Carman's RA's and counselors sponsored the event to benefit the Enochs Memorial Scholarship Fund. Resident's names were drawn for each RA and the lucky winners were permitted to "cream" the RA who drew their name. A fee of 10 cents was charged for each entry.

A total of $30 was raised during the event to benefit the scholarship fund. The scholarship is named for the late Richard Enochs, former director of married student housing. (News photos by Michael Van Voorhis)

Standby tax increase proposed by Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan asked Congress on Tuesday night to freeze overall federal spending about 5 percent above current levels, and to approve a standby tax increase to curb spiraling deficits he called "a clear and present danger" to America.

His spending limits would apply to the total federal budget—sparing defense. The 5 percent increase is designed to take account of inflation.

In his State of the Union address, Reagan proposed an outright freeze on most domestic spending programs, with no inflation allowance. He said federal pay and retirement benefits, both military and civilian, should be frozen for one year, and cost of living increases in Social Security, veterans benefits and the like should be delayed for six months.

Reagan said he would adjust his defense budget to save about $55 billion over the next five years. But a senior administration official, speaking on the condition that his name not be used, said the proposed freeze would leave room for an increase of about 14 percent in the defense budget next year.

Advising Congress that his budget will propose the spending freeze, Reagan said:

"I know this is strong medicine, but so far we have only cut the rate of increase in federal spending... Taken as a whole, the budget I am proposing for the next fiscal year will increase no more than the rate of inflation—in other words, the federal government will hold the line on real spending."

To deal with the highest unemployment rate in more than 40 years, Reagan proposed a six-month extension of unemployment compensation for those who have exhausted their benefits, tax credits for employers who hire the long-term unemployed, additional job training funds, and a below-minimum wage for teen-agers hired for summer jobs.

He asked for a 1 percent surcharge on taxable incomes and an excise tax on domestic and imported oil.

The tax increases would be levied as of Oct. 1, 1985 only if the deficit is projected to exceed 2.5 percent of the gross national product—and only if the economy is growing, not in recession.

Faced with a deficit now estimated at more than $200 billion for the current fiscal year, the president's "standby tax" would raise between $40 billion and $50 billion a year from fiscal 1986 through 1988 if needed to curb the flow of red ink.

The 1 percent surcharge would apply both to individuals and corporations. The excise tax on oil, about $5 per barrel, would add 12 cents to the cost of each gallon of gasoline, according to a fact sheet distributed to reporters.

The so-called spending freeze for fiscal 1984 would apply to programs with automatic yearly cost-of-living raises, such as Social Security, other pension and disability programs and food stamps.

"For too many of our fellow citizens—farmers, steelworkers and autoworkers, lumbermen, black teenagers and working mothers—this is a painful period.

"We must all do everything in our power to bring their ordeal to an end," he declared.

"We have a long way to go, but thanks to the courage, patience and strength of our people, America is on the mend," the president said.

Alakazam, alakazoo—audience amazed by hypnotist

by Pam Messier

Hypnotist and psychic Gil Eagles enthralled a capacity crowd in the Union Grand Ballroom Tuesday night when, through the power of suggestion, he performed hypnotic techniques on volunteers from the audience.

At one point in the show, Eagles wrote a number on a piece of paper and handed it to a member of the audience. He then instructed audience members to close their eyes and to think of a number between one and 50, "both digits are odd and both digits are different."

"Open your eyes, look at me. Ready? Look at me," he said. "If you get it right, shoot your hand up in the air. How many people here thought of number 37?"

With screams and shouts filling the air, most of the students raised their hands.

Eagles, who became interested in hypnotics for self-development 18 years ago, began the show by having freshman Pat Cullerton and sophomore Mindy Rappe volunteer as his assistants. Cullerton and Rappe randomly chose items from the audience.

Eagles correctly guessed the items taken from the audience while blindfolded. Those items included a pin, camera, crutch, the serial number on a dollar bill and an Eastern ID card with the student's name.

Cullerton said, "It was great! I thought it was fake when I went in, but it wasn't."

Late in the show Eagles called 10 student volunteers to the stage, hypnotized them and told them to act out various roles. These characters included Miss Universe, Tarzan, a traffic cop, the Road Runner, a drill sergeant and the king of rock 'n roll singing nursery rhymes.

One student, under Eagles' suggestion, sat in a chair which was "wired" by the University Board to electrify him. The student sat in the chair, then hopped out as if he had been shocked and went running after several UB members who were sitting nearby.

Eagles said he does not possess any "power" to make students act out different roles—they simply act on his suggestion.

Freshman Mary Jo Stone, who danced under Eagles' suggestion, said "They said I danced; I don't remember it. I remember winning a horse race and being mad when they told me I was disqualified."

Hypnotist Gil Eagles, left, demonstrates and explains his profession Tuesday night in the Union Grand Ballroom, as he places volunteers from the audience into trances. Sophomore Tim Ulmer, one of Eagles' volunteers, became so relaxed he fell over in his chair. Eagles said 20 minutes of hypnosis is equal to three hours of sleep. (News photo by Sam Paisley)

Geneva negotiations to resume

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—U.S. arms negotiator Paul H. Nitze said Tuesday the United States is "not locked into the zero option" in talks with the Soviet Union on reducing intermediate-range nuclear missiles in Europe.

His Soviet counterpart, meanwhile, warned that time was running out for reaching a settlement at the Geneva talks, which are to resume Thursday after a two-month recess.

Nitze, in response to a reporter's question, said he "certainly is not locked into the zero option," under which the United States has proposed the elimination of European-based nuclear missiles. "We are prepared to examine every kind of proposal that secures the security interests of our NATO allies as well as ourselves," he said.

But he said in prepared remarks on his arrival that in recent talks with Reagan "the president reaffirmed his conviction that the entire elimination of the most dangerous and destabilizing class of intermediate range missiles on both the U.S. and Soviet sides is the best way to achieve the peace and security which mankind desires."

As recently as Friday in Washington, Nitze had refused to speak about the negotiability of the zero option, which has been the fundamental U.S. offer since the negotiations began Nov. 30, 1981.

Nitze privately explored a compromise on the zero option in the summer with his counterpart, Yuli A. Kvitsinsky, but the proposal was rejected by Moscow and Washington. Nitze would not say Tuesday whether he would seek to resurrect that plan, which reportedly would have set ceilings for U.S. and Soviet Nuclear missiles in Europe.

But Nitze said Tuesday that "Soviet propaganda activities seeking to divide" NATO will not succeed.

News Round-Up

Dorfman linked with syndicate

CHICAGO—Teamster associate Allen Dorfman, murdered last week in a gangland execution, demanded money for the Chicago crime syndicate from a Las Vegas hotel operator in a 1979 FBI-monitored conversation, a published report said Tuesday.

In that same May 22, 1979, conversation, reported in The Wall Street Journal, reputed mobster Joseph Lombardo, Dorfman's co-defendant in the Teamsters bribery-conspiracy trial, allegedly warns the hotel operator "if they come back and tell me to give you a message and if you want to defy it, I assure you that you will never reach 73."

The hotel operator both men were talking to was Morris Shenker, operator of the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

Social Security buys computers

WASHINGTON—The Social Security Administration has purchased two multimillion-dollar computers made by Japan's Hitachi Ltd., which faces federal charges of computer piracy.

The powerful computers that Social Security bought for $7 million through a U.S. dealer are the same type equipment that the FBI decided not to buy last summer, even though Hitachi's vendor also was the low bidder in that instance.

Heart patient has little progress

SALT LAKE CITY—Barney Clark's doctors said Tuesday he has "not yet made enough progress" to warrant widespread use of artificial hearts, and added they have no idea when he might be strong enough to leave the hospital.

"He's made good progress up through the first 30 or 40 days, and made undulating progress since then," Dr. Chase Peterson said of Clark, 62, who was given a plastic Jarvik-7 heart on Dec. 2.

Cyanide traces could be natural

HAMMOND, La (AP)—Harmless traces of cyanide were found in the water supply here Tuesday, while a continuing rash of anonymous threats prompted officials to turn off the taps in four more Louisiana towns.

Health officials said they could not tell whether cyanide found in the Hammond water was a naturally occurring trace of the substance or had been introduced deliberately.

Since the first threat last Thursday in St. Gabriel, more than 30 telephone calls have been received across Louisiana warning of poisoning in public waterworks. The tapwater for at least 220,000 residents has been disrupted.

The calls—many presumably from "copycats"—prompted state officials Tuesday to urge local officials to keep the water flowing unless tests found it to be contaminated.

Hammond Mayor Debbie Pope said cyanide traces at harmless levels were detected in her city's water system after samples were sent to West Payne Laboratories in Baton Rouge.

But she said laboratory officials told her "an individual would have to drink about a swimming pool full to kill himself."

David Streckler, a chemist with the laboratories who tested the Hammond sample, said the cyanide could have been caused by nature.

No fiddling around with music when Delta Boys play

by H.E. Meeker

Good music withstands the test of time.

That statement was proven when the Indian Creek Delta Boys played for a group of square dancers last Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church in Charleston.

Dancers stomped, sweated and laughed to music their ancestors may have enjoyed over 100 years ago.

The Delta Boys specialize in old-time string music native to Illinois. Band members include Garry Harrison, fiddle; Terry Harrison, banjo; John "Doc" Holliday, guitar and Garry's wife, Gaye, playing mandolin. Dan Baird of Charleston also accompanied the band on the guitar.

In 1976, Garry Harrison received a $30,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts to seek out old-time Illinois string musicians and collect string music from them.

Steve Harrison, dance caller and former Delta Boys band member, said that before radio and television, string bands had a regional style. For example, North Carolinian musicians had a distinctive style when compared to Illinois musicians.

Terry Harrison said, "Our dad and granddad were old-time fiddle players, but they died before passing on their talents to us."

"Radio broke down the regional barriers. In the old days, you could tell a Carolinian fiddler from a fiddler in Illinois," he said.

"A fiddler from the Southeast usually plays with a heavy beat and slower tunes. Farther west, or the Midwest, the tunes are faster and have less accent on the beat with more "bowing," he added.

Northern fiddlers (Northeast or upper Midwest) might have more left-handed works in their repertoire while Texan fiddlers play "slicker" works with two-string renditions, he said.

Steve Harrison said, "Illinois has been a good melting pot for music. Everything seemed to come together with the pioneers coming from New England and the Southeast."

He added the Illinois style of string music has been lost except for those musicians who learned to play before the radio era.

The band uses modern amplifiers and microphones, but Terry said the sound system is not designed to "color" the music.

Band members talked to over 100 old-time fiddlers still practicing the original Illinois style. Most of the search was concentrated in the Southeastern quarter of Illinois, Garry said.

"I visited Prairie Du Rocher, Mt. Vernon and Albion. I found many string musicians in Oblong. There are many good old-time fiddlers in Central Illinois as well," he said.

The works Harrison collected are preserved in the Library of Congress and Eastern's Tarble Arts Center.

The Indian Creek Delta Boys were named "official state of Illinois old time string band" by act of the Illinois State Legislature in 1981.

The Indian Creek Delta Boys play for a silhouetted group of square dancers at Charleston's First Presbyterian Church last Tuesday. The Delta Boys play string music that was popular in Illinois up to 100 years ago. Band member Garry Harrison has collected string works from over 100 old-time fiddle players. The collection is stored at Tarble Arts Center and the Library of Congress.

Ruth Harrison of Charleston would like to form a dance group to dance with the band on a regular basis.

"This dancing is fun and pretty low pressure," she said. (News photo by Fred Zwicky)

Time for protesting higher education cuts is now

We are in the midst of a crisis. A call for action on the issues of funding for higher education has been sounded and many have responded to the call. Yet, those who are affected most by the crisis—university faculty and students—have chosen to ignore the alarm.

They cannot possibly be unaware of the fact that higher education is in the middle of a statewide budget crisis.

Gov. James Thompson asked the Illinois Board of Higher Education to cut $20.1 million from this year's funding to try to make up a $200 million budget deficit he announced in December.

In addition, for more than a decade, higher education has been allocated less of the state budget each year. During fiscal year 1971, higher education received 19.6 percent of state funds. In fiscal year 1982, it received only 12.6 percent of the budget.

Meanwhile, higher education administrators will probably have to make more cuts because Thompson has forecast the possibility of another $188 million budget shortfall in February or March.

In the next few weeks and months, the governor and the Illinois General Assembly will make decisions which will decide the entire future of higher education. Fortunately, higher education officials, unlike faculty and students, have responded to the alarm and have not been idle while the budget crisis was unfolding.

Administrators from both the IBHE and the

Editorial

Board of Governors have passed resolutions asking state officials to approve a tax hike to raise revenue for education.

These board members met recently with Thompson to plead higher education's case and began contacting their state representatives to seek support for a tax hike.

These administrators are aware of the emergency situation facing higher education. But are they the only ones who are aware? Are they the only ones who care?

It appears so. We have seen no action whatsoever on the part of student and faculty leaders throughout the state.

BOG student representatives should be aware of the crisis, because they have attended meetings when the issue has been discussed. These representatives are elected and paid to represent students, yet students have not been getting their money's worth.

BOG representatives from Eastern, Western, Northeastern, Governors State and Chicago State should launch campus campaigns to send letters protesting higher education cuts to state officials.

Student leaders should pass a resolution of their own requesting tax reform from our state leaders in Springfield.

They should circulate petitions on campus to send to our representatives, and they should organize students to lobby at the state capital.

Faculty groups, like Eastern's Faculty Senate and Council on University Planning and Budgeting, should promote similar action among the faculty and staff.

If faculty and staff members hesitate before taking action, they may find themselves going without their 3 percent salary increase. And, if they stall much longer, many of them may have no salary at all next year.

It seems students would rather wait to see just how high tuition will soar before they begin sounding their usual overdue complaints. If we wait much longer, higher education will be a privilege affordable only by the wealthy.

The crisis is here. The call for action has been sounded. What are we waiting for?

Your turn

Students not 'traffic'

Editor:
I am writing in regard to English department chairman James Quivey's opinion in the recent article, "Add-drop policy revision results in more full loads."

I think it's really inconsiderate for someone who claims to be head of the English department to consider students as "traffic."

I came to you with direct permission from a teacher allowing me into her class. If it was too much "unnecessary pressure" for you, why didn't you just say so instead of not giving me any explanation whatsoever and telling me to come back tomorrow, only to tell me to come back the next day, etc.?

I can't believe you didn't even listen or try to help a student who needs it. Some people would like to graduate on time, not five years later.

I'm sorry if I was too much "traffic" coming through your office, but you managed to kick me out pretty fast.

Hospitals refuse care

Editor:
A very sad and cruel murder has taken place. Christopher Langley was born two and one-half months premature. His father was laid off. They had no insurance.

Ten hospitals claimed they were full up or could not admit them. Later, it was found that one hospital did have the facilities. Finally, a hospital accepted them, and they had to be flown more than 100 miles away. Doctors say that time was a factor in the baby's death.

If this happened to a loved one of mine, it would drive me to a psychotic rage. I mourn for the Langleys, but I also mourn for the hospitals full of doctors—doctors who took a Hypocratic oath to heal the sick and needy.

I am not a religious man, but I pray they and everyone else can get medical attention when they need it.

Rick Kirkham

Swimmers deserve aid

Editor:
I would like to direct this letter to the president of this learning institution.

Marvin, being an Illinois resident, I find the distribution of athletic scholarships disturbing. There are more than two or three sports that are funded by Illinois and are played in high schools.

Therefore, there is no reason for just two or three sports programs to receive most of the scholarships at Eastern. A state-funded school should be serving the entire range of sports programs and students within the state.

Furthermore, I had the impression that an athletic scholarship is supposed to help finance one's education. But where does most of the money go?

This being a learning institution funded by the state, I see no reason for the swimming team having its scholarships cut when there are other sports which concentrate more on being an athlete than being a student.

Being a swimmer myself, I see no future as a professional swimmer. I am here for an education first, then to swim. But some sports here try to make this learning institution into a sports farm for the pros.

If this is a learning institution, why don't you give scholarships to the athletes who know what the words "university" and "higher education" stand for?

How many more sports programs with education-oriented athletes are you going to let R.C. Johnson have for dinner?

Enlightened age?

Editor:
Isn't it reassuring that we now live in an enlightened age in which we no longer judge individuals on the basis of race, religion, sex, handicap or personal appearance?

Party pleasure ruined

Editor:
We've been robbed! On Jan. 21 we held a party at our home on Seventh Street. The concept of "party for pleasure" was destroyed when things proceeded to get out of hand.

This letter is directed towards those persons who attended our party and a warning to those planning parties in the future.

We never anticipated the rude conduct, from some of our guests, that occurred. It wasn't bad enough that we caught a young "gentleman" stealing our silverware, having a field day in our kitchen, or another attempting to steal our keg, but we would like to extend our sincerest thanks to those responsible for the theft of our telephone, tap, per, basketball and for the breaking of our front window.

A final thanks to the delinquents who felt the need to initiate fights in our living room. May we suggest that you devote your time to something more constructive, such as charm school.

We find it amazing, in an atmosphere of higher education, that people can conduct themselves in such an ignorant, immature manner. We are a college students and in the same category of financial struggle; therefore, we can find no excuse for the actions of our peers.

Kim Barrow
Kathy Buchanan
Clare McWilliams

Rives: education reaccreditation likely

by Audrey B. Dumentat

Eastern's teacher education program will most likely receive reaccreditation from the National Council of Accreditation for Teacher Education, an administrator told the Council on Teacher Education Tuesday.

Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives said the chairman of the NCATE visiting team "believes that there is no question that we (Eastern's teacher education program) will end up with across-the-board accreditation."

COTE chairman Mary Hubbard said NCATE has been in the process of considering Eastern's program for possible reaccreditation since March 1981.

Last November, the NCATE visiting team came to Eastern and completed the evaluation process.

The NCATE visiting team then submitted a report on Eastern's teacher education program specifying three areas of the program that need immediate attention.

Charles Joley, dean of the School of Education, said the areas specified in the NCATE report include a residency requirement for specialist degree programs, a research component for master's degree programs in elementary education and overall improvement of the Instructional Media Center.

NCATE officials will meet in March to decide whether to reaccredit Eastern's teacher education program on the basis of the NCATE visiting team report and Eastern's reply to that report, Joley said.

In other business, a three-member appeals committee was appointed.

Hubbard said the appeals committee, which is composed of three COTE members, will hear student requests for admission to Eastern's teacher education program or student teaching program.

In addition, university-wide recommendations for the Annual Board of Governors Program Review were unanimously approved by the COTE.

Disney World project offers college credit

by Vernon Royster

Eastern students will have the chance to receive college credit this summer at Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom.

Rosalee Noble, a Placement Center employee, said students majoring in fields related to recreation and park administration, retail management, hotel/restaurant management or business "will have an opportunity to take part in a unique new work-study program at the Walt Disney World Magic Kingdom."

Members of the Disney staffing team will be visiting Eastern Feb. 9 and 10 to interview prospective students, Noble said.

The Magic Kingdom College Program includes a minimum of 30 hours of work per week in either custodial or food services, merchandizing or operations and two to three hours of seminars and classroom work, she added.

Noble said although current openings are limited to 400 participants, the 12-week program will be expanded during the next few years.

Students interested in the work-study program should attend a meeting at 5 p.m. Feb. 9 in the Union Grand Ballroom, she added.

At this meeting, students will be given further information about the program. Students interested in the program must sign up for Feb. 10 interviews, she said.

Faculty Senate considers bylaw update

by Linda Wagner

The Faculty Senate considered several bylaw revisions Tuesday in a move to make its bylaws more current.

Faculty Senate Chairman Jeffrey Lynch said the senate discussed minor revisions in order to make senate elections run more smoothly.

Changes were proposed for the wording of the bylaws as a means of updating them.

"Over the years, certain changes in the bylaws have taken place," Lynch said. He added that periodical updating of the bylaws needs to be done.

Approval of all the bylaw changes was withheld until next week's senate meeting. The senate agreed to wait for approval of the revised bylaws so the senate could have a concise copy of the changes to be approved.

In other business, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee reported on its recent meeting with Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin.

Lynch said the committee discussed

Eastern's recent budget cuts with Marvin, specifically where the cuts are coming from and why.

Lynch also said the senate asked Marvin to give a State of the University/Projection of the University speech to Eastern's faculty.

Lynch said the speech would deal with what directions the university has to go in order "to thrive," the best use of funds and what the function of the university is within the state.

Vacant at-large senate seat to be filled

by Douglas Backstrom

The Student Senate will appoint a new senator from the at-large district Wednesday to replace junior Rich Heineken, who resigned last week.

Student Body President Terry Teele said the new legislative committee interviewed students who petitioned for the position, "and from there the senate will confirm the job Wednesday night at the senate meeting."

Senate Speaker Glenn Good said Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams will present the senate with "a pressing problem which will affect students in the next two months."

However, Good said he did not know what problem Williams would discuss with the senate.

Good said the senate will also discuss points of leadership that were brought out at the senate retreat Saturday in the Library Lecture Hall.

In addition, Teele said, the senate will approve a student appointment to the Apportionment Board, two new members for the Sports and Recreation Board and one appointment for the Council on Academic Affairs.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Group to hear if internships need changes

by Stacy Wells

A report on Eastern's current practices and guidelines for internships will be presented to the Task Force on Cooperative Education and Internships Wednesday, task force chairman Sharon Bartling said.

Chemistry department chairman David Ebron, who compiled the data for the report, will make the presentation, Bartling said.

The main goal of the task force is to look at Eastern's current policies of internships and cooperative education and decide whether or not to make any specific recommendations for changes, Bartling said.

The task force will also study the type of guidelines set by each department for awarding internship credit to students, Bartling said.

In addition, the way each department handles the arrangement of internships will be examined by the task force to determine whether or not students need more assistance in this area, Bartling said.

Bartling also said the task force will discuss whether "there is something unique about cooperative education which cannot be duplicated by department internships."

Under Eastern's cooperative education program, students can earn up to three hours credit for professional experience in their field.

The task force recommendations will be submitted to Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives by April 1.

The task force will meet at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Paris Room.

Contest applications currently available for Miss Black EIU

Miss Black EIU Pageant applications are available to students through the student activities office, pageant coordinator Shernita Banks said.

Banks said the applications include sections about the applicant's career interests and goals.

She said a maximum of eight to 10 women are needed to compete in the April 9 pageant.

Banks said the pageant is a good experience for anyone interested in competing. "Working in it and being in it is rewarding, win or lose," she said.

She said once women are accepted into the pageant, they will practice for the pageant two to three times a week from February until April.

The women will be practicing the pageant's production numbers to improve their personal form and style, Banks added.

Workshops, lectures set for summer '83 program

by Sheila Billerbeck

Eastern's summer school students in 1983 will have the opportunity to "experience a unique program," the director of summer school said.

Charles Switzer said the summer program will include 16 special theme workshops and a distinguished lecture series not offered in the fall and spring semesters.

"Human Relationships in a Changing Society" was recently chosen as the 1983 summer school theme by the ad hoc summer school committee, he added.

The purpose of a theme is to "present a sense of community and unification for students that is not always present during the fall and spring semesters," Switzer said.

"The theme addresses the creative and productive human relationships necessary in a dynamic, evolving society and the problems resulting from the lack of such relationships, Switzer said.

Some of the general courses offered through the workshops which relate to the summer theme include "Communication Problems in a Changing Society," "Managing Personal and Occupational Stress," and "Multicultural Trends in the American Society."

"The courses offered are in the different academic categories, but are not like the regular catalog courses," he

'Math anxiety' seminar set to aid students

Students who have trouble with mathematics will have the opportunity to improve their skills Wednesday by attending a lecture.

Psychology Instructor Steve Jenkins will conduct the lecture titled "Math Anxiety."

"Basically what I will do is present some information and give ideas on how to overcome the problem many students have—math anxiety," Jenkins said.

The presentation is one of a series of various life-skills seminars to be presented by the Counseling Center. The other seminars include lectures on expanding students' self-awareness and learning more about life in 1983.

The "Math Anxiety" lecture will be conducted at noon Wednesday, in the Union Addition Greenup room.

Another special aspect of the summer school program will be the appearance of "distinguished" visiting faculty who will teach some of the workshops, Switzer said.

"We'll bring people in who have nationwide reputations and great skills in teaching," Switzer said.

There will be five instructors visit Eastern this summer, he added.

The visiting instructors will also conduct a lecture series outside the regular workshops, Switzer said.

The social director of the American Association of Retired Persons will conduct a workshop on human relationships in an aging society, he said.

The lectures will be open to the general public, he added.

"We are hoping to achieve something very valuable for everyone," Switzer said. "We want to provide a very cultural experience."

Taylor Hall 'noisy hour' satisfying to stereo fans

by Frank Garvin

Taylor Hall residents recently found a way to please both loud stereo lovers and their peace-seeking neighbors.

Lynn Lippoldt, Taylor Hall president, said that in December all hall residents voted on and passed a "noisy hour" resolution.

One hour out of each day is currently set aside for those students who want to express or entertain themselves in a less-than-quiet manner. Lippoldt said the system "is working very well in the hall."

Residents may turn up their stereo volumes between 5 and 6 p.m.

Taylor Hall Head Counselor Karen France said, "Several concerned residents came and told me that their neighbors were complaining to them about their stereo volumes being too high."

"What it really is is a 'no complaints from neighbor' hour," France added.

However, Gary Smith, resident assistant on third floor north said the hour does not completely ignore the wishes of quiet-loving residents.

"Courtesy hours are still in effect, regardless. So between 5 and 6 p.m. you can turn up your stereo, but not to an unreasonably high volume," he added.

Sophomore Keith Bradley, another Taylor resident, said, "It doesn't matter to me one way or the other."

Sophomore resident Don Weier said, "You can turn your stereo way up (between 5 and 6 p.m.) and still study in the evening with peace and quiet. You can still listen to your stereo quietly during the later evening."

Lanter, Lady Panthers dump Bradley, 78-61

By Kathy Leahy and Susan McCann

PEORIA—Kathy Lanter scored a career-high 25 points Tuesday night to lead Eastern's women cagers to a 78-61 decision over Bradley University.

Lanter, who was moved from her usual wing position to point guard, shot 63 percent from the field, dished out six assists, pulled down three rebounds and blocked one shot.

Lanter's position change was necessitated by an injury to Nancy Kassebaum, Eastern's all-time leading scorer. Kassebaum has watched from the bench since she aggravated a knee injury during Thursday's loss to Illinois State.

In addition to taking charge of the Panther offense in Kassebaum's absence, Lanter was also faced with the formidable task of guarding the Lady Braves' leading scorer, Judy Burns, who was averaging 22.4 points a game coming into the contest.

Prior to Tuesday's game, Eastern head coach Bobbie Hilke had said, "If we can shut Burns down, then we have a good chance at stopping the whole team."

Lanter followed through with Hilke's goals as the senior forward-guard's tenacious defense held Burns to 14 points and the Lady Panthers shackled the Braves, whose offense is rated sixth nationwide.

The Braves had earned their high ranking among the nation's leading offenses by pumping in 87.1 points per contest entering Tuesday's conference showdown with Eastern.

But with Lanter holding down Burns and the rest of the Eastern lineup doing its part, the Braves managed only 61 points, one of their lowest outputs of the season.

Toni Collins, Eastern's sophomore forward who has been nursing a sore foot, finished the game with 13 points, scoring eight of those in the second half. Collins also had 10 rebounds, gathering six of them in the second stanza.

But a deciding factor under the basket was Sue Hynd, Eastern's 6-foot-2 freshman center, who grabbed a career-high 15 caroms and netted 12 points. Hynd also pulled down 15 boards against Chicago State Dec. 4, when the Panthers walked away with a 96-54 triumph.

Darla Farthing, Eastern's usual starting center, was sidelined Tuesday due to an injury. Farthing, a 6-foot sophomore, has been plagued by ankle problems during her collegiate career.

She is currently bothered by a sore right ankle, which she irritated during Saturday's 73-54 victory over Western Illinois at Lantz Gym.

The Lady Panthers went into the locker room at the end of the first half with a 36-25 lead and came out gunning in the second stanza, scoring the first six points. Lanter, Hynd and Collins, the Panthers' top three scorers Tuesday, tallied the three buckets that gave Eastern a decisive 42-25 advantage over the Braves.

With 14:00 remaining in the contest, Karen Anderson chalked up a three-point play to bring Bradley within 46-37.

But the Braves could not overcome the Panthers, as Eastern's Jodi Corson nailed both ends of the one-and-bonus to open a 15-point lead with just under 7:00 left in the game.

Corson came off the bench to tally six second-half points when Lori Conine drew her fourth foul after only 5:00 of the second half had been played.

Eastern's final 17-point advantage marked the Lady Panthers' largest lead of the contest.

The victory lifted Eastern to a 14-3 record, 4-1 in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference. The Braves dropped to 0-3 in the league's first year of competition and 10-8 overall.

Johnson to negotiate Cardinal contract

by Kirby Flowers
Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson will meet with St. Louis Cardinals officials Wednesday in St. Louis to finalize a contract to host the National Football League franchise this summer.
"We are going to review details of last year's contract and work out this year's," Johnson said. "They have indicated to me that they would like to stay longer this summer."
The Cardinals, who made their first appearance in Charleston in 1975, returned last summer for one of two pre-season camps, having also spent time in Seattle, Wash.
But officials have indicated that this summer the Cardinals want to make Charleston their only pre-season camp site.
Cardinal owner Bill Bidwill explained, "The season starts earlier this year and we would like to make Charleston our only summer home this year."

"We certainly would like to come back this year," Bidwill added.
Johnson said Tuesday both parties need to negotiate the time period and monetary figures before inking a contract.
Consequently, Johnson said, Wednesday's conference with Bidwill could extend until Thursday.
Last summer the Cardinals signed a $10,000 contract with Eastern for their stay. Johnson said this year's proposed stay, which has been extended to seven weeks, could mean additional revenues for Eastern.
However, the longer length of time could cause problems in Eastern's other athletic events, Johnson said.
"They want to come earlier and stay later," Johnson explained, "which will overlap with some of Eastern athletic activities."
"We went over the calendar and we have no problem, but they will make this their definite summer home,"

Johnson added.
Johnson said several things, none of which he thought were going to be difficult to straighten out, will be discussed at the meeting.
"We have a lot of little things to discuss," Johnson explained. "And we will try to get things to work out."
The attitudes of both organizations are very optimistic, he continued.
"We're very optimistic," Johnson said. "They (St. Louis) have indicated to me that they want to return and we have indicated that we want them back."
Although there has been no deadline set, Johnson said officials do have some idea of when they would like to get the contract settled.
"We'd like to get this whole thing wrapped up by the Super Bowl (Jan. 30)," Johnson said.
Bidwill denied any rumors of a pre-season contest to be held at O'Brian Field this summer.

May ineligible for player pool

CHICAGO (AP)—Major league baseball's decision Tuesday that New York Yankees' pitcher Rudy May was ineligible for the free agent player-compensation pool leaves the Chicago White Sox empty-handed and the Chicago Cubs facing the possibility of losing top pitcher Ferguson Jenkins.
American League President Lee MacPhail and National League President Chub Feeney announced jointly that May should have been kept on the Yankees' 26-man protected roster.
Both leagues agreed with May's agent, Dick Moss, that a no-trade clause in May's 1982 contract was still in effect when the 38-year-old left-hander was placed in the pool.

Cey signs contract with Cubbies

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Cey officially donned a Cubs' baseball cap Tuesday and promptly compared his move from perennial National League contender Los Angeles to perennial doormat Chicago as a "transfusion."

Cey, a month shy of 35, arrived with a five-year contract estimated at $3.5 million, costing the Cubs two Class A minor-leaguers in the bargain.

"This move comes about at a very good time for me. There were some changes going on out West that were very obvious," said Cey, referring to the Dodger rebuilding program that also resulted in Steve Garvey's move to San Diego. "I have a lot of fond memories of the Dodger organization, but there comes a time when you move on."

During 12 seasons with Los Angeles, the stocky third baseman nicknamed "The Penguin" amassed 228 home runs, 842 runs-batted-in and a .264 career batting average. He played on one World Series and four NL West pennant-winning teams.

Asked what kind of incentives he would find to perform as well for a struggling ballclub like the Cubs, Cey replied, "Providing another winner."

"You're always driven ... no matter how many times you've done it in the past," he continued, "and I've always been maybe a little more driven than the next guy."

Cey envisioned his role with the club, "as one of more verbal leadership than I had been doing with Los Angeles. I've always been one who believes in leading by example, but the situation is a little different here.

"In the past, I never really had to say a lot. We were all in the same age group and we'd been through a lot of things together," said Cey. "On this club, there are a lot of younger guys and there will be some things that need to be said.

Cey said he regarded the challenge of joining the Chicago organization as "right up there" with "coming off the deck" to provide the winning hit in the final game of the 1981 World Series after being beated by New York Yankee fastballer Goose Gossage two nights earlier.

And he responds to questions on whether he had slowed down by saying, "Age only means something to those people who can't take care of themselves."

Anthony wins bowling title

CHICAGO (AP)—Earl Anthony was named Bowler of the Year Tuesday by Bowling Writers Association for the second successive year and the fifth time of his career.

Anthony, a 44-year-old southpaw from Dublin, Calif., also earned the honor in 1974, 1975, 1976 and 1981, leaving him only one behind Don Carter who was selected a record six times.

Anthony was named on 209 of the 211 ballots cast by a panel of writers and broadcasters, receiving 194 first-place votes and a total of 1,615 points. He also received 11 seconds, 2 thirds, and 2 fifths.

Dave Husted of Milwaukie, Ore., was a distant second with 9 first-place votes and 814 points followed by Mike Durbin of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, with one first-place vote and 420 points.

Anthony won three tournaments during 1982 including the PBA National in Toledo and led all pro bowlers in earnings with $134,760.

Others receiving votes with first-place votes in parentheses: Wayne Webb, Indianapolis, (1) 272; Art Trask, Fresno, Calif. (1) 199; Pete Weber, St. Louis, 141; Guppy Group, Columbia, S.C., 114; Joe Berardi, Brooklyn, N.Y., (1) 90.

May

via free agency, picked first among the 20 teams participating in Type-A free agency and selected minor-league Dan Tartanbull from the Cincinnati Reds organization.

The Mariners will have the option of keeping Tartanbull or selecting the ballplayer the Yankees must remove from their protected list by Wednesday morning.

The White Sox, who lost free agent Steve Kemp to the Yankees, followed Seattle by tabbing May. They again will pick behind the Mariners, and spokesman Chuck Shriver said Tuesday the club was reviewing names from the compensation pool.

The Kemp signing set off name-calling that resulted in $7,500 in fines for White Sox co-owners Jerry Reinsdorf and Eddie Einhorn and Yankees' George Steinbrenner. Chicago's decision to grab May renewed the war of words between the parties, but this one was waged without fines.

According to published reports, however, the White Sox' first choice from the player compensation pool was Jenkins, a right-hander who topped the Cubs staff in wins last season with 14.

The White Sox were "astonished" to learn that Jenkins was left off the Cubs' protected list.
