Reagan plea: Tell Congress to vote 'yes'

President hard-sells need for Contra aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan, seeking public pressure on Congress to approve $100 million in aid for "virtually defenseless" Nicaraguan rebels, declared Sunday evening that the funds are needed to "deny the Soviet Union a beachhead in North America."

Beseeking Congress "to vote yes," Reagan emphasized his belief that "it is not Nicaragua alone that threatens us." In a televised address from the Oval office, he asked viewers, "Tell them to help the freedom fighters. Help us prevent a Communist takeover of Central America."

In prepared remarks, four days before the House votes on his aid proposal, Reagan urged his countrymen not to ignore "the malignancy in Managua until it spreads and becomes a mortal threat to the entire New World."

Sen. James Sasser, leading the Democratic response to Reagan, agreed with much of the president's view of the Sandinista government in Nicaragua, but said it was time for negotiation, not military buildup. Sasser has proposed compromise legislation that would give the Sandinistas time to talk.

Making his case for $70 million in military aid and $30 million in non-lethal funds for the so-called Contra forces, Reagan said, "We are asking only to be permitted to switch a small part of our present defense budget—to the defense of our own southern frontier."

A senior administration official, briefing reporters at the White House on the president's speech but insisting he not be identified, said Reagan was about 10 or 12 votes short of victory in the House and would lobby members in search of support.

The official said the administration remains unwilling to compromise on the amount of money Reagan requested or by placing new restrictions on how the money is spent. But he acknowledged "the possibility of the president agreeing unilaterally to allow some time between the enactment of the legislation and the actual delivery of military

Home rule could mean court battle

By CRYSTAL PHILPOTT

Charleston's home rule referendum is approved Tuesday, Eastern could face more than just a new form of city government.

Should Charleston become a home-rule city, Eastern could join Northern Illinois University in fighting its home-rule municipality in the courts over sales taxes.

NIU is being sued by the home-rule city of DeKalb for refusing to collect sales taxes.

Charleston's City Council, which has placed a home rule referendum on Tuesday's ballots, is asking to tax sales by 1 percent if the referendum passes. The home-rule sales tax, council members said, will help the city avert a projected $600,000 city deficit.

The DeKalb/NIU suit, filed against the Board of Examiners, stems from NIU's refusal to collect sales taxes and taxes for the rental of hotel and motel rooms, said DeKalb City Attorney Jerome Shapiro and NIU officials.

Shapiro said the city is suing for its constitutional right to tax individuals, despite a law which forbids home-rule units from imposing taxes upon the state.

DeKalb is arguing that it can tax the individuals who make purchases at Northern's student center. But NIU officials are insisting the services are related to their educational mission.

NIU legal counsel George Shur says the university is basing its case on the state's constitution. "We are relying on the Constitution. They are relying on the municipality.

"The issue here is the basic municipality requiring the state to do something. We do not feel the city has the power to do what they've done. This is a legal issue," Shur said.

Shur doesn't see the sales tax as the main issue. "The amount of the tax is irrelevant. It's our position that the municipality doesn't have the power to tax us.

"We respectfully decline to collect the tax. NIU is not at war with DeKalb. This is a very, very technical, legal issue. We're prepared to wait until the courts make a decision," Shur said.

Last year, the General Assembly passed overwhelmingly legislation which would have turned this

Eastern fraternity plans all-campus St. Pat's parade

By DONELLE PARDEE

Delta Sigma Phi fraternity is sponsoring Eastern's St. Patrick's Day parade at 3 p.m. Monday from Old Main, Dean Haman, fraternity vice president, parties will follow at the Delta Sigma Phi house, 201 Ninth St., Haman said.

From Old Main, the parade will march to Andrews Hall, the Union and finally the fraternity house.

Haman said the idea developed because a large number of Eastern students are from the Chicago area and accustomed to a St. Patrick's Day Parade and turning rivers green.

But in Charleston, Haman said, "As for dying the rivers green, there are none to dye."

Haman thought the idea to have a parade was good because "It's never been done at Eastern. I want this year to be different.

"I hope it becomes a tradition and keeps going. We'll have to see how it goes."

Haman was assisted in the planning by fraternity members John Conrad and Bill Stewart. Haman said he hopes the parade becomes an annual event.

Cars will not be included in the parade, Haman said, because he thought it might have been too much trouble.

"It would mean blocking off streets so we are keeping it simple to start with," Haman said.

Haman added that kazoos will be handed out and there will be Irish music.

Fraternity member Scott Becker came up the idea of dying the campus pond green, but didn't think the university would appreciate it.

Besides having a kazoos, a banner and Irish music, there will be a king and queen chosen to ride in a chariot made by Delta Sigma Phi member Bob Kelly.

"The king and queen will be chosen on who dresses the best for the parade," Haman said.

Haman said the whole idea was to have fun and a good time. "It's going to be a riot. I'm hoping for a big turnout since it is an all-campus parade."

Dave Wetherton, president of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, said "It's a great idea and it's a long time in coming."

"You figure other places have parades, why not Eastern?" Wetherton said.

Leslie Pabst, president of Alpha Sigma Tau sorority, said "It's an interesting idea."

Pabst added that she could believe fraternity members thought of putting green dye in the campus pond.

"They're a bunch of crazy guys," Pabst said.

According to Associated Press reports, parades were planned for Monday, the official St. Patrick's Day, in New York, Chicago and Savannah, Ga., but

French conservatives win seats, Socialist Party might lose control

OPEC fails to stop price decline

GENEVA—OPEC oil ministers emerged glum-faced and with no word of progress Sunday after four hours of emergency talks on strategies to halt the steepest oil price decline in history.

Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, was quoted by Britain's Sunday Telegraph newspaper as saying prices could hit $8 a barrel unless all oil-producing countries, including those outside OPEC, agree on a price-support program.

Arturo Hernandez Grisanti, President of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and Venezuela's oil minister, said participants at the Sunday meeting voiced general positions but did not discuss the main issues.

Statistics are misleading: study

WASHINGTON—Many of the nation's leading economic statistics are presenting a very misleading picture of the economy they are supposed to measure, a congressional study said Sunday.

The study, prepared for the Joint Economic Committee, found that government statistics-gathering operations had fallen victim to Reagan administration budget cuts and outdated practices.

"Business leaders and government policy makers are operating in the dark because of the poor and declining quality of government information gathering," Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., said in releasing the study. "Many of our statistical programs are no longer adequate to keep pace with our rapidly changing economy."

Police might adopt fitness rule

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Illinois' criminal element may have to invest in running shoes to escape a new breed of fit and health-conscious police officers.

Under a proposal likely to be adopted by a state board this month, new police recruits would have to pass minimum physical fitness standards to enter and graduate from all police academies in Illinois.

The standards would affect every new police officer in the state, because Illinois law requires all new officers to attend a state-certified training program before assuming active duty.

PARIS (AP)—French voters gave the main conservative opposition parties a slim majority of National Assembly seats in Sunday's election, early computer projections indicated.

The Socialists, who have controlled the assembly for five years, will be the largest single party but will not have enough seats to form a government, according to the projections.

All three major polling organizations releasing projections minutes after the polls closed showed the opposition winning a slight majority of the seats. That could leave Socialist President Francois Mitterrand hemmed in by a conservative legislature and premier.

For an absolute majority, a party must win at least 289 seats in the new 577-seat assembly.

Projections gave the conservative, neo-Gaullist Rally for the Republic party and the centrist Union for French Democracy and small rightist parties—excluding the extreme right National Front—from 289 to 295 seats.

Both the Rally for the Republic Party and Union for French Democracy have said they will not join with the National Front to form government.

The Socialists were shown winning between 210 and 215 seats, the Communists 36-37 and National Front a surprisingly strong 33-38 seats. Polls opened at 8 a.m. and the final poll places closed at 8 p.m.

About 37.5 million people were eligible to vote. More than 60 percent of the electorate cast votes by 5 p.m., slightly ahead of the pace in voting in the 1981 election.

Voters were choosing from 6,978 National Assembly candidates. They were also electing representatives to local councils in France's administrative regions. The councils, set up in 1972, have been given increasing powers and the Socialists to collect and spend tax money to guide local development and run high schools.

Second teacher ready for space

McCALL, Idaho (AP)—The woman who was the No. 2 choice as the teacher-in-space is ready to ride the next available flight and starts work this week on space agency educational programs.

Barbara Morgan reports Monday to NASA's Education Affairs Division in Washington D.C., said Ed Campion, National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman.

She'll provide a teacher's view on how the branch can use interest in the space program to help teachers lure children into math and science, and act as a liaison between NASA and the non-profit Young Astronauts Program, which is designed to spur interest in space careers, he said.

"It's like combining the first best job in the world, which is teaching here in McCall, with the second best job in the world, which is being an astronaut," Morgan told pupils during a recent trip back to McCall, where she teaches second grade.

Morgan was to have shared the assignment with Christa McAuliffe, the nation's first space-bound teacher, who was killed when the shuttle Challenger exploded Jan. 28. Morgan was trained with McAuliffe and the other 29 members of Challenger's crew.

"We were really good friends and co-workers and I loved her very much," Morgan told her hometown newspaper, the Central Idaho News, during a two week vacation from NASA training and other duties following the shuttle accident. "It hurts real badly and I'm sure it will be for a long time. But I can still feel real good about it."

Morgan, 33, lives with her husband, Charles, a novelist and smokejumper, in a two-story house on Payette Lake just outside of McCall, Idaho. Married in 1978, they have no children.

For those who can't afford a health club, free aerobics classes are offered in Lantz Fieldhouse from 8 to 9:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 1 to 2 p.m. Friday and 3 to 4:15 p.m. Sunday.

Free aerobics isn't just for Senior Carl Parker said he was about the aerobic classes

Parker, a defensive tackle for the Panthers, said aerobics gives him the toning weightlifting he needs. "My flexibility is a lot better," Parker said.

A lot of guys laugh, but they come and check it out for themselves," he said.

Jim Hagen, a senior graphic design major, said she has participated in the classes for a month. Hagen heard of the classes from her roommate.

"I noticed I'm able to lose weight now," Hagen said.

Julie Smith, assistant director of recreational sports, said last semester's average attendance was 46 and this semester it is 125.

Smith said the increase could be because of an advertisement they ran this semester, whereas none were run last semester.

Freshman Cathy Masten, Monday night aerobic instructor, said "I think it's great because it's free."

Masten said she hopes to see two classes a day instead of one.

Junior Sandy Lapicola, who teaches classes Tuesday through Sunday, said, "I don't want people to be discouraged by other people who may be able to do more. I always tell my class to just do the best they can."

Lapicola has been an instructor for 2½ years at the Nautilus Club in Elk Grove.

Lapicola's routine involves an hour of callisthenics and 30 minutes of aerobics.

"Dress for aerobics isn't important, but good aerobic shoes are," Lapicola said.

Julie Terlep, a sophomore political science major, has attended aerobic classes for two months, six nights a week.

"Sandy is a good motivator and gives a harder workout than other classes I've gone to," Terlep said.

David Dutler, director of recreational sports, said students have had the exposure to aerobics, but "there just wasn't a place on campus for them to continue on."

Dutler said they initiated the program to provide the students with a place to go five or six times a week.

Dutler said they would like to continue the program through summer and next year, but they need more funding and qualified people to teach.

ESDA chief: Stay prepared for tornadoes

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

As the season's first severe storms swept through "tornado alley" last week, the director of Charleston's Emergency Services and Disaster Agency urged citizens to be aware and prepared for tornadoes.

"The only sure thing about tornadoes is that there is no sure thing about tornadoes. And Charleston is situated in a section of the Midwest that is known as 'tornado alley,'" Charleston fireman Paul Cottingham, who heads the local chapter of the ESDA, said Friday.

"We were very lucky Monday," Cottingham said, after a storm system moved through central Illinois picking up steam before hurling tornadoes through Indiana and Ohio.

Damages here were scattered as winds took out a window during the lunch hour at Wrangler's, 703 W. Lincoln Ave., and ripped off a 160-square-foot section of roofing at the Hilltop Nursing Center, 910 W. Polk Ave.

The storm passed in the middle of Tornado Preparedness Week, which Cottingham said works as a reminder for citizens to be on the alert.

"We primarily advise people to go to the lowest level in the building wherever they are," Cottingham said. "In most residential places, there is no safe place to be, just a safest place to be. Tornadoes can do some pretty amazing things with winds of 300 mph in their center."

"People tend to forget about this, but this is something they can prepare for," he said.

Eastern students should find the tornado plan for each building they have class in and for the residence halls they live in, he said.

If a tornado is sighted while driving, Cottingham suggested that you don't try to outrun it with the car. "You have no way to gauge the speed it is coming. You can't gauge the speed of an oncoming car much less that of a tornado.

"Generally you should stop the vehicle, get in a ditch and cover your head while laying face down," Cottingham said.

When weather begins to look bad, he said "as a rule of common sense people should turn on a radio or television to listen to reports.

When listening to the reports, Cottingham stressed that people should understand each level of warning and not panic.

A Tornado watch means conditions are favorable with heavy winds, rain, hail and severe lightning, he explained.

Warnings are issued either locally or by the National Weather Service in Springfield, he said, which would mean a tornado "has been sighted and danger is imminent.

"We won't blow the sirens until we have confirmation that (a tornado's) direction means it's heading toward Charleston."

Southern schools' progress climbing in uphill battle

Associated Press

Wood Junior-Senior High School in Jacksonville, Fla., recently named by the Reagan administration as a model school, is seriously over-and Cordts, a 32-year-old teacher, savors his laurels as teacher in Raleigh, N.C., but says he had to get by on a salary barely over $20,000.

Teacher salaries are up gradually across the South, and the morale is improving.

At the teachers' lounge at Little Elementary School outside Raleigh, N.C., there's less griping and more talk about lesson plans and improving instruction, said Mrs. Rogers, a veteran sixth-grade teacher. "I feel much more confident," she said.

In 1960, more than 70 percent of South Carolina youngsters failed to finish high school. Now nearly two-thirds graduate.

In Elloree, S.C., a town in cotton and soybean country where median family income is a scant $8,000, reform has meant things as basic as ridding the high school of incompetent teachers and adding air conditioning to the elementary school so youngsters no longer pass out from the heat.

Reform also shows up in Diana LaRocque's fourth-grade math class in Jennie Moore Elementary, a magnet school in Charleston, S.C. Because of new state mandates, Ms. LaRocque has 150 math objectives to cover with her students; who must pass more than 100 state-ordered tests each year to be promoted.

Pupil Katie Partusek held another opinion of her weekly tests: "Yecchh!"

For fourth-grade teacher Diane Mackey at David Youree Elementary School in Smyrna, Tenn., struggling to support herself and a teen-age son on $21,000, school reform has brought an opportunity for more money but added pressure as well.

Tennessee last year began the first statewide career ladder program offering teachers pay increases of up to $7,000 a year. But they must submit to surprise evaluations and work July and August to get the full amount.

At Coral Gables High School in Florida, the entire staff recently got bonuses ranging from $297 for custodians to $2,416 for teachers for outperforming other Dade County schools in a new $20 million state incentive program.

Less satisfying to Burke High School principal Lee Gaillard in Charleston, S.C., has been the load of new paperwork that has administrators and teachers howling across the South.

Education-minded governors have led the charge.

Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander fought successfully for a teacher pay and career ladder plan that combined better salaries with accountability.

Texas Gov. Mark White's $2.8 billion education reform package made headlines with its "no-pass, no-play" policy that requires students to pass their courses or sit out team sports and school clubs or music groups.

Florida, with strong support from Gov. Bob Graham, has been a laboratory for student competency tests, longer school days and other reforms.

Take care of colleges, not the Contras

In the midst of the worst federal deficit in American history, with much-needed educational funding on President Reagan's chopping block, college students should be more aware than ever of where the President's priorities lie. Right now, they're somewhere in Nicaragua.

Editorial As student loans and other educational investments are going under the knife, Reagan is pushing Congress to approve some $100 million in military aid and other assistance to the Contras, the rebels who are attempting to overthrow the communist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

The facts behind the drama are hazy. Pro-Contra observers say the Sandinistas are repressive dictators, while opponents maintain that the Contras are murderous power-mongers. As always, the truth probably lies somewhere between the extremes.

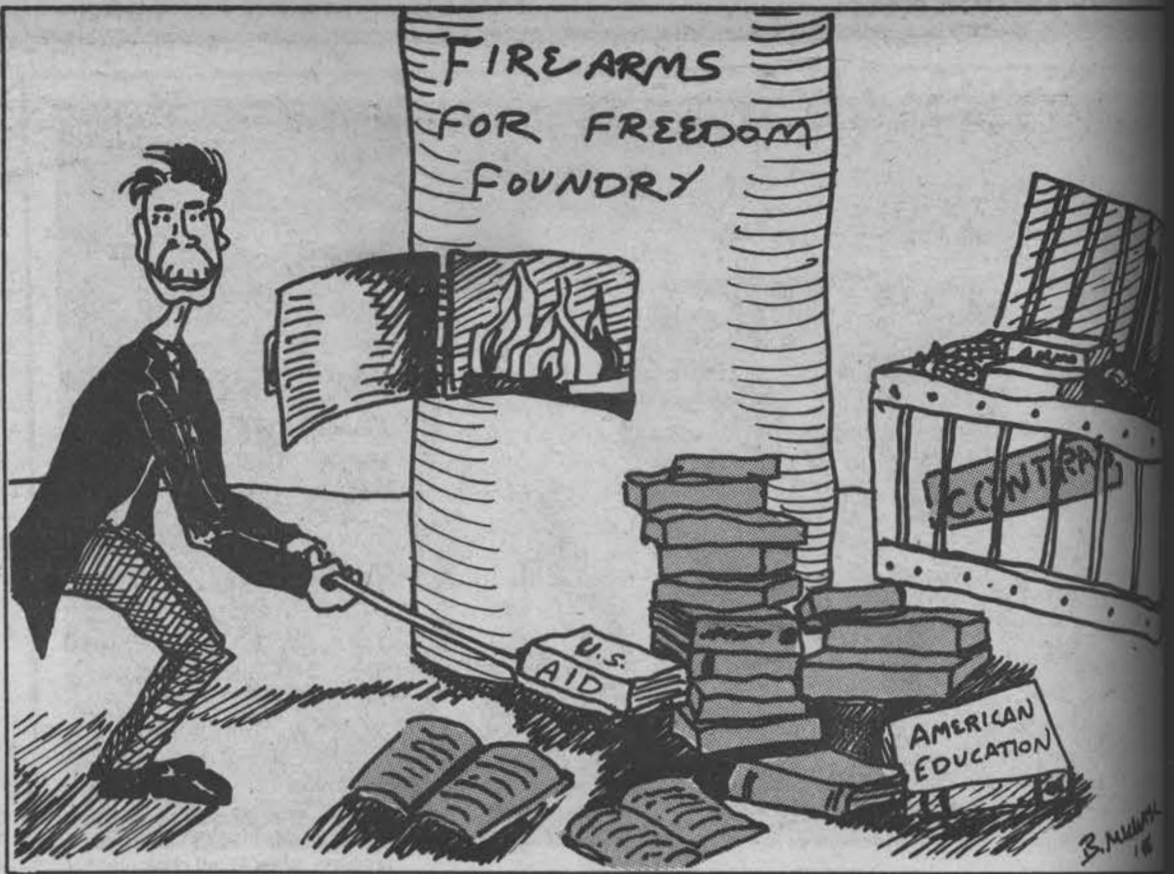

But who is right or wrong in Nicaragua is not the issue—not when we've got a few little problems of our own to worry about.

Little problem number one: The record federal deficit is a crushing weight on the nation's economy. It's hurting the dollar overseas and it's hitting home especially hard for social and educational programs that have been marked for cuts or elimination.

Little problem number two: The United States, once the most educated nation in the world, is no longer getting straight A's. In fact, it's failing a lot of subjects. No matter how much of the federal budget has to be cut, funding for education should be the sacred cow, not the sacrificial lamb.

Little problem number three: The last time the United States decided to stick its nose into a foreign civil war, it got stuck there for ten years—and lost.

Keep up to date on what your representatives in Congress are doing with your taxes. Congressional elections are approaching, and students should use their votes to show Washington that funneling money away from colleges and pumping it into questionable overseas causes is not a very educated thing to do.

Are shaved heads the latest craze?

Is it me, or are there a lot of Eastern's male community walking around with little or no hair, by choice?

I thought I might be paranoid, but when a friend told me she too was sick of seeing shaved heads, I knew I wasn't imagining things.

I didn't get it. I don't understand how people can recklessly remove all of their hair like that, especially when so many college men start to worry about losing their hair. So, trying to be a good reporter, I asked some why they did it.

One student said he shaved his head because he was in water polo and the lack of hair was better for aerodynamics. He went on to say that he also shaved the rest of his body. I didn't ask exactly where.

However, a friend noticed that the hair on his arms remained. So she asked why he didn't shave his arms also.

"Because my arms are out of the water," he said.

Okay, so his arms are out of the water and he doesn't shave them. But, his head is out of the water and he did shave it.

Made perfect sense to me.

I still didn't get why men were taking scissors to their heads as fast as Eastern students to a beer special. So I asked someone else who ever since I've known him hasn't had hair.

He gave me an even better answer than the first man.

"I'm in the Marines."

That explained everything. I guess I was supposed to know that my question was stupid, but I don't ever remember being told why military men shave their heads, and I saw An Officer and a Gentleman three times.

Still in pursuit of a plausible reason, I asked yet another Eastern male why he shaved his head.

"It's in and it's easy," he told me.

Once I thought about it, I didn't think it was such a bad idea.

Never having to worry about what your hair looked like and just wiping your head with a wash rag when your hair (what you had left) started to look a little greasy were starting to sound good to me.

It was actually starting to sound reasonable when I remembered when I was little and my dad came in with a home barber kit.

He was telling my mom how much money we would save on our haircuts because he could do them. My mom made a face and said if he wanted to save money, he could start now because my brother, Scott, needed a haircut.

My dad sat Scott down on the picnic table in the back yard and turned on the hand-held, battery-powered shaver. Scott cringed when the shaver got closer to the nape of his neck.

What started out to be a little off the top quickly turning into a crew cut. I remember my dad saying the whole time, "There's nothing to it, he was starting to eye my hair."

Scott cried for about a week, it probably would have been so bad if my grandpa hadn't started calling him "Butch."

My brother never got another crew cut, and my mom never let my dad get his hands on that shaver again.

Even though short hair seems to be "in" again, my brother will never let his hair get cut short again. Since that first crew cut, he has been convinced that his hair has been growing back thinner and thinner.

Something for you who keep ravaging your hair with razors to think about. Can you ever be sure, it's going to grow back?

But then again, maybe that's the goal. It would certainly provide for great aerodynamics and would be easy to take care of. I think the hair would even approve.

Dr. Ruth ticket sales inch past required mark

By MICHELLE MUELLER
Staff writer

Although the University Board paid Dr. Ruth Westheimer $6,000 to speak on March 3, only $1,611 in ticket sales was taken in, junior Bill Heilenbach, lectures committee coordinator, said.

Tickets for the lecture were only 50 cents for students, although the standard price for the UB's lecture series is $1.

Heilenbach said it is not important that the full price of the lecture was not generated in ticket sales because the lectures committee is not required to cover full costs.

In fact, he said, the committee has actually taken in $11 more than required.

Most of the committee's money comes from the Apportionment Board, which allots a certain amount to the lecture committee each year.

The budget the committee has been working under for this school year was set at $14,270, said graduate student Mary Rivard, a student activities administrative assistant and lecture committee advisor.

The committee determines how much money will be needed from the AB by determining how much money can be raised in ticket sales. A new budget of $16,800, which figures the total attendance of all lectures for the year at 500 students at $1 apiece and 50 general admission at $3 apiece was recently approved, Heilenbach said.

This is an increase of $2,530 over the current budget, Rivard said.

However, instead of the normal $1 charge, only 50 cents was charged for the Westheimer lecture, Heilenbach said.

Heilenbach said the committee charged only 50 cents because it did not realize the lecture would be so popular.

"We felt we'd have a couple hundred tickets left over. We felt that 50 cents was a fair price," Heilenbach said.

Although the Westheimer lecture sold out and drew the largest crowd ever at a UB-sponsored lecture, Heilenbach said he does not think the committee would have benefitted from charging the regular $1.

"It went over well," Heilenbach said. "The lecture was a complete success. Why change anything?"

Heilenbach believes student fee money should continue to cover the cost because, "If we charge more, we feel attendance would go down."

He said the committee's goal is to make sure all the money granted by the AB is used each year.

"We use all our money. We never go into red and we make sure we don't leave any money," Heilenbach said.

If any money is left after the standard four lectures a year, the committee, with the AB's permission, gives a reception for a speaker or spends more money on promotions, Heilenbach said.

"It is poor budgeting if you don't come close to zero," meaning within $5 or $10, he said.

However, sometimes something happens that makes it impossible to spend all the money.

Last year, Jayne Lybrand, who is scheduled to speak Tuesday, canceled because of illness at the end of the year and there was no time to schedule another lecturer, Rivard said.

Council moves to make greek functions drier, safer

By BOB LOBBES
Staff writer

Social functions sponsored by greek organizations at Eastern may soon be subject to new guidelines for partying, said Bob Wilson, president of the Interfraternity Council.

Wilson said a Student Alcohol Proposal Commission, organized by IFC to look at the use of alcohol at social functions has suggested some guidelines for greek organizations.

Suggestions in the proposal include:

- Having an alternate non-alcoholic beverage available;
- Serving food;
- Taking students' car keys at the door;
- Ending parties at 1 a.m. during weekdays;
- Limiting the number of kegs in proportion to the number of people attending;
- Limiting the number of kegs brought in after the party starts.

The proposal will mainly affect fraternities since sororities are not allowed to have alcohol in their houses.

Warri Sanders, assistant Student Activities director, said the goal is not to stop students from partying, but to get them to drink more responsibly.

Both Sanders and Wilson said the proposal stems from a growing concern over the liability of organizations for people who attend their social

“ I think this a move that shows the university is trying to run the lives of students.

—Francis Fagan
Vice President
Delta Chi Fraternity

functions.

The biggest concern is avoiding the possibility of people attending an activity where alcohol is served, getting drunk, leaving and getting in an accident.

Wilson said victims of accidents resulting from drinking at functions sponsored by greek organizations have recently been receiving large settlements across the country.

"Driving drunk is not cool anymore," said senior Dave Wetherton, president of Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Eastern has been able to avoid any serious accidents related to drinking at greek-sponsored activities in the last few years, Wilson said.

However, the IFC is following a national trend by college campuses to make such activities safer to avoid possible lawsuits, Wilson said.

Some fraternities will not be drastically affected by the proposed guidelines because of changes already made in alcohol policies in individual houses.

Wetherton said a lot of the guidelines now being set up have been in effect at Delta Tau Delta for over a year.

Dave Duggan, social chairman for Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, said his fraternity has had rules limiting the amount of alcohol at functions since last semester.

To help in making guidelines, the IFC contacted several schools to see how they handled the problem.

Ted Hoffman, president of Sigma Pi fraternity, said letters were sent to the University of Iowa and other schools to get information and ideas.

Many of the fraternities on campus are in favor of the proposed guidelines, however, there has also been some opposition.

"I think this is a move that shows the university is trying to run the lives of students," said Francis Fagan, vice president of Delta Chi fraternity.

Some people don't fully understand the proposal, Hoffman said in defense of the proposal.

Wilson said the earliest the proposal could be voted on would be Thursday. However, a vote was not taken and the proposal will not be voted on until after spring break.

of folks, of Irish descent and otherwise, celebrated early.

Almost 4,000 partygoers jammed the streets of Shamrock, Texas, on Monday for the Panhandle town's annual toast to the slave-turned-unionist. In Los Angeles, a dispute at City Hall resulted in two parades, and Georgia kicked off a weeklong celebration.

The Texas festival had more of a level than an Irish brogue. Marchers shared the spotlight with fireworks as this year's theme was "An Salute to Texas," dedicated to the state's sesquicentennial.

Instead of corned beef and cabbage, there was a chili cook-off, featuring 36 varieties of the incendiary delicacy. Apparently, not too many people needed: $850 was raised for the Shamrock High School band through the sale of $1.75 a bowl.

The Irish eyes of Memphis, Tenn., celebrated Saturday with a parade, instead of what used to be known as St. Patrick's Day Pub Crawl.

Parades, police escorts and Navy and Marine Corps drill teams replaced the beer stands that fueled some of the formal marchers in the past. The Memphis Alcohol Commission, under pressure from some merchants, refused to grant the necessary permits.

The biggest parade around New Orleans was also held Saturday, in the city's Irish Channel. Thousands of people lined up in the neighborhood near the river, where Irish immigrants once settled, and grabbed for a flying Irish stew as parade participants threw cabbages, potatoes and carrots.

In Los Angeles, overlapping parades were held Saturday downtown and in Hollywood, the result of disagreement at City Hall.

For two years, city councilman Gilbert Lindsey headed a parade in his downtown Ninth District. But this year, councilman Mike Woo, whose district includes Hollywood, was joined by councilman David Cunningham in proclaiming a Hollywood parade. The two sides refused to compromise.

Georgia's weeklong celebration began Saturday with a parade in Atlanta featuring clowns, color guards, Irish setters and Irish wolfhounds.

While Atlantans celebrated early, Savannah residents prepared for the coastal city's 162nd annual St. Patrick's Day parade Monday when banks and schools were to close so an anticipated 250,000 spectators could see 30 marching bands and 40 floats.

Panel discussion topic: Women in 'men's jobs'

By CARRIE FLESZEWSKI
Staff writer

Careers for women in areas typically reserved for men will be the topic of a panel discussion titled "Women in Non-Traditional Roles" at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

The discussion, the first of two recognizing Women's History and Awareness Month, is being sponsored by the EIU Foundation and the Women's Studies Council.

The panel consists of the Rev. Carol Pagelsen, a Presbyterian minister; Rochelle Funderberg, a litigation lawyer; Vicki Starwalt, Coles County probation officer; and Susan Accord, a state police officer.

Janet Norberg, an Eastern speech communication instructor, will moderate the discussion.

Each panel member will talk for about 20 minutes about personal triumphs and difficulties encountered working in a job previously considered "men's work."

Funderberg has practiced law since receiving her juris doctorate from the University of Illinois in 1981.

Funderberg said she has been mistaken for a court reporter on several occasions.

"Everyone assumes the woman in the courtroom is the stenographer, but the people's views are slowly changing," Funderberg said.

Pagelsen is the first woman minister in Coles County.

Pagelsen, now at the Presbyterian Church of Neoga, was voted into her position by the congregation, showing their readiness to accept her as the first woman minister at the church.

"Women need to get out and support each other, to form a network like men have had for years," Funderberg said.

The panelists hope to show this is being done each day as more women step into the work force and gradually erase the lines that separate a "female" job from a "male" job.

A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

gray area of home rule into a black and white solution. The bill would have opened the door for municipalities to tax sales made on university property.

But the bill didn't get past Gov. James Thompson, who put an amendatory veto on the bill stipulating that tickets for athletic events were exempt. It then failed to override Thompson's veto after being re-introduced.

Questions remain on whether it will be re-introduced to the state house and senate this year as the bill's sponsors said it is only a "possibility."

Sen. Patrick Welch, D-Peru, and Rep. John W. Countryman, R-DeKalb—both major sponsors of the bill last year and both from NIU's district—said they were unsure if the bill would be introduced again.

Countryman said he would fear a "university power play" to prevent taxes on tickets to athletic events.

DeKalb officials indicated they will continue their suit with or without the bill.

"The fact that the (recent legislation) was killed doesn't mean we can't do it. We're operating under the (state's) constitution. Even under absence of legislation we feel we are correct—this is not a tax upon the university. It's a tax upon the individual.

"If you are operating a retail or hotel business—which you are—you are no different than any other operator in the city," Shapiro said.

The original bill would have allowed for home rule cities to tax sales of school books, supplies, and parking spaces and sales to theatrical performances and athletic contests—all as primarily non-educational.

State representative Mike Weaver, R-Charleston, said he voted last year for the legislation and recently said he would do so again.

But Wednesday, Weaver changed his view and said he would have trouble agreeing with a bill that characterized school books and supplies as primarily non-educational and taxable.

"If those things are included, I would definitely be against it," Weaver said.

Ranney-Koehler contest tops primary race

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A tight contest for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination and a three-way Democratic treasurer's battle-highlight Tuesday's Illinois primary, already overshadowed by early skirmishing in what is expected to be a bitterly fought gubernatorial race.

That skirmishing has brought the toughest rhetoric of the fledgling campaign season, with Gov. James R. Thompson accusing Adlai E. Stevenson of running a "Chicken" campaign and Stevenson warning the governor to a "big, bubbling, harpooned what."

The primary is a formality for both Republican Thompson, who is running unopposed, and Democrat Stevenson, who faces only token opposition.

In Chicago, seven special aldermanic elections could determine whether Harold Washington will grab control of the City Council for the first time since 1983, when he was elected the city's first black mayor.

State Rep. Judy Koehler faces Chicago businessman George Ranney for the GOP U.S. Senate nomination. The winner will take on incumbent Democratic Sen. Alan Dixon, who in almost four decades in politics has never lost an election.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer, incumbent James Donnewald is being challenged by former treasurer Jerome Consentino and political activist Patrick Quinn, a commissioner of the Cook County Board of (Tax) Appeals.

Also on the Democratic ballot, incumbent Attorney General Neil Hartigan, who abandoned an early bid for governor to seek re-election, squares off against Chicago Alderman Martin Oberman.

State Board of Elections officials predict between 24 percent and 27 percent of the state's 6.1 million registered voters will cast ballots, the lowest turnout since 1978.

The Republican Senate race was a contest few wanted to enter despite pleas from Thompson and other GOP leaders that a big-name candidate was needed to top the fall ballot. Dixon faces only token opposition in the Democratic primary.

Mrs. Koehler, who was first elected to the Illinois House in 1980 and made a name for herself as an arch-enemy of legislative pay raises, has tagged Ranney a "limousine liberal."

She opposes legalized abortion, gun control and the Equal Rights Amendment, calls herself a staunch Ronald Reagan Republican and defines her political philosophy as "less government, less taxes, less regulation, less intrusion into our daily lives."

Ranney, an Inland Steel Co. vice president, said last week he had been too much of a "gentleman" campaigner

Election countdown soon

(AP)—Stumping by the Rev. Jesse Jackson and singer Roberta Flack in Chicago and a host of events, including a rally for opponent Martin Oberman in Attorney General Neil Hartigan's backyard, were on the agenda Sunday as the countdown began for Tuesday's primary election.

However, the primary is a formality for contenders for the state's top job. Republican Gov. James Thompson is unopposed in his campaign for an unprecedented fourth term, and his Democratic challenger Adlai Stevenson faces only token opposition.

Besides the primary election for statewide offices, Tuesday also is the day Chicago voters go to the polls in a special election made necessary by a federal court order to remap some aldermanic districts.

The remapping was ordered so the racial makeup of districts would be more fairly represented. Seven wards will have special elections, which could shift the balance of power in the City Council to allies of Mayor Harold Washington.

Washington planned to join Flack and Jackson—an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for president in 1984—at a rally for 37th Ward aldermanic candidate Percy Giles. Miss Flack and Jackson also planned other appearances on behalf of aldermanic and congressional candidates.

and was tired of his opponent's attacks. He called Mrs. Koehler a "loose cannon, an embarrassment."

Ranney, who is making his first bid for public office, hopes to parlay a last-minute advertising blitz into victory. He bills himself as a fiscal conservative and more of a moderate on social issues than Mrs. Koehler.

He served as deputy budget director for Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie and helped overhaul the state's budget system and draft the law that implemented the state income tax.

Stevenson and Thompson, meanwhile, have spent the last six months taking political potshots at each other in a warmup for the fall campaign.

Thompson defeated Stevenson in the 1982 race by 5,074 votes out of 3.6 million votes cast, the closest margin ever in a statewide race.

Stevenson, a former U.S. senator, has promised to wage a more aggressive campaign than in 1982, when he accused Thompson of trying to portray him as a "wimp."

Symphonic band 'caught the spirit' at Dvorak show

MIKE HELENTHAL

Eastern Director of Bands Tom Brawner said the members of the EIU Symphonic Band "caught the spirit of the pieces" at a concert given by the band last night at Dvorak Hall.

Brawner, who has been at Eastern for a year, said he is able to work well with the students to get a good sound because of their "good attitudes towards the rehearsal."

Brawner said, "The students in this band are just students who like to play, that's why rehearsal is so much easier."

The concert, which Brawner promised would contain a variety of music, did just that by offering selections from modern to classical music. The program included "The Golden Jubilee," a John Phillip Sousa march; "Let us Break Bread," an American hymn; a transcription of an orchestra piece, entitled "Phedre"; and a Henry Mancini arrangement of "Days of Wine and Roses."

John Bringaze, a freshman music education major at Eastern, said that he thought the band "had a good strong sound with a wide variety of music."

Others said that they enjoyed the concert and wished it had lasted longer.

Brawner said that he was pleased with the attendance of the concert. "300 programs were printed and 300 were given out."

With 75 programs going to the band, Brawner estimated that there were at least 225 people in attendance.

Brawner said the band will begin rehearsing Monday for its next performance set for the April Celebration.

AB questions Student Publications budget

By CAROL ROEHM
Staff writer

The Student Publications budget for the 1986-87 school year sparked several questions by the Apportionment Board at its meeting Thursday night.

Student Publications, represented by John David Reed, journalism department chairman and acting Student Publications business manager, is requesting a budget of $396,660, an increase of $43,655 from its current budget.

"This a 7 percent increase over last year's budget primarily in the sales and service area that is generated by publications," Reed said. "We are not asking and have not asked for an increase in student fees for three years."

Included in the budget request is an increase of $2,250 in administrative payroll which is allotted at $19,250 for next year. This will raise the salary of administrators who teach courses and also supervise publications.

Also requested is $39,840 to purchase additional camera equipment, two laserwriter typesetters, two Mac-plus computers which display area composition and interfacing equipment.

During deliberations of the Student Publications budget, AB members questioned the granting of the equipment request, citing that if AB granted the "computers" to Student Publications then "all the other organizations" would expect computers also.

Reed, who was not present during deliberation of the budget, said, "The computers we have now set type and don't show area composition. We (Student Publications) don't buy equipment unless we have the money.

"AB is not 'giving' us the computers. They only give us student fees of which we aren't asking for an increase. The student fees we collect now only pay for the printing of the yearbook and the purchasing of newsprint paper," Reed said.

In other business, AB deliberated on the remaining eight University Board committee budgets. The committees of performing arts, lectures, homecoming, Crazy Daze and summer programming received no initial cuts.

The Video Tape Committee received a cut of $120 in the Promotions Programs fund of $600 to decrease the number of posters purchased that advertise shows and movies in the video lounge.

A motion failed to cut $1,600 in the Promotions Committee's equipment fund of $4,420 to decrease the number of Motorola HT-90 radios purchased from eight to three.

The General Costs Committee received a cut of $320 that was allotted at $520 for refreshments served at workshops and UB recruitments.

Surveys will determine number of campus residents

By JANET SIWICKI
Staff writer

Housing surveys will be placed in mailboxes on April 7 of students living in residence halls to determine the number who will continue to live on campus next fall, Housing Director Lou Hencken said Thursday.

The survey will ask if the resident would like to cancel his housing contract or if he has any room or hall requests.

Assignments will be posted in the residence halls on April 29, Hencken said at Thursday's Residence Hall Association meeting.

Students who live off campus can expect information concerning on campus housing to be sent to their addresses.

Hencken said about 3,000 new and off-campus students have already applied for fall housing in the residences halls.

"We're up about 190 over last year. Of that 190, 180 are women," he said.

On-campus residents can expect information on March 31 asking if they plan to live in the halls during summer sessions.

Hencken said prices for the summer are as follows: intersession, single room $222, double $182; five week, single $308, double, $224; nine week, single $474, double $409.

Prices include 14 meals per week, he said.

In other RHA business:

•Student Body President Floyd Akins told RHA he "would appreciate any comments on how we're handling" the REJECT issue.

REJECT is a campaign engineered by sophomore Jim East and former student John Best, to oust Charleston Mayor Murray Choate.

The senate tabled the resolution to remove Choate from office for a second successive week to research the issue.

•Tracy Frederick, senate housing committee chairman, said Legal Service Director Steve Davis will speak at three residence halls Tuesday about the legal aspects of off-campus life.

Davis will speak at 6 p.m. in Commons, 7:15 p.m. at Lawson and 8 p.m. at Stevenson.

•A Housing Fest will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday in the University Grand Ballroom. Frederick said landlords will be present to talk about their leases.

Show choir concert at Dvorak Hall

By MAX MATHIEU

The Show Choir, The Collegians, will take stage for its first open campus community concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Dvorak Concert Hall.

The Show Choir consists of 24 singers and dancers. The group is accompanied by a seven-piece brass section coordinated by graduate student Anderson.

The instructor Robert Hill, who served as director and choreographer, will direct the concert. He is assisted by Kendria Schroeder, a graduate student in the choral music department.

Performing solos will be freshmen Kim Peterson, seniors Chris Riley and Darren Tuggle, and sophomores Anthony Gravitt and Brian Downen, Hill said.

The show is free and open to the public.

Play's length dilutes humor until final act

By LOBBES

Neil LaBute's play "Little Murders," currently running at the Charleston Community Theatre, is a comedy about the violence surrounding a New York family and how they deal with it.

The play takes place in the front room of the family apartment.

The main characters, Kenny Newquist (Michael O'Brien) and his sister, Patsy (Mary Bower), live in New York city where they are constantly harassed by prank callers and other people of perverts.

Kenny, Kenny Newquist (Michael O'Brien), is a nihilist (someone worse than a pacifist) who does not feel anything for anyone and avoids any kind of commitment. Because of his philosophy, he gets into trouble almost every day.

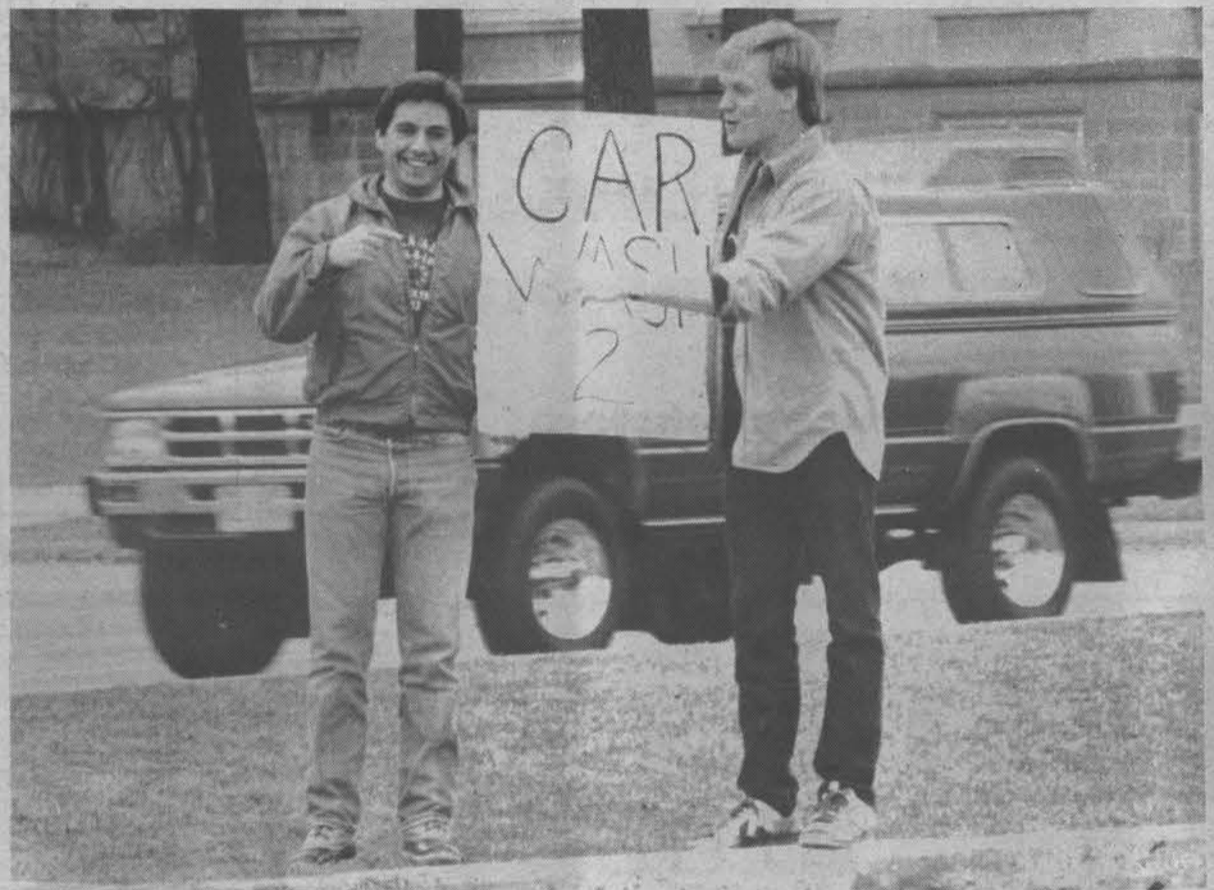

Patsy is able to change him because of her strong personality.

The appearance of Judge Jerome Stern (Derek) helped show Alfred's stubborn attitude.

Overall, his character was less than believable because of his attempted New York dialect, which no one could understand. The play started out much too slowly and went on without a visible conflict. The slowness had little effect on the humor, but the humor at the end was good.

Although the acting was good, it could have been better if they had brought out the farce, which briefly appeared at the end.

Panthers drop 2-of-3 against Murray State

Twin-bill loss clouds weekend

DAN VERDUN
Senior sports editor

MURRAY, Ky.—Injury-bitten Eastern limped to a slow start in its season-opening series by dropping two of three games in a weekend set at Murray State.

After rolling to a 10-5 win in Saturday's opener, the Panthers lost the ends of a Sunday double-header to 12 and 6-5 scores.

Eastern will thus carry a 1-2 record heading into its spring break road trip to Florida. Murray State is 5-7 on the season.

The Panthers—playing without the services of injured pre-season All-American pitcher Brian Corn and ace starter Terry McDevitt—had little trouble with Murray State in Saturday's single game.

Eastern freshman Stan Royer was a star in his very first collegiate game. The Charleston High School graduate hit a three-run home run in his second at-bat to put the Panthers on top.

Royer, who turned down an offer to play with the Atlanta Braves' farm system out of high school last summer, also collected a single.

"Royer played an exceptionally good game at third base," Eastern coach Tom McDevitt said.

Junior catcher Tim Torricelli also hit a homer for Eastern. The senior's lead tripper was a two-run shot in the second to give Eastern a 10-3 cushion.

Left fielder Ken Turner—coming off a hamstring ailment—drove in three runs in the Panthers, and center fielder Brian Smith went 2-for-3.

Senior right-hander Dave Goodhue pitched 6½ innings to earn the win for Eastern. Senior Jim Wilkins pitched the final 2½ innings for the Panthers, but did not record a save.

"We made several mistakes, but we had some good defensive ball,"

McDevitt said. "We've got a ways to come yet."

But, the Panthers' fortunes did not continue Sunday's double-header.

Game one was all Murray State. The Thoroughbreds raced to a 5-2 victory behind the strong pitching of Rich Garner (1-1).

While Garner held the Panther bats at bay, Murray State rocked Eastern starter Bill Jose for three runs—two of which were earned—in 3½ innings of work.

Senior right-hander Mike Steinkamp finished up for the Panthers, allowing two runs in 3½ innings.

The nightcap was a heartbreaker for Eastern. A two-out Murray State rally in extra innings enabled the Thoroughbreds to sweep the Panthers.

Eastern came out smoking with a three-run first inning, but Murray State answered with two runs in its half of the frame.

The Thoroughbreds later rallied from a 5-3 third-inning deficit to post the 6-5 win.

With two out in the eighth, Murray State pushed across the winning run.

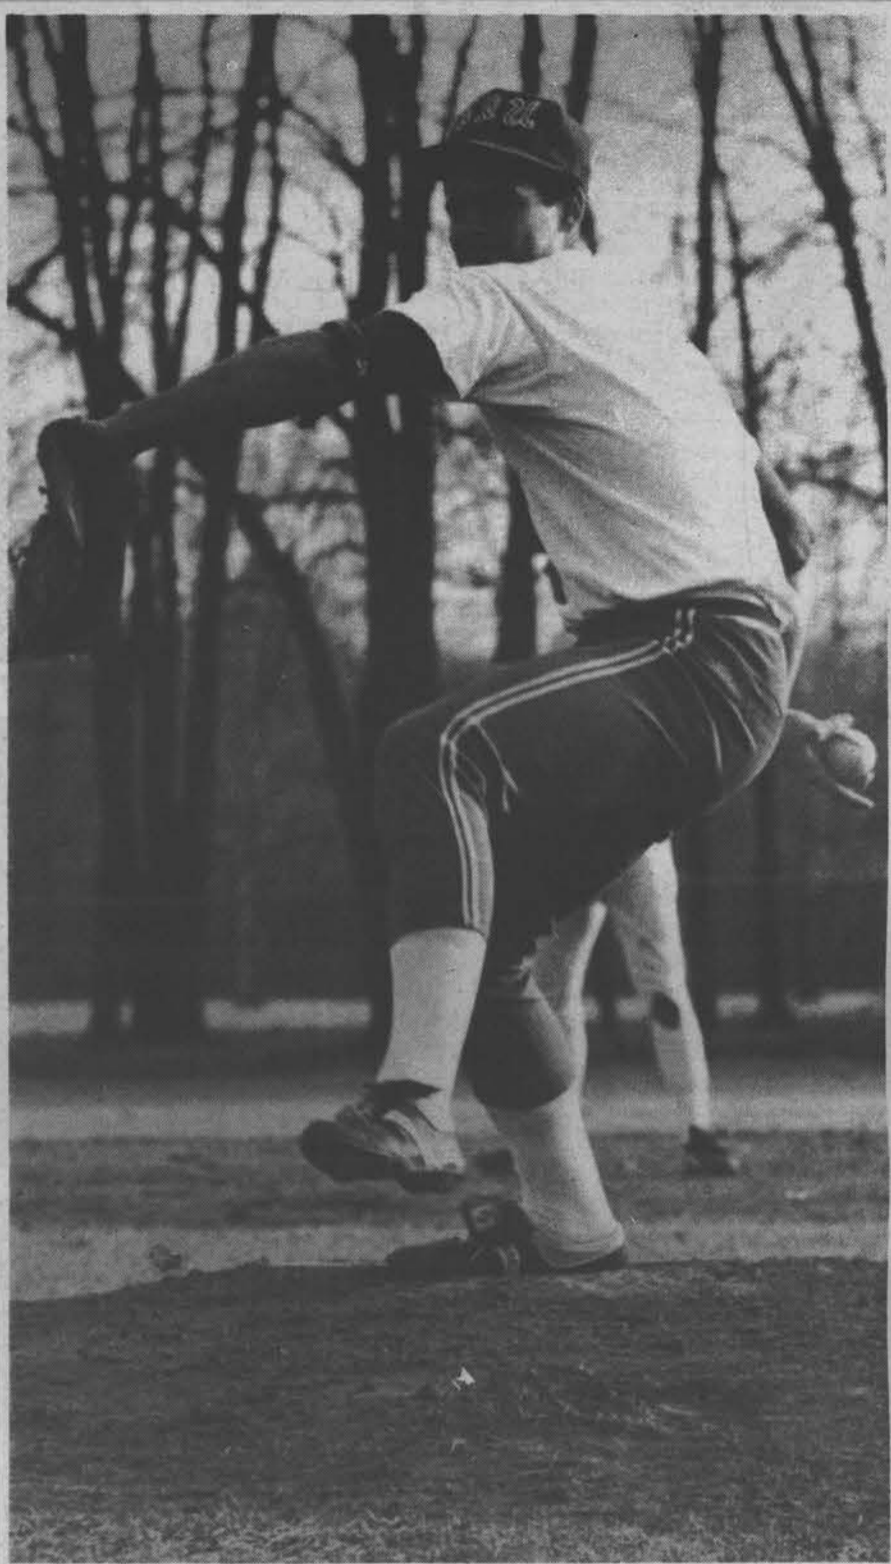

Dave Winder singled and went all the way to third on an error by first baseman Kendall Snyder. Pinch-hitter Jay Connell then drove home the game-winner with a single to left-center.

David Johnson (1-0) picked up the win in relief of starter Jim Lamber for Murray State.

Jose (0-2) was the loser in relief for the Panthers. Eastern starter Eric Hillman struck out eight in six innings, but also yielded five runs.

Snyder drove in two runs for the Panthers, while Smith hit a solo home run. Royer and designated hitter Bernie Holland each went 1-for-3.

Eastern returns to action Thursday at the Gulf Coast Classic in Panama, Fla.

Wrestlers left empty at nationals

By MIKE NELSON
Staff writer

IOWA CITY, Iowa—The competition at this year's NCAA National wrestling tournament was too strong, as none of Eastern's four wrestlers placed in the prestigious event.

"This was the national tournament, and you never know what to expect in this tournament," said Eastern coach Ralph McCausland.

The University of Iowa took the championship, setting a new NCAA record by putting six wrestlers in the finals.

Two of Eastern's wrestlers were eliminated after the first round. Chris McFarland (158) and Demetrius Harper (heavyweight) both had short weekends, as they were eliminated after the first day of action.

McFarland drew a tough opponent in Ken Haselrig of Clarion University. Haselrig was seeded 7th in the tournament. Haselrig defeated McFarland by a narrow 7-4 margin.

Harper was pinned by Jim Nielsen of Idaho St. in the first round.

The only Eastern wrestler to have any success in the tournament was Ozzie Porter (167). After losing his first round bout to fourth seeded John LaViolette of Oklahoma, Porter came back in the consolation bracket with a 13-6 win over Bob Kuzy of Rider College. In the second round of the consolation bracket, the 167-pounder was beaten handily by Brad Loyd of Lockhaven College 12-0.

"I was a little disappointed by the outcome of the tournament," McCausland said. "I was expecting us to win a few more matches."

Eastern's other qualifier, Keith Presley (150), lost his first round match to fourth seeded Adam Cohen of Arizona State. In the consolation bracket Presley was beaten by Alan Richburg of Fresno St. 7-4.

"This is a pretty overwhelming tournament, and none of these guys have been there before," said McCausland said. "It was an experience I hope they enjoyed. Just being in the national tournament is prestige in itself."

On the season, Presley finished with a 22-14 overall record. McFarland ended his Eastern career with a 35-5 record in his senior year. During the season McFarland tied the Eastern school record for most consecutive wins with 23.

Porter finished his senior year with a 30-7 record, and Harper wrapped up the season with a 27-11-3 mark.

Upsets mark second-round weekend action

East

Syracuse 85, St. Joseph's 69
 SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—David Johnson scored 35 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked seven shots in a performance he termed a sluggish performance to upset Syracuse 97-85 Sunday.

The 15th straight win for 17th-ranked Navy came in the Carrier Dome in Syracuse, where the ninth-ranked Crimson Tide have seldom lost this season.

Johnson is satisfied with the effort of Johnson, a 61 percent foul shooter who came into the game, who hit 21 of 23 free throws. Navy was 41 of 52 from the foul line as it boosted its record to 14-1. Dwayne 'Pearl' Washington led the Tide, 26-6, with 28 points.

Cleveland State 75, St. Joseph's 69

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Cleveland State, which had 23 points from Ken McFadden, 17 from Clinton Smith and 16 from Clinton Smith in the battle of unranked teams. The 14th straight victory for the Spartans, 29-3.

Joseph's, 26-6, took a 32-28 lead in the first half. The jumpers by Geoff Arnold.

Southeast

Alabama 58, Illinois 56

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Illinois could have used some of Navy's foul shots. The 19th-ranked Illini did not get a single free throw, while Alabama hit for six for nine from the line.

Terry Coner's 12-foot shot from just inside the foul line was the winner for the Crimson Tide, who had blown a 13-point halftime lead. Buck Johnson's block of a baseline attempt by Efrem Winters with 26 seconds remaining set up the winning goal for Alabama, 24-8. Illinois closed at 22-10.

Kentucky 71, W.Kentucky 64

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Kenny Walker hit on all 11 of his field-goal attempts and scored 32 points, pacing third-ranked Kentucky to its 13th straight win in only the second meeting between the two schools, which are located 120 miles apart. Western Kentucky won the other game, 107-83 in the 1971 NCAA tournament.

Kentucky, 31-3, built a 16-point lead with just under 11 minutes left, then Western Kentucky, 23-8, rallied to cut the lead to 63-59. Kennard Johnson led Western Kentucky with 20 points.

Midwest

N.C. State 80, Ark.-L.R. 66

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Ernie Myers scored all six of his points in the second overtime, including a 15-foot jump shot that put North Carolina State ahead to stay in another game between unranked teams.

Ken Worthy made one of two free throws with 14 seconds remaining to send the game into overtime, 56-56. With Myron Jackson scoring six of his 23 points, the Trojans led 61-56, but North Carolina State battled back and Bernie Bolton sent the game into the second extra period at 64-64 when he hit a 15-footer with 15 seconds left.

Iowa State 72, Michigan 69

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Jeff Grayer scored 16 points and Ron Virgil added 14 as Iowa State built an 11-point lead and held on to oust No. 5 Michigan, the second seed in the Midwest, which finishes at 28-5. The Cyclones, 22-10 and runners-up in the Big Eight, are coached by Johnny Orr, who led Michigan to the Final Four in 1976. Current Michigan coach Bill Frieder was Orr's assistant.

Auburn 81, St. John's 65

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The loss by St. John's meant that all four finalists from last year were eliminated this weekend. On Saturday, Memphis State, Georgetown and Villanova, the defending champion, were beaten.

The fourth-ranked Redmen couldn't handle powerful Auburn on the boards, especially Chuck Person, who scored 27 points and pulled down 15 rebounds. The Tigers, 21-10, had 39 rebounds to only 22 for St. John's.

St. John's All-American Walter Berry had 20 points. Mark Jackson, who set an NCAA single-season assist mark this year, had 12 assists for St. John's, 31-5.

UNLV 80, Maryland 74

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The 11th ranked Runnin' Rebels were led by Anthony Jones, who was held to one point in the opening 15:27 of play. Jones scored 17 of his 25 points in the second half.

Two keys to UNLV's victory were its low total of turnovers, just four, and its 40-36 advantage in rebounding. The Rebels had a 27-19 rebounding advantage in the second half.

Pitching trio leads Tigers over White Sox

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—An RBI by Darrell Evans produced the only run but it was enough as Petry, Chuck Cary and Willie Hernandez combined on a five-hitter and the Tigers to a 1-0 exhibition victory over the Chicago White Sox on Sunday.

The triumph improved the Tigers' record to 7-3. The White Sox are 5-3.

Simon Simmons singled in the fourth, went to second on a sacrifice by Lance Parrish and scored on a two-out double to left.

The White Sox, who left seven men on base, never got a runner past first base.

Petry, 2-0, worked the first five innings. He gave up three hits and struck out three. Cary, a rookie left-hander, gave up one hit in the two innings he worked and Hernandez finished up, also allowing one hit. Hernandez notched his second save of the spring.

Bruce Tanner, 0-1, worked the final four innings for the White Sox. He gave up four hits and struck out one. Bill Long pitched the next two innings for Chicago, giving up one hit and Gene Nelson finished up, yielding a pair of hits.

Padres blank Cubs

Four San Diego pitchers, led by the five-inning, no-hit performance of starter Eric Show, combined to hurl a four-hit shutout as the Padres blanked the Chicago Cubs 3-0 Sunday.

Show allowed no baserunners after walking Dave Martinez in the first inning. He retired the last 14 batters he faced.

Roy Lee Jackson, Greg Booker and rookie Ed Vosberg completed the shutout as the Padres swept the two-game series. San Diego won 6-3 Saturday by scoring four runs in the seventh inning.

The two-game series drew 25,388 fans at domed B.C. Place Stadium in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Jackson gave up one hit in two innings, Booker allowed two in one inning and Vosberg one hit in the final inning.

The Padres scored all their runs in the second against Chicago starter Gary Pamerter.

Singles by Steve Garvey, Graig Nettles and rookie outfielder John Kruk loaded the bases. Mark Parent drove in the first with a sacrifice fly for the third run of the inning.

The Cubs were held hitless until rookie catcher Damon Berryhill led off the sixth with a single to left off Jackson.

Phils trim Cards

John Russell hit a game-winning two-run home run in the seventh inning as the Philadelphia Phillies broke a three-game losing streak with a 8-6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday.

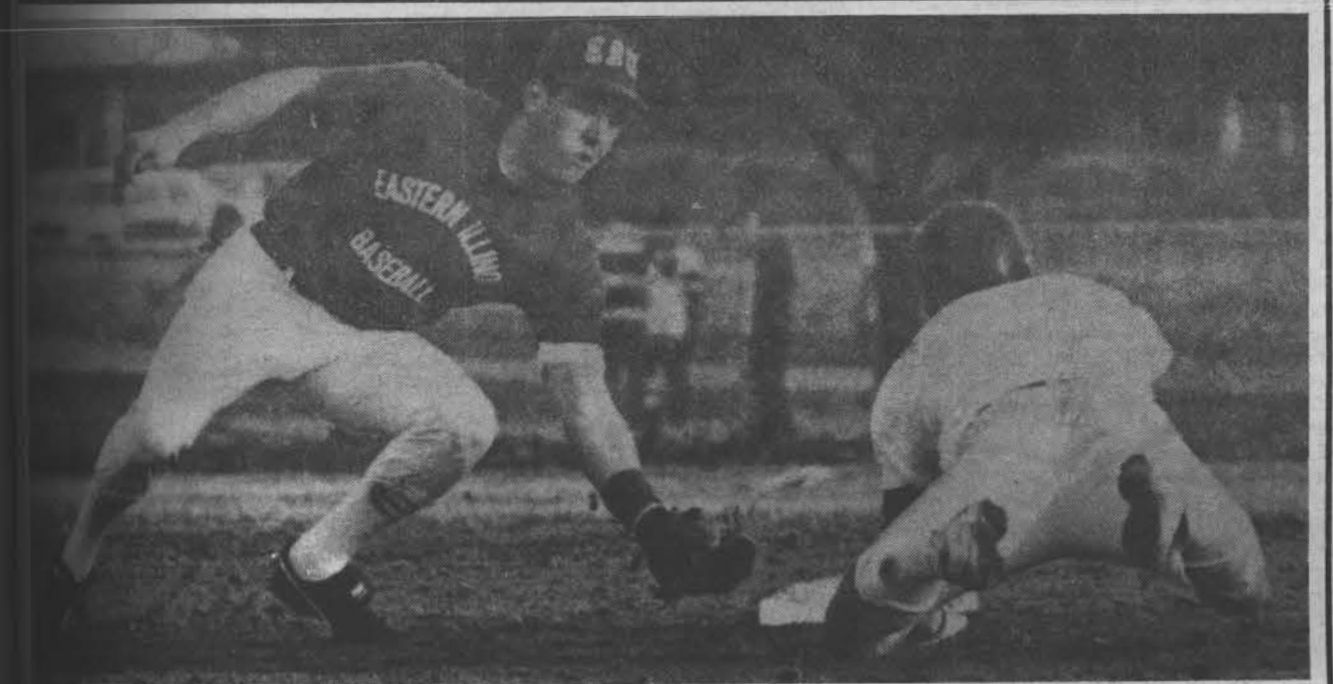

Darren Daulton's two-out single put the Phillies on the scoreboard in the first inning and another run gave them a 2-0 lead in the second. But the Cardinals came back with four runs off starter Charles Hudson in the second and two in the third.

Catcher Mike Heath, acquired from the Oakland A's, and shortstop Jose Oquendo led the surge with an RBI apiece in each inning.

Steve Carlton, Don Carman and Steve Bedrosian shut down the Cardinals on two singles in the last six innings.

Glenn Wilson hit a solo homer in the fourth and Gary Redus hit a two-run, two-out homer in the fourth to pull the Phillies to within one, 6-5.

Juan Samuel's double and Wilson's single tied it in the seventh before Russell followed with the game-winner off loser Kurt Kepshire.

Windy City welcomes Class AA champion King after title victory

CHICAGO (AP)—About 200 people, including Mayor Harold Washington, welcomed the new Class AA Illinois High school basketball champion from Chicago King on Sunday.

King's heart jumped with pride to accept the winners' emblem. Washington, who watched the presentation on television.

King earned the title with a 47-40 record in the championship game over Rich Central, which defeated the Jaguars' 79-62 win over Manual in the semifinal game.

King dumped Romeoville, 75-57, in the third place. King's hours fell behind in the early going as Rich Central, led by Maurice Rayford and the brothers Gill—Kendall and Keith—grabbed a surprising 18-9 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Rayford, Charles Warnell and Bobby Smith pushed it to 27-15 midway in the second quarter before King started to roll behind All-State Marcus Liberty and reserve David Weatherall.

A three-point play by Liberty with 3:07 left in the half cut the Olympians' lead to 31-22 and two quick baskets by Weatherall made it 33-27. By the end of the half, King had moved within four points at 34-30.
