Eastern cut budget more than required

By TYLER PIERCE
Staff writer

When Gov. Jim Edgar required that all state universities reduce their budgets by 1 percent this year, Eastern responded by cutting even more than was requested.

The result is a $158,532 "internal fund" that will be used by the university to either protect the university's instructional programs and essential support services or will serve as a hedge for next year's budget.

The actual reduction that Eastern was required to make was $362,900, or 1 percent of the school's general revenue and educational assistance funds appropriation.

In his State of the University Report on March 12, President Stan Rives said, "We had reason to believe that the required reduction would be $521,432, or 1 percent of our appropriated fund budget." Rives made the decision to stay with that $521,432 cutback since the reduction process had already begun, he said.

Rives has asked Eastern Vice President for Academic Affairs Robert Kindrick to solicit and evaluate any request for funds through the college deans in order to prevent harm to programs of direct instruction.

Rives said direct instruction programs involve anything having to do with faculty in the classrooms, specifically faculty salaries and classroom resources.

Kindrick said that there have already been requests made for those funds by some departments.

"The president and I are in the process of evaluating those requests," Kindrick said, "but we're not certain how many of them we'll be able to deal with." Kindrick did not give any specific examples of the requests that have been made.

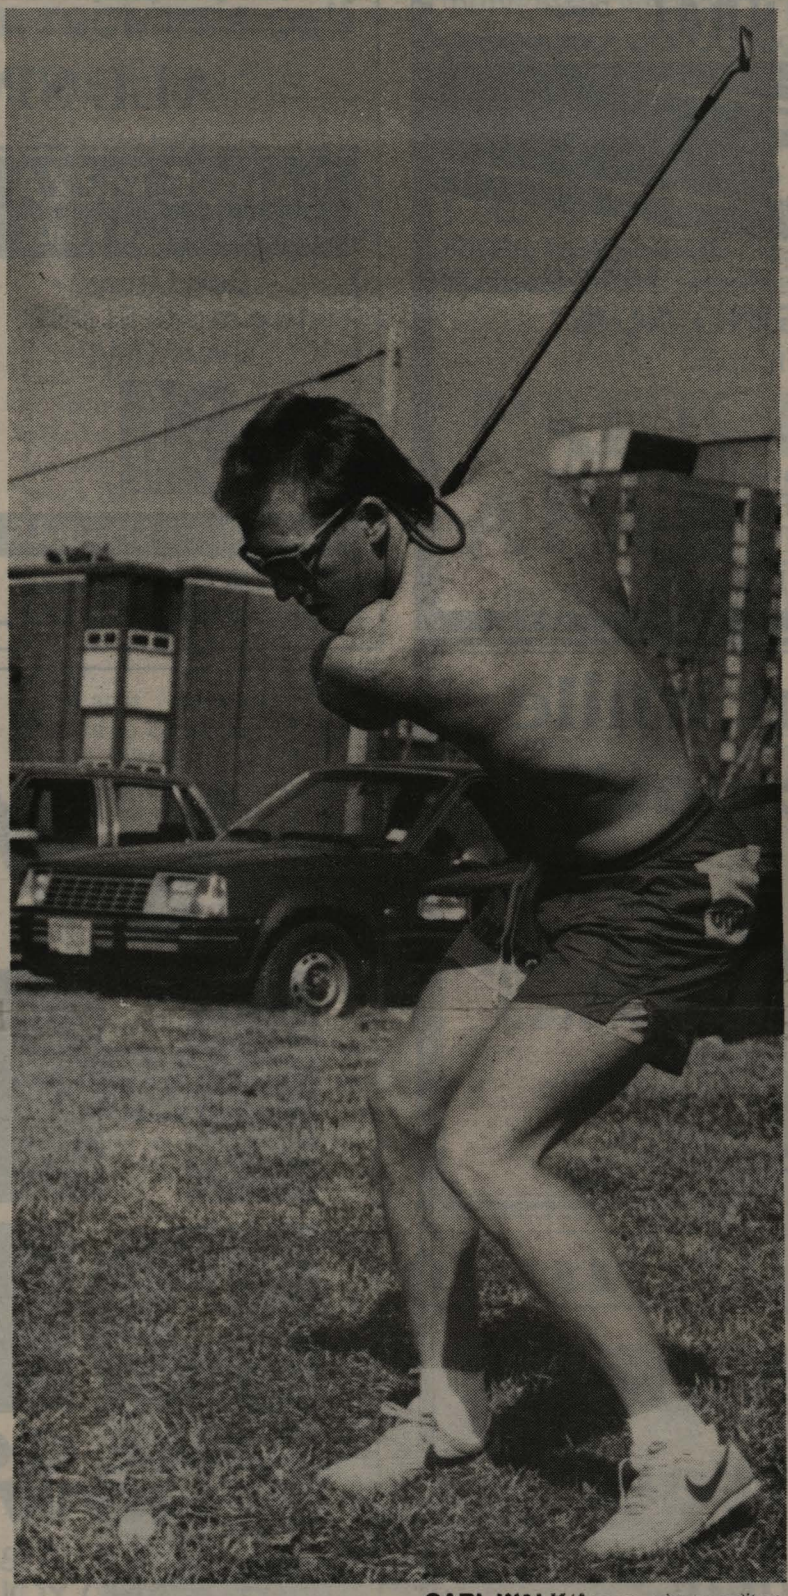

When the university's Council on University Planning and Budgeting made the original budget cuts, several of the school's instructional budgets were reduced. However, administrators avoided cutbacks in instructional funds by transferring them elsewhere in the budget.

What remains to be seen is how much of that internal fund will be needed to "assure that no significant damage is done to the instructional program," as Rives outlined in his report. Any remaining money in the fund will be used for next year's budget, which Rives said also presents a grim picture.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education has approved an 8.5 percent increase, or a budget of $56,585,100 for Eastern for the 1991-92 fiscal year. Rives said that the increase is necessary for the university and he said he will stand firmly by that figure as the appropriation moves through the General Assembly.

That budget relies heavily on Edgar's state budget plans for next year. This year, of the $76.1 million that Edgar cut from the Illinois budget, $13 million came from state universities.

Rives said he has already "launched plans to effect a 10 percent reduction in administrative overhead next year."

Japan pays $5.7 billion in war costs

WASHINGTON (AP) – Japan will make a $5.7 billion contribution to the U.S. Treasury on Friday to defray U.S. costs for operation Desert Storm, American and Japanese officials said Thursday.

The announcement, which came shortly after Japanese Foreign Minister Taro Nakayama opened official talks here, was one of several indications that the two countries are determined to overcome recent strains in relations.

During a half-hour meeting with Nakayama, President Bush thanked him for Japan's contributions.

Japanese Foreign Ministry spokesman Taizo Watanabe said Bush acknowledged there was some "frustration" in the United States with Japan, but said that resulted mostly from disputes over trade and not the widely reported differences over the Persian Gulf.

The discussions also included the possibility of a U.S.-Japanese summit early next month, possibly in California.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, posing for pictures with Nakayama at the State Department Thursday morning, brushed aside suggestions of a rift.

The relationship between the two nations, Baker said, "has been extraordinarily good for many, many years, and we want to see it continue that way." Baker said he didn't believe there was any relationship more important to the United States than the one with Japan.

In another friendly gesture, Baker presented a certificate of appreciation to Akio Shiota. The Japanese diplomat sheltered 16 American Embassy officials and their dependents in his Kuwait residence shortly after the Iraqi invasion.

After a working luncheon at the State Department, Nakayama said a recent increase in Japanese support for U.S. forces based in Japan "is one example of what we have done and we can do and will do for the benefit of our bilateral relations." Japan raised its contribution from $60,000 per soldier to $100,000, Nakayama said. Through a translator, he described his talks with Baker as "very significant, fruitful, very meaningful." White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the $5.7 billion promised for Friday was the first installment and that the remaining $3.3 billion would be delivered "relatively soon."

Watanabe told reporters that Japan's full $9 billion contribution already had been disbursed to the international consortium that administers foreign contributions.

He said it was the consortium's responsibility to transfer the money to the respective recipients. Most of Japan's donation is earmarked for the United States.

Former VP's son charged with harassment

By JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

The son of a former Eastern vice president has been charged with telephone harassment for allegedly calling a faculty member who instigated an investigation resulting in the administrator's recent termination.

Stanley J. Armstrong, the son of former Vice President for Business Affairs Verna Armstrong, was charged with a Class B misdemeanor Thursday by Coles County State's Attorney Nancy Owen. The charge results from a harassing phone call Stanley Armstrong allegedly made at 12:28 a.m. on March 9 to David Carpenter, an associate professor of English and chair of Eastern's Faculty Senate.

Last fall, the Faculty Senate began raising questions about nepotism and unethical hiring practices under Verna Armstrong's jurisdiction. The senate inquiry was prompted by the October hiring of Scott Walker to the post of assistant director of planning and research, a post that pays $32,700 yearly. Walker is also Verna Armstrong's son and was a direct subordinate to his mother.

The Faculty Senate's inquiry led to the commissioning of Bloomington attorney David Stanczak to begin a three-month probe into 25 questionable hirings under Verna Armstrong's jurisdiction. Stanczak's report, concluded that only three of the 25 hirings, excluding Walker's, demanded further inquiry. The Stanczak report cost Eastern $25,000 and is now available at the reference desk in Booth Library.

Although the report did not single out Verna Armstrong for breaking any laws, she was fired with one year's notice two weeks ago by President Stan Rives. Rives said he fired Armstrong partly because three other vice presidents approached him and said they could not work with Verna Armstrong because of repercussions from the Stanczak report.

A Class B misdemeanor is punishable with two-to-five years imprisonment. A court date has not been set for Stanley Armstrong.

Student arrested after bar fight

By KELLY SEIFERT
City editor

Charleston police say a fight between two men Wednesday night at E.L. Krackers resulted in the arrest of a 24-year-old Eastern student.

Tyron L. Browder, 2216 Ninth St., was arrested by the Charleston Police Department on charges of criminal trespass to property and disorderly conduct, according to a police report.

The incident occurred at 12:39 a.m., and the Charleston Police were called at 1 a.m., the report said.

Bob Valencic, manager of Krackers, 1405 Fourth St., said Browder began a fight with another bar patron and was asked to leave by the bouncers at Krackers. He refused, Valencic said.

After being confronted by the bouncers, Browder allegedly fled the bar and was later arrested by the Charleston Police, the report said.

"If a person is irate and we feel threatened, we call the police," Valencic said.

Charleston Police Chief Herb Steidinger said the Charleston Police Department was the only law enforcement agency involved in the incident.

Eastern junior nominated for scholarship

By JENNIE KOMINOSKI
Staff writer

John Biernbaum acted pleased and a little bit flustered when it was announced that he was chosen as the Residence Hall Association's candidate for the Enochs scholarship.

"I am really very honored to have been nominated," Biernbaum said. "I think any of the (other) five candidates would have been good candidates."

Biernbaum, a junior political science major, said he doesn't even care about the money. "I'm just really excited about being nominated."

The Enochs scholarship was established in memory of Richard G. Enochs, former assistant director of housing at Eastern. The scholarship is awarded annually to a student residing in the residence hall system who has made a significant contribution to resident hall life.

"John, throughout all the work he has done deserves our nomination," RHA President Eric Fultz said. "This our way to thank him for all that he has done for RHA."

Leukemia victim receives call from boxer Thomas Hearns

By THOMAS McALLISTER
Staff writer

Many people can only dream of meeting or talking to someone famous. But for a Thomas Hall counselor that dream came true when his hero gave him a friendly phone call.

Sean McKinney was diagnosed as having leukemia and cancer early last semester. He has been an avid boxing fan for a long time, and he recently received a call from his favorite boxer Thomas "The Hitman" Hearns.

According to Ken Wetstein, a resident assistant in Thomas Hall, McKinney is not just an average boxing fan.

"He is a huge boxing fan," Wetstein said. "In his office he has boxing paraphernalia everywhere. One of the biggest posters he has is of the Hearns/ (Sugar Ray) Leonard fight. He is a big, big fan of Thomas 'The Hitman' Hearns."

Since last semester, McKinney's aunt has written Hearns to inform him of McKinney's condition and of his love for boxing. Hearns responded by sending McKinney an autographed picture signed,

"Sean, stay tough."

Recently, however, McKinney received something that he did not expect—a phone call from "the Hitman" himself.

They had a good conversation about McKinney and talked about Hearns' career, Wetstein said. McKinney discussed some of Hearn's fights with him and talked specifics about the punching combinations and rounds in which Hearns did well.

The big topic of conversation was the controversial Hearns/Leonard fight. Wetstein said Hearns was impressed by McKinney's knowledge of his career.

Hearns encouraged McKinney to continue fighting his illness, Wetstein said. He broke off the phone conversation by giving McKinney his home phone number to use whenever he may need it.

"There is some symbolism involved (with the call) because, like 'the Hitman,' Sean is a fighter, and he will keep fighting," Wetstein said.

McKinney said he was very appreciative of the call from Hearns.

"As far as heroes, I picked a good one," he said.

Faculty Senate vote gives Rives new opportunity

Now that the Faculty Senate has taken its vote on a "lack of confidence" in in Eastern President Stan Rives, it seems the stage is set for some substantial change at the university.

The vote Tuesday – in which 13 of 15 senate members (two abstained) said they lacked confidence in the president – was a major step in getting the university back on track after months of problems.

That vote has much symbolic potency, while still allowing the president some leeway in putting the past year's disastrous decision behind him – and the university.

The senate, by wording the statement as a "lack of" rather than "no" confidence, is giving the president an opportunity to prove himself, an opportunity to make the university community believe (by his actions) that his aim is true.

Rives already has responded to the senate vote by promising to "work for the university" and "uphold ethical standards of conduct."

But those are just words: The president's statements don't have much strength, especially considering the months of lies and deceit with which Rives' administration has been linked.

For the campus community to trust Rives again will take time, will take cooperation and understanding, will take the president telling the truth (all of it) all of the time.

The senate has given the president a chance to prove that his decade's worth of service to the university means more than the past year's revelations seem to have shown.

Rives now has a chance to prove that he "upholds ethical standards" by cleaning up the mess left in the wake of a Board of Governors investigation.

The firing of Verna Armstrong, the former vice president for business affairs, was a powerful start, but there is still much work to be done.

And Rives is the man to begin that work.

Eastern needs to get back to the work of a university: academics. But it cannot with this cloud still hanging over its head; it is Rives' job to remove that cloud.

TODAY'S QUOTE

Truth has a way of shifting under pressure.

Curtis Bok

Why do people resort to violence?

Hear the one about the 23-year-old teacher who seduced one of her high school students to convince him to kill her husband the insurance salesman?

Sorry, there's no punch line.

But it kind of makes me think. Whatever happened to the good old days when academics came before sex and murder in high school?

What's become of human kindness?

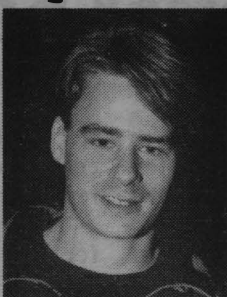

Sure, helping the teacher out after class is good and a little sucking-up never hurt matters when the grades were handed out but you've got to draw a line. Murder, no. Even if extra credit is on the line.

But this does force us to ask a basic question about society when we talk about the crazy things people do to each other. Killing each other, not withstanding.

This question should be asked every day whenever we pick up the newspaper – any given paper on any given day.

A 14-year-old paperboy accused of killing his customer in Detroit. Four cops in Guatemala City, Guatemala found guilty of killing a homeless child. A Nebraska man was convicted of kidnapping a 9-year-old girl.

A group of cops in L.A who pummeled the motorist on national television for speeding. His skull was cracked, he suffered broken bones and contusions. The officers are likely to spend some time in prison for excessive use of force. And the motorist will no doubt get out of paying the ticket.

Mike Chambers

It just doesn't make any sense. Human life is precious, everything else can be replaced. Money can be replaced with other money. Love can be replaced with another love. Speeding tickets can be given out almost anytime.

So what needs to be done? Countless studies have been done by thinktanks all across the country. They study everything about murder, rape, and other violence and usually come up with some outlandish thesis, such as murder being linked to too much cholesterol in the diet. I actually read a study done one time where C students were more likely to commit vandalism than A students.

As basic as it sounds we could all stop the growing incidents in murder by taking the initiative ourselves. For starters we can quit hitting, shooting, or knifing each other. If no one reading is currently doing any of those things – good – keep up the good work.

Also we can learn a little more tolerance for one another. Next time some guy really angers you to the point of considering homicide, put down the automatic weapon and count to ten. Then wish him a nice day. And walk away.

Actually, these aren't very practical solutions to violence. I really don't think there are any practical solutions to hurting each other.

But one thing is for sure. The newspaper, if it does nothing else for us, it at least gives us a good indication daily of how much work we need to do in that area.

Have a nice day.

Your Turn

Judicial officer defends Eastern's obscenity policies

Dear editor:

Whoever wrote the headline, "When free speech costs bail money" didn't get Jeff Madsen's point. Fear of arrest for speaking one's mind on a public street, no matter how closed that mind may be, is not the threat for our citizenry that Jeff addresses.

The alarm he raises is for our campuses. Some of them desiring to foster an atmosphere of civility, have prohibited racist, sexist or otherwise offensive expression as being violations of conduct standards. "It is the right of individuals to be free from injury caused by discrimination, and the University's duty is to protect the educational process," argued the University of Michigan when it drafted such a policy, one subsequently quashed by the courts.

The problem with such policies is that most are so broadly written as to invite conflicting interpretations and arbitrary application. Narrowly drawn policies, on the other hand may be defensible. Freedom of speech is not absolute. Reasonable time and place restrictions may be imposed. "Fighting words" obscenity and defamation are not protected speech. Racist speech directed to a specific individual can be, and has been at Eastern, prohibited by the narrowly drawn legal concept of "fighting words."

In other than those unique circumstances must we, in the University community, endure the expression of ideas that we find abhorrent and false? No.

Challenge bigotry through discussion, debate, argument and moral suasion. Just don't rely on your government to protect you from untruth.

Keith Kohanzo
University Judicial officer

Tolerance of fools is more effective than legal action

Dear editor:

Jeff Madsen reminded us again today, of the importance of our first amendment rights of free speech. Apparently, one student has already been bitten by somebody's silly nanny rules about what is acceptable speech.

Keith Kohanzo and other officials of this university should approach this issue very soberly with the bill of rights very much on their minds and recruitment and retention a little less on their minds.

Freedom means you may hear offensive words spoken and public decorum violated.

Somebody may call me a white male chauvinist pig. I may be flattered or offended, depending on the circumstances. Such talk lacks decorum and fails to make for conversational engagement. To punish such a failing is to create a prison and to destroy a school.

No thanks, Keith, do not ever punish anybody for calling me a white male chauvinist pig. Punishing the offense would be worse.

Let's all grow up, become adults, and learn to suffer fools gladly.

Leadership club seeks new members

By PAM MILLER
Activities editor

The Leadership Excellence Club, a campus group formed last semester to promote leadership, is looking for more members.

"We're classified as a service club," said club member Angie Rinkel. "We try to organize some speakers for the campus and the community and plan some fund raisers. The thing is, we're really limited on what we can do because we don't have many members yet."

"When we first started our main thing we had to get the constitution organized," Rinkel added.

She said there was an organization at Eastern with the same name as her group, but the new club has made their goal different.

"Our main goal probably is our motto, 'Learning to Enhance our Community,'" Rinkel said. "We have the motivation, but not the manpower. We have good ideas but can't get the people involved."

"We're trying to promote leadership in the club by delegating duties to each member. It's something that would look really good on a resume," she said. "Employers like to see leadership skills. It helps responsibility and time management. You develop skills that you will use forever."

The club is also trying to contact a hospital so they can do volunteer work once a month, but the group must be certified to do that type of work, Rinkel said.

"In the past we have had Mr. Larry Baca lecture on drug and alcohol awareness," Rinkel said. "Major Dinnen from the military science department came down and gave a presentation on what is a leader, and two weeks ago we had a health teacher speak on fitness for success."

"We're sponsored by the military science department," Rinkel said. "It's not a military science club; we're just sponsored by them."

Rinkel said club members must pay a $5 fee every semester. The fees help pay for posters, ads and gifts for speakers. The group meets at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday in Room 108 of Klehm Hall, and the meetings are open to everyone, she added.

Eric Clapton's son fatally injured Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — The 4-year-old son of rock guitarist Eric Clapton died Wednesday after he fell out the window of a 53rd-floor apartment, police said.

Conor Clapton fell shortly after 11 a.m. and landed on the roof of a four-story building next door, according to Officer Kim Royster.

The boy's mother, Italian television star Lori Del Santo, and a housekeeper were in the apartment when he fell, Royster said.

Eric Clapton was in New York when the accident occurred, but he wasn't in the apartment, said his publicist, Ronnie Lippin in Los Angeles.

The housekeeper had just finished cleaning the window pane and had left it open to air out the room when Conor ran past him and fell out the 4-by-6 foot window, police said.

Del Santo and Conor were staying in the apartment during their visit to New York from Italy, Lippin said. She didn't know who owns the apartment in the sleek, modern Galleria Condominiums on East 57th Street.

Hurricane challenge awaits baseball squad

By DON O'BRIEN
Associate sports editor

With spring break coming up, many Eastern students will head south to spend their break in Florida for some fun in the sun. Eastern's baseball Panthers are on their way to Florida too, but there's a different reason for their trip.

They go south in search of some wins to pull them back up to the .500 mark. The trip won't be easy as the Panthers continue to play some of the top teams in the country with the fifth-ranked Miami Hurricanes heading the list.

The Panthers also play some non-Division I teams on the trip. On Saturday they face Division II Columbus College, followed by games against NAIA opponents North Florida on Sunday and St. Xavier on Monday.

"Our schedule just isn't getting

Panther road woes continue at Evansville

After shutting down the Evansville offensive attack Wednesday, Eastern's pitching staff ran into some trouble on the Aces' mound Thursday during an 8-4 loss. Evansville fell behind the Panthers 1-0 in the top of the first, but the Aces came storming back against Eastern's starter Doug Furlow, who gave up six earned runs on eight hits and four walks in four and 2/3 innings of work.

Furlow was relieved by right-hander Scott McDonald, who was touched for a two-run homer off the bat of Evansville centerfielder Bob Watson. McDonald worked two and 1/3 innings and Andy Keefner came in to finish the ninth.

The Panthers tried to get back into things during their last at bat when they started the inning off with back-to-back singles. Firstbaseman Greg Davis singled and moved to third on a single by Chris Clark. Catcher John Crabb cleared the bases with a three-run blast, but Eastern was retired to the end of the game.

Eastern pitcher Steve Lemke, who beat Evansville Wednesday at Monier Field, has been selected as the Mid-Continent pitcher of the week. He hurled two straight shut outs and has allowed only one earned run in his last 21 innings. Lemke raised his record to 2-3 on the year and his ERA is 4.02. He has nine strike outs and 10 bases on balls, and has given up only four hits in two games.

any easier on us," said Panther coach Dan Callahan, whose team carries a 3-11 record into its journey. "Sometimes I feel like I ought to shoot myself for the schedule I put together. Because of the fact that some of the non-division I schools we play are some of the top teams in their divisions, we have got our work cut out for us. There aren't going to be any easy opponents on our schedule."

What should be the toughest test the Panthers will take on is a

Tuesday contest with the Hurricanes.

Miami, who was the NCAA champion in 1985, is currently 23-6 with half of those losses coming against Top 10 teams, Texas and Louisiana State.

"We have had some ups and downs so far this season," Hurricane coach Ron Fraser said. "We started off well, dipped for a bit, and are now on the way back up. What hurt us during our down time was the loss of a few players due to injury and academics."

Fraser said that good pitching and solid hitting from catcher Charles Johnson (.328 and five home runs) and thirdbaseman George Fabergase (.340 and four homers) have helped the Hurricanes get off to a solid start.

"There is so much parity in college baseball," said Callahan of the Panthers task of knocking off the Hurricanes. "We proved last year that we could beat any team on any given day. We played the 10th ranked team in the country last weekend (Ohio State) and had them by the tail one game and let them get away."

Track squads hit road for spring training trips

Some of the top members of Eastern's men's track team left campus Thursday heading to Alabama to begin their spring training trip. Meanwhile, the Lady Panther track team travels to Houston to compete in the Bayou Classic at Rice University Friday.

For the men's squad, 20 selected individuals will be competing in both the Alabama Relays in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and the Arkansas Relays which are run in Jonesboro, Ark. Both are three-day competitions which begin with field events and the first five events of the decathlon.

The Alabama Relays begin on Friday and the Arkansas Relays are scheduled to begin on Thursday the 28th. The spring trip is designed to give the athletes a chance to train in a warmer climate and also give them a chance to go up against tough competition.

"We'll definitely be looking to take advantage of the good weather down south," said head coach Neil Moore. "Since we're never guaranteed good weather up here in April when we have the majority of our meets, I'm hoping that we can get some good efforts from them over spring trip."

Some of Eastern's top performers that will be competing include Braidy Miller in shot put as well as the discus and hammer throws. Dan Steele who placed fifth in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles in the national meet last year, will be entered in his specialty event as well as the open 400 meters.

For the women's squad, head coach John Craft said he hopes his team will finish in the upper division of the Gateway Conference if it can overcome the problems that accompany inexperience.

"Our goal will be to finish in the top half of the Gateway," Craft said. "That will be a difficult task for us because we are a young team and there are some very good teams in the Gateway."

At the 1991 Gateway Indoor Championships, Saverson placed third in the long jump with a leap of 18-feet 5 1/4 inches, earning her all-conference honors. Mayner finished second in the high jump with a mark of 5-feet 7 1/4 inches, which gave her her first all-conference selection. Levy placed fourth in the 55-meter high hurdles, narrowly missing an all-conference selection. And Scott finished fifth in the pentathlon in only her third time competing as a pentathlete.

Women's tennis squad will face formidable Drake team

Eastern's women's tennis team will be hard at work during spring break in Kissimmee, Fla., taking on some of its toughest competition of the year.

The Lady Panthers' first match will be on Saturday against Drake University. Eastern coach Grant Alexander said, "Drake will be our toughest match of the year and it will be our first match outside. It should be interesting to find out how tough they can play."

Junior Jill Bachochin, who has been hampered by a shoulder injury, should be playing in their first match against Drake.

"Jill has a bad shoulder and they're not quite sure what it is yet," Alexander said. "We hope the cortisone shot will help alleviate some of the pain. She should be ready to play."

The Lady Panthers will be playing Bowdoin, Middlebury, Wisconsin-Whitewater, Oberlin, and Wisconsin-Green Bay over spring break. Alexander added the team uses the spring trip for fitness.

"It should help us get in shape," he said. "It's usually between 80 and 90 (degrees) down there, so it will be a difficult situation. One of the bigger reasons we go down there is to work on our conditioning. It's an intense seven days of tennis, but there's no stress of classes. We also want to get our wounded healthy."

Another player who is trying to battle back from injury is senior Kim Rhodes. She is coming off of knee surgery. "Kim has been cleared to play for two weeks and hopefully we can get her into shape gradually."

But Alexander said although the team is hurting, others have been able to fill in.

"Julie Purser has been looking pretty good," he said. "She has improved since the fall, so we're counting on her. We haven't had the whole group together, so we're behind from last year. It should be interesting down in Florida."

Rolling softball squad still sees room for improvement

Despite starting out the season with an 8-1 record, Eastern softball coach Kathy Arendsen said she believes that there is room for improvement on the team.

The Panthers will get that chance over spring break when they travel to Shreveport, La., to play in the Patterson Invitational. Eastern will be pitted against such teams as Northeast Louisiana with a 17-17 record, Stephen F. Austin and Oklahoma City. Games times are noon, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

"The best part of all (starting out 8-1) is that we can improve," Arendsen said. "It (spring break) is going to be a big test for us. We will be seeing teams that have played a lot more games than we have."

Spring break is a time when the team will be together a lot and Arendsen is looking forward to it.

"We will be spending a lot of time together," Arendsen said. "We call it team bonding. Spring break will be a time for us to kind of get things together as a team."

The Panthers are coming off of a sweep of the Indiana Hoosiers and have won their last seven contests.

Chris Koehl is off to a 6-0 start with two saves and has given up only two earned runs all season. But Arendsen said she believes that hitting and defense will be the key to winning over the break.

"We have to continue to hit well," Arendsen said. "Our defense will have to improve as well. We've made more errors than I expected, but it is not all our fault. We have been playing on pretty bad fields."

The Panthers will also be provided challenges against such teams as Sam Houston State, Nicholls State, Southwest Missouri State and St. Mary's College throughout the spring break week.
