Senate favors quest for dean evaluations

by Jean Wright

The Faculty Senate Tuesday unanimously decided to continue its pursuit of faculty evaluations of deans through an appeal to Eastern President Stanley Rives.

Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs, has informed senate members that he is opposed to the idea of faculty evaluations of deans.

Faculty Senate Chairman Ken Sutton said Schick has indicated he does not want faculty evaluating deans.

Schick, who currently performs dean evaluations, said Tuesday that he is in favor of the performance of deans being evaluated by "the person they report to."

Under the senate's proposal, the performance of deans would also be scrutinized by the faculty.

"Faculty members should feel free to come in and talk to me or write the deans letters," Schick said.

"If it (the appeal) is true, they should feel free to do so," Schick said. "But President Rives agrees with me."

Rives, who was attending a conference Tuesday, could not be reached for comment.

Sutton said at the meeting he believes Schick is opposed to faculty evaluating deans because, "he feels that they are management and we are labor; therefore, we do not evaluate them."

Faculty Senate member Lewis Coon said the purpose for faculty evaluations has been misunderstood.

"The whole purpose for the faculty evaluating the deans is to give perspective to the president he otherwise would not be privy to," said Coon.

In other business, the senate decided not to recommend that the office of director of university relations be upgraded to a vice president's office.

Sutton said Rives "entertained the idea of changing the title to attract qualified candidates." Rives has said he use faculty input to decide whether to upgrade the position.

The senate decided not to change the title because evidence had not been presented that justified a change in the title of director of university relations. Senate members also said another vice president position would detract from the significance of a vice president's office.

The senate also decided to write a letter supporting policing library periodicals because of the increased vandalism of library journals.

Sutton added that Faculty Senate elections are going well although no results would be obtained until the polls close at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Reagan gets major Senate victory for 'highly-accurate' MX missiles

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican-controlled Senate gave President Reagan his first big congressional victory of 1985 on Tuesday by voting 55—45 to free $1.5 billion for the production of 21 highly-accurate, long-range MX missiles.

The president and Senate leaders overcame arguments that the MX would be vulnerable to a first-strike Soviet missile attack and persuaded doubters that the American bargaining position at the Geneva arms talks would be weakened if money for the MX were denied.

The favorable MX vote "is just what the negotiators need. . . to give them a shot in the arm," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., just before the roll call of 100 senators.

There is a second MX vote on Thursday, but the real fight now shifts to the Democrat-led House, where a similar set of duel votes is set for next week.

Vice President George Bush presided as the vote was taken and was ready to cast a tie-breaking vote if needed, but in the end the administration's 10-vote margin was a comfortable one and improved Reagan's chances in the House.

The vote followed a last-minute, personal appeal for the MX from Reagan, who talked to Senate Republicans over lunch and said a defeat for the 10-warhead missile "would gravely weaken our national defenses."

Until the United States and the Soviet Union agree to resume arms control talks, MX foes appeared certain to win with arguments such as one made by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.

"All we are doing is giving the Soviets a better target to shoot at," he said in a speech on the Senate floor.

But Bumpers recalled a steady drumbeat of administration argument that the MX was needed to demonstrate national will in Geneva.

"The argument that is the most palpable nonsense of all is that you need this missile as a bargaining chip," said a frustrated Bumpers. "The power of the presidency is amazing."

Dry pub reflects university concern for alcohol abuse

by Julie Cambria

Because the use of alcohol by Eastern students is a "growing concern of the university," a dry pub will open in the fall of 1985 in the Union, Bill Clark, union area head, said Tuesday.

Clark said the university is addressing a nationwide concern of the overuse of alcohol and the need to increase awareness of the problem.

"Charleston has no alternative for social interaction for students that doesn't involve alcohol," he said. "It has become a pattern for students to socialize in a bar."

Clark said he has done research to see how other colleges have handled the situation and found that a non-alcoholic pub has been viewed as an acceptable alternative.

"We're not telling people not to drink," he said. "We just want to give them an alternative that isn't there now."

Clark said he came up with the idea for the dry pub and proposed it to Glen Williams, vice president for student affairs, and Eastern President Stanley Rives.

Rives liked the idea enough to support it last week in his "State of the University" address.

Rives said he backed the dry pub because "the misuse of alcohol by students on this campus and nationally is a serious and growing problem."

Rives added that the pub would provide a socially attractive alternative.

While the pub is set to open in the fall, Clark said it is currently in the planning stages and the exact operation, location and cost are not yet known.

Clark added the name, hours of operation, and menu items also have to be decided.

The dry pub's planning committee, comprised of union board members, university board members and student government leaders, will meet the week following spring break to begin charting the details of the pub, Clark said.

He believes that Pickles Deli would be a good location for the pub, adding Pickles would occupy the location during the day and the dry pub would be open in the evening "so it wouldn't effect (Pickles) business in the daytime."

Clark added he would like students to suggest ideas on what type of entertainment the pub should have. "Should we have live bands or videos? We want to attract students to the pub," he said.

Illinois shows economic growth

SPRINGFIELD—Illinois state government is smaller now in relative terms than before the recession, putting the state in good shape to take advantage of economic growth, a business-backed study released Tuesday said.

And though the government has gone through "painful" budget cutbacks, it has maintained most of its services at adequate levels, said the study by University of Illinois economist J. Fred Giertz.

"We've become leaner and stronger, doing pretty much the same functions we did earlier," Giertz said in an interview after the release of his report, "Taxation and Spending—Key Issues in Illinois."

The study was commissioned by the Illinois Alliance for Economic Initiatives, an affiliate of the State Chamber of Commerce.

Evidence justified in Goetz case

NEW YORK—A state judge ruled Tuesday that new evidence justified submitting the case against subway gunman Bernhard Goetz to a grand jury, rejecting arguments by his lawyers that there was "something un-American" about the new proceedings.

The new evidence apparently was the testimony of one of four teen-agers shot by Goetz on a Manhattan subway train on Dec. 22. "I want to see Bernie Goetz fry," the youth told reporters after testifying before the grand jury on Monday.

Goetz's lawyers pleaded Tuesday for the second investigation to be stopped, but state Supreme Court Justice Stephen Crane ruled, "The nature of the evidence was proper and it was probed in detail." Supreme Court is the trial-level court in New York.

Brewery fights alcohol abuse

ST. LOUIS—Clean-cut baseball star Steve Garvey is making a new kind of television commercial.

"Good friends and good sense make for a good time; know when to say when," the San Diego slugger says in the 10-second spots.

The commercial, broadcast on all three networks, is aimed at reducing alcohol abuse, says Anheuser-Busch, the ad's sponsor and the world's largest brewery. The ad shows none of the brewer's products, only its corporate logotype.

The ads, which will cost $2.5 million and are expected to be seen by an estimated 90 million people, are the first of their kind in the brewing industry, according to Anheuser-Busch executive Stephen K. Lambright.

Illinois touted as 'happy state'

SPRINGFIELD—Midwesterners dreaming of summer vacations will hear Illinois touted as a "happy state" next month when state officials kick off a $10 million advertising campaign to bring travelers to the Land of Lincoln.

Television, radio and newspaper ads with the slogan "You Put Me in a Happy State" are aimed at changing Illinois' "non-image" Bud Davis, spokesman for the Chicago firm handling the promotion, said Tuesday.

Lebanese, Christian army forces join rebellion against Gemayel

SIDON, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanese army forces and Christian militiamen who joined the revolt against President Amin Gemayel battled Tuesday with mortars, rocker-propelled grenades and machine guns in this southern Lebanese city.

Police and hospital sources said at least five people were killed, including two soldiers. At least 39 people were reported wounded, including nine soldiers and 30 civilians.

Fighting started Monday in Sidon between Shiite and Sunni Moslem militiamen and the Christian Lebanese Forces who have rebelled against the Gemayel leadership. The army moved in to stop the fighting and became involved.

The sound of explosions and heavy machine-gun fire could be heard across the city, the provincial capital of south Lebanon.

Families fled the Christian-held areas during the shooting. Schools and shops were closed throughout the city.

The fighting in Sidon started after Christian militia garrisons in the predominantly Moslem city joined the rebellion led by Lebanese Force commander Samir Geagea.

Geagea and his supporters last week took control of most of the Christian areas north of Beirut to challenge the pro-Syrian policies of Gemayel. The president is head of the Christian Phalange Party.

The rebellion in the Christian camp posed a new threat to Gemayel who has been trying to prevent fighting between Lebanon's Christians and Moslems. Prime Minister Rashid Karami has warned that the revolt could force Gemayel to resign and cause resumption of civil war in the country.

Syria, which backs Gemayel, had moved troops and armored vehicles to the fringe of the Christian area north of Beirut.

Illinois' Saturn plan 'best so far'

DETROIT (AP)—Illinois' latest and biggest bid to land General Motors Corp.'s proposed Saturn assembly plant was "very well received" Tuesday, according to a top state official.

Mike Woelffer, director of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, said GM officials told him after the two-hour meeting that the Illinois presentation was "the best they'd seen so far."

"The meeting turned out much better than I expected," Woelffer said.

To land a big fish like the Saturn plant, with its 6,000 new jobs, the Illinois delegation of state, civic and business leaders had a whole tackle box full of lures.

To start with, Woelffer said later in Chicago, there was a package of tax incentives tied up in a promised enterprise zone declaration. He said the subcompact car assembly plant and nearby suppliers would receive tax breaks ranging from 35 percent to 100 percent for as long as 20 years.

The state and private interests also pledged as much as $180 million in secondary incentives, Woelffer said, including construction aid for infrastructure such as sewer lines, funds for job training, a community center for plant employees and extensive aid to school districts.

Woelffer estimated that school enrollment in the site area should increase by as many as 9,000 students and said the state is willing to provide $50 million over 5 years to aid area school districts.

State asks to declare disaster

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—State officials Tuesday asked President Reagan to declare 18 Illinois counties federal disaster areas in the wake of floods that caused an estimated $11 million in damages.

The declaration, sought by Governor Thompson in a letter to Reagan, would enable many individuals and local governments to qualify for federal aid, including temporary housing for the homeless and money to help repair flood damage.

"The situation is of such severity and magnitude that effective response and recovery are beyond the capabilities of the state and affected local governments," Thompson's letter said.

For six of the hardest-hit counties, the state requested aid under two disaster assistance programs, one aimed at individuals and the other limited to local government.

If the request is granted, qualified individuals could get temporary housing, loans, grants and disaster unemployment assistance. Local governments could be reimbursed for as much as 75 percent of the cost of cleanup and repairing roads, bridges and public utilities.

The state requested federal aid for individuals in Calhoun, Clark, Grundy, Mason, Pike, Rock Island and Woodford counties, in part because many privately owned buildings that sustained flood damage were not covered by flood insurance.

Top court upholds policy for registration violators

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government's former policy of prosecuting only those young men who publicized their refusal to register for the military draft was upheld Tuesday by the Supreme Court.

By a 7-2 vote, the justices said the former policy did not violate free-speech or equal-protection rights by "selective prosecution."

The decision cleared the way for federal prosecution of David Alan Wayte, a 24-year-old former Yale philosophy student from Pasadena, Calif.

It affects only 17 other young men who, like Wayte, publicized their resistance to military draft registration by writing letters to President Reagan or to the Selective Service.

Wayte could not immediately be reached by telephone for comment, but his lawyer, Mark Rosenbaum of Los Angeles, said he was stunned and disappointed by the decision.

"I think that what they (federal prosecutors) were punishing in this case wasn't non-compliance with the draft. They were punishing dissent," he said.

But Solicitor General Rex E. Lee, who represents the executive branch before the Supreme Court, said the ruling "is a significant victory for law enforcement. It establishes guidelines for selective prosecution that should be helpful to prosecutors and all participants in the criminal justice system."

Draft registration—not the military draft—was reinstated in 1980.

Students face $3 fee hike to cover rising union costs

by Lori Edwards

A recommendation to raise union fees $3 a semester was approved last month by the Union Board and Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs.

Union Area Head Bill Clark said the Union Board decided to raise union fees to $45.95 because of increases in expenses.

Students currently pay about $25 for union operating fees and $18 for mortgage fees.

Clark said the union fee increase is needed because the fee has to change each year so the union can break even.

He added that utility prices, operating costs and personnel wages are going to be increasing next year; and the increases will only partially be covered by increased operating revenues.

Clark said Eastern is expecting an 8 percent increase for all university employees.

Williams said the 10 percent postal increase will also cause an increase in union operating expenses, and all increases in fees have to be "justified."

In addition, Clark noted that the proposed increase this year in union fees is "only half" of the $6 increase approved last year despite further increases in costs.

Williams said the increase has been reviewed by the president's council, which is made up of Eastern President Stanley Rives, the university's vice presidents and University Relations Director Daniel Thornburgh.

He added that the boards "usually use very good judgement in making a recommendation" to increase fees.

If Rives decides to approve the recommendation, Williams said, the proposal will be brought before the Board of Governors April 4.

Wesel meets with state legislators on higher education funding

by Lori Edwards

After spending Tuesday talking with legislators in Springfield, Student Senate Speaker Ron Wesel said he learned that Eastern's prospects for higher education funding still rest with the General Assembly appropriations committee.

Wesel said that Rep. Helen Satterthwaite, D-Urbana, and Rep. Michael Weaver, R-Charleston, told him Tuesday that funding levels for higher education depend on how much money the senate appropriations committee gives to higher education.

Wesel said the legislative branch's economic and fiscal commission has reported the state's economic forecast is "not as bright" as the governor's bureau of the budget claims it is.

But, if the governor's predictions are right, Wesel said, Eastern's chances for receiving the $38 million it requested are good.

However, he added the actual figures for the Illinois economy are somewhere in the middle, so Eastern's request may be cut some.

Wesel also said the $171 million request by the Board of Governors will be cut, but added that the legislators were not willing to anticipate how much.

"Hopefully, education will be a high enough priority that we won't be cut too severely," Wesel said.

In addition, Wesel said he discussed the possibility of having a voting student member on the BOG with state legislators.

A bill is going to be introduced in the senate, Wesel said, which will allow a student to vote as part of the Board of Regents system. The BOR includes Illinois State University, Northern Illinois University and Sangamon State University.

He added that Weaver told him he will try to amend the bill to include the BOG system.

If passed, Wesel said, the BOG student representatives would elect one member among themselves to serve as the voting member to BOG.

Wesel said the student voting member has had trouble passing the General Assembly in the past because "legislators perceive students as only wanting a say in funding. Student leaders need to show they are knowledgeable in other areas of university operations."

"Right now, students have a voice," Wesel said. "If passed, they would have a vote."

Wesel said he believes he accomplished his purpose in going to Springfield because he has established contacts within the Legislature.

Loan defaults harm Eastern and recipients

Eastern students who are defaulting on their National Direct Student Loans, or who intend to do so, apparently have not considered the damage it does to the university and potential recipients of the loans.

Although Eastern's NDSL default rate is below the national average, too many students still need to quickly pay their loans back.

When students do not pay their loans back, they hurt Eastern's chances of getting money for the following year.

The federal government will not give Eastern money for another year if it does not receive loan money from the school for the previous year.

The loan program, initiated by Congress in 1958 for disbursements, has worked as a revolving pool of funds made available to students at the discretion of each institution's financial aid department.

After the federal government provides the monies to the university, the institution is primarily responsible for collecting the loans.

Although Eastern's loan collection office sets a deadline for the repayment of a loan, some students take advantage of the university by not paying them back. This makes Eastern look bad and damages its possibilities of continuing the loan program at its current level.

But Eastern does have a plan to curb this problem. If students cannot work out an agreement with Eastern's loan collection office, Eastern reports those students to a collection agency. This can spell some real trouble for irresponsible borrowers. Students can avoid repercussions by paying their loans on time.

In relation to this, defaults ruin the chances of a student who needs the money getting it.

Students who are struggling to pay rising tuition sweat the costs even more because they may not get any money. Either those students try to find money for school elsewhere or they sit out a semester. Thus, the innocent pay the price of someone else's guilt, and that's not fair.

So, do yourself Eastern and future loan recipients a favor. Pay back your loans.

Reply to farm letter

Editor:

I admit that I did not read Brian Ormiston's column concerning the farming situation. I did, however, read Keith Van De Velde's reponse to the column.

It is clear that Van De Velde understands the urgency of the situation. Judging from what I've heard, many people do not.

We are constantly being told by President Reagan that everything in the nation's economy is on the upswing and that, for the most part, the picture is rosy. The President is either blind to the plight of the farmers or he, for whatever reason, chooses to ignore them.

In the comment on his March 6 veto of Congress' farm credit package, Reagan stated that only four percent of the nation's farmers are "in need of immediate help." Although distortion of the facts is nothing new for Reagan, this statement is especially blatant.

The next day, Agriculture Secretary John Block told the Senate Agriculture Committee that the President "did misspeak" and that the percentage is, indeed, far greater. Block had no choice but to answer the way he did when he was confronted with the question concerning an unreleased government report on the farm problem. The report showed that some 93,000 mid-size farms were broke or nearly broke as of January 1985—a 45 percent increase from January 1984.

As students and residents of a major farm state we should be able to understand the situation and the efforts to relieve it. President Reagan's veto, explained by false information, affects every resident of this state and every citizen of this nation, either directly or indirectly.

Suggestions for Russian longevity

At this very moment, hundreds upon thousands of scientists are working on the answer to the question plaguing the world for the last two weeks: Why do Russian leaders keep dying?

Now, if what I've been reading is correct, the Russians are currently entering their fourth administration in the past few years.

First there was Leonid Brezhnev. Leonid held the reigns for about 18 years before kicking the bucket and handing the problems to Yuri Andropov.

Yuri, as you all know, was a former KGB agent who, as fate would have it, lasted a mere 15 months before calling it quits. After Yuri, this guy named Chernenko took over.

Konstantin, a plump, white-haired fellow, is now buried along some wall in the capital of this country that likes to parade it's dead right through the center of town.

According to my sources, many of these over educated, under experienced, mad scientists working in government-funded labs are making innocent white mice drink Russian vodka and eat American grain. They are doing this in hopes that someday, when their funds run out, they can tell the world why all these old men in the Soviet Union keep dying.

Now, they can't be dying because of age. Nor can they be driven to their graves by rock-and-roll music or sitting through nine innings of the Chicago Cubs (even the Cubs can't kill a communist).

What I have determined, after a few seconds of reflection, is Russian leaders die because: 1) they have very ugly wives, and 2) the people in the hierarchy of the Russian government don't take spring breaks.

My first premise, that ugly wives lead to early death, is merely an observation. Not all Russian men have ugly wives, and I'm sure there are a few ugly husbands running around there, too. But after looking at pictures of grieving wives of dead Russian leaders, it seems that to rule that country, you must take an ugly wife. And you didn't even know half these guys had wives, until you saw them crying at their husbands' funerals.

And this my friends, is why they keep dying. Picture, if you will, coming home after a tough day of fighting with your comrades about who should be sent to Siberia, and if, in fact, laughing should be outlawed this week. Then picture facing an Amazon-looking wife with mud packs on her face. Wouldn't you want to die?

Through the lens:

Brian Ormiston

But this new guy, Mikhail Gorbachev, is different. Old Mikhail "got himself a fine looking old lady." And if you ask me, I think they'll do just fine hanging out in Red Square.

Granted, Raisa Gorbachev is no Christy Brinkley, but she's not as bad as Elizabeth Taylor either.

Raisa will probably be to the Russian citizens, what Nancy Reagan is to the American people—another mother. She's supposedly a 51-year-old professor at Moscow University, a mother of two and a grand mother of one.

The latest word on the street is that Raisa wants to take a field trip to the United States so her hubby and Ronald Reagan can rap about current issues, trade baseball cards or whatever they intend to do.

But I bet the main issue at this meeting will not be nuclear disarmament or the "Star Wars" plan, but fashion. Yes fashion.

Raisa, being the chic dresser she is, needs a few new rags for some upcoming parades and funerals. My guess is that she and old Nancy will go shopping and paint the town red, adding a few more bucks to our national debt.

This, of course goes back to the theory that if you want to live longer, act younger.

What does this have to do with spring break? Answer: premise number two.

You see, Ronald Reagan often takes a few "breaks" to visit his ranch in California. He therefore, lives longer. But where do the Soviet leaders go when they're fed up with the Tip O'Neil of the Soviet Union? Nowhere.

The Russians, if you haven't guessed by now, are much like students. In order to live, prosper and survive, every once in a while they must get away from friendly confines to kick back and relax. Thus, spring break is in order.

But Russians don't have spring break. This, my friends, is why so many of their leaders are dying.

Motion to end Student Senate hour requirement slated

by Amy Landers

A proposal to abolish the academic hour requirement to serve in the student government will be presented Wednesday by Senate Speaker Ron Wesel. Currently the Student Senate constitution places the minimum course load requirement at 12 hours for all student government positions.

Wesel said he will present to the senate, which meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room, with a proposal for a constitutional revision which would only require that a senator be a student with no minimum course load required.

Wesel said he believes the current rule is unfair because "if you are a student then you should be able to be a student representative."

Although the university does not consider students full-time unless they are taking 12 semester hours, Wesel said the course load does not affect their leadership skills.

Wesel said the present policy is "unfair to those students (with less than 12 hours). It doesn't matter if you are taking 12, 18 or three hours. It has no effect on the job they can do for students as far as representation."

Title IX

Williams lectures on positive impact of law on women's athletics

by Dan Verdun

The positive impact of Title IX on women's athletics was illustrated Tuesday by Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, and four Eastern coaches.

Williams noted that 20 percent of college athletic budgets are now designated to women, compared to only two percent before the federal anti-discrimination law, Title IX, was instituted in 1972.

Basketball coach Barbara Hilke, volleyball coach Betty Ralston, tennis coach Gail Richard and softball coach Deanna D'Abbraccio each spoke on the growth in their individual sport.

The lecture, which was part of Women's History and Awareness Month, dealt mainly with the growth of Eastern's program because of Title IX.

"(U.S. Olympic basketball player) Cheryl Miller said that 'without Title IX I wouldn't be here,'" Williams said to illustrate the importance of the law.

Women's History and Awareness Month

"Before Title IX, men had training tables while women had bake sales; men had jumbo jets while women rode in VW's; while men were heroes on Saturday, the women cheered them on," Williams said.

"But now the women are on the right track, right court, right diamond in the passing of Title IX," Williams added. "Now the diamond is set in cement."

The coaches illustrated just how far women's athletics have come in recent years.

"When I was the coach at the largest (high) school in Wyoming in 1969, we tation."

In other business, a proposal limiting the reporting of election violations will be introduced to the senate.

Senate elections committee co-chairman Larry Markey said he will propose that election violations must be reported within 48 hours of their occurrence to an election committee co-chairman.

Senate bylaws currently state that election violations must be reported within one week of the infraction.

Markey said the results of an election can be given the same night as the election, but they can be changed if a violation of the rules is reported.

If the proposal passes, he added, there will be a shorter time span before election results are confirmed.

"Forty-eight hours give people a reasonable amount of time to discover and report the infraction. At least, I feel it does," Markey said. "It's something we should have done a long time ago."

Both Wesel's and Markey's proposals will be presented and tabled until next week as required in the senate constitution. Both have to be approved by a two-thirds majority of the senate, but Wesel's proposal must also be placed on the ballot for student approval if passed.

Markey also said he will drop a proposal he made last week prohibiting a candidate's party affiliation from being listed on an election ballot.

"It's an excellent proposal, but it was unfair to the people forming parties for the upcoming election because it is so close to the election," Markey said.

"If it had happened earlier in the fall or earlier in the year then people who had started to form parties would have known what to expect. As it is, the timing is just off," Markey said.

However, he added that he plans to re-introduce the proposal after the elections.

In other business, the senate will vote on a proposal by senator Joe O'Mera prohibiting senators from changing their vote after initially passing or abstaining, Wesel said.

The senate will also hear from two guest speakers, Wesel said. Charleston mayoral candidate Murray Choate and city commissioner John Beusch will address the senate.

had no uniforms," D'Abbraccio said. "I can remember dying T-shirts orange and putting numbers on with magic markers."

While in Wyoming, D'Abbraccio coached the volleyball, basketball and track teams with no assistants to aid her.

"You won't see that anymore," D'Abbraccio said.

Despite the recent growth of women's athletics, the coaches agreed that funding is still an area in which women's athletics are lacking.

"We're not fully funded because we're still in transition (into Division I athletics)," Ralston said.

"We have no heavy funding," Richard said. "I try to fund the people who have made the squad before. If any money is left, I try and bring in at least one strong player."

To make up for this lack of funding, the coaches try to sell potential recruits on Eastern and its academic programs.

"Recruiting is a big part of our job," Hilke said. "We try to get them (potential recruits) on the campus and let them see it."

"We stress the degree," Ralston said. "Our players know that there will be no $50,000 pro volleyball contracts waiting for them."

Grants aim towards local economic growth

by Tammy Miller

The Charleston City Council Tuesday approved a resolution authorizing three grant applications designed to encourage economic development in the city.

A Fixed Rate Financing Grant of approximately $10,000 to $12,000 would allow the city to loan money to small businesses to help create new jobs in the community.

The second grant, Central Business District Grant, would spur continued capital improvements in the business area. Finance Commissioner John Beusch said the city's chances of obtaining the grant are good because "it is a continuation" of grants the city already has.

City Administrator Mike Steele said the funds would be used in part for additional lighting on Sixth Street south of the square.

The final application approved by the council is for a Housing Assistance Grant which would allow for the rehabilitation of single family homes adjacent to and north of the square.

Steele said the city wants to "keep the value of property (in that area) from declining." He added that the loans and grants from this program cannot exceed half a million dollars.

All of the grants are a part of Community Development Assistance Program which Charleston began in 1983.

In other business, the council placed on file for public inspection a resolution authorizing the execution and delivery of memorandum of agreement between the city and William G. Schubert, M.D.

The resolution allows Dr. Schubert to "acquire, construct and equip a medical office building." This includes the necessary land within the city limits.

The council also placed on file an ordinance adopting the Basic National Building Code and bids for water distribution parts.

Need increases for additional computer lab

by Karen Meyer

While the Booth Library microcomputer lab is ideal for the novice programmer, additional computers may be needed to meet the ever-increasing demand, a library official said.

Pal Rao, head of information systems and media services at Booth Library, said there are currently four microcomputers—an IBM, a TRS-80, an Apple, and a Texas Instruments—all located in the Self-Study Materials Center in Booth.

For students and instructors not familiar with programming, the Center is ideal as group tutorial classes and self-instruction books are available, he said.

"Those people who are not trying to be computer programmers, but want to learn how to program with some understanding—those are who we serve," Rao noted.

Rao estimated 40-50 students and staff members are using the library's lab.

While several departments want to reserve software programs for their students, he said the Center hasn't yet have the facilities to serve all the requests.

"As we get more computers, there will be (still) a greater demand from the departments," Rao said, adding, "Even if we had 2,000 computers, there would still be a demand and the demand will keep on growing."

He said requests for state grants will be made as the need arises.

Student provides 'listening ear' for terminal patient

by Kevin McDermott

Eastern senior Kim McHone spends most of her time like any other student, studying and going to classes to wrap up her home-economics major.

But twice a week, Kim, 21, makes time to visit a local nursing home and chat with an 86-year-old terminally-ill patient.

"A lot of my friends ask me, 'why do you do this?' It is kind of a depressing situation sometimes," McHone admits. "But I just really like making someone's day."

McHone is a volunteer for Hospice of Lincolnland, a three-county program which provides emotional support for terminally-ill patients.

Hospice Director Lou Carey said Tuesday the program, which began in November, 1982, trains volunteers in once-a-week evening classes for eight weeks, then assigns them to regularly visit with terminally-ill patients and their families in Coles, Edgar and Douglas counties.

"We teach the volunteers to be a listening ear for the patient and the family," Carey said. Volunteers are trained for listening skills, pain control, funeral arrangements and "the psychological aspects of terminal illness."

McHone said she first heard about Hospice last semester. "I was just sitting in my room listening to the radio and heard an advertisement for it," she said. "I thought it sounded like something I would be interested in."

After finishing the training program, she was assigned to an 86-year-old woman with cancer of the colon. She visits the woman twice a week.

"Mostly, I offer her companionship and emotional support," McHone said. "She really had a negative attitude when I first went out there. She's better about that now."

"It is kind of a depressing situation sometimes," she added. "When I first started the (training) classes, I wasn't sure whether I would be able to deal with it. There are still times when I really have to push myself to go out there."

The only requirements to enter Hospice is that the volunteer be at least 18 years old and not have suffered a "severe personal loss" within the previous year, Carey said.

The purpose of the "personal loss" requirement, she added, is to prevent people with serious stress problems from joining the inherently-stressful program.

"Personal loss' can be a death in the family or a recent divorce or losing a job," Carey explained. "We think someone like that already has enough stress in their lives. It (Working for Hospice) can be very stressful."

The first training Hospice session this year will begin April 9 in Charleston, with classes one night a week for eight weeks.

Additional information on the program is available by calling the Lincolnland Visiting Nurses Association at 345-3231.

Positive lifestyles increase grade point averages—instructor says

by Angela Paoli

Students with positive lifestyles have a tendency to have higher grade point averages and a more competitive edge in the professional world, an educational-psychology and guidance instructor said Tuesday.

Wellness is total well-being and the ability to maintain a positive lifestyle, Eastern instructor Kent Beeler told an audience at the Counseling Center-sponsored workshop "Plan a Positive Lifestyle."

An audience of 20 people participated in the workshop which addressed the multi-dimensional aspects of positive well-being.

Much of Beeler's presentation revolved around group involvement. He made personal assessments of individual personal lifestyles, which evoked a favorable response from much of the audience.

In addition, Beeler described how a positive lifestyle can benefit students and noted some students suffer stress while in college.

Some students go through a transition period between high school and college. The problems from that period sometimes continue into sophomore year and the students begin to wonder if college is worth completing, he said.

A student's senior year can also be filled with stress because they may worry about their future and entrance into the job market, Beeler added.

Beeler said he believes personal well-being stems from good physical fitness, but poor time management is a common barrier against regular exercise.

A person who has a better physical condition, Beeler said, is prone to have a more positive lifestyle.

"Planning for exercise is just as important as planning a meeting," Beeler said, because exercise is such an important factor in life.

Lecture emphasizes job interviews, career goals

by Angela Paoli

A lecture to aid students in job interviews and career goals will be conducted from 3-4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Main Mattoon-Charleston room.

"Marketing One's Potential," is the title of a lecture sponsored by the Women's Studies Council as part of Women's History and Awareness Month.

Larry Janes, an Eastern educational administration instructor, will give the presentation. The lecture is designed to aid people who will enter the field, Janes said.

He added although the lecture is geared primarily toward women, both males and females can benefit from the speech.

The lecture will be given from data based on the speaker's research, Janes said.

"I believe that too often people fail to do well in their skills and knowledge because of lack of self-confidence," he added.

In addition, Janes will give tips as to how to adequately prepare for an interview, including how to become well informed of the company in which the job is desired and how to become aware of the non-verbal cues which may misrepresent the person being interviewed, Janes added.

"Within the first 3-5 minutes a determination can be made as to whether a company will hire or not," he said.

Janes said too often people do not realize the non-verbal aspects of an interview.

"Learning to package yourself in terms of resumes to techniques and strategies for job interviews will be the aspects discussed," he added.

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Soviets see MX decision as attempt to block talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—American and Soviet negotiators met for two hours and 40 minutes Tuesday, their longest session since superpower arms control talks resumed.

In Moscow, the Kremlin accused the Reagan administration of seeking a "trump card" by pressing Congress to approve the MX missile. President Reagan has said the decision on the MX has a direct bearing on the Geneva talks.

The U.S. Senate headed for a showdown Tuesday on whether to approve $1.5 billion to build 21 of the 10-warhead rockets. Critics say they would be destroyed in the first wave of a nuclear attack, but Reagan said a "no" vote by Congress would be interpreted by Moscow as a "collapse of American resolve."

The Tuesday session in Geneva was at the Soviet mission and the next meeting was scheduled for Thursday.

A U.S. spokesman refused to reveal the agenda of the meeting, citing the confidentiality rule agreed to by U.S. delegation chief Max M. Kampelman and Soviet delegation chief Victor P. Karpov when the talks started.

Before Tuesday's session, the Soviet media renewed charged that the United States was trying to block the talks. Secretary of State George P. Shultz had said remarks made by Karpov in a weekend television interview might not "bode well for the negotiations."

In Washington on Tuesday, the Reagan administration said it intends to present "concrete new ideas" in Geneva for an agreement curbing nuclear weapons. "If the Soviets approach the negotiations in the same way much progress can be made."

The administration's statement appeared to be an attempt to head off a dispute over Soviet accusations that the United States seeks to deadlock the Geneva talks.

Ohio lawmakers deadlocked on bill to reopen banks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio lawmakers remained deadlocked Tuesday on a bill designed to reopen some of the 69 savings and loans closed by state order, while frustrated depositors planned a car caravan from Dayton to the Statehouse.

"They're extremely interested in getting access to their money," said Fred Kaufmann of Dayton, one of the organizers of the protest scheduled for Wednesday morning. "And they want it all back; they don't want just some of it."

An estimated 500,000 depositors at the closed thrift institutions remained cut off from their money for a fifth day.

Members of the Ohio House and Senate tried to reach agreement on the bill after deadlocking during a session that had lasted into early Tuesday morning, while Gov. Richard Celeste went to Washington to meet with members of Ohio congressional delegation and federal banking officials.

A House-passed bill designed to help reopen the closed thrifts was defeated by the Senate early in the morning.

Senate President Paul E. Gillmor told reporters he would ask the closed institutions to withdraw up to $750 per month.

Even if the house version of the bill is approved, depositors at the closed institutions would not gain access to their depositors for at least several days, said state Commerce Director Kenneth R. Cox.

The governor, a Democrat, ordered the state's 70 privately insured thrifts closed Friday after a run by depositors triggered by the March 9 closing of Cincinnati-based Home State Savings Bank. Home State closed after it was revealed that it could lose millions in the failure of ESM Government Securities Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Since then, one Cincinnati-area savings and loan has reopened after obtaining conditional approval for membership in the Federal Savings and Loan Deposit Corp.

Without legislative action, Sen. Richard Finan said many of the affected institutions could reopen Wednesday with the expiration of the governor's "bank holiday." If they do, he predicted, "I think you'll have runs."

Celeste was waiting to see what the Legislature would do before deciding whether to extend his temporary order, a press aide said.

Horse racing 'industry' troubled

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Declaring Illinois' horse-racing industry is in "serious economic straits," a governor's task force on Tuesday formally proposed the state set up off-track betting and keep dog racing out.

The recommendations were among 20 offered by the Governor's Task Force on Horse Racing in Illinois, set up last year to find ways to bring in more money, horsemen and state government.

Governor Thompson was leading a trade mission in Japan and was not immediately available for comment on the report. But after the task force voted earlier this year in favor of off-track betting, he said he had an open mind on it despite his opposition in 1978, when an off-track betting bill cleared the Illinois House.

The panel's 56-page report said the racing industry is hurting because of high state taxes on wagering, a sagging economy and competition from the state lottery and tracks in other states.

"The economic well-being of participants in the pari-mutual horse racing industry, as it exists today in Illinois, is precarious because racetracks are not profitable and purses are insufficient for owners, trainers and breeders to make expenses," the panel said.

Illini set for Georgia Tech

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Illinois basketball coach Lou Henson, hoping to lead his team to an NCAA championship, says he has been "staying up nights thinking about two seven-pointers" as he prepares for Georgia Tech.

Henson was referring to the Yellow Jackets' big men—7-foot John Salley and 6-foot-11 Yvon Joseph—who the Illini will have to contend with Thursday night in the East regional semifinals at Providence, R.I.

Henson said the Illini also face "two of the best guards in the country" in Mark Price and Bruce Dalrymple.

"They've got the inside attack and the outside attack," said Henson, whose Illini are 26-8. "They present a lot of problems for us. . . so many I don't want to think about them."

Henson said the key may be Illinois' strong defense, improved shooting and experience.

He said Bruce Douglas and Doug Altenberger "are the best pair of defensive guards in the Big Ten and maybe in the country."

And, he noted that sophomore Ken Norman has stepped into the lineup, bringing "outstanding defense and a super job on the boards."

"I'm proud of this team's defense," said Henson. "We're working to defense them (Georgia Tech). You just can't let them shoot their shots."

He said Georgia Tech (26-7) is a lot like Big Ten rival Michigan—"huge; a good inside attack; and they can intimidate."

Men's tennis team loses 6-3 to rival Bradley

by David Brown

Eastern lost a tough 6-3 decision Tuesday to Bradley in its first home tennis match of the spring season.

Scott Fjelstad played a near flawless match in the No. 1 singles position for the Panthers by soundly defeating Mark Guenther 6-3, 6-2.

"John played an excellent singles match," Eastern coach John Bennett said.

"Guenther's been playing really tough and Scott beat him easily," Bradley coach John Moorhouse said.

The win was sweet for Fjelstad, who avenged a 6-4, 6-3 defeat at Bradley three weeks ago.

Bob Kirkwood turned in another strong performance, winning his singles and doubles matches. Kirkwood, using a strong serve and volley game, beat Brian Belloumini 6-0, 6-1.

Eric Laffey teamed up with Kirkwood to defeat Gene Dorsch and Belloumini 6-3, 6-2 in the No. 2 doubles position.

"Kirkwood's playing 200 percent better than he did last year," Bennett said. Kirkwood, who defeated Belloumini three weeks ago in a close 6-4, 7-6 decision, won Tuesday's match easily.

Bradley's Keith Hargis downed John Suter in the No. 2 singles slot, 6-3, 6-2. Bennett said that Suter's recent change to a new racket might have effected his play.

"John's switched from an oversized racket to a mid-sized racket and I think that effected him when he returned serve," Bennett said. "It takes time to get use to a new racket." Suter won the first meeting 3-6, 6-1, 7-6.

Moorhouse hopes Ken Shaw's victory in the No. 6 singles match is a sign of more good things to come.

"Ken's been in a slump and I hope today is a sign that he's coming out of it," Moorhouse said. Shaw beat Eastern's Mark Matijasevich 6-0, 6-2.

In the other matches, Bradley's Juan Franco defeated Laffey in the No. 3 singles match, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, while Gene Dorsch knocked off Don Carstens in the No. 5 singles 7-6, 6-4.

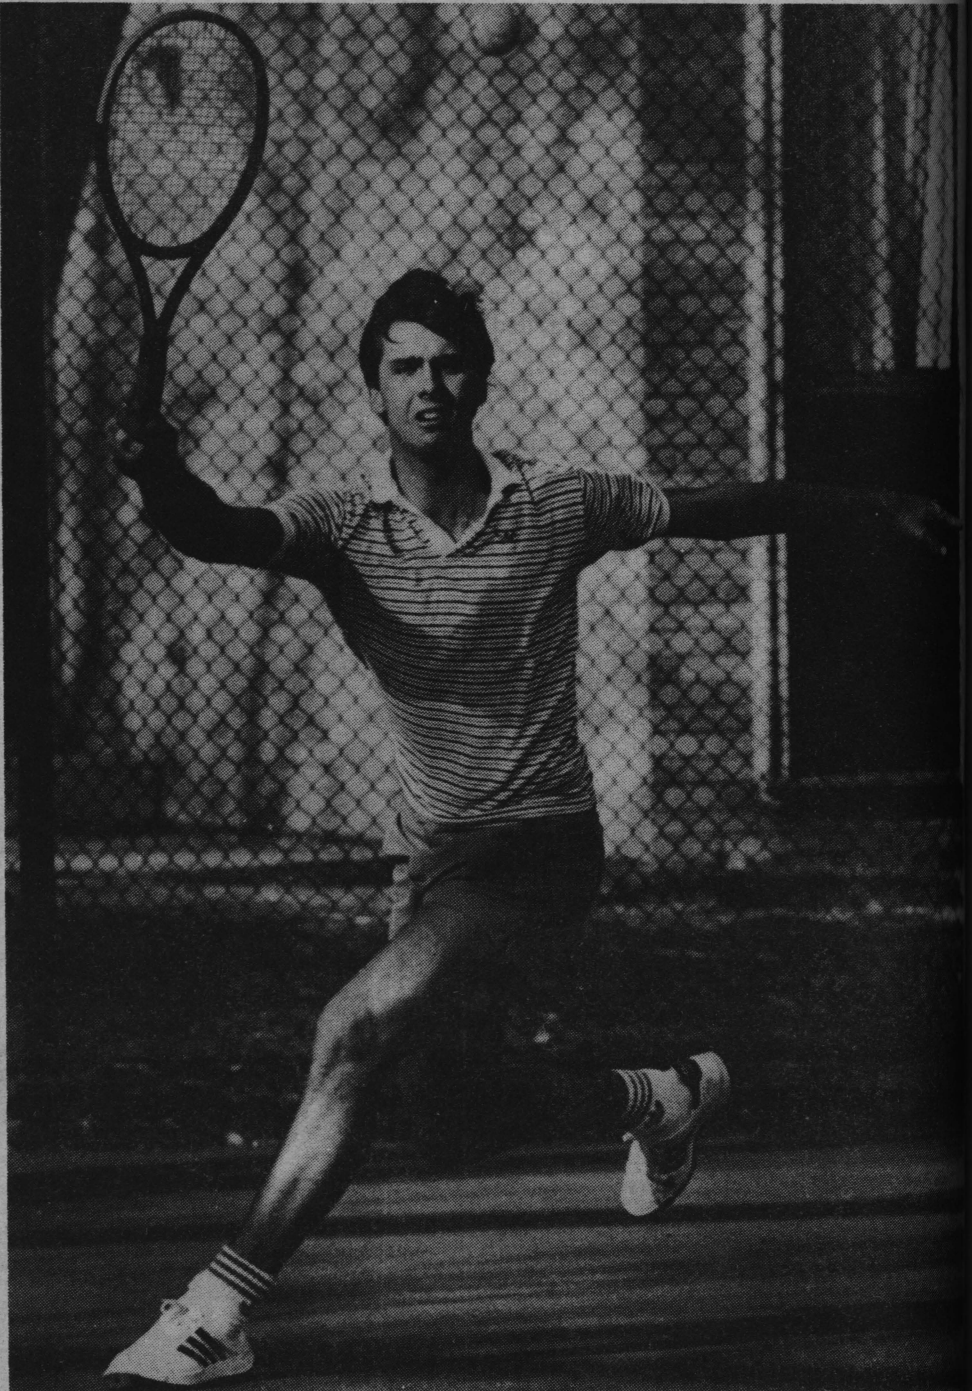

Fjelstad and Suter lost a close 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 match in the No. 1 doubles slot against Bradley's Guenther and Franco. In the No. 3 doubles match, Bradley's Hargis and Shaw beat Carstens and Matijasevich 7-5, 6-3.

The Panthers are still looking for their first victory of this young season, but the outlook is bright. "We're starting to think we can win and we're playing better," Bennett said.

Moorhouse said Eastern's tennis team is competitive and he thinks they will have a successful season. "We enjoy playing Eastern because we're so even. Our matches are always close and the final outcome is so unpredictable."

"Some of the players who lost the last time we played Eastern won today and vice-versa. If our matches against EIU were as predictable as the outcome of the matches that Martina Navratilova plays—that would take all the fun out of it."

The Panthers will be trying to break their two-game losing streak Thursday when they play host to Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology from Terre Haute, Ind., at 2 p.m. at the Weller Courts.

Parker homers 'Red-hot' Cincinnati past Cardinals

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Dave Parker's two-run homer in the first inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 5-2 spring training baseball victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Red's fifth-consecutive spring victory raised their record to 7-2. St. Louis fell to 2-4.

The Reds jumped on Cardinals starter Bob Forsch, 0-2, for four first-inning runs. St. Louis third baseman Terry Pendleton's throwing error let in the first run, and Parker followed with his first homore of the spring. Dave Concepcion's RBI single capped the rally.

Mario Soto, 3-0, breezed through four innings in his third spring start, allowing just two hits.

Mike Lavalliere hit a solo homer, his first, for St. Louis in the sixth off Frank Pastore. St. Louis scored its other run on catcher Brad Gulden's throwing error in the seventh.

Eric Davis doubled and scored on Eddie Milner's seventh-inning single for the final Red's run.

Milner had three singles and a stolen base in the game. Davis was 2-for-4 before leaving the game with a pulled leg muscle.

Phillies beat White Sox 3-2

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Steve Jeltz drove in one run and scored the game winner as the Philadelphia Phillies snapped a five-game exhibition losing streak with a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday.

The Phillies broke a 1-1 tie with two runs in the fifth off loser Tim Lollar.
