Fair share fight gains momentum

By CRAIG EDWARDS UPI
Administration editor

The fight to end fair share payments by non-union faculty at the five Board of Governors universities is gaining momentum.

The fair share provision, which requires non-union faculty members to pay a portion of union dues to cover the costs of collective bargaining, is a part of the contract proposed by the BOG in August and ratified by the University Professionals of Illinois in October.

Ron Perkovich, executive director of the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board, said Monday that more than 150 BOG employees have filed complaints about the fair share provision. Chicago State University, Northeastern Illinois University, Governors State University, Western Illinois University and Eastern are all part of the BOG system.

Perkovich said since the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled the fair share concept constitutional, the complaints can only be filed on basis of what dollar amount the fair share is. "The amount is what most of these people are protesting," he said.

But JoAnn Hummers, UPI's chief negotiator, said the fair share was determined by an audit of the union's books and reflects only collective bargaining costs. Non-union employees are currently paying 83.95 percent of the union dues, which vary according to different salaries.

Larry Janes, an educational administration professor at Eastern, is just one of the 150 employees who has filed a complaint against fair share. He said at Eastern alone, more than 80 employees have expressed interest in reversing the fair share decision. "Obviously not all of those have filed formal complaints," he added.

Janes said he and instructors at

Mayoral candidate states platform

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Managing editor

With hopes of restoring Charleston to its rightful place in Illinois, mayoral candidate Bill Heise officially announced his platform in a Monday press conference at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church.

"I will, when elected mayor, support the development of an ordinance consistent with the legal drinking age in the state of Illinois which allows no one under the age of 21 the right to enter drinking establishments," Heise said.

Heise, who was accompanied at the press conference by his wife Ann and his four daughters, two of whom are Eastern students, said he would "call upon the University to cooperate with city efforts to provide an atmosphere in which our young people can grow in an environment which does not promote activities which revolve around alcohol and drugs."

He said he would use the full pressure of the law to enforce any adopted use and abuse ordinance

County clerk's office can register student voters

Students wanting to vote in the upcoming Charleston election have until Jan. 30 to register, according to Coles County Clerk Betty Coffrin.

"Monday was the last day to register with a deputy registrar but our office will register people until the 30th," Coffrin said.

Students who registered to vote in Coles County for the November election do not need to register again. However, if students have moved they must register again since they have a new address, Coffrin said.

Election day, Feb. 28, is a primary election in which the mayor will be elected. Also, all four commissioner posts are open, and voters will vote for eight in the primary and four in the general election to be held on April 4, said City Clerk Patsy to either the buyer or seller of alcohol, and he said he would call upon owners and operators of drinking establishments to cooperate with the city to promote a positive atmosphere in which the youth of the community could grow.

When asked specifically what alternatives students would have for entertainment if such an ordinance was passed, Heise said he would utilize the present resources that Charleston has, such as the Kerasotes Theater, and would be willing to exchange ideas with the students and act on ideas that they presented to him.

Heise, who is actively lobbying for more state funding for Eastern, said he would step up his efforts if elected mayor.

"I will work with the University administration seeking additional funds for this important institution of higher learning, and assist in making the students feel a part of our community," he said.

Heise, who is a member of the Charleston Zoning Board of Appeals, said he would "seek fairness but a more rigorous enforcement of Charleston building and zoning codes to ensure the safety of our renting citizens."

Heise, who admits that Charleston's building inspector can't handle the job alone, said he would consider using the fire department when its not fighting fires, to inspect buildings and make sure the fire code is not being violated.

Heise said he would support the establishment of a new city plan, based on the most current data, which will provide a blue print for economic and community development.

He also would explore the establishment of a permanent seat on the City Council to focus specifically on economic development and community relations. Heise said the position would probably be an elected position.

Eastern makes efforts to improve Building accessibility

By DONELLE PARDEE
Campus editor

In an effort to accommodate Eastern's handicapped, some residence halls plan to have wheelchair lifts installed by the fall of 1989.

Shirley Moore, dean of academic services, said there is a new federal law stating all buildings under construction must be made accessible to students with disabilities.

In the late 70s Eastern began to check buildings to determine how accessible they were to handicapped students. These checks are now made every summer to improve the facilities.

Elevators were an option for improving access at Eastern. However, the cost of placing elevators in the buildings would cost the university a lot of money. Moore said they checked into installing an elevator in the Student Services Building, but decided against it because it would cost $775,000.

Director of Housing Lou Hencken said it would cost $130,000 to replace the elevators in Lawson Hall to accommodate the disabled.

An alternative to elevators are portable lifts, which are designed specifically for wheelchairs but are slower, Hencken said.

Hencken said Eastern is doing more to make the campus convenient to students with disabilities. A ramp was added to the outside of Thomas Hall. Ford Hall will have a laundry facility suited for wheelchairs, he added.

The administration has problems accommodating handicapped students in Pemberton, Lincoln, Stevenson and Douglas Halls due to their architecture.

In order to make the Stevenson Tower lobby accessible to students with disabilities he hopes to have lifts installed in the halls by fall of 1989.

Moore said some of the academic buildings have elevators, but the university often has problems with the elevators breaking down.

However, the biggest problem right now is with parking, Moore said.

There are not enough parking spaces reserved for the handicapped in front of academic buildings.

Three handicapped students have classes in Buzzard Building at the same time, but only two handicapped spaces are available. Moore said, "We don't have everything solved."

Sometimes it even comes down to switching the rooms where classes are held to make it more convenient for students with disabilities, Moore said.

24 die in Argentina uprising

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Armed civilians seized a small military base near the capital on Monday, and up to 24 people were killed or wounded before soldiers firing tank shells, mortars and machine guns retook most of the base, news reports and officials said.

The civilian attackers who stormed the base carried pamphlets supporting officers who have led three previous uprisings, the private news agency Diario y Noticias said.

"Militarily, the situation at the 3rd Infantry Regiment at La Tablada is dominated," the secretary for state intelligence, Facundo Suarez, told the government news agency Telam about 10 hours after the incident began.

He admitted, however, that some civilian attackers remained inside, and gunfire could be heard coming from the base as he spoke on the radio.

DyN quoted a military source it did not identify as saying at least 20 of the estimated 50 civilian attackers were killed or wounded during fighting.

Hospital officials said at least four soldiers were killed or wounded in the fighting, along with one reporter.

Bush favors abortion reversal

WASHINGTON—President Bush told tens of thousands of demonstrators Monday that abortion on demand is an "American tragedy" and said he favors reversal of the landmark Supreme Court decision legalizing it.

Speaking by telephone hookup to activists gathered near the White House on the 16th anniversary of the historic Roe vs. Wade decision, Bush said he believes that ruling "was wrong and should be overturned."

The new president made the call shortly after Vice President Dan Quayle also assured anti-abortion leaders that the new administration supports their cause.

"I wanted to share with you my deep personal concern about our American tragedy abortion on demand," Bush said.

"I think America needs a human life amendment," he said.

Nervous traders told to be calm

CHICAGO (AP)—Officials at one of the nation's largest futures exchanges asked nervous traders Monday not to overreact to a sweeping federal probe of fraud in the markets, but warned "we will deal harshly with violators."

The Board of Governors of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange met Monday morning to discuss the two-year federal investigation and issued the letter, urging traders to be calm.

The letter came days after revelations that federal authorities have been investigating the Merc and the Chicago Board of Trade for two years on allegations that as many as 100 brokers and traders systematically cheated customers out of millions of dollars.

Undercover FBI agents posing as traders recorded conversations about the alleged fraud, which led to subpoenas of traders and records. The investigation became public last week, sparking panic in trading circles and sales of seats on the exchanges.

Commodities exchanges are market places in which buyers and sellers essentially bet millions of dollars on the future prices of goods ranging from gold to Treasury bills.

Greeks monitor rush acts

(Editor's note: This is the third in a six-part series focusing on Spring Fraternity Rush.)

The Interfraternity Council expects a successful rush because they sent out campus-wide rush schedules including a description of the greek system, said rush chair John O'Reilly.

O'Reilly said the council is trying to change "the perception of the greek community."

O'Reilly said this year's rush seems to be better than last year's, although it's might be to early to tell.

O'Reilly and Interfraternity Council president Scott Koslov have stopped in on some of the houses to monitor, but no problems were found.

The council had pledged to monitor the events this year because of past improprieties. "We are doing the checks because of problems in the past," O'Reilly said.

There will be random checks on a different houses each night instead of going to all the houses in one night, O'Reilly said. "We

Award, replacement search topics of Senate agenda

Eastern's Faculty Senate will discuss faculty excellence awards at a 2 p.m. meeting Tuesday in the Union addition Martinsville Room.

Bill Heyduck, chair of the faculty excellence awards committee, outlined the procedure for nominations in the University Newsletter. He said there are 43 awards available this year with monetary awards of $1,000 each.

Senate Chair Gary Foster said Eastern President Stan Rives will attend Tuesday's meeting. "President Rives has asked me to serve or designate someone to serve on the athletic director search committee," Foster said. He added that the appointment will be discussed during the meeting.

The 12-member committee will conduct a nationwide search to replace R.C. Johnson, who left Eastern in December to accept the athletic director position at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

In other business, Foster said the senate will hear the minutes from a Jan. 17 meeting of the Council on Graduate Studies. The council reviews curriculum for Eastern's graduate school.

Counselor training open for volunteers

By MATTHEW GEUTHER
Staff writer

They're looking for a few good people.

They are the Sexual Assault and Counseling Information Service (SACIS) and the few good people being looked for are volunteers who want to become sexual assault counselors.

On Feb. 5 the center will begin training for counselor certification.

SACIS Director Bonnie Buckley said, "We're looking for people interested in social work and people who want to make a difference."

A minimum of 40 hours training is required by an Illinois Confidentiality Act for rape crisis counseling.

The six-week long classes will meet on Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and on Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m., which totals 42 hours class time.

All classes meet in the ground floor classroom of the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center, Route 16 near Charleston.

Buckley said the college-age counselor is an invaluable asset because high school and college-age victims relate more readily to someone their own age.

SACIS operates locally out of Lawson Hall, but the service is for the entire Coles County area. "We work closely with Coles County Mental Health and we try to offer victims some choices," Buckley said.

Buckley said she thinks the service helps the victims and gives an alternative to "someone who is experiencing a terrible time in their life."

Anyone interested in the training can call the SACIS office at 348-5033.

The 24-hour Crisis Line numbers are 348-7666 or 234-6405.

BSU meeting welcomes guest

By LORI HIGGINS
Staff writer

The Black Student Union will discuss upcoming community projects at their Tuesday meeting.

The assistant director of the Student Housing Office will also speak at the meeting to be held at 6 p.m. in the Paris Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The members of BSU are planning one community project, Bowling-for-Kids Sake, said BSU president Audra Bowie said.

"We are getting a team together to bowl for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Coles County," Bowie added.

A special addition to the meeting is a speech by Kevin Cannon, Bowie said. Cannon, the assistant director of the Student Housing Office, will be giving a speech about motivation.

Also on the agenda for the meeting, the first one of the spring semester, is the upcoming Miss Black EIU pageant.

The theme for the pageant is "Visions of Ebony", said Bowie. As it stands, there are five contestants.

The pageant is scheduled for Feb. 25 at 8 p.m. Bowie said tickets will go on sale the week of Feb. 20. The tickets will sell in advance for $2.50. At the door the tickets will be $3.

Parent Appreciation Weekend, scheduled for the weekend of the pageant, will also be discussed at the meeting. Bowie said the theme for the weekend is "Merging of the Heart."

The Parent Appreciation Dinner will also be held from 5 to 6:15 p.m. Feb. 25 at the Rathskellar in the Union. For adults and students, tickets for the dinner will be $8.50, and for children they will be $4.50.

Bowie also said they will be planning a recruitment night for those who want to join BSU. It will be held Jan. 31.

Off-campus education still a priority

Unlike Gov. James R. Thompson and Illinois House Speaker Michael J. Madigan, Eastern has not turned its back on educating the community.

Despite the fact that Congress has targeted Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul as one of 86 military bases that may be closed as early as 1990, Eastern will continue to find a new home for its off-campus education programs there.

For more than 15 years, Eastern has been offering educational programs to the Rantoul community, including extension courses, continuing education courses and several master's degree programs.

Two undergraduate degrees, the Board of Governors degree and a career occupations degree, are available to Rantoul area residents.

About 400 students are enrolled in Eastern courses at Chanute this semester, two-thirds of which are military personnel and their dependents.

Jim Good, the coordinator of on-base continuing education courses at Chanute, said the continuing education program is popular among millions of military personnel because it allows them to start earning college credit while they are serving time in the armed forces.

Although Chanute may close and military personnel may not have the opportunity to enroll in classes there, Eastern is still searching for another home to continue offering extension programs and continuing education classes for residents of the Rantoul community.

William Hine, dean of adult and continuing education, said Eastern is looking for alternative sites in the Champaign County area to continue its commitment to providing off-campus education outside of the Coles County area.

Eastern's commitment to providing educational opportunities to the Rantoul community of 20,700 is optimistic despite the possibility of the closure of Chanute Air Force Base.

Hopefully, Eastern's attitude toward providing a good education to everyone will carry on to our legislators in Springfield.

Quote of the day...

“ Education is the first resort as well as the last, for a worldwide solution of the problem of freedom.

H.M. Kallen”

There's one man in the state of Illinois that could probably care less whether or not you get a decent education.

His name is Michael J. Madigan. He's a Democrat from Chicago and through some sort of misfortune, he holds the office of speaker of the House of Representatives in the Illinois General Assembly. As the presiding officer of the House, Madigan calls the shots. What he says usually goes.

And to be blunt, funding for education is not one of his top priorities.

As most of you already know, the state of Illinois is really hurting for cash to fund education from preschool through the college levels. For three years, school districts across the state have been crying for more money to pay their teachers and maintain quality educational programs.

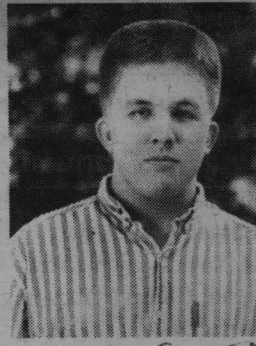

This year, things haven't changed.

Gov. James R. Thompson, has twice asked the state legislature to approve an income tax increase to restore funding to the state education budget. In 1987, he proposed a state budget that called for a 20 percent income tax increase. But lawmakers, led by Madigan, rejected the idea.

Then in 1988, Thompson proposed a 40 percent income tax increase in the final weeks of the legislative session. This time, Thompson had the support of three of the four key leaders in the Illinois General Assembly. Only Madigan remained totally opposed to an income tax increase and Thompson's second attempt for a tax increase collapsed.

Meanwhile, college professors across the state left Illinois to take better paying jobs at other universities and the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body, targeted students for a tuition increase or two.

Now, in 1989, when the need for an income tax increase is especially vital, Thompson announced he was not going to actively pursue an income tax increase largely because he feared Madigan would only thwart his efforts once again.

Jeff Madsen

So who do we turn to now?

In the case of higher education, since the BOG couldn't get extra funding from the state through tax increases, it came to us for the money - twice. In the spring of 1988, it increased tuition by $96. This spring, the BOG pinched students for another $120.

But we can't blame the BOG, it really didn't have much of a choice. If you're going to blame anybody, blame Mike Madigan.

And if the state cash flow continues to dwindle, Eastern President Stan Rives has announced he will cut the enrollment of the university by 1,000 students over a five-year period. For each year over the next five years, 200 students will not be admitted to Eastern. It wouldn't be fair to admit them anyway because they wouldn't get the kind of education they paid for.

But Madigan says the picture isn't as bleak as Thompson, the State Board of Education, the BOG and Eastern administrators are painting it. In a statement, Madigan said he didn't think Illinois was suffering from any "calamities" because he had blocked three attempts at a tax increase.

Madigan obviously is not concerned with the fact that although Illinois is one of the wealthiest states in the nation, it ranks close to dead last in per-student funding for higher education. And he's not worried that college tuition in Illinois has jumped 140 percent over the past eight years.

Madigan is not concerned that if Illinois can't properly educate its students today, it won't stand a chance in tomorrow's industry.

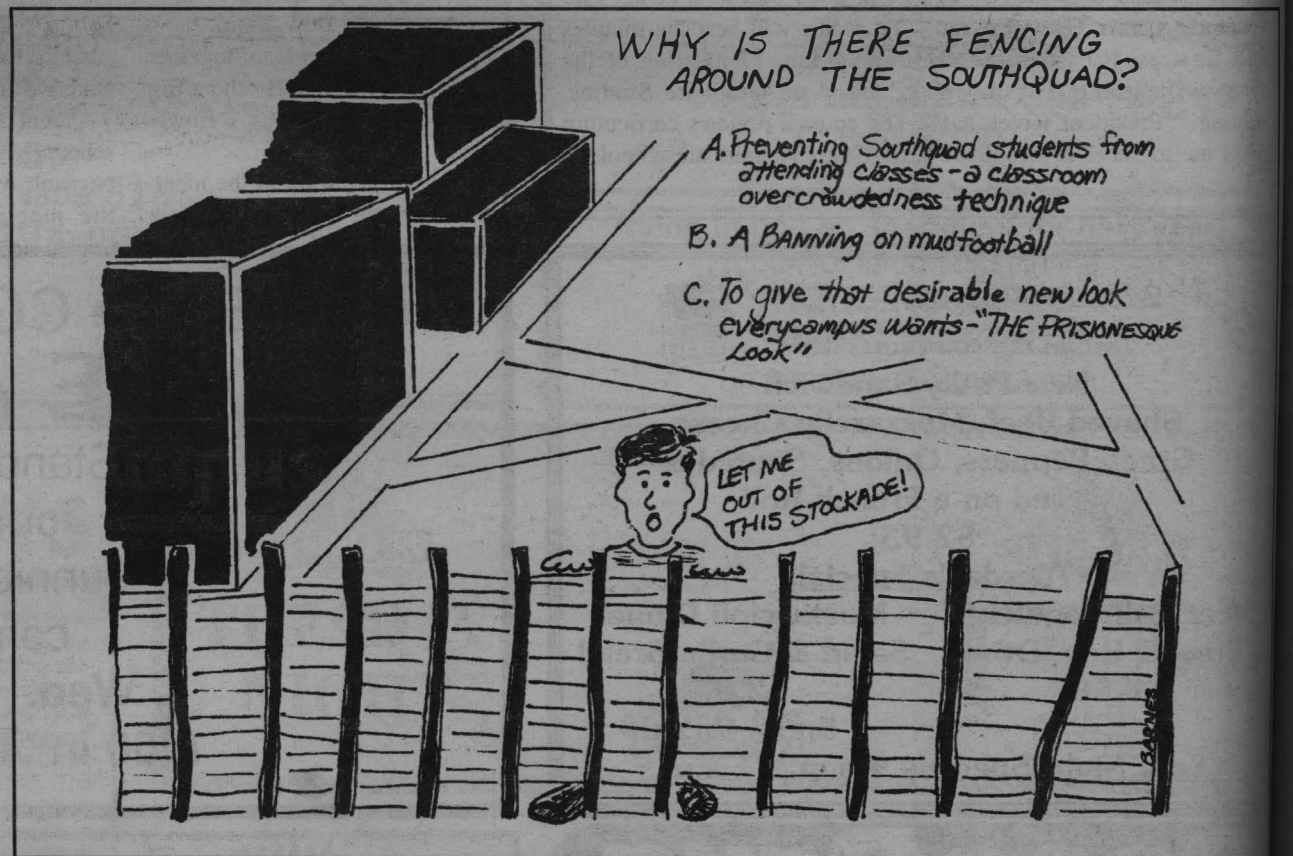

What Madigan is concerned about though, is himself.

An editorial in the Chicago Tribune reported that Madigan's Chicago law firm just made $5 million by convincing Chicago Mayor Eugene Sawyer and 31 other Chicago alderman into approving a land deal at O'Hare Airport that will rob Chicago taxpayers of at least $100 million.

He is building personal wealth at the taxpayers expense while at the same time, turning his back on education.

There's nothing like having a man in office who knows what's best for the people.

Your turn

Forum opens for education majors

Dear editor;

This is a notice to all education majors. The Idea Exchange will begin again next week. Watch the Campus Clips for time and place sometime next week. A tentative date has been set for Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Buzzard Building.

In case you don't know what the Idea Exchange is, it is for anyone in education interested in sharing and obtaining ideas for future teaching. The Idea Exchange meets bi-weekly for approximately 45 minutes. You may come and go as you please, but please bring an idea to share.

The first meeting this semester will be brief, an organizational meeting where we will decide how to distribute lessons and etc.

All interested students are welcome.

Student upset with LaRoma's

Dear editor;

On Sunday, at about 5:15 p.m., I ordered an extra-large pizza from LaRoma's Pizza, 363 W. Lincoln Ave. The pizza arrived in 45 minutes (15 minutes late) and it was cold. I called back and talked to the manager who said she would return my money right away. An hour later, I called back and talked to the manager again. She referred me to the owner and called me an obscenity. After arguing with the owner for five minutes, he had called me "stupid" and "an idiot." I asked him if he realized I was a paying customer? In return, he hung up on me.

Finally at 8 p.m. I got my money back. LaRoma's Pizza certainly needs to develop some customer appreciation or customers may choose to patronize elsewhere.

Plans for library discussed

CATHY PODWOJSKI
Government editor

A meeting with a Champaign architect to discuss possible renovations of Booth Library will be open to all students Tuesday afternoon in the library.

Architect Robert Gruber said he asked for the meeting to find out what changes students would like to see in Booth Library. The meeting will be from 1 to 2 p.m. in the BOG Room, M-128, in the library.

Gruber said he encourages all students to attend so the renovations will meet their library needs.

Gruber said he wants to know what improvements the students would like to see and how the library could be of more service to the students. He asked that no library officials be present so the students won't feel intimidated about any complaints they may have.

Gruber said he will discuss development on two levels, short term and long term, to get a basic idea of the time needed and costs necessary for the renovations.

"For the short term changes, we're looking at leaving everything intact, but doing some minor remodeling and reorganizing," Gruber said. "We're talking minimal money needed for these changes."

"The university is attempting to get this planning together so they can determine what kind of money will be needed for the long term changes," Gruber said.

other BOG universities have contacted the National Right to Work Committee for assistance in arguing their complaints. Representatives from the committee could not be reached for comment Monday.

Perkovich said all of the fair share complaints will be consolidated and a hearing will be scheduled for the spring. In the meantime, he said fair share dues are being deducted from the paychecks of non-union employees and placed in an escrow account until a decision is reached.

A LOOK AT BLACK HERITAGE

THE DAILY EASTERN NEWS BLACK HISTORY MONTH ESSAY CONTEST

A noble past - a proud future

The month of February will be a celebration of black American Heritage at Eastern. To increase awareness and gain insight into the black experience The Daily Eastern News is sponsoring an all-campus essay contest.

Contest rules:

1. Entries should be 500 words or less. Essays should portray a person, a time period, or an event - local or otherwise - which promoted the advancement of blacks or deal with the role of blacks in American society. Essays may also address ways in which a student could promote this advancement in the future.

2. The contest is open to all students, with the exception of those currently working for Student Publications and any past editors of these publications.

3. Entries must be submitted to the Daily Eastern News office no later than 4 p.m. FRIDAY, FEB. 10.

4. Judging will take place the week of Feb. 11-18.

5. Essays and photos of the top three winners will be published on the editorial page of The Daily Eastern News the week of Feb. 20-24.

6. Prizes will be awarded prior to the Miss Black EIU Pageant on Feb. 25.

CONTEST PRIZES DONATED BY:

Rives names athletic director search committee

By BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Eastern President Stan Rives announced Monday the members of the committee that will conduct a nationwide search to replace former athletic director R.C. Johnson.

Last month Johnson accepted the athletic director position at Miami (Ohio) University.

Robert Saltmarsh will head the 12-person committee that includes: Barbara Richter, dean of the College of Applied Sciences; Mike Riordan, student body president; J.W. Oglesby, Charleston businessman and member of the Panther Club Board of Directors; Roger Dettro, Mattoon mayor and Panther Club board member;

Larry Ankenbrand, associate dean of the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; Gary Foster, Faculty Senate president; John North, chair of the secondary education and foundations department; and Lou Hencken, director of housing.

Three ex-officio members were included: Judy Anderson, director of affirmative action; Ron Paap, associate athletic director; and Charles Colbert, associate vice-president for academic affairs.

Rives said the committee was formed with representatives from the whole university.

"What you have is as wide range (of representation) as possible," Rives said.

Rives said the committee would devise its own procedure to narrow the field to 3-5 finalists.

"I don't get involved until the final number," Rives said.

Although the search will be nationwide, the committee would also consider local candidates in its search, Rives said.

Interim athletic director Joan Schmidt has indicated she would apply for the position.

Rives said the final candidates should be "quite serious in their commitment to NCAA rules and regulations, the graduation rate of the student athletes and operating the budget in the black."

Oglesby also served on the committee that chose Johnson for the position in 1980.

"We would look for the same qualities that we did with R.C.," Oglesby said.

"Education would be a main requirement of the candidates. The student-athlete getting an education is important."

The cost of the search is unknown, Rives said. "It depends on where the (final) candidates are coming in from."

Rives estimated the cost to be around $5,000, "which would not be unusual for a search for any department head."

An off-campus interview committee consisting of people from area communities will be included in the interviewing of the final candidates, Rives said in a press release.

"The target date for a new athletic director being on duty is July 1, 1989 ... sooner if the search can be completed, and a recommended candidate is available," Rives said.

Forget about the Bud Light Daredevils; Jay Taylor put on the best show Monday at Lantz Gym.

Taylor scored a Lantz Gym-record 47 points to lead Eastern (7-10) past Chicago State 106-87. But Taylor wouldn't take all the credit, and it showed in the lesson he gave after the game.

"My high school coach taught me something," he said, holding up his closed right hand. "When you've got the fist, you've got unity. When you've got an open palm, you've got nothing. We had unity tonight."

Taylor's 47 points was also a personal high and an Association of Mid-Continent Universities record. But more importantly for the Panthers, that unity produced a win and some newfound confidence.

"We're improved in two areas," Samuels said. "We're able to maintain our intensity, and we're doing a better job of taking care of the ball."

But the night still belonged to Taylor.

Eastern had trouble pulling away from the Cougars in the first half, and the Panthers led only 48-42 at the intermission. The Bud Light halftime show must have been the opening act because Taylor was the main event once play resumed.

Taylor scored Eastern's first 11 points of the second half, and the Panthers extended their lead to 59-48 with 17:13 remaining.

"The thing is he scored 47 points and only took 22 shots," Samuels said. "The three-point shot helps. He got 18 from three-point range."

Taylor's six three-pointers and the team's 11 were both school records.

And on the bench, his teammates were tabulating the points as Taylor approached the Lantz scoring mark of 35.

"We were kind of counting his points. We were excited about that," said Eastern forward Joe Hamilton, who had a game-high eight rebounds, including seven on the offensive end. "Tonight he played like an All-American. The guys on Chicago State couldn't hold him."

But Samuels had a greater concern when he removed Taylor with 1:19 left, and the fans — a season-high 5,101 — chanted,

"We want 50!"

"I wasn't sure of his total when I took him out," Samuels said. "I knew he had the Lantz Gym record. I also knew I didn't want to gamble on him getting hurt. It was getting rough inside."

But the Panthers were appreciative of the boisterous crowd on hand.

"The crowd got behind us tonight," Hamilton said. "We need that. The crowd can really get us going."

The all-time Eastern record for points in one game is 56, set by B.J. Smith in 1959.

Track squad rolls to victory in triangular

Eastern's track team looked to get its main competition from Southeast Missouri State; Florissant Valley was not expected to do too much.

So when Florissant Valley scored only 17 points Saturday in the EIU Triangular, it was not a surprise. The surprise was that SEMO would manage only 14 with a partial team, while Eastern dominated with 134.

"This is very disappointing because we were really looking for some good competition, and it was very spotty," Eastern coach Neil Moore said. "As far as fielding a full team here, I don't see why they couldn't have."

Eastern won 15 of the 16 meets.

35-pound weight toss, freshman Brent Miller won with a throw of 42-1/2.

In the pole vault, Eastern took the top two spots, freshman Joe Gianneschi capturing first place. In the long jump, senior Tim Gately emerged victorious.

Junior Scott Stecken took the high jump. Miller took the shot put, with junior Brad Alewelt taking second.

In the only event that Eastern lost, Aaron Quarles of Florissant Valley won the triple jump. Eastern sophomore Dennis Stuhler took fourth.

Every running event was won by the Panthers. Freshman Clint Weber took the mile run, with junior Steve Conlon taking second. Junior Don Glover took the 55-meter high hurdles, with senior Robert Flot finishing second.

Senior Ian Isaacs won the 400-meter dash. Glover won the 500 meter dash, with sophomore Dan Steele taking second.

In the 55-meter dash, junior Jared Thompson gained the top spot and in the 800-meter run, senior Al Oaks ran away from the competition.

In the 200-meter dash, Thompson won again, with junior Greg Heggs taking second. Freshman Eric Baron won the 3000-meter run, while freshman Rob Dowell came in second.

Eastern teams won both the mile and two-mile relays.

"There were a lot of people that should be commended," Moore said. "Don Glover looked very good in the high hurdles. It's the best high hurdles race that I've ever seen him run. Jared Thompson won the 55, 200 and took third in the long jump. Both should be commended."

Lady track takes 7th

In its indoor season opener Friday, Eastern's women's track team finished seventh out of nine teams at the Purdue Invitational, scored only 10 points and had placed no individual finisher higher than fourth.

"We didn't perform as well as I thought we would," head coach John Craft said. "However, we have our first competition under our belts, so we can see where we need to improve."

If Craft wants some improvement, he will likely need better performances from Lorry Plutz than her outing in West Lafayette, Ind., Friday.

Plutz could muster only a seventh place finish in the 200-meter dash at 26:09, and joined Pam Kinkelaar, Tracy Hoffman and Nicole Lucas for a sixth-place showing in the mile relay at a time of 4:09.89.

"Sometimes you run well and sometimes you don't," Craft said of Plutz's performance at Purdue. "Lorry's a good athlete, but I'll give her the benefit of no doubt because she will run better."

Even with the dismal outing, the Lady Panthers did turn in some decent performances at Purdue.

Laurie Mizener returned to action after missing the end of her cross country season with undisclosed illness, and finished fifth in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 17:54.8.

Mizener not only turned in her best effort of the meet for Eastern
