CUPB does not endorse academic affairs cuts

By Jarad Jarmon

Associate News Editor | @JJarmonReporter

The Council on University Planning and Budgeting have decided the recommendations to be sent to the president's council to be considered when deciding where the cuts

The CUPB endorsed two of the three-subcommittee recommendations including excluding the academic affairs subcommittee. Despite the lack of endorsement, all three recommendations were accepted as written.

Some of the members had difficulties with aspects of all three-recommendation lists. Asege HaileMariam, a psychology professor, said she could not vote in support of any subcommittee recommendation lists. She said there were parts in each one she could not agree with.

The president's council will be looking over everything including the various budgets and program analyses across campus as well as the recommendations CUPB made when deciding the $8 million needed to be cut over the next couple of years. Of the $8 million, $1 million will be reallocated into programs, which need the appropriations more.

President Bill Perry said what those in the state congress decide on when it comes to higher education allocations would affect the cuts made at Eastern.

He added others in higher education as well as himself have been advocating to congressmen for level or increased state funding for higher education.

"We are going to be looking at everything. (The recommendations) are going to be an important part, but they might not have addressed some things that can help us," Per-

Bill Weber, the vice president for business affairs, said the attrition will also play a big role in how many cuts are made. He added the recent state pension reform has spiked a significant increase in faculty looking to retire.

While next year's budget already had a certain amount of attrition built in, those looking to retire are exceeding that number. The current retirement numbers are in the mid-70s. The average attrition is usually 60 faculty members.

"I am not going to be surprised if it hits higher than that," Weber said. "When you hit about 90, then you are at the point when are talking about 5 percent of our workforce."

The president's council will have solidified recommendations to present to the Board of Trustees at their June 6 meeting.

At the meeting, each CUPB subcommittee provided recommendations to enhance the university in their area.

The business affairs, president's area and university advancement subcommittee reviewed the possibility of creating a metric system that would make each program and building on campus more efficient.

Vice president for business affairs to step down

By Bob Galuski

Managing Editor | @BobGaluski

The vice president for business affairs will be stepping down from his position at the end of May.

Bill Weber, who has worked in various positions at Eastern for 26 years, said the state pension law, which was passed in December, had a major impact on his reason to leave.

"I had hoped to work a bit longer here at Eastern, but again, between the realization I've reached a stage of life where I do want to change the pace of life, where I do want to have the time and freedom to focus on my other interests," he said. "And the timing of the state pension law brought me to the conclusion that the end of May is the right time for me to step down."

Weber said his decision was not a long time BILL WEBER coming, and the timing with the pension law spurred him step down, even though it is not the end of his contract.

Along with the state pension law, Weber said his decision also came from a desire to explore other interests, which includes his hobby of photography and image editing.

He said he enjoys taking photos and, with the help of Photoshop and other editing software, edit the images into different styles.

"And so my long-term plan is to keep working on my skills and hopefully be able to start a business that offers services in image editing, photo transformation and even comic book coloring," Weber said.

Other than wanting to start a small business, Weber said he did not have any detailed plans after he steps down at the end of May.

Celebration to feature reptiles, arts, bands

Rain or shine, it's coming to Eastern For the 37th year, the Celebration: A Festival of the Arts will begin Friday. The festival will be at South Seventh Street, between the Doudna Fine Arts Center and the Tarble Arts Center. The festival will have dance programs, children's theater, a children's art tent, musical performances and an international fair. Bands will take the stage and the food booths will open at 11:30 a.m. Friday. There is no admission fee to the festival and the area is handicapped accessible.

Artisans and musicians will represent the" From Generation to Generations: Illinois Folk Arts," an exhibit coordinated by the Tarble Arts Center.

There will also be a fine arts fair in the middle of the festival on Saturday and Sunday. The fair will feature more than 40 sculptors, photographers, stained glass artisans and jewelers.

Herpetology exhibit will be offer to all ages, with the chance to see and hold a range of reptiles and amphibians.

There will also be the annual Prairie Plant sale featuring a variety of plants and grasses that are Illinois native.

Dan Crews, the director of patron services at the Doudna, said he believes Celebration is a way to bring attention to the arts and put the spotlight on them in Illinois.

"I view Celebration as a welcoming of spring back to east central Illinois," he said. "It's a great opportunity for people to gather together and celebrate the role the arts play in our lives."

Celebration has been a three-day festival since 1977, and Crews has been the chair of the planning committee since 1993.

Crews also said since rain seems to be nearly inevitable when Celebration occurs, there will be a covered stage for the perfor-

Crews added that Celebration is one of the year's first outdoor festivals in Illinois, and even though it has a tendency to rain, he said with the winter being as ongoing as it has been, people are looking for an excuse to come outside.

He also said while the community of Charleston is a big supporter and Celebration has a turnout from Charleston, it is something for the students to see and an opportunity for students to immerse themselves in the arts.

"I hope students come out and take advantage of the festival's offerings," he said.

Eastern's College of Arts and Humanities hosts Celebration and it's sponsored by the Doudna Fine Arts Center, Consolidated Communications, the City of Charleston, and the EIU International Center for Global Diversity.

Helen Rardin, 17 months old, bends down to grasp wild flowers growing in her front yard during an Easter egg hunt made just for her on Sunday. Rardin was disinterested in the eggs hidden just feet away from her and instead took a break to pick flowers. The eggs Rardin did collect, were filled with coins and candy, which she saved in her pink, Disney Princess Easter basket.

Helen Rardin, 17 months, searches for an Easter egg in the front lawn of her family's Charleston home Sunday. Helen Rardin's mother, Misty Rardin, refers to her as "The Miracle Child." Despite having been born on December 12, 2012, Helen Rardin was born to 41-year-old Misty Rardin, who feared pregnancy complications because of her age. Sunday was Helen Rardin's first egg hunt. Her mother said the family thought she would enjoy it, but they also wanted a chance to see her in her new dress. "She is so adorable; we just had to do it," Misty Rardin said.

Students to stay 'Up All Nite' to end spring semester

By Sam Martel

Staff Reporter | @DEN_News

Embracing the theme of "make one, take one," the spring Up All Nite will encompass the idea of creation-driven booths and activities for students.

Put on "by students, for students," Up All Nite has been part of Eastern for many years, and typically runs twice a year once in the fall semester and once in the spring semester.

Up All Nite will be from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. Friday in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Nate Bolden, the special events coordinator for the University Board, said one of the driving aspects of this Up All Nite were the new activities.

"Although this is my first time planning the theme and events at Up All Nite, it will differ from previous semesters, as we don't like to recycle the same old stuff,"

Up All Nite will be co-sponsored by student community service, which is a departure from the normal tendency to have it all done by the UB.

Events at Up All Nite will consist of food for all students and many activities that fit the theme this semester, "Make one, take one."

Bolden added most of the activities offered will allow students to make something for someone else and possibly get something in return.

There will be a Build-A-Bear station, caricatures, spray-painting hats and towels, and even BINGO with some prizes. Another option for students will be the movie, "The Legend of Hercules."

It will be starting at 8 p.m. at the Seventh Street Underground in conjunction with Up All Nite.

This event cost roughly $10,000 this semester, Bolden said.

"I really appreciate the community service aspect and being able to give back to the community and the kids," Bolden

Along with the theme of "Make one,

Answers to those summer questions

We are two weeks of classes and one finals week away from the summer. There will be an array of you staying for the summer term, may it be the intersession or the full term. For those of you staying, here are some answers to some questions that students might be asking.

1. The Student Recreational Center will be open. The summer hours have usually gone along the lines of 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday. Then, on Saturday and Sunday, the rec center is open 1 to 6. You must be taking summer classes if you want to get in. If you are staying here and not taking classes, it is highly suggested that you try to find another gym because you will not be granted access into the SRC. To get in, you must have your panthercard. For whoever started the myth that the employees can look up your E-number for you be allowed in, that person was completely wrong.

2. The dining halls are open. Thomas Hall stays open during the summer. Meal options are available to view at the Housing and Dining services website. The hours will be posted their as well, along with what is available to eat.

3. The library will be open. If you aren't doing homework, find a nice book to read. The Doudna steps will be empty, and are just a few

4. There will be stuff for you to do. Charleston is small, but there will be times where it will be festive in Coles County. July will be a busy month. Red, White and Blue Days will be near the beginning. Bagelfest will be weeks later, while the county fair caps off the end of the month. The Charleston Rotary offers a chance to see a Cardinal versus Cubs game. For those who are over 21, the Panther Paw and Ikes stay open, as well as the bars up on the square.

5. You should be allowed to enjoy your summer. Whether you are taking classes or not, this is the time to enjoy yourselves. Take the time to relax a little bit because the fall semester will be starting just before you know it.

Boston strong today, Gavin strong always

It was nearly one year ago when tragedy struck Boston. The 117th annual running of the Boston Marathon on April 15 altered the lives of many, including the thousands that witnessed first hand what had happened.

Today, the Boston Marathon will be run for the 118th time, and will feature another set of runners. Those runners are prime examples of what "Boston Strong" means.

Many who were touched by the masacre found peace in running. The Boston Athletic Association (BAA) granted nearly 500 runners entrance into the Boston Marathon based on essay's they wrote on how profoundly impacted they were by the 2013 bombings.

These people came from different stories. There are some running because of a loss of a friend that was in last year's bombing. There are others that have done it to find solace within themselves.

These people made me think of my own

A little boy in Mattoon named Gavin Waterman was diagnosed with cancer almost a year ago. He and his two brothers have been like little brothers to me. I know how much it has affected his family, but this little boy has accomplished so much. Anyone in this community knows how much it has brought everyone together.

I know what Gavin has gone through. The great news is that he is going to pull out of it. I saw him at church yesterday, and he was smiling up at me after he stole my water bottle. It is quite difficult to rough up a kid when he is battling chemotherapy. This one time, Gavin received a free pass.

Gavin returns to Chicago for treatment today. He is going to finish another step in his recovery. When I go out for a five mile pace run, I will think of him. Gavin is still here. He is my concrete example of all the children that thousands of us runners are running for on Government is master instead of 'servant'

In the formational years of the United States of America, many talented and patriotic people gave of their time and energy to serve their fellow citizens. This experiment in self-rule meant that no one was given special treatment over another. While that may not have always worked out in practice as well as it did in word, it was the standard to which we were to aspire.

People from many different trades, ethnicities, and backgrounds volunteered to serve in elected office, with most returning to their homes and jobs after only a couple terms. Those days are long gone. A professional bureaucracy is now the norm. Even when states establish term limits, the affected politician simply shifts to another elected office and remains in the belly of the beast that is our bloated government.

To make matters worse, a lazy electorate doesn't bother to educate itself on the issues and positions of the candidates, returning the same faces to Springfield or Washington year after year. We have forgotten the adage about how power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely. The politicos that reign today behave more like our masters than our public servants. So, it should be no surprise that those officials continue to allow our behemoth governmental bureaucracy to expand continuously. The bigger it gets, the more aggressive it gets in its treatment of the people that it is supposed to serve.

The current administration's use of government power to bully citizens they disagree with is just a symptom of the corruption that runs rampant. Our president assigns powers to himself that he does not have in the Constitution and fails to uphold his oath of office. The Attorney General decides to not prosecute criminals based on a shared ethnicity. And several different departments of the executive branch try to bully and intimidate citizens to steal private land and property.

I am encouraged by the actions of people like Becky Gerritson, a Tea Party member, who spoke before a congressional committee looking into the IRS targeting of conservative organizations. Her words should be heard by all Americans and heeded by all our elected officials.

She said: "I'm not here as a serf of a vassal. I'm not begging my lords for mercy. I'm a born-free American woman, wife, mother and citizen. And I'm telling my government, you've forgotten your place. It's not your responsibility to look out for my well-being and to monitor my speech. It's not your right to assert an agenda. Your post, the post you occupy, exists to preserve American liberty. You've sworn to perform that duty. And you have faltered."

It is time to remind our public "servants" that they are not our masters. If they cannot remember that simple fact, they need to be removed from office. That goes for both of our major parties.

Eastern looks to carry 'spark' into final stretch

By Aldo Soto

Assistant Sports Editor | @AldoSoto21

Joe Greenfield pitched eight innings, allowing two runs and Brant Valach hit two home runs, leading the Eastern baseball team past Southeast Missouri 10-3 Saturday afternoon, avoiding the series sweep.

Following 7-5 and 11-7 losses on Thursday and Friday, respectively, the Panthers salvaged the series finale of their series to improve to 6-12 in the Ohio Valley Conference.

After the Redhawks took an early 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning, with an RBI-single off the bat of Derek Gibson that scored Matt Tellor, Eastern outscored Southeast Missouri 10-2 in the final eight innings, as Greenfield surrendered a total of six hits during his eight-inning stint.

Eastern took a 3-1 lead into the top of the seventh inning, when it extended its advantage to six after a four-run rally.

Demetre Taylor hit a single to center field, which allowed Dane Sauer to score for the Panthers to start off the scoring. With two runners on base, Valach hit a three-run home run down the left-field line – his second three-run home run of the game.

Eastern coach Jim Schmitz said Valach is still playing with an injury to his right hand that extends into his wrist, but is still helping the Panthers despite feeling the pain.

"He's hurting and his hand isn't really healthy, but he's hanging in there for us," Schmitz said. "Two big threerun home runs were impressive."

Valach's fifth home run of the season gave Eastern a 7-1 lead, which would be more than enough for the Panthers Saturday.

Eastern added three more runs in the eighth inning, sealing its win and retrieving a win against the Redhawks.

The third baseman went 3-for-5, driving in six runs with two home runs, as Valach increased his batting average to .460 in OVC play.

Valach put the Panthers ahead in the fourth inning, hitting a three-run home run to left field off of Southeast Missouri starter Travis Hayes.

Meanwhile, Greenfield scattered six hits during his eight innings of work, Senior pitcher Joe Greenfield pitches against Tennessee Tech on April 13 at Coaches Stadium. The right-handed pitcher threw six innings and allowed six runs, two of them earned as he walked six batters in Eastern's 8-3 loss. The Golden Eagles won the weekend series 2-1. The Panthers are 12-27 overall and 6-12 in the Ohio Valley Conference.

allowing no runs between the second and sixth inning.

Schmitz said the performance by Greenfield, coupled with recent starts by Matt Borens should carry the momentum for Eastern in its last month of the season.

"(Greenfield) was so impressive, very powerful and dominating from the beginning," he said. "So, if that doesn't energize the team, I don't know what will with him and Matt throwing so well right now."

Greenfield's command was better than in previous outings, as he walked two batters, while striking out four.

The right-handed pitcher improved to 5-4 this season and lowered his ERA to 4.99.

Hayes on the other hand, suffered his first loss of the season, as he was chased out of the game during Eastern's seventh-inning rally. Hayes was charged with six runs, all of them earned, as he gave up seven hits and two walks in his 6.2 innings of work.

Hayes is now 5-1 this season.

"I really think this is it – every season needs a spark and it's not just winning one of three because (Friday) was a deflating loss, very deflating loss, but we regrouped," Schmitz said. "This is it, though, a season has to have a time to get going."

Despite the win for the Panthers, they are still near the bottom of the OVC standings, behind four teams for the sixth spot, which would put them in the conference tournament.

Valach's two-home run, six-RBI afternoon was assisted by two other players that had multi-hit games as well.

Taylor went 2-for-5, scoring two runs and driving in another for East-ern.

Tyler Schweigert also had two hits, going 2-for-4, with a run scored. Mitch Gasbarro also added an RBI and scored twice for the Panthers.

Moving forward, the Panthers are going to have to rely on more than their middle of the order hitters to win games, like they did Saturday, Schmitz said.

"Now, we have more weapons that are really contributing, so it's not just Demetre and Valach," he said.

Troy Barton allowed a run with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning that brought in the Redhawks' third run, but then struck out Jason Blum to end the game.

Barton struck out the side in the ninth, ending Eastern's four-game losing streak.

The Panthers have four conference series' remaining, with their next one starting with a three-game set at home against Belmont. The first game starts at 3 p.m. Friday at Coaches Stadium.

Men's basketball signs Butler, Johnston

By Aldo Soto

Assistant Sports Editor | @AldoSoto21

The Eastern men's basketball teams signed two players to National Letters of Intent, as coach Jay Spoonhour announced the signings of Cornell Johnston Wednesday and Corvon Butler Thursday.

Butler is a 6-foot, 4-inch guard, who is coming to Eastern from Southwestern Illinois Community College, where he sat out last season.

During the 2012-13 season, Butler played at North Carolina A&T, where the Aggies posted a 20-17 overall record and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament.

Butler played in eight games, totaling 28 minutes during his freshman year at North Carolina A&T.

Prior to college, Butler played for Champaign Central High School his senior season, when he led the team to its first 3A regional title in four years.

He was a first Team All-Big 12 Conference and Honorable Mention All-State selection. Butler averaged 16 points and seven rebounds per game, including seven double-doubles.

During his junior year in high school, Butler played for Champaign Centennial, where current Eastern player Josh Piper also played at. Butler finished his junior season as an all-conference honoree.

"Corvon is a very versatile player," Spoonhour said in a press release. "He has the ability to play both inside and out. His size and athleticism will make him a tough matchup for a lot of teams."

Butler joins Cornell Johnston in Eastern's recruiting class, as he was signed Wednesday.

Johnston is a senior at Laude High School in St. Louis, where he averaged 17 points, 9.1 assists and 3.1 steals per game last season.

The 5-foot, 7-inch guard was named the Suburban East Conference Player of the Year for the third consecutive season, in addition to being tabbed to the all-conference first team for the fourth year in a row.

He also earned First Team MBCA All-State and First Team

All-Metro honors.

"We are fortunate to get a player like Cornell," Spoonhour said. "He has proven to be one of the top players in the state of Missouri."

During his senior season, Johnston had 266 assists, which were the most n the St. Louis Metropolitan area for all classes. Johnston also set the school single-season record for three-pointers made with 69, while connecting on 41 percent of his shots from behind the arc.

"His ability to create open shots for his teammates along with his speed and quickness on the defensive end will add a lot to our squad over the next four years," Spoonhour said.

The Panthers are coming off their second straight trip to the Ohio Valley Conference tournament under Spoonhour's first two years as Eastern's coach.

Eastern finished 11-19 last season, with a 7-9 record in conference play.

The Eastern softball team extended its midseason, unbeaten winning streak to 11, with a pair of doubleheader sweeps during the weekend against Belmont and Tennessee State.

The Panthers traveled to Nashville, Tenn., starting Friday and swept Belmont, with 11-2 and 3-1 wins. The following day, Eastern took two more games at Tennessee State, winning 1-0 and 2-0 Saturday. The four wins on the road trip lengthened Eastern's seasonhigh winning streak and put the Panthers at 14-4 in the Ohio Valley Conference and 34-11 overall.

Eastern's track and field teams placed in the top two at the Southern Illinois-Edwardsville Gateway Invitational as the women's team took home the gold, while the men's team came up short of conference foe Edwardsville and ended up in second place

The women's team was victorious in three events, while the men's team came up with two. One of their two top finishes was in the pole vault competition, won by Eastern's Peter Geraghty.

Geraghty's height of 18-feet, 0.5 inch won him the event and tied the program record that was held by his teammate Mick Viken.

Viken did not place in the weekend's event, but sophomore Eric Gordon took third, with a height of 15-feet, 3 three inches.

On the women's side, three Eastern pole vaulters took third through fifth place and played a huge part in the women's team's overall points victory.

Annemarie Reid, Sadie Lovett, and Lauralyn Rosenberger all cleared the 12-feet, 1.50 inches barrier and took third, fourth and fifth place, respectively. Reid was given the third place finish, based on the number of attempts made.

In other women's action, Kristen Paris won the 800-meter race with a time of 2:10.69. That time ranks sixth on the school's all-time list for the Panthers.

Eastern also finished first and second in the women's steeple chase, which was won by Ruth Garippo. She won with a time of 11:29.54, narrowly beating out Kelsey Hardimon, who finished with a time of 11:38.67.

Garippo's time ranks eighth on the school's all-time list.

The last first-place finisher for the Eastern women's team was Jalissa Paramore. She took first in the long jump, with a mark of 19'8.75". Paramore also took home silver in the 100-meter hurdles, with a time of 13.78.
