MISS BLACK EIU

Preparing for a special night

Miss Black EIU contestants practice for weekend pageant

By Seth Schroeder
Activities Editor

The contestants of the Miss Black EIU Scholarship Pageant are in their final days of rehearsing after practicing four to five days a week since November.

The pageant has seven contestants participating in such categories such as creative expression, African garment, talent and evening gown with an impromptu question.

This will be the pageant's 40th year. It will be at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

To participate, each contestant must have a 2.5 GPA and raise $500 in ticket sales.

Many of the contestants have looked forward to participating in the pageant for years.

"I always wanted to do it," said Destiny Lee, a junior health administration major. "It's a part of Eastern. It's not your average pageant, it's a heritage pageant where you can show your intelligence and beauty."

The Black Student Union sponsors the pageant and many of the participants including Timery Jackson, a junior elementary education major, heard about the event at a BSU meeting.

"This is something I always wanted to do," Jackson said. "I felt I was ready this year. I would encourage all young women to be confident and elegant."

Each of the contestants will perform a unique talent during the competition. The talents include skits, singing, dancing, acting and poetry.

SPEAKERS

Paperny to give speech on fraud, crime, ethics

By Kaylia Eskew
Staff Reporter

In 2007, the FBI reported 529 pending cases of corporate fraud. Justin Paperny is a man who knows quite a bit about this.

Paperny committed fraud in 2007 and spent 18 months in prison for this crime. Over a year since his release, Paperny will speak to students in Lumpkin Hall on business ethics and ways to avoid the mistakes he made.

The School of Business and the International Honor Society Beta Gamma Sigma is sponsoring the presentation, which will take place at 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in Lumpkin Hall, Room 2030.

Paperny was sent to prison for scheming with his colleagues and superiors to protect them from any potential liability while he was overseeing a client's hedge fund.

Paperny worked as a stockbroker for a number of firms including Merrill Lynch, Bear Stearns and UBS.

James Sysko, the assistant professor of management, invited Paperny to speak after seeing his presentation at King's College in Pennsylvania.

Sysko said in the past two years, Paperny has become a much more prominent speaker, compared to when he first heard him.

During the presentation, Paperny will talk about "how even traditional students, like himself can fall into the pitfalls of a new career," Sysko said.

False alarm

Kimberly Foster | The Daily Eastern News

Logan Bresnahan, a senior communications major, shares an umbrella with Stephanie Stone, a freshman undecided major, outside Coleman Hall after the building was evacuated because of a fire alarm. Captain James Calvert, fire prevention officer of the Charleston Fire Department, said the alarm was set off at a pull station. The CFD is listing this incident as a malicious fire alarm. Calvert said the CFD walked the building to ensure there was no fire or danger. "Pulling a fire alarm because a student wants to get out of class, that takes vital man power away from someone who needs (the CFD's) resources," Calvert said. Eastern experiences around 80 false fire alarms per year, causes ranging from malicious intent to a malfunction in the system, said university safety officer Gary Hanebrink.

ADMINISTRATION

Board of Trustees will vote on UPI contract

Staff Report

Eastern's Board of Trustees will soon vote on whether to approve the tentative agreement with Eastern's chapter of the University Professionals of Illinois.

The Board of Trustees will have a special meeting to make this decision at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the Effingham Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Although the board was not scheduled to meet again until mid-March, chemistry professor Jon Blitz, the UPI/EIU chief negotiator, said on Jan. 27 that the board has "graciously agreed to meet earlier so we can get our raises in the March 1 paycheck."

On Feb. 18, John Allison, an English professor and the UPI chapter president, told The DEN he believes the vote will pass without an issue.

In the agreement, the Unit A and Unit B faculty will receive a 1.5 percent increase retroactive for this year, and a 1.25 percent increase for next year.

There is a second agenda item, "other business," but university spokesperson Vicki Woodward said this is simply a time set aside to bring up any other topics to the board's attention.

BOOTH LIBRARY

Library adds new titles

By Jordan Cryder
 Staff Reporter

During the month of January, the Booth Library obtained 1,397 new titles to add to its collection.

Karen Whisler, head of the Collection Development in the Booth Library, said each title is chosen individually each month.

Whisler said because the Booth Library went through some major renovations in 2002, there is room to put the new incoming titles on the shelves without having to get rid of any of the books that were already there.

"We add about 1,000 titles each month to the Booth Library collections," Whisler said.

Some of the new titles added in January include Best iPhone Apps: The Guide for Discriminating Downloaders, Smart ball: marketing the Myth and Managing the Reality of Major League, Hollywood Gamers: Digital Convergence in the Film and Video Game and the DVD Dazed and Confused.

Whisler said there is no certain genre or author, but the Booth Library just tries to order materials that support the curriculum and will have lasting value and impact.

Before the new titles can be catalogued and put on the shelves, there are certain steps that must be taken.

AUDREY SAWYER | THE DAILY EASTERN NEWS

Karen Whisler, head of the Collections Department of the Booth Library, puts some of the 1,397 new titles on display Friday afternoon on the 3000 level of the library. Whisler said the library gets thousands of new books every month.

Whisler said there are 11 librarians who serve as "subject bibliographers" who work with faculty to funnel requests for library materials that are then sent to the Acquisitions Department.

"Since students are studying in many disciplines, we find them using a wide variety of materials," Whisler said.

She also said the Booth Library likes to order for general interest and entertainment purposes as well by ordering current novels, classic movies, graphic novels, audiobooks and more.

To access the new titles list, students can go to the Booth Library website and click on the "Books, Videos & More" link and there will be a link called "Booth Library New Titles List."

HEALTH

Students learn about anti-vaccine movement

By Dave Balson
 Opinions Editor

Skepticism over the safety of vaccines has existed since America began, according to Robert D. Johnston, an associate professor of history at the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Johnston outlined the history of the anti-vaccination movement at the Doudna Fine Arts Center Lecture Hall on Monday in a speech titled "The Politics of Vaccination in American History."

Johnston, who is sympathetic to those who oppose vaccinations in general and compulsory vaccinations in particular, said that opposition to modern vaccinations began with skepticism over the earliest forms of inoculation.

Until modern vaccines were developed in the early 20th Century, doctors would deliberately infect patients with a disease by taking the blood and puss from the pustule of a sick, or recently inoculated person and introduce the fluids into the bloodstream of a healthy person. This led to other diseases being transmitted from patient to patient.

In his overview of the history of opposition to vaccinations, Johnston invoked Mahatma Gandhi, Frederick Douglass and George Bernard Shaw as defenders of the cause.

Johnston described the 1920s as "the quiet years" in the anti-vaccination movement. Because the nation was dealing with a polio epidemic, "people worshiped doctors."

"The movement has grown into one that we see in the newspapers all the time," Johnston said. "We see (coverage) about the HPV vaccine, which is now somewhat a mandate for young girls and women, but very soon could be for young men as well."

A study published in the English medical journal The Lancet in 1998 is credited with helping to establish the idea of a link between vaccines and autism. The study has since been discredited and the journal printed a full retraction in 2010. But suspicions over the compliance of doctors and health officials with the moneyed interests of drug companies continue to drive the anti-vaccination movement.

Johnston said he wants the concerns of vaccine skeptics addressed and for their voices to be heard, calling for "a more democratic science."

"We should bring more voices, more perspectives, into the public sphere, even on matters that seem like they belong in the realm of the elites," he said.

STUDENT SENATE

Senate attempts to rectify parking

By Zinika Livingston
 Staff Reporter

Parking at Eastern has been a problem for students, upper-and underclassmen, but a recent resolution by the Student Senate could simplify the parking problem.

Student Senate members Zach Samples, Kaci Abolt and J.R. Patton said they think the newest resolution to combine both underclassman and upperclassman parking lots will eliminate many parking issues.

Samples, Abolt and Patton revised an older resolution to redistribute upperclassman and staff parking lots to underclassmen after speaking with Chief Adam Due of the University Police Department.

"The old resolution would have created more problems," Due said.

The newest resolution to end the distinction between underclassman and upperclassman parking lots will be less confusing for student drivers, Due said.

Students not in favor of the resolution should take notice that Due is completely behind this resolution, said Samples, a freshman history major.

"We as students don't deal with enforcing parking everyday; Chief Due does," he said. "And he knows what is best."

Out of the nine public state universities, Eastern and Southern Illinois University-Carbondale are the only two universities that have a distinction between upperclassman and underclassman parking lots.

Samples, Abolt and Patton introduced the resolution to the Student Senate Wednesday during the meeting. The Student Senate members were asked to get feedback from students around campus.

Student Senate member Alex Boyd is opposed to the resolution, but is depending on his feedback from the student body to vote correctly on the resolution.

"The parking on campus is a problem and I like the direction that they're heading but this resolution of generalizing the entire campus can cause more problems than good," Boyd said.

Boyd, a sophomore political science major, said the three Student Senate members should consider conducting an experimental trial of one or two lots first.

If the trial is successful, then another resolution can be made to end the distinction between upperclassman and underclassman lots all together.

If the Student Senate members approve the resolution in the future, it only serves as a suggestion to the administration.

Ultimately, the administration is in charge of implementing this change.

Some people are worried the resolution will have an effect on commuting students, said Patton, a junior political science major.

Because upperclassman and underclassman lots will be combined, it might cause commuting students to have to park further away.

Patton suggests the student government propose another resolution strictly for commuters if the problem were to become an issue.

Abolt said if the Eastern student body disagrees with the proposed resolution then she, Samples and Patton are willing to make a different resolution.

Comments about the resolution can be submitted on the student government's website or during the Student Senate meeting at 7 p.m. on Wednesday in the Arcola-Tuscola Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

SHARED GOVERNANCE

Perry assembles task force

By Erin Riedl
 Staff Reporter

President Bill Perry recently assembled a new Eastern group designed to oversee the policies and practices on Eastern's campus.

The Shared Governance Task Force is made up of nine members: three staff members, five faculty members and one student.

One focus of the task force is making sure every organization on campus has a representative in the governance of Eastern.

The Shared Governance Task Force is a higher education concept of how students and staff share parts in the university, Dan Rolando said.

"The goal of the task force is to have the power to do everything, look at conditions of Eastern and see how policies and practices mash-up at the end of the semester," Rolando said.

Rolando, the student vice president of student affairs, is the only student representative on the task force.

"Then the task force will make a report of suggestions to Perry about ways to make all aspects equal on campus," the senior finance and economic major said.

The Shared Governance Task Force is also trying to improve all communication, sharing governance and responsibility amongst the faculty, students, staff and administration.

Blair Lord, the provost and the vice president of academic affairs, said he generally believes the constituent groups on campus communicate well but there is always room for improvement.

The Shared Governance Task Force will look at how governing policies are written and make sure faculty, students, staff and administration are included.

"All current governing policies are inclusive of all voices at different times when deemed appropriate, our policies are formalized in the internal governing policies," Lord said.

Eastern's internal governing policies can be found on the Eastern website.

They are currently collecting data and ideas from other campuses and organizations.

Other Shared Governance Task Force members were contacted, but could not comment.

"We want to get everyone on the same page in governing EIU instead of having our own separate things," Rolando said.

New faculty contract is a victory for all

After nine months of negotiations, Eastern's chapter of the University Professionals of Illinois ratified a new contract on Wednesday.

Now, one week later, the new contract will be up for approval from the Board of Trustees at a special meeting scheduled for Wednesday.

Though no sincere scrutiny is expected, the edit board encourages the Board of Trustees to approve the new contract.

The new contract includes a pay increase for faculty—a hard-fought but important victory for the UPI.

In the agreement, the Unit A and Unit B faculty will receive a 1.5 percent increase retroactive for this year, and a 1.25 percent increase for next year.

It is refreshing to see both sides recognize the validity of each other's concerns and reach common ground.

A stalemate would have harmed the entire Eastern community, and we respect both the faculty and the administration for considering the larger picture.

For both sides to come to a conclusion that would benefit the university while not losing sight of individual needs is a success for both parties, one we hope is repeated during the next negotiations in two years.

We recognize that, in such times of economic hardship, it becomes easier for employers like the administration to justify cuts in faculty pay under the guise of responsible austerity.

But such cuts unfairly punish the hard-working teachers who play a vital role in creating future economic prosperity for Charleston and the rest of the state.

Faculty in the UPI did not get everything they wanted (hence the long negotiations), but they held strong and made important gains.

The administration had to give more than they wanted to, but they understood the needs of faculty members and did what they could to meet those needs.

In approving the new contract, the Board of Trustees will acknowledge the fundamental truth about education: a school can only be as good as its teachers.

As we have so often witnessed around the country in the past few years (and around the Midwest in the past few months), the recession has created many tough situations where groups, who have long held more cordial and reasonable dialog, can no longer find enough ground to give to reach an agreement.

For the next two years, Eastern will be able to count itself among the institutions who weather these hard times with reason, respect and compassion.

Even student organizations must obey the law

If information is power then public bodies wield a lot of it. It is a journalist's job to pass that information on to the public, including anything that might have slipped through the bureaucratic cracks.

From the water we drink, to the money we pay for services to the university and city and all the way up the line, public bodies have a heavy hand in every day life.

With all of these functions being managed by an outside party, it is imperative that citizens and organizations have access to information both vital and mundane.

Along with the Freedom of Information Act, one of the ways that the state of Illinois attempts to ensure transparency and an open government is with the Open Meetings Act, which was first enacted in 1957. Many groups at Eastern, including the Apportionment Board, are considered public bodies and must function under the Open Meetings Act.

Last week, the AB scheduled an impromptu meeting Thursday after the women's basketball team won their game Wednesday night.

The AB distributes funds from student fees to the Student Recreation Center, the University Board, the AB and the Student Government.

At this meeting, the AB approved student money for bus to bring fans to Nashville, Tenn., to support the women's basketball team during the OVC tournament this week.

And while I'm sure most students would not oppose this use of their money, the AB did not really give them the chance to decide either way.

The first paragraphs of the Open Meetings Act outline the importance of government transparency, saying "(it) is designed to prohibit secret deliberations and action on matters which, due to their potential impact on the public, properly should be discussed in a public forum."

Under the Illinois Open Meetings Act, all public body meetings take place openly, with 24 defined exceptions where written meeting minutes must be kept.

Public notice for all meeting must be posted prior to the meeting and include the time and location of the meeting.

AB Chairwoman Ashley Hoogstraten said to Daily Eastern News reporters that the tentative agenda was available after the meeting was scheduled, but DEN editors were not made aware of the change so we were unable to preview the meeting or cover it. Student funds of $2,000 were approved at this meeting that very few people knew about.

It is easy to say "so what?" when money is approved for something as innocent as a bus to support athletics, but that line of thought is a slippery slope. Next time "so what?" may not be so simple.

Where has the American middle gone?

Democrats and Republicans have always had a strong presence in politics, but recently it seems most people are either too far left or too far right.

The middle ground has gradually shrunk, so now we must either turn left or turn right.

There used to be a left, right and middle for the Democratic and Republican side. The middle ground slowly wore away to make a fork in the road.

But is this a good thing? Is it really possible for such a large group of people to agree on every single issue to be able to label themselves as a Democrat or Republican?

Instead of looking at presidential candidates, or even elected officials, for who the person is, how qualified he/she is for the position and the views that individual has, most of society just looks to see what political party the person represents.

Being a Democrat or Republican should not define a person, or be the main factor of deciding whether or not a candidate should be elected.

If we did not have Democrats or Republicans, then we would have to look at each candidate as an individual.

We would examine their qualifications and their beliefs about bigger issues, such as taxes, the death penalty or even abortion.

Wouldn't this be a more effective way for deciding who should run our country, or state?

I know when I look at the beliefs and values that "define" a Democrat and Republican, I see that many positives could come from both sides, and there are things I disagree with from both sides.

We are all individuals, so we should treat ourselves that way, especially when exercising one of our most important rights: the right to vote.

Where has the middle gone?

Why can't the extremists of both sides see that there are things both sides can contribute to help better our society and the government?

I find it hard to believe that all Republicans can be proud of voting for George W. Bush.

If he would have ran without a particular party, maybe people would have noticed that he was not a qualified individual.

For example, people actually get riled up after watching people like Billy O'Reilly and Glenn Beck. These extremists play on people's emotions rather than looking at the facts.

Both sides have some great things to contribute to our society, and both sides have major flaws.

The sooner we can weed out the flaws and bring the great things together, the sooner our society will thrive.

ON CAMPUS

'Access Granted' to a weekend at Eastern

By Rachel Rodgers
 Campus Editor

A group of 50 prospective Eastern students spent the weekend on campus through the "Access Granted" program to experience what to expect when they begin college life.

This is the sixth year the Admissions Office and the Minority Affairs office have hosted the "Access Granted" program and it is geared towards minority students who have been admitted to Eastern.

Brenda Major, the director of the Admissions Office, said her favorite part of the program was interacting with the different students who came from all over Illinois.

"I got to learn more about the students with one-on-one interactions and overall, the students were overwhelmingly positive about participating in the program," Major said.

One of the programs the "Access Granted" students attended was called "Access to Academic Success" presented by Monica Zeigler, the assistant director for the Academic Advising Center.

Zeigler said her presentation included the top 10 qualities employers look for, how to pick a major that is right for you, academic requirements for Eastern and other topics.

"I told the participating students that you really have to have a passion for the career that you want and you are the key to your own success," Zeigler said.

"Access Granted" students attended Zeigler's session Saturday after a luncheon with guest speaker Will Davis, an Illinois state representative from the 30th district.

"We invite Will Davis every year to speak because he can relate very well to the students and he gave a motivational talk about aspects like taking advantage of the weekend and building relationships with the support of faculty and staff on campus," Major said.

Zeigler said she was impressed with the majority of the students because they were really taking an interest in the program and asking questions.

"I stressed that when you are looking to go to any college you are not running away, you are running towards a better life and college gives you that," Zeigler said.

The 50 students had different options to explore during the program that ranged from educational, motivational and social.

Students were introduced to the study abroad program along with different internship opportunities and the national student exchange program.

"Access Granted" also included a session Sunday on how to use Eastern technology like Panthermail, Web CT, Paws and the dangers of Facebook.

Illinois Valley Central High School student Stephanie Hawkins, of Chillicothe, Ill., shops for sweatpants Monday in the University Union Bookstore. Hawkins attended Eastern's open house, which included campus tours, a student question panel and financial aid information.

Volunteers from both the Admissions Office and the Minority Affairs Office provided transportation for the "Access Granted" students, 39 of which were from the Chicago-land area.

"This program gave the students a chance for good exposure to what the university is like in the fall and it acclimated them early on for college life," Major said.

Kimberly Vincent, a sophomore political science major, said she feels her talent, a monologue, is her strongest category.

"(The monologue) really came from my heart," Vincent said. "My approach to the whole situation will be a surprise, the ending is completely out of nowhere."

Lee said she feels her African garment speech is her strongest category because of the creativity it let her express.

"(The speech) really brought out my writing skill," Lee said. "Now I love writing and I used to hate it."

Several of the contestants said the pageant helped them learn more about themselves and express more confidence.

Lytia Roseman, a junior accounting major, said that her goal for the pageant was to put her shyness to the side and step out of her comfort zone.

"It's nice being involved with an on campus event. I got to meet new people and make new friends," Roseman said.

Vincent agreed with Roseman and said the pageant has been a way for her to make friends.

"Even though they are my competition I've grown really close to these girls," Vincent said. "We all have nicknames for each other."

While serving his sentence, Paperny wrote Lessons from Prison. And since then, he has released another book, Ethics in Motion.

Paperny will also discuss how "many people who commit fraud don't even realize it," Sysko said. "It's so easy to get caught up in a fraud without any personal knowledge."

Another pitfall to watch out for is the effortlessness of turning a cheek to what others are doing, becoming part of the problem, Sysko said.

Sysko points out that getting caught up in fraud or just losing sight of a person's ethics can happen in every career, not just in the business field.

"People start to focus on money, and how to make their portfolio look best, so they fudge a number here and there thinking there is nothing wrong with it, but it is actually a huge question of ethics," Sysko said.

Another highlight of the presentation will be a discussion of "white-collar crime."

In his book, White Collar Crime, Edwin H. Sutherland said white-collar crime "may be defined approximately as a crime committed by a person of respectability and high social status in the course of his occupation."

Sysko added criminals convicted of white-collar crimes "don't go to 'Club Fed,' they still go through what every other criminal goes through."

As a part of his federal probation, Paperny has made presentations at universities all over the country including New York University, Pennsylvania State University, Wake Forest University, DePaul University, University of South Carolina and Pepperdine University.

Along with Tuesday's presentations, Paperny will be conducting numerous in-class presentations on Wednesday.

TRACK AND FIELD

Track gets many top five finishes

By Dominic Renzetti
Assistant Sports Editor

To go along with the team's five first place finishes at last week's Friday Night Special, the Eastern track and field team picked up a number of top five finishes.

Junior Tyler Carter and sophomore Chris Wright both competed in the 60-meter dash, with Carter placing fourth and Wright placing fifth. Carter posted a time of 6.95 seconds, while Wright posted a time of 6.99 seconds.

Carter's time currently ranks him sixth on the OVC leader board, while Wright's ranks eighth. Teammates Zye Boey and Jacob Mitchell own the top two spots. Carter also took third place in the 60-meter hurdles event, trailing behind teammate Lamarr Pottinger, who took second. Carter's time was 8.09 seconds.

Freshman Danny Delaney scored a fifth place finish in the 3,000-meter run, while freshman Ryan Ballard took third in the 800-meter. Senior Chad Aubin placed second in the 600-meter run, posting a time of 1:22.03.

Following Aubin were teammates Wes Sheldon and Reid Basting in fourth and fifth place. In the 1,000-meter event, sophomore Graham Morris placed second, just ahead of junior Connor Kustief, who took third.

Following junior Bridget Sanchez's first place performance in the 200-meter dash, teammates Emily Quinones and Jaida Moore took fourth and fifth place respectively. Sophomore Quinones and junior Moore posted times of 25.83 seconds and 26.12 seconds. Quinones and Moore also sit side by side in the OVC rankings, with Quinones at 11 and Moore at 10. Sanchez is ranked just outside the top five at No. 6.

On the field side of the team, junior Queenie Adeboyejo took fourth place in the triple jump, while sophomores Michelle Hartnett and Tiffany Beachy took fourth and fifth place in the high jump event. Adeboyejo recorded a distance of 37-feet, 1.25-inches, while Hartnett and Beachy posted distances of 5 feet, 2.25 inches. Hartnett was awarded the higher spot based on the number of jumps attempted.

On the men's side of the field events, red-shirt senior Kris Gehrke posted a distance of 6-feet, 4-inches in the high jump to take fourth. Red-shirt junior Joe Noonan and red-shirt freshman Mick Viken took fourth and fifth in the pole vault, after each cleared 16 feet, 8 inches.

The long jump event saw junior Tyler Allen and sophomore Randolph Tribble take third and fourth place with jumps of 46-feet, 9-inches and 46-feet, 1.25-inches.

The Panthers will compete at Lantz Fieldhouse again this weekend for the OVC Indoor Championships.

Dominic Renzetti can be reached at 581-7944 or dcrenzetti@eiu.edu.

She had to sit on the bench longer. "There's no doubt she was frustrated with how the first 35 minutes had gone," Sallee said.

Before the five-minute overtime, Nixon had only played 21 minutes in the game, including the last five of the second half.

When Sallee put her onto the floor at the end of the game, and for overtime, he said he had a lot of confidence in what she would do.

"I knew when she went back in there that she was going to give us a lot," Sallee said. "The tempo picked up and all of a sudden (the Skyhawks) had to start focusing on her a ton."

In-game momentum builds

The Panthers trailed by three Thursday at halftime, but that almost was not the case. Parker nearly made a desperation half-court shot at the buzzer to tie the game.

Crunk hit a game tying three-pointer with 59 seconds to go in the game.

At the end of regulation, Wyss blocked what could have been a game-winning three pointer for the Skyhawks.

The Panthers trailed for most of Thursday's game, but Wyss said all of these situations helped give the team momentum.

"It just builds," Wyss said.

With Wyss' block to send the game to overtime, she said it gave the team another chance to win.

"We didn't take advantage of opportunities in regulation and it gave us more motivation to win," Wyss said.

The Panthers next game is Thursday against Austin Peay, with whom the Panthers are tied up between fourth and fifth place in the Ohio Valley Conference.

The fourth place team gets a first round bye in the tournament.

The game is set to start at 5:15 p.m. in Clarksville, Tenn.

Alex McNamee can be reached at 581-7944 or admcnamee@eiu.edu.

AUDREY SAWYER | THE DAILY EASTERN NEWS
Matt Dorlack, a senior forward, goes up for a shot against Tennessee Martin Feb. 15 in Lantz Arena.

He recorded five more rebounds against Indiana State giving him a total of 1,576 for his four-year career at Morehead.

He currently leads the nation in rebounding at 14.3 per game.

OVC teams went 6-4 in ESPNU's Bracketbuster event.

The losing teams were Austin Peay to Fairfield 76-69, Eastern Kentucky to Western Carolina 81-74, UT Martin to Bradley 81-75 and Jacksonville State to Eastern Michigan.

Winning their games were Morehead State beating Indiana State 71-65, Tennessee State beating Delaware State 78-63, Murray State defeating Evansville 72-47, Tennessee Tech beating Gardner-Webb 60-58 and Southeast Missouri defeating Sacramento State 67-52.

Rob Mortell can be reached at 581-7944 or rdmortell@eiu.edu.

SWEPT, from page 8

The Panthers were able to strike first this time, as red-shirt junior outfielder Ben Thoma doubled down the left field line to chase home sophomore outfielder Daniel Rowe for the game's first tally.

Southern Miss came roaring back in the bottom of the first to take a 4-1 Golden Eagle lead, before putting up a run in the second, three in the fourth inning and one more score in the fifth inning before coasting to a 9-1 victory over the Panthers.

Junior Adam Clark took the loss on the mound for Eastern, as he allowed seven earned runs on eight hits in three and one third innings of work.

Sunday saw the Panthers drop the third and final game of their weekend set with Southern Miss, as they were shut out by a final score of 6-0.

The Panthers finished with seven hits in the final contest, and they were lead at the plate by sophomore Ryan Dineen, as he went 2-for-3.

Panther freshman Christian Slaznik took the loss on Sunday, as the St. Louis, Mo. native allowed four hits and one earned run in three innings of work.

The Panthers committed three errors on Sunday while Southern Miss made none on the day.

Coach Schmitz said he hopes his team takes this game as a learning experience moving forward in the season.

"Southern Miss was very good in all areas and made it difficult for us to get going," said Schmitz. "Hopefully this will make the players understand what they need to work on this week."

The Panthers will see their next action this weekend as they travel to Conway, Ark. to take on the University of Central Arkansas for another three game weekend set.

MEN'S BASKETBALL NOTEBOOK

End of season ahead of team

By Rob Mortell
Sports Editor

Eastern's men's basketball team is about to start the most important part of its schedule this week with its final two Ohio Valley Conference games of the season.

The Panthers must win their next two games against Austin Peay and Tennessee State if they are going to have any hopes of making the tournament.

They also need the University of Tennessee-Martin to lose its final two OVC games. UT Martin plays Eastern Kentucky and Morehead State at home. Martin lost to both teams on the road earlier this season; however, it has a record of 6-6 at home this season.

Eastern lost at home to Austin Peay 77-73 in overtime earlier this season and it beat Tennessee State at home 68-67; however, the Panthers are just 4-9 on the road this season while Austin Peay and Tennessee State have lost a total of five games at home.

Granger on pace to break school record

Junior guard Jeremy Granger vaulted his already stellar free throw percentage up from 91.1 percent to 92.2 percent after going 13-13 from the foul line against Toledo.

If Granger keeps this average up for the remainder of the season he will set the record for best free-throw percentage in a single season in Eastern history. The current mark is held by Julio Anthony at 91.5 percent.

Also, Granger is on pace to set Eastern's record for career free throw percentage. Granger is an 88 percent free throw shooter for his career, Eastern's record is currently held by Gary Yoder (1970-72) at 86.1 percent.

Team swept by Southern Miss

Newcomers perform better than expected

Eastern's baseball team was swept in a three game series at Southern Mississippi, as it lost by final scores of 6-2, 9-1, and 6-0 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, respectively.

The Panthers weekend started off Friday afternoon, as the Panthers came out to open up their season.

The Panthers were able to put up two runs with a ninth inning rally, as red-shirt junior infielder T.J. McManus pinch hit for his first plate appearance as a Panther and knocked a double to right field before being driven home by junior Zach Borenstein, who singled up the middle.

Following a Panther strikeout, red-shirt senior Jake Samuels hit an RBI double to center field to drive home Borenstein and pull Eastern within four. Their late rally would come up short, however, as senior middle infielder Cam Strang struck out to end the Panther opener.

Ohio Valley Conference pre-season pitcher of the year, red-shirt junior pitcher, Mike Hoekstra took his first loss of the season, giving up three earned runs in four innings of work.

Eastern head coach Jim Schmitz said that he was very pleased with all the Panther newcomers making their Eastern debuts, including freshman relief pitchers Luke Bushur and junior Darin Worman, McNamus, freshman Cameron Berra and freshman catcher Jacob Reese.

"Reese did really well behind the plate, he played with a lot of excitement and energy. Cameron (Berra) also played at first base for the first time and did real well," Schmitz said.

Saturday afternoon in Miss. saw more success for the Golden Eagles, as they beat the Panthers 9-1 in the middle game of their three-game set.

Schmitz summed up his team's performance as disappointing. "It was not a good day," Schmitz said. "We made too many defensive blunders and our hitters are not making any adjustments to the Southern Miss pitching staff."

Guards step up in Nixon's absence

Foul trouble forces Nixon to the bench

By Alex McNamee

Sophomore guard Ta'Kenya Nixon only played 26 minutes in Thursday's overtime win against Tennessee-Martin, sitting on the bench for a long time with foul trouble.

With Nixon in foul trouble, sophomore guard Kelsey Wyss and freshmen guards Jordyne Crunk and Jessica Parker stepped up and played double digit minutes each.

Wyss led the team with 43 minutes. Crunk played 36 minutes and Parker played 16. The three combined to score 31 points, led by Wyss' 21.

Eastern head coach Brady Sallee said the guards did a good job of stepping in for Nixon, especially against talented guards for the Skyhawks such as Jasmine Newsome and Heather Butler.

"I can't say enough about the job that those kids did," Sallee said.

The defensive efforts of Wyss and Crunk especially were felt in the second half as they held Newsome to only five points in the second, after she had scored 14 in the first half.

Defensively, Crunk had one block and two steals in the game, while Wyss had one of each.

"It's tough when you're playing without a leader and you've depended on her to do so much," Sallee said. "It would've been so easy for us to have an excuse (to lose)."

The Panthers played from behind for most of the game, until grabbing and holding on to the lead in overtime.

Crunk's shot ties game

With 59 seconds left in regulation, the Panthers trailed by three points until Crunk stepped up for a three-point shot and drained it.

Despite Crunk having been 0-of-3 from beyond the arc in the game, the ball found her hands. Wyss said she had total confidence in her.

"She doesn't play like a freshman," Sallee said. "She can shoot and she knows she can. I'm proud of her."

Crunk scored four points in the game to go along with eight assists and four rebounds. In place of Nixon, who was in foul trouble, Sallee said Crunk played a major role in the game's outcome.

"What Jordyne Crunk did in that role is the story of the game," Sallee said.

Nixon finishes game despite fouls

Sallee said there was no doubt Nixon was frustrated throughout Thursday's game as she found herself on the bench with three fouls for a long period of time. Once she got back in the game, she committed her fourth foul.
