Officials: credit system favorable

by Nancy Yamin

Officials from various universities in Illinois which currently use a credit-no credit grading option recently said the system is beneficial. However, a few schools said they will continue to offer a pass-fail system.

Both the University of Illinois and Illinois State University currently offer a credit-no credit option to students. The system used at the U of I was used as the model for the proposed credit-no credit plan currently before Eastern's Council on Academic Affairs.

U of I Assistant Dean Harry Cahalan said, "The credit-no credit system is a device we're happy with. I think it discourages students from not working in a class."

Illinois State Assistant Dean Larry Quane said he prefers the credit-no credit system because students tend to abuse a pass-fail system by doing only a minimum amount of work for a class.

"I think that is the common perception of students when all you need to pass is a D," Quane said.

Under the U of I credit-no credit option, students in good academic standing may take a maximum of 18 hours in courses outside their major area of study as credit-no credit rather than for a letter grade, Assistant Registrar Robin Haggard said.

Students who receive a grade of C or better in a class receive a CR (credit) on their transcripts. A student who receives a D or F in a class receives NO CR (no credit) for the course, Haggard said.

Haggard said the results of courses taken under the credit-no credit option count only toward total credit hours and not a student's grade point average.

Instructors are not informed which students take a course under the credit-no credit option so "teachers can not downgrade those students they think are shirking just to get a C in the class for a mark of CR," Haggard added.

The U of I did have a pass-fail option before changing to credit-no credit, Haggard said. "The rules of the old system were basically the same. I think the change was just a matter of semantics more than anything else."

All colleges losing students

by Michael Kuo

Retention of students is not only a problem at Illinois schools—national education experts said recently that schools across America are losing students.

The problem "has probably existed for a long time, but no attention has been paid to it," Paula Knepper, statistician for the American Council on Education, said.

However, Knepper said the educational community has just recently turned to focus on the retention problem.

Lee Noel, executive director of the American College Testing's National Center for Advancement of Educational Practices, said retention figures indicate that "students aren't being as successful and satisfied as they might be."

College administrators are becoming concerned about retention figures for two reasons, Noel said.

"There is an impending decline in enrollment and there is a re-dedication of interest in quality" among administrators, he said.

However, Bruce Swinburne, vice president of student affairs at Southern Illinois University, said he fears the recent administrative focus on retention may be only a result of threatening enrollment figures.

Noel agreed and said, "That's about the only thing that has captured the attention of administrators. They're showing concern for numbers and fiscal support, as opposed to what is in the best interest of the student."

In 1979, the ACT conducted a national survey on retention. According to Noel, 33 to 36 percent of freshmen entering in 1977 were not retained at the institution where they enrolled.

The ACT figures do not take part-time students or transfer students into account, Noel said.

However, ACE Research Associate Cathy Henderson has compiled national retention statistics that do consider transfer students.

According to these figures, out of 10 freshmen entering an educational institution:

- "four will graduate from that institution within four years,
- one will remain and graduate after the initial four years,
- two will transfer and graduate,
- two will transfer and not graduate, and
- one will drop out and not re-enroll at any school."

According to Henderson, "College administrators have been preoccupied with the predicted decline in the number of traditional college-age youth."

"They fear that, as the post-World War II baby boom ends, enrollments will taper off," Henderson said in an ACE policy brief. "But in their search for students to fill classroom seats, college administrators too often overlook an obvious pool: those students who are currently enrolled."

Yet, the key to keeping students enrolled is difficult to determine, researchers agreed.

Noel said ACT researchers have determined "themes of attrition," or reasons students leave school, to be academic boredom and lack of academic preparation.

In addition, a student's adult contacts, especially those made in the freshman and sophomore years, influence whether that student will remain enrolled, Noel said.

"If students make some kind of linkage with a significant adult on campus, it's a pretty big factor" that may keep them enrolled, he said.

"The more students learn, in terms of relevant academic knowledge and process skills, the more likely they are to stay in college," Noel added.

"In other words," he noted, "The more productive institutions are in motivating relevant learning, the lower their drop-out rate will be."

Davis: no legal service fee increase

(Editor's note: The following article is the sixth in a series of nine stories detailing costs and uses of Eastern's student fees.)

by Linda Wagner

Eastern students can receive free legal advice through Eastern's Student Legal Service, which is funded through student activity fee money.

Full-time students pay $2 a semester for the Student Legal Service as part of their student activity fee, Legal Service Adviser Steve Davis said.

The Legal Service was approved in the fall of 1979 after students passed a fee increase of $2 per student per semester to fund the service.

The Student Legal Service is "totally dependent" on student fee money because funding for the service is solely dependent on student fees, Davis said.

However, Davis, who also has a private legal practice in Charleston, said there will not be an increase in the Student Legal Service fee for Fiscal Year 1984 and services will remain at their current level.

Davis pointed out there has not been an increase in the Student Legal Service since the program was instituted in August 1980.

"We have been able to operate in the black," Davis said. "We administer the service within the bounds of our budget."

"Most attorneys, even in small areas, charge $60 an hour for their services," Davis said. "What the student receives for $2 is well worth their money."

Davis said the service operates on a yearly budget of "around $37,000. This money is used to administer the entire program."

The legal service fee pays for Davis's salary, supplies, civil service workers' salaries, books and office upkeep.

Davis said the service consists of two full-time staff members and four student interns.

"We have a small staff, which is to our advantage," Davis said. "When wages were frozen last year, no one got a raise, making operation within our budget more successful."

Davis said university employees who are union members recently received salary increases, while non-union employees did not receive a raise. He added Student Legal Service staff employees are non-union employees.

Davis said the Student Legal Service deals with giving unlimited advice, but is limited in representing students in court.

"We have a hedge on inflation," Davis said. "We have a small staff and have a service that is dependent on giving service rather than products."

Davis said inflation does not affect the Legal Service budget because inflation only affects salaries and material used for products, and the legal service deals only with a service.

Students who want legal advice can make an appointment at the Student Legal Service office located on the Union's second floor.

Senate lacks support for tax plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—A state Senate leader poured cold water Tuesday on Gov. James R. Thompson's $1.6-billion income tax plan, saying it suffers "less than underwhelming" legislative support.

"I count noses...and right now, I count substantially less than 20," said Sen. Terry L. Bruce, D-Olney, in assessing Senate Democratic support for raising the state income tax rate.

Bruce said Republican Senate leaders have told him that "few, if any" GOP senators support the Republican governor's plan.

Air traffic growth may be too fast

WASHINGTON—The chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday the government is allowing air traffic to reach normal levels too quickly amid continuing questions about the training and long hours of air traffic controllers.

The Federal Aviation Administration ordered strict ceilings on air traffic after the 1981 controllers' strike and the firing of 11,500 controllers, but FAA officials say they intend to lift all restrictions by the end of the year.

Rise in output reaffirms recovery

WASHINGTON—The nation's industrial output rose for a third straight month in February, but the 0.3 percent gain was much smaller than in January, the government reported Tuesday.

Unfazed by the apparent slackening, most economists said recovery from the recession was still proceeding.

February gains were recorded for output of cars and other consumer goods, for construction materials and for defense and space equipment, the Federal Reserve Board report said. Production of business equipment continues to decline.

Son mistaken for dead still alive

DANVILLE, Pa.—The grieving couple had chosen the casket, provided information for the obituary notice and scheduled the funeral.

Then, Joseph and Susan Milzman discovered the body in the Maryland funeral home was not their son. It was another youth who died in the weekend auto accident.

On Tuesday, Milzman, a Rockville, Md. dentist, and his wife were at their son's bedside at the Geisinger Medical Center.

Bruce Milzman, 21, one of three Susquehanna University students involved in the accident Saturday, was alive, but in critical condition.

Doctor departs to meet patients

BROWNS MILLS, N.J.—A heart surgeon whose "people-to-people" work with Polish children continued here even during martial law, left Tuesday for a reunion in Poland with 91 children whose defective hearts he repaired.

Dr. Faustino Nigiedula, 56, chief of pediatric cardiac surgery at Deborah Heart and Lung Center, and other hospital officials also, will visit 24 Polish doctors he trained in surgical techniques previously unavailable in the eastern European nation.

Britain, other non-OPEC nations hold key to further oil price cuts

LONDON (AP)—Britain and other oil-exporting nations outside OPEC may determine whether world oil prices fall further following the cartel's decision to cut its base price from $34 to $29 a barrel.

Already, the Soviet Union, the world's biggest oil producer, has raised a possible threat to the new OPEC price.

The Soviets, eager to hold European customers in a shrinking oil market, cut the price of their crude by $1.25 to $28 a barrel, oil industry sources in Rome said Tuesday. The Soviet Union exports about one million barrels of oil a day to Western Europe, with an additional two million a day going to Communist nations.

The main spotlight, however, has turned to Britain.

Its price cut of $3 a barrel last month was the main reason the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries held an emergency meeting in London to devise a strategy for stabilizing prices.

OPEC decided Monday, after 12 straight days of haggling, to reduce its price about 15 percent and to limit the oil production of each of the 11 members. They argued, as one minister put it, "until our tongues became heavy as lead," before agreeing on the first price cut in OPEC's 22-year history.

OPEC's goal is to prevent an oversupply from causing a price collapse.

The price of North Sea oil on the spot market—where individual cargoes of oil are sold to the highest bidder—was quoted in Europe Tuesday at $28.25 a barrel, up 50 cents from Monday. That is $2.25 below the price offered to contract buyers.

As a result, British National Oil Corp., the government-owned oil company, is facing new pressure to cut its contract prices even further from the $30.50 it announced Feb. 18.

Ex-EPA chief avoids prosecution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General William French Smith on Tuesday virtually ruled out criminal prosecution of Anne McGill Burford, saying "Congress has done very well" in getting documents she withheld from House investigators.

But Smith's insistence on not prosecuting contempt of Congress charges against the former Environmental Protection Agency Chief produced several angry exchanges and a warning that the next executive branch official who won't cooperate with Congress may not be so lucky.

"This matter is a matter that isn't going to go away," Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said. "We really are searching for an answer because it is going to occur again."

As he left a committee hearing on the Justice Department's $3.4 billion budget request, the attorney general was asked by a reporter if the Reagan administration's agreement to give Congress the EPA documents it sought ruled out prosecution of Burford.

"The case has been settled," he said. "You'll have to come to your own conclusion."

But department spokesman Thomas DeCain was asked if the effect of the agreement was to end that possibility of criminal charges and replied, "Sure."

At the hearing, congressmen questioned Smith repeatedly about the constitutional battle between Congress and the Reagan administration over the failure of the executive branch to prosecute Burford for contempt.

Burford had refused to give Congress sensitive law enforcement documents about toxic waste dumps.

Even though she was following the president's orders, the House voted 259-105 on Dec. 16 to make her the highest executive branch official ever cited for contempt of Congress.

Senators detain decisive votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republicans who are deadlocked with President Reagan over cuts in his proposed 1984 defense budget reluctantly agreed Tuesday to a personal request from Reagan to delay decisive votes on the plan.

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said Reagan promised to look for ways to slow the proposed increase in military spending for next year and beyond.

But Domenici said Reagan made no specific promises to reduce his $238.6 billion 1984 Pentagon budget plan far enough to meet the demands of a broad majority of Republicans and Democrats on the committee.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said, "The president obviously prefers that spending stay at the present level."

Some Democrats said they were skeptical that Reagan really intends to compromise, but instead was hoping a White House campaign would succeed in changing votes on the defense issue in Congress.

"I am concerned the president is going to the country to seek support for his budget," said Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., senior Democrat on the committee.

Student Senate to discuss seat

Illinois to pay for budget legal fees

The Student Senate will discuss Wednesday a possible referendum to be placed on the spring ballot which would increase the elected number of student senators from 30 to 31.

Student Senate Speaker Glenn Good said the senate is considering the change so a replacement will not have to be selected after the senate speaker is elected each semester.

The senate will also consider a proposal requiring Eastern's representative on the Illinois Student Association to be a member of the Student Legislative Committee.

Good said the senate will also discuss action it plans to take concerning the recently proposed credit/no credit option being considered by the Council on Academic Affairs.

In other business, the senate will hear a report from members concerning their Monday meeting with Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar and other state officials in Springfield.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Illinois will pay $75,000 for legal fees to a Chicago attorney who successfully defended Gov. James R. Thompson's emergency mid-year budget cuts when Attorney General Neil Hartigan refused to take the case, officials said Tuesday.

The bill to be submitted is $35,000 more than was expected when attorney Samuel K. Skinner signed a contract with the state Public Aid Department in January, agency spokeswoman Johnetta Jordan said.

She said the case took Skinner and his associates longer than anticipated.

Skinner defended the fees, calling the case "probably the most significant separation of powers and constitutional law case that's ever been heard by the Illinois Supreme Court."

The cost to taxpayers would have been much higher had the case been lost, because "the state's financial situation was at stake," Skinner said in a telephone interview.

He said while the attorney general's office has many state lawyers qualified to handle such a case, "they've got their hands full with other matters."

City Council unanimously elects to fire city planner

by Elise Dinquel

A motion to terminate Larry Stoever's position as Charleston city planner was unanimously approved by the city council Tuesday night.

Commissioner John Beusch, who made the motion, said, "It's apparent the city planner doesn't have confidence in the council. I don't feel the need to go into great particulars, but there are a number of events that have eroded that confidence."

Last week Stoever publicly apologized for criticizing the council's appointment of Jim Wickham to fill a position vacated when Clancy Pfeiffer was named mayor.

Stoever chastised the council for appointing Wickham, an executive with Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company, because he was concerned about a potential conflict of interest and a possible violation of a state statute forbidding utility officials from serving in city governments.

Before a vote was taken on the motion, Pfeiffer said he had told Stoever all he expected was a public apology for Stoever's criticism, "but the council isn't satisfied with that, so I'll go along with what the council wants."

However, Beusch indicated his justification in making the motion was not based only on Stoever's recent criticism.

"I don't feel confident that the information I'm receiving from him is unbiased," Beusch said.

Commissioner Olga Durham noted she was casting her yes vote reluctantly. "I feel we should give credit to work that he has done in the past," she said.

Passage of the motion is subject to a hearing if Stoever requests one. Stoever, who has been a city employee for 10 years, did not attend the meeting and could not be reached for comment Tuesday night.

In other action, the council waived its one-week layover period and approved purchasing an electric motor from Aurora Pump Company in Aurora, Ill., for $25,000 to replace one damaged in an accident March 9 at the city's sewage treatment plant.

Durham said the cost of the new motor should be covered by insurance because the damage was due to material failure and not negligence.

The money will come from agency accounts set aside to pay contractual workers and lawyers, not from grants to welfare recipients, Jordan said.

She said Public Aid Director Jeffrey Miller was not upset that his agency was saddled with the bill instead of Thompson, because the suit challenged new agency rules cutting $55 million in medical aid to the poor.

"We felt it was a public aid lawsuit. And we're sued a lot," she said.

The cut was part of the $159 million Thompson took out of the budget in response to the state's lower-than-expected tax collections this year.

The contract called for Skinner—a longtime Thompson friend, political appointee and former legal associate—to be paid $100 and hour up to $40,000, according to the state comptroller's office.

State law allows the contract to be altered to reflect the extra time put into the case, decided in Thompson's favor earlier this month by the Illinois Supreme Court, the comptroller's office said.

David Fields, a Thompson press aide, said because of the emergency nature of the case, state lawyers had to "move quickly" to agree on the contract with Skinner. As a result, their estimates for how much time was needed were off, he said.

The Supreme Court on March 2 upheld the authority Thompson was given by the legislature last December to cut the $159 million from the budget.

Justices explained their ruling Monday. While they might not have cut in the same amounts and in the same places as Thompson did, they said there was nothing unreasonable or illegal about his actions.

Skinner worked for Thompson when the governor was U.S. attorney in Chicago, and succeeded him in that post. He also is Thompson's appointee to the state Capital Development Board, which oversees state building projects.

Credit/no credit plan's flaws outweigh benefits

The Council on Academic Affairs should not act hastily when considering adopting a credit/no credit plan to replace Eastern's current pass-fail option.

While the proposed credit/no credit system does have some merits, its drawbacks far outweigh any possible benefits it may bring.

Under the pass-fail option, students are given a P for grades of D and above while an F is given for failing grades. A "pass" designation is not figured into the student's grade point average—the student just gains the hours. However, the F is figured into the GPA, bringing it down.

The credit/no credit plan's one redeeming feature is that either way—CR or NO CR—the student's GPA is not affected.

Under the credit/no credit plan, students would receive CR for grades of C and above, while a D or an F would warrant NO CR, meaning a student who received a D or an F would not receive credit hours for taking the course.

Given this, how can CAA members possibly say that switching to the credit/no credit system won't hurt anyone?

Editorials

When CAA member Sharon Bartling discussed the proposal with the Student Senate last week, her argument was that under the credit/no credit plan a student "wouldn't be penalized in any way" for doing poorly in a class because grades wouldn't be recorded on his GPA. Therefore, she said, the change will be beneficial to everyone.

How can anyone think that a student won't be penalized when credit hours earned in a course—even though earned with a low grade such as a D—would be taken away?

We agree with the arguments presented by student government members that the CAA would be changing the whole concept of grades and their worth by adopting this plan and is thus changing the definition of a D.

A strong argument exists that students will be wary of taking elective classes in unfamiliar areas for fear they will have to devote too much time to that class to receive a C and, consequently, credit.

The original concept of the pass-fail option was to give students a chance to broaden their knowledge and experience in areas outside their chosen fields without the pressure of working to earn a high grade to maintain a high GPA.

In fact, the CAA used this as an argument against extending the deadline for registering to take a class pass-fail and against allowing students who earn A's in classes they are taking pass-fail to have the A recorded on their transcripts.

But now, it appears CAA members are ignoring this argument.

The CAA is also modeling Eastern's proposed credit/no credit system after one currently in use at the University of Illinois. Yet the U of I allows students eight weeks to decide whether to take a class credit/no credit. Why accept one part and not the other?

Leaving Eastern's current pass-fail option as it now stands is a better alternative than adopting the credit/no credit plan, and we hope the CAA considers input from faculty, students and administrators before taking any action on the plan.

Student leaders should present developed, logical ideas to CAA

Eastern's student government leaders should express their opinions on the credit/no credit proposal to the Council on Academic Affairs in a rational and professional manner.

In addition, the arguments they present to the council should be concise, accurate and well prepared.

The question of whether to replace Eastern's pass-fail option with a credit/no credit system is an important one because the system that is implemented will have a major effect on every Eastern student. Therefore, student government representatives must handle the situation with extreme care.

Another major proposal, which would have revised Eastern's pass-fail option by extending the pass-fail deadline from the second to the 10th class day and allowing students who earned an A in a pass-fail course to have that grade recorded on their transcripts was recently voted down by the CAA.

A combination of weak arguments and unprofessional conduct on the part of student government representatives probably contributed to the CAA's final defeat of the proposal.

Eastern students suffered because of the irresponsible actions of their student representatives at the last CAA meeting.

Student government representatives should make sure they do not let students down at the next CAA meeting by preparing well-developed, informed and concise arguments concerning the credit/no credit proposal and delivering them in a professional manner.

Peach fuzz daydreams replaced by shaving nightmares

Oh, to be young again—just starting high school, having my first beer and not having to shave. Yes, those were the days.

I remember my dad saying, "Son, enjoy that baby face while you can. Shaving's a hassle." Once again, the old saying (a la Brian Ormiston): listen to your elders.

Remember the days when you could wake up for an 8 o'clock class at 7:20 a.m., take a shower, eat Mom's breakfast, brush your teeth, walk four miles (through eight feet of snow) and still make it to that high school drafting class with time to spare?

Those days are gone forever, now.

You can't get aftershave lotion for your birthday and stick it in the back of the medicine chest until you have a hot date. Now you have to use the stuff.

Have you ever really looked to see what you're putting on your face? The bottle says, "A clean invigorating fragrance that wakes you up like a cold slap in the face." You have to watch out for those "invigorating" ingredients—they usually cause cancer.

Why did I have to wait around for a few facial hairs to grow when all my friends had full beards? I still don't get a three o'clock shadow (more like a Thursday afternoon shadow), but why is it that whenever I need a shave, I'm in a hurry and always hack myself?

You know the scene—it's early morning and you're sleeping peacefully after studying late the night before (there was a good rerun of the "Rockford Files" on). You've got an eight o'clock class this morning.

Your alarm clock breaks the silence—it's 7 a.m. No problem—turn it off and roll over—you'll just sleep for five more minutes, all you need is five minutes.

Then it's 7:25. "Oh my God," you yell as you hightail it down to the shower, in and out—it's 7:40. "Damn! Forgot the razor!"

By the time you run to your room, then back down to the bathroom and brush your teeth and get shaving cream on your face, it's 7:45. You think, "Ok, now let's get this shaving jazz done quick and no cuts—please." One stroke, two strokes, "got ya!"

"Damn! Where's the T-paper? Come on, stop bleeding." You make it back to your room. It's now 7:52. You get all dressed, really prepped out ("Come on, stop bleeding!") At 7:55 you think, "I'm going to look like a fool with this blood on my face. Maybe I could say I got hit with a beer bottle last night. No, they'll never believe me."

It's 7:59, still bleeding. Forget it—I'll sleep 'til nine and make breakfast.

You know, I'm just thankful that guys don't have to shave their legs.

Panel set to 'explore' various energy topics

A four-person panel will discuss the topics of gas deregulation and community conservation Wednesday as part of Eastern's observance of Energy Awareness Week.

"It is a Central Illinois Public Service discussion with a panel of two CIPS officials, a city commissioner and an Illinois Department of Energy official," Mark Campbell, vice president of Beta Tau Upsilon, the group sponsoring Energy Awareness Week, said.

Charleston City Council Commissioner Olga Durham, Reg Ankrum and Ed Cobau of CIPS and Thomas Campbell of IDE will present their views at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon room.

Union skeptical of CUPB raise offer

by Jan Genis

An American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees' representative said the Council on University Planning and Budgeting's salary-increase plan for non-unionized civil service employees "acknowledges what we (AFSCME) have said from the beginning."

Seth Hendler, AFSCME organizer who is currently discussing unionization with Eastern's civil service employees, said, "People at Eastern are way behind everyone else and have increasing difficulty making ends meet. We've been saying this all along."

Eastern civil service employees' salaries are approximately 35 percent lower than the state average.

The CUPB's plan now being considered would add $454,900 to civil service salaries, which would bring Eastern's salaries in line with pay at other Board of Governors schools.

The money for the salaries is being sought as a non-instructional New Expanded and Improved Program Request (NEIPR).

Hendler added the CUPB's plan was released during a strong drive to unionize Eastern's non-negotiated employees.

However, George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, said the CUPB has been working to raise civil service salaries for a number of years.

"This is the second time we've submitted the proposal to raise the salaries. We've updated the proposal and are submitting it again," Miller said.

"The CUPB is doing everything possible," he said, adding that AFSCME "has nothing to do with it."

However, Hendler said he believes funding for the CUPB plan is "uncertain at best" and AFSCME's Illinois Universities' Fair Salaries Campaign can "guarantee what CUPB cannot."

"Such a large pay increase as contemplated by the CUPB will be very difficult to obtain unless non-negotiated employees vote in a strong union to represent them in Springfield and at the bargaining table," Hendler added.

However, Miller said he believes the CUPB's proposal has a better chance of being passed this time.

"I think the Board of Governors now recognizes the salary gap that we endure among the other BOG schools," Miller said.

Miller added raising the employees' salaries to the average of other BOG schools is "only the beginning."

The next step, he said, is to request funding equal to the amount universities throughout the state receive.

Deans withhold reply on evaluation

by Linda Wagner

Although the Faculty Senate asked for deans' and department chairmen's reactions to proposed faculty evaluations of them, only chairmen responded to the request prior to Tuesday's senate meeting.

Faculty Senate Chairman Jeffrey Lynch said he was unsure why only chairmen responded to a cover letter sent to all Eastern deans and department chairmen.

Twelve department chairmen responded to the letter, which asked for general opinion on the proposed evaluations and how to administer them.

Lynch said the responses were "marvelous and very supportive" toward the idea of the evaluations.

Also, Lynch said most of the letters stated the administration of the evaluations should be "out of the hands of the Faculty Senate."

A tentative plan dealing with the issue of how to administer the evaluations was discussed by the senate.

"A departmental level administrative review committee would administer the questionnaire to the respective faculty," Lynch said. "This committee would then collect, tally and summarize the completed evaluations."

Lynch said the committee would pass the summary to the chairman or dean and Stanley Rives, provost and vice president for academic affairs.

Committee to help establish Mortar Board

by David Shunk

A steering committee has been established to help establish an honorary organization—Mortar Board—to recognize student leaders at Eastern, Student Senator Terese Lang said.

Mortar Board is a national academic organization designed for students with high grade point averages who show an active service involvement and demonstrate leadership qualities.

Mortar Board would document a student's activities and send records of those activities as well as college transcripts to prospective employers, Lang said.

Student leaders in any area, such as student government, student publications or residence halls would be eligible to join Mortar Board, Lang said.

She added that a Mortar Board chapter at Eastern would offer members the opportunity to have their leadership qualities recognized.

Eastern's student government has been working to establish a campus chapter of the organization since last semester, Lang said.

Eastern students, faculty and administrators who would like to serve on the Mortar Board steering committee should contact Lang at 348-1720 or Home Economics Instructor Jean Coyle at 581-6076.

Peace Corps seeks to add more student volunteers

by Douglas Backstrom

A Peace Corps representative who recruited Eastern students last week will continue seeking new members.

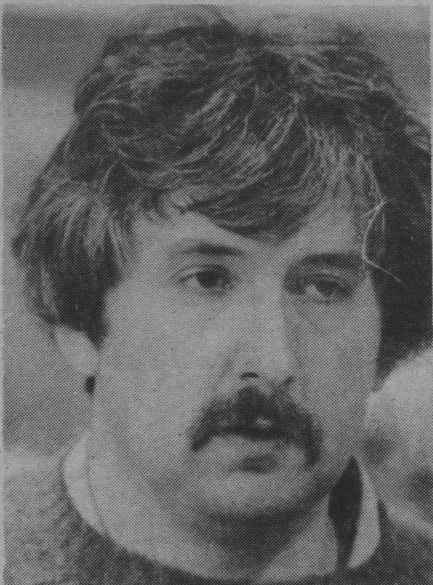

Peace Corps representative Jim Sedlacek said, "I have been showing movies and talking to students in the placement center and the Union all this past week and will continue to recruit next week."

Sedlacek said there are about 5,000 Peace Corps volunteers who serve two years in a foreign country. During the two years of service, the volunteer's travel, living allowance and medical expenses are provided by the Peace Corps, he added.

Sedlacek said volunteers are sent to over 60 countries to perform a variety of jobs, but knowledge of a foreign language is not necessary to join the corps.

Volunteers work for the foreign country's government and are paid $175 per month of service. They receive their allowance at the conclusion of their term, he added.

Sedlacek said the Peace Corps agency in Chicago tries to meet the country's request rather than the volunteer's request.

Jim Sedlacek

"The volunteer doesn't have much choice of where he'll be sent, but he can make a request on the application where he'd like to go and where he doesn't want to go," Sedlacek said.

Processing of applications takes four to six months, Sedlacek said, "so those interested in joining the Peace Corps should fill out an application four to six months ahead of time."

Workshop to examine fighting as useful communication source

The answer to a couples' conflict may be to fight, Marie Kistler of the Coles County Mental Health Center said.

Kistler, who works primarily with couples and families, will speak at Wednesday's Counseling Center-sponsored workshop, "Creative Couple Conflict."

"Basically, I will be talking about such topics as how to fight without being destructive or hitting below the belt and how to fight fairly and negotiate conflict," she said.

"People tend to avoid fighting, but we should realize it's a healthy process which helps individuals get along with each other," she said.

"It is possible to fight fairly and create solutions," she added.

"Although many couples—teacher and pupil or employee and boss—may wrangle continually in unproductive ways, the answer isn't to stop fighting," she added.

"The answer is to fight often, fight hard and fight fair," Kistler said.

The workshop will be at noon Wednesday in the Union Greenup room.

Drug packaging fear gone

DECATUR (AP)—Five months after cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol killed seven Chicago area people, much of the scare about safe packaging of drugs is gone, a U.S. Food and Drug Administration spokeswoman says.

The seven people who died in late September and early October after taking poisoned Tylenol capsules aroused great concern and distrust about the security of medication packaging, said Darlene M. Bailey, consumer affairs officer for the FDA regional office in Chicago.

However, she added, "people do trust the industry now."

Mrs. Bailey was in Decatur on Monday as the keynote speaker for the fifth State Conference on Nutrition.

Mrs. Bailey said consumers' confidence has been restored because of prompt action by the drug industry. "It only took them 35 days to come up with packaging guidelines," she said.

The first voluntary guidelines went into effect in February, requiring tamper-resistant packaging on most non-prescription capsule and liquid drugs.

By next February, Mrs. Bailey said, no over-the-counter drug covered by the regulations may be sold without tamper-resistant packaging, which includes foil, paper or plastic pouches for individual doses, bottle seals and sealed cartons.

Mrs. Bailey said the regulations are voluntary but the vast majority of manufacturers are complying.

The FDA will conduct follow-up surveys to monitor compliance and could make the rule mandatory, but Mrs. Bailey said she doesn't think that step will be necessary.

Mrs. Bailey also said even though there is more secure packaging, "There is no such thing as tamper-proof. If someone wants to get in a product badly enough, he can."

The FDA hears of "copycat" poisoners about once a month, she added, but few of them are serious.

Mrs. Bailey said many people now have questions about how to make the packages tamper-resistant.

Walgreen's donates over $2,000 in grants

Eastern received two grants totaling more than $2,000 March 15 from the Walgreen Company.

James Knott, Director of the Placement Center, said the center received a $1,500 check from Walgreen's.

He said Walgreen's has supported the placement center with grants for several years.

An additional grant was awarded to the Computer Management Department.

Mark Bomball, coordinator of Eastern's computer management department, said the department received a $1,000 check. The money will be used to allow more faculty members to attend seminars and conferences.

Julie Nudelman, Walgreen's personnel recruitment consultant, said donating the money to Eastern was "our way of demonstrating our support to one of the best computer management programs in Illinois colleges."

Officials

University and Southern Illinois University all currently offer their students an option similar to Eastern's pass-fail system.

Officials at these universities said there were no plans to switch to a credit-no credit option. However, their opinions of the system varied.

Governors State Registrar Sarah Crawford said, "I don't think the idea (of a credit-no credit system) is unusual. Schools sometimes run into trouble when they consider a D as passing because those credits are hard to transfer," she said.

Crawford added, "I think a credit-no credit system where students must achieve C work in a course insures that academic work is of high quality."

Southern's Assistant Director for Records Lavida Cruse said Southern has no plans to switch to a credit-no credit system.

"I'm sure we considered a credit-no credit option when we first implemented a pass-fail type system. However, we felt the pass-fail system would be better," Cruse said.

Western's Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs Virgil Howe said he did not think there has ever been a recommendation to switch to a credit-no credit system at that university.

Howe said he realizes some students may have problems when transferring a pass-fail grade, but he has not heard any complaints dealing with the pass-fail system.

Ann Travis, Governors State's Chief Clerk in the Registrar's Office, said that until fall 1979, courses taken at Governor's State were all pass-fail. After that, a letter grading system was implemented.

Crawford added, "When this university began it was totally in the non-traditional mode. However, as the school grew the administration realized that the students needed a more traditional grading system."

Crawford said students currently have the option of taking a course for a letter grade or utilizing the pass-no credit option offered at Governors State.

Under the pass-no credit program, students receiving a grade of D or higher receive hourly credit for the course and a grade of P (pass) on their transcripts, Crawford said.

UB to begin discussion of concert coordinator post

by Kevin Esgar

The possible appointment of a new concert coordinator and the choosing of students for the William Thorouby lecture will be discussed at Wednesday's University Board meeting.

Present Concert Coordinator Greg Ruwe will be graduating in May and a new coordinator needs to be appointed by next week, UB Chairman Bruce Quillen said.

Quillen added that any interested students should drop off their names and phone numbers at the UB office in the Union.

The choosing of two men and two women for the March 22 Thorouby lecture will also be discussed. The day of his lecture, Thorouby will take two men and two women to fix their hair and get them clothes that would be worn by a successful person.

"I plan on talking to all the candidates on Wednesday and Thursday and explaining what will be expected of them. Probably on Friday the four individuals will be chosen," Quillen added.

Other topics to be discussed will be some problems the UB had with the DeLuxury concert in the Rathskeller, Quillen said. He declined to disclose specifically what problems the UB encountered.

Also to be discussed will be Thursday's performance by the band Chaos from 5-7 p.m. on the South Quad. The band is part of the Miller Rock Series, he said.

UB ENTERTAINER

"STUDENTS PROGRAMMING FOR STUDENTS"

Could this be the SAME MAN

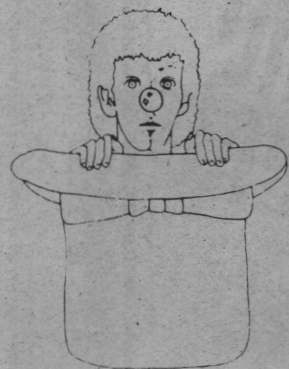

"When you come into a room, people who don't know you will make at least ten decisions about you based solely on your appearance," according to William L. Thourlby. This is why you should not miss your chance to "learn to dress with success," Tuesday, March 22 at 8:00 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom as UB Lecture Committee presents... William L. Thourlby.

William L. Thourlby is a grooming consultant and fashion expert, well-known nationally as "the wardrobe architect" for major corporations such as the Coca-Cola Company.

"How do you present yourself to others? What do your clothes say about you? For better or worse, we all make countless visual impressions critical since the impact of one's appearance has become a decisive factor in achieving one's goals in life. And, thankfully, appearance and clothing are two things we can control" as two Eastern seniors learn.

These two individuals will be made over by Mr. Thourlby who is the original Marlboro Man and also the author of YOU ARE WHAT YOU WEAR—a publication that sets the guidelines on how you can "learn to dress for success."

After you see the remarkable make-overs take formation in front of your eyes, you will have all the tricks in the book to hit the campus ready to face the world with a vibrant new look! Don't miss this chance to change your looks and maybe even your luck. Tickets are on sale NOW at the Union Box Office for $1.50 for students with I.D. and $3.00 for the general public. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

University Board Movie Committee has a special treat for EIU horror fans. POLTERGEIST will be shown at 6:30 and 9:00 p.m. Friday, March 18 in the Grand Ballroom. There will also be a SPECIAL SHOWING Thursday, March 17 at 7:00 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

From the creator of E.T. comes the "first real ghost story". POLTERGEIST isn't your run of the mill film. "Picture the suburban, middle-class life of Steve and Diane Feeling and their three children—a life of PTA meetings, picnics, and afternoon football games. All this ends when the nightmare begins; their quiet world is transformed into a world of stark terror by a violent, volatile phenomenon known only as POLTERGEIST. The real becomes the surreal and nothing and no one will ever be the same again. From the imagination of Steven Spielberg and based on actual events comes POLTERGEIST, an electrifying tale of the supernatural featuring special effects by the team who brought you STAR WARS and RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK. If you're human you will feel your pulse quicken, and the blood pound through you veins as you experience POLTERGEIST."

DON'T MISS IT!!! Tickets are on sale now at the Union Box Office for $1.25 or they may be purchased at the door.

ERIN GO BRAUGH from UB

at 8:00 Wednesday, March 16.

CAUGHT RED-HANDED has taken 26 years of professional experience and turned many doubters into country music fans overnight. They label their sound "progressive country rock." The use sounds from Charlie Daniels, Juice Newton and Eric Clapton. Get caught—you'll love it!

PAUL ZIMMERMAN, who bills himself as "The Fool", uses the audience very effectively, looking for volunteers to help make himself and the volunteers look like fools, but not stupid. Anita Craig from Bradley University said, "Paul Zimmerman was a crowd pleaser." And, Karen R. Wright from Northland College in Wisconsin said, "standing ovation. He is a very good performer."

Don't miss this great pair! Good music and a great "fool". Only $1.25 for students with an ID and $1.50 for others.

Sluggers to face Hoosiers in season opener

by Mike Lynch

When Eastern's baseball team opens its second Division I season Wednesday, the Panthers will begin a 59-game campaign against tougher teams than last year's schedule provided.

The Panthers enter Wednesday's double-header against a struggling Indiana University squad (1-5) in Bloomington, Ind. looking to improve on last year's 29-12 record.

Consequently, the Panthers need to better their initial Division I campaign in order to gain a position in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's World Series in June.

"If our pitching comes through we could get enough recognition for a possible post-season bid," Eastern head coach Tom McDevitt said.

However, this time around the Panthers will have to contend with a tougher Division I schedule.

"We don't have any of the Division II schools that we were used to on our schedule this season," McDevitt said. "Now that we are in Division I we have to play Division I schools."

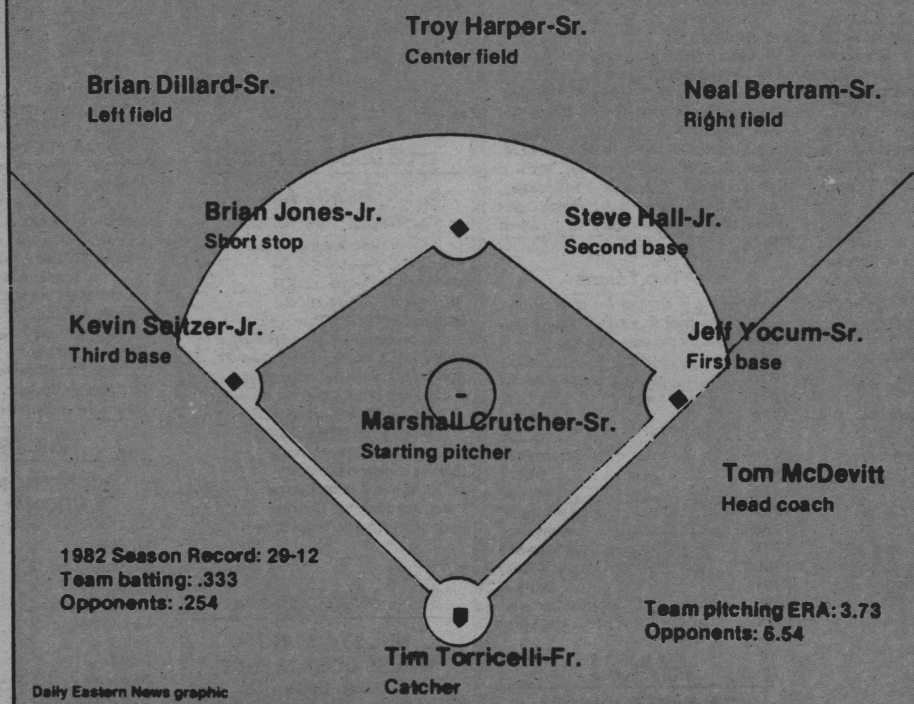

Eastern's season opener against Indiana University is the first of two twinbills with Big Ten conference teams in addition to two single dates.

The Panthers will face Purdue University April 10 in West Lafayette, Ind. and round out their Big Ten games with contests against the University of Illinois April 12 in Champaign and April 26 at Monier Field.

Following Wednesday's game, the Panthers will open their home season at Monier Field with a double-header at 2 p.m. against the University of Wisconsin-Parkside.

Eastern senior right-hander Kevin Gordon will pitch Wednesday in the first game against Indiana, while senior right-hander Marshall Crutcher will start the nightcap.

Panther opening day 1983

Crutcher, who was Eastern's most successful hurler last year with a 6-1 record and a 3.42 earned run average, looks to notch his second straight opening day victory.

Crutcher received credit for the Panthers' 8-6 road opener against Indiana State-Evansville. Crutcher's victory followed a 7-5 first-game victory by Bill Law, who finished the season with a 4-3 record.

"Marshall is effective because he throws the ball across the plate. It's that simple," McDevitt said. "He doesn't beat himself."

Gordon enters Wednesday's contest coming off a 4-1 record last season, which the club's best behind Crutcher and ace reliever Bill Morton's 5-1.

Morton could start this season, but McDevitt said he would prefer using the senior pitcher in relief. "That is where our potential lies," he said.

Morton registered a 2.04 ERA last year in 35 innings pitched and also fanned 33 batters. In addition, Morton allowed eight earned runs, 24 hits, and walked 18 batters.

McDevitt said sophomore Mick Freed will see a lot of action this season. Last season Freed compiled a 3.44 ERA and a 3-2 record in 10 games and 52 innings pitched.

Eastern's pitching staff anticipates the same success as last year, when the Panthers posted a 3.73 team earned run average.

Eastern's opponents had their trouble last season, registering a 6.54 average in allowing 209 runs to the Panthers' 124 markers.

"Pitcher-wise we are better this year than we were last year at this time," McDevitt said.

"Potentially, we could have a strong ball club," McDevitt continued. "Whether we will be a strong team depends a lot on our pitching staff."

Offensively the Panthers return their finest hitter in senior Troy Harper, who hit a record .453 last season eclipsing the previous best of .443 set in 1981 by Tim Pyznarski.

Harper's average ranked the Panther outfielder in the NCAA's Division I top 10. Harper enters this season with the fourth-best batting average among returning Division I players.

Harper, who was a Panther walk-on in his first season, smashed 10 homeruns in 1982 and drove in 44 runners. Harper also recorded a .956 fielding average.

Following Harper is junior third baseman Kevin Seitzer, who recorded a .416 batting average and hit seven homeruns while driving in a team-high 50 runs.

Seitzer is the only Eastern player in the school's history to top .400 in his first two seasons. He also enters this season with a .905 fielding average.

"Seitzer is a definite All-American candidate," McDevitt said. "He knows the strike zone and has a good short stroke, yet he can hit the ball out."

"He's a complete player and is intelligent," McDevitt added. "He has a decent arm and is an aggressive runner."

Kassebaum ends basketball career

by Kathy Leahy

Eastern All-American senior Nancy Kassebaum, who owns almost every Panther women's basketball record, ended her collegiate career Monday without being named to the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference all-conference team.

"It's all politics," Kassebaum said. "I would have liked to have made it, but no one in the conference saw me since I missed all those games."

"Because of that, I can't say I'm really disappointed although it would have been nice to receive," Kassebaum added.

Kassebaum, who missed 10 games this season due to a knee injury, said she was disappointed with not being able to play. However, the senior guard said she believes her absence on the court helped the team.

"It was hard for me to sit on the bench because I've never had to before," Kassebaum said. "Although it was frustrating to be out, it really helped the rest of the team, especially the freshmen, in gaining more experience."

"It will especially be helpful next year because they know they can play without me," Kassebaum added. "They are more team-oriented instead of looking to me on the court."

Kassebaum said she also believes sitting on the bench for the 10 games helped her as well.

"Sitting on the bench for those 10 games made me realize my purpose out there, which was to control the tempo of the game," Kassebaum

Panther tennis team dumps Butler

by Kirby Flowers

Eastern's men's tennis team downed Butler University 8-1 Tuesday at Lantz courts as the Panthers lifted their season record to 3-0.

However, Eastern head coach Carl Sexton said the score did not indicate how the close the match actually was.

"It was a very good competitive match," Sexton said. "The score says 8-1, but it was the kind of the match that could have went either way."

"We won four of five tie-breakers," Sexton continued. "You rarely win that many tie-breakers. We played tough in the close situations."

Eastern's No. 1 player, Jay Johnson, got the Panthers rolling with a 6-3, 4-6, 6-1 victory over Butlers' Larry Levan.

Butler fought back as Demi Allen downed the Panthers' Rob Hopkins 6-2, 6-4 at the No. 2 spot as the two clubs pulled even at one match each.

The Panthers responded by taking the next seven matches to trounce Butler 8-1 in what Sexton termed "a key match for Eastern."

"This was an important match for us, because it is so early in the season," Sexton explained. "We want to sweep all our opponents this week and the Butler match was a big step in the right direction."

Other winners for Eastern were No. 3 man Jon Tuft, No. 4 Mark Emola, No. 5 Scott Fjelstad and No. 6 player Mark Munie.

In addition, the doubles teams of Johnson and Hopkins, Tuft and Munie and Perrin and Fjelstad each recorded wins for the Panthers.

Eastern will face Valparaiso University Wednesday in its first Association of Mid-Continent Universities contest at Lantz courts.

Eastern's No. 2 player, Rob Hopkins, returns a serve during his match Tuesday, which he lost 6-2, 6-4 to Butlers' Demi Allen at Lantz courts. (News photo by Tom Roberts) said. Kassebaum came to Eastern in 1979, made the Eastern squad as a walk-on and became a starter her freshman year. She and head coach Bobbie Hilke joined the team at the same time.

Senior All-American Nancy Kassebaum finished her impressive basketball collegiate career at Eastern last Wednesday as the Panthers were defeated by Illinois State 94-64 in the GCAC semifinals. (News file photo)

"We were both new to Eastern," Kassebaum said. "It was hard on both of us. I was scared, but I was determined and so was Coach Hilke."

"I was the only freshman on the varsity squad, which was hard for me," Kassebaum added. "Coach Hilke ended up putting most of her coaching philosophies into me, because the veteran players were pretty set in their style of play."

Hilke said, "Nancy had a lot of proving to do when she arrived at Eastern, but she overcame everything to become a great player."

Hilke said the "stressful situations" Kassebaum was under as a freshman starting on a team made up mainly of veteran players developed her into a fine player early in her career.

"Nancy was a freshman guard out there trying to run the offense, and the veteran players were making things tough for her," Hilke said. "She had to mature quickly and overcome all those difficulties."

Kassebaum said, "I was scared when I got here. I didn't even think I would make the team, but I was determined, so I worked really hard."

"I think Nancy overcoming all the odds she had against her as a freshman made her the fine player she is today," Hilke said. "The difficulties she had developed her temperament for the game."

"Nancy has never broken her arm patting herself on the back. She has a lot of respect for the other players, which is unique for a superstar," Hilke continued.

Kassebaum is Eastern's career leading scorer for both men and women with 1,865 points, while notching a 15.9 career scoring average.

In addition, Kassebaum holds the Eastern mark for points in a single game at 31, assists in a single season with 230, and steals in a single season with 155.

Kassebaum was named All-State her freshman, sophomore and junior years, and was selected All-American and most valuable player her junior year.

She also was chosen for the College Sports Information Directors of America (COSIDA) All-Academic District 4 team her junior and senior years, while being named third team all-academic her senior year.

Sampson selected to AP All-American team

NEW YORK (AP)—Ralph Sampson, Virginia's all-time rebounding leader and third-highest scorer, was named to The Associated Press' 1982-83 college All-American basketball team for the third straight year Tuesday, along with Oklahoma's Wayman Tisdale, the first freshman ever to make the first team.

Also chosen to the first team were senior Dale Ellis of Tennessee and sophomores Patrick Ewing of Georgetown and Michael Jordan of North Carolina.

The 7-foot-4 Sampson, who turned down chances to turn professional after each of his first three undergraduate seasons, averaged 19.1 points, 11.7 rebounds and blocked 91 shots in leading the Cavaliers to a 27-4 record this season. He made 59.3 percent of his field goal attempts.

In his career, he has scored 2,171 points, grabbed 1,477 rebounds and blocked 249 shots while leading Virginia to a 110-22 record. Sampson, the AP Player of the Year the past two seasons and the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year this season, is the only repeater from last year's first team.

His goal is to bring Virginia a national championship, something he has yet to do.

Tisdale, a 6-9 forward, led the Big Eight Conference in scoring, rebounding and blocked shots, and was named the league's Player of the Year. With 779 points this season, he is Oklahoma's single-season record holder.

Tisdale averaged 25.1 points and 10.6 rebounds and blocked 76 shots.

Ellis, 6-7, and the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year, is the 10th highest scorer in SEC history and the third highest in Tennessee history with 2,032 points and a 59.1 shooting percentage.

Penguin manager dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Penguins General Manager Aldge "Baz" Bastien died Tuesday after his car rammed a motorcycle carrying two people who escaped without serious injuries, police said.

At the time of the accident, Bastien, 63, who had lost an eye in a hockey accident, had a blood alcohol level of .26 percent, more than twice the state's legal limit of

.1 percent, said Allegheny County Coroner Joshua Perper.

Bastien, a former goalie with the defunct Pittsburgh Hornets, died at Mercy Hospital about a half hour after the 12:15 a.m. accident on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway in Greentree Borough, authorities said.

His death was caused by a combination of skull injuries and a heart attack.

the only other Eastern regulars returning this season who have broken the .300 mark.

Jones, who drove in 19 runs last season, and Yocum, who drove across 31 runs, notched .338 and .304 batting averages respectively in 1982.

"Jones jumped from .289 as a freshman to .338 last year, and is as good a shortstop as anyone in the state," McDevitt said.

"Yocum is actually our best catcher, but we've shifted him to first base because we had a big hole there and he could make the transition easier," McDevitt said.

Yocum replaces Eastern first-base standout Jim Workman, who graduated last year. Workman hit .317 last season, while recording 256 put outs and a .993 fielding average.
