Dorm leases may require longer stay

by Maureen Foertsch

Eastern's on-campus students will be forced to remain in their residence halls both semesters if a proposal for the use of a two-semester housing contract receives approval from the Board of Governors in April.

Director of Housing Lou Hencken said, "If the BOG approves, beginning in the fall students will be signing a two-semester housing contract."

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams and Eastern's Residence Hall Association approved the housing committee's two-semester housing contract proposal last month, Hencken said.

The two-semester housing contract is a part of a rate package the housing committee designed to keep the increase in the cost of housing for next year relatively low, he added.

Hencken said he expects the BOG to approve the entire rate package.

"If we would not have passed the rate package, we would have been forced to raise housing fees by $100," Hencken said, adding that next year's housing fees will increase by $56.

"Our number one goal is to keep the cost of housing as low as possible and we decided that one way to keep the cost down would be to use the two-semester contract," he said.

"One-semester contracts affect few students," he added. "We felt it would be better to use a two-semester contract and save each student $50."

Last year, only 200 of the 4,500 student living in residence halls moved off campus after the fall semester.

Hencken said students will be notified about the new contract before the second week of April.

"I expect students to agree with the decision on the two-semester contract," he said. "Maybe this will open a few spaces for freshmen."

"In the fall there is usually a long waiting line for placement in the residence halls, which sometimes causes freshmen to decide to move off campus," he added.

"If upper classmen don't want to be constricted by the two-semester contract, they could decide to go off campus and leave space for freshmen."

However, he added, "I know of few places other than the residence halls that offer a one-semester lease."

"To my knowledge, we will be the first university in the Midwest to go to a two-semester contract," Hencken said.

Inside Grade A

Ron Leathers, assistant to the dean of the School of Education, said Thursday that Eastern's teacher education program was reapproved for accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Spring-like weather to return for break

by Ed Mazzocco

Although cold weather and snow is in store for the beginning of this week, students need not worry about the weather during spring break.

Charleston weather observer Dallas Price said Sunday he anticipates "nice weather with moderate temperatures" for next week.

And although most people think the first day of spring is Monday, Price said, meteorologically speaking, spring begins April 10.

"It's still winter," he added.

March 21 is the beginning of spring according to astronomical forecasts, Price said. Last Thursday had an equal number of hours for both day and night, which begins spring.

However, the "real" spring is related to temperatures, he added.

Price said because of pleasant weather in February, cold arctic air did not burst through the warmer temperatures until now. "If we didn't get the cold air in one part of the winter, we'd get it in later winter," he said.

Temperatures declined steadily

Saturday night due to northeast winds, Price said. Temperatures reached the freezing point by noon Sunday.

Students coming to Charleston from north of Tuscola may have had a hard time because of colder northern temperatures. "It was below freezing north of Tuscola for a longer period of time than here," Price said.

Price said he expects the weather to be cold for at least the first part of this week, but snow should have discontinued Sunday night.

Two-semester lease proposal receives mixed reactions from Eastern students

by Maureen Foertsch

Several on-campus students expressed displeasure concerning the proposal for use of a single two-semester housing contract.

Ford Hall resident Joy Cropper, a senior, said, "I think the two-semester contract is a bad idea. The dorms are the only place you can leave after fall semester without having to sublet."

"I was in an apartment my freshman year and I know how hard it is to get out of the lease," Cropper added. "I don't think many people will like this new contract."

Sophomore David Leehy, a Carman Hall resident, agreed.

"I think it would be more of an advantage to let us out of the housing contract second semester, because we might have a bad roommate or whatever," he said.

However, the two-semester housing contract would allow students to move from one residence hall to another.

Freshman Brian Atwater, an East Hall resident, also disliked the proposal.

"I don't like the idea at all. What happens when it comes to second semester and you want to move into a house or apartment? You couldn't do it," he said.

"I was planning on living in the dorms next year, so this won't effect my decision on where to live," he added.

Sophomore Scott Mountford, a

Thomas Hall resident, said he is satisfied with the current one-semester housing contract.

"If I would be bound by a contract to stay in a residence hall, I would definitely think twice before signing a contract," he said.

Junior Jill Stelton, a Ford Hall resident, said she was uncertain whether or not she was in favor of the two-semester contract.

"It would be easier, but we should be allowed to leave if we want to," she said.

However, sophomore Heather Anderson, an Andrews Hall resident, said she was in favor of the implementation of a two-semester housing contract.

New handgun bill in Assembly

SPRINGFIELD—The annual legislative debate over handgun control is turning into a question of who-sues-whom this year in the Illinois General Assembly.

Aside from the usual supporters—gun control forces have proposed legislation requiring liability insurance for gun owners.

On the other side, lawmakers opposed to gun control have introduced a measure that would prevent shooting victims from suing gunmakers.

It's a new twist on the yearly handgun control war—although the real battleground once again is over home rule powers allowing local governments to regulate guns as they see fit, such as in the Chicago suburb of Morton Grove.

Steel companies still vulnerable

WASHINGTON—Industry experts diagnose the once-mighty U.S. steel business as economically ailing but not terminally ill, yet they disagree about the medicine needed to revive it in the face of stiff foreign competition.

“One can only see sort of a slow retrenchment,” says economist Robert Crandall of the Brookings Institution. “The long-run prospects for being a steelworker are simply not great in some locations.”

“It's safe to predict that steel production in Pennsylvania is going to decline and steel employment there is going to decline,” he said.

Firearms paperwork buries police

CHICAGO—Chicago's nearly year-old gun re-registration ordinance has triggered an avalanche of paperwork for the city's Police Department, an official says.

“It's a monumental task,” according to Lt. James Conlisk, commanding officer of the deptment's gun registration section.

The mountain of paperwork has been generated by about 250,000 owners of an estimated 750,000 guns in the city. Forty-seven people are assigned daily into two shifts to do the work, Conlisk said.

The cutoff date for new handgun purchases in the city was last April. Rifles and shotguns also must be re-registered under the law, but unlike handguns, can still be purchased and and registered by new owners.

“We have no idea how many re-registratration we have,” Conlisk said. “They're still coming in an lying around in envelopes, and we don't know how many are inside.”

Subcommittee preparing to cite former EPA official for contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee is prepared to cite former Environmental Protection Agency official Rita Lavelle for contempt if she defies a second subpoena to testify, a subcommittee counsel said Sunday.

Lavelle's lawyer said late last week that she would not respond to the subcommittee's subpoena requiring her to testify Monday, because the panel is violating her rights by trying to rush her testimony without giving her a chance to review documents on her handling of the EPA's “superfund” toxic waste dump cleanup program.

“Surely, if due process means anything, it requires her to have access to those documents,” said her attorney, James Bierbower, on Saturday night.

But the House Energy and Commerce investigations subcommittee already has warned Lavelle it would not tolerate her refusal a second time.

On Feb. 17, Lavelle defied an earlier subpoena to appear before the panel and Chairman John Dingell, D-Mich., warned then that “the patience of the committee is wearing somewhat thin.”

Bierbower said he told Dingell that Lavelle is willing to testify later after reviewing the thousands of EPA documents about “superfund” it obtained by subpoena.

“She's not trying to avoid testifying,” Bierbower said Sunday. “I'm sure she will be testifying several times on the Hill.” He also said that the subpoena from the investigations and the oversight subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee was improperly served Feb. 23 during an appearance by Lavelle before a Senate committee.

European monetary crisis looms

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—European finance ministers failed Sunday to resolve the politically volatile French-German money crisis and, in an unprecedented move, decided to let the markets reopen Monday.

Traders were expected to sell weak French francs for strong German marks and let the market determine their value, but there were fears that unless the problem was resolved quickly that the political fallout would cloud a summit of Common Market government leaders, also set to begin here Monday.

French Foreign Trade Minister Michel Jobert resigned Sunday, and there was speculation that French Premier Pierre Mauroy would be the next minister to go in Socialist President Francois Mitterrand's government, plagued by $13.6 billion in foreign debt.

The money market situation was unprecedented in the four-year history of the European Monetary System, created to create monetary stability in the European Economic Community. For weeks, the French and German central banks have been spending millions to prop up their currencies.

Japanese protest U.S. warships

SASEBO, Japan (AP)—Leftist berated the United States, rightists paraded in support of U.S. military power, and riot police kept the two sides apart Sunday in rallies prompted by the four-day visit of the U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise.

The demonstrations, noisy but peaceful, were a prelude to the arrival of the nuclear-powered carrier Monday, when police expect as many as 10,000 people to protest the port call and U.S.-

Japanese military ties.

In 1968, the last time the 75,700-ton Enterprise visited the U.S. 7th Fleet support base at Sasebo, 40,000 people demonstrated against U.S. involvement in Vietnam and 519 people were injured, about half of them police officers.

The Enterprise, accompanied by the guided-missile cruiser Bainbridge, two destroyers and a frigate, is visiting Sasebo, 614 miles southwest of Tokyo to give the sailors rest and relaxation.

Activity fee hike not expected Credit/no credit proposal altered

(Editor's note: The following is the final story in a series of nine articles detailing costs and uses of Eastern's student fees.)

by Crystal Schrof

Full-time Eastern students paid $35.25 per semester as a student activity fee for Fiscal Year 1983, which will probably not be increased for FY 84, Financial Vice President John Cole said.

The Apportionment Board received $15.70 of the FY 83 activity fee, athletics received $17.55 and the Student Legal Service received $2.

Eastern students paid a total of $643,115.75 in activity fee money for the 1982-83 school year, Cole added. The AB received $287,266.50 in allocations, while athletics received $321,081.25 in student activity fee money.

The Apportionment Board distributes its activity fee money among eight student activity fee-funded groups, Cole said.

The AB governs itself and seven other boards, including Art Board, Players, Student Publications, Student Senate, University Board, WELH and the Sports and Recreation board.

"The AB decides at its discretion how the student activity fee money is distributed," Cole said. "We look to see what groups are the most effective and benefit the students the most."

Each student fee-funded activity reports to its governing board, which reviews its budget to see if any changes can be made. The AB then reviews the budgets, making cuts where AB members deem necessary, Cole said.

Cole said the AB allocated the largest amount of

It's your money

A closer look

FY 83 student activity money to the University Board and Student Publications.

UB received $86,215 in student activity fee funds and the board gave Student Publications $66,000, Cole added.

After the student activity fee-funded boards receive their allotments for FY 83, Cole said there will be a predicted reserve of $123,570.

He said the reason the AB wants to maintain the reserve is that "enrollment will be declining in the next few years and we want to continue apportioning the same amount as we did this year."

Cole said the total of student fee money the AB receives will decline as enrollment drops and in coming years the reserve will be depleted because student fee money will not continue to match AB's spending.

The amount of AB spending for FY 84 is not yet decided because the AB is currently reviewing budgets for next year.

Regret expressed over resignation

by Jack Palmer

Instructors, department chairmen, deans and students interviewed recently expressed surprise and regret over Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin's resignation in the midst of severe economic times for the university.

Dean of Arts and Sciences Jon Laible said he "was sorry to see it happen."

Afro-American Studies Chairman Johnetta Jones said she felt a sense of loss after Marvin's resignation. "It's always difficult to lose a strong leader, particularly in the financial situation we are in. I always felt I had a friend in Old Main. The known is always better than the unknown," she said.

English instructor Roger Whitlow said he was surprised to hear about Marvin's resignation, but added he thought the frustrations of the job led to it. "It's kind of like keeping a sick person alive. The constant battle for keeping what you have takes the pleasure out of the job," he said.

Mike Ciesmier, student president of the Mooseheads, an informal social group which Marvin belonged to, said he was shocked by Marvin's resignation.

"We were shocked. He is the leader of the flock. I understand his decision, but we're gonna get hold of him and have a little talk," Ciesmier said.

Political science instructor Frank Lutz said he sees Marvin's resignation as an opportunity for the university community to look at things differently.

"After the first five years, administrators tend to become less productive. I see no need for pessimism," Lutz said.

Sharon Cizek, a student and occasional hostess for pre-game Panther Club parties which are often held at Marvin's house, said she regretted Marvin's resignation.

"He's a really good man. We saw him as a family man, showing great interest in his kids," she said.

Many Eastern faculty members also said they felt uncertain about what changes may occur and what the future may bring after Marvin's resignation.

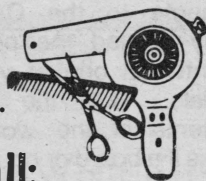

Laible also emphasized the need for a broad search for a new president who will represent the needs of all students and faculty at the university. "There should be a good search representing the broad interests of everyone involved with the university. I think especially the minority interest should be represented," Laible said.

Dean of the School of Fine Arts Vaughn Jaenike said he thought Marvin's resignation came at a particularly bad time for the university. "We are at an important time, with the fiscal situation the way it is...and the lack of support from the state. The new president will have his work cut out for him," Jaenike said.

Dean of the School of Business Ted Ivarie said he did not anticipate many changes in university programs in the short term.

Goodbye, thanks, good luck President Marvin

Dear President Marvin:

Sorry to hear you're leaving us, but as wise men say—all good things must come to an end.

We just wish you weren't taking off in the middle of this budget storm Springfield sent us. But as wise men also say—life goes on, and so it will at Eastern.

It will go on because you are leaving us in the competent hands of a staff of vice presidents and administrators who have played an important role in the good work you have done at Eastern. These administrators have said they will miss you, but hopefully they will be able to maintain the quality standards they achieved under your leadership.

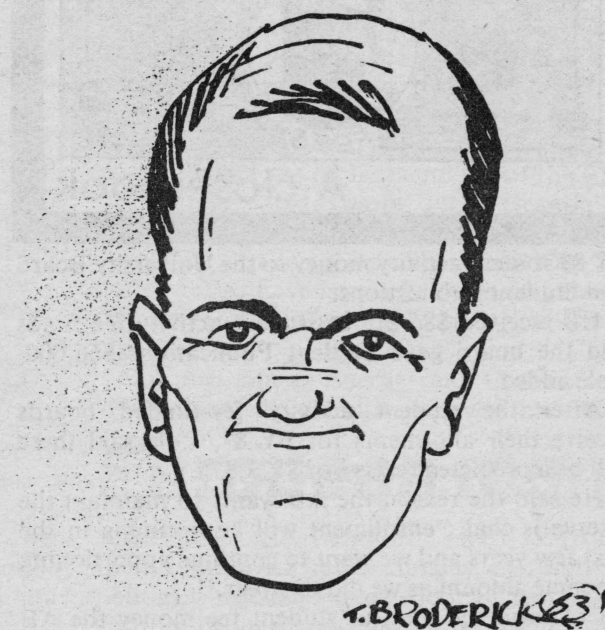

Yes, looking back, you'll have to admit you've had a good six—almost seven—years at Eastern.

And one reason why the years have been so good is your personality. Let's face it Mr. President, you have a certain kind of charisma and charm that makes you an administrator who's unusually easy to work with.

You have a good rapport with students, faculty and members of Eastern's controlling boards. You have always been willing to listen whether it be to frustrated students, disillusioned faculty or inquisitive BOG trustees.

Remember the time students kept complaining about long add/drop lines and short class lists? You heard them and responded by extending registration for some very desperate business students.

And, how about the time you taught a morning class of not so eager zoology students? Now, that was a semester to remember, for you and for those zoology students who had the president for a professor.

Editorial

Let's not forget about the time when the Mooseheads (a social organization of guys who are not greeks) asked you, Dan "Lion" Marvin, to become an honorary member of their organization. Your ability to touch the personal side of student life was one of your best qualities.

In fact, that's probably just one of the many good memories you have of being head honcho here. But we're sure you've had your fair share of presidential frustrations too. It must not have been easy to listen to faculty and non-unionized civil service workers complain and fight over salary rates when there was not much you could do to help them in these years of fiscal constraint.

During frustrating situations like that you probably would have much rather been shooting some hoops with your fellow intramural team members—the Faculty Fossils. But, you had duties, and you carried them out.

Remember, also, all the questions you had to answer about budget requests for those watchdogs on the Board of Governors.

Socializing with the BOG trustees before all of those tedious meetings had to be at least a little more fun than attending the meetings where you had to fight for every penny of funding Eastern received.

We thank you for fighting for that funding, and we would also like to extend our thanks and appreciation to you for the seven good, productive years of your term.

During your term as president you restructured Eastern's central administration and graduate school, made non-traditional education, research and academic developments and improved student academic services. You traveled abroad to the Orient and Poland in the name of education, saw enrollment break the 10,000 mark and superbly managed what sparse funding Eastern has received.

And now you say it is time to call it quits in the higher education sphere and move on. As your resignation becomes a reality, you can take pride in the fact that you have accomplished your inaugural goal of bringing dynamic leadership to Eastern.

Your leadership ability will serve you well in your future job. We wish you well in your new, but familiar, role as president—this time of the First National Bank of Mattoon. We are confident you will be just as successful there as you have been on this campus.

And so, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, it is with regret that we must say thanks, good luck and see ya!

Sincerely,
The Daily Eastern News Editorial Board

Your turn

Use Booth for studying

Editor:

I don't know about the other students on this campus, but I find Booth Library a disgrace to the entire library system! Have you ever actually tried to study in that social trap?

I've tried the so-called "quiet room" only to find tables full of sorority girls talking about their upcoming formal or a bunch of guys discussing their hot dates for the weekend. Forget the quiet room, I've been to quieter rock concerts.

So I tried third floor. I found it reasonably quiet up there last semester. But ever since the new arrangement of tables all shoved in one area, the place is practically a jungle. If you want to hear some funny laughs and lots of jokes, check out the clowns up there. I know, use the study carrels, right? Wrong, there is always some monkey climbing over the top of one of those things grabbing at his buddy.

Okay, drop down a couple floors. The stacks...same old story, groups of people gather down there too. But if it does by chance get quiet, try to breathe in that sauna.

Ah, the second floor. Now that's paradise. It is somewhat quiet, but don't count on getting a place to sit. Maybe the library could invest in a ticket system like they have in shoe stores. That way, when they call your number, you're guaranteed a seat.

Booth Library is a fine establishment in which to study, not to socialize. So, all you social animals, why don't you take a minute and think about just skipping your night of "studying" at the library and go elsewhere, like one of our local bars. It would make those nights at the library much quieter for the serious students at Eastern.

CAA unwilling to listen

Editor:

I would like to respond to comments made in recent editorials and columns concerning some student government leaders' irrational, irresponsible and unorganized arguments presented to the Council on Academic Affairs about the pass/fail and credit/no credit options.

I think that with the News' vast experience in covering the CAA, you would have learned by now that trying to get the CAA to side with the students is like trying to pull shark's teeth. In my experiences with the CAA, I have found that many of the members have already made up their minds before arguments are presented.

We can and, in the past, have presented logical, responsible arguments to the CAA. We have already argued the points that you presented in one of your March 16 editorials. But the most logical arguments in the world are totally useless if a board or council is unwilling to listen.

We must also consider the spontaneity of the meetings. At times CAA members have presented arguments that could not be planned for in advance. These are the times we, as student leaders, must quickly gather our thoughts and arguments and then present them.

It is evident by the CAA's actions that student government leaders cannot carry the entire burden alone. When dealing with an issue as important as this and a council as stubborn as the CAA, it is obvious that students must band together. This means not only arguments by student government leaders, but articles in the newspaper and input from the students themselves is needed.

Please try to remember one thing, we are not here to work against each other, but to work together toward common goals and objectives that will benefit all Eastern students.

John Cole
Financial Vice President

Letter policy

The name and phone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters submitted without a name (or with a pseudonym) or without a phone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Names will be withheld on request. Letters should be typewritten and should not exceed 250 words. Letters which exceed the 250-word limit will be edited to fit with the writer's permission.

Proposal to add position remains tabled in senate

by Keith Clark

A proposed referendum calling for an increase in the number of student senators remained tabled after the senate's last meeting.

The senate is considering adding one senator, bringing the total to 31, but there may be a problem with the constitutionality of the referendum.

The change was proposed so that the Legislative Leadership Committee would not have to choose a replacement after the senate speaker is elected each semester.

Student Senate Speaker Glenn Good said the proposal calls for the addition of an extra residence hall district seat, but that addition could create an unconstitutional imbalance if the speaker did not represent the residence hall district.

Good added the senate would like to "make sure all the ends are tied up" before putting the referendum on the spring ballot.

The senate also tabled a proposed bylaw addition calling for the grade point averages of all student senators and executive officers to be checked three times by the student government adviser.

The bylaw, proposed by an ad-hoc committee instituted to form a new GPA policy for the senate, calls for a student's grades to be submitted to the adviser immediately after that student completes a petition for a senate seat. The adviser will then determine if the student is eligible for election.

The bylaw also calls for all senators' grade point averages to be checked during the first senate meeting of the fall and spring semesters and also for grades to be checked after the last day to withdraw from a class.

If a senator or executive officer is found in violation of the minimum 2.3 grade point average or full-time status requirements, the adviser can rule them ineligible for the senate.

In other business, the senate approved a bylaw requiring at least one of Eastern's Illinois Student Association representatives to serve on the Student Legislative Committee.

Committee Chairman Phil Montgomery said the bylaw was proposed because the function of both the committee and the ISA representatives is to work closely with government officials.

Requiring the ISA representative to be a legislative committee member would make "things run a lot more smoothly," Montgomery added. "The ISA representative and the legislative committee would be able to work more closely together."

Student teacher program suffers from budget cuts

(Editor's note: The following article is the seventh in a series of eight stories detailing the budget cuts each of Eastern's schools recently were required to make.)

by Nancy Bridges

The student teaching program in the School of Education suffered the most severe losses from budget cuts made earlier this year, Charles Joley, dean of the School of Education, said.

"We hit student teaching particularly hard" because it makes up about half the total budget, Joley said.

He added about $12,000 of the $190,000 operating budget was cut. The cuts were the result of a university-wide 2 percent budget reduction required by Gov. Jim Thompson in December, in addition to a 2-percent reduction required by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin.

Ron Leathers, assistant to the dean of the School of Education, said a reduction such as the 2-percent cut required from the education budget can result in programs being preserved, but "probably the quality will suffer."

Supervision of student teachers while they are working in a school has been reduced as a result of the cuts, Joley said.

In addition, Leathers said a "large part" of the cuts was taken from funds planned for programs designed to help the administrative staff keep in touch with area public school officials.

"It is important to us in education to keep in steady contact with school officials" where student teachers are sent, Leathers said. A meeting was held recently with Charleston school district principals, but no meetings with other area school officials have been scheduled because of the budget situation.

Budget cuts

These meetings with school officials also provide input on the quality of teachers Eastern's School of Education is producing, Joley said.

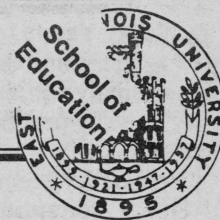

In addition, some equipment purchases were canceled as a result of the cuts.

The planned purchase of an Apple II computer for the learning resource center was canceled. This was an important loss because anyone who plans to teach should have some experience with computers, Joley said.

Leathers added that plans for a special education clinic were postponed because of the cuts. About one-third of the funding for the new clinic was cut.

If remodeling had proceeded according to schedule the clinic could have opened this year. However, because it was not one of the highest priority projects this year, money ran out before the clinic was finished, Leathers added.

Leathers said plans are underway to finish the clinic and open it next year instead. The clinic will provide the opportunity for special education majors to gain practical experience, since these students will tutor mentally handicapped children at no charge.

School board members regret Wickham's switch

by Len Krasnowski

Charleston school board members contacted Thursday said they regret James Wickham's resignation from the board.

Wickham resigned his post as the board's vice president Wednesday due to his recent appointment as accounts and finance commissioner on the city council.

William Hill, school superintendent, said board members will miss Wickham's administrative experience and his ability to work with school finances.

"I was certainly sorry to find out that he decided to resign. He was an invaluable member of the school board," Hill said.

"His knowledge of finance was a great help to our assistant superintendent Terry Weir," Hill said. Wickham was able to take that knowledge and apply it to school finance and his help will be missed, he added.

Board member John Rigg also said

Wickham's finance experience was a big help.

Rigg said the board will miss Wickham's assistance when compiling the new school budget. "We lost a big asset," he said, adding that Wickham's commissioner post made his resignation necessary.

Hill and Weir will be responsible for preparation of a tentative fiscal year 1984 school budget.

Hill said Wickham's experience as director of engineering and planning with Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company gave him an administrative background that was a "great help to all board members."

"We'll miss that kind of board-meeting input," Hill said.

The board will hold a special meeting to fill the vice president's position, Hill said, but the meeting has not yet been scheduled.

Wickham was ill and not available for comment Thursday.

Officials concerned about minority enrollment drop

by Nancy Yamin

Eastern administrators are becoming increasingly concerned with the university's steady decline in minority student enrollment.

President Daniel E. Marvin said, "This is an important issue for us. We have had a decline in minority enrollment and I'd like to address it."

Over the last five years, Eastern's minority enrollment has declined at a steady rate, while total enrollment has experienced an increase during most years.

Administrators said the declining minority enrollment is a major problem the university must correct to function as a public educational institution.

In the fall of 1978, the total enrollment at Eastern was 9,585 students. The number of minority students enrolled at Eastern at that time was 626, or 6.5 percent of the total.

During fall 1982, minority population declined by 0.8 percent, the biggest percentage decline in five years. At this time, minority enrollment dropped to 451 students, 4.5 percent of the total enrollment of 9,950 students.

In the fall of 1981, Eastern had its largest enrollment ever, but the minority population decreased by 0.6 percent from the previous fall. It dropped from 5.9 percent of the total enrollment to 5.3 percent of the population.

Stanley Rives, provost and vice president for academic affairs, said, "I don't think we can say there are other reasons for the decline, such as the economy, and sit back and ignore the problem. We must take serious action to correct the decline."

Officials also said Eastern must continue to provide opportunities for healthy interaction between minority and non-minority students.

Director of Admissions John Beacon said, "Society is made up of people from all walks of life. A university should have this atmosphere also."

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said interaction between students is vital because students must "meet each other in order to learn from each other."

"Everyone says 'familiarity breeds contempt.' Well, I say familiarity breeds understanding," Williams added.

Many administrators also expressed concern over the decline, saying Eastern must remain recognized as an institution which is accessible to all college-bound students.

Williams said because Illinois is a state with a fairly high minority population, the public becomes concerned when state colleges have a low or declining minority enrollment.

"It's a problem in the respect that when the enrollment goes down in minority students, there is always the suggestion that you are not making the facilities available to them," Williams added.

Rives said that although some university groups encourage officials to make the university more accessible to minority students, he was not aware of any pressure from the federal or state government to increase minority enrollment.

Marvin added, "We are trying to correct the problem because we feel it is the right thing to do, not because there is pressure being put on us to correct it."

"We feel the decline is a problem because we are a state university and we should be represented by the constituents of the state," Marvin said.

Faculty Senate elections to get under way Monday

by Linda Wagner

Absentee balloting for the spring Faculty Senate elections will take place Monday.

Faculty Senate Vice Chairman Richard Goodrick said eligible faculty members who are will be unable to vote on March 22 or 23 will be able to vote between 2 and 4 p.m. Monday in Coleman Hall Room 231J.

Polls for the spring Faculty Senate elections will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 22 and 23 in the Union lobby, Goodrick said.

"A number of faculty members have said they will be out of town during regular voting hours," Goodrick said.

"This has caused absentee voting to take place on Friday."

"Eastern's faculty will elect representatives for several committees and councils during these elections," Goodrick added.

Goodrick said the University Personnel Committee, the Council on Graduate Studies and the Council on Teacher Education are among those councils holding elections.

Goodrick said other councils which will be participating in elections include the Faculty Senate, the Council on Academic Affairs and the Arts and Science Curriculum Committee.

Groups slate Housing Fest '83

by Keith Clark

The Student Senate Housing Committee and the Off-Campus Student Housing Association will be offering students a chance to gather information about off-campus housing.

Housing Fest '83, which is scheduled for Monday, will feature speakers representing different housing interests who will answer students' housing questions.

Housing Committee Chairman Meg Hart said OCSHA will also offer a slide presentation that offers housing tips to students.

Hart said many landlords will attend the event, along with Student Legal Service Adviser Steve Davis and Ron Tarvin, a representative of Century 21

Realty who will demonstrate the CompuRent computer system.

"The response to OCSHA and the housing fest has been really good," Hart said. "Not only has it been good among students, but also among landlords."

"All of the sudden OCSHA has been booming," Hart added. "With it being so successful, we want to get information about it out."

Hart said response to OCSHA has been so great that it has been forced to expand its housing bulletin board located in the Union's Student Activities Office.

Housing Fest '83 will be held from 12 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday in the east side of the Union Old Ballroom.

UB summer programming to receive additional funds

by Gary Bray

The Apportionment Board Thursday approved the University Board's revised fiscal year 1984 Summer Programming budget request, which is $5,635 more than UB's original request.

The revised Summer Programming budget calls for a total of $7,455, which will double the number of movies to be presented during the summer from five to 10, add two summer lectures, one additional band, three ice cream socials and a watermelon giveaway.

The AB returned the original Summer Programming request to the UB and told the UB to increase the summer activities offered to students.

The AB also approved the Student Senate FY 84 budget request of $16,392.30, an increase of $2,009.30.

Financial Vice President John Cole said the increase is due to increases in telephone and postage expenses and the senate's decision to help finance the Off-Campus Student Housing Association.

The Student Senate will give OC-SHA's president one semester's tuition and pay for the association's telephone expenses, Cole said.

He said this would "give incentive to get good working people into the program."

Also, the AB approved its own budget request for FY 84, which calls for a total of $20,460.30 in student activity fee money.

The AB's request was increased by $1,569.30 from last year's approved budget due to an additional $1,800 expense for AB's supervising accountant, Cole said.

He added this expense, which represents 10 percent of the supervising accountant's total salary, had previously been paid through another university account.

In other business, the AB again tabled WELH Board's budget request. Cole said the budget will be returned to the board to obtain justification of the Sales/Service line item. Cole said WELH's request was unrealistic in that area.

The WELH Board prepared a budget request which included $6,496 for revenue generated, but WELH has only generated $1,046 in FY 83, Cole said.

He added the budget will have to be justified in that area before the AB will discuss it.

He also said WELH will probably not be able to continue its current operations because only $1,700 is left in the WELH 1983 budget, which will not see the station through the year.

Cole said the WELH Board will have to either ask the AB for additional allocations or discontinue programming.

The AB also approved allowing the Players Board to keep $432.63, which was allocated for use at a convention which members recently attended, but was not spent.

Reward offered for badger thief

by Elise Dinquel

A $100 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest of a person who stole a stuffed badger from the Life Science Building Thursday night.

The badger was the only one of several stuffed animals stolen from a display case on the building's first floor, Leonard Durham, assistant dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, said.

Campus security officer Mike Ealy said police are investigating the incident which occurred about 8 p.m. Thursday, but police have no solid leads in the case.

Durham said the person who stole the badger was spotted by some students who were in the area at the time.

If more incidents of vandalism or theft occur, the building may have to be kept locked in the evenings, he added.

"We've had too many incidents of vandalism and stupidity like this in the past," Durham said.

"If this was some kind of fraternity prank, we would simply appreciate the return of the badger. It's not that it's that valuable—it's the principle of the thing," he added.

Ealy said if the thief is apprehended, he will face misdemeanor charges of theft and criminal damage to state property.

Anyone with information about the theft should contact either Durham or the campus security office.

The $100 reward will come from the life science department's fund, Durham said.

Education department receives reaccreditation

by Carl Pugliese

Eastern's teacher education program has been reapproved by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Ron Leathers, assistant to the dean of the School of Education, said Thursday that the reaccreditation was granted following a lengthy process which began over two years ago.

He said Eastern's teacher education program applied for reaccreditation early in 1980. The program was then evaluated by members of NCATE and a self-study team composed of Eastern representatives.

The self-study team included faculty, administrators and students who were responsible for evaluating the teacher education program and submitting their results to NCATE.

Leathers said that after the results of the self-study, which lasted approximately a year, were submitted, NCATE sent 14 members to Eastern in November 1982 to confirm the findings of the self-study team.

Leathers said Eastern's teacher education program was first accredited in 1954, adding that the program must be evaluated and reaccredited every 10 years.

ROTC offers scholarships

by Paul Smith

Eastern's ROTC program and military science department will award three federal scholarships to any freshmen who meet specific academic requirements.

ROTC Enrollment Officer Capt. John Napier said, "The student is not competing with other students nationwide, but only against those other students here at Eastern who want that scholarship."

Any freshman with a grade point average of 2.9 or higher, or a minimum GPA of 2.5 in a technical or science program is eligible to compete for a scholarship, he said.

Napier said the scholarships are part of a federal program and pay a $1,000 annual living allowance and all fees, books and supplies for the academic year beginning the semester after the applicant's acceptance into the program.

Napier added that applicants who do not receive one of the three Eastern scholarships "will automatically be considered on the national level."

Napier stressed that while there is no immediate military commitment on the part of the scholarship applicants, "in accepting a scholarship the student must accept a commission as an army officer," which entails "four years of active duty as an army officer" in either the regular army or the reserves.

Interested freshmen must apply before April 4, Napier said.

In addition to the freshmen scholarship program, Napier said ROTC offers scholarships for high school seniors, college sophomores and transfer students.

Applicants should contact Capt. John Napier in Applied Arts room 310.

Film about rape to be presented

A film examining media's role in the perpetuation of rape and rape myths will be shown Monday as a part of Women's History and Awareness Month.

Susan Woods, a health education instructor, will present the movie "Rape Culture," Carol Stevens, a member of the Women's Studies Council, said.

"The movie entails interviews with convicted rapists, feminist writers and victims of sexual assault," Stevens said.

Woods will lead a discussion period following the showing of the free movie, which is scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Ballroom.

Team handball tryout set

Tryouts for a 10-man Eastern handball team to compete in West Germany this spring are slated for 5:45 p.m. Monday in Lantz Gym.

Handball player-coach Mark Turner, a former Eastern basketball player, said any student with athletic ability is welcome to try out for the team, which will open tournament play in mid-May.

"It's not a hit-the-ball-off-the-wall game that Americans are familiar with," Turner said. "It was originally developed as a summer sport for soccer players and consists of six players and a goalie."

The 10-player squad will travel to Frankfurt, West Germany in May to compete against European teams, Turner said.

In addition, Turner said Dr. Wolfgang Schlauch of Eastern's history department is arranging a meeting between the team members and government officials in the West German capitol of Bonn.

The only center on the second unit was Cleveland State's Dave Youdath. The 6-foot-8 junior averaged 16.8 points and 8.3 rebounds per game.

A pair of Southwest Missouri players, Joe Ward and Anthony Boggs, rounded out the second All-Conference team.

Ward, a 6-foot-4 senior, averaged 13.9 points and grabbed 4.2 rebounds per game. Boggs, the only player to be named to both the AMCU's All-Academic and All-Conference teams, tallied 11.8 points and 4.5 assists an outing.

Jones said he was a bit surprised that no other Panther made the All-Conference team, but said he was confident that would change in the future.

"I am disappointed that none of the other players made it," Jones said. "I though (Tim) Dykstra, (Kevin) Duckworth or (Doug) Crook all could have made the team."

game."

In addition, Panther Rob Hopkins continued Eastern's momentum by defeating the Fighting Engineers' Brian Ramey 6-3, 6-3 in No. 2 singles play.

"It was really good to see Rob come back and defeat Ramey after losing to him last year," Sexton said.

John Tuft defeated Don Akers 6-1, 6-1, Bruce Perrin downed Greg Hulbert 6-1, 6-4 and Mark Munie beat Tim Beer 6-4, 6-3 to round out Eastern's other winners.

Ken Holbert registered Eastern's lone loss by falling to Rose-Hulman's Nick Smythe.

In doubles competition, Johnson and Hopkins defeated the team of Stokes and Ramey 6-4, 7-5, while Tuft and Munie downed Hulbert and Peterson 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Perrin and Mark Emola recorded Eastern's final win by defeating Rose-Hulman's Akers and Smythe 6-2, 7-5.

Eastern will return to action Tuesday when the Panthers host Bradley University at Weller Courts.

"Bradley is able to give scholarships to six of its players, so they always have good, solid teams," Sexton said.

"But for the first time since I've been coaching here at Eastern, I would say that we have a very good chance of beating them going into the match," he added.

Jones named to AMCU first team

by Kirby Flowers

Eastern standout guard Kevin Jones was the lone Panther named to the first Association of Mid-Continent Universities All-Conference squad announced Friday.

"I really feel good about making all-conference," Jones said. "It was one of my goals to make it my last year. With the year I had, I figured I would make it."

The 6-foot-3 senior averaged 17.4 points, third best in the conference, hauled down 4.1 rebounds and dished off 3.6 assists an outing to lead the Panthers to a 13-18 record.

Jones, who was named on every ballot, was the second leading vote-getter behind Western Illinois' Joe Dykstra.

Dykstra led the AMCU in scoring with a 21.1-point average and chipped in 5.6 rebounds per contest.

In addition, Dykstra, who is Western's all-time scoring leader, was named the league's Most Valuable Player. However, Jones, the runner-up, said he disagreed with the choice.

"I don't think he (Dykstra) does as much for his team as I did," Jones explained. "All he does is shoot and go for the points. He doesn't worry about rebounding or playing defense."

"He was the leading scorer, so they gave it to him," Jones added. "If we had won the conference I think things would have been different."

Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said, "I think Dykstra is deserving of the conference MVP. He had a great year, but I also think that Jones played well this year, too."

"Maybe co-MVPs would have been a better solution," Samuels added.

Joining Dykstra on the league's first team was another Leatherneck, Eric Jackson, who averaged 14.5 points and 3.3 assists an outing.

In addition, Western head coach Jack Margenthaler was the unanimous pick for Coach of the Year. Samuels was one of four other coaches in the running.

"I personally voted for Margenthaler," Samuels said. "He did a good job of coaching during the conference schedule and that is what we are supposed to vote on."

Other players to make the first-team All-Conference squad were Valparaiso University's John Meyne and Ivan Daniels of the University of Illinois-Chicago.

Meyne, a 6-foot-2 junior, was the second leading scorer in the conference, averaging 18.9 points per game. He also dished out 3.7 assists and pulled down 5.5 rebounds a contest.

Illinois-Chicago's Daniels was the youngest player to make the first team, as the sophomore center averaged 15.5 points and ripped down 6.8 boards per game.

Daniels' teammate Craig Lathen led the second-team All-Conference unit, as the sophomore guard dished off a league high 8.7 assists and scored 10.4 points an outing.

Another quick guard, Brent Carmichael of the University of Northern Iowa, was also named to the second team. Carmichael handed off 4.2 assists and pumped in 9.6 points per contest.

Track squad records two title efforts

by Mike Lynch

ATHENS, GA.—Eastern's men's track team opened its outdoor season Saturday by recording two championship performances at the 20-team Georgia Relays.

Panther Perry Edinger turned in an outstanding double effort by winning the 3000-meter steeplechase and placing second in the 5000-meter run.

The Eastern senior finished with a time of 9:14 in the steeplechase, while recording a 14:41 clocking in the 5000-meter run.

Eastern pole vaulter Roxy Wood notched the second Eastern title by registering a personal-best 15-foot vault.

"I think the wind Saturday did have some effect on the competition, but I think for this being Roxy's first collegiate outdoor meet, he did very well," Eastern head coach Neil Moore said.

In addition, senior distance runner Tim Warneke recorded a second-place effort in the 10,000-meter run with a time of 30:27.4.

"I think Tim ran a super race and his time was the second fastest ever posted by an Eastern runner," Moore said.

Junior hurdler Cornell Wilson placed third in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.33.

The 3200-meter relay team of Paul West, Drew Geisler, Gary Hudson and Dave Houston recorded a time of 7:46.9 to notch the lone fourth-place showing for the Panthers.

Eastern also received fifth-place finishes from both the distance-medley relay team of Hudson, Merrill Kaney, Joel McKinney and West, and the sprint relay team of Wilson, Kaney, Houston and Geisler.

Team scores were not recorded, but Moore said his team would have finished among the top four competing teams.

"I would say we were probably right up in the standings somewhere with Georgia, Georgia Tech and Appalachian State," Moore said. "I think it was a very successful trip for us. We placed just about everyone we took."

Netters post fifth victory

by Scott Mountford

Eastern's men's tennis team extended its winning streak to five matches Friday by defeating Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology 8-1 in Lantz Fieldhouse.

"Our team is really playing some good tennis right now," Eastern head coach Carl Sexton said. "We have a lot of momentum going for us."

Eastern's No. 1 singles player, Jay Johnson, started the Panthers Friday by defeating Rose-Hulman's Gary Stokes 6-4, 3-6, 7-6.

"Jay had to play a good match to defeat Stokes," Sexton said. "Stokes is a very gutsy player and to defeat him you really have to be on top of your game."

Baseball, softball contests washed out

by Mike Lynch

Rain and poor field conditions forced the cancellation of Eastern's baseball and softball home-openers Friday and Saturday, respectively.

Eastern's baseball game against the University of Wisconsin-Parkside scheduled for Friday at Monier Field will not be rescheduled, head coach Tom McDevitt said.

In addition, the Panthers' double-header against Evansville University Saturday in Evansville, Ind. will not be rescheduled.

However, Eastern's women's softball team rescheduled its home opener against the College of St. Francis for Thursday at Lantz Field.

The baseball Panthers will resume play with a seven-game series this weekend against Arkansas State University in Jonesboro, Ark.

After concluding the seven-game series with Arkansas State, Eastern will travel to Memphis, Tenn. to take on Memphis State in three consecutive twinbills from March 29 to 31.

Eastern concludes its spring trip with a pair of double-headers on April 1 and 2 against Murray State University in Murray, Ky..

The Panthers will return home to Monier Field for a 1 p.m. double-header on April 5 against Bradley University.

Eastern's softball team opens its spring trip April 28 against Pittsburg State and Wichita State Universities in Pittsburg, Kan.

In addition, Eastern will play Northeast Oklahoma State on April 29 in Tahlequah, Okla..

Eastern travels to Joplin, Mo. the following day to face Missouri Southern State. The Panthers will conclude their spring trip by competing in the Southwest Missouri State tournament April 1 and 2 in Springfield, Mo.
