in all but two modules.

As well as making life difficult on Mir, a computer failure would make docking with the shuttle Atlantis or any other spaceship "absolutely impossible," deputy Mission Control chief Viktor Blagov.

But Blagov stressed his confidence in the crew's ability to rein in the cranky system.

"The situation does not exceed the limits of Russian standards," he said, hours before a jury-rigged computer was put in place.

for allegedly harassing participants.

"This is just an apology to get on the right foot with all the organizations here and let them know we're just here to help," Carey said. "I know that we're not the same Pi Kappa Alpha that had problems at the Homecoming parade last year."

Christina Hardin, the president of the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Allies Union said the apology and other steps taken by the fraternity make her hopeful that incidents like those at the Homecoming parade can be avoided.

LGBAU was one of the groups which filed complaints against the fraternity for its alleged actions during the Homecoming parade. Members of Seventh Generation, which also filed a complaint, were not available for comment.

"We're cautiously optimistic,"

Hardin said. "The thing that happened last year wasn't aimed at LGBAU ... if you're weren't at that particular party (members of the fraternity were at) you were targeted."

Interfraternity Council President Jason Amato also applauded the fraternity's statement and actions, especially their decision to make their chapter house alcohol-free.

"They had their trouble obviously last year with Homecoming and everything and I think those guys that are there are ready to start rebuilding the house in a positive direction," Amato said.

Pi Kappa Alpha joins both Sigma Nu and Phi Delta Theta in going to dry houses. The other two fraternities went dry because of mandates from their national chapters, but Carey said Pi Kappa Alpha did not.

Carey said the dry house is geared more toward repairing its image with other campus organizations than the community. Enforcement of the policy will be done by members of the fraternity.

"I think when you take a no alcohol approach people say 'look at these guys they're cleaning up their act,' and that's always positive," Carey said.

The fraternity also has been attempting to increase its philanthropy efforts with other groups in the Charleston area, which Carey said they hope will allow them to make amends with members of the community.

"The community saw what we can do and now we're trying to take greater steps," Carey said.

"(It's) not just (for) our image, but it's helping the community, too."

Augustine said he will publicize the program's contributions by continuing the Graduate Expo in the spring, the Outstanding Graduate Student Awards and publication of The Graduate Chronicle.

Mary Anne Hanner, professor of communication disorders, will share responsibilities with Augustine through June.

"We've taken a lot of the day-to-day duties of my chair position and turned them over to Dr. Hanner," he said. "She can manage the day-to-day activities and I'll continue to do the long term activities."

Augustine said the long term projects include strategic planning and development of the graduate school's curriculum.

Gladsky resigned last month in the midst of controversy surrounding the English Language Center. Allegations of inadequate materials and unqualified teachers were among the complaints regarding the ELC.

Gladsky's resignation left Brian Bolter, associate dean of the Graduate Studies and International Programs, as acting dean of the graduate school.

Weidner consulted other administrators and decided Augustine would best fill the position, a press release stated.

Former Massachusetts governor tired of D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — William Weld gave up his battle to be ambassador to Mexico on Monday with a scathing attack on Washington politics and a defiant declaration that he wouldn't "go on bended knee" before Jesse Helms or anyone else.

"Washington sure is a funny town," Weld said during a White House news conference in which he criticized a Senate system in which a conservative fellow Republican could block even a hearing on his nomination.

"I can go back to New England, where no one has to approach the government on bended knee to ask it to do its duty," said Weld, who resigned as governor of Massachusetts in July to pursue the Mexico City post. "I've had enough of Washington for the next little while." President Clinton accepted Weld's withdrawal during a meeting in the Oval Office and didn't try to talk him out of it, White House officials said. Instead, the president scored the rejection of Weld without a hearing.

"At a time when we have been making strides towards a bipartisan foreign policy, the treatment that my nominee received reflected the divisiveness that does not well serve the American people," Clinton said in a statement.

Miss Illinois runner-up beaten by future Miss America

By SCOTT BOEHMER
Campus editor

Charlotte Martin

Charlotte Martin says after competing against the new Miss America twice, she knew Kate Shindle had the right qualities to win the crown this year.

Martin, a senior classical vocal performance major, was the second runner-up in the Miss Illinois America Pageant which represented the second time she competed against Shindle.

Martin said she beat Shindle in a past Chicago beauty pageant, but saw her abilities blossom at this year's Miss Illinois America Pageant.

"It was a shock when she won Miss Illinois because she came out of nowhere and blew everybody away," Martin said.

She said Shindle's speaking abilities were the main reason she was a strong contender for Miss America, since 40 percent of the competition is based on talent and 30 percent on interviews.

Shindle also won a preliminary talent competition, which placed her in the top 10 and made Martin believe Shindle had a chance to win.

Martin said the irony of coming in second to the current Miss America was not a lost on her part, but she had mixed reactions to her winning the Miss America Pageant.

"Part of me is very honored, part of me is wondering a little 'what if that were me?'" Martin said.

She said Shindle's winning would eliminate a strong future competitor to the Miss Illinois throne, and she will continue to compete.

Martin said Shindle will face a tough year as Miss America because of the number of responsibilities that accompany the throne. Martin said one of the benefits of not winning the title is being able to graduate from Eastern and get her other affairs in order.

She also said Shindle had extensive training to prepare her for the Miss America Pageant from Miss Illinois America pageant officials, including two to three hours of training each day for the interview portion of the competition.

Miss America's father subject of controversy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - The father of newly crowned Miss America Kate Shindle serves on the pageant's board of directors, a connection that is raising questions of favoritism.

Ms. Shindle, a 20-year-old former New Jersey resident who attends Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., was crowned Saturday night.

Her father, Gordon G. Shindle, who lives in Moorestown, took a leave of absence from the pageant board after his daughter won her local title - Miss Lake-Cook - but before she won Miss Illinois on June 21.

"The fact that he is so involved in the system, he knows the people in the system and they know him," said Ann Harmon, executive director of the Miss Holiday In Dixie Pageant in Shreveport, La. "It would be easy for these people to know that she was this man's daughter, most definitely including judges." Shindle asked for a leave of absence - and offered to quit the board entirely - in an April 6 letter to board chairwoman Jayne Bray. But Bray said Monday that Shindle's resignation was not necessary.

Harmon said Shindle should have resigned as soon as his daughter submitted her application for the Miss Lake-Cook Pageant.

Shindle did not immediately return a call to his home Monday. At a news conference in New York on Monday, Ms. Shindle said her father took the leave of absence "so that there would not be a conflict of interest." Pageant chief executive Leonard Horn said he spoke with Shindle in March or April and told him the sooner he stepped down, the better.

Illinois teacher of year to discuss education

Staff writer

Illinois Teacher of the Year Valeria Evans will share her vision for education by addressing future educators on campus tonight.

Illinois Teacher of the Year Valeria Evans will share her vision for education on campus tonight to address future teachers.

Evans will speak to the members of the Association of Childhood Education International, Kappa Delta Pi and is open to the public. The presentation begins at 7 p.m. in the University Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

"Ms. Evans will include her inspiration that has been the source of her professional success and will include her vision of success for teachers and children," said Judy Barford, co-adviser for the Association of Childhood Education International.

Evans, a 24-year teaching veteran, was named the 1997 Illinois Teacher of the Year at the "Those Who Excel" Banquet in Decatur last October. She is a 1973 graduate of Illinois State University, and has taught pre-school through third grade in Illinois and Ohio. Currently, she is a third-grade teacher in Peoria.

She is involved in a project with ISU's College of Education as a master teacher in the Goals 2000 Project, and is a member of the district's Equity in Mathematics Team.

She has received honors such as the 1996 Phoenix Business Association's Black Educator of the Year, is a member of ISU's College of Education's Hall of Fame and is a recipient of a $25,000 cash reward from the Milken Foundation.

Evans also is a former Miss Heart of Illinois and was a semi-finalist in the Miss Illinois pageant.

Garbage survey shows Eastern could have recycled 60 percent

By MATT ADRIAN
Student government editor

In a random dumpster survey, it was discovered that 60 percent of Eastern's waste could have been recycled.

In July, grounds crews picked one dumpster to survey, said Recycling Coordinator Allan Rathe.

"We pick one at random, we feel that (the dumpster) is 99.9 percent conclusive of all the campus," Rathe said.

Of the 380 pounds of waste in the dumpster 153.3 pounds went to the dump and about 226 pounds was recycled, Rathe said. File stock made up 123 pounds of the material in the dumpster. This, along with 50 pounds of magazines, paperbacks, cardboard and newspapers could have been recycled, he said.

"It's a shame," Rathe said. "(Recycling) is something that could be done with a little extra effort."

"I don't go by the figures. I go by what I see in the garbage."

The university has improved its recycling efforts. In 1997, 851,403 pounds of waste was recycled compared to 764,892 pounds in 1996, Rathe said. The university recycled 86,511 more pounds in 1997 than in 1996.

However, the improved recycling efforts don't bring the university much closer to their goal of reducing their waste stream by 40 percent by the year 2000, Rathe said.

"I don't go by the figures," Rathe said. "I go by what I see in the garbage."

Recycling could be improved if more students and faculty use paper recycling bins, he said.

Paper bins can be found in the lobby of all residence halls, and faculty can request to get recycling receptacles in their offices.

The University and Student Senate Recycling Committee along with the housing office produced a video that provided tips for recycling. Rathe said the video would be made available for students.

Rathe added paper products must be dry and free of food matter in order to be recycled.

If the paper is wet it can make all paper unusable, he said.

All Illinois universities must meet a state mandate to reduce waste streams by 40 percent by the year 2000.

Coffee Talk has found its niche as a new student organization

Coffee Talk, an entertainment outlet geared toward students who are younger than 21, is now a recognized student organization and can receive student fees to pay for the entertainment it supplies for students.

Coffee Talk, which began last year, is a Friday-night bar alternative open to all students. It runs from 7 p.m. until the entertainment act is finished.

This Friday will be the first Coffee Talk of the semester and will feature comedian David Perez at 7 p.m. and the band Seabass beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The evening will cost students one swipe off their weekly meal plans or $3 if they do not live in the residence halls.

Not only is Coffee Talk a bar alternative for students, it also gives the University Board, the main programming group on campus, some competition.

If students are excited about Coffee Talk, but not UB events, they may begin questioning why this small group can attract entertainment that students are happy with when a fee-funded group cannot always do so.

By other groups offering more entertainment on campus, the UB is being pushed to work even harder to bring quality programming to campus.

Kristi Orlet, one of the Coffee Talk organizers, said last year the group got a lot of positive feedback from students.

Now that the Student Senate has made the organizers a recognized student organization, they are able to request money from the senate to help fund some of the entertainment.

The money would come from the $42.30 a year that full-time undergraduates pay for the student activity fee.

The Student Government receives some of the money from the student activity fee and is able to portion parts of it to student groups, which means Coffee Talk is now eligible for that money.

Although Coffee Talk might not actually receive student fee money, it does have the opportunity to be a success on campus because of the proximity to the many students in the residence halls and because the entertainment is relatively inexpensive.

Approving Coffee Talk as an official student group has shown students that the Student Senate is dedicated to helping the underage students, and by applying to become an RSO, Coffee Talk organizers have shown the importance of offering more entertainment on campus.

“today’s quote

Coffee ... makes the politician wise.

English poet (1688-1744)

Someone is watching you ... via satellite

Picture this ... you’re in your backyard with some friends, swimming and having a good time. You and the gang are having a couple of drinks and just relaxing. You’re not bothering anyone – just having a good time.

Do you know who is watching you?

It’s possible that a commercial satellite could spot and identify you swimming in your own backyard.

Sound ridiculous? Sound like something out of movie that could never happen to you? Well, you better think again.

According to Joshua Quittner in the Aug. 25 edition of Time magazine, “Commercial satellites are coming online that are eagle-eyed enough to spot you – and maybe a companion – in a hot tub.”

No matter where you are, someone is watching you. Not necessarily the guy across the room, or the girl sitting next to you, but someone somewhere could, and might, be tracking your every move.

Of course, for now at least, the chances of the government spying on you in a backyard rendezvous are slim. But, there are numerous other ways for the average person to tap into your life.

It’s scary.

After reading the Time article, I was amazed at the ways people can be tracked.

I knew about credit-card fraud and phone cloning. And people being tracked down by their ATM withdrawals and credit card usage.

But I had never heard of people being tracked by electronic tolls. By purchasing a system to let you zip through tollbooths, you are tipping off your whereabouts.

It is almost impossible to reserve even the slightest bit of privacy. If someone wants information about you, there are several sources that can pretty much give your life story to anyone who wants it. You can’t hide from it. Almost everything done on a daily basis is trackable by people, if they really want to know.

I think people deserve their privacy; it’s a constitutional right. Every person is unique but is placed into these mass groups and lose all identity. Marketers, businesses, the

KATIE VANA
Regular columnist

“It’s possible that a commercial satellite could spot and identify you swimming in your own backyard.”

So what do we do about all of this? Become hermits and be afraid of telling anyone your name or filling out an order form? No, but Quittner does offer a few tips to help protect yourself:

■ Don’t talk to telemarketers. Besides the fact that they always call during dinner or your favorite show, they can place your name on mass mailing lists.

■ Pay cash whenever possible, or in our cases, whenever we have cash is probably more to the point. This way there is no way to track your purchases.

■ Don’t fill out warranty cards or enter sweepstakes. We all want to return that envelope with Ed’s and Dick’s pictures on it, but the 50 fliers you’ll get as a result will be less exciting.

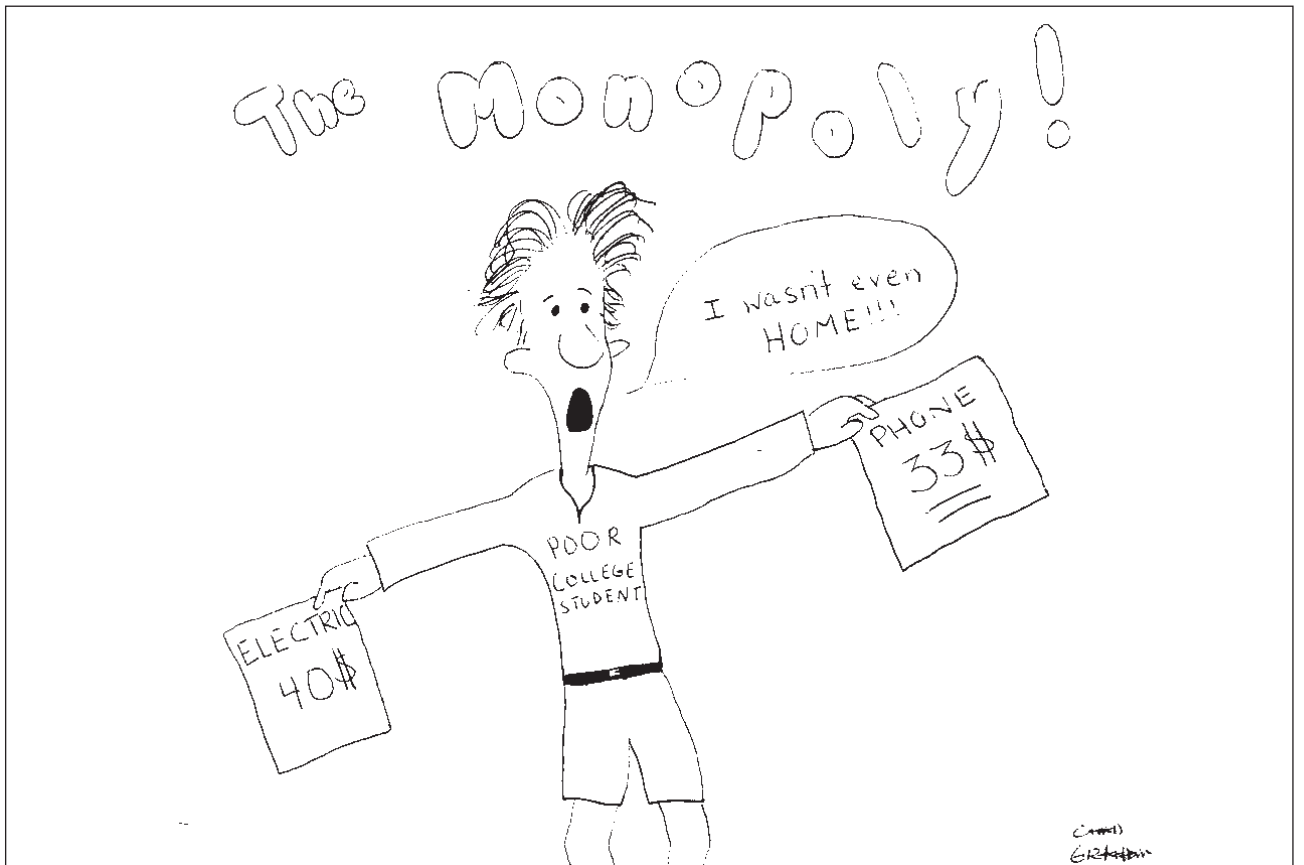

■ For those entering the job field, remember e-mail is NOT confidential. It is considered part of your job and employers are allowed to read it and often do, according to Quittner. If you don’t want everyone to read it, or value your job, keep those e-mails pretty basic.

Just a few tips that may help you. I don’t know what else we can do; someone out there knows everything about you and you really can’t do anything about it. Law enforcers can’t do anything about it, unless by some small fortune they catch someone responsible.

“Technology has out-paced law,” said Marc Rotenberg, director of the Electronic Privacy Information Center, in Time magazine.

For now I guess we just have to wonder what they’ll be able to do to us next.

Prepare for work force: Fully devote yourself to a campus organization

To the editor:

As a recent graduate of Eastern, I want to take this opportunity to express my thanks to the Office of Student Life and encourage all of the members of the student body, young and old to get involved in Student Life.

I know that the experiences I gained as a former member of the Student Government, the Panhellenic Council and Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority were invaluable during my job search and during the first two months of my job.

Although my academic courses were useful, it was these experiences and ability to build my interpersonal your turn

and organizational skills that allowed me to become a successful member of the work force. Read any want ad today and these are the exact qualities all employers want.

I know as students we hear much about “padding resumes.”

What I am suggesting is much more than this. I strongly feel that everyone should fully devote himself or herself to at least one organization during his or her college career.

This kind of commitment builds both self esteem and a true connection with the university.

Now is the time before you all get too comfortable with your fall routines. Call the Student Government at 581-5522 or the Office of Student Life at 581-3829 for specific information.

The council will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Municipal Building at 520 W. Jackson Ave.

The City of Charleston is requesting $1,400 to purchase an awning for the newly re-located Charleston Police Department, located at 614 Sixth St.

Ron Rardin is requesting $475 also for the purchase of an awning for American Micro, located at 607 Seventh St.

The Tax Increment Finance District includes businesses on the square in downtown Charleston. Store owners in this area can request funds for improvements to their businesses, such as repairing parking lots and purchasing awnings. The money is usually given as a half grant and half low interest loan that has to be re-paid to the city over the next five years.

The council also is expected to discuss a resolution authorizing the $644 in Tourism Funds to offset advertising costs in connection with Eastern's Arts and Humanities Month.

The council will discuss an ordinance approving the final plat of phase II of the Edgewood Subdivision that consists of four lots. A second ordinance would annex the subdivision into Charleston.

The council also is expected to discuss two resolutions regarding several street closings. The first resolution would authorize the closing of Reynolds Drive from McComb Avenue to Warren Avenue from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Sept. 23 for the Carl Sandburg Jog-a-thon.

Law targets deadbeat parents

CHICAGO (AP) - State officials plan to crack down on deadbeat parents with a new law that will help track down people who skip out on child-support payments.

The law, which goes into effect Oct. 1, forces employers to notify the state when they hire new workers so parents can't dodge child-support orders by switching jobs so their salary won't be seized.

The state's welfare agency estimates 220,000 Illinois residents owe a total of $1.3 billion in overdue child support.

"This is going to give the children who deserve support more of it and lessen the burden on taxpayers," said Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra, who headed a task force earlier this year that helped draft the law.

A University Police officer on patrol reported finding a car belonging to Troy D. Miller, 19, of 532 Taylor Hall, with a broken rear windshield. The car was parked in the north end of the 9th Street lot between 10 p.m. Sept. 8 and 2:18 a.m. Sept. 12 when the damage was discovered.

Victims of collision missing

WINDHOEK, Namibia (AP) — Searchers found airplane seats and a few papers Monday, but no bodies or survivors of the apparent collision between a U.S. military transport and a German plane believed to have been flying in the same air route.

Air corridors often are shared, although planes traveling in opposite directions are supposed to fly at different altitudes.

Namibian officials said the probable collision site was off their radar and they didn't know the German plane was coming because they had not received a flight plan.

The Atlantic is 3,000 feet deep in the area of Namibia's Skeleton Coast where the U.S. C-141 Starlifter and the German air force plane apparently collided and crashed Saturday, and some officials doubted much wreckage ever would be found. Nine Americans and 24 Germans were missing.

Military officials from Germany, the United States and South Africa — which is responsible for sea rescue operations in the area — converged on Windhoek to coordinate the search.

They also want to determine why it took 24 hours before rescue officials were told the planes were missing.

"We are about to hire some divers," German air force Maj. Gen. Gerhard Buck said in Windhoek, the capital of Namibia, which is northwest of South Africa on the continent's south Atlantic coast.

Searchers found seats from the German plane and papers in German in two areas of the sea Monday near where the planes may have collided, about 115 miles west of Cape Fria on the Namibian coast.

Study: Eat your broccoli sprouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Good news for people who hate broccoli: A study shows there is up to 50 times more anti-cancer chemical in broccoli sprouts than in the mature vegetable — and the sprouts don't taste like broccoli.

Three-day-old broccoli sprouts, which are tender shoots topped with two baby leaves, are loaded with a concentrated form of sulforaphane, a powerful cancer fighter, say researchers at Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Paul Talalay, head of a team at Hopkins that discovered sulforaphane five years ago, said he was surprised that the sprouts contained such a high level of the anti-cancer compound.

"If these are developed commercially, this could be a really easy way for people to get the benefits of chemoprotection against cancer," said Talalay.

A report on the research was being published

Tuesday in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Earlier studies showed that sulforaphane, found in broccoli, cauliflower and some other vegetables, prompts the body to make an enzyme that prevents tumors from forming. A 1994 study indicated that cancer development was reduced by 60 percent to 80 percent in laboratory animals fed sulforaphane extracted from broccoli.

Talay said that diet studies have shown that eating 2 pounds of broccoli a week — an unappetizing thought to many people — can provide enough sulforaphane to lower colon cancer risk by half.

But Talalay said his lab has found that the sulforaphane content in broccoli from a grocery store can vary by a factor of eight or 10 and there is no way to identify a vegetable loaded with the compound from one that is not.

Clinton wants to assess eighth graders' math skills

NORMAL (AP) - If President Clinton has his way, eighth-graders across the nation will get to know - and loathe - the perplexing work of John Dossey.

The Illinois State University professor is in charge of writing a mathematics test that should tell teachers and parents how each student measures up against national, and even international, standards.

For the eighth-graders who would be taking the test, that means two sixty-minute sessions with a No. 2 pencil analyzing graphs, figuring multiples of 7 and explaining their answers.

"It's not just enough to get a correct answer these days," Dossey said. "We're interested in developing reasoning and interpretation skills." Some members of Congress hope the test never takes place.

Many conservatives view Clinton's proposal for the math test and a similar fourth-grade reading test as a step toward federal control of what children learn. They also say the money could be better spent on instruction.

The Senate approved money for the tests 87-13, but it faces a tougher test in the House.

A leading opponent, Rep. Bill Goodling, R-Pa., chairman of the House Education and Workforce Committee, put it this way: "As every American farmer knows, you can keep weighing a hog but it won't get any fatter." Dossey does not argue.

"I think there is altogether too much testing," said the former president of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. "We, more than any other country, measure kids over and over and over again." Dossey would like to see his test eventually replace some other tests schools use.

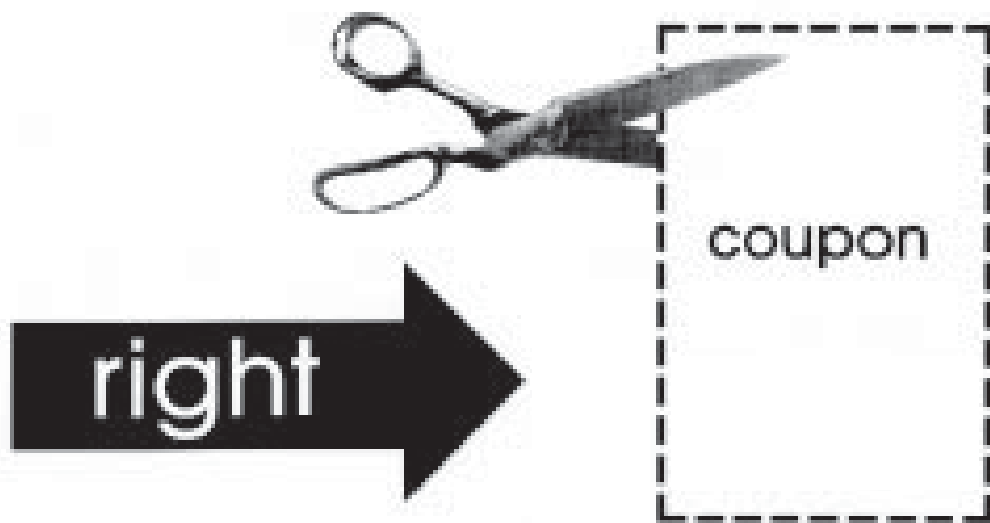

After all, this one would be national (although schools would not be required to take it), allowing for broader comparisons of how students are performing. Also, parents would get back specific results for their children - which questions they got right, which they got wrong and how students around the country did on those questions.

"None of this information comes back to the federal government," said Dossey, a stocky man with close-cropped gray hair. "This is a service to families and students." Dossey's job is to work with a test service to come up with the questions and then make sure they are reviewed to weed out errors, ambiguities or racial and gender bias.

Reds win over Cubs, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Eduardo Perez hit a solo home run and an RBI single Monday night, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Perez, who was 0-for-8 against the Cubs this season prior to Monday's game, hit an RBI single in the third inning and his 16th homer in the seventh as the Reds won their fourth game in their last five.

Mike Morgan (8-11) improved to 5-1 over his last seven starts, giving up one run on five hits over seven innings. The former Cub walked one and struck out two.

Jeff Shaw pitched the ninth for his NL-leading 38th save.

Jeremi Gonzalez (11-8) took the loss, only the Cubs' fourth in their last 12 games. Gonzalez, who has the most wins by a Cubs rookie since Mike Harkey went 12-6 in 1990, gave up three runs on eight hits over six innings.

Cincinnati is now 26-24 under manager Jack McKeon, who replaced Ray Knight on July 25.

Sammy Sosa hit his 33rd home run of the season in the Cubs' second.

Pokey Reese and Jon Nunnally singled to start the Reds' third.

One out later, Perez singled to score Reese. Willie Greene then hit a sacrifice fly to put Cincinnati ahead 2-1.

Morgan's two-out RBI single in the sixth made it 3-1.

Notes: Sosa, the only Cub to get 30 homers and 30 steals in a season, stole his 22nd base and is eight shy of posting his third 30-30 season. He also is one shy of 200 career steals. ... Cubs catcher Tyler Houston, who was given a two-game suspension for his part in an altercation with San Francisco's Jeff Kent on Aug. 13, had the penalty reduced to one game. Houston will serve the suspension on Tuesday. ... Mark Clark, who is 5-0 in seven starts since joining the Cubs from the New York Mets in an Aug. 8 trade, was named NL player of the week.

Giant injury ends season for receiver

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Receiver Ike Hilliard, the seventh pick overall in the NFL draft, will miss the rest of the New York Giants' season because of a neck injury sustained a week ago.

Hilliard sprained the interspinous ligament between the sixth and seventh vertebrae when tackled in a game against Jacksonville on Sept. 7. He will have surgery on Tuesday to stabilize the area.

The injury is not considered career threatening and Hilliard should be ready to play next season, coach Jim Fassel said today.

Giants surgeon Russell Warren said Hilliard will have a posterior spine stabilization process performed at the Hospital for Special Surgery-Cornell Medical Center by Dr. Frank Cammisa, chief of spine service at the hospital.

"The prognosis for this type of surgery is generally good," Warren said in a statement issued by the team.

The Giants had originally reported that Hilliard would be sidelined six to seven weeks. The former Florida star was hurt when he was kneed by Jaguars safety Chris Hudson after making a sliding catch in the first quarter of a 40-13 loss.

Hilliard staggered to his feet in seconds, but he had to be helped to the sidelines.

The loss is a major blow for the Giants, who were hoping Hilliard would emerge as a game-breaking receiver. He showed flashes of that in the preseason, averaging almost 18 yards a reception.

Amani Toomer, Thomas Lewis and Kevin Alexander replaced Hilliard in Sunday's 24-23 loss to Baltimore.

Hilliard caught one pass for 19 yards in his debut last week.

His reception against Jacksonville set up a 4-yard touchdown run by Tiki Barber.

Fassel also said rookie linebacker Pete Monty, the team's fourth-round draft choice, probably tore his anterior cruciate ligament on the opening kickoff of the second half against Baltimore.

Prospects for realignment dim

NEW YORK (AP) — Prospects dimmed for major league realignment at this week's meetings in Atlanta, with some baseball executives predicting Monday there will not be enough support for any plan.

Acting commissioner Bud Selig had hoped to call for a vote on Thursday, the final day of the owners' three-day quarterly meeting.

Selig is in favor of radical realignment, in which 15 teams would switch leagues.

Less radical plans have been formulated, with most including the shift of the AL West Coast teams to the NL. But the San Francisco Giants have threatened to sue, arguing they can't be forced to accept the Oakland Athletics in their market.

Ranking officials on two other NL teams, speaking on the condition they not be identified, said they intended to support San Francisco.

"When you buy a team, you buy assets, which include exclusive monopoly rights to promoting games within your own league in your area on an exclusive basis," Giants owner Peter Magowan said Monday. "We would be asked to give that up. That's exactly why the Mets and Cubs resisted." The radical plan that Selig and realignment committee chairman John Harrington have advocated would put all Western teams in the NL and all Eastern teams in the AL. It would put the Mets and Yankees in the same division, pair the Cubs and White Sox, the Dodgers and Angels, and the Giants and A's.

Since no team can be forced to switch leagues or divisions without their approval, the Mets threatened to veto the plan.

Fittipaldi at home after back surgery

MIAMI (AP) — Emerson Fittipaldi was released from the hospital three days after back surgery, and the champion driver headed to his Florida home for a long recovery.

"He walked out of the hospital with only the assistance of a cane," said hospital spokeswoman Fernanda Oliveira. "He's at home resting with his family." Fittipaldi, 50, was discharged Sunday from Jackson Memorial Hospital following surgery to rebuild a section of his lower back that shattered when his ultralight plane crashed near his ranch in Brazil on Sept. 7.

His left leg was paralyzed in the crash, but he gradually regained mobility and feeling before surgery.

Fittipaldi, who has a home on Key Biscayne off Miami, will have to wear a plastic body brace for six months, and his surgeons have recommended against "high-velocity activities" for a year.

His doctors are ruling out a return to anything but endurance or exhibition racing because of a weak right hand stemming from a broken neck sustained in an IndyCar race in Michigan last year.

Fittipaldi won the Formula One drivers championship in 1972 and 1974 and the Indianapolis 500 in 1989 and 1993.

Griffey hits 51st homer

SEATTLE (AP) — Ken Griffey Jr. ended an eight-day home run drought by hitting his 51st homer in the first inning Monday night for the Seattle Mariners against Toronto.

After Monday night, the Mariners have 11 games left in Griffey's bid to break the major league home run record of 61 set by Roger Maris in 1961.

Griffey, who hit his 50th homer in the fourth inning at Minnesota Sept. 7, hit a 2-2 pitch by Woody Williams 404 feet into the Kingdome's right-field second deck.

It came after a leadoff single by Joey Cora and gave the Mariners a 2-0 lead.

Griffey's homer gave him a share of the major league home-run lead with Mark McGwire of St. Louis, who hit his 51st Sunday.

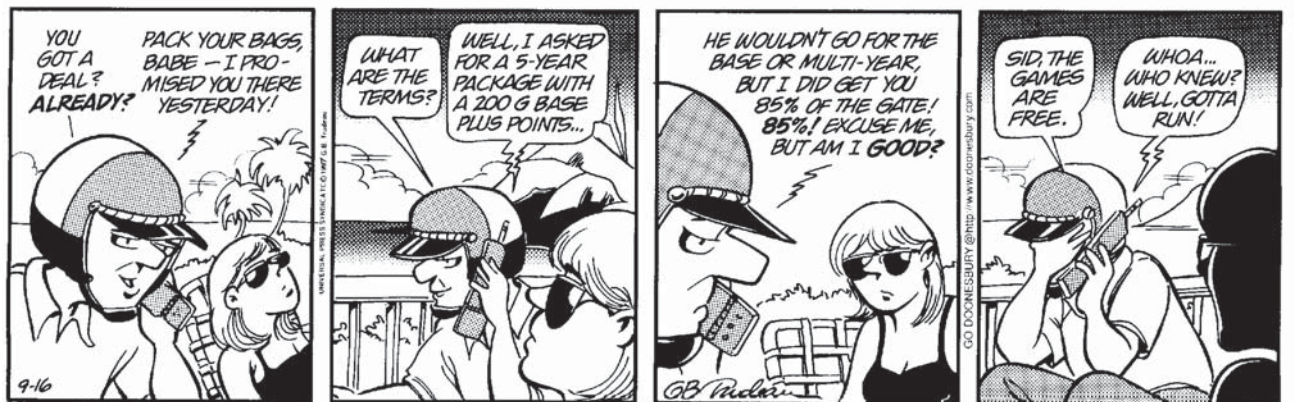

Griffey became the sixth major league player to hit 100 or more home runs over two consecutive seasons, matching a feat accomplished by McGwire on Sunday. Griffey hit 49 homers last season.

Griffey's two-run homer increased his major league-leading RBI total to 138, two shy of his career high set last season.

Utility firm gives Angels light

Field to be renamed as a result of sponsorship

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — "The Big A" is changing names, thanks to the Big Light Bulb.

Anaheim Stadium officially became Edison International Field of Anaheim under a $50 million, 20-year sponsorship deal announced today at home plate by Walt Disney Co. chairman and CEO Michael Eisner and Edison International chairman and CEO John Bryson.

Edison International owns Southern California Edison, the state's second-largest electric company with 4.2 million customers.

The stadium is leased by Disney as the home field for baseball's Anaheim Angels.

"When the Anaheim Angels take the field next year, it will be in a sparkling new baseball and family-oriented stadium renamed in recognition of sponsorship by Edison International," Eisner said.

With its new name, the stadium joins such corporate-titled venues as 3Com Park, where the San Francisco 49ers and Giants play; the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, home of the Los Angeles Lakers and Kings; and the Arrowhead Pond of Anaheim, where the Mighty Ducks play.

"We recognize Angel fans are also Edison customers," Bryson said. "So whatever we can do to enhance their enjoyment at this rejuvenated ballpark will reflect well on Edison." Edison International will face tough competition next year when the state deregulates utilities, and has been increasing its exposure by becoming a TV sponsor for the Angels and Los Angeles Dodgers and a radio sponsor of the Los Angeles Galaxy soccer team.

The stadium is undergoing a $100 million renovation, scheduled to be completed in time for the 1998 season. Disney is paying $80 million of the cost.

"It's fun to be in the hunt. If we run our very best race we can knock some people off."

For the men, seniors Todd Moroney, Ryan Meece, Mike McBride and junior Bruce Lundborg all finished in the top 10 at the Bradley meet.

With last year's OVC champion seniors and juniors leading the group, McInerney said, "we're a pretty good veteran club."

"They know how badly they want it and what they are capable of."

On the women's side senior

Cristen Conrad, junior Sue Langer and freshman Erika Coull-Parenty all finished in the top eight.

Coull-Parenty said she was surprised to finish up so high in the ranks considering that she is a freshman.

"I was a little surprised, coach told us we could place in the top three but it would be a run for first place," she said.

"I wanted to try and keep as close to the front girls as I could so we could keep a pack."

"I came into the season not running for the first week due to an injury. Coming back in semi-good shape it surprised me that I could run with them. Now that I have tried I know that I can.

"When they talk to me and push me up there I try and stay with them," she said.

McInerney said Coull-Parenty has not tried to be a leader but is adjusting well to the team.

"We don't put a lot of pressure on freshmen, but based on her performances in high school we thought she could run with our front girls," he said.

Atop the OVC:

In the last two games, Panther quarterback Mike Simpson has completed 26-31 passing, just shy of an 84 percent completion percentage. His 11-of-12 passing performance on Saturday increased his completion rate to 69 percent on the season, keeping him atop the OVC.

The next closest OVC passer is Eastern Kentucky's Simon Fuentes, as he has connected on 61 percent.

Simpson has the second highest passing efficiency with a rating of 134.5, while Tennessee State's Leon Murray is in first at 145.4.

The not so amazing Amaziah:

With the knee injury to defensive end Dave Thomas, senior right tackle Amaziah Smith saw considerable playing time Saturday night and came up with six tackles in the game.

However, Spoo is not ready to hand over a starting job to Smith.

"He's filling in ok, but he's not in shape yet," Spoo said. "We're really low on the defensive line and (Smith) can be a force if he chooses to be a force."

Smith may once again be called upon this weekend as it is uncertain whether Thomas will be able to return from his arthroscopic knee surgery in time for the Panthers' next opponent, Illinois State.

Senior defensive tackle Mike Shea is likely to return to action this weekend after missing the St. Joseph's game with a chipped bone in his ankle.

After further review:

Originally, Spoo thought Illinois State was a team dominated by the passing game which would be quite a change from the two option-oriented teams they faced in Tennessee-Martin and St. Joseph's.

But it turns out the Redbirds can run the ball too as they average 141 yards per game on the ground, along with 179 yards through the air.

"Illinois State has been running the ball effectively," Spoo said. "They're not a one dimensional team. They're a very good football team and we're going to have to be at our best."

Keep on running:

The Panther rush offense is tops in the OVC, as they average 203 yards per game and have racked up 610 yards this season. They have also scored the most touchdowns on the ground among conference teams — nine.

Tailback Justin Lynch is in a second place tie with Murray State's Wilbert Smith, as both are running for 85 yards per game. Eastern Kentucky's Corey Crume holds first in the conference with 85.5 yards in each contest.

Turner admits Illini can't afford mistakes

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — Illinois coach Ron Turner said Monday his team isn't good enough to make mistakes, but his players made plenty of them in their loss to Louisville.

"We've got to come out and play mistake-free football, execute on offense, come up with tackles on defense ... to have a chance to win," Turner said. "We didn't do those things and still had an opportunity to win late in the game in the fourth quarter and continued to hurt ourselves, continued to make mistakes."

Illinois (0-2) lost 26-14 Saturday at Louisville. The Cardinals (1-2) took a 20-14 lead with 3:57 remaining on a 12-play, 98-yard drive that featured a 25-yard shovel pass on a fake punt.

A special teams player was assigned to look for a fake punt on the play, but instead took off running as soon as the ball was snapped, Turner said.

"He got so anxious and just took off. You can't do those kinds of things. Each player has to be responsible and accountable and take care of his responsibilities if you're going to have a chance to win football games," he said.

Turner also blamed a breakdown on special teams for Louisville's second touchdown in the first half, an 85-yard punt return by Arnold Jackson that tied the game at 14. And he said the defense gave up too many big plays.

argument.

Seeing as how they are always in a dispute, maybe that means they're brother and sister. But in that case, where are their parents?

You never see two elderly Panthers in the stands encouraging their children for encouraging the fans.

What does a Panther eat?

Has anybody ever seen Billy at food service? How about Wilb Walker's or Save-A-Lot? Certainly, he has to eat something.

Maybe he gets all the soggy left over sandwiches from the press box after the football games.

Why Eastern?

Of all the schools in the country, why did Billy choose Charleston? Maybe he came for the great night life and fine dining Charleston has to offer. Possibly he was attracted by the great sports tradition. Surely the great fan support that makes his job so much easier must have factored into the equation.

Oh well, the mystery of Billy Panther lives on.

in assists last year with 14, also got her first point of the year by assisting on the first Ory goal.

Another key part to the victory was the shots on goal. The Lady Panthers fired 20 shots at Lady Raider goalies Tari Martin and Jennifer Rob, while Makini Wall took the only shot on goal for Middle Tennessee.

Stec knows what Eastern needs to do to keep the offense going.

"What we were doing Saturday was communicating," she said. "We looked for all opportunities and we opened up the field by using the outside and doing crosses."

Gilligan said just because the Lady Panthers were held scoreless up to this game, her team game plan did not change.

One thing about the Eastern's offense stood out to Gilligan.

"They're overall team speed was very good," she said.

The offensive onslaught by the Panthers also allowed Ballard to do something else, substitute freely. He used three different goalies in the game, each combining for one save.

Ballard hopes to see this type of offensive output for the rest of the season.

"Every game is crucial and we have to play hard and put our best effort in," he said. "That's something that comes from within the team."

Panther nets conference honor

Gorilla? No. But just who is Billy Panther?

He's no chicken.
No Fredbird, either.
And don't you dare compare him to the Phoenix Gorilla.
The man/animal in question would be Billy Panther.
In a day and age where fan support looks very dim, Billy Panther is always there. He's a dedicated soul indeed.
Billy can always be counted on to be at major sporting events and no matter what the score, how drab the outlook, Billy gives his all to get the crowd going.
However, there are many mysterious things about Billy.
■ For example, where does he live?
The housing office doesn't have a listing for a Mr. Billy Panther.

Actually, he probably got lost in the shuffle and is living in a lounge somewhere due to overcrowding. Or else maybe Billy is living in a single room under an assumed name.

■ Is he ever going to graduate?
Billy has been here since 1930. Now, we've all heard of a five year plan, or six year plan, but this is truly unheard of - a 67 year plan. Even if he's changed his major to every possible one, Billy still should have graduated by now.

Maybe he plans on attending until he wins the tuition waiver.

■ How about the jersey?
Every time Billy is seen, he always has the same jersey on. Is it really the same jersey? Perhaps he has a couple dozen of the same one. If it is the original jersey, how come he hasn't changed it?

Come on, after 67 years, it's got to stink.

■ Why does he always have the same look on his face?

It used to be thought that Billy simply lacked emotion and was unable to change his facial expression accordingly.

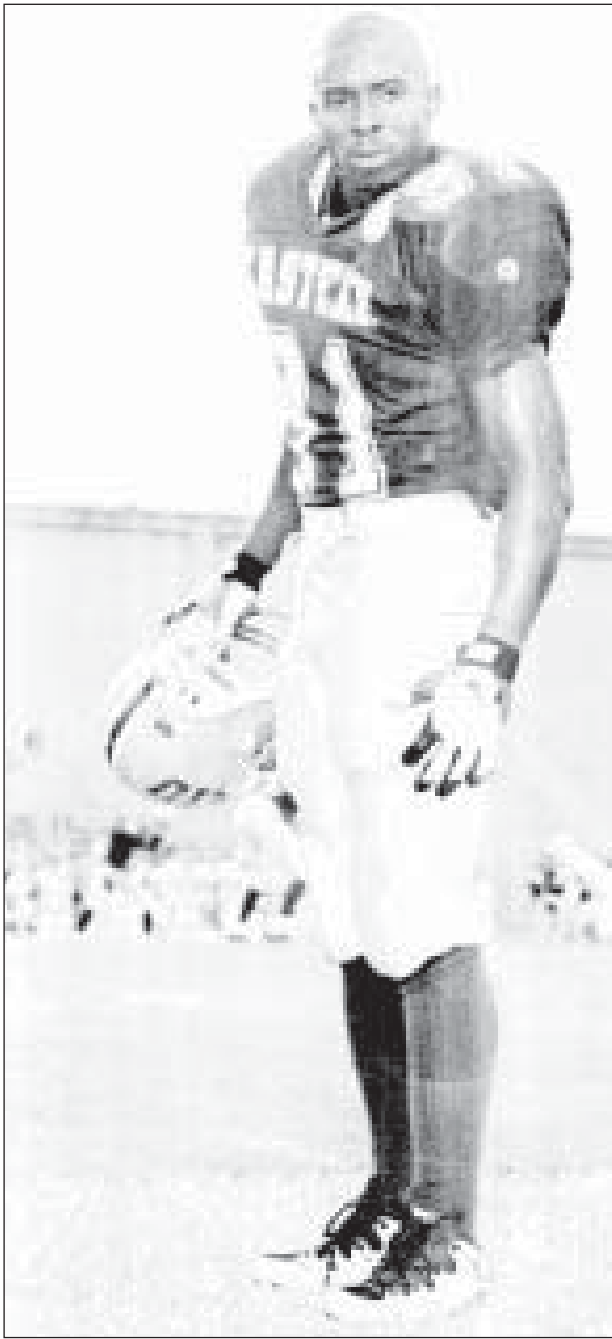

But now, rumor has it that he didn't listen to his mother when she said, "if you make that face long enough, it will freeze that way."

■ What the heck is up with Bonnie Panther?

They must be related in some way, seeing as how they have the same last name. If they're married, how'd they meet? It's not as if finding an eligible Panther in Charleston is an easy thing to do.

And if they are married, how come it is such an unhappy courtship? Billy and Bonnie always seem to keep their distance at the football games, and when Billy does approach her, Bonnie ignores him. It seems as though they are in a never ending Junior wide receiver Donnie Davis takes a break during Monday's practice on O'Brien Field. Davis and the Panthers are preparing this week for Saturday's non-conference game in Normal against Illinois State University.

Prior to the game against St. Joseph's College Saturday night, junior wide receiver Donnie Davis had 81 all purpose yards in two games. Then he racked up 205 total yards on the Pumas in the Panther victory and earned Ohio Valley Conference Offensive Player of the Week honors.

"I'm pretty proud of it," Davis said of the award. "It's anything I can do week by week, whatever I can do to help the team win."

"I'm just glad I can contribute the way I can."

Panther head coach Bob Spoo said Davis' dedication to the game is great.

"Donnie works extremely hard," he said. "He is one of the players that when you talk of them giving their all during practice and the game, Donnie is one of them."

"It's nice when players do all they can do and get recognized."

Against St. Joseph's, Davis did all he could as he caught seven passes for 97 yards and a touchdown, not to mention an 83-yard punt return.

The 83-yard punt return was a career long for Davis and increased his return average to 16.6 yards which was good enough to lead the conference and 11th best in the nation.

The return wasn't one of beauty and certainly not graceful.

"Actually, there was a little bit of luck, I'd have to say," Davis said. "I hit a spin and was about to fall down, then one player hit me from the side and I bounced back up."

Spoo said Davis' ability to put up numbers like he did against the Pumas on a consistent basis is a great asset to the offense.

"He's capable and I think he's reliable," Spoo said. "It is something that helps balance the offense. He has great determination and can turn a short gain into a real long gain."

"It's the yards after the catch (that count)."

Hat trick by Ory gives Lady Panthers first win

Women's soccer squad blanks MTSU

By MATT WILSON
Staff writer

The Lady Panther soccer team broke out of its scoreless slump and exploded for five goals in the 5-0 victory over Middle Tennessee State on Saturday.

"We finished and put the ball in the net," Lady Panther head coach Steve Ballard said.

Three of the five goals came off the foot of one player, junior half-back Heather Ory.

"She was outstanding," Ballard said. "She pushed forward from the midfield and it's nice to see that from a halfback. Halfbacks have to run to some certain point in the field and stay there, whether they get the ball or not. The team did a good job of getting her the ball."

One of the Lady Raider goals before the game was to stop the Lady Panther offense.

"Obviously we didn't succeed," Lady Raider head coach Colette Gilligan said. "We just didn't show up."

Also leading Eastern to victory was sophomore backer Michelle Macumber and sophomore forward Michelle Stec, who each scored one goal.

"Our offense really took a step up," Stec said. "We all came together and we were organized."

Stec said it is a lot harder to come off the bench than to start in the game.

"When you go in for someone else, it's a lot harder to step in and do a good job," she said. "It is hard when you don't start and have to come in the middle of the game. I think everybody that came in did a good job and that's why we won."

Another bright spot to the game was the play of junior forwards Tracie Strother and Beth Aussin. Even though Strother, the Missouri Valley Conference leading scorer last year with 20 goals, has yet to score this year, she did get some points on the board by assisting on the Macumber goal and one of the Ory goals.

Harrier coach sees consistency in team

The men's and women's cross country teams have shown consistency and stamina so far this year with hopes to reach the Ohio Valley Conference championship.

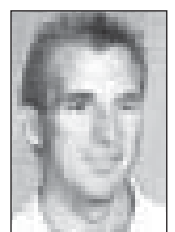

On Sept. 12 both teams won the Bradley Open.

This was following a win on Sept. 6 at the Wabash College Mile Rep Relays where the men placed first and the women took second.

"It's early, but it's a nice start. I'm really pleased with where we are right now," said head coach John McNerney. "We take each meet seriously. Our goal was to win at Bradley and Wabash and we did."

"We don't put a lot of emphasis on the early meets, but it's going really nicely," he said.

McNerney said the team is working on building unity and pride and drawing people together against a common foe. "From here on out we don't run into anything easy," he said.

At 10:30 Saturday Eastern will host the EIU Open. Teams from the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois and approximately eight other schools will be at the meet.

On Oct. 4 the cross country team heads to the Loyola Lake Front Invite to compete against 20 to 30 teams.

McNerney said the Panthers are focused on the OVC championship right now more than anything else.

"That is what we're focusing on and shooting for," he said. "The women have a real uphill climb. Eastern Kentucky has had a strangle hold on it the last couple of years and they've got good solid team."
