Stuffle favors resolutions to ban Iranian students

by Jerry Fallstrom

A resolution introduced in the Illinois House of Representatives calling on governing bodies to bar Iranian students from attending Illinois Universities met with positive reaction from State Rep. Larry Stuffle, D-Charleston.

"I would say that I am generally in favor of the proposal, although I haven't read the specifics yet. I plan on studying the resolution before it comes before the House for a vote."

The resolution, which was introduced April 10 by State Rep. Gerald A. Bradley, D-Bloomington, has been assigned to the House Executive Committee for further consideration. If passed, the resolution would not be binding.

The resolution suggests that university officials refuse to enroll Iranian students until the 50 American hostages in Iran are released.

"I think we ought to do something to put a hammer to the Iranians," Stuffle said. "We need to think of other ways to support the president. This might be one way to show some support."

Samuel Taber, dean of student academic services at Eastern, said any decision about Eastern's reaction to the resolution would have to come from a higher official. President Daniel

E. Marvin is on an educational mission in Poland and will return to Charleston next week.

Representatives of the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body, could not be reached for comment.

According to figures from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, there are 2,059 Iranian students in Illinois. Bradley said because they have already paid tuition and fees, they should be allowed to stay until the end of the semester, but no later.

The constitutionality of the resolution has been questioned. A spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union said denying the students from continuing their studies without any finding of unlawful behavior would be blatant discrimination.

"I think Carter's doing the best he can. I think he should have blockaded Iran a long time ago," Stuffle said. "We should embargo everything, food, medicine, everything."

Although Stuffle agrees with the concept of the resolution, he said he will not form a concrete opinion until he sees whether the resolution will have any effect.

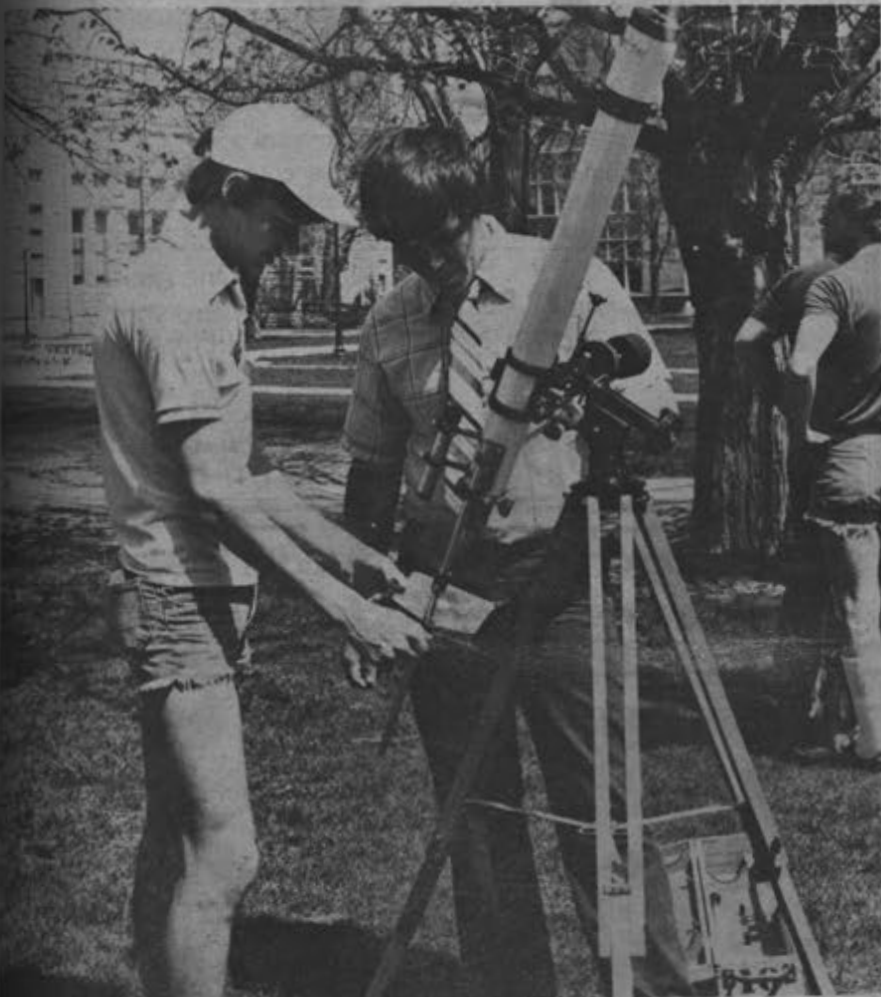

"I want to see how much teeth it has in it before I make up my mind."

Allocations given to Vehicle, Model U.N.

by Carolyn Waller

After much discussion, the Student Senate approved allocations of $662.50 to the Vehicle and $1,636 to the Model UN.

The amount allocated to the Vehicle is one-half of the requested budget and every cent made over the amount allocated will be matched by the Apportionment Board.

Vehicle spokesman Annette Heinz said the publication is worthy of student funding. Heinz said Sigma Tau Delta, which produces the Vehicle, feels it makes a significant contribution to the university.

She said the Vehicle has reduced its circulation from 4,000 to 2,500 per semester.

Heinz added that 817 copies of last semester's Vehicle have been sold and more than 200 copies of this semester's magazine have been sold so far.

Student Financial Vice President Kevin Sandefur said the AB cut funding to the Vehicle because it felt student fees should not be used for the publication.

But Sandefur said the AB felt that the Vehicle should continue.

"I think the Vehicle can and should be self-supporting," Sandefur said.

When references were made to an AB survey which ranked the Vehicle low among student activities, Executive Vice President Bonnie Bijak pointed out that the Student Senate was rated lower than the Vehicle on the survey.

Forensics and the AB also were ranked lower than the Vehicle on the survey.

Student Body President Bill Houlihan said "no one has the right to cut off an organization's funding."

Amin Dada, a Model UN member, said the organization has increased participation by 50 percent.

Dada said the Model UN attracts students from all majors.

Tim Dunne, another Model U.N. representative, said members learn the art of debate, how to research information, and leadership ability.

Other colleges give 90 to 95 percent in student fees to similar Model UN programs on their campuses, Dunne said.

Sandefur said the Model UN is an academic activity and it should be funded by a department on campus, not by student activity fees.

Celebration '80 brings a cultural feast to Eastern

by Gwen Paglia

Celebration '80: A Festival of the Arts will transform Eastern's campus into a cultural feast this weekend with a smorgasboard of music, dance, art and theatre.

More than 200 events are scheduled for the weekend," Rhoderick Key, festival chairman, said.

A major portion of the festival will be devoted to music. Each day of the opening ceremonies in the library quad will feature a fanfare by Eastern trumpeters. The highlight of the musical events will be the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra performance at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Doudna Fine Arts Center.

This orchestra is one of the finest chamber groups in the country, Key said. They are known for their versatility and excellence.

Numerous faculty and student music recitals have been scheduled throughout the festival weekend.

The theatre arts portion of the festival will begin with "Reflections of a Cucumber Sandwich," at 5 p.m. Friday in the Fine Arts Playroom.

"Spoon River Anthology," about the life and death of the people in a small central Illinois town, will be performed at 8 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Fine Arts Building.

The play, adapted from poems by Illinois poet Edgar Lee Masters, will be directed by theater arts faculty member Gerald E. Sullivan.

X. J. Kennedy, an internationally acclaimed poet, educator and children's author, will highlight the literary arts segment of the festival. He will read his poems at 4 p.m. Friday in the Booth Library Lecture Hall.

His writings have appeared in "The New Yorker," "The Atlantic," "Harper's," "The Nation," "Saturday Review" and several other magazines, of the festival's literary arts committee Bruce Guernsey said.

Several films have been scheduled for Celebration '80, Guernsey said, including two John Wayne films, "Rio Bravo," at 7 p.m. Saturday and "The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance," at 7 p.m. Sunday. They will be shown in the Library Lecture Hall.

A student film festival and workshop, coordinated by Michael Goodrich, will take place from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday in the Library Lecture Hall. Eastern students' experimental, narrative and documentary films will be featured.

A folk art exhibit featuring the work of Coles County artists and craftsmen will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the Union first floor lounge.

A quilt exhibition, sponsored by the Coles County Historical Society, will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the Greenwood Museum, located on Hayes and Ninth streets in Charleston. Various other folk music and art events are scheduled throughout the weekend.

The Eastern International Students will host an International Fair featuring native crafts, costumes, jewelry and other items, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday in the University Union Ballroom, Brigitte Chen, international student adviser, said.

Hostages families visit France

In an attempt to mobilize support for release of the American hostages in Tehran, the mothers and wives of four of the captives met Wednesday with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in the first of a series of talks with European leaders.

The French president expressed sympathy over "the cruel and inadmissible ordeal" of the hostages and promised to firmly apply decisions made by Common Market foreign ministers to reduce diplomatic missions in Tehran and impose a trade ban if the hostages are not freed by May 17.

Byrne belittles allegations

Mayor Jane Byrne belittled allegations of underworld influence in Chicago's police department Wednesday, blaming the furor on three "disgruntled" officers recently demoted in a personnel shakeup.

Meanwhile, a federal judge said there is reason for concern about political influence in the police department.

U.S. District Judge Nicholas Bua said he would schedule contempt of court hearings on allegations that Mayor Byrne's patronage chief Frank Santaro and one of his aides tried to purge the police department of the mayor's political enemies.

Common Market mid-May deadline doubtful

By The Associated Press

An Iranian leader said Wednesday he doubts Iran can meet the European Common Market deadline of May 17 for release of the American hostages. Further indications surfaced of closer economic and industrial cooperation between Iran and the Soviet Union.

Canada announced new economic and diplomatic sanctions against Iran because of its "serious and continuing violation of international law" by holding the hostages. Britain warned Iran it would risk sanctions by most nations unless it meets the mid-May deadline.

Six deaths were reported in continued fighting Wednesday on Iran's university campuses. Tehran newspapers said the new violence occurred one day after 18 students died on three campuses.

Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, head of Iran's Justice Ministry and a member of the ruling Revolutionary Council, was asked by reporters in Tehran about the deadline set by Common Market foreign ministers during a meeting in Luxembourg. "We need more time," he said.

Survey researches Health Service offerings

By Sue Schlanser

A lack of communication is the main cause for differences existing between Eastern students and the Health Service, Bob Schoeberle, Health Service Board member, said Tuesday.

Schoeberle said problems exist because students do not know what services are available for them at the Health Service.

He said to alleviate this problem, the board has designed a questionnaire for students to make them aware of these services and to find out what additions to the Health Service the students would like to see instituted.

The questionnaires were distributed at the University Union Tuesday and Wednesday and will be given to Resident Hall Association members to distribute throughout the residence halls, Schoeberle said.

All the questionnaires must be turned in by next Wednesday for tabulation, Schoeberle said, but they will probably not be tabulated before the end of this semester.

He said many of the returned questionnaires have indicated that students are in favor of dental care services and an infirmary being added to the Health Service.

However, Schoeberle said, these students do not realize that some dental care services are already offered at the Health Service by dental assistant students from Lake Land Community College in Mattoon.

Full-scale dental care, including dentists and orthodontists, will cost more than students would be willing to pay for, he said.

Schoeberle said an infirmary, including full time nurses, beds and overnight care, would be too expensive for most students to support, especially since a building would have to be furnished.

"Eastern isn't big enough to facilitate such a building," he said.

He said the survey revealed that most students would only pay up to $1 to implement these services.

The Health Service has extended services such as X-rays and lab services to part-time students who were denied these prior to March 3, 1980, Bonnie Bijak, student body executive vice president, said.

Schoeberle said in the past, the Health Service Board has had problems with organization because many of its members did not come to the meetings. He said the situation has improved this semester, however.

He said the board does not have enough leadership. "We still need more leadership and someone to coordinate the board's activities," he said.

Inflation policy erodes state and local rights

RECENTLY ANNOUNCED REGULATIONS by the Federal Reserve Board do provide credit card users with a measure of protection against sudden change.

People will have to be notified 30 days in advance of changes such as increased interest charges or monthly payments. They also will be allowed to pay off the balance at the lower rate.

It well may be true that this bid to stem consumer credit purchases is necessary to cut into the rate of inflation.

But it also is true the federal government is running roughshod over state and local laws designed to protect people from abuse.

The government is acting under a law approved by Congress in 1969. At that time, it was thought these powers would be used only in time of war.

Whether inflation, even at a rate of 20 percent a year, constitutes an economic equivalent of war may be up to the courts to decide.

But it does raise a question of the value of state and local laws if they can be overridden anytime someone decides a national emergency exists.

We are supposedly a nation of laws not whim. Former President Richard M. Nixon rightly was condemned for ignoring laws with which he felt uncomfortable.

Even more exasperating is that a reason for state action to deal with credit abuses can be laid at the door of the federal government.

Beset by lobbyists for special interest groups, Congress never even tried to deal with credit abuses in anything more than a cursory fashion. And credit problems are of a national more than local concern.

Failing to get much from Congress, people pressed state legislatures and local governments to fill the void. Now what they are being told, in effect, by Washington is that it really didn't matter.

It may be that curbs on our credit habits will prove beneficial. But on the horizon are other and more dangerous federal bids for power.

Still being debated by Congress is whether to allow the Energy Mobilization Board authority to dismiss laws and regulations of other governments to advance energy projects.

What the government is trying to do to control inflation may be necessary. But some yellow warning flags about the threatened erosion of state and local power should also be posted.

Letter to the editor

RWA story

Editor,

Some of my colleagues in campus ministry have chastized me for some statements reported in the April 17 News article about the Religious Workers Association. As a result of their reproof, I should like to outline a few points out seemed to come across poorly:

The Religious Workers Association stands ready to provide insight from a religious point of view to the EIU administration upon request. (The implication is that the administration is in charge of running the university and may solicit opinions from any source it chooses.)

The project of providing residence halls with a list of churches and religious groups providing services to students has not been officially approved by the RWA (That error in fact was mine.)

The RWA is not a "pressure" group, but a professional association of persons (lay or clergy) who are to work in student campus ministry at Eastern. The current function it seems to fulfill at the moment is to provide a channel of communication between the religious community and the university administration.

We appreciate the openness of the administration at this point and would regret any act (or statement) which would jeopardize that working relationship.

It is difficult enough for a reporter to do an accurate job in all areas of interest to readers when the information is correct. I apologize for giving wrong impressions and mistaken information.

George W. Loveland

The turkey crisis hits Carter's White House

More commotion in the White House Tuesday: A wild turkey decided to roost on the White House grounds.

Most people wouldn't consider the arrival of a large bird as a major crisis. But the reaction of the White House was so typical of what has been going on in recent weeks it deserves comment.

Crowds gathered at the White House fence, not to catch a glimpse of the president, but to take a gander at the latest addition to the administration's staff. The bird was photographed in its perch high above reporters, gardeners and guards.

The president as usual, send Vice President Walter Mondale out on the lawn to investigate the invasion.

Mondale went out to investigate the incident. He called the arrival of the bird to be heavy political significance on the day of the Pennsylvania primary. Mondale took the time to rip the Republican challenge by naming the old bird "Reagan."

Then after a while, when the turkey strolled around the grounds for a couple of times, it was time to end the nonsense and get the staff back to work. So Carter called in armed guards to take the bird away. A false alarm, one news agency called the maneuver.

The turkey did not want to cooperate with the MP's. Instead, it went back to perch in a tree to be filmed again and again. At last report, the turkey was still hanging around the White House.

The reaction by Carter and his staff in this small matter was almost exactly like reactions to the big matters facing the country today.

Carter, rather than investigating the disturbance himself, sat in the Oval Office with Fritz. After the staff couldn't get control of the situation, he sent Mondale out to politick with the bird.

Mondale, never without a quip or two for Ted Kennedy on the campaign trail, decided to lash out at the Republican frontrunner. A typical backstab that is becoming more commonplace as the campaign wears on.

Next, Carter must be thinking national security is at stake. He drafts a couple of armed guards to overtake the bird. Impossible, for the bird is now nesting high above their heads.

Paul

Now what can Carter do? He still has a turkey on his hands. I'm surprised Joint Chiefs of Staff were not briefed on the situation. They might have suggested a blockade of seed to prevent a direct assault by Marines and paratroopers.

No, that would be too drastic. Instead about sending Secretary of State Cyrus Vance to negotiate a temporary settlement with the radical strain. Vance could call for a summit with the leading parties in this affair--Carter, the turkey, the Humane Association and the National Rifle Association. It would be just like the Begin-Sadat talks over again.

Carter aides could go to Capitol Hill and ask Congress for a Windfall Tax legislation. This would mean shooting down the bird when he got too big. Amy could have a turkey sandwich for her school lunchbox.

One thing is for sure, Carter will spend his time deciding the course of action to take against the invader. High level discussions will keep him off the campaign trail again.

Hodding Carter, along with statements about Afghanistan and could give somber state department briefings on the latest bird movements. Political writers will try to figure out why the turkey wanted to roost on the White House compound. There will be a lively debate between the Willie Buckleys, the Jody Powells and Jack Anderson.

But like normal, the analysis will get blown out of proportion. The significance will focus more on the turkey than the economy which is what people's minds are one in the same.

I don't think the turkey roosting in some White House garden will upset the balance in Washington. What's one more turkey in the Washington mess?

Pool water losses average $306 per month

Laura Rzepka
 Losses of between 4,000 and 6,000 gallons of water per day from Eastern's swimming pool in the Buzzard Education Building costs the university between $244.80 and $306.20 every month.

Eastern is paying $2.04 per 1,000 gallons of water until June 30 when the city council will decide on the new water rates, Katie Pollock, deputy city clerk, said.

William Smith of the health, physical education and recreation department cited three problem areas with the pool.

The filtration system is poor, requiring the water to be back washed at least once a day, Smith said. An ideal system would require the water to be flushed only once a week, he added.

The water that is flushed is not re-used which causes the daily water loss, Ray Catron, chief engineer of the heat plant, said.

The acoustics in the pool area are poor also, Smith said. There used to be cork tile on top of the roof but that was removed because pieces of cork continuously dropped off into the pool.

Although no water is lost due to the lack of a ventilation system, the pool area gets "hot and sticky" without the system, Catron said.

A capital request project to remodel the pool at Buzzard and eliminate the problems is on a recommendation list which will be sent to the Board of Governors.

The request asks for $191,200 to install a tank and special pumps and controls, Catron said.

One thing which might help lessen the problem is Charleston's new side channel reservoir which was recently approved for construction, Catron aid. The side channel would eliminate some of the dirt from the water.

The pool at Lantz Gymnasium does not waste any water, Catron said. The tank is drained and the filters are washed once a week compared to the filters at Buzzard which are washed twice a day sometimes.

ROTC recruits sophomores

Scott Hainzinger
 The Army ROTC is currently sending information about their program to Eastern sophomores in anticipation of the ROTC unit which will begin operating at Eastern next fall.

Capt. James Kantor, enrollment officer for the University of Illinois' ROTC program, said the Army is concentrating on the sophomores because this is their "last chance" to join the program.

Kantor said the ROTC offers two programs to students, a four-year progressive program and a two-year program. He said under the two-year program, which is open to sophomore and transfer students, students must attend the ROTC basic summer camp at Fort Knox. He said this would partially fulfill the requirements which students in the four-year program meet in the first two years.

Kantor said the ROTC will open an office in Coleman Hall at the end of June, at which time he will be the full-time commander of the Eastern ROTC unit. He and one other Army officer will teach the military science courses at Eastern which are required as part of the ROTC program.

The ROTC program was brought to Eastern as a result of a survey of incoming freshmen and transfer students which was done last fall.

Teacher ed programs approved by COTE

by Laura Rzepka

The Council on Teacher Education Tuesday approved four departments' programs in teacher education which were revised to comply with the standards of the Illinois Teacher Certification Board and the National Council on Accrediting Teacher Education.

The sociology, geography and geology, math and history packages spelling out how each will meet the board and councils' standards were approved.

Eastern has until September of this year to comply with the criteria set up by the certification board.

These guidelines require students to have 100 hours of pre-student teaching experience as well as one semester of student teaching experience.

In clinical experiences, students observe and help with instruction in a classroom setting as a preparation for teaching.

NCATE will evaluate Eastern's teacher education program during 1982. If the program does not meet NCATE's standards it will not be accredited.

The certification board and NCATE evaluate institutions every ten years.

In other business, COTE Chairman Patricia McAlister expressed concern with the new general education requirements passed by the Council on Academic Affairs last week.

Johnson said Bayes has played at many colleges and universities at coffeehouse productions such as the one at Eastern.

Johnson added that this will be the second time Bayes has performed at Eastern. He last performed here in the fall of 1978.

Admission is 50 cents.

Trophies for the most pledges by an individual and most participants from an organization will be rewarded along with T-shirts for participants, Bronson said.

Pledge forms are available at the Lambda Chi and Alpha Sig houses, and the Student Activities Office in the University Union between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. For more information call 345-9084.

The revisions requirements will affect incoming students by requiring a writing proficiency examination of all juniors, a foreign language requirement for certain bachelor of arts degree candidates and a senior seminar for all students wishing to graduate among other variations.

Before the new requirements go into effect, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin and the Board of Governors must approve the package.

"We're quite upset by some changes," McAlister said.

"I got extremely upset," Russ Fischer of the physical education department said. "When they (the CAA) load us up with general education requirements, we're in a bind," he added.

The new general education requirements are affecting teacher education programs in physical education and home economics, McAlister said.

Cooperation one key to finding sales jobs

by Patty O'Neill

Effective communication and cooperation with others are two important qualities for students applying for a sales job, Wally Hughart, sales trainer of Caterpillar Tractor Co., told Eastern students Tuesday.

"We recruit on every major university in Illinois and throughout the Midwest, but not too much on either coast because no one born and raised in California wants to relocate in Peoria, Illinois," Hughart said.

Hughart discussed marketing career opportunities in industrial firms with Eastern's American Marketing Association.

Although Hughart is a representative from the Caterpillar Tractor Co., he spoke on the opportunities of marketing majors in general.

"At Caterpillar, job advancement is based on the individual's performance as in most large corporations," Hughart said.

Two interviews are requested of the applicant and a third interview if there are no strong opinions one way or the other, he said.

"There is a sales training program for 20 weeks. Next is a division assignment to strengthen knowledge and confidence lasting 18 to 24 months. The third step is becoming a field representative which lasts for four to seven years and has a possible foreign field assignment enabling the individual to become more familiar with the company. The employee does actual work with the company on location," he said.

Hughart said the final step is to return to Peoria to become a part of the engine division for five to 10 years.

Coalition to discuss family violence victims

A community resource panel will discuss alternatives for victims of family violence at 7 p.m. Thursday at Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center.

The purpose of the presentation, which is sponsored by the newly-founded Coles County Coalition Against Domestic Violence, is to inform the community about all the resources available to family violence victims, coalition president Koralie Murad said.

The panel members will consist of representatives from local social service and law enforcement agencies, Murad said.

Grosser claims European—U.S. relations good

by Sue Ann Rentfrow and Herb Meeker

A leading European political scientist and contemporary historian said at Eastern Tuesday people do not know history which causes many to feel European and United States relations are deteriorating.

Alfred Grosser of the Institute of Political Science in Paris spoke to a large crowd in the Booth Library Lecture Room.

The topic of his lecture was "Western Europe and the United States in World Politics Today." He discussed such current topics as European and American relations, the Soviet-Afghanistan situation and the Iranian hostage crisis, as well as fielding questions from the audience.

"Relationships between Europeans and the U.S. are less than what was hoped for in the fifties, but 10 times as good as expected after World War II," he said.

Grosser said Europe depends on American protection against the Soviets, but makes contradictory demands on its foreign policy. At times Europeans want the Americans to be tougher with the Russians and Chinese and on the other hand feel they should be more lenient, he added.

Grosser said the Europeans' view of the Afghanistan situation could be summed up by a quote President Carter made in December, 1979: "In three days I have learned more about the Russians than I have learned in three years."

The absence of liberty in Afghanistan was not as evident in 1978 and 1979 to the Americans, but it was still present, Grosser added.

Grosser criticized American ethnocentrism saying, "Americans do not understand what the implications of the Afghanistan invasion are on America, not on the Afghanistan people."

Cardinals defeat Cubs 3-1, led by Martinez' 3-hitter

CHICAGO (AP) — Silvio Martinez fired a three-hitter and the St. Louis Cardinals scored three unearned runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 Wednesday.

Tony Scott opened the eighth with a single and Martinez bunted but Scott was safe at second on Bill Buckner's throwing error. Gary Templeton singled to score Scott. Then Ken Oberkfell bunted and was safe when losing pitcher Mike Krukow, 1-1, threw wild past first as Templeton scored.

The third run came in on Bobby Bonds' sacrifice fly. Martinez, 1-1, allowed two walks and struck out eight.

Rookie Jesus Figueroa scored Chicago's only run when he walked, stole second and came in on DeJesus' single.

The Cubs had only one other scoring chance before the eighth. With two out in the second inning, Barry Foote walked before Carlos Lezcano singled. But Mike Tyson forced Lezcano to end the threat.

The Cards didn't get a runner as far as second until the seventh inning when Ted Simmons beat out a bunt single, and one out later moved to second as George Hendrick grounded out.

Hendrick singled with two out in the second for St. Louis' first hit. Keith Hernandez singled with one out in the fourth, and Ken Reitz singled with one out in the fifth.

After DeJesus' singled to score Figueroa in the eighth, Dave Kingman sidelined with a bad back, pinch hit but was called out on strikes.

Jogging course ceremonies set

Grand opening ceremonies and the official dedication of the Eastern Illinois Striders matted wood chip trail will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday south of the Lantz Building.

The two-mile course is located near the campus lake.

"It is an uninterrupted two-mile course that winds around the perimeter of the old golf course," cross country coach Tom Woodall said. "We are inviting the public to participate that day by running, jogging or leisurely walking the course."

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin and Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman will officially open the course to the public by cutting the ribbon, Woodall said.

Woodall, the chief architect and originator of the 18-month long project, said the course is designed to attract both on and off-campus individuals.

"We want to get people off the roads and into a safer environment," Woodall said. He also said the course was constructed because "it provides people an opportunity to safely jog and walk in an interesting environment. They're free of motorists, paved roads, carbon monoxide and such."

Baseball — from page 16

Morton was credited with the victory, his first in two decisions, in a game that saw the Panthers jump out to a six-run first inning.

In the explosive first, the Panthers were allowed six unearned runs as they batted around.

But Illinois' young, scrappy ball club fought back to tie it at six in the fourth inning.

The Panthers answered the Illini rally with four runs of their own in the fourth, when Pyznarski connected for a two-run single up the middle and leftfielder Mike Nichols delivered a 380 foot shot over the centerfield fence with Pyznarski on base.

But Illinois went through three Panther pitchers in the top of the fifth and broke out with seven runs.

The Illini were only able to connect for three hits, however, in its half of the fifth and Eastern made things worse for itself by committing four errors.

In the opener, Eastern's three run fifth was one run short of matching the Illini's four runs of the same inning.

Senior Myron Richardson was the loser for the Panthers after striking out five and allowing only two walks.

After Illini Paul Marsillo singled in the third, knocking in his team's first run, Eastern answered with a run of its own when Tom Detmer sent a shot off the left centerfield fence, driving home Mark Steppe.

Eastern matched Illinois' run in the fourth with one its own, when Matt Cimo nailed a double down the left field line, driving home Mike Nichols.

A three-run homer by Wade Bradley in the fifth drove in Pyznarski and Gordie Smith, who reached on a walk and a single respectively. But it proved to be one run short.

Reliever Lenny Lundberg came in as a stopper for the Panthers in the latter innings of the opener, when he shut down seven Illini batters in a row to end the game.

Although his squad fought back hard to nab the nightcap, McDevitt was still displeased with its performance.

"We're still making too many mistakes," the coach said. "Our fielding will definitely have to improve."

The Panthers committed seven errors in the twinbill raising their season total to 63.

*DePauw deals unexpected loss
to men netters*

by Jill Anderson

DePauw University dealt Eastern's men's tennis team an unexpected 6-3 loss Tuesday at Greencastle.

"We didn't play the caliber of tennis we played this weekend at our quadrangular," Coach Carl Sexton said. "I was hoping we could keep our momentum going, but we didn't."

The Panthers won only two of six singles matches. Sexton said that put the team in a bad position since it would have had to take all its doubles matches to win the meet.

After dropping his first four games, No. 1 singles player Brad Patterson came back strong to win his match 4-6, 7-6, 6-2.

"Brad started playing more aggressively taking over the net, keeping his opponent at the baseline," Sexton said.

At the No. 2 spot Rick Hayden lost in straight sets 1-6, 6-7.

Dave Branding at No. 3 was defeated in a close three setter 7-5, 1-6, 2-6.

"Dave's game definitely goes with his serve and he was having a little trouble with it and the wind," Sexton said.

Playing at No. 4, E.J. Karsten succumbed 5-7, 0-6. Despite his loss, Karsten still holds the netters best singles record of 13-3 for the season.

Bruce Perrin at No. 5 registered the team's only other singles win with scores of 3-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Tim Buwick lost at No. 6 4-6, 3-6. Jon Tuft, playing an exhibition match won 6-4, 6-2.

In doubles action, all matches went to three sets, but the netters could not pull the match out.

"We were in a position to come back and win the match, if we would've swept the doubles matches," Sexton said.

Patterson and Karsten overcame a first set loss to win at No. 1, 2-6, 6-3, 7-6.

At No. 2, Branding and Perrin lost a tough match 1-6, 6-4, 3-6.

After winning the first set 6-3, Hayden and Buwick dropped the next two 6-7, 5-7.

The Panthers will have a rematch with DePauw May 3 and Sexton is confident that Eastern will come out on top.

The Panthers travel to Bloomington Friday to take on Illinois Wesleyan and will then go to Rock Island Saturday for matches with Augustana and Northern Iowa.

Back-to-back homers give Panthers split

by Dave Claypool

Tim Pyznarski's fourth home run could not have come at a better time.

The free-swinging sophomore followed a suit set by Marty Pulley, who connected on a two-run homer preceding Pyznarski's clout, and lifted Eastern's baseball team to a last-inning one run victory.

The Panther 14-13 victory concluded a twinbill against the University of Illinois, which was held Wednesday at Monier Field. The Panthers lost the opener 6-5.

"I never dreamed of back-to-back homers on this year's club," coach Tom McDevitt said. "I gambled on letting Pulley hit the ball, and he came through."

The Panther split moved their record to 14-13 for the season.

A barrage of 25 hits were scattered in the second game and a seven run fifth inning for the Illini almost killed any hopes of a split.

But a line drive single to left by an injured Ken Saxe brought home Eastern's 11th run in the sixth. And after freshman Bill Morton retired the Illini side one-two-three in the top of the seventh, the stage was set for Pulley and Pyznarski's heroics.

If not the friendly confines, then it's to the bars!

Baseball was meant to be played in the day, on natural turf and watched from the sunny bleachers during the lazy summer months. Everybody knows that.

But not everyone can go out to the one ballpark in America and enjoy our national pastime to the fullest. Instead they have to prostitute themselves in concrete mushrooms, under artificial lighting and on artificial grass. But there is hope for baseball purists like myself. I have found another natural place to enjoy a Cub game besides the friendly confines of Wrigley Field.

A bar, any bar will serve the purpose intended for the ego of the baseball fan. Where else can a group sit transfixed to the cable TV set, transgressed by beer, and transcend all levels of good taste cussing Cardinal fans!?!?

So far three Marty's safaris have captivated a dozen or so Cub fans I know. In fact, they are becoming addicted to the pleasures of crazy atmosphere both on and off the field.

We swarm through the doors in the early afternoon, shock the management with unforeseen profits and overtake the television viewing area. When Jack, Milo and Lou take the air we fight to see who can tell the worst Brickhouse blooper story, or the worst Boudreau interview.

Paul Pinderski

Cub fans are liberal enough to integrate Cardinal friends into these gatherings. We invite Card fans along to trade barbs and buy rounds as the game progresses, or in some cases so far this season regresses.

It's great to get into full scale fan warfare. Everytime Bill Buckner strokes a single, Cub fans rip into the Cardinal's Keith Hernandez. Everytime Dave Kingman rockets one out of the ballpark, there's an explosion of wild yelling followed by a countdown to Roger Maris' home-run mark.

But Cardinal fans try to dig in a few rips when Kingman fans or when Steve Ontiveros screws up an easy play at third. But Cub fans get on the bandwagon too when Preston Gomez continues to bench Scot Thompson, Larry Biittner and M. Vail. It's also cardiac arrest time every time Willie Hernandez pitches, but it's "See Ya!" when the bullpen combination of Dick Tidrow and Bruce "Cy Young" Sutter enter the game to protect a slim lead in the late innings.

And it's in the late innings when the bar melts into a fan emporium. Everybody is comparing past World Series, dream teams, trades and trades that need to be made, team ups and brutal comparisons of Cub-Card starting staffs and bullpens.

The screaming is intense at times.

By the time the last out is made, there's enough baseball fever transmitted through the television radiation field to keep fans pumped up for the dullest of dull 10th Inning shows.

When this is over, the jukebox starts rocking and a new crowd of early drinkers filters in. Exhausted but fulfilled Cub fans gather themselves up, win or lose, and vow to return to see the Cubbies play again.

And they will. The bars, filled with wild fans, are like little factories of the enthusiasm that the ivy-covered mecca from which all Cub fans draw the strength to survive another season.
