Students to determine future of athletic fee hike by ballot

by Nancy Bridges

The fate of a $7 per semester athletic fee increase was put into the hands of Eastern students following Student Senate action Wednesday night.

Senate members approved the placement of a referendum on the Nov. 14 elections ballot that will raise an additional $130,000 in student fees for athletic department operations if a majority of students casting ballots vote 'Yes' to the hike.

The question approved for the referendum will read, "Are you in favor of a $7 per semester increase for each student in the athletic operations fee?"

After senate members briefly discussed whether the referendum should be placed on the fall or spring elections ballot, they approved its placement for the Nov. 14 ballot. Two senators voted against the proposal.

Senator Teresa Collard suggested putting the referendum on the spring elections ballot because of lower voter turnout in the fall.

However, Senate Speaker Ron Wesel noted that in 1980, when a similar referendum to increase the athletic fee was on the ballot, there was a record voter turnout.

In addition, Financial Vice President Tammy Walker noted the referendum should be voted on in the fall because departmental work for the following year's budget occurs in the spring.

If the referendum passes, students will pay $49.10 in fees to athletics, a 40 percent increase over the current student fee of $35.10 a year.

Following approval of the referendum, Johnson said, "Great. I'm really pleased that senators thought it was important enough to put on the ballot." Johnson did not attend Wednesday's meeting.

In other business, the senate voted unanimously to support a proposal concerning tuition payments approved by the Faculty Senate last week.

The Faculty Senate proposal requests a $50 pre-registration fee for students, instead of full tuition and fees payment, to hold a student's schedule and to keep courses with low enrollment open.

Eastern part of national study

by Julie Cambria

An observer from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching will begin his study of Eastern on Monday, Oct. 22.

David McElwain, of Iowa City, Iowa, will be at Eastern for two weeks interviewing students, faculty members, and administrators to examine the quality of undergraduate education inside and outside of the classroom.

The foundation, based in Prin-cton, N.J., is conducting a study of 30 institutions across the country examining the quality, goals, and future of undergraduate education in America.

The Carnegie Foundation is an operational foundation that does educational studies throughout the United States.

Verne Stadtman, vice president—general services for the foundation, said the undergraduate study is similar to a recent examination of American high schools by the foundation's president, Ernest Boyer.

Stadtman said Eastern was picked along with 29 other schools by a computer based on size, geographic location, and student make-up.

"We wanted a sample of 30 institutions that would be representative of all institutions in the country," Stadtman said.

"Both private and public schools will be a part of the See GROUP, page 9

Rives believes dismissals hit minorities

by Mary Holland

Eastern President Stanley Rives said recently a more stringent dismissal policy instituted in 1983 is having a disproportionate impact on minority students—"no doubt about it."

But Rives said revising the dismissal policy, which some campus officials cite as one cause for a decline in minority enrollment, may not be the answer.

"If we need to give special assistance to minority students, we need to do that, but I don't think lowering standards is the answer," Rives said.

He added that the solution could lie in intensified recruitment efforts and support programs for minorities who are in academic trouble.

Some campus officials say the dismissal policy is exacerbating the decline in Eastern's minority enrollment, which plummeted to 396 this semester, down about 260 students since 1977.

However, supporters of the policy said Wednesday that the policy is intended to ensure that students who are admitted to Eastern eventually earn a degree.

CAA chairman Ron Wohlstein said the policy is intended to tell students to "get their act together" quickly.

Wohlstein said that under the old policy, students were "getting on probation and not getting off." He said some students had 150 hours but could not graduate because they did not have a 2.00 GPA.

"The intention was to say, 'hey, you've got to get going here.' The danger is if they don't get going they won't get a degree," he said.

Wohlstein said the CAA could review the policy toward the end of the spring semester. He added that he would be willing to change his position on the policy if statistics show it is having a disproportionate effect on certain student groups.

Pat Wright, a former CAA member who helped devise the current policy, said Wednesday that it is neither elitist nor discriminatory.

"This is not a policy to dismiss blacks or greens, or red or blue people, or anyone else. We're just trying to dismiss those who won't do the work," Wright said.

Under the dismissal policy, students whose grade point averages fall below 2.00 are placed on probation and must demonstrate "satisfactory progress" in order to remain in school.

Satisfactory progress is determined by a graduated scale which stipulates that the lower a student's cumulative grade point average falls, the higher his next semester GPA must be in order to remain in school.

For example, a student who has a GPA between 1.60 and 1.99 must achieve a 2.10 the next semester, while a student with a grade point average between 0.00 and 0.99 must earn a 2.25.

Opponents of the policy, including registrar James Martin, criticize the graduated scale because students in the most academic trouble must close the widest GPA gap.

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said Wednesday that the graduated scale presents "a real challenge" to students with the lowest GPAs.

However, Williams, who agreed that retention is a factor in Eastern's minority decline, said he is not willing to say the CAA needs to revise the dismissal

Speakes: U.S. won't 'pay price' to resume arms talks with USSR

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Reagan administration, responding to a Soviet call for positive U.S. steps to break the arms control deadlock, said Wednesday it wants improved relations but has no obligation "to pay a price so that the Soviet Union will come back to the nuclear negotiating table."

White house spokesman Larry Speakes, responding to Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko's offer to improve superpower relations, gave no indication the United States is prepared to shift its position on any arms control issue Chernenko cited.

"When the Soviet Union is prepared to move from public exchanges to private negotiations and concrete agreements, they will find us ready," Speakes said in a statement issued in response to an interview with Chernenko published in Wednesday's editions of the Washington Post.

"The next step is to do it privately," Speakes said.

"But he added in response to a question: "We don't believe we are obligated to make any major concessions in advance of negotiations."

Responding to Chernenko's suggestion that U.S.—Soviet relations would improve if the United States would show some movement on "at least one of the essential questions" that divide the two nations on arms control, Speakes said:

"The United States stands ready to negotiated on these and other issues, but we cannot concur in the apparent Soviet view that it is incumbent upon the United States to pay a price so that the Soviet union will come back to the nuclear negotiating table."

"We agree with President Chernenko that there is no sound alternative to constructive development in relations between our two countries," Speakes said in an announcement read before television cameras, which generally are barred from his daily White House briefings.

"We are pleased to see the emphasis he puts on positive possibilities for U.S.—Soviet relations," he said.

But he insisted the United States has "repeatedly demonstrated that we are ready for cooperation with the Soviet Union."

Women pursue higher education

WASHINGTON—American women are pursuing higher education in ever greater numbers, accounting for much of the increase in college enrollment over the last decade and now outnumbering men at the nation's universities, the Census Bureau said Wednesday.

Women accounted for about 52 percent of all college students as of October, 1982, the new study said, with the biggest jump among women aged 25 to 34 and those attending two-year colleges.

And in a related report, the National Science Foundation disclosed that its survey of graduate schools in 1983 showed that women collected one-fourth of the doctorate degrees in science and engineering—nearly double their rate of a decade earlier.

"One of the most significant developments in higher education and research in the last 20 years has been the increasing participation of women. They have increased in terms of both absolute numbers and in comparison to the participation of men," the science foundation said.

Illinois court cases to be decided

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The Illinois Supreme Court said Wednesday it will issue decisions this week in two celebrated cases—a 16-year-old challenge to state-ordered water fluoridation and the legality of the Morton Grove handgun ban.

Opinions will be handed down Friday in those and 24 other cases, the court announced.

Justices were asked last March to throw out the state law requiring communities to cut fluoride in their water. The law was struck down in 1982 by a Madison County judge who agreed with the Alton-based Pure Water Committee, Inc., that scientific evidence shows fluoride causes cancer.

The Morton Grove case attracted national attention because the northern Chicago suburb was the first community in the nation to bar the possession and sale of handguns within its borders.

Two accept Nobel physics prize

Geneva, Switzerland—The Nobel Prize for physics, awarded Wednesday to two scientists at the European Laboratory CERN, underscores the post-World War II recovery of European scientific research, the physicists' colleagues and experts say.

Carlo Rubbia, the Italian-born senior physicist at the European Laboratory for Partical Physics, and his co-winner, Simon Van der Meer of the Netherlands, exemplify this recovery.

Duarte briefs army on Rebel talks

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—President Jose Napoleon Duarte met Wednesday with military field commanders to brief them on his talks with leftist rebels.

Defense Minister Carlos Eugenio Vides Casanova, who attended the Monday meeting with rebels in the northern mountain town of La Palma, said Duarte was talking with the military leaders to explain to them how he viewed the meeting in La Palma and keep them informed on "procedures to be followed."

One of Duarte's priorities when he took office June 1 was to convince some reluctant military leaders of the need for talks with the leftist rebels. Before he went to La Palma, he said he had the support of the entire military high command.

Troops in Chalatenango province, where the talks took place, were ordered confined to their base during the talks and on Wednesday still had not gone out on operations, a military source said.

A source involved in setting up the talks with the rebels said Wednesday that during the four and one half hour meeting at La Palma, guerrilla commander Eduardo Sancho Castaneda, known as Ferman Cienfuegos, talked privately with Vides Casanova.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity for security reasons, did not say what the two discussed in La Palma, 50 miles north of San Salvador.

The La Palma session, held in the Roman Catholic church, was the first top-level meeting between the rebels and government since the start of El Salvador's civil war five years ago.

During the talks, the guerrillas and the government agreed to set up an eight-member commission to meet next month. The commission is to base its search for peace on issues raised during the meeting between Duarte and rebel leaders, who released a list of 29 demands but did not include their longstanding insistence on political power-sharing.

CIA provides war manual for rebels, Congress labels move 'disastrous'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Intelligence Committee chairman Wednesday night denounced a CIA manual produced for Nicaraguan rebels as "repugnant" and a "disaster for U.S. foreign policy."

In a scathing statement, Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., panel chairman, condemned the 90-page psychological warfare manual as a "document (that) should never have been produced by any element of the United States government."

The manual advises U.S. backed Nicaraguan rebels that some officials of the nation's leftist government can be "neutralized" with the "selective use of violence" and recommends the hiring of professional criminals to carry out "selective jobs."

A copy of the manual was obtained by The Associated Press and Boland said the House Intelligence Committee had been unaware of its existence prior to the AP's supplying a copy to the panel on Oct. 1.

In a report Monday, the AP, citing intelligence sources, said the manual was produced by the CIA.

In a letter to Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., who had called for a congressional probe, Boland confirmed that the manual was prepared by the CIA and was given to the Nicaraguan rebels, known as contras, last year.

"The committee was unaware of the document until it was obtained by The Associated Press," Boland said. "Since that time, the committee staff has been exploring with the CIA the reasons for its production and distribution. That investigation is not yet complete."

Boland, using his toughest language to date in attacking CIA covert support for the rebels, said "the document should never have been produced by any element of the United States government."

"It embraces the communist revolutionary tactics the United States has pledged to defeat throughout the world, Its emphases on deceiving the populace makes a mockery of American championship of democratic values."

The manual suggests arranging a violent demonstration that will lead to the death of one or more rebel supporters and the creation of a "martyr." It also instructs the rebel in how to coerce Nicaraguans into carrying out assignments against their will.

In his letter, Boland said the manual "offers proof (that) the secret war in Nigaragua is not directed against Sandinista arms shipments (to) Salvadoran guerrillas. The war is an effort to overthrow the Sandinistas," Nicaragua's leftist ruling group.

"That's up to them. I don't make recommendations to the CAA or criticize what they do."

Wright said the graduated scale "makes sense," because it's "mathematically impossible" for students with very low grades to graduate unless their GPAs rise above the 2.00 level.

"If a student gets a .5 the first semester they are here, that should be enough for a signal to be sent. It better be sent loud and it better be sent clear," Wright said.

"We're saying 'you've got to get your GPA up. You can't just pussyfoot around and make a 2.00 for the rest of your life,'" he added.

Wright said he "balks" at the contention that the dismissal policy is only affecting students who are ill-prepared for college work.

"There are plenty of people who have the academic aptitude who are simply goofing off," he said. "Give their place to someone else."

Wright said the new policy is in some ways "more liberal" because it readmits a student automatically after one semester of dismissal. Under the old policy, students had to petition the Committee on Admissions to request reinstatement.

He added that, under the new policy, 50 percent of the students did not get dismissed again after being readmitted, which Wright said was a higher rate than the old policy.

Residence hall security can be void of hazards

In a current comparison of Eastern's residence hall security with other state schools, it was found that our hall security policies are more lax than on other campuses across the state.

Because of this, we believe Eastern's administrators must take a hard look at our present policy and study those of other schools in an effort to make our residence halls a safer place to live.

It seems strange that in the past ten years, residence hall policies have been modernized, giving more freedom to the residents living there. Yet at the same time, these same freedoms have made it much easier for an unauthorized person with criminal intent to gain access.

Currently, all residents of the the halls only need a key to gain access to the hall. Other halls at universities across the state often require that a student photo ID be shown upon entering a dorm.

Other state schools also require overnight guests to sign in and state how long they will be staying. At Eastern, however, no such policy exists.

Recently, Western Illinois University implemented an improved policy by putting locks on elevator doors so only residents have access to this simple way of getting to the hall's different floors.

While we realize this would often be an inconvenience for hall residents, it would eliminate much of the unauthorized traffic that currently takes place in hall elevators because of the limited supervision.

Additionally, the Housing Office may want to consider training desk clerks to watch for specific security hazards and how to deal with them effectively.

We note the fact that funding is not present for elaborate changes to be made in residence hall security or manpower, but a tightening up of existing resources could mean more safety in the halls.

At least one attack occurred in a residence hall last year. That should be incentive enough for campus officials to earmark future funds for making students' on-campus homes a safer place to live.

Your turn

Gustin works hard

Editor:

On Friday Oct. 12 in the full-page student government ad I noticed that one name was missing.

No it wasn't one of our prestigious leaders such as Joe Butler or Aaron Shepley who work so diligently proving that one works more (I should say less) than the other. The person I'm speaking of is senator Ken Gustin.

He is one that earns the title senator. He chairs the academic affairs committee and is presently involved in helping the students with any academic problems they may have.

Earlier this semester Senator Gustin helped me get senior seminar after I had been closed out of it (something my adviser said I would have to take next semester) and I can now graduate in December.

Ken doesn't know me personally, but he has proven to me that he genuinely wants to help and work for the students. He gave me an hour of his time and I'm sure he'd give you his time if you ever needed him.

Perhaps Mr. Butler and Mr. Shepley need to take a few pointers from some of the hard-working senators. What bugs me is that Butler and Shepley are paid for their time, while the real student workers like senator Gustin are not.

Anyway I just feel that Ken Gustin deserves the same acknowledgement as all the other student government members, because he does what he was elected to do, work for the students.

Closing is injustice

Editor:

We are responding to the article printed in The Daily Eastern News on Oct. 11. It seems very strange to us that the city of Charleston would shut down a tavern, namely Panther Lounge, because they do not offer adequate parking spaces for their patrons.

The city of Charleston is so tough on drunk drivers and yet they want Panther Lounge to offer more parking spaces which would possibly cause more intoxicated people to drive. Is the city that desperate for money?

It seems very odd to us that they want you to drive to drink, but they do not want you to drink and drive.

It would be a gross injustice for the city of Charleston to close the Panther Lounge because of an ordinance that contradicts their stand on drunk driving.

Ritch Mussatto
Robert A. Tobias

A lesson on usage

Editor:

As an English major and future professor, my heart is compelled to reach out and offer aid to those poor souls who struggle so valiantly to conquer the language of their birth. My point of reference is, of course, the letter written by C.P. Gaumer in last Friday's edition of The Daily Eastern News.

C.P., you have captured the very soul of my criticism of student government in your ill-conceived letter. I have never accused student government of having no purpose. My criticism stems from the fact that its purpose is often obscured and made completely uninteresting by the layers of costume jewelry adorning it.

Perhaps your letter contained a point that could have been well-taken. I'm not sure, for I am unaccustomed to such acrobatics in the search for meaning.

You began your letter by stating it is "simplicity itself" to "criticize bureaucracy at any level." A definition of the word bureaucracy in Webster's Dictionary reads thus, "governmental officialism or inflexible routine: see also Red Tape."

In my opinion, C.P., it is "simplicity itself" to sit idly by while this sort of attitude, by definition, rules those who rule us.

In your fourth paragraph, you relate, in the same sentence, that my advice is "at first seemingly superficially innocuous," yet also "seems inherently sound." Contradictions of this nature only serve to confuse your audience. A writer should always be on the look out for such fallacies of composition.

Finally, in your sixth paragraph, you refer to "individualism" as romping hand in hand with "infinitesimal cohesiveness," in order to create an atmosphere of "political anomie." After again consulting my dictionary, it seems you are saying: "those who act upon their own volition are stuck together in small, seemingly unrelated clumps which create a lack of identity in a person or a society."

You must forgive me if I fail to find a cohesive thread in such gibberish. Perhaps you should consult the monadology of philosopher Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz. He, too, spoke of small clumps which constitute reality. As any freshman composition teacher would advise...do not reach for your writing style. An attempt to build a skyscraper from tin foil will invariably fail. It may seem quite shiny, but it has no strength.

I would give you a C minus. Consult the dictionary for definitions of words before consulting your thesaurus on how to use them. By the way, I can be reached for tutoring Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12-2 p.m. at the student government offices.

Don't live to destroy

Editor:

People like Eric Hillman make me sick. He was quoted in Monday's Daily Eastern News as saying, "I love littering. My motto is I live to litter."

If Mr. Hillman loves littering so much, I pray that he never holds a position that involves toxic waste disposal. His motto then may be "I live to dump toxic waste. I love destroying the environment."

We have enough problems with the ecosystem without a freshman fool throwing his beer cans around. I would bring some empties over so Eric could litter his room, but I recycle.

Some music for ungrateful ears

Editor:

I am writing in response to the column that John Best wrote in the Wednesday Oct. 16 issue of The Daily Eastern News.

I think that John Best's column was very un-professional because it was obvious that he had no facts when he wrote it.

I am a three-year member of the marching band and frankly, I am sick and tired of everyone cutting down the band. If John Best thinks it's so easy, then I challenge him to try it.

The marching band members works their butts off for the students of Eastern and all we get in return is criticism. We give up 16.5 hours of every game week for one credit hour in return.

It is obvious that our only motive for being in the band is because we have pride in our school. And we want to do something to show it.

I'd like to see you, John Best, learn a marching show and its music in a week; then get up at 7 a.m. Saturday morning, go to an hour rehearsal, march a three-mile parade, march over to the football stadium, play a mini-concert for the tailgaters, do a pre-game show (with a run-on), play in the stands for another hour and play a post-game show.

And then to top it all off, get up the next morning, drive to St. Louis and do it all over again for a professional football game.

The marching band is tired of this attitude of yours, John Best. If this is all the support that Eastern students can show us, then maybe there shouldn't be a band. Think about that.

Kris Lower

Band is first class

Editor:

I want to compliment the Eastern Marching Blue Band for their excellent performances at the football games. It sure is a refreshing pleasure to watch them perform.

Congratulations to all connected with the band. You are first class.

Does Cooper fear something?

Editor:

I'm writing in response to the letter "Gay life disgusting," featured in the Oct. 11 issue of The Daily Eastern News. I'm not writing to advocate a particular lifestyle, but to complain about the letter.

It appears that Mr. Cooper is, to put it bluntly, a narrow-minded bigot. What kind of person advocates sending millions of people to a foreign country simply because these people don't share the same sexual orientations?

Probably the same kind of person who advocated the deaths of millions of Jews in Germany during World War II.

The author says, "Being one of the 9,000-plus straight students on this campus, I don't feel I need to be exposed to this type of behavior." Is the author afraid he might turn gay?

I would appreciate it if Mr. Cooper would let me and the rest of the "9,000-plus straight students" know before the next time he appoints himself custodian of our public morality. I don't want Mr. Cooper speaking for me or deciding my values either.

I also find it upsetting that, thanks to Mr. Cooper, the movie "Conceived in Liberty" was shown in Thomas-Andrews food service. While I don't like abortion either, I don't pressure people to use a dorm's food service to advocate my views and bring in a guest speaker to boot.

Mr. Cooper suggests all gays should move to Switzerland. Why should people who live in a free country be subjected to this harassment? Hopefully, Mr. Cooper's attitude is not indicative of the student body's, or our country is in bad shape indeed.

Need a solution?

Editor:

This letter is in response to Randall C. Cooper's letter printed Thursday, Oct. 11.

Your view, Mr. Cooper, is obviously narrow-minded. Although I'm one of Eastern's "9,000 plus straight students," as you so aptly put it, quite a few of my friends (including professors) are gay.

That's their preference. If members of Charleston's gay community wish to express their affection in public, just as you or I might with our dates, then let them. Remember, Mr. Cooper, there is a simple solution to your problem.

Don't look.

Crane stand is disgrace

Editor:

Last summer, area conservation leaders began asking U.S. congressional candidates Dan Crane and Terry Bruce about their positions on conservation matters.

State Senator Bruce responded in person and in writing. We checked his voting record. He is clearly a good steward of the environment.

Crane, the incumbent, repeatedly refused to even arrange a meeting with us. All we could do is check with Washington for his six-year voting record on conservation issues. His conservation record is a disgrace and an embarrassment to the people of this district.

It consistently reveals that he is not, definitely not, a good steward of God's creations. As Christians, we can forgive him in our hearts. But as citizens, we have a responsibility to vote him out of office.

Bush slings campaign mud

Editor:

During last Thursday's debate between the vice-presidential candidates, George Bush claimed that Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro said that the U.S. servicemen killed in Beirut "died in shame."

Neither Mondale nor Ferraro have ever made such a statement; the Reagan-Bush campaign organization has to date offered no evidence that that statement was ever made by Mondale or Ferraro because that statement originated in the dark recesses of George Bush's imagination.

Despite the Reagan administration's self-appointed monopoly on patriotism, every American shared in the grief and outrage over the terrorist murder of U.S. soldiers in Lebanon.

George Bush knows this, which makes his statement all the more reprehensible. This unsubstantiated and irresponsible allegation is unworthy of a man of Bush's experience and knowledge. From a man who had the insight to coin the term "voodoo economics," we should be able to expect a higher level of intellectual honesty.

Let me help you, Vice President Bush, with the difference between decent campaigning and mud-slinging. When you invent statements about dead people and attribute them to your political opponents, it is you who dishonor the memory of the men killed in Lebanon.

I thought the Republican party had shed its "ends justify the means" school of campaign tactics after the events of 1973-4. I expected too much.

Bicyclists be aware

Editor:

I came within a scant few inches of killing four students this past week. There was the one who passed me on the right at a stop sign. And the one who rode toward me on my side of the street and then cut to the other side lane in an intersection. And two who merely ran stop signs.

St. Peter's ghost, don't you people want to live to grow up? The odds for your survival are shrinking. One of these days I am not going to be able to react in time. There's going to be one hell of a dent in my fender and an empty chair at somebody's table.

No one matches senate antics

Editor:

Student government is always a topic of news at most colleges and universities. I think Eastern students have it best when it comes to the antics of our student government.

What other university can match the Butler versus Shepley situation. Harold and Eddie ain't got nothin' on us. Keep up the letters everyone. This can be fun.

Fraternity reopens, recruits members

by Diane Schneidman

In an attempt to reorganize, Eastern's chapter of the Sigma Tau Gamma have been conducting rush parties to recruit members

Ira Barrett, Sigma Tau Gamma adviser and alumni, said the fraternity was having financial difficulties last semester which lead to its temporary close for this semester.

Barrett said the Sigma Tau Gamma alumni decided to close the chapter over the summer to try to reorganize the organization.

It is hoped that reorganization will do a good job of getting the group back on its feet, he added, "rather than letting it die."

Barrett said, "What you have to do is infuse new blood. When seniors graduate you've got to get freshmen in there. This is a mass organized effort to get new members."

In addition, the new members will choose their own efforts and make all their own changes. Barrett added, "It really is a unique opportunity for guys who are interested."

He said old members who are interested in the fraternity are still welcome.

So far, it would seem the alumni's efforts will be successful. Tuesday night 14 Eastern students attended the formal rush party in the Union along with members from the University of Illinois, Illinois State University and the nation, Barrett said.

In addition to Tuesday's party there was another formal rush Wednesday which Barrett expected about 40 students to attend. There will also be an informal meeting next Tuesday at the Ninth Street residence hall for people who are still interested in joining.

Meanwhile, there have been some developments regarding the house itself. Barrett said an offer has been made on the fraternity's house and after reorganization the chapter will probably purchase a new residence.

Sharp increase in voter number result of drives

by Richard Barak

The number of Coles County residents registered to vote in the Nov. 6 general election has risen by about 5,000 since the March primary, Coles County Elections Administrator Betty Coffrin said Wednesday.

In Coles County, 30,557 residents, including about 1,500 Eastern students, are registered to vote in the upcoming election. Coffrin said there were about 26,861 registered Coles County voters in March.

Several organizations, including Eastern's Student Senate, conducted registration on campus before the Oct. 1 deadline.

In addition to the drives conducted by student government registrars, there were also deputy registrars going door to door on campus.

The deputy registrars brought in about 346 registered voters, for a campus total just under 1,500.

In the March primary, 650 students were registered in precinct 15. Now there are 866 registered voters. Precinct 16 had 514 voters and now it has 1,008. Precinct 17 had 277 registered voters and now their total is 546.

Get your 'Fixx' Thursday; 5,000 tickets go on sale

by Sean Goulding

More than 5,000 tickets for the Nov. 11 Fixx concert will go on sale Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Union Box Office, Charlie Watson, administrative assistant for University Board concerts, said Wednesday.

Watson said there are 5,200 tickets for the Parent's Weekend concert and the UB hopes to sell all of the tickets, which would help generate revenue for future concerts. Tickets for The Fixx concert are $10 and also will be available Friday to the general public, he added.

In other business, UB Chairman Floyd Akins said the board has received four applications and resumes for the open concert coordinator position. "We have four good possibilities," Watson said.

Two or three students have applied for the graphics coordinator position, which became vacant when junior Theresa Meier was elected vice chairman Thursday, Akins added. Meier officially assumed the position Wednesday.

The board agreed to conduct interviews for the two positions at 6 p.m. Oct. 24.

In addition, Jay Hagberg, public relations coordinator said, the UB entertainer will include an advice column called Focus beginning Wednesday.

Hagberg said the column will provide advice on a variety of topics, including how to handle some personal problems.

Phone book distribution to start soon

by Judy Esparza
 The wait for campus phone books will soon be over with distribution scheduled for the week of Oct. 22. News Information Director Harry Read said the R.R. Donnelly Printing Co. plans to ship the directories to Eastern Oct. 19. Read said the books would be distributed to students after Oct. 19. Housing Director Lou Hencken said the phone books will be delivered to residence halls and placed in student mail boxes. Hencken said on-campus student listings come are compiled from the Housing Office computer. He said off-campus students who did not submit their residence cards during registration or before Sept. 12 will not be published in the phone book. He added that the off-campus students who notified the housing office of their present address will be listed in the book and receive their directories in the mail. Students who are not registered with the housing office and want a copy may pick one up at the housing office or University Union. Read said the directories will not cost the students anything because Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company, in conjunction with the R.R. Donnelly Printing Company, are producing the phone book free of charge, while providing advertising for the phone company.

study," Stadtman added. "They were all chosen randomly by the computer." Stadtman said the foundation is looking for an overall composite of Eastern. "The observer is going to try to find out what the institution is like as a whole," Stadtman said. "He knows what the foundation is looking for but he will have considerable leeway in his interviews and approach." Stadtman added there is more to the study than observing the 30 schools. "This is only a part of our study," Stadtman said. "We are also doing paper surveys with 5,000 students and 5,000 faculty across the country." Stadtman said the foundation hopes to complete the survey in fall 1985. Margaret Soderberg, associate vice president for academic affairs and liaison for McElwain, said she will help him arrange some of his interviews. "He wants to talk with students, faculty, and people in the administration," Soderberg said. "Some of the interviews we will arrange for him and some he will do on his own," she said. "I expect he will be talking to a large number of people because he's going to be here for two weeks."

Workshop to aid serious couple relationships

by Beth Kirkman

Couples interested in enrolling in a three session workshop, "Getting Together, Staying Together," must register with the Counseling Center. The workshop, designed to help couples enhance their relationship, includes three sessions discussing self and couple awareness, conflict management and renewal of intimacy and sexual confidence.

However, counselor Genie Lenihan said enrollment for the workshop is limited to 10 couples because it is hard to work with a large group and still have an effective workshop.

Interested couples can register until the workshop begins.

"The seminar is for couples who are serious about each other or committed in some way," Lenihan said.

Couples enrolled in the workshop also will explore how joint decisions can be made and how to manage difficulties. The last session will focus on establishing warm communications, she added.

The sessions will be conducted at 7-9 p.m. Oct. 23, Oct. 30 and Nov. 6 in the Union Schahrer Room.

Pink Panther tryouts begin Tuesday night

by Kathy Compton

Tryouts for the Pink Panther pom-pom squad are scheduled for Tuesday through Thursday for additions to the spring squad.

"Any girl may tryout," Pink Panther Adviser Phoebe Church said. "It will be a good experience for any girl who tries out and even if they don't make it they will have the experience to come back again next year," she said.

Church said two to five girls will be chosen to fill positions on the squad. A panel of five judges, including two faculty members, two Charleston residents and Church, will be in charge of selecting the new girls for the squad.

Girls interested in trying out should wear leotards and tennis shoes and meet in Buzzard South Gym at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Spikers primed to host Eastern Invitational

by Joseph Anglum

The friendly confines of Lantz Gym will be the setting for the first Eastern Illinois University Invitational volleyball tournament to be held this fall-break weekend.

The tournament was originally scheduled to be played in McAfee gymnasium, but due to the rescheduling of basketball practice the tournament was able to be moved to Lantz.

Participating teams in this weekend's tournament will be Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, University of Illinois at Chicago and Evansville University.

The tournament kicks off at 6 p.m. Friday when the Salukis of Southern Illinois invade the court against the host Panthers.

The match will also serve as the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference meeting between the two squads.

Action continues Friday with UICC meeting Evansville at 8 p.m.

Saturday's games include the Eastern and Evansville contest at 10:30 a.m. Immediately following that contest will be the Southern and UIC contest at 1 p.m.

The tournament concludes with the 4 p.m. match between UIC and Eastern.

Eastern, currently 14-12 on the season, needs to defeat Southern Illinois in their conference meeting to increase their chances of reaching the post season tournament.

The Salukis defeated Eastern in four games at the SIU Invitational.

"We had a great chance to beat Southern at their place earlier this season," Eastern head coach Betty Ralston said. "I am looking for a better match from our players at home."

EIU is led by sophomore Maura LeFevour who ranks second in the GCAC with a .334 hitting percentage. She leads the team in block solo's with 19.

Senior Donna Uhler ranks second in the league with 259 kills.

USFL files suit seeking void of NFL contract

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States Football League filed a $1.32 billion antitrust suit against the National Football League Wednesday, seeking the voiding of the NFL's television contracts with the three major networks and charging that "a conspiracy" exists to put it out of business.

The USFL also asked the court to break up what it calls the NFL's monopoly on player contracts and stadiums in the nation's major cities.

Cub's Frey crowned NL Manager of the Year

CHICAGO (AP)—The magic number turned out to be 35 for Chicago Cubs Manager Jim Frey, who was named Wednesday as National League Manager of the Year.

Frey, 52, hit the jackpot after leading his second ballclub to a championship season. He took the Kansas City Royals to the 1980 World Series in his first try as a major league manager. He took the Chicago Cubs to the National League East Division title in his second job managing.

Frey was named on 23 of 24 ballots in voting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, receiving 16 first-place votes and seven seconds for a total of 101 points. New York Mets Manager Dave Johnson was runner-up, followed by San Diego's Dick Williams, whose Padres won three straight from the Cubs to take the NL pennant.

The reward comes in Frey's 35th year in baseball. "Surprised?" asked Frey. "We won more games than anybody in the National League, and I guess that put me in contention."

The 5-foot-9, soft-spoken Frey joked with reporters at a press conference. Asked whether his contract—which runs through the 1985 season—contained incentive clauses that would reward him for such awards, he replied, "I didn't have any. My incentive is to try and not get fired."

Frey spent 14 years kicking around the minor leagues, but despite attending spring training with several teams and being named the Texas League's Most Valuable Player in 1957, Frey never earned the right to call himself a major leaguer.

His playing days ended in 1963. Frey briefly tried making a living selling real estate in his native Cincinnati.

Mackie nets shutout as booters roll past Indiana State-Evansville

October 17, 1984, will go down in Eastern soccer history as a date to remember.

The Panthers, on that day, recorded their program's 200th victory since soccer became an intercollegiate sport at Eastern in 1963.

The 2-0 win over Indiana State-Evansville Wednesday was also the team's third-straight shutout win. It was also the first win for goalie Chris Mackie, who started and finished his first soccer contest.

The only unfortunate event Wednesday for the Panthers was the loss of Guy Callipari, who suffered an injury in a collision early in the second half. Callipari suffered an apparent bruise to the lumbar region of the back, and was to be examined further Thursday.

"I really don't know what to say about the 200th win," Panther coach Cizo Mosnia said. "It is a very historic day, obviously, and we're getting more and more consistent every day."

"There were a few things that we made mistakes on, of course, but those things happen. Overall, it was a great day for us," he added.

Eagle coach Mike Ferrell said, "Eastern is a better team than we are. We came here to try to get a win, because that would put us in a great position for the (NCAA) Division II playoffs."

"We played well, but we couldn't get the ball moving as well as we would had liked," Ferrell added. "That's just the way it goes, though. I'm very pleased with the effort."

Eastern drew first blood when defender Albert Adade fed Robbie Mann with the ball. Mann beat his defender, and fired away. Eagle goalie Greg Tassios made the original save, but Adade walked in, gathered the rebound, and scored at 21:48 to give the Panthers a 1-0 lead.

"There isn't much more that I can say about him (Adade) that hasn't already been said. Albert is just a joy to work with. He has got to be one of the best defenders around. I really think highly of him," Mosnia said.

Neil Swindells scored the Panthers' other goal in the second half. After getting a pass from Matt Gamache, Swindells went down the middle, split two defenders, and beat Tassios to give Eastern a 2-0 lead. The Panthers had several more good chances to score, but they just failed to click.

Eastern's next match is 2 p.m. Sunday against St. Louis University, a match which the team has been pointing to in recent weeks. The game is at Lakeside Field.

After that, the Panthers will travel to Evansville to take on the Purple Aces in another key match. The last two home games are at 1 p.m. October 28 against Hardin-Simmons and at 11 a.m. November 3 against Creighton University. The final match is at 1 p.m. November 10 at Illinois-Chicago.

Panthers head to Western for first MCC grid battle

by Jeff Long

Although Eastern's football team is virtually eliminated from the NCAA I-AA playoff race, the Panthers can still salvage one post-season distinction. That quest will begin Saturday.

The Panthers, 3-4, will attempt to break a two-game losing skid when they open their Mid-Continent Conference schedule at Western Illinois Saturday in a 1:30 p.m. matchup at Hanson Field.

The Leathernecks are off to their finest start since 1976 at 4-1-1, but they are 0-1-1 in conference play and have no shot at the championship. Eastern, on the other hand, controls its own destiny. The Panthers have won or shared the MCC title the last four years.

"The fact that we're defending our conference title has been a big motivating factor for us," Eastern head coach Al Molde said Wednesday. "That's got to be one of our top goals at this point in the season."

Saturday's contest will be the first of three straight conference games for the Panthers, while the other three league teams have already completed conference play against each other.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the conference schedule benefits Eastern," Leatherneck head coach Bruce Craddock said. "The cards are in their hands."

Saturday's contest will feature two of the most explosive offenses in Division I-AA. Eastern ranks 18th with 29.6 points per game and Western has been even better, averaging 31 points per game.

But Western also has something the Panthers sorely lack—a strong defense. The Leathernecks are the MCC's top team against the pass, while Eastern is the league's top passing offense, but worst defense. Western has also picked off 19 enemy passes, more than any other team in I-AA.

"We haven't really paid a lot of attention to that," Molde said. "We've just been doing our own thing. It's a matter of bearing down and becoming more intense, which we've been doing in practice this week. You practice better, you play better."

The Panthers will have to at least control the Leatherneck offense on Saturday, something they haven't been able to do in their last four games. Eastern has given up an average of 38 points and 424 yards in those four, three of which have been losses.

For the third straight week, Eastern's defense will be kept guessing by another balanced attack. Western averages 233 yards passing and 160 yards on the ground per game.

To combat this, Eastern will be counting on another big game from quarterback Sean Payton and receivers Jerry Wright and Roy Banks.

"Those three players are our biggest concern," Craddock said. "They are phenomenal players. Wright and Banks have 90-some catches between them and then they have other receivers who can also catch the ball."

A Panther win Saturday takes on increased importance, in that if they lose, Northern Iowa is assured at least a tie for the conference title. If the Panthers win their next two games, it would set up a title showdown against Northern Iowa Nov. 3 at O'Brien Stadium.
