BOG leaders stand behind tax increases

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

Most of Illinois' universities and the Board of Governors schools support efforts by Gov. James Thompson to increase taxes—but not necessarily in the same areas.

"We very much support the need for additional revenues this year," said Ron Messina, Board of Governors vice chancellor for public affairs and development. He added that the tax increase does not have to come from the governor's ideas, but possibly the General Assembly.

"There are other needs in the state that the governor has identified also," he said, noting that higher education "wouldn't be the major beneficiary," but would still be beneficial.

"It is clear that there are not sufficient revenues in the state for fiscal year '88 to allow the Board of Governors and higher education generally to provide the quality and access that we are entrusted to provide," Messina said.

Although the governor's plan includes increasing gas, license plate, sales and income taxes, Messina said the area in which taxes are increased "doesn't matter" to the BOG.

"It isn't important to us where the revenue comes from," Messina said. "Our position is very clear."

According to the March edition of Illinois Issues, the proposal, over a five-year period includes:

- Raising $2.9 billion for state and local roads, bridges and mass transit systems and $700 million for Build Illinois.

- A 73 percent increase on motor fuel tax, raising it from 13 cents to the gallon to 22.5 cents. This would raise $1.75 billion over the five-year period.

- Increased license plate fees would raise $7.83 million, raising fees for cars and pick-up trucks from $48 to $65 and a 30 percent increase for large trucks.

- An increase in state sales taxes would raise Build Illinois by 54 percent from $1.3 billion to $2 billion.

- Thompson also proposed an increase in income taxes.

Speaking on behalf of University of Illinois President Stanley O. Ikenberry, David Oilen, executive to the president, said, "He (Ikenberry) strongly sports efforts to increase state taxes for vital services. He's been speaking with citizens from one end of the state to the other to increase

Students answer questions on life

By JUDY WEIDMAN
Activities editor

What think ye of Christ?

The Navigators, a campus Christian organization, conducted a "Life View Survey" polling 349 Eastern students and asking them to answer questions concerning their views on life and the Bible.

The survey, which featured 12 questions, centered around the individuals' goals in life and belief in Jesus Christ.

"We saw this as a way to allow students to express their views," said Navigator adviser Pete Woreland. "And it gave us a chance to discuss the gospel to them."

Some of the surveys were given to a sociology 2710 class, which had 115 people, a junior-level speech communication class and students living in Carman, Douglas and Triad halls, Woreland said.

Members of the Sigma Chi fraternity also filled the surveys out during one of their meetings.

"We tried to get 5 percent of the student population, but we came up with 3.4," Woreland said.

Johnetta Jones, an Eastern sociology instructor, said the poll was a straw poll, which is not as scientific as a random poll.

A straw poll is when you take the person on the street or people in classes, she said.

A random poll, Jones said, "Is when everybody on campus has an equal chance to participate." This is usually done by computer with a listing of names.

Some of the survey questions included:

- What is your main ambition in life?

The student answers were self-oriented with 26 percent wanting success, 21 percent wanting

County and university offer AIDS testing and advice

This is the second in a series of five articles examining AIDS in conjunction with Illinois AIDS Awareness Week.

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Staff writer

Although no cases of AIDS have been reported in Coles County, health officials are still concerned with the prevention and education of the disease.

Kathy Reynolds, Coles County Public Health Department director of nurses, said the Health Department provides AIDS information and disease testing to interested individuals.

"The counseling and testing services are completely anonymous," Reynolds said.

To receive information or schedule an AIDS test, which costs $30, Reynolds said interested people should contact the Health Department, 1825 18th St., or phone 348-0530 to schedule an appointment.

During the initial appointment, Reynolds said the individual is asked to choose a filing number. Although a consent form must be signed to allow testing, the person only signs for the number they choose thus guaranteeing anonymity.

"No one ever has to give us their name," she said. "The only way someone would know a person was if they (the person tested) told someone."

Another meeting is arranged after the initial counseling session. During the second appointment, Reynolds said a blood sample is taken and sent to a state lab.

After about two weeks, an analysis is received and a third appointment is set up discuss the results.

"The process takes about two weeks, not because of the testing time, but because of the number of samples waiting to be tested," Reynolds said.

AIDS virus tests are also available at Eastern's Health Service costing $23.

Jerry Heath, director of Eastern's Health Service, said his office performs the same tests as the Health Department and follows the same confidentiality rules.

Although only three or four AIDS tests have been conducted at Eastern, Heath said providing people with a place where their questions can be answered is important.

Because of the amount of fear associated with the disease, support groups and counseling play an important part in the control of AIDS.

The Health Department participates in a networking system which provides groups or other people that individuals can contact for more information about the disease.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a fatal disease characterized by the destruction of the body's natural protection against infection. The crippling of the immune system leaves AIDS victims vulnerable to infections that are not normally life threatening. Presently there is no cure or vaccine for AIDS.

Eastern's Counseling Center also provides information about the disease and its prevention.

Currently Counseling Center Director Bud Sanders said the center has several video tapes about the disease and educational pamphlets available.

Sanders said all students are eligible to use the facilities or talk with any of Eastern's counselors.

Although the support groups and information the Health Department provides are valuable tools in the reduction of the disease, Reynolds said the key can be found in education.

"There is still a carefree attitude about sex out there," she said. "People need to be educated that casual sex just isn't safe to do anymore. People need to be educated to protect themselves."

U.S. is doing a 'half-baked job'

Chicago—New sanctions against Japan could be dangerous and the United States is doing a "half-baked job" promoting its exports, the director of the Commerce Department's local office said Monday in announcing his resignation.

Gerald Marks said at a news conference that while he's a Republican and a supporter of President Reagan, he cannot remain silent about new trade sanctions against Japanese products.

"I oppose the imposing of sanctions because I believe it is not in the best interests of the nation. Our approach to Japan is myopic at best and dangerous to the world trading structure at its worst," said Marks, 59, a department employee since 1970 and former commercial counselor at the U.S. Embassy in London.

On Friday, the United States imposed $300 million worth of tariffs on Japanese computers, power tools and other products in retaliation for the country's restrictive imports policy.

Utility to cut rates by $13 million

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An Iowa-based utility agreed Monday to a $13 million-a-year rate cut for 78,000 Illinois customers, reflecting a federal tax windfall that could have an impact on utility bills across Illinois.

Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. agreed to slash its rates 7.3 percent on July 1, and to scrap a series of rate increases that were to have gone into effect over the next three years.

That would produce annual savings ranging from $24 to $187 over the next seven years for a typical customer, according to Illinois' Office of Public Counsel, a consumer-advocate agency that sought the cuts.

If approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission, the rate reduction would be the first by an electric utility in the state in 20 years, said Public Counsel Stephen Moore.

CBS: Army sent Contras money

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Army was involved in funneling money to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels through a secret Swiss bank account set up in 1983, CBS News reported Monday.

CBS said Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North, then a White House aide, and retired Air Force Maj. General Richard Secord were among those authorized to make withdrawals from the account.

Congress banned U.S. military aid to the Contras in 1984. The Swiss account was set up in 1983 by a secret Army unit operating out of a suburban Washington office building, the network reported.

"Two years later, $2.5 million was withdrawn from the Army secret account in just one day; $75,000 of that was used to charter (a) tramp steamer which carried arms to the Contras at a time when U.S. military aid was barred by law," CBS said.

The network quoted two unidentified sources as saying the account at a Geneva bank evidently was established in anticipation of the congressional aid cutoff.

The Pentagon has initially denied knowledge of the account, but began an inquiry once the account number was provided. It said the investigation is now being conducted by the special prosecutor appointed to investigate the Iran-Contra affair.

Ex-con writes letter to editor questioning Soviet labor camps

MOSCOW (AP)—A paper has published a letter from a former prisoner criticizing Soviet labor camps and asking that more information about them be released.

Western diplomats said it may be the first letter published in official mass media criticizing the camps, about which almost no official information is available.

The letter was signed by former convict V. Stavrovsky of Smolensk and said the camps, estimated to hold at least one million prisoners, turn people into hardened criminals.

"It is high time to say what is going on in the corrective labor camps," the weekly Literary Gazette, which published the letter in its current edition, said in accompanying commentary.

Publication of the letter appears to be part of a review of the criminal justice system. Soviet media have published examples of miscarriages of justice over the past year, and some high-ranking officials have called for better protection of citizens against false arrest and imprisonment.

"It's possible something like this appeared before in legal publications, but that something with a critical tone of the camps should show up in the Literary Gazette is astonishing," a Western diplomat said privately.

Literary Gazette is one of the countries largest newspapers with the circulation of 3 to 4 million. Its commentary said some readers would probably be upset by the publication of a convict's letter, but "the rules of glasnost (openness) tolerate no exceptions." The reference was to save the inability of a common criminal to reform himself in camps.

"The development of vicious inclinations in the individual flourishes," he said. "They say this is a formal re-education, but in reality it is a continuation of the process in which one constantly feels suspicion and mistrust, either in himself or others. The so-called political and education work is just wretched."

More adoptions if contact remains

CHICAGO (AP)—Unfit parents are more likely to surrender their children for adoption if they can maintain some contact, says a task force report urging Illinois lawmakers to guarantee birth parents rights in some adoption cases.

"This is no crusade . . . and it's not as new as it sounds," Wedgie Schultz, who helped draw up recommendation, said Monday.

Contracts allowing birth parents rights ranging from awareness of their children's whereabouts to regular visitation are "already arranged between consenting groups of adoptive parents, birth parents and the children themselves, when they are old enough."

"All we propose is that such contracts be given legal standing," she said.

But William Pierce, president of the national Committee for Adoption, argued the proposal amounts to "kind of plea-bargaining with abusive and neglectful parents . . . by offering to carrot of continued contact.

The child would be told his parent is not fit to be a parent, but society and the court requires that this unfit parent have access to him," Pierce added.

The report containing the proposal for "open adoption" was prepared by the Illinois Task Force on Permanency Planning and distributed to state lawmakers beginning Monday.

The Illinois report is itself part of a three-year, $5.7 million federally funded study project administered by the National Council on Juvenile and Family Court Judges.

Council spokesman Robert Praksti, director of the project, said while the council supports open-adoption arrangements, it would not endorse extending legal standing to such contracts.

FAA might relocate controllers

FARMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—Air traffic controllers at the Federal Aviation Administration's Minneapolis-area center are not resisting the proposal at the Chicago-area center, FAA officials said Monday.

Under the proposal, the FAA would shift control of some Chicago-region airspace to Minneapolis to compensate for a lack of experienced controllers in the Chicago area, said Jack Ryan, director of air traffic operations in the FAA's Washington headquarters.

"We have studied the proposal and feel as though we could handle it without an increase" in staff, said Dennis Randolph, assistant air traffic manager for the Minneapolis Air Route Traffic Control Center in Farmington. "The Airspace fits fairly well into what we're working with now."

"It's a relatively small amount of airspace and our staffing levels are quite comfortable here," said Rob Burwell, a supervisor in Farmington. "I don't think anyone here perceives it as a real big problem."

Burwell, a member of the six-person committee of supervisors and controllers in Farmington who are studying the proposal, said there has been no resistance to the proposed change.

Students express mixed views on elections

JENNIFER LOFTUS

Eastern students expressed mixed views concerning the outcome of last year's student government elections. Some students interviewed said they did not vote and hadn't intended to because they did not feel the student Senate has an overall affect on Eastern. Also, these students added that they did not vote because they thought that the student government did not have authority or influence on campus.

Junior John LeRose, a speech communication major, said he believes—the "student government does not do anything noticeable for the students." He added that he didn't think Eastern's administration takes the senate seriously.

Senior Mark Harrison, a marketing major, agreed with LeRose. "I was not well aware of the candidates running. I don't think the student government has a lot of power. The administration makes the decisions."

Senior Mike Collins had other views on the election outcome. "It seems like greeks are running the school. All the greeks stuck together and voted.

"There are more non-Greeks on campus," Collins said, adding that he was not pleased with the results.

However, junior Erin Brady, fashion merchandising major, said she was satisfied with the election outcome. "The Action Party had a lot of good publicity and know what they are doing."

Freshman Theresa Reiland said she was happy with the winners and added, "They are well qualified, and I believe that more bills will get passed through the senate."

Krutza and Reed earn Distinguished Faculty Awards

ERIC WEDEKING

For the first time in Eastern's history a Faculty Senate committee announced the winners of the Distinguished Faculty Award before commencement.

Art instructor June Krutza and Journalism Department Chair John David Reed were both approved by the Senate committee as this year's recipients of the coveted award.

Usually the winners of the award are announced at commencement ceremonies at the end of the academic year, said Bill Heyduck, one of seven Faculty Senate members on the search committee.

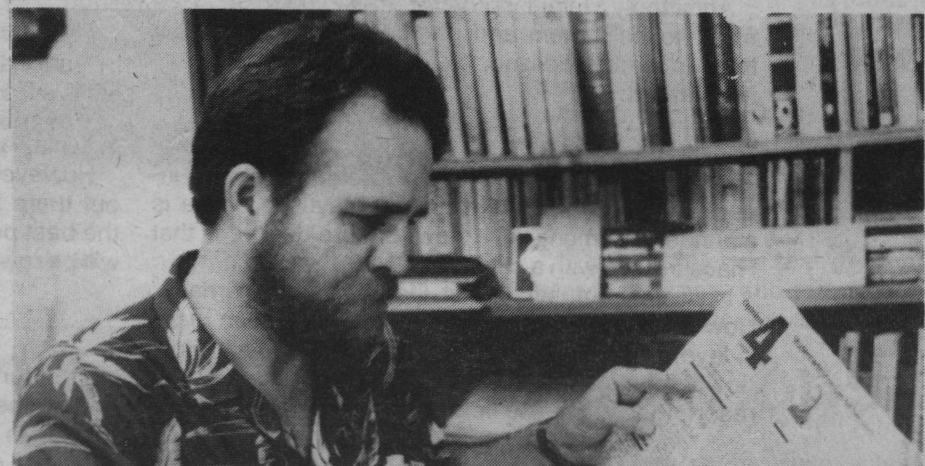

Both instructors were chosen for the award based upon their teaching ability, research and community service, Heyduck said.

"It's an honor just to be nominated," Heyduck said.

"In the past, they have kept this secret until commencement, he added.

The distinguished faculty award committee decided to announce the award winners early because Heyduck said there have been problems in the past with keeping the identities of the award winners secret.

"They (Krutza and Reed) ought to shine in the glory for awhile," he said. Krutza and Reed will be honored at commencement ceremonies in May when they will each receive a plaque. Both will share a $500 stipend provided by the EIU Foundation.

Krutza, an art instructor specializing in ceramics, has been teaching at Eastern since 1952. She received her doctorate degree in art from the University of Ohio.

"I was surprised of course," Krutza said. "Anybody would be pleased to get it."

Krutza believed she was nominated and won the award because "my teaching and creative work . . . since I've been here, and for my departmental commitment and development of curriculum in the ceramics area."

Jerry McRoberts, an art instructor, nominated Krutza for the distinguished faculty award.

"She has been with the art department for 35 years and made major contributions," McRoberts said. "She is willing to take risks and experiment" with her artwork, he added.

Reed said he was "deeply honored" to receive the award and attributed the faculty and students associated with journalism department as contributing factors to his success.

"My efforts in education at Eastern and contributions to the journalism program depend in great part to the students who worked very hard to produce quality publications at Eastern and the outstanding faculty who have been dedicated teachers and journalists," Reed said.

June Krutza

Frank Parcels, a speech communications instructor, nominated Reed for the distinguished faculty award.

"I have observed his work—he's just a marvelous fella," Parcels said. "I've had nothing but positive feedback from students and when you get that much positive feedback, he (Reed) deserves to get the award."

CGS considering lower scores

STUART TART

The Council on Graduate Studies will discuss a request by the music department to lower English requirements for international music students Tuesday.

CGS Chair Frank Parcels said the music department has requested the required TOEFL score (test of English as a foreign language) for the department's international students lowered from 550 to 500.

He said the graduate student committee of the council has looked at the request and will make its recommendation on the proposal at the meeting.

The music department's request is the second request by a department to lower the TOEFL score requirement since the CGS passed a policy allowing individual departments to ask to raise or lower TOEFL requirements from the current 550 standard.

The CGS rejected a request by the economics department to lower its TOEFL requirement to 500 at its March 17 meeting. At the time, Bob Sonderman, head of the graduate student committee, said the department did not provide justification for the change.

The CGS will meet at 2 p.m. in the Union addition Greenup Room.

Rotary pool set to open on time

By KRISSE MEYERS
Staff Writer

Repairs on the Charleston Rotary Pool will begin within the next 30 days now that bidding has been completed, a Recreation Board official said.

The Charleston Rotary Pool is scheduled to open on Memorial Day, said Ray Padovan, president of the Charleston Recreation Board.

No delays are foreseen in the opening of the pool, Padovan said.

The repairs consist of several leaks in the gutter system and in the gutter return system. All the gutter caps have to be pulled off and a special water resistant sealer will be used, Padovan said.

The Charleston City Council at its April 7 city council meeting approved a $14,642 bid from the Arcola True Value Hardware store for the repairs.

The bid originally came in at $21,042, but was reduced before the council made a move on the bid.

The Arcola company will be making all repairs itself, rather than contracting.

Import tariffs give Japanese wrong signal

Protectionist legislation is a bad phrase to most economists, but to the U.S. government it is a supposedly viable way to teach other nations a lesson about fair trade.

The Reagan administration has just bridled Japan with a 100-percent tariff on certain imported products. This could cause the prices of these products to double.

The administration picked only items that can be purchased from countries other than Japan, so the American consumer will still be able to buy these products, but not from Japan.

These products include 18-inch, 19-inch and 20-inch television sets that are completely built-in Japan, certain power tools and lap top computers.

Experts are hoping that this will not cause an international trade war. The Reagan administration says it won't.

The administration apparently wants to teach Japanese merchandisers a lesson that could possibly cost their country billions of dollars. This lesson is to keep Japan from "dumping" computer chips and semiconductors into Third World markets.

"We will eliminate them (tariffs) as soon as we have firm and continuing evidence that the dumping in third country markets has stopped and access to the Japanese markets has improved," Reagan said.

It is a well known fact that the Japanese have been exporting more than importing, which has caused a $58 billion trade imbalance between the two countries. But protectionist legislation will not alleviate the problem.

The action weighs on the belief that the Japanese will not retaliate. If the Japanese lose an appeal with the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, a 92-nation international trade forum based in Geneva, they will surely target U.S. imports for sanctions. The United States would surely take action again and cause a long, drawn out battle.

These tariffs will also effectively cancel out one part of the market, because the majority of lap top computers are produced in Japan. American consumers will not be able to buy these products elsewhere and will bear the brunt of the cost of these computers.

The administration says the tariffs will not change the trade imbalance, but send a signal to the Japanese—a bad signal.

Gotta problem? A.L. just might help

Through some stray quirk of fate I find myself in the proud possession of the same last name as a certain famous advice columnist. Not to name any names, let's just say she recently packed up her bags, her column and her readership and moved across the street from the Sun-Times to the Chicago Tribune.

A.L. Landers

Now I don't know if it's a mailroom mix-up or if people will plain and simply ask anyone for advice, but I've been receiving letters asking me for help. Yup, that's right, certain members of our society are asking me to guide them through the rough spots in life.

Admittedly, I feel sorry for these people. In an effort to help them and perhaps some of you out there in readership land, I've decided to print a few of their letters.

Darlink A. L.,

I have a problem. Maybe problem is an understatement. I have a dilemma. Maybe dilemma is an understatement. All I know for sure darlink, is that I have trouble with a capital T.

I am so confused about life, love and marriage. How do you know when you're in love? I mean really in love. How old do you need to be to commit? How do you make a marriage work? A. L. you are my last resort. Please, please help me.

With love,
Zsa Zsa Gabor

Dear Zsa Zsa,

Darling. Darling. Darling. First I want to say how courageous, and yes possibly impetuous you are to jump into marriage eight (or is it more?) times without the answers. But then I guess that's the way we all do it. But at least you haven't given up.

Secondly, I just plain and simply don't know the answers. I think that perhaps you should try meditation. It can put you in touch with the inner recesses of your heart, where the answers uniquely your own are stored. I know the name of a good guru if you want to try it. It just might help. Once you are at peace with yourself, your universe, and your karma you just might find the answers you seek. Good luck. Let me know if you want the name of my guru.

Sincerely

Hey A. L.,

I'm short. I mean I'm really short. I mean I'm short, short, short. I really need your help. I can't get the chicks. What should I do?

Yours,
Emmanuel Lewis

Dear Emmanuel,

What can I say? You're short. I mean really short. You may never get the chicks.

However, don't worry, I'm sure there's someone out there just for you if you wait patiently. Become the best person you can possibly be, and surely you will be rewarded.

Good luck,
A. L. Landers

Unfortunately, our space has run out. I sincerely hope those of you who wrote letters that didn't appear in print will not despair. I have sent personalized replies to each and every one of you. Good luck.

EISCCAP needs some real answers

Editor:

I'd like to ask the members of EISCCAP for some real answers to some questions without their resorting to rhetoric and emotional scare tactics.

Does EISCCAP, or anyone else for that matter, have a viable alternative to SDI? Or does EISCCAP simply believe that the idea of automatically annihilating the U.S. has never crossed Gorbachev's mind and so the U.S. should unilaterally disarm?

Why does EISCCAP only fear nuclear war? Why is there never any mention of the Soviets overwhelming superiority in conventional forces?

Why is Ronald Reagan, with the U.S. not currently embroiled in conflict, considered a war monger while Mikhail Gorbachev, with the U.S.S.R. committing genocide in Afghanistan for approximately eight years, is hailed as an enlightened ruler for relaxing the U.S.S.R.'s dictatorial rule enough to allow a few meager civil rights?

Why is Soviet research in the field of space-based defense weaponry ignored by EISCCAP?

Why is it considered foolish to view with trepidation a nation such as the U.S.S.R. with a history of imperialism in the last 40 years (i.e. Estonia, Latvia) or cruelly repressive recent colonial history? (i.e. Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia.)

Paper misuses reserve account

Editor:

You people say that student government is trying to suppress your right to free press by threatening to cut your budget based on students' dissatisfaction with the content of the News. With you breathing First Amendment down our necks at the drop of a hat, why would we ever do such a thing? Your budget was cut (and deservedly so) because you were buying equipment and paying other overspent line items out of a reserve fund for emergency replacement and repair ONLY. You misused funds. Budget for your own equipment specifically. If a major piece of equipment goes down, come to AB and they can raise your sales and service. It's that simple.

Furthermore, you people are hypocrites. First you cry "First Amendment" then turn around and tell me to put in my time at the News before I can voice my opinion about the News. The First Amendment I learned also included freedom of speech. It wasn't just a right given to you, the press—but to everyone. And if you still feel I should have News experience before I criticize, you should take your own advice and stop criticizing student government. You have no experience. Practice what you preach.

Lastly I'd like to thank Ms. Landers for pointing out that I am "not really that prominent a figurehead." I would suggest that those seeking prominence are our illustrious News editors who insist on having their photos placed on each editorial column.

Faculty looks at code

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

A possible change in the Student Conduct Code is being passed up through the administration, and Faculty Senate members will be apprised of an opportunity to contact Keith Kohanza, university judicial officer, to individually give input.

The Faculty Senate will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Martinsville room.

"He (Kohanza) was asking me if the Faculty Senate wants to put input into the Student Conduct Code," said Faculty Senate Chair Mary Wohlrabe.

"If anyone wants to put input in the Student Conduct Code, they can talk to Keith Kohanza," she said referring to senate members.

"We need to clarify our control substances policy," Kohanza said. Marijuana isn't included in controlled substances. The proposal is to include it.

"There is one rule that prohibits the use, possession and distribution of control substances. Cannabis (legally isn't a control substance," he added.

Also, the proposals are to clarify the "article on threatening harm to people to make sure it includes harm to self," he said.

"We print enough copies of the Student Conduct Code (for distribution to students) to last two years," Kohanza said. "When we print it, we have to see if there are any proposals for changes."

He said his recommendations, with the rationale behind them, go to Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, and can eventually go to President Stanley Rives.

"In order to make revisions, we also provide that there will be input from the faculty senate and student government," Kohanza said, adding that some clarifications in the code are being suggested.

"I have a report on the HPER (Dean of Health, Physical Education and Recreation) Search Committee," Wohlrabe said. "I'll update the Faculty Senate on its latest developments."

Tarble Arts Center spring workshops begin Tuesday

By CONNIE HUMPHREY
Staff writer

Spring art workshops for adults and children will be available through the Tarble Arts Center beginning Tuesday.

The adult workshop is a watercolors class. Karen Hellyer, acting curator for TAC, said the class is for beginners to more advanced artists, and will teach basic techniques and work on developing skills.

The classes will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays beginning on April 21. A materials list for the adult workshop is available at the TAC office.

The pre-school/kindergarten workshop is for children three to five years old. This workshop will begin April 23 and last until May 14. It is limited to 10 children. The classes will be held from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Thursdays. The materials for this workshop will be provided.

Hellyer said that those interested may register by mail or at the TAC. Fees are required at the time of registration.

Pre-school lessons will cost $3 per session for non-members and $2.50 per session for members. Adult sessions will cost $20 for non-members and $16 for members.

A variety of art lessons will be taught during the workshops. The first theme for the children's workshop is "Celebration." During this session the children will draw pictures of air balloons.

In the second session, "April Showers Bring May Flowers," the students will learn to cut out shapes of flowers and raindrops.

During the "Mother's Day," session, the children will make a giant Mother's Day card. The last lesson will be "Happy Iris," where the children will cut out paper iris' and draw faces on them.

Hellyer said the TAC finished offering the same workshops from March to April and since there was such a demand to continue them, the workshops will be offered again.

Barbara Schrieber, an area artist, will be the instructor for both workshops.

Eastern student's used book store opens on square

Owner wants to provide Charleston community with quality books at reasonable cost

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Staff writer

Joseph's Community Bookstore, 621 Monroe Ave., opened its doors last weekend making it Charleston's first used book store.

Owner Joseph Plestina, an Eastern junior, said Charleston's economy is conducive for a used book store because people can't always afford to purchase new books.

Plestina, who previously operated a used book store in Florida, said he opened the Charleston store in an effort to provide quality used books at reasonable prices.

Plestina estimated that an average paperback will be sold for about $1 and hardbacks will have prices around $2. However, he noted prices will vary according to the condition and content of the book.

In addition to selling used books, Plestina also said he is interested in purchasing books.

"Right now, I'm mainly interested in buying books from people," Plestina said adding that used paperbacks, on an average, garner about 25 cents and hardbacks are worth between 50 cents to $1. He added he will not purchase textbooks, library books and Harlequin romance novels.

Individuals interested in selling books should take their volumes to the store or call the shop, Plestina added.

Iris Campbell, Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce executive director, said she believes the store may be the first store in town that only sells used books.

"I think with the students the store will have a good chance of doing well," Campbell said. "Considering the cost of new books, I think that if people can get a used book, they will."

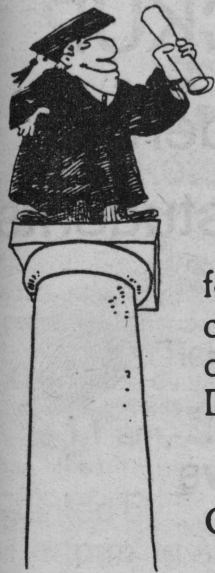

"The store will be mainly for browsers," Plestina said. "I hope to be able to attract a variety of students and town's people to the store."

Joseph's Community Bookstore, located on the north side of Charleston's square, is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

Watkins said it would raise the institution's budget by "7 plus percent, and that's quite a bit." Watkins said he supports the governor's proposal and added, "That'll be the case with every state university in the state."

"It just seems to me that it's imperative that additional revenues be found not only to fund higher education but also kindergarten through the 12th grade," said Governors State President Leo Goodman-Malamuth.

Siblings learning to live together in college

TINA PAULEY

Dear Mom,
I saw that person on campus again today. I thought you said we'd probably never see each other. Why does that person have to go to school too?

This might be a typical letter for students with a brother or sister attending the same college, but for at least two brothers and two sisters at Eastern, it isn't the case any longer.

Although they came to Eastern for different reasons, they have found learning how to deal with each other a benefit of having a sibling on the same campus.

For Danny and David Seltzer, 19-year-old identical twins from Springfield, coming to Eastern because they both liked the campus and had friends has given them the opportunity to become better friends.

Right now, I'd probably consider us good friends—pretty decent friends," David said of his relationship to Danny. "We're getting along better than we used to."

The Seltzers, both sophomores, attributed their better relationship to the fact that they live in separate houses. David lives in a house on Ninth Street, and Danny lives in the Delta Chi house, 848 North St. Both, however, are members of Delta Chi fraternity.

"We don't see each other as often as when we lived together (at home), so we don't argue as much," Danny said. "If we get cooped up together, we'd get in a lot more fights," David added.

For Lisa Hikes, 21, and her sister Amy, 20, of Deerfield, attending Eastern together has given them the chance to develop their own identities and understand the other's actions.

Living together in the same residence hall for a year proved to be a problem for Lisa and Amy.

Lisa, being the oldest of the two, came to Eastern first before Amy did. Amy, in turn, said it caused her to act like a "mother hen."

"For three years she (Amy) accused me of having problems on campus," Lisa, now a senior, said, "because no matter what she did, I found out about it."

STEVE BEAMER/Staff photographer

For sisters Lisa and Amy Hikes of Deerfield, finding their own identity keeps the two Eastern students at peace with each other.

Avoiding each other in the hall served as a temporary solution for the Hikes. "We never ate together in food service; people didn't even know we were sisters," Lisa said.

The Hikes were able to resolve their differences after realizing they were very much opposite personalities, a difficult adjustment for them because they had been very close in high school.

"We were so alike and then we became so different," Lisa said. "She went her way and I went mine," added Amy.

"I think this year, Lisa and I have accepted each other more and now we're just friends," said Amy, a junior.

Although Lisa doesn't think she and Amy have a better relationship because they both attend Eastern, she does think it would have been harder to accept Amy's changes if they had gone to different schools.

Amy said one advantage to having Lisa at Eastern has been moral support. "I feel that I always have someone to back me up," she added. "If I had went to a different school, I think I'd be lost."

Like the Hikes, the Seltzers have also had problems with identities, but with a twist—because they are identical twins, people who see them on campus often confuse the two.

"Sometimes it's hard having someone who looks exactly like you running around on campus," David said, adding that he is constantly having to explain which Seltzer he is.

Both of the twins agreed, however, that because of the explanations, they have met a lot of people on campus.

Another advantage that both the Seltzers and the Hikes said they have enjoyed is having someone to talk to.

Because they are in the same fraternity, Danny and David have many of the same friends. David said he met a lot of Delta Chi members because he was often confused with Danny.

"I guess we always hang out together so we must like each other," Danny said.

Both Danny and David intend to continue their studies after graduating from Eastern, but at schools in different states. Neither think their relationship will change much, although David said they would probably argue less often by "not getting on each other's nerves."

Lisa and Amy said they will probably stay close after graduation because their family is really close.

Japan's Seko takes 2nd Boston Marathon, 2:11.50

BOSTON (AP)—Japan's Toshihiko Seko broke away from the pack going up Heartbreak Hill and won the Boston Marathon for the second time today in a slowly paced race featuring an elite field and marred by accidents.

The 30-year-old Seko, the winner in 1981, it was his eighth victory in his last nine marathons. His time of 2 hours, 11 minutes, 50 seconds, was disappointing in view of the expected fast race.

Meanwhile, 1984 Olympic bronze medalist Rosa Mota, running the Boston Marathon for the first time, was the first women's finisher, clocking 2:25:21, the third-fastest ever for women in this race. She led all the way and never was threatened in winning her seventh victory in 10 marathons.

Seko's only marathon defeat since 1979, after he finished third in his first Boston Marathon, came in the 1984 Olympics at Los Angeles, where he finished 14th.

This victory was surprisingly easy, a view of the quality of the field, considered one of the best—if not the best—ever assembled in this 91st in history.

But once Seko, the world's fourth-ranked marathoner, made his decisive surge at the "killer" point of the race with about six miles to go, he was in command. He won by 47 seconds over Jones, who clocked in at 2:13:30.

De Castella, finishing sixth, nearly met disaster at the outset.

Race officials were slow in getting the rope out of the way of the starters as the race was about to begin. De Castella tripped over the rope and tumbled, scrapping his hands and knees. After rolling over and nearly getting trampled by the stampede of runners—there were 6,313 entrants—he got up quickly and resumed running.

The other incident occurred shortly after the start of the wheelchair division, which began 15 minutes before the open competition. Four wheelchairs collided, knocking two of the competitors out of the race with minor abrasions. Of the two that eventually dropped out, near the 10-mile point.

In the open race, Ikangaa, Jones and Smith were expected to set a blistering pace, but none made any attempt to do it. That set it up perfectly for Seko, who ran a similar type race six years ago.

Celtics ready for playoffs

BOSTON (AP)—After struggling with aches, pains and passivity, the Boston Celtics are regaining their health and hustle at the right time. The NBA playoffs begin Thursday night, when they face Chicago.

"We're going in the right direction," forward Kevin McHale said.

Just 11 days ago, Boston's hopes of becoming the first team since the 1969 Celtics to win back-to-back titles were fading. On April 10, its losing streak reached three games, its longest of the season.

But since then the Celtics haven't lost. They ended the regular season by winning four straight games.

Of their last three victories, one was a 23-point blowout on the road where they had lost nine of their previous 10 games, one was against the team it will meet in the first round and one was in a game it had to win to get homecourt advantage throughout the Eastern Conference playoffs.

"I think we're really ready for the playoffs," guard Danny Ainge said.

Boston begins its best-of-five series at home against Chicago. The Celtics were 6-0 against the Bulls this year. They have beaten Chicago in their last 13 meetings. They have won 75 of their last 76 games at Boston Garden.

rough for Eastern when she announced a single by the Evansville shortstop, scoring shortstop Mary Jo McCarthy and third baseman Kathy Range to put the Panthers ahead 3-2.

Winning pitcher Sara Karcher gave up a leadoff double in the seventh and was relieved by Zam Mogill who picked up her third save of the season.

Marquis was happy to see the Panther offense come through in the match.

"Angel came through with a good hit in the second game, Mary Jo is back in the swing, about 90 percent of the team is back in the swing. We seem to be peaking right now," Marquis said.

McCarthy went three for three in game two as the Panthers pounded out 10 hits.

Karcher raised her record to 4-5 on the season with some excellent defensive help from her teammates.

Eastern and Mogill had a much easier time in game one as the Panthers scored all they would need in the second inning.

McCarthy reached on error by the second baseman, and then stole second. Castleman then singled, moving McCarthy over to third.

Castleman stole second, putting runners on second and third for rightfielder Cindy Streid. She responded by rapping an RBI single to score McCarthy.

Castleman scored when first baseman Steff Spooner connected with losing pitcher Kerri Blaylock for an RBI single.

The two runs were enough because of the pitching of Mogill.

She raised her record to 13-9 and posted her ninth shutout of the season while only allowing four hits.

Eastern will play its home finale at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Lantz Field when it hosts Miami of Ohio in a double header.

It will be the final home appearance of Spooner, Castleman, Range and Streid.

The lineup will be the same as in the Western match, with the only question mark being whether junior Keith Hansel will play. Hansel hurt his back during his 6-2, 7-5 victory Saturday.

Bennett didn't think that Hansel would miss the ISU match, but he will have to wait and see if anything new develops.

If Hansel is hurt, he will join teammate freshman Jeff Brumleve on the sidelines, as Brumleve is still experiencing some pain in his back.

One pleasant surprise for the Panthers in the past two or three matches has been the play of junior John Rebello, who has won his last two matches while playing No. 6 singles.

"John is getting smarter with his shots, and that just comes from being able to play," Bennett said. "It's a lot easier to improve in singles than in doubles."

Second baseman Sarah Karcher grabs a sharply hit ball in ladies softball action Saturday. The Lady Panthers swept Western Saturday by identical 2-0 scores and in Monday's action they swept Evansville at Lantz Field 2-0 and 3-2.

Eastern takes 2 from Evansville

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Eastern catcher Connie Hamers took a page from the New York Giants when she poured the Gatorade cooler over coach Janet Marquis, but Hamers had good reasons for it.

The Panthers swept non-conference opponent Evansville Monday at Lantz Field, winning the opener 2-0 while rallying for a 3-2 win in the nightcap.

Eastern raised its record to 17-14-1 with the sweep while the Lady Aces fell to 19-13 on the season.

Evansville was without one of its better hitters in Michelle Casella, who broke her nose in pre-game warmups and didn't play in either contest.

The chances of a sweep did not look good in game two up until the Eastern half of the sixth. Evansville had a 2-0 lead, do in part to a pair of steals of home plate.

The Panthers picked up a run in the second when centerfielder Natalie Wittmann singled home pinch runner Andrea Rice, but that was all they could muster.

Eastern had the bases loaded with no one out in the third, but left fielder Ellen Castleman bunted into a double play and catcher Lisa Bourazak grounded out to end the inning.

But it was Angel Lendvay who finally came (See EASTERN, page 11)

Eastern sluggers try to avenge previous loss to Illini

By DAN VERDUN
Staff writer

Eastern's baseball game at the University of Illinois Tuesday may prove to resemble more of a football game when the final score is tallied.

The nine-inning contest will be played on a field on the east edge of Urbana because Illinois' new field has yet to be completed. Game-time is 3 p.m.

Eastern holds a 20-16-1 record after taking three of four games from conference-rival Western Illinois this past weekend.

The Panthers now hold a share of first place in the AMCU-8's Gray Division along with Southwest Missouri, who swept a weekend series from Northern Iowa.

The Bears and Panthers have identical 5-3 conference records while UNI and Western have 3-5 records in the conference.

The first time Eastern and Illinois locked horns on April 7, the Illini battered the Panthers 21-13. While some may wonder who missed the extra point for the Panthers, Eastern coach Tom "Skip" McDevitt knows his team could be in for more of the same.

Following the rigorous four-game series with Western and with a Wednesday home double-header with Southern Illinois ahead, the short Panther pitching staff could be in for a long afternoon.

"I'll start either Steve Torricelli or Scott Nelson," McDevitt said. "The other will be available for relief along with David Scott."

Torricelli, a freshman from Springfield, has the undesired distinction of holding the staff's highest earned run average at 18.56.

Torricelli, 0-1, has pitched just 5 1/2 innings this season. He has started just one game—that coming on the spring break trip—this season.

Nelson, a freshman from Bourbonnais, is 1-0 with an 8.53 ERA. The left-hander has thrown 12 2/3 innings this spring, mostly in relief.

Scott, meanwhile, picked up a victory in relief against Western to even his mark at 2-2. However, his ERA stands at 10.07, second lowest on the team.

Eastern can take heart in knowing that Illinois will likely be without standout Darrin Fletcher.

The junior catcher has been out of the lineup since sustaining a hamstring injury in the earlier game with Eastern. Fletcher was hitting .505 at the time.

Eastern is hitting .327 as a team. The Panthers have hit 44 home runs in 37 games this spring. Shortstop Tim Bogar leads the way with a .412 average.

Bogar and senior center fielder Mike Rooney each have 10 homers to lead the Panthers in that category.

Cagers sign 2 standout transfers

Eastern's men's basketball coach Rick Samuels has announced the signing of two more athletes to national letters of intent Monday.

The signing of Ronnie Tate and Joe Hamilton, both of Laramie County Wyo. Community College, bring the number of recruits to five. Three junior college transfers and two high school seniors have already been signed.

Tate, a 6-3 guard, and Hamilton, a 6-4 forward, were both members of the 1984 Carbondale High School team that finished 27-1 and was the No. 4 ranked team in the AP and UPI final season rankings.

"Ronnie Tate and Joe Hamilton were identified early as young men we wanted to sign in order to put the pieces together in our recruiting process," Samuels said.

"Ronnie (Tate) is a three-point scorer but can also go inside and play off the block. He consistently faced box-and-one and triangle-and-two defenses and was still able to do a lot of things against those," said Laramie Basketball Coach Woody Halverson.

Tate was named a National Junior College Athletic Association Honorable Mention All-American this past season after averaging 20.3 points per game, while shooting 52 percent from the floor, 84 percent from the free-throw line and 56 percent from three-point range.

"(Ronnie is) someone who will not only make us more exciting to watch but give us more offensive versatility," Samuels said.

Tate was also an All-Region IX pick in 1987, two-time All-Wyoming Conference choice and Laramie's No. 2 all-time leading scorer.

Region IX consists of junior colleges in Wyoming, Colorado, Montana and Nebraska.

The two signees led Laramie to a 20-10 record and the Region IX championship.

Hamilton, on the other hand, finished this season as Laramie's top scorer in school history (1,330 points) along with leading Region IX in rebounding (12 per game) while averaging 21.9 points per game over his two-year career.

"Joe makes his living inside. Although he's only 6-4 he's about 210 (pounds) so he can get great position. He has long arms which aids him defensively," Halverson said.

"He plays like a 6-7 or 6-8 person inside but can still go out to 12 to 15 feet and make the shot."

Samuels agreed, saying, "Joe is a bull inside. . . an exceptional athlete who, like coach Halverson says, plays much bigger than 6-4. Both have played together since fifth grade so they complement each other very well."

Since they're from Carbondale I think both are anxious to play where friends and family can see them, and (they are) looking forward to playing against teams on out schedule," Samuels said.

Netters look to ISU for next win

Eastern's men's tennis team will be looking to gain some momentum for this weekend's conference tournament as they take on Indiana State at 3 p.m. Tuesday on the Weller Courts.

The Panthers 4-11 on the season, are coming off a loss to Western Illinois on Saturday, dropping a 5-4 decision to the Leathernecks.

Eastern lost to ISU 5-4 in the fall, but coach John Bennett thinks that the team has a chance to reverse the previous result.

"I expect that we'll play well. ISU has some players that are tough in the four, five, and six positions, but we may be tougher in the top three singles spots," Bennett said.

Bennett thinks that No. 1 singles player Eric Laffey and the No. 1 doubles team of Laffey and senior John Suter are playing well at this point of the season.

"The No. 1 singles and the No. 1 doubles are peaking," Bennett said. Bennett also added that this meet may help to bolster the play of some of the other players, and he hopes that they may be peaking as well going into this
