Dean Lowell defends CAA athletic proposal

by Karen Kunz

An academic dean Monday denied that a proposal passed by the Council on Academic Affairs recently was initiated in order to raise athletes' grades.

Walter Lowell, dean of the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, said a statement he made during a CAA meeting Thursday was taken out of context as reported Friday in the Eastern News.

The CAA passed the proposal Thursday which will allow students to repeat physical education courses 0010, 0030, 0070, 0120, 0140, 0150, 0160 and 0180 a maximum of eight times and courses 0020, 0040, 0050, 0060, 0090, 0100 and 1000 a maximum of four times.

Lowell said the CAA spent about 40 minutes discussing the proposal but only "a few of those minutes were spent discussing the grade part."

Lowell said he had been asked by a CAA member if the new system would not in effect raise the grade point averages of the athletes.

"I said eight hours of an A certainly wouldn't hurt but it wouldn't help much towards graduation either," Lowell said.

Under the proposal any course repeated will not count towards the 120 hours required for graduation.

"The grade inflation concern was incidental," Lowell said. "The main reason for the proposal was to change something that crept up on us."

Lowell said he had been contacted by Eastern Registrar Jim Martin who told him records indicated students were repeating courses and getting credit for them, a policy which is not permitted according to the catalog.

Lowell said he took this information to Vice President for Academic Affairs Thomas Bond and suggested that students who are participating in intercollegiate athletics be allowed to sign up for the courses more than once but only receive credit towards graduation for the initial enrollment.

Bond agreed to the suggestion, Lowell said, and suggested that Lowell talk to persons in the health, physical education and recreation department to get their responses.

"I didn't get much response but what I did get was supportive," Lowell said.

"These young people involved in varsity sports put in a lot of time for one hour of credit. I think it's nice for them to be able to see it on their

School of Education shows weaknesses

by Marsha Hausser

(Editor's note: This is the last of a six-part series—an analysis of Eastern's teacher education program.)

Even though Eastern has prepared quality teachers for 84 years, the teacher education program still has a few weaknesses.

A new 100-hour clinical experience requirement should be an asset, Ron Leathers, director of clinical experiences, said.

However, currently a discrepancy exists between the number of hours required for secondary education majors and elementary and special education majors in clinical experience.

Secondary education majors usually get less than 30 hours of experience periences at all Illinois universities, the quality of the experiences will also be limited.

Since clinical experiences prepare the student for student teaching, the expanded requirement will better prepare student teachers.

Some Eastern graduates back up this belief, based on their own experiences.

Curtis Richardson, a 1978 graduate, said he was not prepared to student teach because he said he had not participated in enough clinical experiences.

Rochelle Koester, who is currently student teaching, also said a variety of clinical experiences in schools would improve the student teaching experience.

Student teaching is the part of teacher preparation which "synthesizes" everything the student has learned about teaching, Harry Merigis, dean of the school of education, said.

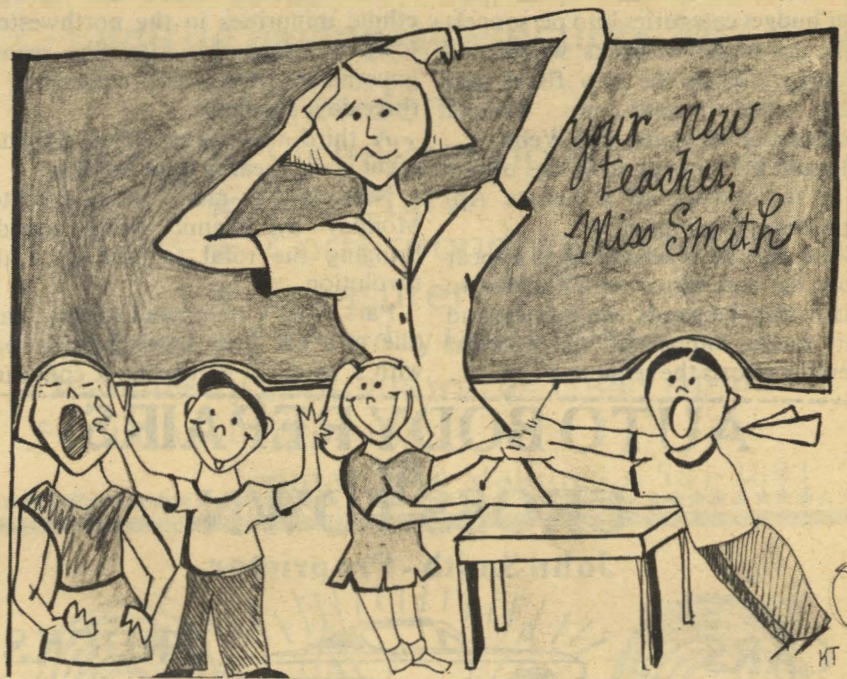

Although it is one of the most important aspects of teacher training, it is often the most apprehensive stage for students. Students often fear their first "real" teaching experience, Merigis said.

The fear of not knowing enough about their specific subject haunts many prospective student teachers. But Merigis said the fear is usually unfounded because the student underestimates himself.

However, providing more clinical experiences both in and out of class, students will have more experience in a classroom situation. They would be able to boost their confidence, making their student teaching more profitable.

Although not separate from the rest of the education school, special education is an entity with unique problems.

Marilyn Faris, coordinator for special education, said special problems occur because of lack of students with specific handicaps for Eastern students to work with.

Through off-campus programs coordinated in Champaign and Danville, students are exposed to a variety of handicapped children, which is a positive step.

An additional plus is the expansion of special education into a separate department. The opportunity in the department is great for growth now

The program has a chance to compete with some of the top schools in Illinois for quality in special education.

Competition, while not necessarily the name of the game in education, is important especially when graduates are looking for jobs.

Although there are a few problems within the school of education, the steps being taken to strengthen the program will only serve to benefit Eastern students as future teachers.

Saudis break relations with Egypt

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi Arabia decided Monday to break diplomatic relations with Egypt in compliance with the Baghdad Arab summit decision last month to impose sanctions against the Cairo government, the official Saudi news agency reported.

The sanctions are intended to punish President Anwar Sadat for signing a peace treaty with Israel.

The agency said the decision was taken at a Cabinet meeting in Riyadh under Deputy Premier Prince Abdallah bin Abdul Aziz, also commander of the Saudi national guard.

Kuwait announced earlier Monday that it had broken diplomatic relations with Egypt for the same reason.

compared to the 100 hours elementary and special education students usually get.

Although Ron Gholson of the secondary education and foundations department said he did not think students suffered because of this discrepancy, the students will benefit when the 100-hour requirement goes into effect this fall.

Signs point to SALT talk end

WASHINGTON — President Carter returned to work Monday amid indications there might be an announcement by week's end of a treaty with the Soviet Union to limit strategic nuclear weapons.

But White House and State Department officials said the long-expected arms accord was not yet wrapped up.

These officials, who declined to be identified, said the Russians would like to have all major issues settled before announcing a summit meeting between Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

"There are things that are of substance still undecided," one official said.

The U.S. position is that if there is general agreement on the major treaty provisions, Carter and Brezhnev could apply some of the finishing touches at the summit in late May.

Layoffs possible for law officials

SPRINGFIELD — More than half the state law enforcement department's employees face possible one-month layoffs, and state police could be cut back to four-day weeks in June, unless lawmakers provide more money before May 1, agency officials said Monday.

Department Director Dan Webb said he needs $2.2 million more for salaries to continue operating on full schedule for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30.

He said the department needs an extra $670,000 in payroll money for this year, and the power to transfer $1.54 million in available dollars from other budget categories into personnel.

The proposed cutbacks would end on July 1, when the new fiscal year begins, and would not hamper protection of residents, said Webb.

He said the cutback plan was drawn up at the request of a Senate Appropriations Committee.

Webb said he is scheduled to appear before the committee on Thursday to explain why he needs the money and what would happen if the General Assembly rejects the request.

Mystery illness strikes students

EAST ST. LOUIS — Public health officials were making tests Monday in an attempt to determine the cause of an illness which hit a number of high school children and two adults late Sunday.

The victims, members of the Owensboro, Ky., High School band, were aboard three buses heading home from a day at Six Flags Mid America amusement park near Eureka, Mo., when they became ill, authorities said.

Doctors disagreed on the probable cause of the illness, saying it was either carbon monoxide poisoning or food poisoning.

Two of the buses went to St. Mary's Hospital here where 20 students were treated for headaches, nausea, stomach pains and "nervousness," according to hospital spokesmen.

Preliminary investigations indicated carbon monoxide poisoning, the spokesman said.

Iranian official killed by gunmen

TEHRAN, Iran — Gunmen killed a high-ranking military officer of the new government Monday in the first assassination of a major figure of the revolution.

Gen. Mohammad Vali Gharani, the former army chief of staff, was shot in his garden and died during surgery.

New fighting broke out between ethnic minorities in the northwestern town of Naghadeh after the second government-sponsored cease-fire in three days collapsed.

A third truce was called Monday night and appeared to be holding.

Nine more men were executed Monday by Islamic firing squads, bringing the total to 158 since the revolution.

Pars, Iran's state news agency, said one attacker held bystanders at bay with a machine gun while a colleague scaled the outer wall of the garden and shot Gharani.

The general was forced to resign March 27 after he failed to convince troops who deserted during the revolution to return to their barracks.

No group has claimed responsibility for his death. He assassins escaped.

26 new counts levied on Gacy

CHICAGO—John W. Gacy Jr. was indicted Monday on another 26 counts of murder in the deaths of young men and boys he is accused of having homosexual relations with.

The indictments handed down against Gacy by a Cook County grand jury now total 33.

Only nine of the 26 victims listed in the latest indictments have been identified.

In total, 17 of the 33 victims haven't been identified.

The previous indictments against Gacy, 37, were handed down Jan. 8 and included the death of Robert Piest, 15, of suburban Des Plaines. The youth's disappearance on Dec. 11 first led police to Gacy, who lived in an unincorporated area just northwest of Chicago.

Carter critical of tax loopholes

WASHINGTON — President Carter contended Monday an effort is being made "to hoodwink the American people" by building loopholes into his proposed oil profits tax to enrich the oil industry.

In his text for an address at the National Academy of Sciences, Carter was sharply critical of proposals to amend his tax plan to shelter from taxation "windfall" profits ploughed back into exploration and development of oil resources.

The president argued that adoption of a "ploughback" amendment would actually be a "kickback" that would give oil companies "another $4 billion or $5 billion in unearned profits on top of the $6 billion they would get under oil price decontrol with an honest windfall profits tax."

Carter said his tax proposal was making progress because it had public support.

As a result, he went on, many opponents had abandoned a fight to kill the tax and adopted a new strategy that would "hoodwink the American people by passing a windfall profits tax that is in fact a charade."

Official defends nuclear decision

WASHINGTON — Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh said Monday that he believes he acted correctly in deciding against evacuating tens of thousands of people from the vicinity of the Three Mile Island nuclear accident.

"I could not in good conscience have ordered such a step with the facts at my disposal," he said.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee, Thornburgh also said the crisis makes him doubt the country should continue to rely on nuclear power as a significant source of energy.

"I have doubts about the future of nuclear power in our society," he said, "as well as the widely held assumption that we can't meet our energy needs in other ways."

Man suspected in strangler case

LOS ANGELES — Police Chief Daryl Gates said Monday that authorities will seek murder charges this week in the Hillside Strangler case against a man now held in a Bellingham, Wash., jail on similar charges.

Gates said charges would be sought from the district attorney against Kenneth Bianchi, 27, who authorities had previously said lived or worked near to where at least five of the 13 Hillside Strangler victims were last seen alive.

Gates said the case authorities will submit to the district attorney includes 10 of the 13 murders that occurred between September 1977 and February 1978.

Court levies fines against Eastern students

Eastern freshman football player Barney Spates was fined $100 plus court costs Wednesday after he was found guilty of aggravated battery by a Coles County jury last February.

Spates was found guilty of striking junior Russell S. Eastin in a scuffle last October in Carmen Hall as a result of the February court decision.

Judge Thomas Burke denied two motions made by Spates' attorney John E. Elder for a new trial and arrest of 768 Carmen Hall and Dale L. Goad, 19, also of 768 Carmen Hall, entered a negotiated plea of possession of controlled substances. They were accused of possessing LSD and oxycodone, an opiate, last November.

They were placed on two years probation and each ordered to pay $500 fines. Marijuana possession charges against the two were dropped.

transcripts that they have been recognized for their hard work," Lowell said.

He added that students in sports that overlap semesters, such as wrestling, would be able to receive eight hours of credit for their participation in varsity sports.

However, those same persons would only have one of those hours count towards graduation requirements, Lowell said.

"A wrestler will graduate with 127 hours of credit and a football player will graduate with 123 hours," he said. "Most people will only get four hours of credit."

Herb Lasky, CAA chairman, also said Monday the emphasis on raising the grades of the athletes was a mistake.

"It doesn't count towards graduation so what's the difference?" he said.

"I am not sympathetic towards grade inflation, just ask my students. It was not the impression that I got that that's what they were doing it for," he added.

Another CAA member, Steve Whitley of the zoology department, also said the emphasis was misplaced.

"Lowell made one passing comment about the grades. The whole thing of grade inflation was not of consideration with this item," he said. "They were just trying to get their books cleaned up."

"It really doesn't do anything for grades. When you consider the dilution effect, four hours out of 120, there isn't any contention," he added.

Hardee's plan criticized

by Melinda DeVries

University Union Area Head Bill Clark told Union Board members Monday there is no "magic" in a proposal to replace the Panther Lair with a Hardee's franchise.

President Daniel E. Marvin has seen the proposal made by Hardee's and said that he thought it was too "open ended," Clark said.

"If there had been a benefit we would have been pleased, but since there is no benefit neither Marvin nor I were excited about the proposal," Clark said.

"We were looking for a way to drastically improve the Panther Lair and make a profit of $40 to $50 a month, and the proposal that Hardee's made did not meet up to our expectations," Clark said.

"Maybe since there is no magic in this, I think we should think about putting this off until the consultants get here," Clark said.

The Union Board is now in the process of hiring three consultants to advise ways to improve the Union.

Only two consultants have returned resumes, Clark said.

Shooting charges not filed

Richard L. Walker, 34, of Charleston was listed in fair condition at Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center after being shot Friday, a hospital spokesman said Monday.

Walker and James L. Corn of Fairgrange were both allegedly involved in a shooting incident that took place downtown Friday night in the parking lot of the Charleston National Bank. Walker was shot in the abdomen and Corn was shot in the hand and was treated and released from Sarah Bush after the incident.

Assistant State's Attorney Jim Dedman said that according to police reports the incident stemmed from an argument in a bar on Monroe Street, but he would not specify which bar.

He added that no charges have been filed yet and that witnesses and the victims are still being questioned.

"We're still gathering information to see whether charges will be brought in and what they might be," Dedman said.

He said more information on the incident would be available later.

For the record

The schedule for students who will complete pre-registration for inter-session and/or summer term is according to student's last names and not their first names as was reported Monday in the Eastern News.

Also, freshman Dan Hunnicutt's platform for the Student Senate Residence Hall District Friday was mistakenly placed with the platforms for the At-Large District.

The News regrets the errors.

EditorialCouncil should keep eye on Liberty's action

Liberty Cable TV's efforts to improve its programming are welcome but late in coming.

The cable television system has been under fire recently from the Charleston City Council because the system has failed to keep up with modern technology and because it has not given its subscribers the stations and programming they want.

Last week, the company took tangible steps to meet some of those customer demands, including setting up the equipment that will allow subscribers to receive three more stations.

Liberty's customers should be more satisfied now. They now receive Chicago, Atlanta, and New York stations which will broadcast a wide variety of sports, movies and network programming.

However, Liberty's management should have taken these steps long ago. Had the station moved before, it would not now be in danger of having its license revoked or of facing a competing company in Charleston.

One of the options the City Council was strongly considering was to grant a license to another company. We urge the council to continue looking into that option.

Liberty has taken the initial action needed to improve its service. The system now needs to be carefully watched to ensure that this beginning improvement does not end.

By continuing to look at other cable companies, the council will show Liberty that its expectations will not be fulfilled by this first action.

Liberty must have an impetus to keep its quality and service up to the council's standards.

One other point we would add is that Eastern students and administration should keep alive the possibility of forming an Eastern-local station. Liberty has said such a station would be forced to share with another station. All avenues should be considered, however, before giving up hope on an Eastern-run television station.

The city's poll of residents showed that area viewers are concerned about what they watch. We share that concern. We hope to see the council maintain its vigilance on the station and to see the station respond by improving even more.

Editor,

We, as the state of Illinois, may not need ERA on the basis of Article 1, Section 18 of the Illinois Constitution; but we, the women of the United States of America, do.

If Illinois supports the spirit of Section 18, it would not deny women from other states equal rights under the law.

In not passing ERA, Illinois has shown that the equal rights offered by the Illinois Constitution is a mockery.

Disco dupe

Editor,

I believe that the distinguished Mr. Clark will lose more of his much acquired popularity if he decides to open a disco in the Rathskeller.

I don't believe students can enjoy disco music without alcohol to accompany it. By the way, disco is the real reason for the headaches in the morning, not alcohol.

The Rathskeller has a pleasant atmosphere that many people enjoy. The one- and two-man appearances are entertainment enough.

Maybe Mr. Clark just likes to dance.

If he must disco down, would it be possible to set up the sound system and lights in the old ballroom? The old ballroom has worked well in the past for organizations holding dances.

Why not try to fix up a big empty room instead of ruining the Rathskeller which is finally gaining popularity the way it is?

If Mr. Clark doesn't like that idea maybe he should go to Fast Ed's disco and mingle with people who might enjoy his company.

Please leave the Rathskeller the way it is.

Rob Conforti
Bill Schade

Social bird

Editor,

I continue to be amazed at Congressman Daniel Crane of Danville. He constantly flaunts his lack of knowledge on a host of subjects.

Several examples were included in newspaper reports of an April 16 public meeting held by Crane in Mattoon.

For example, Crane admitted that he was not too familiar with a bill he has co-sponsored -- a bill which would repeal the Davis-Bacon Act. Crane said he "just skimmed" the measures in question.

Crane also once again totally distorted the meaning of the word "socialism," a word he uses often to describe things he opposes.

Crane said he is against President Carter's proposed excess profits tax on additional oil company profits to be derived if deregulation of oil becomes effective.

Crane said Carter not only wants to tax the excess oil profits but also wants to tell oil companies "how they can spend what they keep."

The congressman went on to say that if the government is allowed to do this "that's socialism."

I'm afraid that Crane has no idea whatever of what socialism is. Socialism is basically one of two things: 1. Control of business and industry by the workers in that business or industry, or, 2. ownership by a democratically-elected government. In my opinion, most American socialists support the first alternative.

Regulation of privately owned business (while allowing huge profits for a relatively few persons) is definitely not socialism, as Crane has implied. A socialist would never want to allow huge profits to be reaped by investors who don't even work in the industry.

A true socialist would be interested in making the American economy democratic through worker control.

No response

Editor,

To all student groups requesting guest speakers:

Two weeks ago, student Laura Funk called me to request that I speak to Psi Chi, the professional psychology group. She was drawing together a week long, nightly series of lectures centered around children.

I was scheduled to speak Monday evening at 7 p.m.

When I expressed some concern about the evening being the last night of Easter break, I was assured that this would be no problem and that there would be many interested students in attendance.

Monday afternoon, I set aside time to prepare materials on the Influence of Deafness on Children's Development. Monday evening at 7 p.m. one student arrived. At 7:15 p.m., the second and also the last student appeared.

I have often heard students complain about staff not being available for consultation during the day and/or not showing an interest in students beyond the classroom.

In light of what occurred at the Psi Chi meeting and, previously, at another professional student meeting, I can fully understand staff not responding positively to student requests.

Had I been a lecturer selected from outside of the university, Eastern would have received some very bad publicity.

As it was, I had no adviser there to complain to, so I am writing to you students to express my anger and my reluctance to participate in this type of function again.

If I do, I will charge a fee to cover my preparation time, lecture time and transportation costs.

Nancy A. Weiler

Volunteer

Editor,

"Everybody complains about the weather, but nobody does anything about it."

You hear that kind of statement about a lot of subjects these days--care for the mentally retarded, senior citizens, help for people during a crisis, day care for working parents, fighting drug addiction and alcoholism.

You might be interested to know, however, that there is a large segment of America that is doing more than just talking about problems. Volunteers are one of our country's greatest resources.

Voluntarism fills an important role that government should not. Many people do not realize the strength and breadth of the voluntary sector.

A Census Bureau study found that one out of four Americans contribute his time as a volunteer.

These concerned citizens donate an average of nine hours a week to their communities, in everything from church work to Little League to helping with Girl and Boy Scouts. Another study has estimated the value of this voluntary service at more than $34 billion annually.

These people obviously are not impressed by the current talk about the "Me Generation," or even by the adage of "Let George Do It." They are just people who care, and who are willing to make that little extra effort to do something for their neighbors and their community.

April 22-28 is National Volunteer Week, a time for recognizing these efforts. If you are one of that 37 million, our congratulations and thanks for a job well done. If you're not, why not give it a try?

Two slots open for England trip

by Yvonne Beeler

Fifteen ambassadors from Eastern will travel to Sheffield, England this summer to participate in an overseas study program for student teachers.

However, two slots are still open in the program as only 13 people have turned in applications, Robert Zabka, student teaching director, said Thursday.

Students and faculty representing Eastern will be involved in seminars and lectures at the University of Sheffield in areas of child guidance, career education, psychology, adult education and speech therapy, Zabka said.

The program is designed to allow participants to share ideas in language art groups and reading groups with English schools, Zabka added.

The career program is scheduled from July 8 to July 21. During this time, the group will discuss and share ideas in the English classrooms, Zabka said.

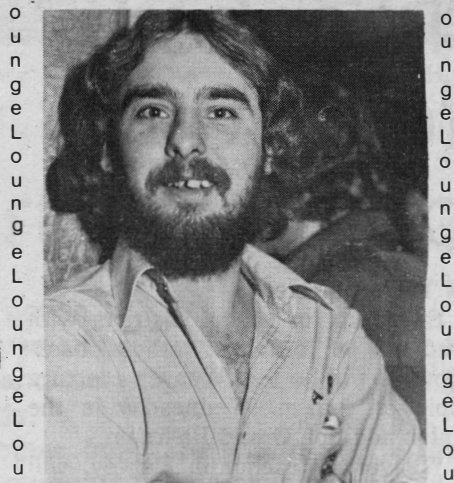

After the study program, the participants will join an international group of young adults and tour eight European Countries for three weeks, Zabka said.

The cost of the trip is $1,300, which includes tuition, four semester hours of graduate work, travel, room and board while studying, and three meals a day while travelling in Europe, Zabka said.

More information may be obtained from the Student Teaching Office or the Continuing Education Office, Zabka added.

May 15 is the deadline for filling the last two reservations, he said.

British excavation planned

June 1 is the deadline for applications for volunteer work on an archaeological dig in England.

Arthur Daitch, a spokesman for AAD Associates, an organization working with the Association for Cultural Exchange, said some experience is necessary to qualify for the expedition.

Sites for the dig include Northampton, medieval city, and the Anglo-Saxon cemetery in Norfolk.

A resume and college transcript should be sent to AAD Associates, P.O. Box 3927, Amity Station, New Haven, Conn., 06525, he said.

The Cambridge Committee of Awards in Cambridge, England will determine acceptance, Daitch added.

The program is entirely voluntary. Students will receive free room and board but must provide their own transportation to England and back Daitch said.

The Association for Cultural Exchange is also offering a course in British archaeology for students with no experience Daitch said.

The three-part course offered in England, includes a seminar in Chichester, England, an on-site digging experience and academic work in London.

The class costs $800 and students can earn up to six academic credits.

Scholarships of up to $400 are available based on need Daitch said.

The course runs from July 27 to August 17.

Jazz Band I to give concert

Eastern's Jazz Band I will perform their final on-campus concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Dvorak Concert Hall, Allen Horney of the music department said Monday.

Highlights of the concert will be a violin concerto with jazz arrangements, which will be performed by Ronald Kogen of the music department, Horney added.

"We Deliver"

Eastern students assume legislative roles

by Mary Herrmann

Eight Eastern students attended the first Model State Legislature Program in Springfield April 5 through 7, Peter Leigh of the political science department said recently.

Students assumed the roles of legislators for the three-day period, Leigh said.

There were 170 students from around the state who attended the program, Leigh said. The students actually took the role of a state representative from one of the 59 districts, he said.

Secretary of State Alan Dixon delivered the keynote address Friday. Several Illinois senators spoke about aspects of the general assembly, Leigh said.

"A big plus for Eastern" was that Murphy Hart, an Eastern representative, was elected speaker of the house, Leigh said.

Hart said he thought the program went very well.

"It was just like the real thing," he said.

Eastern student Betsy Holmes also represented Eastern at the program as a democrat from the 27th district.

Students were divided up into six committees. Eastern was represented on each committee to study various bills.

Besides Hart and Holmes, other representatives for Eastern included seniors Karen Asmus and Larry Vest, sophomore Mark Bartholomew, juniors Jim Borschell and Jackie Motley and graduate student Bill Bukowski.

Among the bills discussed were the new drinking age bill and an energy conservation bill, Holmes said.

On Saturday, each bill that had been discussed was voted on, Hart added.

Students who attended this year's program had to pay their own expenses, Leigh said, partly because this is the first year that Eastern has attended.

He would like to see institutional funding pay for at least part of the trip next year, he said.

The university paid the $50 registration fee, but each student had to pay for his own lodging and food, Leigh said.

Eastern is now in the process of forming a Model State Legislature Organization for interested students, Leigh said.

Director to be named

A new director of student teaching for Eastern should be named soon, Harry Merigis, dean of the School of Education, said Thursday.

Merigis said he was waiting for Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin and Vice President for Academic Affairs Thomas Bond to approve a recommendation.

However, Marvin said Tuesday he had approved a recommendation by Merigis to appoint Francis Summers of the psychology department to replace Robert Zabka, current director of student teaching.

Zabka will retire from his administrative duties at the end of this semester but will continue to teach part-time for five years.

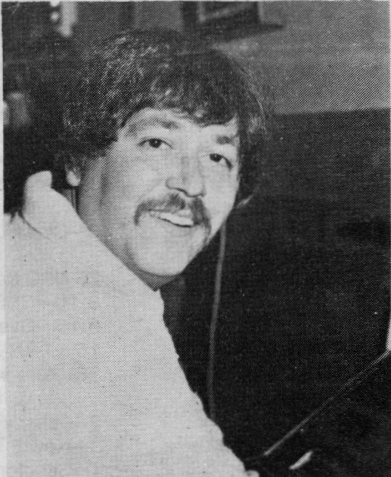

Merigis said he had not received any word from Marvin on the recommendation but would make the appointment as soon as he received the word.

"I am anxious to receive word (from Marvin and Bond)," Merigis said. The new director of student teaching and Merigis "will have to get together to outline specific objectives that must be met."

"The new director will be taking over this summer, so he has to know ahead of time how to run his office," Merigis said.

BOG discusses Fry suit

Members of the Board of Governors met in executive session Wednesday night to discuss a lawsuit filed against them but made no decision on their stand, a BOG official said Thursday.

Donald Walters, executive director of the board, said, "Our legal counsel is just in receipt of the notice from the federal marshal serving us with the suit."

The American Civil Liberties Union filed the suit last week in the federal court in Danville for Eastern junior Mary Fry, the Christian Collegiate Fellowship and the Christian Campus House.

The suit filed against four Eastern administrators and the BOG charges that Eastern's enforcement of the freshman-sophomore housing policy discriminates against religious groups.

Fry's request to move into the CCF's Covenant House as a second-semester sophomore was denied last spring.

Walters said the board's notice of the suit is currently being evaluated by its legal counsel, who will present a report "probably within the next week or so."

"I don't know exactly what our position will be," he added.

In other business, the BOG Thursday approved guidelines for distribution of fiscal year 1980 civil service and administration personnel salary increases.

The classes cost $15 per family and can be paid at the first meeting. To register for the clinic or for more information, call Hutton at 345-2278 or at 258-2278.

ACC vs. Big 10, who's better?

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Arguments about which collegiate conference is better in basketball are "silly...because they all play different kinds of ball," says Duke forward Kenny Dennard.

"The only similarity between us (the Atlantic Coast Conference) and the Big Ten teams is that we all play basketball."

Nearly 70 players from all over the nation were here this past week for tryouts for the U.S. Pan American Games team. The friendly arguments were inevitable.

The Big Ten's supremacy "explains itself," said Ohio State center Herb Williams.

"Michigan State won the NCAA, and Indiana and Purdue were 1-2 in the NIT and we were fourth. That says it all right there. Besides we're a tougher conference."

But Dennard, who was out with a sprained right ankle in Duke's early loss to St. John's in the NCAA tournament, said, "If you want to say one conference is better than another, then fine. I just don't see any way you can compare us with the Big Ten."

Dennard's teammate, Mike Gminski, said the ACC "took a lot of criticism this year, mainly because we and North Carolina got knocked out of the NCAA. If you look at the past, we've been strong every year. The ACC has some of the best basketball around."

"We'll have a tough team next year," Gminski said. "We've got four new guys who are very good players.

They're going to give us a new look. But only time will tell."

Dennard, who said he considered the Blue Devils 22-9 season a success, said the 1978-79 campaign "was a good year for the Big Ten. But I don't see why the ACC should feel it lost any prestige just because it had rough luck in the tourney."

The tryouts, conducted by Indiana coach Bobby Knight, who will guide the U.S. team in the Pan American Games in July, ran Wednesday through Sunday. A selection committee headed by North Carolina's Dean Smith will pick the 12-member U.S. squad.

Players not selected for the Pan Am games may be invited to represent the United States in other international competition this summer.

NBA playoffs resume Tuesday

by the Associated Press

The defending champion Washington Bullets are in position to lead the way to the next rung up the National Basketball Association playoff ladder when they host the Atlanta Hawks Tuesday night in Game Five of their Eastern Conference semi-final.

With the Bullets leading the best-of-seven series 3-1, a victory on their Landover, Md., court would put them into the conference finals, and the semi-finals of the overall playoff picture.

Seattle and San Antonio also are within one victory of reaching their conference finals. But the SuperSonics, with a 3-1 lead on the Los Angeles Lakers in the Western Conference, don't get a chance to go for the clincher until Wednesday night. And the Spurs, leading the Philadelphia 76ers 3-1 in the Eastern Conference, will have to wait until Thursday night, when their series resumes.

Seattle and San Antonio share Washington's good fortune of the homecourt advantage in their bids to wind up their current series.

The fourth playoff matchup, between the Kansas City Kings and the Phoenix Suns, resumes Wednesday night in Kansas City with the Suns leading 2-1.

Comfortable but not confident is the way Bobby Dandridge described the Bullets' mood as they prepare for what could be the finale of their series with the Hawks.

"Atlanta is not a normal team," Dandridge said. "You never know what to expect of them." He explained that what happened in the fourth game Sunday in Atlanta might deflate another team, but he wasn't looking for that to happen to the spirited Hawks.

Dandridge played a key role in what happened—Washington won 120-118 in overtime—as he came alive with 15 points in the fourth period, including a basket that tied the score 109-109 with seven seconds to play.

Enough time still remained for Atlanta to pull out the victory, but Eddie Johnson then appeared to take a nap at the top of the circle as he waited to set up the play for the final basket. He finally threw the ball to Tom McMillen in a corner, but McMillen's virtually hopeless shot coincided with two zeroes flashing on the scoreboard to signal the end of regulation time.

"We said three Hail Marys," recalled Washington Coach Dick Motta about the interval when Johnson apparently was debating with himself as the final seconds ticked off in regulation time.

Basketball theology was credited, too, for putting Seattle in position to polish off the Lakers. Norm Nixon described as "a prayer" the desperate 20-foot jumper he hit at the buzzer Sunday in Los Angeles to give the Sonics their 117-115 victory. Seattle had lost almost all of its 10-point lead in the closing moments.

"This playoff is not over," insisted Lakers' Coach Jerry West, despite the pressurized position in which Los Angeles finds itself. "Our players don't think it's over."

Mumphrey leads Cards past Atlanta in 10 innings

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry Mumphrey's two-out single drove in Tony Scott with the winning run in the 10th inning Monday night as the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2.

Scott beat out a two-out infield single off knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 1-4, then stole second and went to third when catcher Dale Murphy's throw sailed into center field. Mumphrey then lined his single just over the outstretched glove of shortstop Pepe Frias. The victory went to reliever Mark Littell, 2-0.

The Cardinals spoiled Niekro's bid for a shutout and his 199th career victory with a two-run rally in the ninth on RBI singles by Bernie Carbo and Garry Templeton.

Gary Matthews and Jeff Burroughs hit solo homers off St. Louis starter Pete Vuckovich.

DOONESBURY

GOVERNOR BROWN, WHY WILL YOU ONLY ANNOUNCE A "CONTEXT" FOR YOUR CANDIDACY?

THIS IS AN ERA OF LIMITATIONS. I DON'T THINK PEOPLE WANT FORMAL DECLARATIONS ANYMORE.

WILL THAT APPLY TO YOUR PROGRAM AS WELL?

IN THE ELECTRONIC GLOBAL VILLAGE, PROGRAMS ARE UN-IMPORTANT. THEY'RE JUST WORDS. APPEARANCES ARE THE NEW REALITY.

THEN IT'S TRUE THAT YOUR IDEA OF A SOCIAL WORKER IS A T.V. REPAIR-MAN?

I DON'T THINK THAT QUESTION RISES TO THE LEVEL OF WHAT-EVER NETWORK YOU FRONT FOR.

GOVERNOR, IF WE WERE TO TURN OFF THE CAMERAS, WOULD YOU EXIST?

I DON'T WANT TO SPECULATE ON THAT.

Softballers to host twin-bill with Illinois State

Spaulding's second paces golfers to 4th place finish

MACOMB—Led by Kelly Spaulding's second place tie, Eastern's golfers nabbed fourth place in the Western Invitational Saturday.

The Panthers' four-man squad totaled 307 strokes at the Western Illinois course for fourth among the 13 teams in the meet.

Southern Illinois-Edwardsville won the title with a 300-stroke total. Western was next with 303, and Bradley was third with 304.

Pacing Eastern's performance was Spaulding, who shot a 73, one stroke behind the individual medalist Jim Thimes of Bradley.

Matching Spaulding's score was SIU-E's Mark Hofsetter and Western's

Terry Govern. Govern won a sudden death playoff for the second place honors.

Close behind Spaulding was Eastern's Brett Voisin, who had a 74 round. Other Panther scorers were Steve Spitler, who had a 79 and Marty Robinson, who shot an 81.

Steve Repogle had an 83-stroke score, but only the top four golfers figured in the team scoring.

Eastern will travel to Decatur Tuesday for a dual match against Millikin.

On Friday and Saturday the Panthers will compete in the Southern Illinois-Edwardsville Invitational.

Barring a continuance of Monday's rain, the women's softball team will host Illinois State in a doubleheader at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

"They're a pretty aggressive little team," head coach Melinda Fischer said of the Redbirds. "They beat Western 4-0, and we've played Western twice without scoring a run. They could be tough."

The Panthers will be lucky to get the games in at all. Tuesday's forecast predicts more of the same weather that cancelled Monday's twin bill with Illinois Central College.

Fischer said she hopes to reschedule the ICC games for Thursday in Peoria. If that doesn't work out, the games will not be played, Fischer said.

A rainout or double loss Tuesday could cripple Eastern's chances for a favorable seeding in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) state tournament. Seedings are based on a team's won-lost record against in-state teams. Eastern, 14-6 overall, is 3-4 against Illinois teams with six in-state games to play.

Fischer said she was confident Eastern would be invited to the eight-team, double elimination tournament, but acknowledged that it would take a superior performance by the Panthers this week to improve their seeding.

After Tuesday's doubleheader, Eastern faces Western Illinois and Northern Illinois in twin bills this weekend in Macomb. Eastern has failed twice this season against WIU, losing by identical 3-0 scores.

Fischer said her team will be suffering from no lack of confidence when it faces Western this weekend.

"We feel we can beat Western," Fischer said. "We just haven't done it yet. Maybe we'll wait for the tournament."

Eddy strengthens team, signs 6-foot point guard

Eastern head basketball coach Don Eddy has taken another step toward strengthening his already talent-laden team by signing a junior college guard.

Eddy announced Monday that he had signed Warren Patton, a 6-foot point guard from Westark Junior College in Fort Smith, Ark. to a scholarship.

Patton averaged 13 points a game for Westark, while shooting 54 percent from the field and 81 percent from the free throw line.

In Patton's first season at Westark, the Lions were 26-10 and reached the national finals at Hutchinson, Kan. Last season Patton led Westark to a 25-8 mark and a spot in the regional championship game.

Patton was named to the All-Region (Oklahoma and Arkansas) team and to the All-Conference team in his sophomore season.

Patton has also gained some honors off the basketball floor, being named to the dean's list, and being named "Mr. Student Body" this year.

Eddy seems very enthused about having Patton in the fold.

"He's a complete player, and has a great mind for the game," Eddy said.

"His potential for giving us strong leadership was a big factor in our decision to sign him," Eddy said.

Football schedule most appealing in history

For the first time in Eastern athletic history, people are actually interested in football in the middle of April.

I mean, when almost 300 people show up to watch an intrasquad scrimmage on the practice field two weeks ago, that tells me someone is interested.

Watching the intrasquad game at Robinson Saturday night was enough to get ready for next season. One look at next season's schedule should be enough to pump any Panther football fan up.

Eastern has seven, count 'em seven, home games set for next fall. Plus two more games are within easy driving distance, at Illinois State and at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

Think of that, nine chances to watch the defending national champions go for their second straight national crown.

The Panthers will be, without a doubt, the number one ranked team in the country at the start of the season. And with the first three games in the friendly confines of O'Brien Field against South Dakota, Butler, and Wayne State, the national polls should keep Eastern on top through the first few weeks.

After a game against Northeast Missouri in Kirksville, the Panthers take on SIU on September 29. Look for a great game between interstate rivals, and look for ABC Television to be there to do a regional game. Both schools have a lot of alumni in two of the nation's largest TV markets, Chicago and St. Louis, so that should be quite an appealing game for the network.

Five of the six Mid-Continent Conference games are at home, including Youngstown State on November 3 in a Parent's Weekend contest. Youngstown won't want to beat Eastern TOO badly next season will they?

Northern Michigan is the homecoming opponent for the Panthers on October 20, and Akron visits for the regular season finale on November 17.

Unless the Panthers completely collapse, there should be an eighth home game on November 24, a first round NCAA playoff game.

With this kind of a schedule and the amount of talent that the Panthers have, it is unlikely that they will not end up in the playoffs.

The site of next season's Division II national championship game is Albuquerque, N.M. I haven't made any hotel reservations yet, but I have a feeling that Eastern will once again be represented when the championship game begins.
