Cuts in student financial aid opposed by Rives, legislators

By CHRYSTAL PHILPOTT
City editor

While area legislators have said things do not look good for students in the light of President Ronald Reagan's proposed cuts in federal aid to college students, Eastern President Stanley Rives said students should not start worrying yet.

If passed, the proposed cuts would slash financial aid to students by 45 percent. Money spent on education would be down $4.1 billion from the Department of Education's fiscal 1988 baseline, according to the new budget, which is being backed by Secretary of Education William Bennett.

Among those financial aid programs expected to be the hardest hit are Guaranteed Student Loans.

However, students should not be worried about cuts, Rives said. Evidence has "indicated the Congress isn't going to support this kind of reduction. I think it is short sighted."

Rives said Bennett is "out of touch with reality" by backing the new budget with its extensive cuts.

Rives said there is "massive support" in the general public and congress for the continued availability of financial aid to students.

In support of his position, Rives pointed to proposed cuts in last year's budget which did not make it through Congress.

Larry Clinton, press secretary for U.S. Rep Terry Bruce, D-Olney, said Bruce is critical of the cuts and the severe impact it will have on his congressional district, which has over 20,000 students.

State Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Charleston, criticized the cuts, saying the state simply can not afford any further cuts in student aid.

Weaver said although the state would like to help make up any lost federal funding, should Reagan's proposed budget cuts pass, the state's budget is simply too tight to make up the whole difference.

"If they are going down that much, with the amount Pell (Grant) has gone down recently, these cuts will really hurt," Weaver said.

"Unfortunately the state is not in a position to pick that up. I wish we were. We'll certainly do what (See CUTS, page 7A)

Spring enrollment up by .5 percent

By MIKE HELENTAL
Staff writer

Spring enrollment figures marked a .5 percent increase over spring 1986 figures, President Stanley Rives said Thursday.

According to the 10th day roster, enrollment has increased by 56 students over last spring's 9,511 total.

Figures in the report show that Eastern schools 2,167 freshman, 1,959 sophomores, 2,104 juniors, 2,409 seniors and 928 graduate assistants.

Among the 8,541 full-time students and 1,026 part-time students, there are 651 more women than men, the report states.

The university has been trying to maintain its current enrollment following an enormous enrollment growth 10 years ago, Rives said.

However, because of efforts to keep enrollment at its present level, Rives said the applications for admission to Eastern have traditionally been cut off. In fact, Eastern most likely will stop accepting freshman applications for fall 1987 between Feb. 1 and 15, Rives said.

Rives said he believes that a major reason for the increase in enrollment and fall applicants is the improved economy. He added that because of the economy, more students who would have regularly gone to community colleges are now opting for four-year schools.

Rives also cited the number of students who are remaining in Illinois, rather than attending out-of-state schools as a reason for the increased interest in Eastern.

"I'd like to think this is an attractive institution," Rives said.

"For whatever the reason..." Rives said, "...we seem to be getting more of an increase in applications than other institutions, and that's just great."

Students spend $85.5 million in Charleston-Mattoon

BY AND HOGAN

Every Eastern student spent in the area rings cash registers and tax receipts to the tune of $85.5 million in 1985, a newly released survey study of Eastern's economic impact on Charleston and Mattoon that the university was responsible for bringing as much as $85 million directly into the local economy in 1985.

The survey, the work of Eastern economics professor Robert Meiers, attributed directly to the university's students, the operation was pumped into local coffers through sales and property taxes, retail sales and federal report says that figure is up 10 percent since 1981 from $78 million.

"We've got to admit the university is a source of money we wouldn't get," said Iris Campbell, vice-president of the Eastern Chamber of Commerce. "The school brings in sales tax money and also attracts residents and new business, she said.

The university attracts business owners to Coles County because their employees can continue their education at Eastern. She said the university also adds to the quality of life in this area, which attracts both the businesses and residents. "I think the university is a drawing point," she said.

Eastern President Stanly Rives agrees: "If you don't have a high quality of life in the community, the university isn't an attractive place to be." The quality of life draws the people who spend the money.

While the 10,000 students—about 43 percent of Charleston's population—spend most of their money in Charleston, they buy their big items in Mattoon. Meiers calls big items cars, household appliances and furniture. That represents about 10 percent of the $10.9 million spent in Mattoon.

The report also indicates that the university's staff and students contribute to local governments' tax coffers. The faculty in Charleston (See STUDENTS, page 7A)

Jewel not negligent in poisoning

CHICAGO—A Circuit Court jury on Thursday found Jewel Companies Inc. was not negligent in the nation's worst outbreak of salmonella food poisoning, traced to milk from a Jewel dairy.

The jury, which deliberated about five hours, determined that the supermarket chain was not liable for punitive damages in the 1985 outbreak, which sickened at least 18,000 people in six Midwest states.

Attorneys for plaintiffs in the class-action lawsuit had sought $100 million in punitive damages.

Jewel agreed in November to compensate victims for expenses linked to illness caused by the contaminated milk. In that agreement, the company admitted strict liability in the outbreak but not negligence.

The amount of compensation for an estimated 14,000 to 17,000 plaintiffs is still to be determined under a plan overseen by Circuit Court Judge John Breen Jr., who also presided over the two-month trial.

War waged on bank credit cards

CHICAGO (AP)— Illinois Treasurer Jerome Cosentino on Thursday withdrew almost $220 million in state deposits from First National Bank of Chicago to protest its 19.8 percent credit-card interest rate.

"Illinois taxpayers will not help fund their gouging of consumers any longer," said Cosentino, making good on a campaign promise 10 days after he took office.

Cosentino acknowledged the withdrawal was "a drop in the bucket" for First National, with total assets of $39.1 billion and deposits of $27 billion.

"It's a moral decision," he said at a news conference.

Cosentino said the $220 million had been placed temporarily with investment brokers and would earn 5.9 percent annually. It had been earning 5.85 percent with the bank.

"It's unfortunate that Mr. Cosentino felt compelled to remove some state deposits," said

First National spokesman Peter Sorapar. "We value all the business we do with the state departments we continue our relationships with," Sorapar said.

First National, soon to be the nation's largest issuer of bank credit-cards, can charge the high rate despite a 50 percent increase in its own interest rates over the past five years, according to the Bankcard Holders of America, a non-profit group based in Washington.

During the campaign, Cosentino called for a cap on credit-card interest rates of 12 percent over the prime rate, or 15 percent.

He said Thursday he planned to use $3 billion in state treasury funds deposited in Illinois banks to press for lower bank interest rates, but did not specify a dozen name banks that may be targeted in the

Rape victim leads attack against anti-abortionists

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Times editor

Although Sherry Matulis believes strongly in pro-choice, she felt she had no choice in countering all of the anti-choice propaganda and starting a crusade to keep abortion safe and legal.

The 56-year-old Peoria housewife shared her own terrifying abortion experience to a group of about 40 who attended a program on "Personal Decisions" sponsored by the Women's Study Council Thursday night.

Matulis was 23 years old and a mother of two when she was assaulted, knocked unconscious, stabbed and raped. "I was left for dead," Matulis said, adding that she ended up pregnant from the brutal attack.

Since abortions were illegal then, she faced with a difficult decision. Matulis, trying to terminate the pregnancy herself, deliberately threw herself down stairs, sat in tubs of boiling water and beat herself in the abdomen with a meat mallet.

After none of these methods worked, Matulis said she was forced to have a back-alley abortion. "I payed $100 and all I got was two aspirin and a dirty knife," Matulis said. Matulis said she was afraid to go to a hospital for the fear of being found out. "I did something that I didn't think was morally wrong, but it was illegal," Matulis said, adding that she was going to have an abortion even if it meant aborting her own life.

Matulis, who has had three children since being raped and having the abortion, said she is pro-choice, not pro-abortion. "There is pro-choice or no-choice—nothing in between."

"I chose to abort," Matulis said, adding that it was a highly moral decision that she has never regreted.

Matulis fears that one more appointment to the Supreme Court could overturn the legalized abortion decision. "President Reagan has said it is his personal belief that abortion is immoral," Matulis said.

Since testifying before legislature and appearing on the Oprah Winfrey Show, Matulis said she has been called a "baby killer" by various pro-lifers. She said just because a woman has an abortion, that doesn't mean she also goes out and kills babies.

Matulis stated that life begins at birth, not at conception, like most anti-abortion believers argue. "A fertilized egg is not a baby, it's a fertilized egg," Matulis said, adding that it's not a baby until it is brought into the world.

Academic dismissal continues escalation

By LEE DIEKEMPER
Staff Writer

Spring academic dismissal figures show the number of students who have been dismissed has continued to rise over the past three semesters.

A total of 248 students were dismissed following fall semester 1986, because of failure to remain in good academic standing as required by university standards, said Registrar James Martin.

In addition, 646 students were placed on academic warning, and 286 students were placed on academic probation, Martin added.

If a student fails to maintain a 2.00 cumulative grade point average he will be placed on academic warning. If that student does not raise his grade point average above 2.00 while on academic warning, he is placed on academic probation.

If the student still fails to raise his GPA above 2.00 while on academic probation, that student must have a semester average of 2.10 (2.25 for juniors and seniors) or the student will be academically dismissed from the university.

Dismissal has increased progressively during the past year. Following the fall '85 semester, 771 students were placed on academic warning, 235 students were placed on academic probation and 154 academically dismissed.

Following the spring '86 semester, 341 students were placed on academic warning, 557 students were placed on academic probation and 213 students were academically dismissed.

"The figures should show an increase in the number of students being academically dismissed," said Martin. "The fall '86 semester was the third semester (excluding summer '86) that this system was implemented.

"If it doesn't show an increase—then something is wrong with the system," Martin added.

University Board sponsors evening of music, comedy

By DONELLE PARDEE
Associate activities

In keeping with the Union Happy Hour tradition, University Board will be holding a celebration called "Trip the Light Fantastic" from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

Administrative Assistant Michael Poll said the idea is to bring students in to the Union to learn about the facilities and programs it has to offer.

Poll said there will be hors d'oeuvres provided. "Only it's not popcorn (and such). There will be tableclothes and wild centerpieces. The ARA (food service) is doing different stuff."

Along with the hors d'oeuvres, there will be a comedian and a dance band provided. Comedian Tom Parks and the New Orleans based band Inn-O-Vation will be taking turns on stage.

Even though there is "no charge for anything, tickets will be handed out at the door," Poll said. Each person will be given half a ticket and the other half will go in a big bowl from which Parks will pick the winners.

Some of the prizes to be given away will be a brand new video cassette recorder, items from the bookstore and candy from the Sugar Shack.

Parks has spent the last 10 years touring and visiting 650 universities, including Northern and Western. However, this is his first time at Eastern.

Parks said he is on the road 253 days of the year, but has started to slow down because of a screenplay he just finished and another one he is working on.

Parks' stage companions for Friday's festivities is the eight-member dance band, Inn-O-Vation.

The band plays "innovated pop" or commercial, Top 40-style music, said Barbra Coppersmith, the band's agent. She said they play both original songs and cover songs.

Council cannot dive head first into pool issue

When a group of citizens appear during an official meeting in swimsuits it demonstrates they are serious about having a place to swim.

The Charleston City Council was the recipient of this demonstration Tuesday night but declined to make a decision pending further information.

The council should vote in favor of repairing the pool, if a feasible way can be found to finance it.

There are few places in Charleston to swim and the need for a recreation center is a concern many towns share.

Though we favor pool repairs, research must be done before jumping head first into the water.

A question that needs to be answered is the number of people who use the pool daily compared with the cost of day to day operations. If the cost exceeds the number of people who use it, then how many people know about the pool?

The biggest question facing the council, which is also looking at a $450,000 budget deficit, is can the city afford the estimated $110,000 needed to repair the indoor pool. The council should look to alternative ways of financing the cost.

Commissioner Wayne Lanman made an admirable suggestion that a fund be started in order to raise money and pledged to give $500 himself to help start the fund.

A possible solution could be to raise the entry fee to help pay the operational costs. An alternative to the city paying for the repairs would be to look to private industry to help pay for the cost.

Another was made by Recreation Board President Ray Padovan who suggested the council make a commitment on the operational costs and not the whole lump sum needed to repair the pool.

But first, we believe the council should make a random survey of Charleston citizens to see if the majority even want a pool.

Charleston should be sure to test the water before they make any decisions about closing an area pool.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

A press release's view of television

One of my jobs as news editor of The Daily Eastern News is to go through some of the mountainous multitudes of mail that is sent to the paper every day. Yes, I am proud to say, I am in charge of the press releases.

Mike Burke

Most people consider junk mail to be the cards, letters and other various promotional material that is sent from far away places to persuade you, as well as everyone in the state, to buy something you don't need. When I think of junk mail, I think of press releases.

Not all of the press releases we receive in the mail are junk. And, every once in a while, one of these press releases I would normally throw away will catch my eye.

I always look forward to press releases from the National Coalition on Television Violence. Although I don't get to watch as much television as I used to, I still like to see how my favorite shows are doing in the violence ratings.

The purpose of the NCTV, as stated in one of its press releases we received last week, is to "increase public awareness of the unconscious harmful effects of TV violence, even on normal adult viewers."

Basically, the group believes watching violence and sex on TV increases violence and sex in the "real world." Never mind that there has been an abundance of violence and sex in the world before TV ever came along.

Well, back to my favorite shows—the ones that make me kick the dog and peek through the neighbor lady's window.

Well, "Miami Vice" has slipped from ninth to 23rd in the Nielsen ratings—obviously a victory for the NCTV people. "Miami Vice," with 35 acts of violence per hour, was the only high violence program to make it into the Top 20 in the Nielsen ratings year.

However, there is some good news. Another of my favorite shows, a program which the NCTV also gives a high violence rating, has moved into Top 20. "Moonlighting," with 14 acts of violence per hour, finishes the year in 12th place.

The press release reads that, because of popularity of non-violent situation comedys like "The Cosby Show" and "Family Ties," the popularity of violence is at its lowest point in 20 years. However, there is still much work to do, the group says because 40 percent of all prime-time TV hours made up of programs high in violence, compared to 55 percent two years ago.

They're gaining on us, guys. And they are moving into another sacred territory: alcohol. On list of high violence programs, "Miami Vice" and "Moonlighting" were given an alcohol asterisk. This means that over 50 percent of the beverages during the course of the show have alcohol.

Some non-violent shows got the old alcohol asterisk, too. "Cheers" and "The Colby's" both got it. "The Colby's," "Dallas," "Dynasty" and "Falcon Crest" were also footnoted as having "emotional violence," whatever that means.

After reading this press release, I realized I don't watch as much TV as the NCTV people do. If the theory holds water, they must be the most violent and sex-crazed people in society. I missed the following show, but luckily, the NCTV people saw it.

The press release reads, "The worst single episode of the season goes to a 'Mike Hammer' program in which at the beginning of the program a woman strips down totally naked in front of Mike Hammer and asks him to go to bed with her. At the end of the program she slips a gun up to his back while kissing him, in order to kill him. He instead kills her by shooting her in the abdomen with a gun he had hidden in his coat pocket."

You gotta love TV.

Employees outraged by food service sign

BY BRITT

... posted in the Gregg Triad Food Service, stating that students on campus could no longer work because of a pay-cut would have.

... Sterling, director of campus services, said the sign should have been posted only after on-campus students are completely exhausted.

... said housing policy is that living on-campus get initial preference for jobs in food services in residence halls.

... policy is explicated in the student calendar, Sterling added.

... policy has never been enforced. ... said junior Graeme Watson, who moved off campus in the fall and is in his third year of college with Gregg Food Service.

... "I started working here my first year, off-campus people working here too," Watson said.

... (policy) has been in effect for many years," Sterling said. ... sign) is only in Triad Food Service. ... I saw it this morning (Wednesday) and suggested they change it a little," said Sterling.

... sign has since been removed. ... unfortunately, when she (Mary Walker, Gregg Triad Food Service supervisor) put up the sign, she said they (off-campus students) would not be hired," Sterling said.

"It's always been a food service policy that (on-campus) students get first preference," Sterling said. "It has been that way for as long as I can remember."

Watson considered it unfair to exhaust jobs to on-campus students before considering off-campus students. "I see no logical reasoning for that."

In the first week, when no schedules are set, the food service is dependent on experienced personnel, many of whom are off-campus students, Watson said.

"You'd think if you've worked here before, you know the system and you know how things run, you'd think they'd hire you back," he added.

Both he and junior Liz Graffis, an off-campus student who is also in her third year with Gregg, expressed that they need their jobs to pay for school.

"I don't think it's really fair," said Graffis. They want us to buy meal tickets. What if you don't like the food? The off-campus students can work in the library. Why can't they work here?"

Watson said the policy made him a little upset "because a lot of us depend on jobs. The university has a limited housing space. Why should we be discriminated against because they don't have room for all of us?"

CAA recommends rating boosts

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday unanimously voted to recommend that two programs' ratings in the Board of Governors Academic Programs Review be upgraded to Status Quo.

Both the geology department and the performance option within the music department had previously been rated as Status Quo*, a rating which indicates there is reason to review the program, possible because of low enrollment or high costs.

The CAA also voted to recommend that the music performance option in the music department, which had been rated as Status Quo* because of high costs, be upgraded to Status Quo because several senior faculty members in the department are close to retirement, and will be replaced with lower-salaried faculty.

The CAA's recommendations to Schick are non-binding. Schick has the final decision as to what recommendations will be given to the BOG.

BY WEDEKING

... of Governors Representative Mike Ashack on Student Senate Wednesday night he has been scrapping Eastern's senior seminar to BOG member Dr. Robert Pringle.

... said he told Pringle at a Jan. 14 and 15 meeting in Chicago about complaints he has received from Eastern students about having to attend the required senior seminar.

... complaints questioned if the senior seminar should be a requirement for students before they graduate from Eastern.

... did not say what Pringle's response was, but senators he plans on talking with Pringle in the future.

Ashack recommended that the Academic Affairs committee write a letter to Eastern's administration officials and the BOG suggesting "a change" for the senior seminar.

Ashack also told senators he has been assured by Pringle the oral proficiency examinations will be going into effect at Eastern next fall semester, and that he would be "getting with top (Eastern) administration officials to talk about implementation" of oral proficiency examinations.

In other senate business, newly appointed senators were approved and seated to their positions.

Out of about 12 to 15 people submitting petitions and interviewing for six vacated senate seats, six students were appointed by Student Speaker Tim Taylor's Legislative Leadership committee.

The six appointees immediately assumed their senate positions Wednesday.

Filling two vacant at-large district positions (senate seats representing both on and off-campus) were Andrea Pyle and Shannon Kindred, both freshman political science majors.

Assuming only one vacated residence hall seat was Rose Alcorn, a sophomore graphics design major.

Three appointed senators assuming off-campus district positions were John Cosenza, a sophomore political science major; Mitch Newman, a junior political science major; and James Van De Ven, a junior finance major.

The newly appointed senators' terms are good for one semester and then they will have to run for re-election in the student government general election.

Cuts

can. Though I'm afraid we probably won't be able to do all that much," he said.

State Senator Harry "Babe" Woodyard, R-Christman, said, if passed, the cuts would put the state in a difficult spot.

"It's beginning to look more and more to me like a lot will hinge on whether there is a tax increase (as to what will have to be done to make up for cut funds). That (financial aid for students) would be one area that would be funded provided there is some additional revenue source," he said.

Whether we can help fund these (loans and aid), I just don't know at this time. Whether the state can pick up that amount of money I don't know," he said.

Clinton said he expects Bruce to take further action against the cuts after congressional review.

Rives said long run benefits of financial aid to students show why the programs are so valuable.

Rives, citing a recent study, said the average college graduate will make $1,109,000 in his or her lifetime, while someone who does not go beyond high school will earn an average of $861,000, for a difference of $329,000.

Based on a conservative 20 percent tax on the difference in income between college and non-college graduates, the government stands to gain $65,000 more in taxes from the college graduate, Rives said.

Considering financial aid of $5,000 per year for a college student, Rives said, the government's $20,000 investment makes good economic sense and benefits society as a whole.

"Those kinds of reasons are going to be tossed around and I think we will have the same outcome we had last time."

ed in $828,677 in real estate taxes. Students paid $586,731 in real estate taxes, Meiers' investigation reports.

They (faculty and students) contribute heavily," to local government's real estate tax income, said Bezruki, executive assistant to Charleston's City Council. The city, as well as the county, Charleston Township, and the school district, benefit from the property taxes.

For the report, which was started last spring and took until December to complete, Meiers looked at money spent by students, staff and visitors as well as their federal and state taxes that eventually filter back to the area. It also took into consideration the interest that students', staff and the university's investments earned in local financial institutions.

Matmen try for tourney win

Panthers hope to raise record to .500

MIKE NELSON

Eastern's wrestlers are looking to get more tournament experience this weekend when they travel to Missouri to compete in the Southwest Missouri International.

The Panthers suffered a disappointing loss to Illinois earlier this week and are trying to get some momentum back before their next dual against Illinois State.

The tournament experience is going to be important down the road, especially when the Midwest Regionals are around," Eastern coach Ralph McCausland said.

Last year Eastern placed fourth out of 17 teams in the Southwest International, and the Panthers are hoping better that finish this season.

"We've always had good success in this tournament, so we're going to continue to compete in it," McCausland said.

Only 12 teams will compete in the tournament this year, which is less than last year.

"A lot of schools have scheduling limitations, and since this is a two-day tournament, some schools don't want to take two days out of schedule," McCausland said.

Starters for Eastern will be Craig Sterr (118), Lorne Garrett (126), Dean Souder (134), Terry Boes (142), Chris Simcox (150), Chris Bonds (158), Dan Salata (167), Marty Molina (177), Henry Teverbaugh (190) and Demetrius Harper (hwt).

The Panthers will face some of the strongest competition in the Midwest. Some of the teams that will be at the tournament will be Northern Iowa, Missouri, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, and Central Oklahoma.

"This tournament is important for us," McCausland said. "We only have two more tournaments after this one, and you need tournament experience before the national qualifying tournament."

Eastern AD to make appearance on TV to discuss AMCU-8

Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson will discuss various aspects of the Panther sports program in a 30-minute interview with Sports Information Director Dave Kidwell.

The program will air at 6:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday on WEIU-TV (Channel 51).

Topics to be discussed will be the upcoming Panther Club fund drive, renovation of O'Brien Stadium, possible expansion in the AMCU-8, progress of the Gateway Conference as well as Eastern football and the new NCAA regulations.

Swimmers face underdog weekend

By JOE LEWNARD
Staff Writer

Eastern's swim teams won't be looking forward to this weekend as both the men's and women's teams face a rough weekend.

The men will travel to Bradley University Friday, and will return Saturday to meet the University of Missouri-Rolla at Lantz Pool. The women will travel to Illinois State Saturday to meet the highly competitive Redbirds.

The Panthers are not favorites in either of the three meets, a fact that Eastern coach Ray Padovan is well aware of.

Padovan said even though Bradley has a small team, the team doesn't lack talent.

He added that the new scoring system will be in use during this meet and all subsequent meets during the season, and this may help Eastern make the final score closer.

The men will meet Missouri-Rolla Miners at Lantz Pool, but a home-pool advantage won't help the troubled Panthers.

Padovan said the Miners have a strong, well balanced team with a fair number of veterans in their lineup.

"They are two or three deep in every event, and the majority of their people are juniors or seniors," Padovan said.

Junior Mark Brandt, who hasn't lost in the 200-yard individual medley this season, will have a difficult time keeping his streak of victories alive after the weekend.

Sports staff makes picks for Sunday's game

There will be one more Gatorade bath for Bill Parcells this season. Defense is the name of the Giants' game and the New Jersey Giants won't be denied. John Elway is blossoming into one of the great quarterbacks in the NFL. Giants 34, Broncos 13.

Cindy Beake/Sportswriter

The Giants should win because the Mets won the World Series. I say keep it in the same city. Besides, defense wins football games not mountain-climbing abilities. Giants 34, Broncos 14.

Mike Fitzgerald/Sportswriter

Giant fans won't have to worry where to hold a victory parade because it will be held in Denver. The Giant defense is awesome, but Elway's scrambling ability will keep him out of the hands of Taylor and Co. Denver 17, New York 14.

John Pletz/Sportswriter

There's no question that the Giants are the toughest defense in the NFL, and defense wins football games; but it's also no secret that they're also not the most balanced offense. Giants 20, Broncos 13.

John Stroud/Assoc. Sports Editor

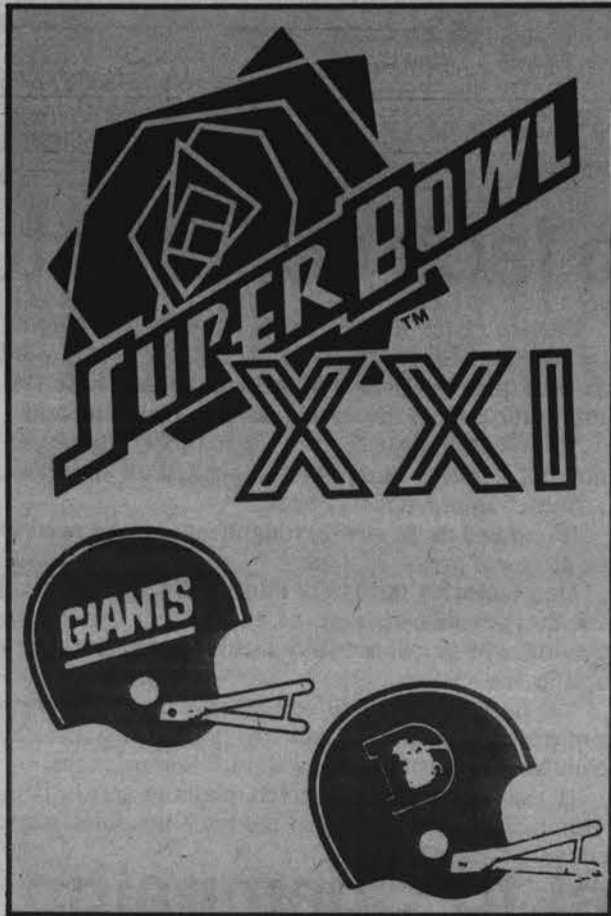

Okay, so I was wrong last year. But hey, my mind's a mile high in the clouds anyway. When Elway's mile high passes sail over the Giant secondary and into the hands of Mark Jackson and Vince Johnson, look for Bill Parcells' coat to be soaked in Coors. Broncos 21, Giants 16.

Tim Lee/Sportswriter

Defense wins Super Bowls, just ask Chicago, Oakland and Pittsburgh, and the Giants play the most punishing defense since last year's Bears. John Elway is tough but Lawrence Taylor is tougher, I'll take the Giants. New York XXIV, Denver X.

Mike Nelson/Sportswriter

Although the Giants do have a dominant defense, Denver's John Elway has the mobility to avoid any rush. Once Elway gets out of the pocket, he will pick apart the New York secondary. Broncos 28, Giants 13.

Panthers down WIU; Bonsett, Hamilton key

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

A mixture of patience on offense, pressure on defense, and offensive rebounding was enough for Eastern's women's basketball team to overhaul Western Illinois 78-67 and end a three-game losing streak.

The Panthers raised their record to 7-9 overall and 4-4 in the Gateway Conference. The Westerwinds fall to 4-12 overall and 2-6 in the conference.

Eastern raced to an early 18-11 lead in part because of guard Pat Hamilton's play.

"Hamilton got us going early in the first 10 minutes of the first half. Our patience on offense also helped us to take the early lead," head coach Bobbie Hilke said.

Hamilton finished with 10 points and three steals for the game.

Western fought back to close to 24-18 at the 5:34 mark in the first half.

Enter guard Sheryl Bonsett for Hamilton.

Bonsett ran off nine points in the final five minutes to put the Panthers up 39-26 at the half.

Bonsett had been slumping prior to the Western game and didn't start, but she adjusted well as her performance shows.

"I was pretty fired up coming off the bench and I knew I had to do something to get my confidence back, so I just went out there and tried her best," Bonsett said.

Hilke was also pleased, not only with Bonsett's play, but with the way the bench played.

"She had a slump, but she's a competitor and it was nice to see her make the adjustment and play well. I thought the rest of our bench came through well for us also," Hilke said.

Bonsett finished with 11 points on 5-7 shooting for the game.

The Panther's pressure defense forced 15 first half turnovers by Western, 10 of which were steals.

The Westerwinds came out in the second half and managed to play the Panthers tough, cutting Eastern's lead to 48-43 with over 13 minutes to go in the game.

That was as close as Western would get as Eastern hit the offensive boards and extended the lead to 10 with five minutes to play in the game.

Western was forced to foul the Panthers the rest of the way in hopes of pulling closer, but Eastern's foul shooting was on the mark as the Panthers hit 13-20 down the stretch to hold on to the victory.

The Panthers shot 45 percent from the field for the game, but were out-rebounded 42-35 for the game by Western.

Forward Lisa Tyler and guard Barb Perkes, who led six Eastern players in double figures, led Eastern in scoring with 13 points each. Tyler pulled down nine boards for the Panthers.

Western was led in scoring and rebounding by forward Laura Jensen who scored 16 points and hauled down 11 boards for the Westerwinds.

The win over Western boosts the Panthers hopes of getting back into the top four in the Gateway going into Saturday's home game with Bradley.

"We proved tonight that we could be patient on offense, but to beat Bradley we're going to have to play in your face defense and still be able to handle their pressure," Hilke said.

Panthers travel to face nation's top defense

By JOHN STROUD
Associate sports editor

When things don't seem to be going too smoothly, one solution is to just pack everything up and hit the road.

After four straight home games, Eastern's men's basketball team takes to the road for an AMCU-8 contest at Wisconsin-Green Bay Saturday at 7:30 p.m. But the 5-7 Panthers can expect this road trip to be no vacation as they will have their hands full with the Phoenix defense, ranked No. 1 in the country in scoring defense, allowing only 54.6 points per game.

Wisconsin-Green Bay comes into the contest 6-8 following an 86-77 win over conference rival Illinois-Chicago Monday. Eastern lost to Illinois-Chicago last Saturday 89-69 to open the AMCU 0-1. The Phoenix are 1-2 in the conference with losses to Valparaiso and Southwest Missouri.

Eastern coach Rick Samuels has been working on trying to get the Panthers in the right frame of mind as they pick up steam in the conference race. He thinks the root of the team's sluggish play is mental.

"I still think our letdown is a concentration letdown," Samuels said. "We've worked on an intense attitude" in practice this week.

"We need more mental toughness, and we need to be alert and prepared to play."

One factor as far as the Panther line-up goes will be the possible absence of sophomore guard Jay Taylor, who is still not fully recovered from an ankle sprain.

"If he cannot go full speed this weekend, he will not go with us on the road trip (which also includes Southwest Missouri on Monday)," Samuels said.

If that is the case, Samuels plans to move Tony Hemphill from forward to the back-up point guard slot.

Samuels expects the Phoenix to approach Eastern in the same way he would like his team to approach the game—aggressively.

"I am concerned about becoming physically tired," Samuels said. "We can expect them to have a very aggressive defense."

"We have to maintain our structure in offense to be fundamentally more sound."

Phoenix coach Dick Bennett isn't playing down the fact that statistics rank his team's defense as the best in the country.

"I don't feel we're nearly as tough defensively as that figure might indicate," Bennett said. "The most accurate measurement is the point spread."

"I'm pleased with our players," he continued. "At this point we're basically doing what we can do. I'm generally satisfied with our level of play."

Tracksters to travel to Champaign for first road meet

By BARRY BOTTINO
Staff Writer

For the first time this season, Eastern's men's track team will leave the friendly confines of Lantz Fieldhouse to compete.

Saturday afternoon will find the Panthers at the Army in Champaign to compete in an open meet hosted by the University of Illinois.

Southwest Missouri and De Paul both cancelled trips to Charleston this weekend, but the Panthers will see De Paul in Champaign.

of approximately 20 of his "top people" to Illinois this weekend with the main purpose of hopefully logging some NCAA qualifying times on the Illini's oversized track.

"The longer straightaways (at Illinois) allow for more acceleration," Moore said.

The Lantz track measures 220 yards for a single lap while the Army track comes in at 296 yards for one lap.

Most of last weekend's top placers will make the trip including throwers Dan Matas and Jeff Gennarelli, and middle distance men Jim and Phil Maton, who will both compete in the 1,000-yard run.

The Matons will have to be clocked under 2:08.70 to qualify for the NCAA indoor championships.

Jim posted a time of 2:11.55 Saturday to win the 1,000 after posting a personal record of 4:11.70 in the mile run.

This week's meet will also give some of the Panthers a week to recuperate.

"We will take no chances," Moore said, stressing that if someone gets injured at this stage of the season, he will most likely miss the competition meet.

The ailing Panthers include Ian Isaacs (strained hamstring), hammer thrower Jeff Rolson (hand injury), jumper Mike Hanuman (ankle injury), long and triple jumper Dennis (groin).

Other teams competing in the meet include Alabama, Illinois State, Kentucky, Bradley, Western Illinois, Tennessee State and Western Kentucky.

The BoDeans offer fresh, fun country-rock sound

Bob, Guy, Sammy and Beau combine for ballads, dance numbers

editor

From a band whose name makes it sound like the long lost cousins of the Beverly Hillbillies comes an album packed with country-rock music.

Bob, Guy, Sammy and Beau comprise the BoDeans, and their album Love [ Hope [ Sex [ Dreams, contains songs ranging from slow ballads to danceable rock to knee-slappin' country tunes.

Side one kicks off with a familiar theme in "She's a runaway." Although the title makes it sound like it could be a remake, the song sets the stage for the band's diverse arrangement of songs.

Next comes a slower number, "Fadeaway," about the singer's sense of loss over something, presumably a lover.

As if to prove their reference to cousin Jethro is really intentional, the band next breaks into a tune vaguely reminiscent of the Clampetts' theme song in "All the Night." The song combines some nifty guitar work with harmonizing vocals for a song which is at its best rather repetitive, but at its best just plain fun.

A ballad "Ricksaw Riding" follows, an Oriental-tinged song featuring somewhat corny lyrics as the guitarist sings to his "Tokyo rose," asking her to be his "mama-san." It makes you wonder, although the song is pretty and one can't help but be reminded of some cowboy, his guitar firmly in hand, winding his horse down the "lonesome trail."

The album's best number, "Angels," is next, a faster-paced tune featuring good vocals and some nice work on guitars and drums. Danceable and fun.

Side two kicks off with something that sounds like a decent remake of a song you know you've heard but aren't really sure who first sang it, called "Misery." The tune features a somewhat bluesy sound, as the singer laments his pitiful misfortune.

A couple of forgettable numbers follow, "The Strangest Kind" and the John Cougar-ish "Say You Will." Both are OK and help the BoDeans establish some kind of sound, but neither is too overwhelming.

A fairly short song with fun lyrics, "Ultimately Fine," comes next, as the singer whines: "When it comes to making guys go crazy, that girl is ultimately fine." Hence the name.

Another ballad, a better one than the cowboy number, closes out side two, "Lookin' for me Somewhere." A good song, it fits nicely with the Love [ Hope [ Sex [ Dreams theme.

Overall, the album—produced from the legendary T-Bonē Burnett—contains some fresh sounds from the quartet. Despite the occasionally repetitive and corny lyrics, most of the tunes provide listeners with a style that we're bound to hear more of in the future.

A new approach: 'aqua exercise'

By DIANA WINSON
Verge editor

For those who want a good workout but hate the thought of pounding the pavement or listening to Jane's "Make it burn!" method of aerobic torture, hope is in sight—or, rather, in the pool.

Through "aqua exercise," a program in its second semester at Eastern, fitness seekers can get a good workout without even realizing they're sweating.

The program, provided through the Recreational Sports office, has been running since last semester, said David Dutler, director of Intramural and Recreational Sports.

Popular at first with older people, the program now boasts several students, leader Paula Wroblewski said. Part of the reason Wroblewski attributes the recent outbreak of younger participants to is that younger people are trying to shape up in time for spring break.

While the program used to average around 10 people per session, Wroblewski said so far this semester it has averaged close to 25 people.

"It's great exercise," she said, adding that she's had a "great response so far" to aqua exercise.

Wroblewski, a senior therapeutic education major, said one of the main benefits of the exercise over aerobics is that "you don't have the pounding on your body."

Also, the pressure of the water creates a constant force on the body, while it also keeps the body more buoyant, she said.

The program, which runs from 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday, features several different types of exercises performed in Buzzard Pool, Wroblewski said.

For starters, the participants go through several warm-up exercises in the shallow end of the pool, she said. Some of these include exercises using partially filled water-jugs.

Next, those participants who wish to take part in exercises in the deep end may do so—although those who don't feel comfortable in the deeper water may stay in the shallow end, she noted.

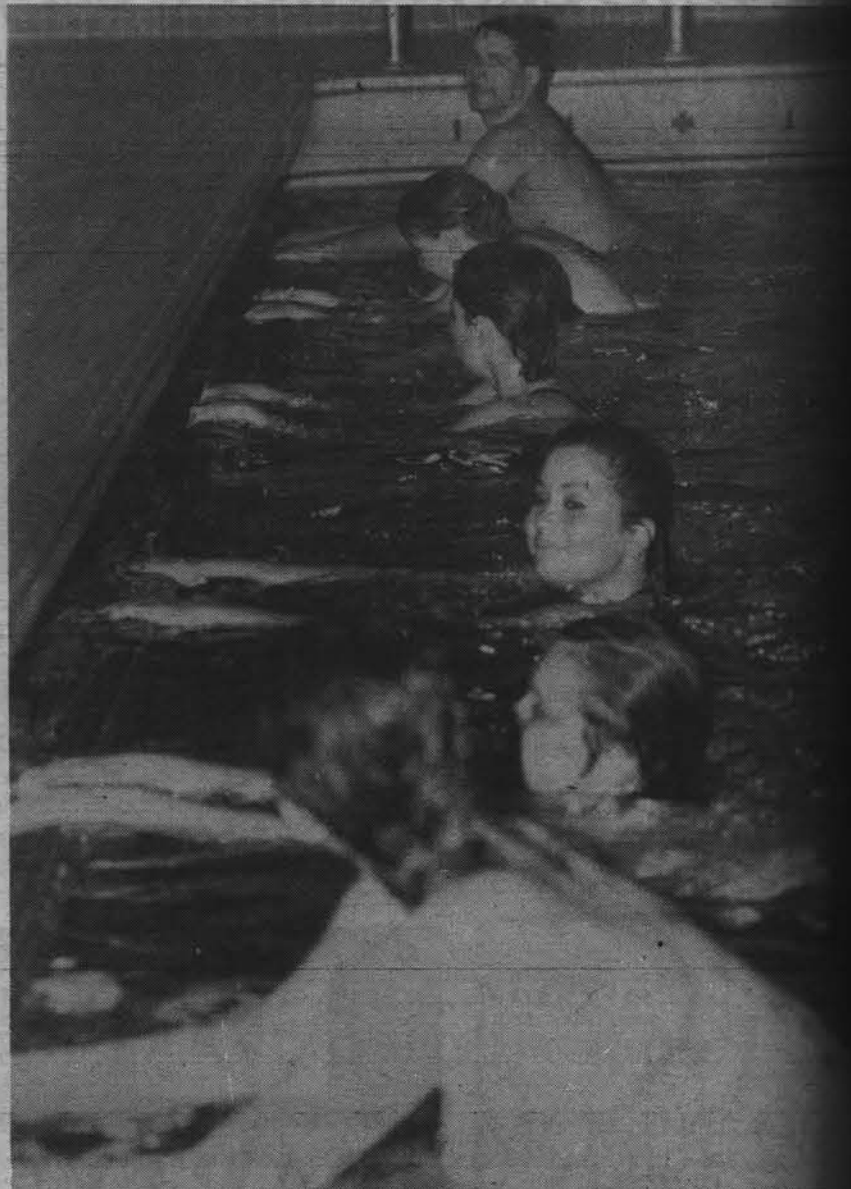

Wroblewski said her assistant, senior Sharon Pitcher, leads deep-end exercises—such as treading water for so many minutes—while she herself leads ones in the shallower water.

Compared to an aerobic exercise, Wroblewski said participants in the aqua exercises tend to not feel as drained after a workout.

Wroblewski noted that when doing aerobics, she tends to "do as much" as the instructor. However, in aqua exercises, participants are encouraged to "go at your own pace—and don't be embarrassed" over those exercises which seem difficult or even impossible.

Currently, the majority of "aqua exercisers" are women, Wroblewski said, noting that the total of men who participated last semester was 10. She said this could be because they were intimidated by being outnumbered.

The program is open to all Eastern students, who are required to show their IDs before participating, Wroblewski said. Also, all faculty/staff members who have purchased a recreation card are eligible to take part in aqua exercises, Dutler noted.

Alternative to the "burn" method and other types of exercise, Recreational Sports now offers a program of aqua exercise." On the opposite page, participants perform various muscle exercises in at Buzzard Pool from 5 to 6 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. This page, after some warm-up exercises in the shallow end, those who wish take part in some slightly more strenuous activities in the deep end. Here, par-

RICK STUCKEY / Staff photographer participants tread water for several seconds using only leg kicks to keep themselves afloat. The aqua exercises are led by senior Paula Wroblewski and her assistant Sharon Pitcher.

Burnt toast, stuffing—what they have in common

By JUDY WEIDMAN
Assistant Verge editor

At 5:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 12, the residents of Pemberton Hall were awakened by a fire alarm—their first of the semester.

As the residents grabbed their shoes, keys and coats to greet the brisk air, they began to wonder whether or not there really is a God and if so, what was He doing up at 5:30 in the morning?

After about five minutes outside, the bright-eyed and bushy-tailed residents realized what was going on and began to inquire among themselves as to the cause of the alarm.

Group speculation and past fire alarm causes indicated burnt toast, compliments of food service, but the 5:30 a.m. time extinguished that possibility.

About this time, my roommate Jean recalled that I had gone to work that night—morning?—at 2 a.m., my first night stuffing papers for The Daily Eastern News.

She asked me when I came in. I said, with an understandable lack of enthusiasm, "Four-thirty."

After some simple mathematics she laughed in my face, realizing that I had only one hour of precious sleep under my belt.

My hallmates caught on to my lack of sleep and I was teasingly blamed as being the cause of the alarm.

Then Jean asked how my first night on the job was. My answer: "I never want to look at a newspaper again—especially The Daily Eastern News."

And to think, it all started so simply.

I got there about 1:50.

Anxious to work, I asked Sheryl, my supervisor, what needed to be done and she said nothing. We had to wait until Johnny printed On the Verge of the Weekend.

It was then when I saw Mark, a co-worker.

He told me that I was a good pool player and that I beat him in eight-ball last semester at Jerry's.

I, on the other hand, did not remember playing him, but did agree to a rematch, which has yet to be played.

So much for remaining anonymous in my new career.

Because of the delay and the general boredom of the crew, we began to tell jokes.

Mark asked me if I knew any, which of course, was a BIG mistake for all those around.

After rattling off a couple, and Sheryl threatening to fire me as they progressively worsened, we were rescued by Johnny rolling the presses.

We then transported the Verges to the newsroom where they were put in endless piles on the floor.

That took about 20 minutes.

Then we killed some more time waiting for the front page to be printed (I didn't tell any more jokes).

When we finally began to stuff about 3:15.

And so, you ask, what does "fer" do?

It's a cross between a mime and a Rhesus monkey.

We get a stack of paper from the emman Hall or Union, for example, insert the Verge or whatever we want into the main section.

After I stuffed several hundred papers I glanced towards the floor and wondered if an elf was pilfering the Verges without my knowledge.

I have been stuffing papers ever since then—but only for the money.

The last time I stuffed, on Jan. 7, I was home by 4:30 on a Friday.

At 7 a.m., Pemberton had a fire alarm.

Makes you wonder, doesn't it? Burnt toast, anyone?
