Faculty Senate member calls for CAA changes

By PHILLIP LAIRD
 Administration editor

Faculty Senate member Robert Barford believes the Council on Academic Affairs is not fairly representative of Eastern's faculty, and he introduced a motion earlier this month to change the composition of the CAA membership.

Barford's motion to restructure the Council on Academic Affairs will be discussed by the senate at its 2 p.m. Tuesday meeting in the Martinsville Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The proposal addresses some faculty members' concerns about general education requirement changes the CAA may make in response to the Study of Undergraduate Education. The changes could increase the number of hours needed to graduate within a major, and also could affect how those hours are accumulated.

If approved, Barford's motion would require the CAA be comprised of six faculty members chosen in at-large elections and one faculty member from each of Eastern's six colleges to be appointed by a committee within that college. "This would give a more balanced form of faculty representation to CAA," Barford said.

The CAA is an independent committee comprised of 10 faculty members and two students, plus five administrative advisers appointed by Eastern President Stan Rives. The members suggest or address proposed changes in academic curriculums which are then sent on for consideration to the administration.

The CAA's faculty representatives currently are elected by faculty members during Faculty Senate elections. Student members are appointed by the Student Senate. Both student and faculty members of the CAA have full voting privileges.

Barford's motion also would rescind the voting privileges of the appointed student members. "My feeling is that students aren't really in a position to be making decisions about the direction of the educational policy," Barford said.

The change Barford proposes would make student participation advisory, meaning students could address student concerns, ask questions and make comments, but not vote.

Despite senate action, CAA chair Terry Weidner said the Faculty Senate has no authority to change the composition of the CAA.

"The council has its own constitution and bylaws that determine the council's make-up and actions," Weidner said.

Weidner said the senate is welcome to "make suggestions and recommendations," but has no power to determine CAA policy.

However, Barford's motion is only a proposal, senate chair Anthony Schaeffer said, adding senate actions are advisory.

Schaeffer said he believes final approval rests with Rives.

Though from a personal standpoint, Schaeffer said he is mostly in favor of the motion.

Plane crash leaves 107 dead

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) - A Colombian jetliner crashed on the outskirts of Bogota shortly after takeoff Monday and all 107 people aboard were killed. A caller to a radio station claimed drug traffickers bombed the jet.

Witnesses said the Avianca Airlines Boeing 727-100 exploded before it plunged into a hilly area south of the capital, about a mile from a neighborhood of slum houses and factories. Pieces of the jet were found up to six miles from the main point of impact, police said.

Hours later, a man called Radio Caracol and claimed that a group called The Extraditables blew up the jet to kill five police informants. He said the five gave police information that led to the discovery of the Medellin drug cartel leader's hideout.

The man did not identify himself, and the claim could not be immediately authenticated.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Bogota said one U.S. citizen, Andres Escabi, was known to have been killed in the crash. He said Escabi, a native of Puerto Rico, also held Colombian citizenship and lived in Bogota.

"The plane was flying along when suddenly it exploded, broke in two and fell in flames and smoke," said a witness, Alfonso Moreno, in an interview with the radio network Caracol.

Flight 203 was bound for Cali, about 190 miles southwest of Bogota. Cali is the headquarters of one of Colombia's biggest cocaine cartels and has been the site of frequent bombings and other attacks since the government declared war on drug lords in August.

Three Eastern faculty members play role in BOG examination

By CHARLA BRAUTIGAM
 Campus editor

Three Eastern faculty members may have had an instrumental role in altering the system that governs Illinois universities if their findings prove legitimate.

Ron Sutcliffe, associate professor of technology, Ed Marlow, associate professor of management/marketing, and Anthony Schaeffer, mathematics professor, participated in hearings recently conducted by the Commission on Intergovernmental Cooperation. The commission, composed of six members of the Illinois House of Representatives and six Illinois senators, met to discuss the effectiveness of having four boards governing the 12 different public universities throughout Illinois.

The hearings were a result of a Senate resolution sponsored by Senator Patrick Welch, D-Ill. Welch advocated a separate governing board for Northern Illinois University. NIU is currently governed by the Board of Regents, which also serves as the governing board for Illinois State University and Sangamon State University, said Michelle Brayzell, a Board of Governors spokeswoman.

The Board of Governors (BOG) is the governing board for Eastern, Chicago State University, Governors State University, Northeastern Illinois University and Western Illinois University.

The remainder of Illinois' universities are governed by two other boards including a board of trustees that governs the University of Illinois at Champaign/Urbana and Chicago and another

Eastern student killed

By DAVID LINDQUIST
 News editor

An Eastern student was killed last Friday evening when a deer crashed through the windshield of the car he was driving near his hometown.

Junior marketing major Ronnie Rehkemper, died at the scene of a 11:45 p.m. accident that occurred five miles from Highland, a community of 7,000 approximately 45 minutes east of St. Louis.

Rehkemper sustained fatal injuries after a car traveling the opposite direction on Illinois Route 143 north of Interstate 70 hit the deer, which was then propelled into the windshield of his 1985 Ford LTD before exiting through the car's back window.

"It was a freaky accident, really bizarre," said Roy Lanham, director of Eastern's Newman Community Center. "If he would have left two seconds earlier or later, it wouldn't have happened."

Rehkemper, who celebrated his 20th birthday last Tuesday, was driving five friends to Taco Bell, said Michelle Daiber, an Eastern junior who attended high school with Rehkemper.

"Ronnie pretty much saved everyone else's life," Daiber said of Rehkemper's position in the car. Kent Kampwerth, a Highland native and also one of Rehkemper's roommates at a Regency apartment, 2112 S. Ninth St., was injured while sitting in the car's back seat.

Daiber said Kampwerth, 20, remains in critical but stable condition in an intensive care unit at St. Louis University Hospital.

Rehkemper's wake was held Saturday evening in Highland, and funeral services were conducted Monday.

"Ronnie was the type of guy who wanted to see everyone laugh," Daiber said. "He was loved by a lot of people and was always there for you. He was what a friend really is."

"He was really close with his dad," Daiber said, adding Rehkemper participated in track and field and was a member of his high school's homecoming court.

Gayle profits could offset previous losses

By STEPHANIE CARNES
Activities editor

Eastern's University Board netted a $17,149.50 profit from this year's Parents Weekend concert featuring Crystal Gayle, a profit which should offset losses from the George Carlin Homecoming concert.

"I'm pleased with the turnout, considering that all of the sales of all the other events like football and the dinners during Parents Weekend were down," said Trevor Brown, UB's concert coordinator.

The UB paid $30,937.50 in advertising and entertainment costs for the Gayle concert and made $48,087. The total ticket count was 3,702.

For the Oct. 14 Carlin concert, ticket sales fell 1,084 tickets short of a break-even point for the UB, which amounts to a loss of about $13,000.

Even though the profit was not as large as it had been in the past for various performers, UB members are still very happy with the gain.

"I think it (the ticket count) was better than what has been done in the past years," UB chair Melissa Boehm said. "It was a good turnout and the parents had a really good reaction to it."

One recent Parents Weekend concert which did surpass the Gayle concert is the 1987 Chuck Berry concert. That concert garnered about $27,000 for the UB.

This year's Gayle concert marked the 20th year of Parents Weekend concerts sponsored by the UB. In addition to Berry, past performers to have played Eastern's Lantz Gym stage include the Commodores, Bob Hope, Rich Little, Frankie Avalon and Red Skelton.

And although Homecoming and spring concerts are traditionally financial losses for UB, both are likely for the upcoming spring and fall semesters.

Brown is planning a spring concert for Eastern students in April, but has not come up with anything specific concerning the act or the exact date.

As far as scheduling another Homecoming concert for next fall, the UB members said they feel very certain there will be one.

"It's a good possibility. This past year was bringing it (the concert program) back," Boehm said.

Faculty Senate

Still, Schaeffer does not agree with having department chairs sit on CAA because he believes these people would propose a majority of the changes to CAA.

Senate member Ron Sutcliffe also proposed a senate survey of faculty to determine the amount of support CAA actions have on campus. Because only 38 percent of the faculty responded to the Study on Undergraduate Education, Sutcliffe said the response was too low to fully reflect Eastern's needs.

Schaeffer said the senate needs to find out the concerns faculty members genuinely have about the CAA. "Whenever changes occur and the existing structure is upset, people have concerns about the process," Schaeffer said. He said Barford's motion will receive "careful and complete" consideration before the senate votes on the motion.

Barford will introduce a change to his motion Tuesday that would allow CAA representation to be established on a proportionate basis. Each of Eastern's colleges would be represented on the council according to the ratio of college faculty to total faculty members.

Billboard advertising by large corporations on campus will also be discussed at the senate meeting because faculty members have raised concerns about using university property to promote private corporations, Schaeffer added.

board of trustees that governs Southern Illinois Universities at Carbondale and Edwardsville.

Then, the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) serves at the governing board for those four lower-level boards.

Sutcliffe, Marlow and Schaeffer were among the 35 to 40 faculty members, students, university administrators, board representatives and state legislators who listened to testimony presented by colleagues.

The members of the five panels will meet in Springfield Friday to review the testimony and discuss and analyze their observations, said Kevin Noone, executive director for the Commission on Intergovernmental Cooperation.

By Dec. 31, each panel must submit a written summary to the General Assembly. After that, "there is no telling what will happen," Noone said.

The General Assembly may decide to investigate further or introduce legislation based upon the findings. There is an unlimited number of possibilities that might transpire," Noone said.

The hearings were held at the State Building in Chicago; Northern Illinois University, Illinois State University, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and Western Illinois University.

Testimony covered the pros and cons of governing boards including electing members and whether the Illinois Board of Higher Education is actually leading the way for higher education.

Schaeffer said many of the people who testified during his panel discussion in Chicago on Nov. 7 agreed the IBHE is not leading higher education.

"Funding for education has been cut back drastically," Schaeffer said, adding he would like to see more cooperative communication in the computing area.

In addition, when universities are under one governing board, there is a "thrust to make the schools look the same," he said, adding the thrust is "detrimental to the benefit of the university."

Schaeffer said he would like to see the lower-level boards stop trying to put schools into "molds" and instead, "help develop individual character."

Sutcliffe, who participated as a panel member at the hearing on Nov. 14 at Southern Illinois University, agrees there are both pros and cons to governing boards.

Citing the BOG as an example, Sutcliffe said the BOG "removes diversity and flexibility and stifles competitiveness."

"The problem with boards is you have someone setting policy for your school that's not even in the region. They're sometimes oblivious to the problems of that university because they're not directly involved," Sutcliffe said.

In addition, Sutcliffe said there "can be duplication among the boards - duplication of administrative duties."

Sutcliffe said a third problem with governing boards involves financial management. It is in this area that exists "one of the worst problems in higher education," he noted.

However, Sutcliffe does admit Eastern has exhibited some flexibility under its governing system. "We do seem to have flexibility. We were allowed to purchase Regency Apartments," he said.

Yet, in an autonomous system, budgeting and planning are more flexible, Sutcliffe said, adding by "being autonomous, you look off of self-interest rather than the economic interest of the state."

However, Sutcliffe also pointed out problems with an autonomous system.

"When you do have autonomy, you sacrifice public interest for self-interest," Sutcliffe said, adding this sacrifice "can come into conflict with state goals."

Despite the downside to autonomy, Sutcliffe is a supporter of an autonomic system over the BOG.

"I feel Eastern has concerns Governors State doesn't have," Sutcliffe said. "We're in a rural area."

Millions strike for democratic reform in east

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Millions of people ignored government pleas and joined a nationwide general strike Monday in the largest and most dramatic demonstration so far for democracy and an end to Communist Party rule.

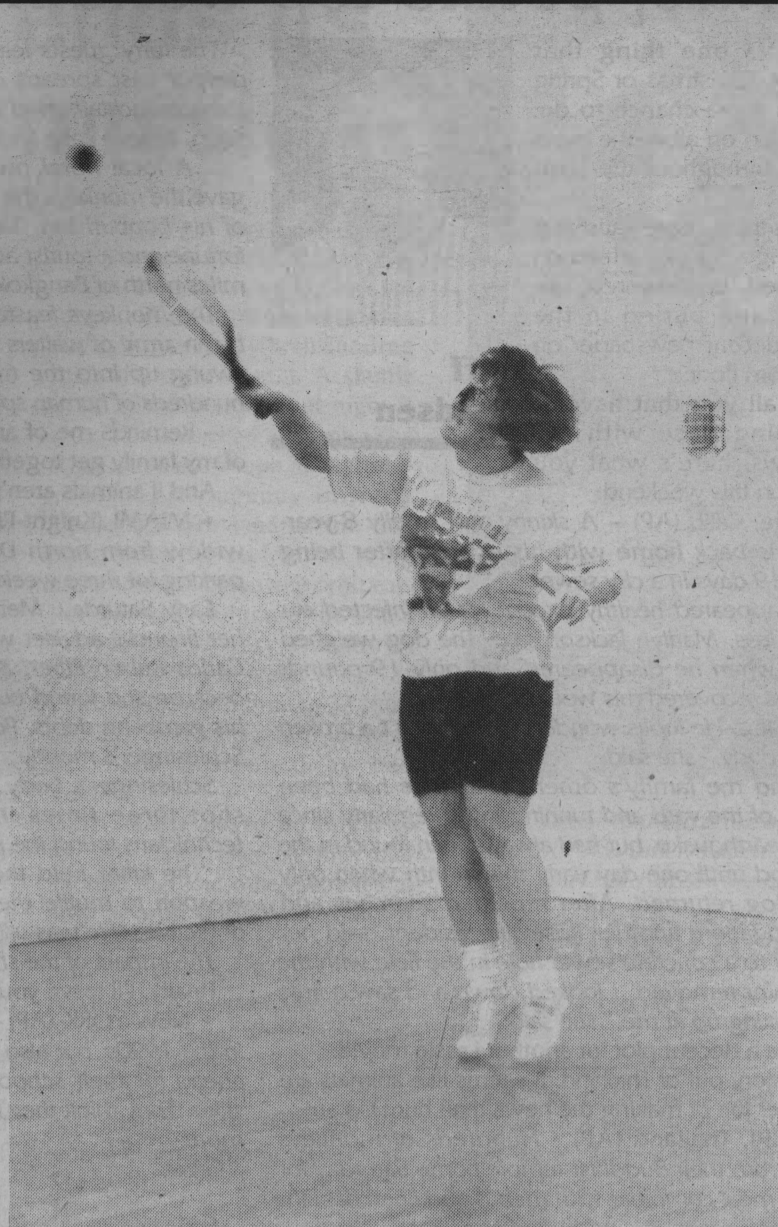

"We don't want you anymore!" a flag-waving crowd of 200,000 roared in a thunderous chant that echoed off the 19th-century buildings surrounding downtown Wenceslas Square. It was the 11th straight day of massive protests in Czechoslovakia.

Huge crowds of workers also poured into the streets of Bratislava, the east Slovak industrial center of Kosice, the mining center of Ostrava on the Polish border, and in Usti nad Labem, the heart of industrial north Bohemia.

The showing was a resounding victory for the opposition, which had called the two-hour strike a referendum on the Communists' 40-year monopoly on power.

Communist leaders' frantic attempts to avert the strike failed, as workers joined the pro-democracy movement started by students, artists and intellectuals.

Shaken leaders continued to make new concessions to the opposition: — The party's Central Committee dumped three more hard-liners from the ruling Politburo, the second major leadership reshuffle in three days.

IDNS investigation to be rescheduled

By KIM MIKUS
Senior reporter

The times previously scheduled for official investigations into the Illinois Department of Nuclear Safety's two-year selection process for a pair of low-level nuclear waste facilities have been changed to a date yet to be announced.

Pat McGuckin, press secretary for Sen. Jerome Joyce, D-Essex, said the dates for the hearings, previously scheduled for Dec. 11, 12, must be changed because an annual nuclear safety conference will be held in Chicago at that time.

The Illinois Senate Executive Committee decided on Nov. 1 to organize a committee to probe IDNS' practices.

Kathy Tharp, Concerned Citizens of Clark County board member, said the change in the set date could be positive, adding that people will have more time to prepare for the hearings.

"The postponement will give IDNS more time to prepare about who they will send to the hearing," Tharp said.

Meanwhile, community and the Concerned Citizens, an incorporated non-profit organization created to inform citizens of the dangers of radioactive dump, are just waiting for the hearing, said Priscilla Wieck, Concerned Citizen board member.

Tharp said group members are putting together statements to prepare for the testimony.

She added that the Concerned Citizens is calling for IDNS Director Terry Lash to disqualify the Martinsville Alternative Site based upon facts they believe indicate the Martinsville site is unsafe geologically and hydrologically.

"There is a growing body of evidence that Lash must go," Tharp said, adding the IDNS has rewritten crucial documents on the proposed Martinsville site.

According to the Illinois Low-level Radioactive Waste Management Act, "The director shall discontinue the characterization and the environmental impact study of any alternative site if the director determines the site is not suitable for the development of a disposal facility," Tharp said.

But Tharp said she believes "this is more than a squabble about data," referring to the lack of communication between the IDNS and the community.

"It's hard to tell what's happening behind the scenes. They're (IDNS) just waiting to drop the shoe," Tharp said.

"We will also ask why the IDNS has gone through such great trouble to cover up information."

Tharp added that the Concerned Citizens "have the evidence to show Martinsville is not the place for the dump and will show that whether it is before or after the hearings."

Textbook rental policy change possible

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Senior reporter

The Textbook Rental Service Advisory Committee discussed on Monday giving academic departments more flexibility as a possible advantage of switching from a three-year to two-year textbook changing cycle.

The current Textbook Rental Service policy states that a basic textbook "shall remain on the approved textbook list for a course for three calendar years or four semesters of scheduled use, whichever is longer.

A semester of scheduled use is defined as a semester in which the course for which the book is an official textbook is offered. If a book is a basic textbook for more than one course, it shall accumulate only one semester of scheduled use during each semester in which it is used.

A summer term is not considered as a semester of scheduled use except for courses taught only during summer."

The policy does have an exception. "In instances where the body of knowledge in a discipline is undergoing rapid and substantial change, the dean (of one of Eastern's six colleges) may, with the concurrence of the Textbook Rental Service Director, approve basic textbooks for a course for less than three years or four semesters of scheduled use."

Monte Bennett, director of the Textbook Rental Service, said there were only 15 requests this fall for the exception to the policy.

Lawrence Bates, an economics professor and committee member, proposed that departments be allowed to change no more than one-third of the textbooks or titles it will use for its courses in any one semester in either a three-year cycle or a two-year cycle.

"It would give more flexibility to a department. The department would have to consider which areas are crucial and which areas are not crucial and it would decentralize the decision making," he said.

Bates said the committee could change the percentage of texts or titles a department could change in a semester, but "the point is you decentralize the process and faculty would feel happy irrespective of what system was used (either a two or three-year cycle)."

Bennett's concern with Bates' proposal is the potential situation created by a faculty member within a department requesting a new textbook after the maximum amount of changes were made.

"Would the responsibility fall on my shoulders or on the department chairs?" Bennett said, adding there have been some department chairs who have made him the scapegoat for decisions on changing textbooks that should have been handled by department chairs.

Bates said the departments could set up their own committees to handle the situation and Bennett could monitor the committees to make sure there are no abuses.

The cost of switching to a two-year cycle for changing textbooks also was brought up during the committee meeting.

Bennett said the Textbook Rental Service is not in a position at this time to do a comprehensive look at the cost of switching to a two-year cycle.

Samuel Taber, dean of student academic services and chair of the committee, said he didn't think a switch to a two-year cycle would cause much of a calamity.

Bennett has said the textbook industry is going to a two-year cycle as a tool to sell new editions of a text, and Taber said a report by the Book Industry Study group indicates the costs of textbooks are rising while the number of textbooks is declining.

Unusual November weather close to breaking records

In a dizzying display of rain, warm temperatures and even a tornado watch, Monday continued a pattern of weather fluctuation which has prevailed throughout November.

Although the day began on a dark note, with cloudy skies and hints of rain, temperatures quickly climbed to the mid-60s, near the record temperature of 68 degrees which was reached in 1909, local weather observer Dalias Price said.

"We do have ups and downs in weather," Price said. "That is the story in the Midwest and especially Illinois."

By 4 p.m., one of those "downs" to which Price had referred — a tornado — threatened to appear, although further weather changes prohibited it from materializing.

The temperature was still higher than averages for this time of year, but the tornado watch had been issued in response to thunderstorms which were supposed to develop, said Fred Snowden, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Springfield.

But just as the thunderstorms failed to develop as expected, neither did the tornado, and the watch was supposed to be dropped by early evening, Snowden added.

As the week progresses, Price said temperatures should drop to the 20s and 30s, with the possibility of snow flurries likely at some point during the week.

"If we're patient, we just might get some," Price said. Temperatures should remain mild and a bit above average until mid-December, Price added.

Lanman to make statement

By BOB McKEE
City editor

A statement likely will be made Monday on whether E.L. Krackers, 1405 Fourth St., was in violation of city liquor codes by allegedly serving alcohol to four Indiana State University students — all minors — on Nov. 8.

City liquor commissioner and Mayor Wayne Lanman said he has received the Charleston Police investigation report of the accident that hospitalized the four students.

"I am going to talk to the owners of Krackers," Lanman said. "I will make a statement next Monday afternoon."

Vigo County Sheriff Jim Jenkins said, "We are letting the Charleston Police take care of (the investigation) because (the alleged crime) was committed in Charleston."

Jenkins said it wouldn't make sense to charge the three students who were not driving with a minor alcohol consumption charge because he believes "they have already paid."

"We can't let the driver (Scott Bush, 19, of Schaumburg) go because he is criminally liable," Jenkins said. Bush was the only one of the four who was charged with a violation — a Class D felony for driving while intoxicated.

It was reported in the Daily Eastern News on Nov. 17 that the students admitted to a Vigo County investigating officer they were drinking at Krackers the night of the accident.

Two passengers are still hospitalized at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis. Robert D. Miles, 19 of Ellettsville, Ind., has been upgraded from critical to fair condition, and Heather Smith, 19 of Gosport, Ind., is still in serious condition after 19 days.

Bush and passenger James Gucinski, 19 of Bloomington, Ind., were released from Union Hospital in Terre Haute, Ind., on Nov. 11.

On the night of the accident, Bush lost control of the car when going around a curve on U.S. 150. The car crossed the center line and struck a parked car on the north side of the road, then struck a tree broadside and jackknifed into a house.

Charleston City Attorney Brian Bower said if Krackers is in violation of the liquor code, Lanman will hold a two-stage hearing in front of the city liquor commission.

"Under the appropriate facts, a liquor license can always be revoked," Bower said. "He (Lanman) has the authority to suspend and or revoke a license. The code gives this permission."

Fee reduction for Fair Share is perfectly fair

Webster's Dictionary defines the word fair as "just and honest; impartial; unprejudiced; specif; free from discrimination based on race, religion, sex, etc."

The Fair Share program, implemented against non-union faculty members by Eastern's faculty union, hardly seems to parallel that definition.

Under the program, the union, the University Professionals of Illinois (UPI), requires non-union faculty members to pay a percentage of their yearly salaries to facilitate the union's bargaining costs.

UPI negotiates the salaries of all Eastern faculty members, regardless of union membership. Most recently, it negotiated a 9.94 percent salary contract for Eastern faculty.

Currently, non-union members pay 84 percent of what union members pay but receive substantially less in return.

For example, although they paid for bargaining costs in the most recent salary increase, non-union faculty members were unable to vote to ratify that contract. UPI allowed only union members to vote for ratification.

And although non-union faculty members are told the 84 percent they pay is supposed to finance bargaining costs solely, that often is not the case. Only one-third of Fair Share monies is used to finance bargaining costs, while the remainder is used for UPI expenses including payroll taxes, employee benefits, travel expenses and telephone fees.

But non-union members do get an opportunity to voice their grievances. Each year, the Illinois Education Labor Relations Board (IELRB) gives them an opportunity to file a formal complaint.

Last year, the IELRB received 800 complaints. As a result, a hearing officer recommended Fair Share percentage be reduced from 84 percent to 35 percent - maintaining 35 percent is all UPI needs from Fair Share members to finance bargaining costs.

We agree.

To do otherwise, would warrant the program's name be changed to Unfair Share.

Animals, potato top world news events

If there is one thing that Thanksgiving, Christmas or Spring Break gives me a chance to do, it's to catch up on all of the news I've missed throughout the semester.

There's nothing more satisfying than spending a Sunday afternoon still undressed, unshowered, unconcerned and buried in the pages of a decent newspaper on the living room floor.

And for all you that haven't been keeping pace with the world's news, here's what you missed out on this weekend:

• Roseville, Calif. (AP) - A skinny and smelly 8-year-old beagle is back home with his owners after being trapped for 19 days in a city sewer.

"Diablo" appeared healthy except for an infected ear and weight loss, Marilyn Jackson said. The dog weighed 43 pounds when he disappeared and only 19 pounds when he was recovered this week.

"It's amazing. He looks wonderful. There isn't a broken bone on his body," she said.

Diablo and the family's other pet beagle had been digging out of the yard and running away regularly since the Oct. 17 earthquake, but had always been found in the neighborhood until one day early this month when only the other dog returned. After repeated searches and some investigation, another Roseville resident, said her dogs led her to a concrete sewer hole in the field with the manhole cover removed. "I looked down and saw a little dog face looking up at me," she said.

- Could be a decent plot for another Lassie movie.

Here's a story out of Thailand. It seems like animals are doing a better job of making the news than humans are:

• LOPBURI, Thailand (AP) - Hundreds of monkeys descended from their Buddhist temple home Saturday for a 12-course meal complete with menus and linen napkins but forgot their manners and hurled soda cans at curious humans.

Jeff Madsen

The furry guests leaped aboard neat rows of tables to devour vast spreads of sweet and sour noodles, salad, tomato cocktail, fried rice, Chinese-style noodles, potato soup, banana cake and coconut candy...

...A local hotel owner, Yougyut Kiwattanananusan, gave the monkeys the meal to thank them for the success of his Lopburi Inn. The monkeys are symbols of good fortune and a tourist attraction in this provincial capital 70 miles north of Bangkok.

The monkeys feasted with abandon despite attempts by an army of waiters to keep order. At one point, some swung up into the trees and hurled soft drink cans at hundreds of human spectators.

- Reminds me of any holiday dinner when both sides of my family get together.

And if animals aren't making the news, vegetables are.

• MIAMI (Knight-Ridder) - Someone shot to death a widow from north Dade County in her car in a bank parking lot three weeks ago, using a potato as a silencer. Early Saturday, Metro-Dade Police detectives charged her financial adviser with first-degree murder. Police say Carlos Ruben Eiber, 31, killed Marlene Schlesinger, 66, because she found out he was using her money to pay his gambling debts. Police believe Eiber stole $25,000 of Schlesinger's money.

Schlesinger's body was found Nov. 1. She had been shot three times in the head, and the crime lab technicians found the potato under her body.

"The killer held the potato against the barrel of the weapon to muffle the shots," said Jay Vass, a homicide detective. "He was using it as a silencer."

The impact of the shooting sent the potato flying. Finally, I'll leave you with this encouraging note:

• NEW YORK (AP) - Americans expect greater wealth in the 1990s, but also greater crime. They see better days ahead for their schools, but worsening pollution in the skies. They think they'll be smoking less, and doing drugs more. ...Great.

Delta Sigma Pi wants fair coverage

Dear editor:

Why isn't The Daily Eastern News covering fraternities, sororities, residence halls, and other organizations in a fair manner?

To be more specific, why isn't Delta Sigma Pi, a fraternity which fosters the study of business as well as social activity, getting equal coverage in the campus newspaper? Delta Sigma Pi participates in virtually all of the campus-wide activities here at Eastern. As well as participating every year in social events like homecoming, Delta Sigma Pi is also highly geared toward professional activities and community service. It seems like any time a social fraternity or sorority performs a community service project, there is often a fair-sized article in the paper the next day.

Delta Sigma Pi has won the outstanding community service award in our region for the last three years, but never had one covered by the paper.

Recently, there was a front-page story in the News which covered East Hall's monetary donation to set up a reward fund for information regarding the attacks of two Eastern women on campus. At our next meeting following this article, Delta Sigma Pi decided to donate $100 to this fund. The next major article covering the challenge had a headline which read "Ninth Street Hall accepts reward challenge."

I'm sorry, but Delta Sigma Pi was the first group to meet the challenge. I guess the fact that Ninth Street Hall donated $8 more than us should entitle it to a full article.

Being forgotten at Homecoming or incorrectly being spelled as Delta Sigma Phi occasionally in the paper is bad enough.

If all fraternities and sororities aren't covered as equals in the newspaper, it could definitely have an unfair bearing on rush events here at Eastern.

Freshmen need parking spaces too

Dear editor:

I am a freshman at Eastern and my hometown is located not too far away from Charleston. Back at home I had a part-time job, which I would have loved to keep. But there seemed to be one major problem. As a freshman, I was denied a parking spot on campus.

To an extent, I can understand the reasoning behind this. But what makes no sense whatsoever is that while I walk around campus, there always seem to be a number of vacant student parking spaces. I can understand why there some vacant spots; certain students live in apartments and need places to park while they are in class. But between classes, there seems to be more parking than necessary.

Isn't there something that can be done so every freshman and sophomore in need of a car can be satisfied?

Shuttle ends its 'secret' mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Discovery's five astronauts, forced by high wind to remain in space an extra day and then an extra orbit, aimed Monday for an afternoon landing in California's Mojave Desert to end their secret military mission.

After being ordered to spend an extra day in space, Mission Control directed the astronauts to remain in space at least an extra 90 minutes Monday because of wind in California's Mojave Desert.

The earliest new landing time for the secret military mission was 4:31 p.m. PST, one orbit later than planned. Astronaut Frederick Gregory was to guide Discovery to a landing at Edwards Air Force Base.

The wind was not as strong as the 30 mph gusts that forced NASA to call off a landing attempt on Sunday, just four hours before the planned touchdown. But they were high enough at nearly 20 mph to make landing conditions unacceptable at all three shuttle landing runways.

"The last assessment was that runways 17, 22 and 23 are all off limits because of tailwinds or cross winds being too high," said Mission Control commentator Billie Deason.

She said forecasters expected conditions to be OK at runway 17, on Rogers Dry Lake, at the new tentative landing time. Deason said there was one other landing opportunity Monday, one orbit later, about 6 p.m.

The five-day flight reportedly has put in orbit a satellite to monitor military communications over a wide area of the globe.

The delay Sunday shifted the touchdown from nighttime to daylight, during which landing rules are less stringent. A shuttle is not allowed to land at night if crosswinds exceed 12 mph. The figure rises to 17 mph in daytime.

The space agency initially rescheduled the landing for 4:32 p.m., but then decided to bring the spacecraft home one orbit earlier, thereby reducing the sun's glare on Discovery's windows during the final descent.

It was the sixth time in 32 shuttle missions that a return to Earth has been postponed by bad weather.

The delay posed no threat to the astronauts because they had enough fuel and other supplies to stay in orbit until Wednesday if necessary. NASA also has other landing sites at White Sands, N.M., and at Cape Canaveral but prefers the long, wide-open runways at Edwards.

Discovery's other crew members are pilot John Blaha and mission specialists Manley Carter Jr., Story Musgrave and Kathryn Thornton.

In announcing the landing delay, Mission Control said that the shuttle and its crew "continued to be in excellent condition."

A Pentagon-imposed news blackout that affected most of the mission kept the space agency from discussing the astronauts' reaction to the delay.

Eastern's Assistant Director of Student Activities Eileen Sullivan and her sister, a Charleston high school senior, join two other students to welcome in the Christmas season into Charleston Monday night at the Square, where Mayor Wayne Lanman officially turned on the city Christmas lights.

Residents deck square with cheer

By SUSAN THOMAS
Staff writer

T'was the night before Tuesday, and right on the square, there were carolers and a band... even Santa was there.

The lights were hung in most of the stores and spectators seemed to come out by the scores.

It wasn't exactly the night before Christmas, but there were festivities on Charleston's square Monday night.

About 100 spectators, both young and old, gathered around the stairs of the Charleston Courthouse to hear selections from community members and the Charleston High School brass and woodwind ensemble warming residents with the Christmas spirit. The children of First Presbyterian Church choir took the stage for a moment singing an array of songs from "Deck the Halls" to "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." A few students from Eastern sang.

Santa was close at hand hearing Christmas wishes from several of the children. He says he even has a Christmas wish of his own for the good boys and girls of Eastern. "...A good time, good health and finish the next year and graduate," Santa said.

The event sponsored by the Charleston Uptown Merchants Association and the Arts Council lasted about 20 minutes.

One couple who stayed out to hear the singers said, "We decided to come down because it's always nice to show support for the square. The weather was nice today so that helps," Barbara Sullivan said.

Christmas caroling on the Courthouse stairs is becoming an annual event which has improved over time, according to Mayor Wayne Lanman, who came out to watch listen to the performers.

Broadcast students offered career glimpses

By LORI HIGGINS
Staff writer

WEIU-TV, in cooperation with the Illinois Broadcasters Association, is sponsoring a series of career seminars from 1-4 p.m. Thursday in the Charleston/Mattoon room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The sessions offers students interested in broadcasting "an overview of what it's like to work in the commercial world," said Ken Beno, of WEIU-TV.

Beno said WEIU was asked to help sponsor these sessions by the Broadcasters Association, a state organization from Springfield which conducts conferences throughout the state.

All seminar sessions are free and open to the general public.

"All we had to do is provide a room," Beno said.

The seminar will consist of four question and answer sessions that last an hour, Beno said.

Each session will feature a panel of three members available to answer questions. The first session begins at 1 p.m. and will focus on "news," Beno said, adding professional broadcasters on the panel will explain their background and talk about their jobs.

"If a person is interested in print or broadcast news, they can get their (the panelists') professional opinions," Beno said.

The second session, sales and management, is for those interested in going into the business side of broadcasting, Beno said. This session begins at 2 p.m.

At 3 p.m., the panelists will present "How to Get Your First Job," which will give people "tips on what they are looking for when hiring people," Beno said.

Unlike the first three sessions, the fourth session will be held at Coleman Hall Room 116. Beno said this session will be conducted by Wally Gair, executive director of Illinois Broadcasters.

"He will discuss any issues that are hot right now in the broadcasting business," Beno said.

Other panelists for the seminar include Phil Hoover from WLRW in Champaign; Rex Hansen from WBNQ in Bloomington; and Dave Shaul, news director of WCIA in Champaign.

Accident totals squad car

By CARL WALK
Staff writer

An additional squad car may have to be purchased by the Coles County Sheriff's Department because of a Nov. 8 car accident in which a Coles County Sheriff's car was damaged in Henderson, Ky.

Capt. Brian Marvin and his wife, Rebecca Marvin, a correctional officer also with the Coles County Sheriff's Department, had driven the squad car to Florida to retrieve two youths who allegedly stole a car in Charleston. The accident occurred while the two officers were bringing the youths back to Charleston.

Rebecca Marvin, who was driving the squad car back to Charleston at the time of the accident, was turning north on Watson Street in Henderson, Ky., but her view was partially obstructed by a sign.

Of three witnesses at the accident, one reported he saw Marvin pull out in front of another vehicle, according to the Henderson police report.

The Henderson police report on the accident also stated four people were injured in the accident, including Rebecca Marvin, who suffered some broken bones, and one of the prisoners.

In an effort to save the county some money, Coles County Sheriff Jim Kimball decided against flying the two officers because of limited funding, but now the county is faced with the costs of replacing the destroyed squad car.

Originally, the Coles County Sheriff's Department budgeted the purchase of three new police cars, but after the accident, that number may increase to include a replacement for the damaged one.

Art center holds sale for holiday

By STEPHANIE CARNES
Activities editor

Holiday shoppers will be offered a wide variety of gift ideas this weekend in Eastern's Tarble Arts Center.

The third annual Christmas Art Sale, co-sponsored by the Eastern art department, will take place 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, and will continue from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

"Each year the sale has grown in popularity," said Dan Crews, public relations director for Eastern's College of Fine Arts. "It's a good opportunity for holiday shoppers to shop for people.

"There's a lot of variety of art work to choose from, such as paintings, small sculptures, pottery, weavings and photographs," Crews added.

Ernie Whitworth, an assistant professor of art, will coordinate all of the works created by students, faculty and community residents that will be on sale in the Brainard Gallery of Tarble.

The Tarble Gift Shop, coordinated by volunteer Ruth Jaenike, will also offer many Christmas gift items, including clothing and jewelry, as well as a large selection of ceramics, baskets and other crafts.

A large number of new works by area artists will also be available for sale in Tarble's Sales/Rental Gallery, which was coordinated by Barbara Watts.

The Christmas items will be in all price ranges and will be targeted to people of all ages.

All proceeds from the sale will support Eastern art department scholarships and the Tarble Arts Center public programs.

Breaking up is hard to do

By STEPHANIE CARNES
Activities editor

A majority of people would say breaking up with someone is hard to do, no matter how much or how little it involves.

A life skills seminar focusing on this subject will be offered at noon Tuesday in the Effingham Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Dr. Clayton Tucker-Ladd, a professor with the psychology department, will present the seminar, entitled "Breaking Up: Leaving a Loved One and Being Left."

"I will talk about the processes involved in breaking up and the process of deciding whether or not you're in love," Tucker-Ladd said.

"It (the seminar) will focus on how to make the decision of whether or not to break up and what needs to be considered when breaking up," Tucker-Ladd added. "Then I will focus on how to deal with breaking up."

According to Tucker-Ladd, the lecture will be about 30-40 minutes long. "There will be time set aside for questions and answers following the lecture.

"I will try to make the seminar practical and useful," Tucker-Ladd said.

Traffic takes 398 lives

CHICAGO (AP) - Traffic accidents during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend caused 398 deaths nationwide, just under the National Safety Council's projections for the four-day period.

The council had estimated that between 400 and 500 motorists could be killed on the nation's roads between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Sunday, local time.

Last year, 438 traffic deaths were reported during the holiday period.

This year, California reported the highest toll with 59 deaths, followed by Florida with 35 and Georgia with 24.

The highest number of traffic deaths reported for a Thanksgiving holiday weekend was the 720 fatalities logged in 1965.

Pleasures of Paris
Paris is many people's dream city, from the Champs Elysees to the Eiffel Tower, from cooking schools to haute cuisine, Here's a quick tour.

The left bank is for cafes, galleries, street minstrels. Visit the Luxembourg Gardens, stopping first at a local market for the makings of a picnic.

On the right bank you'll find the Louvre, and also a noteworthy piece of architecture, the Pomodou Art Center. It has its fans and its detractors, but it's certainly different: rather like a building with all its plumbing on the outside, or something unfinished. The interior galleries however, are quite splendid.

Between the banks, of course is the Seine. An extremely pleasant way to get a feel of the city is to take an tour on the little riverboats, the "Bateaux Mouches." One of these—the Litote—even doubles as a hotel off-season.

Paris addresses are followed by a five digit code, like our zip codes. The last two digits indicate "arrondissements," or areas of the city. If you study a map and get a feel for which arrondissements are where, you'll be well on your way to finding your way around.

Mother gives liver in historic operation

CHICAGO (AP) — A mother trying to save her daughter's life by participating in the nation's first living-donor liver transplant showed no "signs of doubt" before the historic operation Monday, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The surgery involving Teresa Smith and her 21-month-old daughter, Alyssa, is the first liver transplant from a living donor in this country, said doctors at the University of Chicago Medical Center.

If successful, the operation could provide a solution to a severe shortage of organs for children who need transplants, said doctors at the university hospital.

More than 700 babies a year in the United States need liver transplants, and as many as half die for lack of a donor.

Alyssa suffers from an often-fatal liver disorder called biliary atresia, the leading cause for liver transplants involving children.

She had been waiting more than a year for a cadaver liver transplant when the Smiths heard about the hospital's plans for an experimental living-donor program in August. Liver transplants from living donors have been performed only three times — in Brazil, Australia and Japan. One child has died.

Mrs. Smith went into surgery at 7:35 a.m. to begin the operation in which the left lobe of her liver — about one-third of the organ — was to be transplanted in her daughter.

"She was as eager to get started as she was a month ago when we first proposed this to her," said hospital spokeswoman Mary Fetsch.

Hungry elections postponed

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Opposition groups narrowly won a referendum Monday that postpones the presidential election and gives them more time to organize against the ruling Communists, who now call themselves the Socialist Party.

According to preliminary results from the national electoral board, 50.1 percent of those participating voted for the first question on the ballot: "Should the presidential elections be held only after the parliamentary elections?" It was Hungary's first free election in more than four decades, and the first since the Communists dissolved their party, renamed it the Socialist Party and opened the way for free, multiparty politics.

A statement from the board said the four opposition groups sponsoring the referendum won by only 6,618 votes. Official final results were to be announced Tuesday.

Of the 4,297,454 valid votes cast in the first referendum in postwar Hungary, 2,152,036 favored the question and 2,145,418 were opposed.

Hours earlier, Imre Pozsgay, the Socialist Party presidential candidate, acknowledged the opposition had won.

The other three questions on the ballot were approved overwhelmingly, said the electoral board statement carried by the official news agency MTI.

It said 95.1 percent of voters wanted the party out of the workplace, 95.4 percent said the ruling party should reveal its assets, and 94.9 percent favored disbanding the Workers' Militia, a party army that already is melting away.

Pozsgay told a news conference earlier Monday: "While in Eastern and Central Europe people by the hundreds of thousands are marching in the streets to express their opinion, Hungarians are going to the ballot box to express their political will." Victory for the opposition means new democratic Parliament, to be chosen by June, will elect the president. If voters had defeated the referendum, they would have elected a president directly on Jan. 7.

Opposition groups said an election in January left them too little time to organize a serious challenge to Pozsgay. They hope to win strong representation in the new Parliament, which would give their candidate a better chance at the presidency.

Recent opinion polls indicate the Socialist Party will not win a majority of the seats.

The opposition alliance has proposed that Parliament amend the constitution to allow a popular election of the president after the new Parliament is elected. It also proposed curtailing the president's powers.

US, Soviet summit to change trade relations

WASHINGTON (AP) The United States and the Soviet Union are on the verge of reviving normal trade relations as their leaders meet in this weekend's summit, though it could be years before trading practices catch up with the political changes sweeping the Communist bloc.

Trade between the two superpowers will be a primary topic of discussion at the Mediterranean shipboard summit meeting between President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

For its part, the administration hopes that strengthening U.S.-Soviet trade ties will provide American support for Gorbachev's economic restructuring, known as perestroika.

There is no doubt that the Soviet economy and Gorbachev's restructuring efforts are in need of a boost. With winter approaching, the Soviets are plagued by strikes and severe shortages of many consumer items.

So far, Bush has stopped far short of any bold package of measures aimed at promoting extensive East-West economic links, although the administration has given endorsement to Gorbachev's economic reforms and offered U.S. economists to supply technical assistance to the Soviets.

One announcement Bush is expected to make at the summit or soon after is a proposed waiver of the high tariffs that have been imposed on imports of Soviet goods into the United States for the past 15 years.

Those tariffs, which carry duties as much as 10 times higher than on imports from other countries, are a result of legislation passed by Congress in 1974 known as the Jackson-Vanik amendment.

That law says Communist countries may not receive favorable tariff treatment from the United States unless they permit free emigration of their citizens.

Last May, Bush announced that he would ask Congress to remove the Soviet Union from the Jackson-Vanik restriction if the Soviet Union liberalized its emigration policies.

The Supreme Soviet is debating legislation that would essentially put into law what has already been occurring in the Soviet Union.

U.S. satellite 'burial' planned for weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Solar Maximum satellite, which got a new lease on life with in-orbit surgery five years ago, will be cremated in a plunge to Earth this weekend.

"We expect it to come down on Dec. 2, plus or minus 24 hours," Capt. Thomas Niemann of the U.S. Space Command in Colorado said Monday.

Late last week, NASA engineers at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland sent signals that jettisoned the satellite's antenna and two solar panels, shutting down its instruments.

"It is clinically dead," said Goddard's Randee Exler.

Solar Max has been getting scientific information from the sun for nearly 10 years, covering almost one complete solar cycle.

Even its death taught engineers something. They wanted to see if the solar panels would jettison on command after all this time in the chill of space. They did.

Now the satellite, its fuel spent and no longer able to resist Earth's pull, is tumbling near the edge of the atmosphere, which is becoming increasingly dense.

When the 5,000-pound spacecraft is finally captured and plunges through the atmosphere, it will be mostly destroyed by fire, but some larger pieces may survive and fall in chunks to Earth.

In the satellite's path are much of South America, Africa, India, Australia and the southernmost tip of China. South Florida and the extreme southern part of Texas and Hawaii are the only U.S. areas along the track.

Solar Max cost $77 million to build and launch in February 1980.

When three of its seven instruments failed, experts thought enough of the satellite to send a space shuttle crew to repair it. In 1984, they pulled next to Solar Max, brought it into the cargo bay, fixed it, and sent it on its way - the first time such a feat had been attempted in space.

A month later, in May 1984, Solar Max recorded one of the largest flare eruptions ever seen on the sun.

Other achievements in Solar Max's career: In 1987, its gamma ray spectrometer was the first instrument to detect rays from Supernova 1987a, a distant star that exploded in a neighboring galaxy.

Student's body found

ACME, Wash. (AP)-The community hunt for a missing 18-year-old honor student was halted Monday when searchers found a body in the shallow Nooksack River and tentatively identified it as the young woman.

Whatcom County Undersheriff Doug Gill declined to answer any other questions about the search until later in the day.

A search had been under way since Friday for Amanda Stavik, who was home on Thanksgiving break and had gone for a jog with her dog, Kyra, who returned alone.

Until Monday, authorities had seized upon a pair of teal blue sweatpants recovered in the area as their only potential clue. Stavik was wearing that color garment when she was last seen.

Whatcom County officials had asked the FBI for help and planned to enlist the aid of the Green River Task Force, a Seattle-based team of detectives with expertise in abduction that was formed to pursue a serial killer.

The FBI helped interview classmates of Stavik at Central Washington University in Ellensburg.

The sweatpants were discovered 10 miles from the Stavik family's home in this farming community of 250 people in northwestern Washington state, 80 miles north of Seattle and 20 miles south of the Canadian border.

"You think of those things happening in Seattle but not here," LoBay Smith said from behind the cash register at Acme Foods, where customers had pledged $7,000 to anyone finding "Mandy," as Stavik was known.

Many of the Staviks' neighbors had joined the search in the evergreen-studded foothills and along Highway 9, a busy road connecting Seattle and its suburbs with the Mount Baker ski area.

Stavik's mother, Mary, had worked to keep her mind from dwelling on her missing daughter.

"She was very happy and positive and feeling good about school," Ms. Stavik said Sunday. She said her daughter had brought a Japanese exchange student home for the holiday.

Stavik was last seen about a half-mile from her home by her younger brother, Lee, 13. Her mother thought she had jogged the three miles to the south fork of the Nooksack River.

Pena signs with Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) - Tony Pena signed a $6.4 million, three-year contract with the Red Sox on Monday as Boston ended its long reluctance to sign high-paid free agents in an attempt to end its catching problems.

Pena, a five-time All-Star who spent the last three seasons with St. Louis, will receive a $600,000 signing bonus and salaries of $1.5 million in 1990, $2.1 million in 1991 and $2.2 million in 1992.

He earned $1.1 million last season.

The Cardinals have high hopes for rookie catcher Todd Zeile and had no interest in re-signing Pena, one of baseball's top fielding catchers.

The signing probably means the end of Rich Gedman's nine-year career with the Red Sox.

Gedman's performances have declined since he made the American League All-Star team in 1985 and 1986. Last season, Gedman, a left-handed hitter, batted .212, his second-lowest average with the Red Sox. He had four homers and 16 RBIs in 260 at bats.

Rick Cerone, Boston's other catcher last season, hit .243 with four homers and 48 RBIs in 296 at bats. John Marzano joined the team at the end of the season and batted .444 in 18 at bats.

age with the Red Sox. He had four homers and 16 RBIs in 260 at bats.

22 seasons, winning consecutive MVP awards in 1975 and 1976. He holds the National League record for most games played at second base (2,427) as well as a number of fielding records.

Morgan, a key member of the champion Cincinnati Reds, also played for the Houston Astros, San Francisco Giants, Philadelphia Phillies and Oakland Athletics.

Thompson picked for Camp award

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) - Anthony Thompson, who set three NCAA rushing and scoring records this season for Indiana, was named on Monday as the Walter Camp Player of the Year.

Thompson won a plurality of the votes cast by Division I-A coaches and sports information directors. The voting revealed a lack of a consensus about who deserves recognition this year as college football's top player.

"There are a lot of great players out there," Thompson acknowledged in accepting the honor and discussing his prospects for winning the Heisman Trophy, which is voted on by a committee of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Asked if he felt he was the best player in college football, Thompson said: "I don't think so. When I was younger, my mother told me there's always somebody better." Thompson, who will be the first Indiana athlete in any sport to have his uniform number retired, said his success would not have been possible without the contributions of his teammates and coaches.

The votes cast for "player of the year" by about 190 head football coaches and sports information directors were only a recommendation. The final decision rested with the foundation named after the "father of American football." The foundation does not usually provide a breakdown of the voting for top player, according to president Ernest C. Williams.

Williams would say only that Thompson was recommended by about 30 percent of those voting, while Houston quarterback Andre Ware was second with about 25 percent.

Morgan, Palmer on ballot

NEW YORK (AP) - Joe Morgan, a two-time National League Most Valuable Player, and Jim Palmer, who won the Cy Young Award three times, head 21 first-time candidates on the 1990 Hall of Fame ballot distributed to veteran members of the Baseball Writers Association of America on Monday.

Morgan batted .271 with 268 home runs and 689 stolen bases in

Mookie stays with Jays

TORONTO (AP) - Mookie Wilson, who sparked Toronto's drive to the AL East title after being acquired in August, is staying with the Blue Jays for at least two more years.

Wilson, who had spent his entire career with the New York Mets before being sent to Toronto, on Monday signed a two-year contract with an option for a third year for a guaranteed $2.95 million.

Ditka says Bears still in the race

LAKE FOREST (AP) — Coach Mike Ditka backed off from his "over" remarks voiced after Monday's 38-14 loss to Washington, but said it would be difficult for the Chicago Bears to make the playoffs.

"Yes, we can make the playoffs," said Ditka. "It will be tough and it will be hard. We will have a shot. This week will be the ultimate game." This week the Bears take their 6-6 record to Minnesota. The Vikings are 7-5 and tied for first place with Green Bay in the Central Division with the Bears one game back and four to play.

In an effort to get in a better week of practice, the Bears will go to Madison this week for workouts at the University of Wisconsin's indoor facility.

Ditka said the players voted on the move to practice under better conditions. Last Wednesday, the Bears went indoors at Lake Forest College, but had to work in the dark because of a power failure. On Thursday they worked on a frozen field.

"The conditions were the main reason," said Ditka. "We can practice and concentrate without the guys slipping off their feet." Ditka also softened his "We stink" remark when he refused to give the Redskins credit for their victory.

"After looking at the films, I can't say they proved any great enlightenment," he said. "We were not as bad as I thought, but we were not good. Mistakes were our basic problem, plus he (Mark Rypien) threw very well but we didn't do anything on offense to take the pressure off the defense." The Bears have lost six of their last eight games after winning the first four. They can still make the playoffs by winning their last four games against Minnesota, Green Bay, Detroit and San Francisco.

"We can talk all about what we can do and what we must do," said Ditka, "but nothing can happen if we don't win this Sunday." Asked what has gone wrong with this team after going 4-0, Ditka said "I have no idea. If I did, I would do something about it." But he did blame some of the downfall on not being able to get through to certain payers.

"Some do and some don't," said of paying attention. "It was the same thing when I was a player." As to criticizing players, Ditka said "I'm not saying things to hurt people, I'm saying what's factual. There's nothing we're doing that we can't better but it's going to take everyone." Following Sunday's loss, Ditka ridiculed rookie cornerback Donnell Woolford.

"Evidently, Woolford can't cover anybody," Ditka said, adding that "I think we made some mistakes on some people we picked." Ditka said the strength of the team at the start of the season was the offensive line and it can still be the strength of the team.

Lance a question

Nickelback suffers injury

By DAVID BRUMMER
Staff writer

Eastern defensive back Tim Lance could miss Saturday's Division I-AA quarterfinal play-off game at Montana if the condition of his sprained ankle doesn't improve.

Lance severely sprained his left ankle after intercepting a pass on the 4-yard line against Idaho last Saturday and was forced to sit out the rest of the game.

Lance, who was first team all-conference and Eastern's leading tackler this season, has been on crutches since the injury and was still using them Monday.

"It's a day to day thing," Eastern coach Bob Spoo said. "It's a severe sprain; he's still not applying pressure to it. It's very discolored."

Spoo said it's too early to tell whether or not Lance will play at Montana.

"He's a tough kid and I'm sure he'd go if he possibly could,"

Manley may be getting help

HOUSTON (AP) — Suspended Washington Redskins defensive end Dexter Manley reportedly has checked into a substance abuse treatment center, but the operators of the facility Monday would not confirm his presence.

The Washington Post reported Monday that Manley, who was banned from the NFL on Nov. 18 for violating the league's substance abuse policy for a third time, had flown to Houston to be admitted to the John Lucas New Spirit Recovery Center at Houston International Hospital.

Lucas, however, citing confidentiality, would not confirm to The Associated Press that Manley had entered the center for treatment.

Lucas, a point guard for the NBA's Houston Rockets, began the center after his own bouts with drugs.

Manley acknowledged for the first time over the weekend that he had a drug problem.

The Houston drug treatment center offers an in-patient, outpatient rehabilitation program.

Spoo said. "Right now, though, (the ankle) is unpleasant looking."

If Lance could not play, Spoo said there would be a number of options for Lance's replacement. Sophomore Tony Farrell, who plays mostly on Eastern special teams, played a lot against Idaho once Lance left the game. Spoo also said Rod Heard could fill the void. Another option would be moving all-conference strong safety Daryl Holcombe to Lance's nickelback/linebacker spot.

Meanwhile, senior linebacker Ron Winston is likely to play against Montana after he left the Idaho game with a minor knee injury.

Winston bruised a ligament in the back of his knee and his practice status is listed as limited, meaning that he should avoid contact and heavy workouts. However, Spoo said Winston was dressed for Monday workouts.

"I think he'll be OK," Spoo said of Winston.

Eastern nickelback Tim Lance suffered an ankle injury at Idaho and may not be ready for Saturday's second-round game at Montana.

FOOTBALL NOTEBOOK

The double-reverse touchdown pass from Eric Arnold to Jason Cook that has worked in the past was inserted when the Panthers found out that Idaho had not seen the film of the Southwest Missouri State game, the last time the play worked.

"We're three-for-three with that play," Arnold said.

Cook said that he never considers what could happen if he drops that pass.

"I don't think about those kinds of things," Cook said. "If you think those things, you will drop it."

Eastern offensive coordinator Eric Holm revealed where the Panthers found that play.

"We got the play from (Eastern offensive line coach) Bill Legg," Holm said. "They ran it at West Virginia when he was there, and they still run it with (Mountaineer quarterback) Major Harris."

Eastern receiver Ralph Stewart did not make the trip for the Panthers.

Stewart recently had a death in his family, and was given an option of whether or not to play in the Western Kentucky game, according to Eastern coach Bob Spoo.

Stewart departed after the game, and Spoo has not seen him since.

"We haven't seen him," Spoo said. "He wasn't at practice Tuesday or Wednesday."

Call Eric Arnold superstitious if you will.

Arnold, who usually will not shave until after each game, has now decided not to shave until Eastern is eliminated.

"Wouldn't want to change our luck," said Arnold, who by next week may resemble the Montana mascot — the Grizzlie.

As the Kibbie Dome came into view of the team bus, Eastern defensive tackle John Jurkovic could not resist making a comment about the structure.

"Do they raise livestock in there?" Jurkovic asked. "That place looks like a barn."

Eastern kicker Ray D'Alesio preferred kicking inside the dome.

"It was like kicking in my living room," D'Alesio said. "It felt like the same kind of carpet you would put in a basement."

D'Alesio converted on a 37-yard field goal, but missed one of equal distance earlier in the game.

More on D'Alesio, who does seem out of character in his uniform No. 97, which is usually reserved for defensive linemen.

"I don't know (how he received the number); it wasn't my choice," D'Alesio said. "Hopefully next year I'll have No. 6."

And why is that? "My boy, (Chicago Bear kicker Kevin) Butler," D'Alesio said. "It got him 23 field goals in a row."

Eastern tops Sycamores

By JEFF SMITH
Sports editor

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Eastern guard Gerald Jones found himself in big play after big play in the last 1:12 against Indiana State Monday night in Terre Haute, Ind., and after he sank two free throws with five seconds remaining to give the Panthers a 60-58 victory, Eastern found itself on top.

After Sycamores' forward Eddie Bird missed the second of two free throw with 11 seconds remaining, Jones took the ball the length of the court and was fouled in the lane by Indiana State guard Rob Vickers. Jones proceeded to hit both ends of a one-and-one and guard Ron Cheatham missed a 30-foot desperation shot at the buzzer.

Jones said he was fortunate to be fouled.

"I kicked the ball out to Kavien (Martin, Eastern guard), who missed the shot, so I'm glad (Vickers) fouled me," he admitted.

The win brought Eastern to 1-0, while Indiana State fell to 0-2.

The game was a battle between two halfcourt teams; neither team scored via the fast break in the second half.

"Our intent was to play more of a halfcourt game," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said. "I think we've decided that it's best for our kids to play the halfcourt game."

Despite the slow pace of the game the final 1:12 proved to be anything but methodical.

After Indiana State closed to within 56-55, Jones hit a 12-foot jumper to give the Panthers a three-point cushion with 1:12 left.

Bird then hit two free throws to reduce the lead to 58-57, and Eastern again rested its fortunes with Jones.

This time, however, Jones fired a three pointer off the back iron and after a Sycamore time out, fouled Bird while trying to recover a loose ball with 11 seconds left.

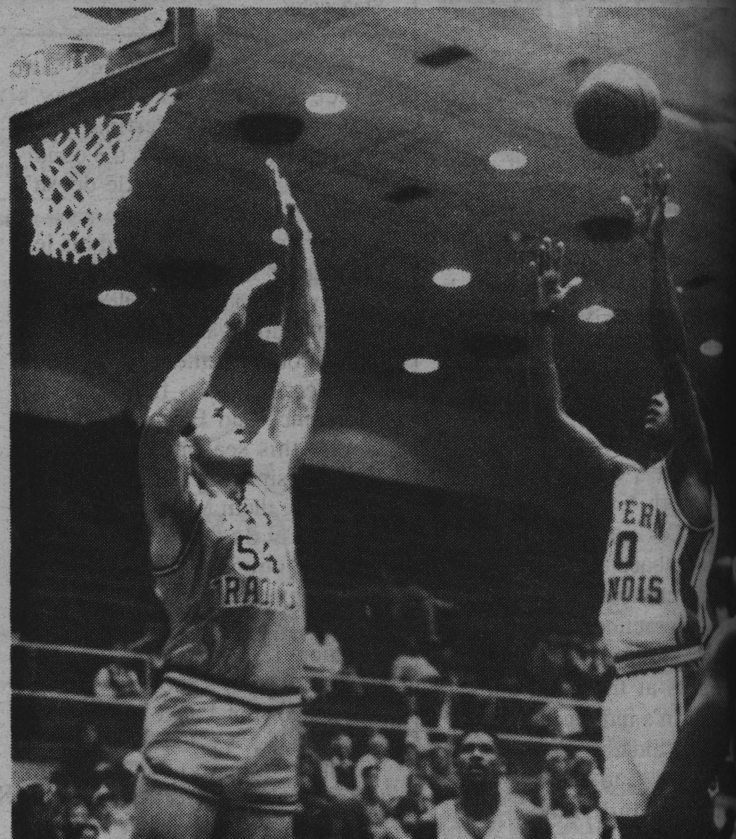

"It was a home call, and fortunately he missed one of the free throws," Jones said.

"I thought it was a little questionable, but since they called the foul down on this end of the court (the Vicker foul), it was fair," Samuels said. "I had no problem with the officiating the way they handled it."

Eastern won the game without two of its starters. Forward Barry Johnson was held out of the game because he was 15 minutes late for Monday's shooting practice. Guard Steve Rowe played only six minutes, all in the first half. Freshman Eric West replaced Johnson and Martin subbed for Rowe.

Eastern (60)
Jones 7-14 2-2 16, Rowe 0-1 0-0 0, Martin 2-6 2-2 7, West 4-6 1-2 9, McKinnis 0-1 0-0 0, Hamilton 1-1 0-0 2, Olson 6-11 0-0 16, Mironcow 3-8 2-2 8, Nicholson 0-1 2-2 2. Total 23-49 9-10 60.

Indiana State (58)
Vickers 0-1 0-0 0, Brown 8-9 3-5 19, Harris 0-1 0-0 0, Inman 0-4 0-0 0, Thomas 0-4 0-0 0, Rowan 2-3 0-0 4, Boles 2-4 0-0 4, Bird 7-12 11-16 26, Gross 1-2 0-0 2, Burrage 0-1 0-0 0, Cheatham 0-1 0-0 0, Liles 1-1 1-2 3. Total 21-43 15-23 58.

Eastern forward Barry Johnson shoots for two in Eastern's exhibition loss last week against the Lafayette Hustlers. The Panthers beat Indiana State 60-58 Monday without Johnson, who sat out because he was late for shooting drills.

Eastern to host Northwestern

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Associate sports editor

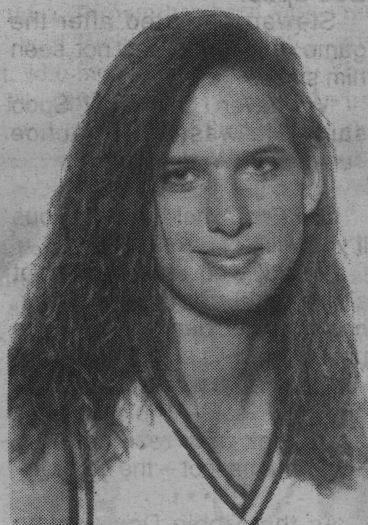

Eastern's women's basketball team will face Big Ten Conference's Northwestern in its home opener Tuesday at 7:30 at Lantz Gym, coming of a pair of narrow defeats in Los Angeles, Calif. over the weekend.

The Lady Wildcats are the only non-Gateway Conference team to visit Lantz Gym this season.

"I think our team is in good shape; the two games we lost were really close," said Eastern freshman Michele Rogiers, who saw 20 minutes of action at UCLA and 17 against Loyola Marymount. "We're in great physical shape."

Northwestern returns four starters from last year's squad, which finished 11-17 and tied for sixth in the Big Ten with Illinois.

"If we win, the whole Gateway

Michele Rogiers

Conference will be brought up higher," Rogiers said. "The Big Ten, you hear so much about it."

Before last season, Northwestern had a streak of 12 consecutive winning seasons, and, like Eastern, competed in the 1987 NCAA Tournament.

Lady Wildcat junior center Mya Whitmore was the starting center for the gold-medal North team at the U.S. Olympic Festival last summer. Whitmore average 13.4 points per game last season.

Junior guard Jeanine Wesielis was the only Northwestern performer to participate in all 28 games a season ago. Guard Nancy Kennelly averaged 6.1 assists per game last season as a freshman to lead the Big Ten.

The Lady Wildcats will return Michelle Savage, who lost a part of last season because of academic ineligibility. Savage, was a three-time All-State selection at Immaculate Heart of Mary, which won the Illinois state class AA championship in 1987.

McCausland not happy with grappler weekend

By JEFF SMITH
Sports editor

None of Eastern's wrestlers placed in this weekend's Northern Open in Madison, Wis., a turn of events that did not sit well with head coach Ralph McCausland.

"I wasn't very happy with the performance," he said. "There was just something missing. I don't know if it was the Thanksgiving break or what."

Only individual scores were kept at the informal meet, with the top six finishers in each weight class recorded as placers.

The quality of the 460-wrestler field may have had something to do with it: 10 Top 20 teams participated, including Iowa, Iowa State and Michigan, McCausland said. "You're wrestling the top kids in the country, which is good experience for the wrestlers," he said.

Still, McCausland said the Panthers must enter future meets more mentally prepared to win. "They need to get their heads in the match and go after it more," he said.

Senior Terry Murphy, sophomore Mike Papes and freshman John Weber turned in the Panthers' best performances. All three finished 2-2 in the double-elimination meet: Murphy in the 150-pound weight class, Papes at 158 pounds and Weber at 118 pounds.

Despite the weak performance by the 17 grapplers who saw action, McCausland said the team, led by four seniors, will come together as it participates in more meets. "I'm not worried about them coming around," he said.

Football team proving that it can succeed

With one more victory, Eastern's football team can venture where no other Panther squad has gone in Division I-AA. With one more win, Eastern coach Bob Spoo would in one year equal the win total that he has totalled his previous two seasons combined.

All this with what many considered to be a fourth-place Gateway Conference team, which managed to finish second. All this with a team that was considered a 21-point underdog at Idaho.

There could have been some finger pointing early. They could have pointed at Brian Pindar when he let the snap go through his fingers to lose a potential tie at Southern Illinois — but they didn't.

The attitude of defensive tackle John Jurkovic conveyed the message in that game. Eastern's All-American defensive tackle said they should have never been in that position, and that was enough said.

Later in the season, there could have been finger pointing in the direction of quarterback Eric Arnold, who was intercepted not once, not twice, but three times late in the Panthers' loss to Northern Iowa — but again, the team regrouped, most likely realizing that without Arnold's performance this season, there may not have been a ghost of a chance to be in the position Eastern is in now: the Division I-AA quarterfinals.

Al Lagattolla

Teams usually reach the playoffs when they are injury-free. This Panther squad has not been as fortunate. Receivers Mark Sheedy, John Metzger and Ralph Stewart were felled early by injury.

Who would have known that freshmen Mike Rummell and Terrence Hickman and junior college transfer Willie Ashford would come through? Jason Cook has become one of the premier receivers of the Gateway as a sophomore.

At tight end, Mark Grady was an early casualty, but Tim Moore and a pair of converted tight ends in former linebacker Stan Milan and former quarterback Mike Sahm have more than pulled their own weight when called upon.

On the defensive side, Eastern has been the force that it was expected to be. The defense shut down Southwest Missouri State, which came in as the top rushing offense, and then stopped Idaho, Division I-AA's top passing offense.

And it all goes back to team togetherness, Spoo's gospel throughout the season. Spoo has mentioned all along that there has been no complaining about anything the players have been asked to do.

As cornerback R.L. Reynolds said, winning cures all ills, but it goes the other way as well.

Nobody told freshmen like Edson Castillo and Broc Montgomery that they were supposed to be mediocre. Someone forgot to remind Arnold that he is only average.

The season is not over yet for this team. A victory over Montana would certainly not be out of the question.

Spoo has been a madman on the sidelines throughout most of the season, and the attitude has spread. Nickelback Tim Lance is a true maniac, tailback Jamie Jones is a true wonder.

Questions have been answered. Before the Liberty game early in the season, Spoo said he needed a cure for the short yardage situation, a bugaboo that plagued the Panthers dating back to last season.

Montgomery was the answer, picking up numerous 4th and-short spots along the way.

Spoo was looking for a solution to the long snapping situation when starter Tod Schwager was hurt. He found a remedy with Jurkovic and Dan Wegryzn doing the honors.

He wanted to consider his options at punt returner where Hickman has looked potentially outstanding at times.

And the receiver situation has not bothered him since. Arnold's knees have held up. Jones has been durable. The questions about the one-back offense ceased at Austin Peay.

More than anything, the team has refused to quit. Even when they lost, the Panthers were driving right back at the end.

Win or lose, this Panther club will be remembered as a team that has surpassed all expectations — except their own.
