U.S. intervention in Central America protested

By MATT MANSFIELD

Brandishing handouts reading "stop the hands off El Salvador" and signs pronouncing "$3 billion tax dollars bought 70,000 deaths," several members of Students in Solidarity With the People of Central America (SISPCA) protested U.S. presence in Central America Wednesday.

To the chant of "stop the bombing, stop the war, U.S. out of El Salvador" the group of about 15 people protested on the north side of Klehm Hall near campus ROTC headquarters.

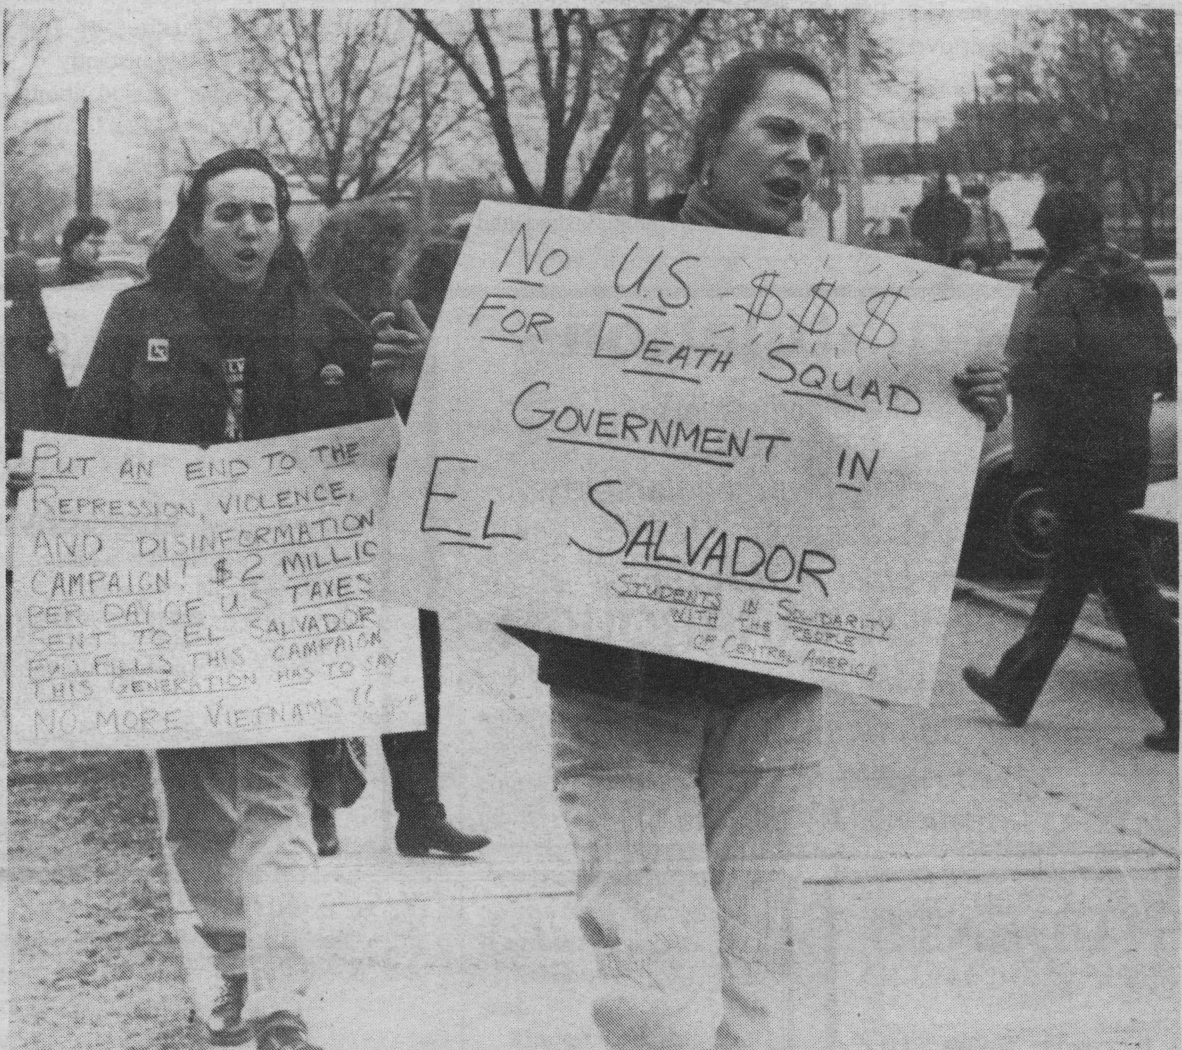

SISPCA asked ROTC members to join the protest because if U.S. involvement in El Salvador escalates following this Sunday's elections, SISPCA members believe National Guard troops and ROTC students could be sent to Central America.

SISPCA President Brooke Webster said members want the government to know that they don't want their tax dollars going to the kind of "senseless activity" the government promotes.

And Webster said the group wants to educate and inform. "We're trying to help ROTC."

But Pam O'Connor, a junior who is in ROTC, said she thinks the group hasn't done enough research. "I think they need to get their facts straight before they stage a protest because I think they're off base."

However, ROTC Lt. Col. Lloyd D. McCammon had little comment on the situation or the protest. "All students should be concerned about the affairs of their government," McCammon

And he said he believed in the protestors rights: "they're (the protesters) just out there exercising their freedom."

In the grass next to the sidewalk north of Klehm Hall members of the protest group have set up a mock cemetery. The crosses bare in black the names of some of the alleged 70,000 people who have been killed in El Salvador and the rest of Central America in the past several years.

The 48 crosses included one for "The Women" killed, one for

JACKIE WEBER / Staff photographer

"Some of (the) Santa Anna Massacre" victims and a cross for Ben Linder, who was killed in Nicaragua.

"We've worked very hard to put this together," SISPCA vice-president Jennifer Berkshire said. "We knew that it would be very hard to get a positive reaction out of Eastern students.

"Our greatest adversary is apathy," she added.

Senior Victor Cesario, who was a spectator, said he thinks the protest was an "ennobling futility."

Cesario said he believes more should be done. "Without violent revolution the social government will continue passifying the people."

The demonstration, which included a speech by Gretchen Kapuscik, a member of the nationwide Committee in Solidarity with the People of El Salvador (CISPES), was briefly interrupted by police. Police wanted the group to stop using the blowhorn to address the crowd, and the demonstrators complied.

Kapuscik, who recently spent two weeks in El Salvador, was on her way to Champaign to speak, but stopped to join the protest here first.

"The people are hungry," Kapuscik said in her brief speech, "...but they're fighting."

Also present for the protest was political science professor Larry Thorsen.

"I support this cause of trying to stop U.S. intervention in El Salvador and the rest of Central America," Thorsen said. "The U.S. has supported military intervention in Central America to preserve Central America for U.S. economic domination."

"We need a negotiated peace in order to bring about democracy and social and economic justice in Central America."

Student Senate votes down ISA membership

By RUDY NOWAK
Staff writer

The Student Senate rejected joining the Illinois Student Association (ISA) after a heated debate during its meeting Wednesday night.

The debate on the issue lasted for over 90 minutes and concentrated on cost effectiveness, the major issue of concern for senate members.

The vote to join ISA was split after the first vote, which prompted a roll call vote to be taken. In that vote, the 30 members of the senate split the decision, forcing Senate Speaker Jane Clark to cast the deciding vote.

"Most of the bylaws in the ISA are covered by this senate and we can do the same thing that they do without spending any money," said Roger Thomson, a senate member.

Many senate members felt that it was in Eastern's best interest to take the provisional membership and try out the organization.

Senate member Tom Green said that some of the concerns expressed by the senators about the effectiveness of the organization could be worked out during the trial membership period.

"The senate has to decide if we should wait and see if the organization works from the outside or join the organization and change it from the inside, so it works in our best interest," Green added.

Other senate members also wished to take advantage of the trial membership and then decide on whether to join after the membership runs out. The opposing senate members, however, felt that the money to become provisional members could be better spent.

"Eastern has not been involved in ISA for four years. In that time ISA has really had no real issues of major concern to lobby at Springfield. If we had been members during those four years Eastern would have spent $40,000 for nothing," Senate member Michelle Michals said.

In other senate business the referendum concerning the appointments to the Students Publications Board was tabled until the meeting after spring break.

Downsizing gets support from faculty members

By JEFF POMBERT
Staff writer

President Rives' commitment to reducing student enrollment by 1,000 students over the next five years drew support from some instructors Wednesday.

Faculty Senate Chair Gary Foster said the plan will have many positive impacts on the campus including reduced student-faculty ratios. He added this will allow instructors to give more personal attention to each student.

"Downsizing will be dovetailed with the new admissions requirement," which means the university is not going to try to drop students already in attendance, Foster said.

Political science instructor Richard Goodrick agreed that the president's plan will have a positive impact. "Classes, particularly at the lower levels, tend to be so overcrowded that it (enrollment reductions) would bring it back to normal levels."

els." But he added that the results of the reduction have not yet made a significant impact.

Senate member Michael Loudon agreed that enrollment reductions will help, but added that the drop in the level of state funding over the years has had a more significant impact than the growth of the student body.

"We're trying to educate too many people with too little money," he said.

The three also agreed with the president's call for a new commitment to develop the campus' physical resources, including the Coleman Hall addition.

Foster, also chairman of the sociology department, said, "There's a real domino effect to those types of projects." By putting the business department in the new addition, it will open up Blair Hall for other uses and eventually benefit the entire university, he said.

Goodrick added that such development is "definitely needed and long overdue."

Shuttle overcomes sticky valve

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's astronauts overcame a sticky valve in the electrical system and began restoring full power to the space shuttle Wednesday, averting the possibility of an early return to Earth, NASA said.

The shuttle started drawing fuel again from a hydrogen tank that had been closed because of the valve, said Al Pennington, a flight director.

"We're repowering back up at this time," he said. "It appears that the tank is back in operation, which means we're back on a nominal time line."

The valve, which started jamming shortly after the launch Monday, had forced the crew to dim lights and shut down unneeded computers to conserve power.

The astronauts were in no danger, but officials said the problem limited the electricity available and could have forced the shuttle to cut short its mission by one day.

Art sparks protest, debate

CHICAGO—The storm of protest and debate sparked by an American flag on the floor at a student art exhibit has become part of the work, in handwritten words of anger, pain and support.

The exhibit at the School of the Art Institute closes Thursday but the disputed work, "What is the Proper Way to Display the U.S. Flag," remained a work in progress Wednesday as visitors bent over ledgers inviting comment.

In its four weeks on display the work by "Dread" Scott Tyler, 24, has triggered veterans' protests, debate on Capitol Hill, censure by the state House and a lawsuit dismissed by a Circuit Court judge who upheld the school's right to display it.

Train kills man, three children

TUSCOLA Ill. (AP) — A passenger train racing to New Orleans at 90 mph slammed into a van, killing a man and his three young daughters just three months after his wife died of cancer.

The Douglas County Sheriff's Department said Mike Rund, 32, a former railroad employee, drove the van around crossing gates while red lights flashed and into the path of the southbound Amtrak train late Tuesday.

Coroner Dennis Dietrich said Rund and his daughters — twins Brittany and Natalie, 4, and Jamie, 6 — were killed instantly.

Their van was carried about one-half mile down the Illinois Central tracks by the Amtrak locomotive.

Rund was driving about four miles north of the east-central Illinois town of Tuscola toward his home in Villa Grove when the accident occurred about 10 p.m., investigators said.

He stopped for a northbound IC grain train, then drove around the gate and into the path of the City of New Orleans, which was traveling about 90 mph, investigators added.

Cheer team tryouts approaching

By DAVID PATTERSON
Staff writer

Tryouts for Eastern's 1989-90 cheer team, which has eight openings for men and women, will begin one week after Spring Break.

Susie Zarley, co-captain of the team, said workshops for the current team have already started, but the actual tryouts aren't until after Spring Break. She also said the tryouts will be on a two-cut system.

On April 3, the first set of routines will be taught to prospective team members. And the following three days, the women will practice separately from the men for the first set of tryouts, which are April 7.

The second set of tryouts will start on April 10. New routines will be taught to the remaining prospects, who will be given another three days to practice. The second set of tryouts will include the stunts which involve both men and women.

Zarley said everyone is welcome to try out, adding that students do not need to know cheers and stunts before attending the workshops.

"The girls have to know how to do some tumbling, but there really isn't much gymnastics involved. But that's why we're having workshops now," Zarley added.

Co-captain Tom Kochavar, said it's not that hard for a guy to learn the stunts for the team either. "The stunts aren't that hard. Some (people) think they can't pick up the girl or something like that, but once you learn how to do it, it's easy," he said.

He said even if someone can't do the stunt, current team members will work with that person as much as they can up until tryouts.

"We won't have first cuts because right now we'll have everybody in the weight room as well as working on the stunts," he said. "We work from the ground up."

Zarley said the turnout is a little low this year because most people have misconceptions about tryouts.

Some people don't try out because they think current team members are automatically chosen, but Zarley said everyone has an equal chance.

Kochavar said the team chosen will perform at all men's home football and basketball games as well as at some home ladies basketball games.

Zarley said the squad attends some away games. "We go to more of the away basketball games because they're inside." and there are more of them.

Panel targets child

By STEPHANIE CRUSE
Staff writer

Childhood abuse was the focus of an interactive workshop conducted by Genie Lanihan, a Counseling Center psychologist, at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Approximately 20 students were on hand to listen to Lanihan, who works mostly with abused adults.

Lanihan said most abused children do not perceive themselves as abused, and regard their childhood as normal.

Lanihan also said that while physical and sexual abuse are the worst types of abuse there is damage from what is seen and heard.

Children living in these types of families do not receive all the love and nurturing they need while growing up, Lanihan said, and due to this, many will face ongoing problems such as, isolation, diminished trust and a need to self-protect throughout their adult lives.

"Goof-ups are not as dangerous when we are children as they are when we become adults," Lanihan said.

Lanihan suggested some recovery strategies that she recommends to her clients, such as finding someone to share the experiences of childhood, and building self-esteem.

CAA to discuss class proposals

The Council on Academic Affairs will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Arcola/Tuscola Room to discuss three items on the agenda.

Terry Weidner, CAA chair, said the council will discuss a new course proposal, ZOO 4830, "Human Genetics." The course is designed to aid students who wish to enter the medical field.

"The course would be very useful for students seriously interested in medical and veterinarian school," Weidner said.

The council will also consider a proposal from the special education department which would change SPE 4925, "Facilitating Language in Children (birth to five) Labelled Exceptional," from a lab course to a lecture course.

"It is very common to make changes in courses like that," Weidner said. The class will also count for graduate credit.

Correction

A March 15 Daily Eastern News story was incorrect in reporting that the Textbook Rental Service over spent $214,000 in FY '89. The deficit is a culmination of deficits from previous fiscal years.

Textbook Library Advisory

Committee chair Samuel Taber said he hopes to cut that deficit in half by the end of this current fiscal year.

In addition, a $5 textbook rental fee will generate $100,000 a year, not $100,000 a semester. The News regrets the errors.

Rives' address not surprising, but essential

Eastern President Stan Rives' State of the University address Tuesday was hardly a surprise. Rives said precisely what we would have expected him to.

And he should have. Because it can't be said enough.

Higher education in Illinois is suffering and it really needs a financial boost, preferably in the form of an income tax increase.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education originally requested $51.8 million for Eastern's FY '90 budget, a 16.2 percent increase over FY '89. In the budget he submitted to the General Assembly, Gov. James R. Thompson appropriated $47.9 million for Eastern in FY '90, only a 7.5 percent increase. Even if the General Assembly does approve Thompson's budget in its entirety, it will not even come close to sufficiently funding higher education in Illinois.

Thompson, who has since abandoned supporting an income tax increase fearing it will fail for a third consecutive year, has also presented additional alternatives to give a boost to fund higher education.

One alternative includes an 18 percent cigarette tax hike, which, if approved by the General Assembly, is expected to generate $65 million to support higher education.

If Thompson's budget is approved, it will generate an extra $3.2 million for Eastern. Rives maintains the university needs much more than that. "I remain convinced that an increase in the state income tax to support education is essential," Rives said in his address.

And if the state cannot come up with additional funds, Rives said he is committed to downsizing the university, beginning next fall, by 1,000 students during the next five years.

"The university must create a better match between the resources available and the number of the students it serves," Rives added.

In other words, if Eastern can not get additional funds to support educational programs, it is necessary to downsize the university, because otherwise, students would not get the education they paid for.

Quote of the day...

"The universal regard for money is the one hopeful fact in our civilization."

George Bernard Shaw

Look at the flag, think of the veterans

It is very easy to take freedom for granted.

Allowing an American flag to be displayed in a manner that is disrespectful is taking the freedom and liberty that we enjoy in America today for granted.

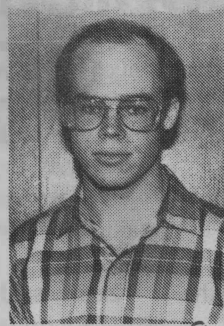

It is taking for granted the sacrifice of millions of American servicemen and women. In peacetime and wartime, Americans have given their lives to defend that flag, to defend the freedom that allows everyone here at Eastern to be here today.

The editorials that were presented in the March 14th issue of this paper treat the flag as if it were an abstract concept. The American flag is far from abstract. The flag is not just pieces of cloth sewn together, it is the symbol of the freedom that all Americans enjoy today.

There are two things that are wrong with seeing the flag as an abstraction.

One, it is trivializing the sacrifice that American servicemen and women have given to preserve the freedom that we have. Those who have answered the call to defend the United States did so because they felt that the freedom of our country was worth defending. Since the flag is the symbol of the freedom our veterans held so dear, it is belittling the sacrifice that has been made by them to allow the flag to be displayed in the way that the artist, Scott Tyler, does in his "artwork."

Second, it shows a lack of gratitude for the service that has been given in the defense of freedom. Obviously, Mr. Tyler is not grateful for the freedom of expression that he has here in the United States. If he was grateful, he would not be treating the flag with such disrespect. As for the rest of us, we should realize the amount and magnitude of sacrifice that has been given by our veterans, and be thankful for it. To exhibit the American flag in this manner also teaches our children to be ungrateful, because they might not know about the blood that has been shed to protect the flag, and everything it represents.

As you may or may not be able to tell, this column has been written from the perspective of a veteran. Prior to attending Eastern, I served four years on active duty in the U.S. Navy. During that four years I spent more time out at sea or away from home than I spent at home. I was on the USS John F. Kennedy when it was stationed off the coast of Beirut, Lebanon. I have spent months out at sea without even touching the ground. But I felt then, and still feel the same way now, that it was worth the sacrifice I went through to defend this country and its flag.

The thought may be going through your head now that I have not really given up that much since I was not in a war. For those of you who may think that, I would like to let you know that the soldier or sailor who is serving in the continental United States or overseas is giving up his or her life for you to enjoy the freedom that you have. Being in the military means giving up all of your time and energy to serve the nation. You have no choice where you are sent, you go where the country needs you.

I do not really care about the legal aspects of this "artwork." The legality is not what I am concerned with, the respect of our nation's veterans is the issue here.

Please do me a favor the next time you see the American flag. Think about the lives that have been given in defense of that flag and of the sacrifice of those defending that flag today. All things considered, can you still call it a piece of cloth?

— Ken Trevarthan is a staff photographer and guest columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn

Students can really experience Ireland

Dear editor;

As we prepare to celebrate St. Patrick's Day, when Irish and non-Irish alike wear a wee bit of green and tip a Guinness or two for the "old sod," we are reminded that Ireland holds a special place in the hearts of most Americans.

Many of us have memories from earliest childhood of the things Irish — Tipperary, Killarney, thatched cottages, the Blarney Stone, thistle and shamrocks, an Irish jig, James Joyce, Dublin City and harps and tin whistles. A large number of Americans have Irish ancestors and Ireland remains one of the most popular destinations for American tourists. For several years in the late 1960s and early 70s, Dr. Ping Chen took a group of Eastern students to Ireland every summer for a study program in Dublin.

Beginning last summer, Dr. Roger Beck, a professor in the history department, renewed Eastern's Irish connection by accompanying some Eastern students on a summer study program at University College, Cork (UCC). This month-long program is in its 10th year and was attended last summer by 55 students from eight countries.

Located along the beautiful southwestern coast of Ireland, Cork is a city of over 100,000 and the university has an enrollment of about 9,000. Participants are registered as UCC students (complete with student I.D.'s) and receive six credit hours that can be transferred back here to Eastern. Students attend classes most mornings, taught by UCC faculty, on subjects ranging from history and literature to politics, education and music. Once a week there is a fieldtrip out into the country to visit archaeological sites, old cathedrals, Blarney Castle and to roam about the lush green fields and old seaports. Each participant has a private room in a university residence hall and receives breakfast and supper as part of room and board. Noon meals are often taken at the campus dining hall. Students are free in the evening and on weekends to sample the local brew, attend concerts and theatre, or to take off on their own, to visit distant relatives or just to travel around this small country.

The cost of this summer's program, which will run from June 21 to July 27, will be about $1,800. This includes round-trip air fare from Chicago, six hours tuition, and room and board for a month. The cost of a pint or two of Guinness as well as gifts such as Waterford crystal, Irish lace, Aran Island sweaters or a real shillelagh are extra. Students interested in attending this summer's program may contact Dr. Beck in Coleman 216D (581-5529) for more information.

Stores and bars go Irish

By SHERRI OTTA
Staff writer

Charleston area stores and bars will be seeing green this St. Patrick's Day, as part of the holiday, and in sales of holiday memorabilia.

The tradition of the "holiday" attracts students and Charleston residents to stores this week for cards, partyware, T-shirts, posters, balloons and other items created specifically with an Irish flair.

"It's just the thing to do," said Irene Shafer, manager of Judy's Hallmark, West Park Plaza.

Sales this week are not expected to be as big as last month's Valentine's Day sales because St. Patrick's Day happens to fall right before Spring Break, when most students are preoccupied with leaving campus.

In addition to local stores, the area bars are also gearing up for St. Patrick's Day, typically one of the busiest nights of the year.

Most bars are featuring specials Thursday, including green beer, probably the strangest, yet most requested St. Patrick's Day tradition.

"Green beer is made by simply adding a drop of food coloring to each cup or pitcher," said John Ward, owner of Page One Tavern, 410 Sixth St.

Pond cleanup continues

By DONELLE PARDEE
Campus editor

Eastern's Physical Plant workers are still cleaning up after heating fuel accidentally leaked into the campus pond in January.

The spillage occurred while Ron Stout, owner of Precision Tank Removal in Charleston, was contracted to remove several underground storage tanks from the lawn area in front of Lincoln, Stevenson and Douglas halls.

During the tank removal process about 10 gallons of the heating fuel was spilled while workers were draining the fuel from the tanks prior to their removal, Stout said.

It was necessary to drain the fuel from the tanks before removing the tanks from the ground to prevent the tanks from rupturing during the process and to prevent the fuel from exploding, Stout said.

The spillage leaked into the pond after being washed down a drainage pipe because of rain, Stout said.

Physical Plant Director Vic Robeson said the cleanup crew has been continuously working to remove the spillage from the ground surrounding the pond. He added Stout and his crew have cleaned the pond the best they could after the leakage occurred.

Workers recently finished burning 50 linear feet, about a six to eight inch perimeter around the pond, of grass with blowtorches to remove the fuel in that area, Robeson said.

Lecture highlights foreign life

By MICHELLE GARREY
Staff writer

Foreign countries was the topic of a recent lecture titled "Where in the World Will You Be? An International Symposium."

The College of Applied Sciences hosted the lecture which consisted of panelists Leonard Decker, director of International Operations for Blaw-Knox, a Mattoon based firm; Diane O'Marrah, associate product analyst for McCormick and Company Culinary Center in Hunt Valley, Md.; and David Ziegler, branch manager for McDonnell Aircraft Company.

The panelists spoke on their opinions of dealing with foreign countries. Decker spoke on international business, saying often markets wait for each other to see what's happening in their area.

In international trade you "travel a lot and traveling is also a challenge," Decker said.

He also discussed the importance of knowing your product, understanding local/international regulations and understanding U.S. regulations.

Another topic discussed was international cuisine, which O'Marrah tackled. Food preparation in other countries is different than America in the way food is prepared. For example, Europeans use about half an inch of oil in a frying pan to prepare their meat, and the reason for this is because "it makes the meat more juicy," O'Marrah said.

Another reason for the excessive use of oil is because meat in Europe is expensive and the Europeans want to enjoy it when they do have the chance to eat it, O'Marrah added.

The types of foods in foreign countries differ, O'Marrah said. "In the U.K. they eat spicy foods, the Germans eat starchy food, Australians eat bland food—more fruits, and the Japanese enjoy fresh foods and the Chinese eat stir fry.

"Europeans are a lot more formal than in the United States. The British are very polite, the Swiss, Germans and Spanish are very organized, the Italians are industrial, but the Australians are more laid back," she said.

David Ziegler talked about the international affects on commercial aircrafts, military aircrafts, helicopters and computer software.

The product is either made in that country or in the United States, he said.

"We are currently in Japan, Australia, Spain, Canada, Great Britain and hoping to get Korea and Israel soon," Ziegler said.

In working with a particular country, Ziegler said his company takes a six-step analysis. "You need to know what the competition is.

"It takes commitment from a company to go international, and most companies are going to have to deal internationally or they won't be in business," Ziegler said.

Dvorak hosts concert

KURT WILAMOWSKI
Staff writer

An audience of Eastern students and Charleston community members responded favorably to the annual University/Community Orchestra Concerto Concert at the Dvorak Concert Hall Wednesday.

Piano student Julie Thorsen began the concert performing her rendition of Mendelssohn's "Concerto for Piano in g minor," receiving much audience applause.

Next, Matthew Polenzani sang "Vainement ma bien aimee" and "Una furtiva lagrima," accompanied by the orchestra.

Jeannette Olsen played "Concerto for Flute" by Gretry, followed by a former solo pianist of the Shanghai Philharmonic Orchestra, Qing Zhou.

The final performance was by Chris Nelson, who performed "Tableaux de Provence" and "The Planets" on saxophone.

TV game show coming soon

By LISA ALLEN
Staff writer

Hollywood Squares is coming to Eastern.

Residence Hall Association members will host 'Hollywood Squares Eastern Style' on April 4 in the South Quad.

RHA President Ken Wetstein said the competition will be similar to the game show on television. RHA members will construct a scaffold similar to the one used in the game show.

RHA members will discuss the project at the RHA meeting at 5 p.m. Thursday in Taylor Hall.

The scaffold will hold nine participants from several of Eastern's organizations such as BACCHUS and the Black Student Union. Brett Gerber Hollywood Squares Committee Chair said the game was created to "bring the administration and campus organizations together."

One of the game show contestants may be Eastern President Stan Rives. Wetstein said Rives has been asked to participate, but they have not yet received a response.

Program offered in Ireland

By JULIE KING
Staff writer

Irish or not, students can attend a summer study program at University College in Cork, Ireland (UCC).

The one-month program is in its 10th year and was attended last summer by 55 students from eight different countries, including two Eastern students, said History Professor Roger Beck.

Beck said Cork is a beautiful city with a population over 100,000 and is located along the southwestern coast of Ireland. The university has an enrollment of about 9,000 students.

Participants are registered as UCC students and receive six credit hours that can be transferred back to Eastern. Students attend classes in the morning on subjects such as history and literature and once a week there is a field trip to visit old cathedrals, seaports and abbeys within the city.

Beck said students take advantage of their freedom in the evenings and on weekends by attending the local bars, going to concerts or taking trips to other parts of the country which can be arranged easily because Ireland is so small.

The cost of this program, which is scheduled from June 27 through July 21, is about $1,800. The cost includes round-trip airfare from Chicago, tuition for six hours and room and board.

Beck said he encourages students who are interested to contact him in Coleman Hall room 216D, 581-5529, or stop in and pick up some brochures.

Panthers swing into new era

By BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Baseball

A new era of Eastern baseball begins in 1989, with first-year coach Dan Callahan at the helm.

Callahan, who replaces Tom "Skip" McDevitt after McDevitt's 11 seasons at Eastern, inherits an NCAA Division I team that went 27-23 last year, but lost five regulars and the two top pitchers from the 1988 squad.

The most glaring problem for the 29-year-old coach is pitching.

"Normally at Division I you'll find 12 to 15 pitchers on the staff," Callahan said.

The Panthers, though, are currently working with a depleted staff of nine.

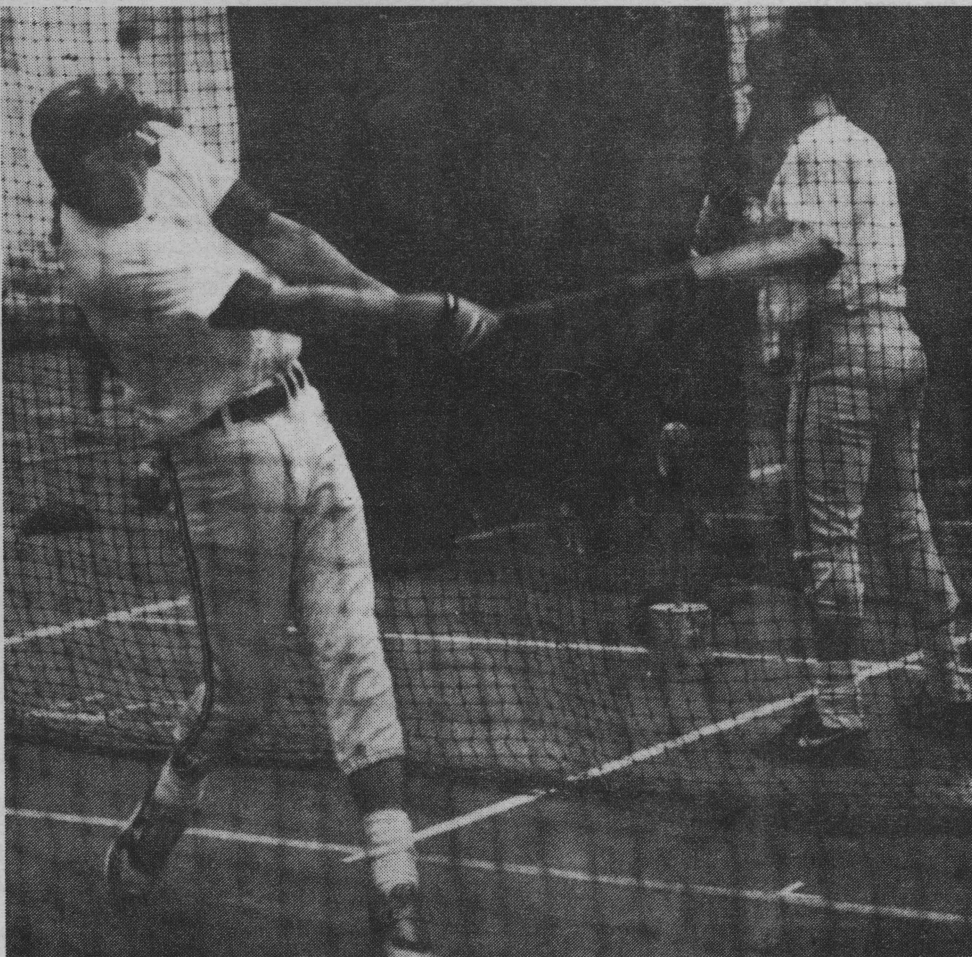

Since the beginning of the year Eastern have lost both Ron Laden (to injury) and Guy Taylor (to academic ineligibility).

Anchoring the pitching staff will be juniors Mike Deese (0-1) and Darin Kopac (1-0).

Neither are flame throwers, according to Callahan, but they will be counted on to carry the Panthers' pitching burden. Deese finished the 1987 campaign 3-5 with a 6.00 ERA. Kopac ended last season winning four consecutive games to finish with a 4-4 record and a 4.58 ERA.

"He (Deese) is not an overpowering pitcher, but he has the ability to throw strikes. He possesses an outstanding changeup," Callahan said.

Hitting prowess is something Callahan said he hopes to be able to count on to counteract the pitching staff's lack of depth.

Eastern scored 25 runs in its first three games this year but lost two to the University of Illinois.

"I think that (the three games) might show that we can score runs," Callahan said. "The more pressure offensively you can put on a team, the more runs you will get."

Catcher Dan Hargis, a junior, provided a significant portion of the offense in the games at Murray, Ky.

Hargis nailed eight hits in 12 at bats at Murray State. He launched three home runs and drove in 10 runs.

"Hargis is one of the premier catchers in the Midwest," Callahan said. "He would be considered our leader offensively."

Hargis anchors the offense, but he will have plenty of help.

The young (only one senior position player) lineup includes two freshmen: centerfielder Matt Legaspi and shortstop Brent Howard.

"They should be in the lineup all year, whatever we can get out of those two guys as freshmen will be icing on the cake," Callahan said.

Speed is another dimension the freshmen give the Panthers.

"Legaspi and Howard both have good speed," Callahan said. Helping in the base stealing department will be junior Jeff Jetel, who pilfered six bases last year.

To balance the youth movement is Greg Goodley, the lone senior starter at third base.

"Greg is a leader by example, a quiet leader," Callahan said.

Callahan said the goal of the team is simple. "We want to win as many games as we can and get into the NCAA Tournament.

"Everyone is beatable, on a given day you can compete with anyone in the country."

Coming off an indoor season in which Eastern's track team captured the Association of Mid-Continent Universities crown, the Panthers are a confident pack heading into the outdoor season — maybe too confident for the likes of assistant coach Tom Akers.

"We're confident that we should win the outdoor meets," Akers said. "However, I hope that our confidence doesn't get so high that we quit working and start hurting ourselves as far as what the individuals and the team is able to achieve this year."

But Akers himself has high expectations after his Panthers peaked at the conference meet.

"I think that the improvement we had across the board during the indoor season was outstanding," Akers said. "I think that this year may be the first year that we have more than one person qualify for the national championships."

Akers lists weightman Jeff Genarelli as his top hope. Genarelli had used his indoor eligibility prior to this season, but many times eclipsed the indoor qualifying mark this winter as an unattached competitor.

Akers also pins hopes on polevaulter Mark Hamilton, sprinter Ian Isaacs, hurdlers Don Glover and Dan Steele and decathletes Mike Giesler and Darrin Barber.

"It's well within their capabilities," Akers said. "You're going to need hard work, you're going to need luck, you're going to need mental intensity and you have to have all those things going for you, not to mention the right weather conditions and the right competition outdoors."

And the Panthers will begin their search for the right competition during the break, when they will participate in the Alabama Relays and the Florida State

Softball squad set for run at NCAA bid

Lady Panthers to rely on freshman rotation

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

Eastern's women's softball team, Gateway Conference regular-season champions the past three seasons, has a more important goal for the 1989 season: win the Gateway postseason tournament and the conference's first NCAA Tournament automatic bid in seven years.

"This year's Gateway tourney (at Northern Iowa) is most important to me," said Eastern coach Janet Marquis, who begins her fourth year at the Lady Panthers helm. "We of course want to win the conference tournament. Unfortunately, that's the goal of the other nine teams in the conference, too."

Just five conference champions will receive automatic bids into the NAAs. Besides the Gateway, the other four conferences are the Big Ten, Big Eight, Pacific Ten and High Country (in the Utah-Wyoming region).

The Lady Panthers (29-17 in 1988, 15-3 in the conference) will have to replace the Gateway's Most Valuable Player, pitcher Zam Mogill (21-11, 1.15 ERA), four-time all-conference outfielder Angel Lendvay (.298, 3 HRs, 22 RBIs) and infielder/pitcher Sara Karcher (.254, 14 RBIs and 8-6 with a 1.38 ERA) in order to accomplish their goal.

"We lost four players (including outfielder Natalie Wittman), three all-conference, and they'll be tough to replace," said Marquis, the 1988 Gateway coach of the year. "We lost our entire pitching staff ... and you can't replace Angel (Lendvay) person-for-person. Angel was a one-of-a-kind player."

Marquis, however, has eased the graduation losses by signing seven recruits and adding junior Oklahoma State transfer Rosemarie Dirks to the team.

"The freshmen will have to have an impact year (for Eastern)," Marquis said, adding she plans to fill each graduation opening with a newcomer.

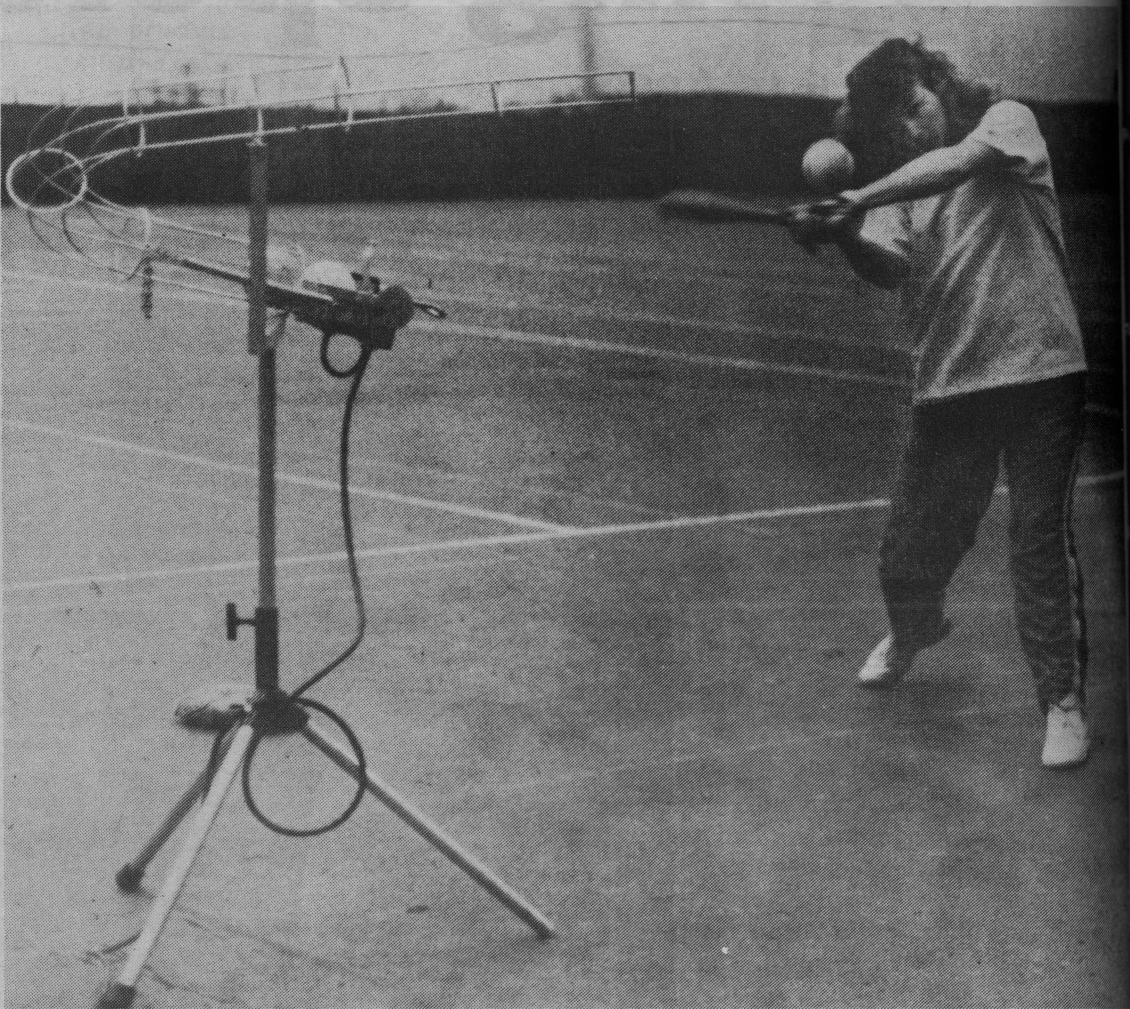

Of the areas in need of strong freshman performances, pitching is the most glaring.

Eastern's 1989 pitching staff is very young, with three freshmen anchoring both a three-person starting rotation and bullpen: Martha Wendt and lefty Jill Richards (both from Moline High School) and Kim Horvatic of Highland, Ind.

"I feel I have the top two pitchers in the state coming out of high school," Marquis said of Wendt and Richards, whose Moline team won two state titles.

"Kim (Horvatic) is a l s o very talented. All three pitchers do complement each other. I think down the road the three will be the best pitching staff in the conference."

Offensively, Marquis thinks the Lady Panthers could field their most productive team. "Offensively, this is the strongest team I've coached here," said Marquis.

TERRI McMILLAN / Staff photographer

The Lady Panthers' strength may lie in its power-hitting, Marquis said. Players counted on to supply the power are All-Gateway sophomore first baseman Carrie Voisin (.285, 1 HR, 12 RBIs), Wendt, left-fielder/designated hitter JoAnn Barnes (.307, 1 HR, 13 RBIs) and senior outfielder Jennifer Berry, who performed well in fall exhibition tournaments last year.

"We can get consistent power out of those people," she said.

Eastern opens its 1989 campaign Friday against Furman in the 1989 Lady Seminole Fastpitch Invitational at Florida State University in Tallahassee. The squad hosts its first home games in a double-header April 9 versus 1988 College World Series entrant Northern Illinois.

The Lady Panthers head into the tourney with several players nursing injuries.

Two of the team's three pitchers, Richards and Horvatic, will see limited action because of sore arms, Marquis said. "Martha (Wendt) will pitch three of the first four games for us," she said.

Eastern's catching corps is also depleted, with senior Connie Hamers the only healthy performer. Marquis said Hamers started about half of the squad's games in 1988.

Hockey club ends year

By JOHN MAU
Staff writer

Eastern's hockey club played tough against the Evansville Horizons last weekend to complete its season, but came up just short by falling 8-7 in Evansville, Ind.

"We had a real team effort," team President Chris Stanton said. "We came back from three goals down to almost tie the game."

Stanton said he felt the referees gave Eastern more than its share of penalties at one point in the game.

"They gave us five penalties in a row within a ten-minute time span," Stanton said. "Usually refs keep calls even(ly) spaced. If it was more fair, (the game) would have been a different story. The majority of it was sick."

In reviewing the 4-12-1 campaign, Stanton said the quality and standards of the club have gone up considerably in the last several years.

"This is the best season we've had in the last five to six years," Stanton said. "The program is definitely making a come back."

Defensman Kevin Leitel said, "We have made a ten-fold improvement."

Bennett calls for funds

JOHN MAU
Staff writer

Eastern's men's tennis team will play its first outdoor matches over Spring Break, traveling to Kissimmee and Tampa, Fla., March 19-23 to compete in a series of seven matches at Orange Lake Country Club.

However, an important player (name withheld) on Eastern's squad will not be able to make the southern trek because of a lack of funds.

"We have no scholarships now," Eastern coach John Bennett said. "I would like to have three full scholarships next year."

Bennett said the team receives "traveling funding", but it does not provide for players such as the one who cannot afford to travel to Florida next week at his own expense.

"If we used this funding to send a player to Florida, we would be taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another," Bennet said. "There needs to be a change in attitude and a change in priority."

Last September, former Athletic Director R.C. Johnson rejected an attempt to raise money for scholarships by means of the Magic Million Fund which would have increased scholarship money for all sports," according to Bennett.

"The kickoff was successful, but after that it died off," Bennett said.

More than $200,000 was pledged at the Magic Million banquet.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics has scheduled its 1989 Fund Drive Kick-off for Wednesday, March 15.

Nevertheless, the Panthers will play tennis over break, with a smaller lineup.

"There will be some adjustment in the lineup," Bennett said. "It will be extra difficult because we will be missing some of our key players."

In Kissimmee, Eastern will compete with Towson State on the 19th, DePauw University and Buena Vista College on the 20th, Akron University on the 21st and Cleveland State on the 22nd.

Eastern will have a full day March 23, when the Panthers travel to Tampa, Fla., to play Drake University at noon, and then go back to Kissimmee to face Wisconsin-Stevens Point at 5 p.m.

"We need two (wins) out of seven," Bennet said. "We have to be over-achieving to get more than two (wins) due to the competition. Winning three out of seven would be very satisfying. To win four we would have to play very well."

Bennett said that the key for Jay Meyer, a freshman that Eastern's No. 1 singles player, is development.

"Meyer competes against nationally ranked players," Bennett said. "I don't want him to get discouraged by the competition."

Women netters inexperienced

Just 4 players return

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Grant Alexander, Eastern women's tennis coach, would like his team to be known as the "new-look Panthers" because only four members return from last year's squad.

Maureen McKeon and Beth Stuckey from the 1988 team are on the roster, but they are student teaching and available only in an emergency.

The rest of the team is not playing because of various reasons.

Julie Manikowski has a foot injury and Lisa Stock, who played No. 1 singles for most of last season, transferred to the University of Illinois. Renee Alexander did not come out for the team. Karin Canady graduated and Sheila Marcial is academically ineligible.

"Last year we set a record for most wins in a season (11), and I thought we were going to have all these people back and new girls coming in and we're going to have a good team," Alexander said. "All these people aren't with us, but we've still got a good team. But they're real inexperienced."

So Alexander will go with a lineup that features a trio of freshmen in the top slots.

Missy Holste will be in the No. 1 singles position, Dawn Brannon will play No. 2 and Jill Bacochin is the No. 3 player.

"Those three are three good players," Alexander said. "But they'll be facing some super-tough competition, and they probably won't end up with winning records."

Alexander will feature three experienced players at the bottom three positions. Senior Angel Hoffek will play at No. 4, junior Sue Cottingham is at No. 5 and sophomore Lori Neate will take the No. 6 singles spot.

"Angel's kind of a leader out on the court for us," Alexander said. "She was a conference champ in doubles last year, runner-up this fall."

Also active on the squad are freshman Kara Zickert and junior Kim Rhodes.

Rhodes has been hampered by knee injuries since playing at No. 1 singles as a freshman, and will only be able to play doubles.

Rhodes will, in fact, join with Holste at No. 1 doubles, while Bacochin and Cottingham draw the No. 2 spot and Brannon and Hoffek start at No. 3 doubles.

But while the inexperience may prove a crippling factor, Alexander has weathered stronger storms than this.

The Lady Panthers were 3-16 in Alexanders' inaugural campaign two seasons ago, the most losses ever in school history. But Eastern climbed to 11-8 last season, the most wins by a Lady Panther squad.

"Our program has really improved," Alexander said. "When you go from the most losses in a season to the most wins in a season, you know you're headed in the right direction."

Alexander has also kept the Lady Panthers in the right direction in the Gateway Conference.

Tracksters ready

As the outdoor season there are not that many slouch meets," Akers said. "The State Relays have a wide variety of competition, from excellent to some lower level competition. I figure that we'll be competitive down there, not only at the State, but at Alabama Relays."

Akers also plans to see some AMCU Relays before the conference meet.

"We might see Southwest Missouri, if Cleveland State goes down to Alabama," Akers said. "Western Illinois comes in as an invitational, we won't see Northern Illinois."

Akers expects to take the outdoor season which would give Eastern both the indoor and outdoor championships, a feat the Panthers accomplished in 1987.

"With our depth of quality, I think we're really going to be the team to beat," Akers said. "It will be a chance to win both the indoor and outdoor again, and I'd be pretty disappointed if we didn't."

Women's track team to rely on Dawson, Plutz and Baum

by PHIL CHAPARRO
Staff writer

After a month off and a seventh place finish in the 1989 Gateway Conference Indoor Championships, Eastern's women's track team will spring into its outdoor campaign April 1 in Western Illinois.

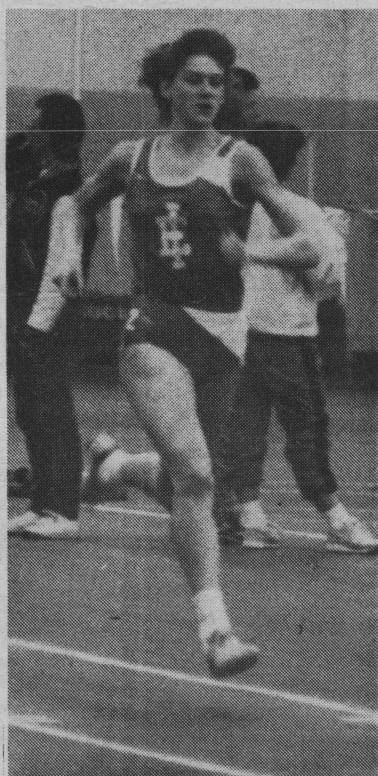

The Lady Panther's will try to improve upon their fifth place 1988 GCAC outdoor finish. However, with stiff competition throughout the league, Eastern is no shoo-in for improving on last year's mark.

All-Gateway performers Tina Dawson and Lorry Plutz will be the mainstays of the Lady Panthers' 19-member squad, but the team will also reap the benefits of returning senior co-captain Kristi Baum.

Baum, an all-conference performer her freshman and sophomore seasons in the javelin, will return after missing 1988 outdoor season with a knee injury.

"Kristi is a staunch competitor," Eastern coach John Craft said. "She appears to have made good progress and is very enthusiastic about this season."

Joining Baum for team leadership will be the 1989 indoor GCAC pentathlon champion Tina Dawson.

Dawson will compete in the outdoor equivalent of the pentathlon, the seven-event heptathlon. The only difference between the two is that heptathlon adds the 200-meter dash and the javelin throw.

"It is highly possible for her," Craft said of Dawson winning the heptathlon. "It looks like she can do it, but only if she stays healthy."

Co-captain Lorry Plutz, returning for her final outdoor campaign, is coming off her best performance at the GCAC indoor meet and is ready for the outdoors.

"She's in the midst of her season," Crafts said. "She's been all-conference all four years; that's quite a feat."

"She is progressing nicely and is a solid competitor. She's the best I've had for four years."

Even though the women have three solid scorers, they will need to find others to pick up the slack.

Tracy Hoffman, Laurie Mizener and Stefanie Stump should be able to compete with league rivals in the middle and long distance events.

Tara Mayner and Jennifer Mangrum are each fighting off nagging injuries, but both should be solid for the high jump and sprints respectively.

Spring marks renewal of only true sport

Springtime. What does that mean? Baseball season, of course.

Now we can all exit the musty gymnasiums and come out into the sunshine to watch the only true American sport.

The reason baseball has so much appeal is that it follows football, which includes the yearly idiotic predictions of Bears' fans, and basketball. Being in Illinois, we get inundated with basketball from the 400-game NBA schedule to the overrated high school March Madness (complete with fertilizer commercials).

After a long cold winter, sports fans are ready to see a game actually played on grass and dirt in the great outdoors (except in St. Louis, of course).

Football is played outside also (most of the time), but one can only get so excited watching nameless, faceless behemoths beating the hell out of one another. Plus, America was getting real tired of seeing Ickey do his shuffle.

One last item on football. The circus-like atmosphere surrounding the Super Bowl is beginning to remind me of professional wrestling. The World Series is always a genuine spectacle; no one could forget Kirk Gibson's dramatic home run in Game 1 (even though Gibson kind of reminds me of a professional wrestler).

Nevertheless, it is springtime and everyone is happy, even Cubs' fans. And I wouldn't want to ruin their traditional springtime optimism, so enough has been said on the that subject (until June).

Here's some fearless predictions for the upcoming season:

- Jose Canseco of the A's will test positive for steroids; but he will claim Tommy Lasorda put them in his water when Canseco visited his restaurant.

- Hershiser will also test positive for something. The league will discover that Orel has been taking Flintstone's vitamins since he was 8.

- Danny Cox will pose the only challenge to Mike Tyson's crown after the Cardinal knocks out three more photographers to run his record to 4-0.

- The Chicago White Sox will sign Mike Ditka to fill their perennial hole at third base. After being called out on strikes in his first at-bat, Ditka will throw his gum at the umpire causing irreparable eye injury.

- Wade Boggs of the Boston Red Sox and Steve Garvey will announce that they plan to start a sports/literary magazine and recruit their own models.

The baseball season is upon us, rejoice and be glad. When those behemoths I mentioned earlier read this (or even behemoth fans), I could have some problems. So when you head to the bleachers this spring and summer to drink a few brews and take in a ballgame, drink one for me.

Big business

Intramural title goes to Strictly Business, 72-57

By MATTHEW MAYNARD
Staff editor

Strictly Business was taking care of business in the intramural basketball championship Wednesday night at Lantz Gym.

The opposing team could only keep up with Strictly Business' fast-paced, baseline-to-baseline game for so long, as Colors was washed out in the final game 72-57.

The game's lead traded hands as fast as the two teams could push the ball up court for nearly the entire first half.

In direct contrast to Business' upbeat game plan, Colors played a slow-down offense.

"We're looking to play a half-court offense," said Mike Sahm, a sophomore and a member of the football team, prior to the game. All but one member of Colors is a football Panther.

Late in the first half, Colors' game plan crumbled.

With only four minutes remaining, Strictly Business started to break away with a four unanswered points. The run continued the rest of the half and well into the second half.

The first half ended 33-24 in favor of Strictly Business.

In an exclusive half-time interview with Strictly Business' backcourt ball-handling wiz Puma, he discussed the first-half action and what he considered to be important factors for the remainder of the game.

"At first we forced the game. We had to let the game come to us, but now we're rolling right along," Puma said.

Puma had specific ideas about how the second half was going to be. "Now we're really going to have to play - very aggressive."

The championship game was played on a full-length court as opposed to the shorter court used in regular season games. Because of this, Puma said "fatigue" would be a factor.

The more somber Colors didn't have much to say at the half, but they knew what they had to do.

"We've got to play harder

- take the game to them and hit the right man when he's open," Sahm said.

The second half took up right where the first left off. Business out-scored Colors in the first two minutes 8-4. The margin continued to widen as the half progressed.

The game's outcome was decided with less than 10 minutes left. Business' lead was as much as 19 at one point.

The big lead gave Business' big guns a chance to show their stuff. Although there is no three-point shot in intramural play, scoring guard William Crutchfield dropped a 30-footer and a 25-footer in the last two minutes of the game.

"We were just shootin'," Crutchfield said of Strictly Business' win.

In other action, the Hoopsters baked the Scummuffins 39-9 in the women's league championship, and in the pro level Shoot to Kill squeaked by Jerry's Pizza 53-51.

The members of the winning teams receive a T-shirt.

Wrestling trio ready to do battle

By JERRY SOLBERG
Staff writer

There is one simple goal that all three of Eastern's national qualifying wrestlers share for the NCAA Tournament: to be All-Americans.

The trio of Panther wrestlers traveling to Oklahoma City, Okla. for the NCAA Tourney are junior Terry Murphy at 150 pounds; senior Marty Molina at 177 pounds and senior Craig Sterr at 118 pounds.

"My first goal is to place," Murphy said. "I'd like to prove that I can wrestle with those guys (the best in the country)."

Molina and Sterr had goals similar to Murphy's, but being seniors, they both realize this will be the last chance to prove themselves.

"I am going to let it all out," Molina said. "I think I'll get 'em this time around."

Sterr, thinking along the same lines as Molina, said, "being my last wrestling meet, I'm giving it everything I've got."

For Sterr, it's been discouraging the past two years at the NCAA Tourney, where he had been eliminated in the first round both times.

"It's been pretty disappointing," Sterr said. "Last year's loss came to a guy I beat during the regular season."

Eastern coach Ralph McCausland says he believes that Sterr was just the victim of an unlucky draw within his bracket.

"Both years we've been hoping for a good draw for him (Sterr)," McCausland said. "Both years he was given a tough draw."

Sterr said that this year will be different for him at the nationals.

"I feel a lot more relaxed than I did last year," he said. "Last year I went in nervous."

Because this is Murphy's first NCAA Tournament, he may be susceptible to the type of nervousness that Sterr once had before the meet.

But Murphy says he believes the pre-tournament chills will fade after a couple matches.

All three of the Panther wrestlers agreed that the practices for the national tourney were successful, and the individual work they put in was rather strenuous.

"We had a lot of running and wrestling everyday," Molina said.

McCausland said that this year's trip to the nationals will be a little bit more closer knit between each of the wrestlers.

"Last year we had a 118-pounder (Sterr) and a heavy-weight (Copache Tyler) who didn't have to cut weight at the tournament," McCausland said. "There should be more comradery this time with all three in the same boat having to cut weight."
