Primary to predict presidential race result

RUSSELL STARE
Government editor

The New Hampshire primaries historically have been important in predicting what presidential candidate will inhabit the White House.

Political Science Instructor Richard Goodrick said since the 1950s the winner of the New Hampshire primary has gone on to win the White House. "It's hard to argue with success."

"No one has ever won the White House without winning the New Hampshire primaries," said College Republican Bill Helmbacher.

Goodrick said one of the major factors in the primaries is the media's handling of the candidates.

"I cited a news program which aired Monday morning that said Vice President George Bush (Rep.) couldn't win the New Hampshire vote, but he had to win to stay in the race."

Goodrick said most people can only get to what is heard on television and the media is biased, a bad picture will be painted for the voters.

"George Bush must win to remain a viable candidate," said Helmbacher.

Helmbacher added, "I expect it to be a close race and I expect Sen. (Robert) Dole (Rep.) to win."

"I expect George Bush and Paul Simon (Dem.) to be presidential has-pens come Wednesday morning," he said.

University Democrat Joe Martin said, "There isn't any question Dukakis (Dem.) is going to win, but it's important for Simon to do well."

"I think George Bush is going downhill real fast."

College Republican President Tom Glasson presented a view opposing Martin's. "I think George Bush is going to win. It's a strong area for him. New Hampshire residents have historically been slow to come around and reserve their opinions until the day of the primary."

Craig Lange, student government financial vice president, said, "I think New Hampshire is a moderate state and they're going to go with a moderate like Bush."

No one felt the New Hampshire race would hold a direct bearing on the Illinois primary in March, although Super Tuesday should prove to influence Illinois.

"You have much more of a microcosm in Illinois than you have in New Hampshire," Glasson said. "Iowa and New Hampshire are battles, but not the war."

"I don't think it's going to affect Illinois as much as Super Tuesday," said Sue Pennington, student government executive assistant.

Goodrick said New Hampshire would only have an impact on Illinois "if Paul Simon or Jesse Jackson (Dem.) get knocked out" of the race following New Hampshire.

Glasson added that for the Democratic race, "I think Dukakis is clearly the winner. It's his back yard. I think Paul Simon will be washed up following New Hampshire."

"There isn't any question Dukakis is going to win," Glasson added.

Mike Madigan, former student body president, said, "Dole will win because he's the best man for the job."

"The Republican race is going to be very close. The polls may say Dole, but I like to wait till the outcome," said Student Body President Deb Camren.

"There is only one race out of the way. We still have 49 to go. You just don't know," Camren added.

She said, "Do I want to venture a guess as to who it will be? No."

Pennington said, "Dukakis will probably win. That's his area. I would be surprised if he didn't win. Simon, though, really needs to win."

Martin said of Republican Pat Robertson, "At first it was funny that Robertson was getting so much support in Iowa, but now I don't know how funny it is."

Council to discuss electrical commission

MIKE STEINER
Staff writer

Charleston may see the establishment of a City Electrical Commission if an ordinance is passed at the City Council meeting Tuesday.

The council will meet in the city chambers, 520 Jackson St., at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

As outlined in the council meeting agenda, the commission would be established to recommend and assist in the establishment of electrical codes to control and regulate electrical wiring materials and methods.

The commission, consisting of six members appointed by

—Dick Sherman

Mayor Murray Choate and subject to approval by the council, would be responsible for designing safe, practical standards for the installation, alteration and use of electrical equipment designed to meet the necessities and conditions of the particular locality.

In other council matters, an ordinance to adopt the revised 1987 BOCA property maintenance code and the BOCA basic national mechanical code will be voted on.

These codes concern the control and maintenance of buildings and structures.

The council will also vote on an ordinance to amend Charleston's 1987-88 city budget regarding the water treatment plant.

Dick Sherman, the water treatment plant supervisor, said the plant had been allocated money to be used for electrical work, but some of that work had been canceled and the remaining money will be used for other purposes in the plant.

Officials question academics

By MATT HORTENSTINE
Staff writer

Eastern's policies regarding the granting of academic credit may be inconsistent to students, because Eastern's Pink Panthers, an extra-curricular pom-pon group, receives humanities credit for its routines on the football field and the basketball court.

Receiving up to four hours of humanities credit through the course Music 0100, Ensemble Band, which is offered through the music department, the Pink Panthers are granted one credit hour per semester applied toward the humanities general education requirement.

The course, which has no lectures or textbooks, centers around the performance arts. Marching band members and Pink Panthers are not only required to attend lengthy practice sessions, but also a specialized camp before classes begin in the fall.

"It's well-deserved credit," said Pink Panther Co-Captain Jennifer Engles. "We put a lot of time into it."

"It's not just for us," she said of the 20-plus hours per week the Pink Panthers practice. "We do this for the university too."

"It is our job to get people into the 'school spirit' and project a good image of Eastern to the crowd," she said.

But dancing in front of hundreds of sports fans in sequins-speckled tights and white boots isn't exactly what Jeffery Lynch, an associate English professor and Council on Academic Affairs member, would define as justification for humanities credit.

"I've always thought of humanities as a text-oriented, structured study. And, extra-curricular activities were something you did because you enjoyed it," he said.

He said that the idea of getting humanities credit for dancing through a course offered by the music department didn't seem consistent.

"It just smells a little fishy to me," he said.

University officials weren't certain if the policy is inconsistent.

Fermilab site could save billions

CHICAGO—The U.S. government could save at least $3.28 billion by building the proposed Superconducting Super Collider at the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory in Illinois, a group of business consultants said Monday.

"We have been saying for a long time that the Fermilab offers significant savings" for the $4.4 billion project, said Donald S. Perkins, chairman of SSC for Illinois Inc., a group that requested the study and changed its name Monday to SSC for Fermilab.

The Fermilab proposal makes "this important scientific project more affordable for the taxpayer, the scientist and the nation," Perkins said.

In addition to SSC savings, the site would preserve the public's $3.4 billion investment in Fermilab at Batavia, 30 miles west of Chicago, the study said.

Added security due to mall brawl

MOLINE—Police agreed Monday to beef up security at a sprawling shopping mall after an estimated 100 teen-agers armed with clubs and barbecue forks brawled there over the weekend.

"I can't give you any numbers, but we are going to have some more officers out there this weekend," Moline Police Capt. Thomas Marxen said Monday after meeting with officials of Southpark Mall. "We are confident there won't be any more problems out there."

Three 15-year-olds from nearby Rock Island were arrested on disorderly conduct charges Saturday after at least 100 teen-agers, some armed with branches, clubs and barbecue forks started fighting near a Walgreen store at the mall, police said. Those arrested were released later that day.

School opens amidst controversy

CHICAGO—After two years of controversy over the makeup of its student body, gleaming South Loop Elementary School opened its doors Monday to youngsters from a rainbow of racial and economic backgrounds.

"There are no more Hilliard Homes children and Dearborn Park children. They are all South Loop children," declared Principal Joan Fron.

There are problems. Some low-income youngsters can't attend until third grade, which their parents say will put them at a disadvantage. And there may be problems ahead maintaining the required racial balance among the student body without overcrowding.

But Bob Saigh, the city Board of Education's spokesman, is optimistic.

"They won't allow this school to fail. . . It's being set up to succeed instantly—in fact, I think it's already succeeded," he said Monday.

The board worked out the student-body compromise for the $5.5 million school, featuring special fine arts and science facilities, and a staff of teachers that parents helped choose

Candidates make last-ditch pitch to New Hampshire primary voters

CONCORD N.H. (AP)—Vice-President George Bush forecast a win, but Sen. Bob Dole showed confidence Monday as the GOP presidential field sprinted for the finish line in a tight New Hampshire primary race. Democrat Michael Dukakis said his expected win might be smaller than predicted.

Bush campaigned side by side with former Sen. Barry Goldwater, patron saint of conservatives, as he threw all his campaign could muster into a bid to arrest Dole's weeklong surge and regain his own political footing.

One candidate after another posted hopeful predictions of a surprise when New Hampshire voters render their verdict in the nation's lead-off primary on Tuesday.

"I don't know where all those political pundits are today, but they ran for cover four years ago and they're likely to run for cover tomorrow," said former Delaware Gov. Pete Du Pont, back in the pack in the GOP race.

Rep. Jack Kemp, his GOP candidacy on the line, held out the hope of a second-place finish that would confound the pollsters. "I'm going to finish in a good competitive third or higher," he said.

Democratic Sen. Paul Simon also facing tough times if he falters, said he was sure he would defeat Rep. Richard Gephardt in second place. Referring to Dukakis' commanding lead in the polls, he said, "I think there is the possibility of a real surprise coming tomorrow."

Fellow Democrat Bruce Babbitt, far off the pace in the polls, said, "I'm anticipating a strong showing and a surprise but I can't put a number on it."

Former television evangelist Pat Robertson bid to deal with the tempest that arose over his claim that the Soviet Union has offensive nuclear weapons in Cuba

Robertson's rivals criticize claim of Soviet nuclear missiles in Cuba

WASHINGTON—Pat Robertson said Monday he wouldn't "back off" his assertion that there are Soviet missiles in Cuba, drawing an emphatic denial from the White House and skepticism from a man identified as his source. Campaign rivals blasted the assertion as "outrageous" and "rash."

Robertson told a GOP candidate's forum in Dover, N.H., that "the least we can do in this is get those nuclear weapons out of Cuba," a reiteration of statements he had made Sunday during a debate.

On Monday in California, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said SS-4 and SS-5 missile sites established in Cuba in 1962 "were confirmed as having been destroyed in that year, We also are confident that the missiles were removed from Cuba at that time.

"We have had extensive intelligence collection directed at Cuba since 1962 and have no evidence that SS-4, SS-5 or other strategic missiles have been deployed there," Fitzwater said.

Asked whether he was denying any offensive nuclear weapons are deployed in Cuba, Fitzwater said, "Exactly."

Vice-President George Bush said in an interview Monday that "I'm confident this (Robertson's assertion) is not true."

"This is a very serious allegation," Bush said in the interview on a Manchester, N.H. radio station.

Bloodshed reported in Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP)—Police fought Palestinians in the holy city Monday, and hospital officials said an Arab was wounded by gunfire. It was the first bloodshed reported in Jerusalem since the riots in the occupied lands began Dec. 8.

In the West Bank town of Kfar Salem, 40 miles north of Jerusalem, military investigators questioned four young Arabs who say Israeli soldiers using a bulldozer buried them alive after a protest Feb. 5.

"I am afraid. I thought I was going to die," Abdel Latif Mahmoud Ishtiah, 19, said soon after he was questioned in a white police van. "I dream about it all the time."

Maj. Gen. Amram Mitzna, military commander in the West Bank, said a sergeant-major from the military government and two or three other soldiers were involved and would be tried.

In another case, the newspaper Hadashot said three soldiers of the elite Golani brigade were given jail terms of at least 15 days each for violating orders against excessive use of force. The army said it had no information.

According to U.N. figures 800 Arabs have been killed by Israel since protests begin in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Soviets authorities stage protest against United States

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R.—Soviet authorities staged an outdoor rally to protest alleged U.S. interference in Baltic affairs Monday, and officials cracked down on nationalists to prevent protests marking Lithuania's short independence.

About 2,000 people gathered in Gediminas Square in central Vilnius for the official rally. Protesters kept their hands in their pockets and chatted with neighbors during the hour long protest, and then quickly disappeared down the city's narrow streets.

Tuesday marks the 70th anniversary of Lithuania's declaration of independence on Feb. 16, 1918, only months after the Bolshevik revolution brought Communists to power in Russia.

Lithuania, along with the neighboring Baltic states of Estonia and Latvia, was absorbed by the Soviet Union in 1940, a year after the Ribbentrop-Molotov Pact between Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union consigned most of the country to the Soviet sphere of influence.

About 80 percent of Lithuania's 3.6 million people are of Lithuanian descent, the highest percentage of any of the Baltic republics.

Authorities made it clear they would not tolerate any show of nationalist sentiment Tuesday.

Lithuanian Foreign Minister Vladislav Mikuciauskas, asked by foreign journalists who traveled from Moscow on a trip sponsored by Soviet Foreign Ministry if people could mark the independence day, said: "Personally, yes. But it is forbidden to organize anything."

Lithuanian nationalist Nirole Sadunaite said Communist Party authorities had distributed a warning in offices and factories that taking part in protests Tuesday would be considered an "anti-Soviet act."

The crackdown represented a hardening of the Soviet leadership's line on protests by ethnic groups. Officials allowed peaceful demonstrations in Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia on the Aug. 23 anniversary of the German-Soviet agreement.

The United States never recognized the incorporation of the Baltic states by the Soviet Union, and U.S. politicians still speak out in support of Baltic nationalists.

Estonian nationalists plan to mark the anniversary of their declaration of independence on Feb. 24.

Eastern student recovering from weekend auto crash

Eastern sophomore Kerri Defranza suffered a broken jaw and concussion the result of a weekend automobile accident in Chicago.

According to her roommate, sophomore Susan Moehn, Defranza was a passenger with two other girls riding in the back seat.

As a result, the car following behind them. The driver of the trailing car was driving on a suspended license, Moehn said.

About two hours later, Moehn said.

the driver of the first car was apprehended. He was given a sobriety test which registered just below the drunk driving limit.

He was, however, ticketed for leaving the scene of an accident, Moehn said.

Moehn said Defranza is expected to be released from the hospital on Wednesday.

The City of Chicago Police Department said it would be ten days before a report on the accident was filed.

Student is arrested after he gets kicked out of frat party

Charleston police gave an Eastern sophomore a St. Valentine's Day present in the form of an arrest when he was taken into custody following a disturbance early Sunday morning at the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house.

David W. Sweeney, 21, from Hickory Hills, was arrested on misdemeanor charges of criminal damage to property about 3:10 a.m. Sunday at the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house, 962 St. St., after he allegedly kicked in the house's front door.

Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said Sweeney allegedly kicked the front door and shattered the door's glass pane with "a karate chop" when he became upset after he was asked to leave a party attended by 30 to 50 people.

Sweeney, of Hickory Hills, also became involved in a scuffle when an argument ensued outside of the fraternity house, Johnson said.

Johnson added that some people received "minor injuries due to the broken glass that shattered from the door."

After police had been dispatched to the door kicking incident, Johnson said Sweeney was arrested a short distance from the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity house when he allegedly ran from police officers when the patrol car arrived.

With the class A misdemeanor charges pending against him, Sweeney could face maximum penalties of not more than one year in jail and not more than a $1,000 fine.

Simon hopes to surprise Dukakis on his home turf

HOLLIS, N.H. (AP)—Democrat Paul Simon, shifting his focus to Michael Dukakis, said Monday he was gaining on the leader and looked for a "real surprise" in New Hampshire's leadoff presidential primary.

Dropping his attacks on Richard Gephardt, with whom he was dueling for second place, Simon sought to cut into Dukakis' support and contended he could win outright.

Polls have shown the Massachusetts governor holding a two-to-one margin over Gephardt and Simon.

"I think increasingly the race is between Michael Dukakis and me," the Illinois senator said. "What is clear now is we have moved into second place in contention with Michael Dukakis."

Simon stood on a snowy roadside at the New Hampshire-Massachusetts border and pleaded for voters to "assert their independence" and not back Dukakis merely because he is a neighboring governor.

"There is a difference between me and Michael Dukakis, a difference in experience, a difference in commitment," he said.

Simon came to New Hampshire a week ago after finishing a close second behind Gephardt in Iowa. With his campaign in debt, Simon went on the attack with television commercials that accused Gephardt of flip-flopping on a range of positions.

He dropped those ads on Sunday and replaced them with commercials that portray Dukakis as a colorless bureaucrat lacking in vision.

Simon stuck to this theme of being an unrepentant liberal as he tried to chip away at Dukakis' lead on the final day of the campaign.

He cited education, jobs, long-term care for the elderly and infirm, arms control and foreign policy. "Where is Michael Dukakis' program for long-term care?" he asked.

"We need more than the talk of a miracle," Simon said in a deliberate reference to Dukakis' claim to have engineered a "Massachusetts miracle" economic turnaround.

Simon is widely believed to need to finish second in order to continue a viable campaign. He acknowledged his vulnerability even while predicting a good showing.

"I think it is tightening," he said. "I think there is a possibility of a real surprise come tomorrow."

Does that mean you could win, he was asked.

"That is correct," Simon said.

But he added later, "We have to do well in New Hampshire, and I am going to do well. If we do poorly, we could have to re-evaluate."

Hart supporters say he'll get votes in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Forget about Donna Rice, Gary Hart's Illinois supporters say. Ignore discouraging poll results, a makeshift campaign organization and allegations of campaign finance irregularities.

When Illinois voters go to the polls in the March 15 primary, Hart's supporters say the former Colorado senator will be in a better position than he was four years ago to capture crucial delegate votes.

Hart is only four candidates short of a full slate of 113 delegate candidates statewide, a dramatic improvement over 1984, when supporters were running in only 42 of 116 delegate races. Hart's supporters point to his efforts in fielding delegate candidates as evidence they have built a viable Illinois campaign.

Officials

Language, General Education and Majors is looking into the matter of students receiving academic credit for student activities.

"This is a very touchy situation," said associate zoology professor Kandi Baumgardner, chair of the committee.

"We've got to take this one step at a time."

She said in light of the fact that the university accepts internships and some workshops and seminars for academic accreditation, there may be several things offered by the university that aren't necessarily academic.

Baumgardner would not comment on the committee's, or her own, stance on the matter. She added that the committee's recommendations will be released in its final report at the end of this semester.

She did say, however, that the problem seems to be in the defining of academic credit.

In apparent support of Baumgardner, Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, said while he cannot predict the outcome of the committee's study, there may be a problem with the coherence and definition of granting academic credit.

"If there is structure and professional advisement of the activity, I am in support of giving credit," he said.

"We've got to be consistent, but I think that this problem will have to be worked out in light of the committee's study," he said.

Kindrick wouldn't give his personal stance on the subject of Pink Panthers receiving credit for their performances.

However, he did warn that if structure and proper advisement were "completely absent" in any class or activity, he would be concerned.

Consequently, while marching band members are supervised by Tom Brawner, Eastern's director of bands, the Pink Panthers are sponsored by Irene Williams, a non-teaching faculty member and a former Eastern student.

Deb Camren, student body president and CAA member, said there may be serious problems in the consistency of the university policy.

"It's kind of disturbing to me," she said. "There are a lot of people on this campus putting a lot of hours into student activities and not getting anything for it."

"I'm not against Pink Panthers getting credit, but I'm against inconsistency," she said. "I have to ask the question: 'If they get it (humanities credit), why don't I?'"

Engles agreed that consistency should exist within the university's policy of granting credit.

"I'm for consistency, but dance is art. I think that qualifies what we do as a humanity," she said.

However, Engles added getting credit isn't the sole reason why 80 or more women try out for one of the 15 spots on the Pink Panther squad each year.

Booters gain tourney semis

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Eastern's soccer team participated in their final indoor soccer tournament of the season over the weekend as they traveled to Bridgeton, Mo., for the National Collegiate Indoor Soccer Tournament and got to the semifinals of the tournament before losing to Florrisant Valley Community College of North St. Louis County 4-2.

Mosnia used the indoor season as a chance to evaluate the players that didn't get much of a chance to play during the outdoor season. "It gave us a chance to take a look at our players and evaluate what they need to work on, as well as see what we need to recruit for," Mosnia said.

Over the weekend, three freshmen were the booters' best players. Defender Russ Bogdonavich, goalie Dave Middleton, and forward LeBaron Hollimon all had outstanding tournaments, according to Mosnia. "Russ was very strong at fullback for us," Mosnia said. "Dave had a great tournament and played very well. LeBaron didn't play much because he was ill, but when he did get out there, he was very effective."

Eastern opened group play in the tournament by beating Benedictine College of At-cheson, Ks., by the score of 4-1, then came back later the same night to defeat Lewis and Clark Community College of Godfrey, Ill., 7-4. The Panthers spotted the Bucks a 4-2 lead in the third quarter before storming back with five unanswered goals in that match.

The Panthers ended group play by knocking off McKendree College of Lebanon, 6-1 before meeting up with Florrisant Valley.

The Norsemen scored two quick goals from the start and were never behind in the 4-2 game. Flo Valley lost the championship game to Indiana 2-1.

game. Eastern continued its recent pattern of hot free throw shooting as the Panthers hit 17 of 20 attempts from the line.

"We banked on the fact we can make free throws when we go into the delay game," Samuels said.

In the AMCU's key game Monday night, Cleveland State defeated Southwest Missouri State 76-63 in Cleveland. The Vikings victory places the two teams in a tie at the top of the conference with 8-2 league records.

Eastern travels to Springfield, Mo. Saturday to meet Southwest Missouri State in their next contest.

"Nothing gets easier in this league, but we're having fun right now," Samuels said.

Swim teams split weekend

BRENT FEENEY
writer

Eastern's swimming teams the road this weekend and defeated Valparaiso on Friday, 101-85. Northern Illinois on Saturday.

The men's team beat the Panthers 67-43 while the women also upended the Panthers 67-37 on Friday.

It was a different story on Saturday when the Huskie men defeated the Panthers 124-78 while the women were bounced by Northern 122-74. The split between the men at 2-8 for the weekend, while the women went 1-8.

"We just came off of two weeks of hard work," Coach Lance Padovan said. "We've been coming back lately, and I think we were looking ahead (to the upcoming Midwest Championships)."

The biggest part of our work is done now," Padovan said, "and about this time of the year, the season starts catching up with you.

Lance Kröll led the way for the Panthers by winning the 1,000-yard freestyle in 10:43. Jay Hunt scored two victories, going 1:50.1 in the 200-yard freestyle and 4:59.5 in the 500 free.

Brian Weaver also had two wins, the 50 free in 23.7 seconds and the 100 free in 51.9 seconds. Senior Tim Schnittker won the 100-yard butterfly in 53.8 seconds, while Sean Brock won the 100-yard backstroke in 56.8 seconds. The 200-yard medley relay team won in 1:49.1, while the 400-yard freestyle relay team won in 3:23.9.

Senior Mary Napolski led Eastern's women with a win in the 1,000-yard freestyle in 12:19.2, while Carolyn Guditis took the 200 free in 2:03.9. Betsy Watkins won the 50 free in 26.7 seconds, while Elizabeth Curvey won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:08.9.

Becky Zukowski was the women's only multiple winner, winning the one-meter diving with 150.7 points and the three-meter diving with 144.9 points. Jan Rhudy won the 500-yard freestyle in 5:52.1, while Stacey Peterson won the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:14.1. The 200-yard medley relay team won in 2:00.5 and the 200-yard freestyle relay won in 1:48.7.

Eastern had three winners on Saturday against Northern. Schnittker won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:16.0, while Brock won the 200-yard backstroke in 2:02.7. The women's 200-yard freestyle relay won their event in 1:48.1.

Chicago defeats Atlanta

CHICAGO (AP)—Michael Jordan didn't want Monday's game against Atlanta to end in a shootout with Dominique Wilkins, so he decided to get teammates involved.

Jordan scored 32 points and grabbed 13 rebounds, leading Chicago Bulls past the Atlanta Hawks 126-107.

"I really wanted to get my teammates involved, especially the way we lost three of the previous four games, being under 75 points twice and shooting less than 40 percent," Jordan explained.

Jordan also had eight assists as the Bulls dealt Central Division-leading Atlanta its first loss in nine games. It was the 34th time this season Jordan has scored 30 or more points in a game.

Chicago, winning its 18th game at home against seven opponents, had a 25-15 run in the last 9:06 of the third quarter to pull ahead 94-70. Charles Oakley scored nine of his 19 points and Brad Sellers added 11 during the decisive fourth quarter.

"I purposely came back in the fourth quarter even though we had a big lead to keep the players' concentration on line," Jordan

Sellers, who had 17 points, and Wilkins to 15 points in the last three quarters. Wilkins finished with 25 points while Scottie Pippen added 18.

Wilkins, the NBA's second highest scorer behind Jordan, scored four points in the third quarter while Jordan scored the way Jordan and Scottie Pippen got us involved in the fourth quarter was great, because we completely dominated the boards (14-5) and took away the Atlanta fast break." Bulls Coach Doug Moe said.

And other majors that don't guarantee jobs after graduation

Getting the job you want isn't easy. Especially for recent college grads. Very few majors will prepare you for a specific career, and guarantee you get hired right out of college. For the rest of you, finding something you like won't be simple. You could contemplate grad school. Or law school. Two or three more years of school, and student loans comparable to the national debt. There are very few jobs out there that require little or no experience. Jobs that you would enjoy, where the only requirement is a college degree.

The Federal Aviation Administration is now hiring Air Traffic Control Specialists. Over 3,000 of them. All you need to qualify for testing is a college degree. Any major is welcome. You don't even need any aviation experience. Consider the benefits: •Salaries to $50,000 plus •Up to 26 days vacation a year •Special retirement plan •Locations nationwide •Equal Opportunity Employer.

Graduation will be here soon enough. Consider a civil service career with the Federal Aviation Administration. For more information about a career as an Air Traffic Control Specialist, including an application, send your name and address on a postcard to:

Eastern gets 4th straight AMCU-8 win

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Staff writer

A rising Eastern basketball team met a slumping Wisconsin-Green Bay squad Monday night and the Panthers sent the Phoenix reeling further with a 70-54 AMCU-8 conference win at Green Bay.

The victory marks Eastern's fourth consecutive league win and the third collected on the road. The Panthers now hold a 13-10 season record and are 4-1 in conference play.

Wisconsin-Green Bay has a 6-4 league mark and has dropped four of its last five conference games. The Phoenix are 15-8 overall.

"Our kids are really playing well right now," Eastern Coach Rick Samuels said in a post-game radio interview. "The keys to tonight's basketball game were great individual plays."

Samuels cited strong effort by forward Tony Hemphill, who led Eastern with 19 points, and guards Jay Taylor, Ron Tate and Gerald Jones.

But Samuels said senior guard Norm Evans played the most crucial role in the victory.

"Norm Evans made the biggest plays of all," he said. "Three or four minutes into the second half, they turned the defense up to make a run. Then when Norm penetrates to the basket three or four times and nails it, I love it. I just sit back and watch."

Evans finished the contest with 10 points, six coming from layups early in the second half.

The Phoenix had pulled within four of the Panthers after Eastern held a 30-20 halftime lead. But Evans drove into the lane three times for short baskets that protected the Eastern lead.

"We didn't design any of those plays for him," Samuels said. "We had to score as they were making a run. They knew they had taken us out of our offense and we get a kid who can come through with individual play like that. That really demoralizes their defense."

Green Bay, on the other hand, did not receive the same type of individual effort. Monday they had in defeating Eastern 71-67 on Jan. 23.

Senior guard Richard Smalley led the Phoenix in scoring Monday with 21, including 11 in the first half.

But Phoenix standout Frank Nardi, who scored 23 in Green Bay's win at Charleston, could manage only four points in the losing effort and fouled out with 5:03 remaining in the game. (See HEMPHILL'S, page 11)

Corporations lend Olympians helping hand

Corporate America has once again reared its ugly head, and this time it's threatening a hostile takeover of the Olympic Games with advertising that has run rampant. It seems everyone is the official sponsor, outfitter or deodorant supplier of one U.S. Olympic sports team or another.

status, an athlete cannot get paid to play; however, he has to pay for food, a place to live and equipment to train with. Hence, the United States Olympic Committee goes to the American public and American business for money.

The Olympic Training Centers in Colorado Springs, Marquette, Mich., and Lake Placid, N.Y., are sponsored by a $1 million commitment from the Miller Brewing Company. Sure, it is good advertising for Miller, and it provides a gleaming image for a beer company, but $1 million is $1 million. Miller's commitment provides food, lodging and training facilities for thousands of athletes and coaches every year.

Budweiser is also a sponsor, providing funds for the entire U.S. Olympic Team. But sponsorship is not limited to brewing companies. The Subaru car company supplies vehicles to the U.S. Ski and Cycling Teams, and Yugo is a sponsor of the U.S. Volleyball Team. This may seem to be the height of commercialism and capitalism, but the bottom line is, it works.

There is no way our athletes could compete against the Soviets or any other country without corporate sponsorship.

"(The United States is) the only National Olympic Committee in the Olympic movement that does not receive government monies on a sustained basis," said Mike Murray of the development division of the United States Olympic Committee.

The USOC's current four-year budget, which runs through 1988, is set at $135 million. Murray said the budget is funded "100 percent from American businesses, foundations and individuals."

Providing money to our own athletes is not of concern to the federal government, but providing weapons to rebels in Nicaragua is. Just once I would like to see President Reagan propose a bill to increase government spending for amateur athletics.

Reagan is more than happy to shove his slicked back Grecian Formula rug and toothy grin in front of a television camera to congratulate our Olympic champions and invite them to the White House when the Games are over, but where is Reagan and his federal budget during the three years preceding the Olympics? Instead of a stay at The White House, how about a stay at a government-funded training center?

If you really want a taste of the advantages of government funding, pay visit to any of the military academies. Just 15 minutes away from Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs is the U.S. Air Force Academy. It's huge, it's beautiful and it has more and better athletic facilities than any major university in the country, let alone the Olympic Training Center. It is also all funded by the U.S. government, all for less than 5,000 cadets.

While the Air Force Academy sits on thousands of acres of land, the Olympic Training Center sits on just 34. In fact, those 34 acres used to be an Air Force base right in the middle of Colorado Springs. The Air Force abandoned it in 1974, and in 1978 the U.S. Olympic Committee moved in when the city of Colorado Springs offered to lease the land at $1 per year for 99 years. I wish the U.S. government could be so generous.

I think I'll go pick up a 12-pack of Miller.
