Marvin: Could support tuition hike

by Lori Miller
President Daniel Marvin, saying that university funding is a shared responsibility between students and the state, said Wednesday he would support a tuition increase.

Marvin also discussed plans for meeting with students and faculty groups, the search for a new vice president and his activities on campus so far.

Marvin, in his first official day in office, said he also supports a proposal to increase tuition by $90 for undergraduate students, which will come before the Board of Governors (BOG) Thursday.

Marvin said, however, that before tuition is increased, "there's got to be an understanding with the state that it is a shared responsibility."

The $90 increase, if approved, would mean that students would pay approximately one-third their instructional costs, a figure Marvin said is close to what other university students pay.

However, Marvin also said he is concerned that unless a commitment is made by the state to funding education, the state may "take a tuition increase as a signal to decrease appropriations."

"My big concern is if student money is used as a substitute by the state," Marvin said. "If that happens, we are moving backwards."

Marvin also said that the one-third costs formula, originally set up by the Board of Higher Education (BHE) in Illinois, could help students become more interested in helping to keep costs down.

Marvin explained that if students realize they will pay proportionately as costs rise, they will become more "supportive of management and cost conservation."

"As a manager (of the university and its budget), I am convinced that students can be my assistants," Marvin said. "I can have an ally in cost-effective management."

Marvin also said a tuition increase could conflict with the goal of providing access for most students to an education.

"It will decrease accessibility, which is a shame. We should help provide financial aids for those who are kept out," Marvin said.

"However, without a tuition increase the quality of higher education will decline," he added.

Marvin also said he is "pleased" with promises from Governor James Thompson to direct more funding toward education.

"It isn't enough, and it isn't what was asked for, but it is symbolic — he's showing that the state will consider education as a priority," Marvin said.

Marvin added he has not had an opportunity to discuss the BOG tuition increase proposal with student government leaders, who are lobbying against a hike, or with BOG members themselves.

Marvin did say, however, that he does plan to meet with student leaders beginning next week, as well as the vice presidents and deans.

Marvin also said that he plans to get the search for a new vice president for academic affairs "actively underway as soon as possible."

The search is to replace resigning Vice President Peter Moody.

"This is the best time to recruit rather than waiting until June or July," Marvin said. "By then all the good ones know what their plans are."

But Marvin added he does not have a definite deadline for the final selection of the vice president.

Marvin also said he plans to meet with the Faculty Senate as soon as possible next week.

He added, however, that he does not plan to address the faculty as a whole until he "gets an idea of where he is and what he's doing."

"I don't want to go making pronouncements yet to the faculty, although I think (addressing them) will be an awfully good thing to do," he said.

An address to the faculty may also take place when the official ceremony inaugurating Marvin as president is held, he said.

Marvin also discussed his role in collective bargaining as president, saying he is unsure as yet what that role will be.

He added that although he will talk with leaders of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) on campus, he is more interested in speaking directly to faculty on issues.

"I think there is a difference between the AFT and the faculty in terms of the university's structure," Marvin said.

Marvin said the AFT is unlike the Faculty Senate and other faculty groups which are established as governing councils on campus because "the AFT is not within the governance of the university."

"I place the structure of university governance as something very important," he added.

In speaking of faculty, Marvin also discussed student evaluation of faculty, saying he is supportive of evaluations.

"I think that too often teacher evaluation is used as a way to make personnel decisions and seldom as a tool for faculty development," Marvin said.

Marvin also touched on his move to Charleston, and his concern over the local school district's financial difficulties.

The Charleston school system may have to depend on state authority to run the system as several tax referendums to help funding have failed.

Marvin said he is "discouraged" by the financial troubles, as they represent the only drawback in moving to Charleston.

"We had a very accelerated school system in Virginia and (the system here) may present a real problem," Marvin said.

Marvin has three school-age children who will be attending Charleston schools.

Marvin's family is scheduled to arrive in Charleston in about two weeks.

Marvin said he has spent "a month in transition" in moving from Virginia to Charleston.

"I've just been living in bits and pieces — just batching it so far," Marvin said.

Marvin said his schedule this week will include the BOG meeting on Wednesday and Thursday, and a "day in the office" on Friday.

$15,000 in damage results when crane drops cooling tower

by Pat Paxton
Approximately $15,000 damage was done to a 30-ton crane while it attempted to lift a cooling tower off the roof of the University Union Tuesday.

Everett Alms, physical plant superintendent, said the crane's boom was either broken or bent after it dropped a cooling tower, one of three to be replaced, on the Union's roof.

Alms said that the old unit was lifted and so off the roof before the boom on the crane broke.

Alms estimated the crane's value at $15,000.

He said that although he did not know if the old unit dropped was damaged, all three of the old units will be replaced.

The crane is owned by Clyde Dial Construction Co. of Decatur.

Eastern has a contract with Punzak Air Conditioning and Heating Co. of Springfield for replacement of the cooling towers, Alms said.

"Two of the towers are still on the roof," Alms said. "They got the first one down and everything broke loose on the second one."

Alms said that he didn't know whether the crane would be repaired, or if the Decatur firm would send a new one.

"I've heard it might be a month to get the crane repaired, so I don't know if they will send a new one or not. I don't know what they will do," he added.

"We have an April 15 deadline to have the cooling units replaced for the air conditioning," he said.

He added that as long as the units were replaced before the deadline, the university would not get a new crane.

Alms also noted that the three new units were delivered, and that it is the Springfield company's responsibility to store them and they are put on the roof.

Work men examine a 30-ton crane that was damaged Tuesday in an attempt to remove a cooling tower from the roof of the University Union. Everett Alms, physical plant superintendent, said he wasn't sure if or when the crane would be replaced. The damage to the crane was estimated to be $15,000. (News photo by Mark Mancini.)

Senate discusses tuition hike strategy despite no quorum

by Norm Lewis
Continuing efforts and strategy to prevent a possible tuition hike was the major item of business the Student Senate discussed Tuesday since a quorum was not present.

The senate met on Tuesday rather than its usual Thursday time to allow student government personnel to attend the Board of Governors (BOG) meeting Thursday, but fell one member short of having the 20 members needed for a quorum.

The BOG will decide at that time if the tuition hike of $90 for undergraduates and $120 for graduate students as recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (BHE) will be imposed.

A chartered bus that will carry 41 students to the BOG meeting to protest their BHE proposed tuition hike still has 11 seats open, Chip Liczwek, co-chairperson of the Political Studies committee, said.

A total of $436.52 has been either pledged or collected toward defraying the costs of the bus, Financial Vice President Rick Ingram said.

In addition, about 50 anti-tuition buttons and 100 certificates for a Hardee's roast beef sandwich will go on sale in the University Union Wednesday to help raise money for the bus.

Concerning the student arguments that will be presented at the BOG meeting against a tuition hike, BOG student representative Mike Marine said he is preparing several arguments to present to the board.

Marine said he will examine the report issued Tuesday to BOG members by Executive Director Donald Walters concerning his rationale for a tuition increase to try to find flaws in his reasoning.

In addition, Marine said he and the other four student representatives from the BOG schools will caucus Wednesday night after the board is done with its executive session to coordinate the student effort against proposed hike.

He explained that the attitude of the protesters at the meeting will depend much on the feelings developed by the student caucus.

Student Body President Dan Fowler who said he is going to meet with the student caucus, added that he will meet Eastern's bus when it arrives in Chicago

Senate: Delay faculty evaluation until contract negotiated

Denise Healer
The Faculty Senate voted Tuesday to recommend that the present faculty evaluation system be suspended until the contract has been negotiated for next year. The senate's action came because of "widespread (faculty) unhappiness" with the current system of evaluation, Senate spokesperson Joe Connelly said.

The recommendations will be forwarded to a committee formed by Vice President for Administrative Affairs Martin Schaefer while he was acting president.

The committee was established to look into the possibility of revising the current evaluation system.

In addition, the senate discussed a possible revision in Apportionment Board (AB) by-laws which would allow the Student Senate, instead of the Faculty Senate, to choose the faculty AB members. In a vote of seven to five with two abstentions, the senate decided that, until negotiations have been completed, the evaluations should be suspended except for those persons who have been recommended for promotion, tenure or retention. The annual evaluations, which were completed Monday by the Departmental Personnel Committees (DPC), are designed to evaluate faculty members according to several criteria, including teaching effectiveness, commitment to students, professional development and research done.

Under the current system, the DPC rank faculty members numerically on the various criteria.

Connelly said that faculty are upset with the system process because the "instructions are so subjective that it is impossible to put people in rank order."

Another complication with the evaluation process and any revision of it involves collective bargaining, since procedures for evaluation would be determined when the faculty contracts are negotiated.

American Federation of Teachers (AFT) Chapter President Richard Dulka told the senate that any revisions made to the present system could possibly "weaken the hand of the faculty at the bargaining table."

Dulka added that when one contract is negotiated, guidelines for establishing an evaluation process will probably be included but that probably no specific criteria would be laid out.

In other action, the senate discussed AB, by-law changes and upcoming Faculty Senate elections.

Student Body President Dan Fowler said that Schaefer had approved the student government revisions of the AB by-laws with one stipulation.

One of the changes, Fowler said, would be that the Student Senate instead of the Faculty Senate would choose the faculty members of the board.

Schaefer had stipulated that this change would have to be deferred to the Faculty Senate, Fowler said.

Fowler said the reason for proposing this change was that the faculty members had been "lax in attending" the meetings.

The senate took no action Tuesday on the by-law change but will read the changes and discuss the matter at the next meeting.

David Buchanan, of the Chemistry Department, said that the Faculty Senate would have more control of faculty attendance than the Student Senate.

He added that the Faculty Senate had not been told by the students of the lack of faculty attendance and that members could be replaced if they were not coming to the meetings.

'Chicken' music fouling airwaves

Contemporary creative talents have finally come up with a new alternative to sticking one's finger down one's throat to induce vomiting.

It's called "Chicken In the Mood," and if you haven't heard it yet just switch on our local purveyor of musical entertainment, WEIC, and it will probably be broadcast within 20 minutes — and every 20 minutes or so for the rest of the day.

Credi for this "song" — in reality three minutes of obnoxious squawking by a recently castrated chicken which somehow follows the tune of "In the Mood" — goes to "The Henhouse Five Plus Two," known better, but not more favorable, as Ray Stevens.

Ray Stevens. He brought us such favorites as "Ahab the Arab," "Guitar-Zan," "The Streak" and a few more I swore I would forget.

But my quarrel is not with Stevens. After all, if the sensitivities of the great listening public lie that close to barnyard-level...well, it ain't all chickenfeed.

Radio stations, like Stevens, play up to the current absence of taste and intelligence among "Top 40" followers, perpetuating for the financial benefits involved a string of hits which every couple of months brings us to a new cultural low.

Just who listens to this crap, and why? Well, among the staff members of the Eastern News there are a few who insist on turning up the volume every time "Chicken" is aired.

They say it is "funny." I think it a powerful coincidence and a poignant comment of respect for the world of music that at about the same time "Chicken" hit the airwaves someone began relieving himself in the Fine Arts practice rooms.

Has anyone seen Ray Stevens around campus recently?

'Hustler' is not the danger

eastern news Editorial

The conviction of Larry Flynt, publisher of "Hustler" magazine, for obscenity and "organized crime" in connection with distribution of his magazine in an Ohio county has kindled the worst fears of those in the business of publishing pornographic materials, and should similarly warn everyone involved in the communications field.

The decision of the Supreme Court, which reversed the conviction, was written by Justice John Harlan, considered a conservative member of the court, and stated the argument most eloquently.

The court has said, in essence, that Flynt's pictures should not be available — even to those who want them — and that Flynt must be jailed for his offense to the public.

"For, while the particular four-letter word being litigated here is perhaps more distasteful than most others of its genre," Justice Harlan wrote, "it is nevertheless often true that one man's vulgarity is another's lyric."

We agree that "Hustler" is obscene in the sense that most people are morally offended by the pictures and do not wish to see them.

Although "Hustler" may seem obscene to most, it is certainly not seen as such by Flynt or his subscribers, and for the courts to prohibit distribution of "Hustler" is a violation of the principles which a free press functions under and must defend.

We disagree that the publication and distribution of "Hustler" is a crime that warrants a prison sentence in Ohio or anywhere else in the United States.

Assistant Appeals Judge Fred Cartolano, in setting bail Monday for Flynt, said he thinks "The magazine is a danger to the community."

The underlying theme of the First Amendment rights of a free press had its beginnings in the Supreme Court with the Abrams case in 1919 when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes expressed the Marketplace of Ideas theory, the backbone of an open-minded society.

It is not.

Holmes said that if ideas are allowed to circulate fully and freely then those which are of value, which express truth, will be acclaimed as such by the majority of the public.

The real danger is the suppression of literature and the punishment of publishers who express through words and pictures philosophies and opinions which are not adhered to by the majority of the people.

The "best test of truth is the power of the thought to get itself accepted in the competition of the market," Holmes wrote, and to hinder the expression of competing philosophies is to hinder the search for ultimate truth.

We have no patience with other publications, such as the Chicago Tribune, which support the conviction of Flynt. They oppose "obscenity" and see no harm in suppressing its publication and sending its most vivid proponent to prison.

Thus, even bad or "obscene" materials serve their purpose, for unless they are allowed to be expressed, one can never be sure that the prevailing philosophies are the best ones; they have never been "tested."

We, too, do not like pornography such as "Hustler" prints, but in the interests of preserving the ideals which stand behind freedom of the press and, in a larger sense, democracy, we will continue to defend the right of "Hustler" to be published.

That ideal has not faltered since Holmes' time, as can be seen in the 1971 case of Cohen vs. California, in which a young man was convicted of "offensive conduct" for wearing a jacket bearing the words "Fuck the Draft" in a Los Angeles County courthouse.

'Trust in Hickman'

Editor,

It is election time once again, perhaps not with the significance of last November, but of great importance to Eastern students nonetheless.

The incumbent mayor, Bob Hickman, deserves the trust and support of the students. He has appointed students to municipal boards, built bike pathways to downtown area, increased the number of tennis courts and placed numerous crosswalks near the campus area for the benefit of all.

Charleston elections are non-partisan. Because of the great accomplishment of Hickman, Republicans and Democrats alike are working together to help him get fraternity I pledged was Delta Sigma Phi, not Delta Sigma Pi, and second it is not a question of legality but a question of my personal morals and feelings.

Resignation notes

Editor,

I would like to clarify two points in Norm Lewis' article on Feb. 15. First, the

I feel that my constituents deserve some kind of explanation as to why one of their senators resigned. I resigned to save the senate the internal problems. The senate can be a very productive organization for the students and only if they don't have to spend all of their time on internal struggles.

I do not want to be a hinderance to the Student Senate. I plan to continue my work on Political Studies committee and any other important issue that I am asked to work on.

If I had a choice of the person that would replace me, I would have to say without doubt in my mind that the most qualified and enthusiastic person is Wayne Morris, President of RHA.

I would like to thank all the residential hall people who voted for me and my very very good friends that helped me in my campaign. I shall return next semester.

Student arrested in connection with Des Plaines burglary

Keefe
 Eastern student was arrested Monday and charged Tuesday in connection with the burglary of a Des Plaines store, a person for the Des Plaines Police Department said Tuesday.
 Anthony Sandri, 18, an East Hall student, was charged with burglary along with Robert Arnold of Des Plaines.
 The charge stems from a robbery Tuesday night at the Lake Cook Farm Supply Co. where $3,000 worth of jeans, coats and gloves were taken, Tom company spokesperson, said.
 Sandri said burglars apparently broke through the store window and entered through it Tuesday night and stole the clothing.

Peterson said the window had no alarm on it, and since the store is closed on Sunday, the burglary wasn't discovered until Monday morning.
 Lt. Alfano, of the Des Plaines Police Department said Tuesday Sandri was suspected of the crime because he was selling similar clothing at Eastern.
 Jack Chambers, Eastern security police captain, said Tuesday, "I received a call from an anonymous source who said Sandri committed the crime."
 Chambers said he then called the Des Plaines Police Department to confirm that a robbery had occurred.
 "When they said a robbery had occurred, Sandri was confronted and the clothing was confiscated," Chambers said, adding "The Des Plaines police obtained a warrant for his arrest."

 Sandri was then taken to the Coles County Jail until Des Plaines police arrived Tuesday to formally charge him and bring him to Des Plaines.
 Arnold was arrested by Des Plaines police Monday, Alfano said.

 Chambers said all the clothing was recovered, but Peterson said he was informed that only $2,000 of it was recovered.
 Alfano said bond for Sandri will be set at $2,000 with a preliminary hearing tentatively set for March 11.

'Mad about the boy: Noel Coward' to open Wednesday in fine arts center

Eastern's Interpreters' Theatre production of Noel Coward's "Mad About the Boy: Noel Coward," will begin at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Playroom of the Fine Arts Center.

Tickets for the two-act play are still on sale for the performances which run through Saturday at the same time, J. Sain, promotion and management director for the production, said recently.

Prices are $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for youth and $1 for Eastern students, Sain added. Persons wishing to reserve seats for the performances should contact the Fine Arts Ticket office at 581-3110.

Directed by Donna Shehorn of the Theatre Department, "Mad About the Boy: Noel Coward" attempts to bring to the audience writings both "by and about Sir Noel to develop a composite picture of the man and his world," Sain said.

Sue Saltmarsh of Charleston is the costume designer and Timothy Kickham of Rantoul is the stage manager. The set designer is J. Sain.

Women cagers come from behind to nip ICC

by Brian Nielsen

Eastern's women's basketball team spurred for eight unanswered points in the final five minutes for a 50-48 come-from-behind revenge victory over Illinois Central College (ICC) Tuesday night at McAfee Gym.

The decision avenged an earlier two-point setback to ICC and gave Eastern coach Melinda Fischer something that had been escaping her squad most of the season.

"We've come back before, but then we've always fallen short," she said. "It's good to come out on top."

"Last time (against ICC) we came back from 10 points behind, but then lost it," Fischer recalled. Fischer was coaching against her former high school teacher, Lorine Ramsey.

In what had been a close game most of the way, ICC led 46-42 with five minutes to go, before the Panther women went to work.

Linda Ellsworth, who led all scorers with 22 points, and Sally Niemeyer, who added eight tallies, both put in rebound buckets to tie the score with 4:08 remaining.

Then, after two minutes of scoreless exchanges, Niemeyer led a fast break and found reserve guard Nancy Theis at the baseline. Theis flipped in the shot jumper to put Eastern ahead to stay.

With 1:12 remaining, Ellsworth took a fine feed from Lois Cryder to give the Panthers a 50-46 cushion.

Eastern's press, which forced numerous ICC turnovers and later drew praise from Fischer, got the ball back. But Cryder missed two free throws and the Panthers threw the ball away.

ICC's Kathy Schappaugh was fouled and hit two free throws with 19 seconds left to bring the visitors within two.

The Panthers then got the ball down court against the press, and after they missed two shots from underneath, a jump ball was forced with eight seconds on the clock.

Ellsworth got the tip, and the Panthers stalled out the closing seconds.

"My heart's still beating," smiled a happy Fischer a few minutes later.

Fischer handed out special praise to two of her key substitutes. "I thought Lois Cryder did a nice job off the bench, and Nancy Theis did well at guard," she said.

"I think they keyed on Ellsworth and that gave some of our other people a chance to work."

Cryder helped Ellsworth out on the boards and also put in eight points.

Eastern's zone defense helped build up a nine point lead. The margin dwindled to 27-24 by halftime, however, and ICC outscored the Panthers 12-2 early in the second stanza to go ahead 36-29 with

Cagers to put tournament hopes on line against Parkside

by Ray Romolt

The virtuosos of Lantz Gym — the Eastern cagers — will attempt to keep their playoff hopes alive when the face powerful Wisconsin-Parkside Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in Lantz.

Eastern has compiled a modest two-game win skein, and both of the victories have come in Lantz. The Panther five boast an 11-1 record in their lair, 13-9 overall.

Eddy's troops downed University of Missouri-St. Louis Saturday night and Arkansas-Little Rock Monday.

"Wisconsin-Parkside is a very talented team," coach Don Eddy said. "Let me tell you, they all count as far as a postseason bid is concerned, but this is the one we have to win."

Parkside heralds a 15-8 ledger, and three Gordon Tech of Chicago graduates.

They are 6-4 forward Leartha Scott, 6-10 center Marshall Hill, and playmaking guard Stevie King.

"Scott is their most talented player and primarily the guy we've got to stop, and Hill is their leading rebounder," Eddy offered. Scott averages nearly 25 points per game.

At the other forward is 6-7 Marvin Chones, brother of the Cleveland Cavaliers' Jim Chones. "Chones is their best inside scorer," Eddy commented.

Guard Joe Foots rounds out the quintet that has suffered five of its losses

Division I ballclubs. "They lost to Indiana State in overtime, and Indiana State ranked 19th in the nation in Division I," Eddy remarked.

"They are just a well-coached team, they play very well on the road," Eddy added. "We'll have to execute our offense well because they play good, professional defense — and we'll have to contain

Still in the running for a tournament berth with the Panthers are Young State, Northern Kentucky, Evansville, Joseph's, Bellarmine, Northern Michigan and Akron. Eastern will face Akron in the remaining five games.

Undefeated wrestling squad to face Augustana, Iowa JV

by Brian Nielsen

Eastern's wrestling team expects little trouble in keeping its dual record perfect in its meet with Augustana, but it will get a stiff challenge in an exhibition with Iowa University's junior varsity in a triangular at Augustana of Rock Island Wednesday night.

The Panthers, who jumped from fourth to second in the amateur Wrestling News' latest Division II poll, will take an 8-0 dual record to Augustana and coach Ron Clinton does not think it will be blemished.

The real challenge will come from Iowa University, presently the top rated NCAA Division I squad in the nation.

"I'm not sure who they'll bring — their second string, their freshmen or what — but whoever they bring, I know they'll be tough," Clinton said.

"I'm not going to have my strongest lineup against Augustana," the coach said. "I'm going to want to see some younger kids that need the experience."

The only regular first stringers in Clinton's probable lineup are freshman Doug Schaefer at 118; Gilbert Duran, the only 126 pounder on the present roster; Rick Johnson, who will be trying to break out of a mild slump at 134; Jack Nix, who missed out on nearly a month with an injury before recently getting back to action at 177 and Robin Ayres at 190.

Filling in are senior tri-captain Tom Rounsavall at 142, Jim McGinley, who has been wrestling for injured Barry Hintze at 150; Rudy Reuttiger at 158; Bob Stout at 167; and Chandler Mackey at heavyweight.

Clinton said he will probably use Ralph McClausland at 142 and Dave Klemm at heavyweight against Iowa.

Ed Torrejon, Eastern's 158 pound star, may see action against Iowa, but 167 standout Bob Holland probably won't wrestle at all.

"I just don't want to get anybody injured right now if I can possibly help it," Clinton said.

Avoiding injuries is most important right now, with two big weeks coming up.

On Feb. 23, the Panthers will host a strong Illinois State team. The next evening they travel to Carbondale for a triangular with Southern Illinois and Northern Iowa, ranked fifth in Division II. Then comes the Division II championships at Cedar Falls, Iowa, March 3-4.

Intramural basketball divisions showcase 16 undefeated squads

by Doug Seymour

After two weeks of competition, 16 teams remain undefeated in the men's intramural basketball leagues.

Five teams alone remain unbeaten in the Class A independent division. The defending champion Apostles managed to get by the sticky Flying Gurnards 60-51. The Jaggs had little trouble whipping the Unknowns 58-31, while the Out of Towners continued their winning ways as they defeated the Nets 48-26.

Bad Company (3-0), posted the most impressive victory last week as they annihilated Blue Veins in Action 98-29. The Good Guys proved that they don't always finish last by beating the Black Student Union 49-30.

In the class A fraternity division, Delta Chi shut down Pi Kappa Alpha 68-53, and Sigma Pi manhandled Lambda Chi Alpha 54-27. The Tekes (2-1) beat Kappa Alpha Psi 46-38, while Delta Sigma Phi disposed of the Beta Ballers 53-31.

In class A residence hall action, the Hall Tokers (3-0), floated atop to first with a 51-36 win at the expense of Taylor Hall Norsemen.

Class B competition saw the Spaced Cadets and the Lamb Chops advance their records to 3-0. The Lamb Chops squeaked past the 5'10" Weeds 42-39, and Spaced Cadets were victorious over Quacks, 44-35.

The Mean Machine rolled to a 55-40 over Vet's Club, and survived a close contest with Midlo Muff Divers, 46-44.

In other class B action, the Knights of Meteors 55-44, and the Zee Bees beat Bong Difference 37-22. The Necropsy upped their ledger to 2-0 with a 35-20 over Delta Sigma Phi.

The Buzzards whipped the Botanists 60-36, and the Bohemians calmed the Hurricanes in class C competition.

Defense-oriented Weller Hall beat Alpha Kappa Lambda 32-8 in their tilt, only to lose a heatbreaker to the Pups, 52-51.
