Pilots form 'human shields' against attack

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - The besieged Baghdad government turned captured pilots into "human shields" against the allied air assault Monday. But one American flier got lucky - plucked from the Iraqi desert in a bold rescue mission.

A search-and-rescue helicopter plucked up the Navy A-6 Intruder pilot after he was found by two Air Force A-10 attack planes that crisscrossed the skies for eight hours and refueled four times in their search.

In the final minutes, an A-10 fired on and destroyed an Iraqi army truck approaching the downed pilot's location, said one of the A-10 pilots, Capt. Randy Goff. "We couldn't take the risk," he said.

The military did not immediately release the name of the rescued pilot or provide other details, such as the location of the rescue or the amount of time the pilot was on the ground.

Allied leaders condemned Iraq's treatment of captured pilots as a "war crime" violating the Geneva Convention. Asked whether Iraqi President Saddam Hussein would later be held accountable, President Bush replied: "You can count on it." The International Red Cross expressed concern both about Iraq's handling of prisoners and about U.S. bombardment of nuclear installations in Iraq.

Earlier Tuesday, at least one Iraqi Scud missile was destroyed in the sky over Riyadh by a U.S. Patriot anti-missile rocket, witnesses said, and two Scuds landed in unpopulated desert areas, according to diplomatic sources in the city. No casualties were reported.

'Brutal treatment' of POWs decried by President Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush, upset by bleak pictures of allied prisoners of war, denounced Iraq's "brutal treatment" on Monday and pledged it would not deter the war against Saddam Hussein. "America is angry," Bush declared.

Asked if the Iraqi leader would be held accountable for any mistreatment of prisoners, a grim-faced president said, "You can count on it." Defense Secretary Dick Cheney called the treatment of the prisoners "a war crime." Iraq's senior diplomat in Washington, Khalid Shewayish, was summoned to the State Department to discuss the treatment of POWs.

Five days into the fighting, the administration cautioned that Iraq still had a potent military machine despite the pounding of more than 8,000 air missions by the allies.

Cheney said Iraq still had an arsenal of hundreds of Scud missiles, which Saddam has used to attack Israel and Saudi Arabia.

But military leaders said they remained satisfied with the course of the war. "Our casualties have been significantly lower than I think most people

Student prayers go beyond crisis as tribute to King

By SYLVIA BRATCHER
Staff writer

While many students may have just been returning to campus from the long weekend, many others were commemorating the reason for the holiday Monday night.

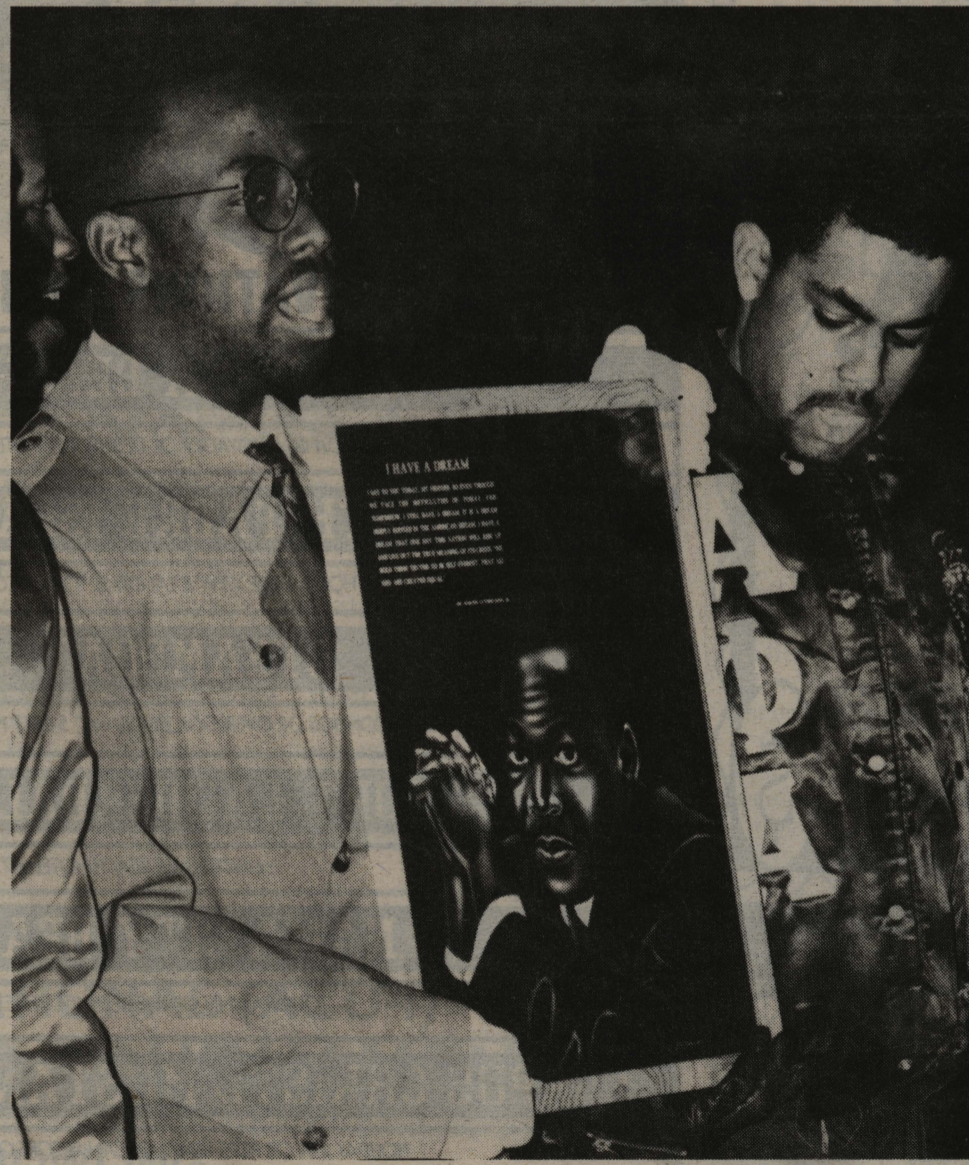

For the third consecutive year, the Alpha Phi Fraternity Inc. held a march on Eastern to honor Martin Luther King Jr. on what would have been the slain civil rights leader's 62 birthday.

Students and faculty who participated gathered in the lobby of Thomas Hall, where the march began. Candles and programs were handed out to the crowd of more than 100 who joined despite bitter cold weather conditions and what one student said are sometimes cold race relations, too.

"I'm glad to see so many people came because the black relations here at Eastern aren't the most stable," senior Angela Johnson said.

As the march began voices lifted through the crowd to the song "We Shall Overcome." The group finally ended in the Union Walkway of King's namesake at Eastern, the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, where fraternity member Lawrence Tucker led the crowd in prayer. Fraternity President Raymond Morris followed with an address.

In his speech Morris asked the students whether they felt King's fight continued even today. "If Dr. King had not fought for equality and nonviolent protest, we would not be able to gather together today and voice our opinions," he said. "Now we must ask ourselves the question, Are we continuing the struggle?"

Throughout the celebration the University Choir performed various gospel selections. A seven-minute video of King's march on Washington was presented followed by a prayer for the troops currently fighting the war in the Persian Gulf given by Dennis Morrison, graduate adviser for the fraternity. "I was pleased with the turnout, but I had hoped for support from a larger, diverse crowd," Morrison said.

Audience participation was encouraged near the end of the program at which members expressed their opinions on the current status of the Afro-American community and joined hands and sang the black national anthem, "Lift Every Voice."

Recruitment stays status quo as Gulf action intensifies

By PENNY N. WEAVER
Staff writer

The peril for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf continues to increase, but there is surprisingly little change in the number of new recruits at local U.S. Army, Navy and Marine offices.

In fact, one area armed forces recruiting station reported an increased number of people interested in joining the military since the war with Iraq began.

Petty Officer Bob Lovell, who works at Charleston's Navy recruiting office, 520 Jackson Ave., said he has seen more people than usual in the last few days who are interested in joining the Navy.

• Japan and Germany will increase support to allied forces. Page 3

"I've had a lot of people coming in, getting all patriotic and wanting a piece of the action," Lovell said. "It started after we (the United States) attacked (Iraq)."

Of the approximately 10 people who have come into his office to join the Navy since war began, Lovell said only two were qualified to join and several were "prior service," or people who have previously been in the military. Two of the 10 were women, Lovell added, and the average age of those interested was 30.

"The biggest one (reason people want to join) is 'I want to help my country,'" Lovell said.

However, Lovell said he also expects continued interest in signing up for the armed forces because of the economy and the deepening recession. In a time when unemployment may be increasing, the military is guaranteed employment and also a chance to help one's country.

The Navy, however, is the only area office that has seen an increase in recruits since the Gulf war began.

Staff Sgt. Bradley Lemke, a Marine Corps recruiter in Mattoon, said he has had more calls but hasn't had an increase in recruits.

"We're working more in a (high school) graduate market right now," he said, adding high school students must have parental consent before joining the military, and parents are reluctant to allow that right now.

"They did open up the prior service," Lemke said. "My prior service calls have doubled (recently)."

He said soldiers out of the military for one year or less can now return to service in their original positions providing they had an honorable discharge.

He said he's had no one back-out of joining the Marines because of the conflict. Lemke said he averages three recruits each month.

Sgt. 1st Class Arthur Dullinger of the Army recruiting office in Mattoon said he's had "numerous inquiries" since the war in the Middle East began, but no increase or decrease in recruits.

Dullinger said the increased interest in the military he has seen is largely from high school students. No women have called the Mattoon office, he said.

"None of them (the recent recruits) are gung ho at all (about fighting in the Persian Gulf)," Dullinger said. "(They say) 'If I have to do this, I have to do it.'" anticipated based on historical experience," Cheney said.

Bush, in an executive order, officially designated the Persian Gulf area a combat zone. His action exempts the armed forces there from income tax on their military pay.

For many Americans, the war took on a harsh reality as television newscasts provided a firsthand look at captured U.S. pilots making obviously forced statements criticizing the war against Iraq. Bush saw tapes of the pilots. Iraq said it had dispersed the POWs to "civilian, economic, education and other targets."

Declining sexual assault statistics questionable

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

A recent study shows the rate of rapes and attempted rapes to have decreased, but the director of the sexual assault counseling center questions the information gathering tactics of the study.

The study, completed by the Justice Department, shows that between the years of 1973 to 1987, the rate of rapes and attempted rapes of women has steadily decreased.

Bonnie Buckley, director of the sexual assault counseling information service (SACIS), located in Lawson Hall, disagrees with the findings. "Both those agencies think those results are questionable," Buckley said. She added they will be contacting the people who conducted the study to find out how they came up with their results.

Buckley sent the article containing the information to the Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault and another agency which helps fund SACIS.

The information for the study was collected from surveys of 49,000 households conducted twice a year by the department's National Crime Survey.

Specifically, the study reported that there were 137,509 rapes and attempted rapes in 1987, down from the 159,890 of 14 years earlier. The report went on to suggest that most of the 31 percent decline resulted from a drop in the rate of attempted rapes.

"I think that study is way off base. It's not coinciding with any other statistics," Buckley said.

SACIS counsels women who have been victims of any type of sexual assault. Buckley said that within their service, she has not noticed a decrease in the number of rapes or attempted rapes. Instead, she said the numbers have steadily increased over the years.

Buckley said during the last school year, SACIS counseled a total of 44 women, and so far this year, from July 1 to Dec. 31, they have counseled 32 women. She added, however, that the women counseled had not necessarily been attacked during that time.

"My suspicion is that they don't have people sensitized to the issue." She added that problems can arise just in the questions that are asked. Buckley said there is a distinct difference between asking 1) have you been the victim of a rape and 2) have you been forced to have sex with someone without your consent. She said the conductors of the study probably contacted and asked women if they had been raped.

"Consistently, people will say they haven't been raped but have been forced to have sex with someone," she said.

The reason these questions differ so much is because the number of acquaintance rapes has increased, and women who are victims of an acquaintance rape usually don't consider themselves to have been raped.

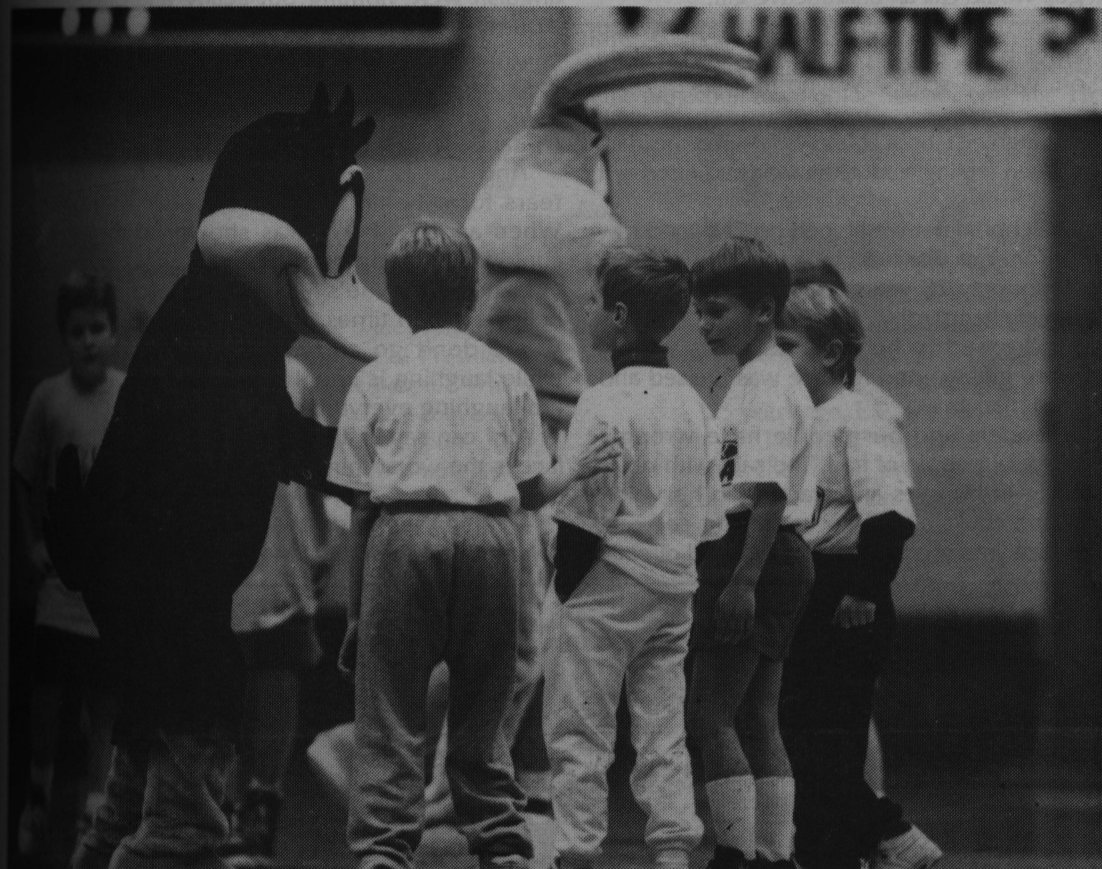

The study also said only 48 percent of the women said they had been raped by someone they knew, however, Buckley said "an overwhelming number of people have been raped by someone they know." She said this number is well above 50 percent. In fact, a national survey conducted by Ms. Magazine earlier last year reported that 73 percent of women contacted said they were attacked by an acquaintance, however, they didn't label it as rape because they knew their attacker, Buckley said.

Buckley added that what concerns her about the study is the implications it can have on women.

"We're concerned that there are some that don't want to hear about it (sexual assaults) and when they see something like that it reinforces their attitude."

Buckley said the study said only 3 percent of women are victims of violent crimes. "And the statistics we use is that 1 out of 3 women will be victims of crime sometime in their life," she said.

Japan, Germany promise more aid

NEW YORK (AP) - Finance officials from Japan and Germany agreed Monday to provide additional assistance to the multinational coalition fighting to oust Iraq from Kuwait.

The commitments came as top financial officials from the world's seven richest industrial countries pledged to keep the outbreak of war in the Middle East from disrupting global financial markets.

In a joint statement issued after a two-day meeting, the United States and its allies said they stood ready to respond as needed to "maintain stability in international financial markets." The assurances given by the finance ministers and central bank presidents of the United States, Japan, Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Canada were seen as crucial given the potential volatility of the markets during a war.

The statement predicted that the global economy would not fall into a recession this year even though three of the largest countries - the United States, Britain and Canada - have entered a downturn.

Reflecting the optimism of the Bush administration, the allies said they expected the pace of economic activity would pick up later this year, noting that growth remains strong in Germany and Japan.

Senate to hear salary reports

By MATT CAMPBELL
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate will hear a 74-page report Tuesday concerning the Board of Governors salary rate for teachers at its five universities.

The report, which will be presented by associate mathematics professor Bob Megginson, will detail the BOG's management of its five universities and how Megginson believes the BOG is responsible for low salaries there. The BOG ranks last statewide in full-time teacher salaries.

The report maintains the BOG has caused the salary rates for full-time employees at its five universities to be drastically lower than the other universities in Illinois. The BOG oversees Eastern, Western Illinois University, Chicago State University, Governors State University, Northeastern Illinois University.

Information in the report indicates that since academic years 1976-1977 to 1989-1990, BOG universities have been below national averages. Other university governing systems in Illinois, such as the Board of Regents and Southern Illinois University systems, have been consistently closer to matching national averages.

Megginson stated the data contained in the report indicates that the quality of education at Eastern and other BOG universities will steadily deteriorate unless the current salaries are raised.

The senate will meet Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the BOG room of Booth Library.

AB prepares for budget season to commence

By SUZANNE OLIVER
Student government editor

For the next couple of months, Apportionment Board will be busy with its budget season along with receiving final written requests and additional allocations from student organizations.

AB Chair Ken Wake said the board will be accepting line-item transfers, additional allocations and written requests from student organizations until Feb 1.

"Getting them in any earlier doesn't give them preferential treatment," he said.

After student organizations turn in requests and budgets to AB, the organizations will then make a formal presentation to the board, which decides if the proposals are justifiable requests.

"If the board feels they are justified and they meet the qualifications, they will be approved," Wake said.

The AB budget goes through a series of approvals beginning with student government, Joan Gossett, University Union director and UB adviser, and then to be finally approved by Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs.

The AB has from Feb. 11 until March 5 to finish their budget.

Bush must have promised Israel something big

Now that Iraq has fired Scud missiles on Israel, the United States has taken measures to assure the Israelis that they are safe.

President Bush's decision to deploy U.S.-manned Patriot anti-missile batteries to Israel and to intensify U.S. bombing raids against Scud launching sites in Iraq, seems to be proof that the president means business.

Bush hurried to the defense of the Jewish state for many reasons, not the least of which is that the Israelis would normally have initiated a strike against Iraq, perhaps causing a rift in the Arab alliance against Iraq.

In fact, Israeli planes were in the air immediately following the first Scud missile attacks. But after assurances from the American president, those planes landed.

The president asked Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir to refrain from retaliating: The Israelis said all right.

That's the official word, the one coming from the White House, the State Department and the office of the Israeli prime minister.

But the unofficial word, the one that takes into account a policy of back-door diplomacy that gives Israel many things besides a few Patriot missiles, is the one we are curious about.

What must Bush have promised Israel in return for its reserve in the dispute?

One would be politically naive to imagine that the Israelis, longtime subscribers to an aggressive doctrine, would throw up their hands and allow an alliance of non-Israelis to defend them.

No, the truth is that our president promised Mr. Shamir something, something substantial.

That much is evidenced by the comments of Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Arens, a man who understands the Middle East and the policy there of kill or be killed.

Arens is uncomfortable with his country's stand. He's been conditioned to believe that your reputation is only as strong as the harm you inflicted on your last opponent.

Still, Shamir is standing firm, saying his country will not retaliate - not for now.

So when Iraq hits Israel again, we must wonder what Mr. Bush will have to promise Mr. Shamir to keep those Israeli planes out of the air. And we must also wonder if the things the president is promising are worth it.

The Gulf War now has a human face

I came into the newsroom Monday at about 10:30 a.m. to finish up some loose ends I left over the three-day weekend. Considering all the events my friends and colleagues had seen and written about in the past week, we were in a pretty good mood and a few of us were even joking about the Wayne's World segment on Saturday Night Live.

Both Wayne and his "excellent" sidekick Garth shared their views on the best and worst things they saw about the television coverage of the War in the Gulf.

Wayne said the worst name for a reporter belonged to Wolf Blitzer of CNN, but Brit Hume had the best name by far. "It's sort of like James Bond," said Wayne. "Hume, Brit Hume."

"Best hair," continued the bubble-headed Wayne about the newscaster with the best hair. "Ted Koppel - not!" They proceeded to joke about the week's events, commenting on how much the name Scud sounded like something a guy would call an unattractive girl.

"You know when you see a girl from far away and you think she's a total babe, only when you see her up close you're like, 'oh, what a scud,'" Wayne told his sidekick Garth.

We were all laughing about it and it felt like the dark mood we had been feeling about the war had lifted - it wasn't for long.

Just about a half hour later we flipped on CNN and saw an American prisoner of war held by Iraq. He was Navy Lt. Jeffrey N. Zaun, only 28 years old, but looking much older and extremely haggard.

He was still dressed in his pilot suit. His widely opened eyes were glossy, and his face was bruised and speckled with red marks.

"I think our leaders and our people have wrongly attacked the peaceful people of Iraq," he said with obvious fear glistening in his eyes and cracking in his voice. By seeing him, we could all tell he was being coerced. The look on his face was of a man facing the devil directly

Soon after the mood became somber and we became quiet. The reality of the war had hit us again, living color via satellite from Iraqi television. I couldn't even imagine the other thoughts going through Lt. Zaun's and the other POWs' heads. And as callous as sounds, I didn't want to.

The Chicago Tribune Monday printed a story on the POWs, made up of three Americans, one Italian, one Kuwaiti and two Brits. The Tribune printed that excerpt from Zaun, and even explained about how the two men who had monitored the tape were POWs in Vietnam. Like us, they believed the men had been coerced into giving their statements. Seeing those words from Lt. Zaun in print didn't effect me until I saw them uttered from his tired and heavy face.

In high school I was assigned to read chapters in history books dealing with the technical aspects of war and the POWs taken into captivity. But those books never bothered to explain what those captives went through. Hollywood even tried to show the life of POWs in Hilltop, but that was Hollywood. The bruises were put on with make-up and the scenes of despair, anger and anguish were nothing but acting and directorial techniques learned in school.

Lt. Zaun's bruises were real.

Lt. Zaun's fear was real.

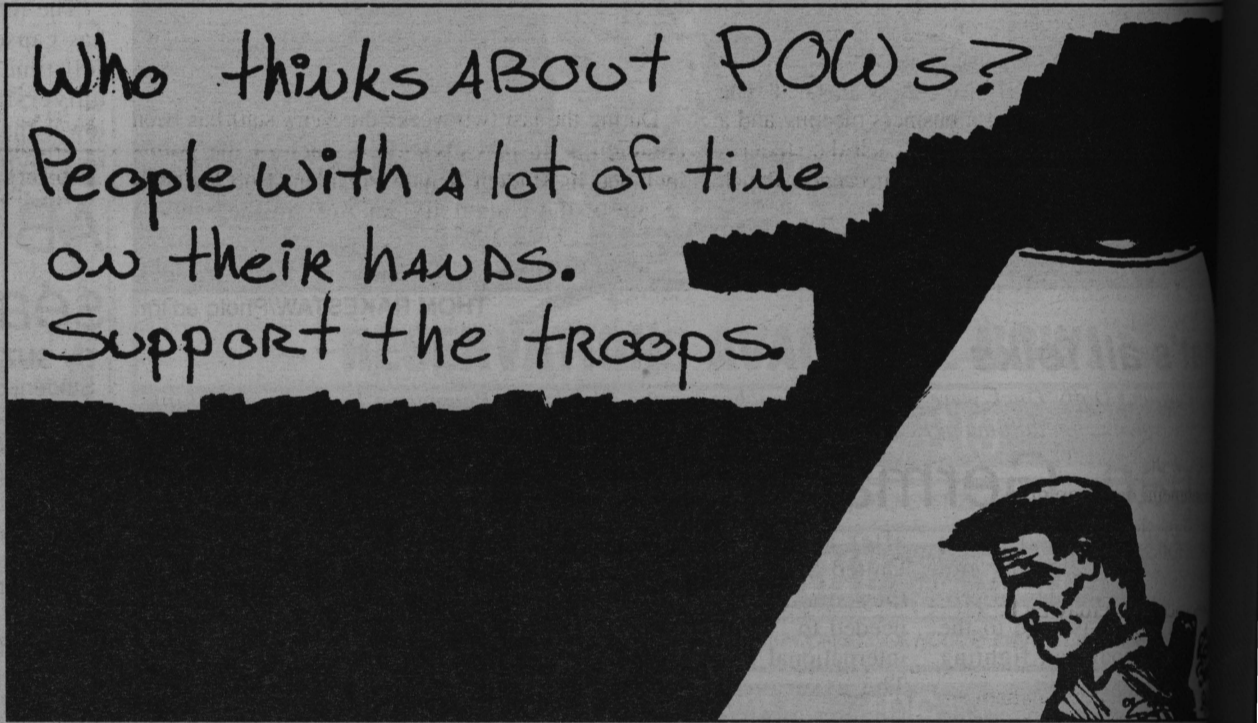

Lt. Zaun's glossy eyes were not made with special contacts. They were real.

And that is what hit me the hardest. I could feel tears form behind my eyes as he went on talking. When another POW was shown on the television, I could feel nothing but nausea.

I know "Wayne's World" is sketch comedy and I don't believe that in times of crisis we need to laugh a lot so we don't go crazy. But I learned yesterday that while laughing is fine, I shouldn't believe that because I'm laughing everything going on in the Gulf is OK.

All I can say is after seeing Lt. Zaun, his frightened face is the worst thing about the war I've seen so far.

Kammerer's logic twists the bounds of an unbiased view

Dear editor:

I'd like to respond to the letter to the editor from Joe Kammerer.

Joe, get an unbiased look at the world. Please.

I'd like to shed some light on an area you left completely in the dark: hypocrisy. You may not see George Bush as a terrorist, but by firing missiles at Iraq he is senselessly killing innocent people.

Sure, Iraq did not comply with U.N. Resolution 678, the resolution allowing the removal of Iraq from Kuwait by any means necessary after Jan. 15. And now the United States feels it has every right to attack Kuwait. But when Israel did not cooperate with U.N. Resolution 338, the resolution which asked Israel to leave the territories it was illegally occupying (remember the West Bank, Gaza Strip, East Jerusalem and Golan Heights, Joe?), we did nothing. The U.N. Security Council could not pass any resolutions allowing the use of force because one of Israel's main allies is the United States, a country with a permanent seat and veto power on the Security Council.

The United States had many reasons to help Kuwait, but the methods used should have been peaceful, without threats and deadlines. And if the allied forces win in this crisis, the United States also should help get Israel out of the territories it is illegally occupying.

Jamie Riley

'Teach in' did not live up to its name

Dear editor:

I went to the "teach in" last Wednesday to become informed on the Gulf Crisis. But instead of becoming informed, I became confused and angered. This "teach in" was a ploy to rally people to protest.

The speakers were very biased in their opinions and did not represent all views. This rally was very unprofessional and insulting to people who really support troops in Saudi Arabia.

Furthermore, the Campus notice for this "teach in" was misleading. The word "teach" is to inform, not to confuse. I was well aware of many people who were very confused by the unprofessional opinions of the speakers.

As an education major, I was insulted that this group of people used the word "teach" to rally people to protest. And I simply don't think that people should be informed of what happened.

Local agency gets $1 million

By NANCY CHIAVOLA
Staff writer

A $1 million grant from the East Central Illinois Area Agency on Aging has been given to the Peace Meal Senior Nutrition program, which is designed to provide meals for low income senior citizens.

Michael Strader, director of Eastern's Peace Meal Senior Nutrition program, said the program was initiated through the Older Americans Act of 1965.

"A need was seen for retired senior citizens who weren't eating right," Strader said. "Money has been appropriated for it ever since."

The program began in Champaign in 1976, serving 475 persons daily at 27 sites in 12 counties.

Since then, the program has grown significantly, now serving 1,600 persons daily at 55 sites in 14 counties, including Coles.

Strader noted that home deliveries can be made to accommodate those people unable to transport themselves to the designated sites.

The meals, served between 11:15 a.m. and 12:15 p.m. follow federal guidelines, Strader said. The meals consist of turkey, chicken, beef, pork, fish, two one-half cups of fruit, bread and butter, a desert and one-half pint of milk.

"We try to give them a variety," Strader said.

Senior citizens currently receiving the meals are "very satisfied," he added. "We have had very few complaints through the years."

"The association of eating with friends makes it more than just a meal," Strader said.

So we ask you, what can the basketball team do without your support? But your mere presence is not going to act as a very great stimulus to the team. The thing to do is ROOT. And root hard ... So if we do the rooting, the team will do the shooting, and by that cooperation, we'll win - we're bound to.

The junior class last Monday night held a party and a dance in the gym. Most of the class attended. The affair was a combination of a business meeting and a dance. Mrs. Wilson undertook to teach the students the fox trot and from all reports she succeeded. Punch was served.

As last we have our box installed. It is under the senior bulletin board on the corridor leading to the model school. If you have a good joke on someone or a news item on any kind, drop it in the box and help us.

Jan. 22, 1941

Dr. Walter Klehm, head of Eastern's Industrial Arts department, has been granted leave of absence from part of his duties in order to serve as assistant supervisor of national defense training with the state department of Vocational Education in this district, it was announced yesterday by President R.G. Buzzard ... During the next six months, Klehm will help to organize the defense instruction program at Danville, Oblong, Mattoon, Effingham and at Eastern.

"Life Habits of Reptiles," a silent motion picture, was shown to a large group of students on Wednesday ... in the projection room of the Science building. The science department is striving to further visual education by showing several films each term.

College women outdistanced their male classmates in a tabulation of fall quarter house grade point averages ... Averages for all 54 women's houses, including Pemberton Hall, figured 1.32 out of a possible 3.00 points; while the figure for the 56 men's houses, including the organized houses, came to 1.28.

Violinist Isaac Stern will present a concert at Eastern at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 25 in Lantz Gym ... Stern, described by the London Times as "belonging to that great company of virtuosi around whose names legends have grown in the course of history," will present a recital of baroque, classical, romantic and modern works.

During the last two weeks the News staff has been conducting an investigation of each of the points included in Student Senate President Bob Luther's "State of the University" address to the Student Senate on Dec. 2, 1965.

Some evidence was found to partially support almost all of the charges made in the speech and some of the points were found to be completely true. Some, however, were found without any supporting evidence such as the charges made about the food staff.

Eighty-nine men pledged Eastern's six social fraternities last Thursday evening. Alpha Kappa Lambda, 13; Delta Sigma Phi, 14; Pi Kappa Alpha, 15; Sigma Pi, 27; Sigma Tau Gamma, 11; and Phi Sigma Epsilon, nine.

A tour of Charleston Community Memorial Hospital for medical technology and pre-medical students will be held tonight. Personnel from the hospital will serve as guides for tours of the hospital laboratories and X-ray department.

Men's track team starts strong

By BRIAN HARRIS

Eastern's men's track squad had an encouraging individual performance this weekend at both the Invitational at Indiana and the Quadrangular at Lantz Fieldhouse.

Head coach Neil Moore entered several individuals in various events at the IAC meet to give his Panthers a taste of stiffer competition.

"I was real pleased with the team group," said Moore. "The objective of taking them to the meet was to supply them with some competition. What resulted was that many of them received personal bests in their events and others ran very close to their personal bests."

In December, Braidy Miller showed Moore his capability in the 500-meter event by qualifying for the NCAA meet by two feet. Now, after winning the shot put on Saturday with a put of 56-feet, 4 inches, Miller is showing promise in that event as well.

Miller also placed second in the 500-meter event with a throw of 51 1/2-inches, coming very close to his December throw of 63 1/2-inches.

Don Steele won the 400-meter event with a 48.50, coming close to the meet record of 48.47. "I was real happy with my race," said Steele. "I still have a lot of improving to do though. I cut down my training schedule over break, but I think in two weeks or so I'll be back to my top form."

Steele also anchored Eastern's second-place finish in the 4x400-meter relay. Chris Fowler, Jeff Fester and Jim Sledge joined Steele for a finishing time of 3:29.

Sledge ran 7.58 in the preliminaries of the 55-meter high hurdles

Saverson leads women

Eastern's women's track team participated in the Purdue Invitational, a non-scoring meet, this weekend, and several of the Lady Panthers turned in some noteworthy results, according to coach John Craft.

Senior long jumper Esta Saverson placed second overall and first of collegiate competitors with a jump of 18-feet, 3 3/4-inches. Craft noted that the first-place finisher was an "unattached competitor." She was not affiliated with a college.

In the 800-meter run, Eastern's Tracey Hoffman ran 2:26.88 to finish in eighth place. The 55-meter hurdle's sixth-place finisher was Eastern's Donna Levy, who ran a time of 8.47 seconds.

Tera Mayner finished fifth in the high jump event with a leap of 5-feet 5 1/4-inches. Also, Aislinn Wiley of Eastern placed 12th in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 19:01, a personal best.

"I was quite pleased with Aislinn," Craft said. "Mayner and Saverson are off to fine starts as well. They turned in very good performances."

Craft added that the Invitational sported several top teams, including Ball State, Chicago State, DePaul, Eastern Michigan, Illinois State, Louisville and Michigan State. Other teams that took part were Iowa, Tennessee, Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Wisconsin-White Water, Valparaiso and host Purdue. Eastern hosts the Seventh Annual Lady Panther Invitational at 11 a.m. Saturday at Lantz Fieldhouse.

and ran 7.60 in the finals to grab fifth place. Milers Jim and Ron Fagan made steady improvements on their personal best times, coming in at fourth and seventh places at 4:11.44 and 4:12.74 respectively.

Eastern's top performer in the jumping events, Nevin Govan, placed first in the triple jump with a leap of 49-feet, 6 3/4-inches, which ranks sixth on Eastern's all-time list. He also placed third in the long jump at 24-feet, 7 3/4-inches.

Govan missed a chance at a school record when he jumped 25-feet, 10-inches and had it disallowed when the jump was ruled a foul by 1/4-inch. Pole vaulters Jeff Morello and Brent Bickhaus tied for fifth place after clearing 14-feet, 11-inches.

At the EIU quadrangular, many of Eastern's athletes showed promise for future competition.

Scott Touchette won the 5,000-meter run. Touchette, who won by 23 seconds, finished in 15:19.46. Joe Gianneschi won the pole vault with a jump of 13-feet, 6-inches. Both the 4x400- and two-mile relays were won by Eastern in 3:28.45 and 8:18.42, respectively.

Eastern recorded many second and third place performances throughout the course of the meet.

Mike Haars placed second in the 800-meter run with a personal-best 1:57.34, and Eric Baron caught second in the mile at 4:20.30. Weightmen Fred Robinson and Mike Ford went 2-3 in the shot put at 48-feet, 4-inches and 46-feet, 4 3/4-inches.

Decathlete Darrin Steele entered five events in the meet. His best effort came while anchoring Eastern's winning 4x400-meter relay.

Both swim teams drop weekend meets

By DON FISHER

Eastern's men's swim team lost to Bradley University and the Lady Panthers lost to Illinois State University on Saturday, giving the men a record of 2-9 and the women a 5-3 slate for the season.

The men's meet was expected to be a double dual against Bradley and Loyola, but Loyola failed to show.

Even so, the men swam hard against Bradley but fell short, 105-100.

"We swam some short events, which is something we don't do very often," Eastern head coach Ray

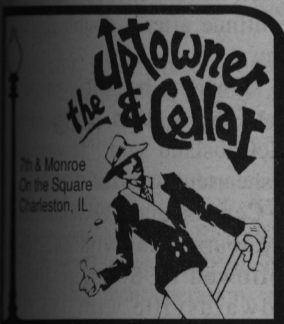

Padovan said. "So we got some swims that were slightly different than normal."

Eastern's Chad Jessen, a diver/swimmer, won both the one- and three-meter diving competition.

The Lady Panthers faced one of their toughest meets of the season and were defeated 179-112.

"They (Illinois State) are an exceptionally good team," Padovan said. "We didn't win any events and they pretty much controlled the meet all the way through."

Although there were no victories, junior Lana Brown placed third in both the 200-yard individual medley (2:26.2) and the 200-yard butterfly (2:27.6).

Panthers sweep Mid-Continent weekend

Johnson's 26 lead Eastern past CSU 70-47

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Associate sports editor

Eastern head coach Rick Samuels gave his Panthers a pre-game talk before their meeting with Mid-Continent Conference leader Cleveland State Monday night in Lantz Gym.

"I told them before the game that (Cleveland State) is leading the league, they're scoring 85 points a game, and if we're going to beat them, we have to hold them defensively," Samuels said.

And the Panthers did just that, limiting the Vikings to 7-of-27 shooting in the second half and 38.5 percent for the game in Eastern's 70-47 pounding of CSU to complete a two-game weekend sweep over the league's two Ohio opponents.

Eastern, which upped its record to 7-7 overall and 3-2 in the Mid-Continent in front of 1,114 fans, beat Akron 75-65 Saturday night.

Led by junior forward Barry Johnson's 26 points, a season high, and 15 by Dave Olson, Eastern dominated the second half, limiting the Vikings to just 18 points.

The Panthers jumped out to a quick 31-13 lead, capped by Olson's second three-pointer of the evening. But Cleveland State, which suffered its first conference loss (5-1) and dropped to 9-8 overall, cut the lead to 34-29 with 1:31 left in the half.

But Eastern extended a 38-29 halftime lead to 20 points (58-38) on a tip-in from center Steve Nicholson off a missed free throw from Johnson.

"It's guys like that (Nicholson) who are really helping this team," Samuels said. "The guys who are really getting the job done are guys like Rod McKinnis. He only made two baskets, but he's a tough, hard-nosed defender."

McKinnis finished the game with six rebounds to lead the Panthers, but held Steve Givens, the conference's leading rebounder, to just six boards.

Eastern led the game by as much as 29 points and held CSU to just 10 points for much of the second half until the Vikings scored eight points in the final 4:03.

"Coach really stressed for us to go out and play hard," said Johnson, who shot 8-of-14 from the field. "We came out hard and played pretty well."

"Shooting goes on and off for people. They got off track a little in the second half and we were able to capitalize off of that."

Givens led the Vikings with 10 points, while 7-foot center Shawn Fergus, who had eight points in the first half, finished with just nine.

"I've been able to adjust to my role," said Olson, who has been coming off the bench of late as the Panthers' sixth man. "I have to accept it." Olson shot 5-of-6 from three-point range on the night.

In Saturday's game, the Panthers again jumped out to a big first-half advantage but led by only six (34-28) at the intermission and were down 54-52 with 9 minutes left.

But Eastern went on a 14-5 run, including a 10-0 outburst to take command of the game. Guard Steve Rowe led a balanced Eastern attack with 20 points. Guard Gerald Jones added 17, while Johnson score 16 and Olson 12.

Pete Freeman, who entered the game third in the nation in field goal percentage, led all scorers with 23 points on 9-of-13 shooting and 13 rebounds, while teammate Albert Jones scored 22 and added 10 boards. Akron is now 9-6, 2-4.

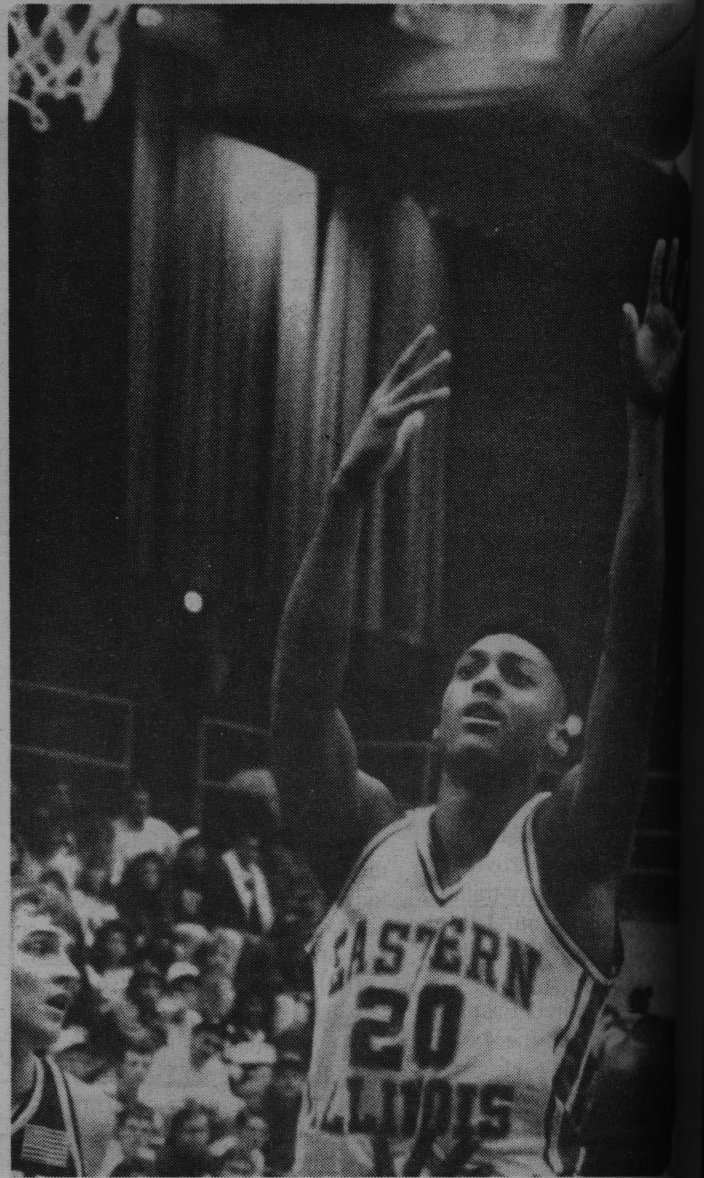

The Panthers now face a four-game road trip, the first three of which come against Mid-Continent foes. Eastern has yet to win away from Lantz in six attempts.

ISU downs women 64-56

By KAREN MEDINA
Staff writer

Eastern's women's basketball team dropped another notch in the Gateway Conference race by losing to Indiana State 64-56 Saturday in Lantz Gym.

The Lady Panthers, 6-9 overall and 1-6 in the Gateway Conference, fell behind at the end of the first half 37-23. The Lady Panthers only shot 35 percent from the field, compared to Indiana State's 56 percent.

The Lady Sycamores scored the final six points of the half. Sophomore guard Mychaela Brandle scored the last four points to end the half.

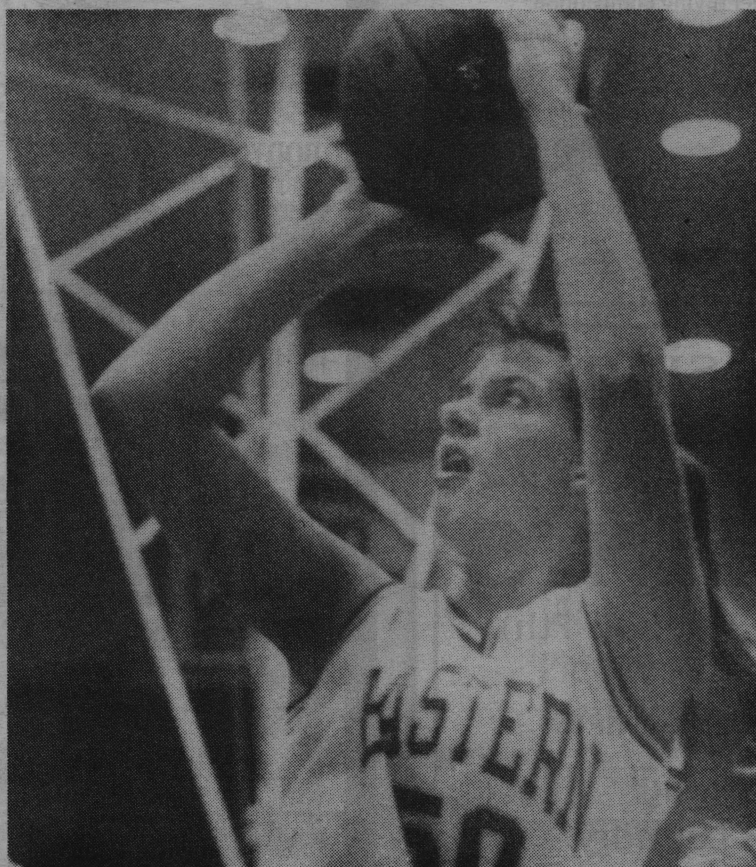

Senior center Julie Lein led all scorers with 23 points on 8-of-15 shooting. She also had a game-high 11 rebounds. Hazel Olden was the only other Lady Sycamore to score in double figures with 10 points.

Eastern guard Tracy Roller led the Lady Panthers with 16 points and center Stacy Frierdich chipped in with 10 and grabbed seven rebounds. Bev Williams led with eight boards.

"We have been working on our offense," said Eastern coach Barbara Hilke. "(yet) we showed a lot more defense in this game."

"The loss hurt us," said Williams. "We weren't shooting well at all."

The last-place Lady Panthers travel to Cedar Falls, Iowa, to meet Northern Iowa on Thursday.

Eastern's wrestlers finish fifth at SMSU

By KEN RYAN
Staff writer

The return of David Marlow and Bob Johnson was not enough to help Eastern's wrestling team at Saturday's Southwest Missouri State Invitational.

Although Marlow and Johnson, who have been slowed by injuries this season, both took second place, the Panthers only managed to place fifth in the seven-team tournament.

Injuries still hurt Eastern as Tom Hugunin (at 158-pounds) and heavyweight John Hilkey both rested injuries, Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland said.

"We just didn't want to take the risk of serious injuries with over a month-and-a-half to go in the season," McCausland said. "We just had to rest both wrestlers."

Sophomore John Weber, who wrestled at 126-pounds, finished 3-1 on the day and took third-place in his division to improve his season record to 14-9.

Marlow, who had a shot at winning his division, defaulted his final match and finished second. The injury is believed to be minor and Marlow is not expected to miss any action.

Despite the injuries, McCausland was happy with the team's performance.

"Things just did not go our way. The officiating was incredible," McCausland said.

Mike Wheatley, who won his first match, suffered a disappointing loss in his second when his opponent was unable to continue after a double-leg takedown.

"It was a beautiful match, but the ref called it a foul," McCausland said. "It was disheartening to see that."

Central State Oklahoma led the tournament with 142 points, followed by Southern Illinois Edwardsville with 115. Southwest Missouri State scored 100 points. Eastern finished with 61.5 points on the day.

Phil Johns of Southern Illinois-Edwardsville was the most valuable wrestler in the tournament. Johns was Eastern's Weber his only wrestler prevented him from winning the division.

Ray Serbick, who led the team with a 25-11 record, finished fourth-place in the 134-pound division after defaulting in two matches.

Illinois State and nationally ranked Northern Iowa will meet with the Panthers.
