5-year plans

Rives requests goals

by Sue Ann Minor

In order to integrate the academic goals of departments on campus with budget requests an Eastern official has requested all departments write out goals for a five-year academic department plan.

Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives said recently that the individual academic plans from each department will be used to build a university-wide academic plan.

Rives said he hopes the plan will emerge as one university academic plan to identify future program changes that need to be introduced and to provide a series of specific budget requests for academic departments.

Each department chairman was given a six-page handout Sept. 11 describing the information expected from the departments. Department chairmen are expected to return the completed academic plans for their individual department by Thursday, Oct. 15.

One copy will be submitted to Rives and another to the school dean heading the department.

Rives said the handout includes each department's own academic program data form, a format sheet, a data source sheet and a hypothetical academic plan for the departments to use as a guideline in completing their plans.

The department's academic program data sheet provides relevant information for each department on existing degree programs, credit hour production, number of students in that major, how the cost of the major here compared with the state average and an identification of planning issues for the department to address, Rives said.

The data for the individual department data sheets came from information from the Board of Governors, the Illinois Board of Higher Education and a 1979-80 study on program major cost for Illinois public universities.

Department chairmen were requested to involve faculty members in addressing the goals of the department for the next five years. After discussing the goals, faculty members must next decide on program modifications, new options and new degree programs the department hopes to accomplish in five years.

"It's an attempt to supply information about departments and programs to furnish a basis for departments to look at the future," he said.

Rives said the third step requested departments to assess resource needs for program improvements in Fiscal Year 1984.

"We work more than a year ahead (in planning budgets) because of the Illinois budgeting process," he said.

Resource needs were asked to be submitted in priority order beginning with staffing needs. Rives said the departments were asked to describe and justify briefly each new position and the annual cost of each new position.

After staff priority needs, equipment needs were to be requested following the same procedure.

In addition to the staffing and equipment expenses, program improvement resource requests were to be submitted. These include expenses the department does not expect to be met by its normal operating budget, he said.

The final stage included looking over the data compiled and identifying future plans for the department which will affect the quality of the department's academic program. Rives said the departments would be expected to describe objectives and how they intend to achieve them.

Rives said the planning process could be "lengthy or rather quick" depending on how much academic plans each department already makes for the future.

The first step in the analyzing of the data will be between the school deans and their departments.

Spring '81 low grade dismissal figure considered average; increase from fall

by Jennifer Soule

The number of Eastern students dismissed last spring due to poor grades totaled 277, Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said Wednesday.

"Considering the enrollment last spring of 9,413, 277 is an average number," Williams said. "Every semester, the number is usually between 200 and 230."

The dismissal rate has increased for the past three semesters. James Martin, director of the Records Office said the 277 is an increase of 24 students from Fall, 1980 semester. Of the 9,989 students enrolled then, 253 were dismissed for low grades. From Spring 1980, 209 students were dismissed.

Williams added the number of students dismissed for low grades will go up "percentage wise" this fall due to the increase in enrollment.

Eastern's enrollment reached a record high this fall with 10,016 students.

In predicting the rate for this fall semester, Williams said, "This year's incoming freshmen American College Testing (ACT) scores were higher. Therefore, the percentage of those students dismissed will probably be lower."

Williams added there will always be a certain percentage of students who drop out because of low grades.

"I am not surprised at the number of students who were dismissed because Eastern's ACT scores are usually high and the dismissed number usually low," he said.

Williams said students having academic problems are advised to go to the advisement, counseling, retention and tutoring programs available to help the students.

Calvin Campbell, director of the Academic Assistance Center, said each semester at mid-term time, instructors are asked to report any student with a D or F grade in the course.

After receiving those names, Dean of Student Academic Services Samuel Taber makes a list of the students for the academic assistance center office to contact.

"We contact the students and try to get them an appointment with a tutor," Campbell said.

Campbell said his office mainly works with building a schedule for the students for the following semester.

"We try to not schedule too heavy a load so they can handle all their classes," he added.

Petition presented to hearing on Clean Air Act

by Maggie Hinueber

A petition, signed by 50 Eastern students and endorsed by the Student Senate, concerning the Reagan administration proposals to loosen standards in the Clean Air Act was presented to a group of hearing officers Saturday in Champaign.

Student Senator R.W. Monroe said at the time the petition was endorsed by the senate that Eastern students should be concerned with the issue because Eastern's coal conversion project will not include sulfur dioxide emission controls which help to keep the air clean.

"We need to stir up some controversy because by relaxing the standards of air pollution controls, we could be in danger," Monroe said at the meeting.

Lucy Bikulcs, an Eastern graduate student, presented the petition to the hearing officers in addition to a letter from Eastern faculty expressing their views.

The hearing, one of 14 taking place across the country, gave various groups a chance to present their views concerning the Clean Air Act.

Views expressed in the form of a petition will help to determine what action to take on renewing or amending the act, which expired Sept. 1, Bikulcs said.

Bikulcs said all but three groups at the hearing shared Eastern's concerns about relaxing the pollution standards.

"The three groups that agreed with Reagan's proposals represented industry," Bikulcs said.

She said similar hearings will be scheduled on the federal level, and another petition, signed by more students, could be presented.

U.S. increases military— Mideast shipments sped up

CAIRO, Egypt—The United States, which plans an expanded Mideast military presence in the wake of President Anwar Sadat's death, will speed up shipments of fighter planes, tanks, and missile to Cairo, a newspaper reported today.

Meanwhile, Egyptian authorities said at least two more suspects were being sought in the slaying of Sadat, and Egypt's defense minister contradicted previous official reports that one of Sadat's alleged assassins had been killed in the attack.

Defense Minister Abdel Halim Abu Ghazala, in an interview today with The Associated Press, said all four of the suspects survived. He did not elaborate on why the government had previously listed one of the attackers as dead.

Mayo, a weekly newspaper reflecting the views of the ruling National Democratic Party, said assurance of accelerated arms shipments was given to Ghazala by Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, who was part of the official U.S. delegation attending Sadat's funeral on Saturday.

Security-tight prison stops four inmates from escaping

MARION, Ill.—Four inmates of the nation's most secure prison allegedly battered in a door, sawed through window bars and made their way back to the roof of the facility before being caught, an FBI spokesman said Monday.

Agent Joseph E. Ondrula in Springfield said the four were apprehended shortly after the correctional officer spotted them on the roof of the prison about 6 a.m. Sunday. Three of the men were arrested without incident. A fourth received "a superficial wound" when he was shot while attempting to scale a fence, Ondrula said.

Ondrula identified the men as Willie Maggard,

Tuesday's (AP) News shorts

31, serving 25 years for bank robbery, escape and kidnapping; Paul Scott, 54, serving 28 years for conspiracy to commit bank robbery and assault; and Ronald del Raine, 50, serving 204 years for murder, bank robbery and introduction of contraband into a prison. Ondrula said he had no addresses for the men and had no idea which one was injured.

Israel decides to continue keeping peace with Egypt

JERUSALEM—After some hesitation, Israel has decided to plunge ahead with its peace with Egypt. But problems remain, principally the issue of Palestinian autonomy, that will take more than goodwill to resolve.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet on Sunday reached a reportedly unanimous decision to carry out its treaty obligations with Egypt, barring any new unexpected shock.

The key commitment is the scheduled withdrawal next April from the Sinai Peninsula, which will leave Israel's southern flank shorn of its protective buffer zone.

"It is very clear that we have to go on with the peace process even without Sadat—as if Sadat were still alive," said Deputy Prime Minister Simcha Ehrlich.

The Egyptian leader's assassination shook Israel, whose people have long been apprehensive about giving back territory for an intangible promise of eternal peace that could easily be broken, especially once the last Israeli left the Sinai.

Union president joins strike with fellow city teachers

PHILADELPHIA—The president of the city's striking teacher's union joined a picket line today in defiance of a court injunction to end a 35-day walkout and prepare to open classes.

John Murray joined about 40 other teachers outside northeast Philadelphia's Lincoln High School, where he had taught mathematics before becoming the leader of the 22,000-member Philadelphia Federation of Teachers.

Union leaders predicted that thousands would picket despite a back-to-work order that threatens fines, jail sentences and firings.

"I don't believe any teachers are going in anywhere except the few hundred who had been working from the very beginning," Murray said. "We are solid. We are not going to work 'til our contract is in place."

By 9 a.m., eight teachers had been arrested for violating an earlier injunction limiting to four the number of pickets allowed at any entrance to a school building, Sheriff Joseph A. Sullivan said.

Reagan announces refusal to negotiate with PLO

WASHINGTON—President Reagan, restating a long-standing U.S. policy, said Monday the United States will not deal with the Palestine Liberation Organization until the PLO recognizes Israel's right to exist.

Reagan's comments came in response to admonitions by former Presidents Ford and Carter that the United States eventually must negotiate with the PLO to find a lasting peace in the Mideast.

The two former presidents, Reagan's immediate predecessors, gave their assessments during a joint interview enroute back from the funeral of slain Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Administrator to address proposed add-drop plans

by Cathy Crist

In an attempt to resolve issues raised concerning a proposed change in Eastern's add-drop system, Samuel Taber, dean of student affairs, will address the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

Taber and Michael Taylor of the Glover to address A and S committee on gaining members

by Dave Kidwell

Student Body President Bob Glover will present his ideas on how to implement student membership on the Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee when the committee meets Tuesday.

The committee has reached a consensus on three suggested changes in the committee which College of Arts and Sciences Dean Jon Laible proposed recently.

The changes include the initiation of two non-voting student members, an increase in the number of members and longer terms, and a system in which the committees' vice president would automatically become the president for the coming year.

"We have agreed on all of Dean Laible's initial proposals. "But a compromise was reached with the student members," committee chairman Lucinda Gabbard.

The original proposal submitted by Laible included the provision that the student members would have an equal vote.

Glover said, "I don't see any reason why student members won't be able to vote on the committee. They would feel more viable if they were voting members."

Glover said there are several ways to implement the student membership such as electing them from a student advisory committee or the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee.

Registration Office discussed a proposed change in the add-drop system at a Sept. 29 meeting. Taber suggested a system that would physically separate the add lines from the drop lines.

Under the new system, he said, students would drop classes at the registration office and all drops would be processed together at the end of each day.

Taber's proposal also said a list of closed courses would be posted outside the add lines and these courses would remain closed for the rest of the day.

Faculty Senate Chairman Lavern Hamand said, "This should be quite a lively meeting. Many people are unfavorable to the proposal."

Student Senate Speaker Karen Kupsche said she plans on attending the meeting along with other student senators.

"I'm very concerned about the proposal. If we show up with several students, at least the administration will know we are interested in the add-drop situation," she said.

Several problems arose this year with the add-drop system including witnessed cases of course selling and trading in the lines.

Hamand said the full senate will not act Tuesday on bylaws for the student radio station, WELH.

At last week's Student Senate meeting, Student Body President Bob Glover said the Faculty Senate had approved the WELH bylaws which were written this summer and are still in the process of being made official.

The Faculty Senate approval was made in the form of an informal memo from Hamand to Glover. Glover said he was surprised at the action but accepted the approval.

Hamand said the senate did not officially vote on the bylaws because, "We didn't feel it was important. The WELH bylaws really didn't affect us so we did not feel official action was necessary."

Our precarious peace is at stake

Imagine a city teetering on the brink of a gang war.

Two rival gangs have either been engaged in war or on the verge of it for years. Although peace has been reached for the time being, relations between the two remain shaky.

A third group has been involved in the peace-making process of the two rival gangs. Although it has never been directly involved in the fighting, this mediating force's participation in negotiations has placed it in a hazardous position. Were war to break out, it would most certainly be forced to take part in the fighting.

The leader of one of the rival gangs has always been the "best friend" of the peace-making group. He has attempted to spread good feelings about the third group among his followers.

However, this leader's crackdown on opponents of the current peace have placed him in a bad light with some of his troops. These dissidents see war as the only alternative and resent the interference of the third group's attempts at negotiation.

The forces wanting war finally take action.

The great leader is assassinated.

The possibility of war draws closer for the two gangs, and the mediator very possibly could become involved in it.

Sound familiar? It should.

The hypothetical gang war situation parallels the current situation in the mideast and the potential for problems arising with the death of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. The implications of the tragic loss of the United States' best friend in the Middle East are far-reaching.

It may be true that Egypt is thousands of miles away.

But that doesn't lessen the implications of Anwar Sadat's death.

In pursuit of her own best interests, the United States will always be involved in the affairs of the Middle East. Should a war break out there, involvement on our part seems certain.

The internal affairs of a country most of us will never see may be overshadowed at the moment by thoughts of midterms and other "crucial" events at home. It is too easy sometimes to confine our thoughts to what we perceive as important.

The broader view is vitally important here.

In the event of a possible war in the Mideast, it is our generation that would be involved, so the implications continue to hit closer to home.

The loss of Anwar Sadat cannot be passed over as something too far removed to concern us. The death of a good friend, especially in troubled times, can never be taken lightly.

Your Turn

What if whistle fails?

Editor:

I don't know as much about the WhistleSTOP program as I should. I do, however, know this: blowing a whistle to scare somebody off may work 50 percent of the time, but what about the other 50 percent? Find out what the person wants first. If all he wants is your money, don't take the chance on getting a whistle jammed down your throat, just give him your money! You can always earn more money, but how do you earn another life?

Frederic Storaska, author of "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive," gave five principles of behavior I think everyone should know in a dangerous situation.

1. Remain calm
2. Treat the rapist as a human being (although difficult, it could save your life!)
3. Gain his confidence
4. Go along until you can safely act
5. Use imagination and good judgement

Also girls, let the guys off easy in bars. The less their pride is hurt, the less they're likely to hurt you. Double date as much as possible. Remember a woman's scream (or whistle) can be her best friend, but it could also be her deadliest enemy.

Beware of queen race

Editor:

This letter concerns the ladies involved in the Panhellenic Council at Eastern Illinois University. In previous years, each sorority elected and campaigned for their prospective homecoming queen and freshman attendant candidates. With this arrangement, homecoming queen votes were split between many Greeks.

On the other hand, with the South Quad uniting to elect one candidate and other large groups of independents electing candidates, these independents, and other non-Panhellenic Greek candidates had a fair chance at winning the election. That was rather nice—Panhellenic Greeks should not always have to be winners.

Supposedly, however, they think they always have to be winners. This year, the Panhell Greeks have united. There is one Panhellenic Greek candidate running for homecoming queen. In this way, the big, social Greek votes will not be split—if their plan works. They know full well that the other Greek organizations and independents will have a hard time uniting to greater numbers than the unification of the Panhellenic Greeks. Hence, an almost inevitable victory.

Very clever, girls. Hopefully your scheme will not work, and you will be forced to think of yet another next year because of an embarrassing defeat.

Do people's resumes really reflect up?

Working in the college relations division of a multinational corporation for one summer can teach a person what you should and should not write on cover letters and applications.

Since it's resume and application letter writing time for seniors, avoiding the following "goofs," which really were made by college students, can help you to avoid similar mistakes and get a job.

- Don't use round purple stationery with a flowery border when applying for prestigious positions. A 3 x 5 postcard doesn't really do the trick, either.

- Don't send your letter of application to the corporation president. Some graduates, even from big name schools like Boston University and Thunderbird in Arizona, used this technique, apparently theorizing that a personal note to the president they would get his attention before the next applicant. Wrong.

For example, one guy wrote to the president and said, "Fifteen years ago, I met you and knew right then that you would climb that ladder of success to become the president."

I wonder if he knows the president's secretary saw the note and sent it down seven floors to the college relations office.

Send applications to the personnel office or somewhere where you know you'll at least get a bit of attention.

- A handwritten note can be impressive, but please refrain from using yellow lined school paper ripped out of your notebook.

One girl, on her note, said, "Marketing communications is an economic tool to use in selling, particularly when it reaches the target audience effectively."

- Know something about the company! One fellow applied for the position in China. (It would probably have been a great job; if the company had a branch in China.)

Further aggravating his chances was the fact that he wrote

Personal file:

Yvonne Beeler

his salutation in Mandarin Chinese.

Not only do applicants apply for jobs in China, they also go for Eastern European countries—like Hungary.

An applicant, who originally was from Hungary, said he had a "unique knowledge" of Eastern Europe and its potential as a market for American products.

He even said the company should seriously consider him if they are wanting to expand or explore its markets in Hungary.

The clincher: this guy was born in Hungary in 1948 and emigrated to the United States in 1956. Can you imagine how intelligent this guy must be if he was able to acquire a unique knowledge of Eastern Europe by the age of eight?

- Pay more attention when filling out application forms. The way in which an application is completed can reveal a few things about the applicant.

On this particular company's applications, there is a place to fill out any of your past work experience.

One guy said he had had a job working with youth in order to keep them out of trouble. However, something went wrong somewhere because he was arrested and lost his job.

In listing his past occupations, another fellow listed just one job and then said, "Dear Sir, the reason I have left this blank is that I have only held one and that is I worked for my father in his business. I never need outside employment."

Funny thing. I wonder why this guy is even bothering to apply for a job.

Certainly graduates or potential graduates of Eastern Illinois University will not make mistakes such as these. I hope.

Showtime possibility for married housing

by Lydia Palmer
Cable television's 24-hour entertainment station, Showtime, could be an added service to cable subscribers in Eastern's University Apartments this summer if apartment residents show enough interest in obtaining the service.

Eastern Assistant Director of Housing Mark Shaklee said last week that the Housing Office might consider adding Showtime if the residents showed an interest in receiving the service.

The apartments, which are used for married students, are owned and operated by Eastern.

A survey to gauge the interest of residents in getting Showtime may be sent out by the Housing Office this semester, Shaklee said.

Laura Michelini, a University Apartments resident in charge of distributing the survey, said Monday she did not know exactly when the survey would be distributed.

Shaklee said support of all residents is needed to add the service because the apartments are electrically wired so that one wing operates through mutual wiring, preventing the hook-up of individual apartments.

Liberty Cable, Charleston's cable outlet, will reduce the rate for Showtime if the service is added to the entire apartment complex, Shaklee said.

The reduced rate of $6 will be added to the rent if the residents of the apartments agree to the extra charge, he said. Full cost of Showtime is $9.95 a month, plus a $10 installation fee, a Liberty Cable representative said Monday.

Shaklee added that rent cannot be adjusted until June 1, and only then if the survey of the residents turned out positive, because residents are currently operating under this year's lease agreement and paying this year's rent until June 1.

Apartment residents differed in their opinion of adding Showtime. Some said they would favor the raise in rent, while others said they did not want rent raised.

Debbie Anderson, a University Apartment resident, said she would vote against Showtime being installed because "I'm against any raise in the rent," she said.

Paula Stimpert, another resident in the apartments, said she would approve of the addition of Showtime.

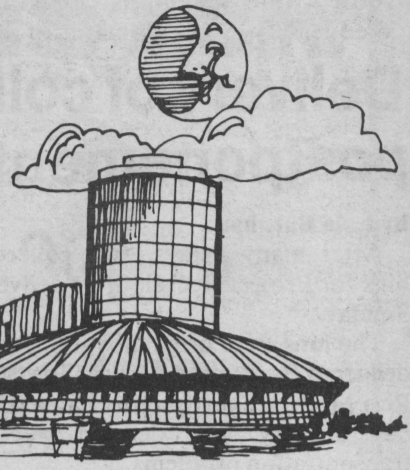

"I would definitely pay for it," she said.

The addition of Showtime in Eastern residence halls may also be pursued if students show interest by bringing their request to student government or the Residence Hall Association, Housing Director Lou Hencken, said Monday.

Eastern residence halls are not equipped for Showtime, although they were wired for cable this summer.

Several hall residents said in an earlier Daily Eastern News article that they wanted to receive Showtime along with the cable.

Cinematheque to offer wide variety of films

by Linda Fraembs

Movies ranging from "Clockwork Orange" to "Mary Poppins" will be shown on campus beginning Wednesday as part of the Cinematheque series offered by the University Board movie committee.

Steven E. Jones, UB movie coordinator, said the series will give students a chance to see "films not ordinarily offered under our Friday night series."

Jones said Cinematheque consists of such presentations as foreign and "classic" films, not just current American productions.

He said he is offering two films each month of the fall semester except December, and hopes to expand the program in the future.

The Cinematheque series will begin with Wednesday's presentation of "Clockwork Orange," a picture about behavior modification as a form of rehabilitation in prison, Jones said.

Jones said all films will be shown at 6:30 and 9 p.m. in the University Union Grand Ballroom and admission is $1.25.

This month's second film, "La Cage Aux Folles," will be shown Oct. 28, he added.

The French film is a comedy revolving around two male homosexuals, he said.

Jones said the November films are "Citizen Kane," which will be shown Nov. 11 and "Mary Poppins" which will be shown Nov. 18.

Delivery of collection bins ends postponement of Project Recycle

by Lola Burnham

After many delays, two collection bins for Project Recycle were delivered Sunday.

The bins were originally going to be delivered by Project Recycle Treasurer Rob Monroe shortly after Labor Day, but delivery was delayed due to transportation problems.

Monroe said Monday he originally could not get both bins delivered because he could not coordinate his plans with his brother who offered use of his truck.

One fully-constructed bin, painted white, was placed on the west edge of the parking lot behind Student Services Building.

The second bin, which Monroe said should be finished Monday night, was placed behind Buzzard Educational Building. It still requires a coat of paint, Monroe said.

logo will be painted on the bins later.

The logo will be a circle of two arrows with 'Project Recycle' printed in the middle, Monroe said.

Monroe said he encountered no problems with the bins this time.

"We loaded them right on the truck and brought them here," he said.

Members of Project Recycle will be checking the bins about three times a week, Monroe said, depending on how often they fill up.

When a bin is full, the paper will be collected and taken to Four Seasons Insulation in Charleston to be shredded and turned into insulation, Monroe said.

Fingers, Sutter Firemen of Year

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bruce Sutter of the St. Louis Cardinals and Rollie Fingers of the Milwaukee Brewers, who combined for 53 saves, have been named baseball's Firemen of the Year by The Sporting News.

The 34-year-old Fingers, who had 28 of the saves, far out-distanced Rich Gossage of the New York Yankees for the weekly publication's award in the American League. Sutter had 25 saves for St. Louis, winning the National League award over Rick Camp of the Atlanta Braves.

Fingers led NL relievers in 1977 and 1978 while with San Diego and shared the top spot in 1980 with Tom Hume of the Cincinnati Reds.

Luzinski stays with White Sox

CHICAGO, (AP)—Slugger Greg Luzinski has decided against trying the free-agent draft and signed a three-year contract with the Chicago White Sox, the American League club announced Monday.

The 30-year-old power hitter batted .265 with 21 home runs, 65 runs batted in and 11 game-winning hits, leading the White Sox in the last three categories.

Luzinski, a native of Mount Prospect, was purchased from the Philadelphia Phillies last spring after spending nine seasons with the National League team.

Papa Bear hires Dooley, again

LAKE FORREST, Ill. (AP)—George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, Tuesday met with the players and announced that former head coach Jim Dooley has been hired as an assistant coach.

"I talked to the players a little about the Bear technique," said Halas, "and I also brought Jim Dooley along. He wasn't much as a head coach because of certain circumstances but he was a great assistant coach, one of the greatest."

Dooley, a wide receiver as a player, was named head coach in 1968 when Halas decided to step down as head coach himself for the last time.

In four years with the Bears, Dooley had a head coaching record of 20-36. His best season was in 1968 at 7-7, then slipped to 1-13 for one of the worst seasons in Bear history and was 6-8 in each of the following two seasons before he was replaced by Abe Gibron.

Halas said Dooley, who has been employed by a Chicago firm, will serve as consultant to Ted Marchibroda, the offensive coordinator.

"Ted said 'fine' and he'd be happy to have Dooley," Halas said. "I had been thinking about making this move for the past couple weeks."

Asked if he would have made it if the Bears had not lost to the Washington Redskins 24-7 Sunday, Halas said, "No, I'd probably have waited until the next loss."

Netters hope to improve 'average' showing

by John Humenik

Despite an "average" performance at the rain-shortened Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville tournament Saturday, Eastern women's tennis coach Karen Earley predicted an improved showing at 3 p.m. Tuesday against Indiana State on the Lantz courts.

The match marks the 4-2 Panthers final dual before Eastern hosts the state tournament Friday and Saturday.

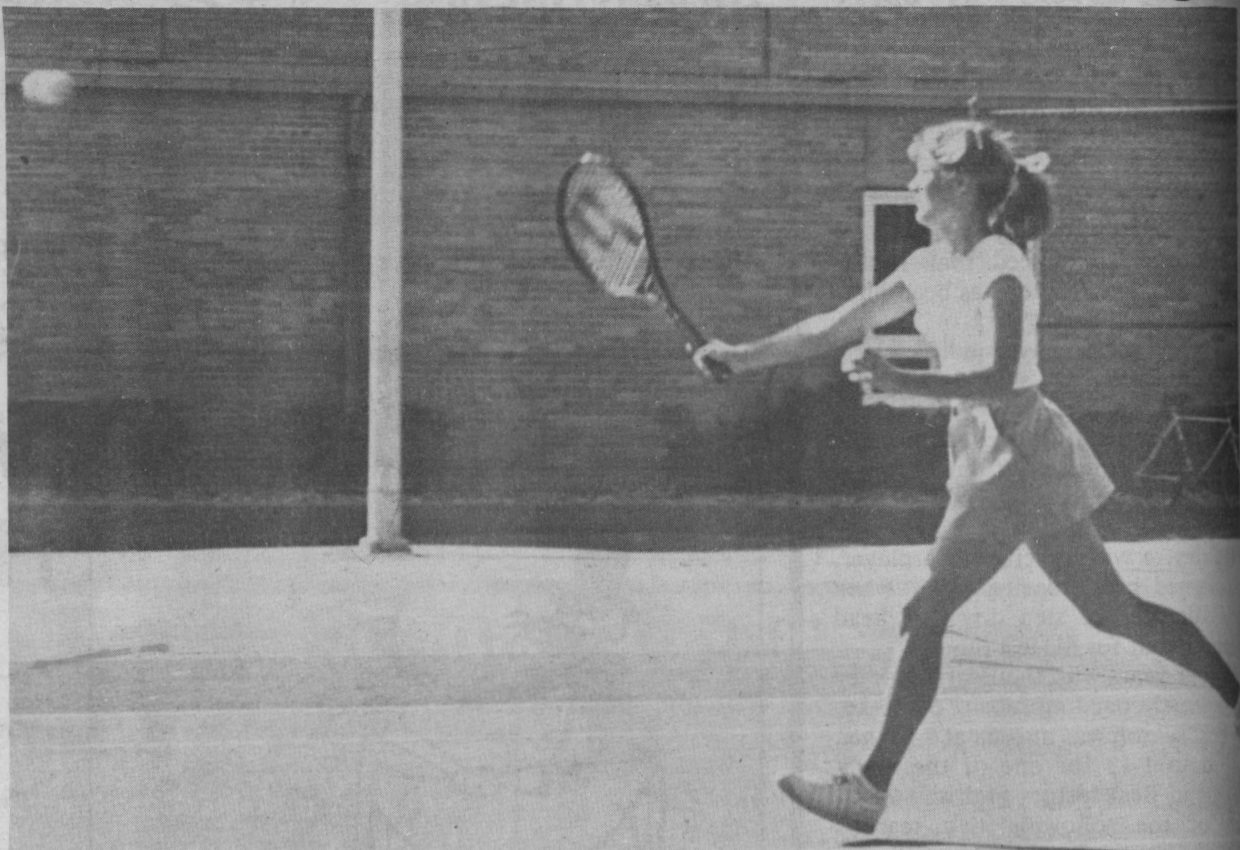

Consequently, Earley said winning the Indiana State dual could ignite confidence within her squad for the state tournament.

"We beat Indiana State last year and I feel winning this time won't be that hard," Earley said. "I'm hoping it will be a confidence builder before the state tournament opens, but I won't take anything for granted."

Earley added her team is mentally prepared for their first dual since Sept. 22, and after advancing only two players to the consolation finals at the Edwardsville tournament. Rain halted the tournament early Saturday and eventually cancelled the affair before any winners were decided.

However, Earley felt her squad did not play well enough to finish among the top NCAA Division I teams at the meet.

"We had a chance to win in the consolation bracket and it would have given us some points we could've used," Earley said. "I don't feel that it's going to hurt the girls now, because we still have the Indiana State dual left."

Poor Panther pacing hinders harriers at invite

by Fran Brolley

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—After getting "sucked in" and losing one of their best runners Eastern's women's cross country team finished 11th out of 15 teams at the Indiana University Invitational last weekend.

Eastern's coach John Craft did not attend the meet because of previous engagements but after looking at the first mile splits of his runners he said their times were too fast because they failed to pace themselves properly.

"We got sucked in. All the first mile times are too fast. It doesn't matter how fast you go at the beginning, if you pace yourself you'll do a lot better," Craft said.

He added, "Sometimes runners get scared, they've got to catch up with them (the frontrunners), but then they die with them."

Craft said Eastern's number one runner Gina Sperry, who finished 35th at 18:19, may have been a victim of too fast a start.

He called Sperry's first mile time of 3:22 "smokin'" and said it was at pace with Ann Hendersen of the Ohio Track Club's winning time of 16:50.

Kathy Donnellan, Eastern's number two runner in two of Eastern's three previous races, was perhaps another victim of too fast a start.

Donnellan dropped from the race just before the 2,000 meter mark of the 5,000 meter race because "she wasn't feeling well," according to Dawn Shutter, the Panthers' assistant cross country coach who coached the team in Craft's absence.

Shutter said the meet was "very high caliber" and called the course "really difficult." She disagreed with Craft about the team's pace, "Our girls didn't get sucked in too well with the other runners at the start of the race, at least that was my observation," she said.

Finishing second for Eastern in Bloomington was senior Dawn Campbell in 50th place in a time of 18:40. Close behind her was sophomore Nancy Kramer in 54th place and a time of 18:43.

Other Eastern finishers were sophomore Carrie Mortell 73rd (19:24), sophomore Julie Curry 92nd (20:01), and senior Jane Eckerson 99th (20:17).

Next for the women is the Illinois Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Championships (IAIAW) in Bloomington.
