Directories arrive—finally

by Melinda DeVries

On-campus and off-campus Eastern students should receive their student directories in the mail Friday, Julie Harper, of the public affairs department at Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company, said Thursday.

Ed Pence, service office supervisor for ICTC, said the directories are being mailed to all off-campus students and will be distributed to each student in university housing.

Harper said since the directories are already in the mail for off-campus students, they should receive their directories tomorrow.

The directories contain names, addresses and phone numbers for students and faculty.

For students' convenience the directories also contain yellow pages; a table of contents of frequently used and emergency numbers; and information on how to place uncommon calls.

Money-saving coupons are also included in the directories.

Although the directories were originally supposed to be delivered in October, the directories were delivered to the university on Nov. 5—the second date Pence cited as being when the directories would be delivered.

The student directories were provided free to Eastern students by ICTC and R. H. Donnelley Corporation.

The R. H. Donnelley Corporation, a magazine printing company that specializes in printing telephone directories, printed the student directories for the university.

The R. H. Donnelley Corporation sold advertising to finance the directories and Pence said in October that he did not know the complete cost of printing the directories.

'Shut up and listen!' When crusader David Toma raps about drugs, his message is delivered with conviction

by Jerry Fallstrom

When David Toma delivers an emotional speech to a high school audience about the dangers of drug abuse, he demands attention.

Toma, whose life was the basis for the television series "Toma" and "Baretta," told a crowd of junior and senior high students Thursday at Charleston High School they better listen to his message.

"Shut up and listen, will you?" Toma screamed at a student paying less than close attention. "These people want to listen to me. If you don't want to listen, then get out of here."

About 2,000 persons listened to the message Toma delivered. His message was simple: students should quit drugs and alcohol before they have to "pay the price."

That price includes possibly going to jail and also losing one's memory (from smoking marijuana).

"Ninety-nine percent of the people in jails are there because of drugs and alcohol," he said.

Toma said drug abuse is rampant in the nation's high schools.

Toma said it is a myth that marijuana is a harmless drug. He said there are from 90 to 95 different chemicals in a joint and only one of these, THC, makes a person high. But that is not the worst of it, he said.

"The moment you light the joint, it becomes 422 different chemicals," he said. "They are poisoning your body like you would not believe."

He said the THC (the psycho-active ingredient in marijuana), destroys brain cells, resulting in loss of memory. He said marijuana also affects a person's fertility.

For this reason, he chastised any girls in the crowd who are marijuana smokers.

"I don't understand what the hell is the matter with some of you girls," he said.

"You think you're so cute and you're so dumb. What the hell do you think you're playing with, vitamins? You're playing with poisons."

Marijuana was not the only drug Toma spoke out against.

"Angel dust is a wipe-out," he said.

"But unfortunately, angel dust is one of the easiest drugs to make. I can tell you 20 or 30 ways to make it."

The 48-year-old Toma spoke from experience. As a 21-year veteran of the Newark, N.J., police department, Toma said he had seen all forms of drug abuse and the crime that accompanies it.

But it was not just what he saw on the street that persuaded him to dedicate his life to trying to persuade high school students to give up all forms of drugs, including alcohol.

A personal experience with drug addiction was a pivotal time in Toma's life. He became addicted to pills after his 5-year-old son died from choking—just one hour after Toma saved the life of a 3-year-old boy.

"I started to play with tranquilizers. I was using over 100 a day," he said. "I didn't go to work. I couldn't go to work."

He eventually overcame the addiction with the help of one of his nephews, who was also a drug addict.

After this, he said he decided to share his experiences with drugs. For 10 years after that he spoke free of charge to schools in New Jersey and New York.

He urged the students to have the guts to quit drugs.

"To me, a guy with guts is one that says, 'I made a mistake. That's it. It's over,'" he said.

Toma ended his spellbinding speech on a soft tone.

"I love you. I love you so damned much," he said to the students. "I'm not gonna let you kill yourselves. No way, no way."

Computer firm donates $2,500 for Tarble Arts

by Susan Schlanser

The Tarble Art Center fund was boosted by a $2,500 contribution presented Thursday to Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin by R.V. Weatherford, owner of a new computer services company in Charleston.

The gift was awarded during celebrations in honor of the company's opening day, during which it became a member of the Charleston Chamber of Commerce.

Weatherford's contribution will be added to the over $50,000 already collected in the fund-raising drive. The exact total raised by the TAC fund-raising campaign will be published Thursday, Ken Hesler, Director of University Relations said.

A total of $250,000 is needed to help finance the $1.4 million TAC scheduled to begin construction soon.

Weatherford was encouraged to donate the money to the TAC fund by his employees, Roland Spaniol, Wayne Owens, Hal Whaley and Henry Taitt, all of whom were former Eastern employees.

"We wanted to establish good relations with the university,"

Spaniol, former director of computer services said.

Owens, former director of Public Service and Development and Taitt, of the physics department, joined the Weatherford company after selling them an instructional computer system the two designed for schools.

The system is called CREATIVE (computer related enriched and technologically inspired viable education).

Spaniol said Weatherford was selling digital computers to school administrators and wanted to add another line of computers for the learning process.

Church group wages battle against sex on television

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—In a battle against sex on television, the Joelton Church of Christ sees itself as David against the mighty Goliath. And its stones are finding their mark.

The church says its 8-month-old "clean up television" campaign has attracted more than a half million followers in the United States and Canada. It has been commended by the Southern Baptist Convention's Christian Life Commission and endorsed by conservative TV evangelist Jerry Falwell.

The group's pressure also prompted one of TV's largest sponsors, Warner-Lambert Co., to revise its advertising policy and withdraw commercials from four shows the church considers morally offensive.

"I think there are a lot of people in this country who are frustrated by what is going on in television today," said John Hurt, church pastor and spokesman for the group.

"People have said to themselves a thousand times, 'Somebody ought to do something,' so we did."

Working from the small church in Joelton, a Nashville suburb, participants surveyed several hundred Church of Christ members across the nation to compile a list of TV shows considered offensive.

New trial refused by judge for convicted volunteer

SPRINGFIELD—A circuit judge refused Thursday to order a new trial for a former National Organization for Women volunteer, who was convicted Aug. 22 of trying to buy an Illinois lawmaker's vote for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Judge Jeanne E. Scott refused to throw out the conviction, and she set sentencing for Friday. Wanda Brandstetter, 56, a Chicago businesswoman, faces a maximum sentence of seven years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Brandstetter and her attorneys vowed to take their fight to the appeals court. "I'll fight to the end of my time," she said.

Brandstetter was convicted of bribery for offering a $1,000 campaign contribution last May 14 to freshman state Rep. Nord Swanstrom, R-Pecatonica, to vote for the proposed amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

But she was acquitted of a lesser charge of soliciting Swanstrom to commit official misconduct.

Brandstetter said she was offering Swanstrom a legal campaign contribution and did not intend it as a bribe.

The brother-sister defense team of John and Sheila Murphy filed 78 separate motions asking Ms. Scott to set aside the jury verdict and order a new trial.

Reagan promises to aid, not to intrude

LOS ANGELES—President-elect Ronald Reagan said today he will do all he can to help gain the release of American hostages in Iran, but said he would not intrude on delicate negotiations in the remaining months of President Carter's administration.

At his first news conference since he overwhelmingly defeated Carter in Tuesday's election, Reagan also promised an immediate start on "translating campaign promises into reality," and named his election campaign manager, William Casey, to oversee the transition to a Republican administration.

On the hostages, which became a dominant issue in the final days of his campaign against Carter, the former California governor said, "Foreign leaders must be aware that the president is still the president."

He promised that "we are not going to intrude" on the Carter administration's efforts to arrange the release of the 52 Americans held captive in Iran since Nov. 4, 1979. But he made clear he would cooperate with the administration in any way he could.

"Like everyone else," he said, "we want the hostages to be returned."

School of Technology budgets for the future

(Editor's note: This is the second in a weekly series of seven articles examining how the new seven-year budget process is affecting the development of goals for the future of various schools at Eastern.)

by Scott Hainzinger

The growing School of Technology is utilizing Eastern's new long-range budgeting process to plan for the need for additional faculty and administrative salaries and the possibility of establishing an aviation program.

Donald Lauda, dean of the School of Technology, said in order to meet the demand for more faculty and administrative assistance the school will probably ask for money for salaries for another secretary and either department chairmen or an administrative assistant.

At this point, Lauda said he is unsure of how the need for more faculty and administrative help will be reconciled, as he has not yet received

Violinist, pianist to give sonata recital

Violinist Dorthee Kim, and pianist Karen Sanders will present a sonata recital at 8 p.m. Sunday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Dorthee Kim is a Charleston resident who has played in Eastern's Orchestra for the last several years, Jan Faires of the music department said. Karen Sanders is a member of Eastern's piano faculty, Faires said.

The program will include Faure's "Andante for Violin and Piano", a Brahms sonata, and a Debussy sonata, Faires said. Kim will also perform a Ysaye Ballade for solo violin, Faires said.

Budgeting: schools plan for the future

guidelines from the Council on University Planning and Budgeting for submitting the budget.

The budgeting process, which provides for exact monetary planning for the next fiscal year and limited budget preparation for four years beyond that, lets a school look ahead to the needs of the future and then estimate the resources needed to meet those demands, Lauda said.

Under the guidelines for preparing the budget, the administrators and faculty within a school select a goal which exemplifies the role which their school plays in the overall university purpose.

The departments within the school then select objectives, or sub-goals, to which their efforts will be directed. Budget requests must be made in accordance with these goals.

The School of Technology concentrates on maintaining and upgrading its curriculum, he said, one of the basic goals of the university.

Lauda said the new process gives the CUPB and the governmental bodies which determine the budgets for state universities, rationale for supporting the requested funding.

He also said the process meets the needs of his school by allowing for long-range planning and providing justification for requested finances.

Lauda said the budgeting process is important to the long-range planning which is "absolutely essential" to the success of any school.

In projecting for future needs of the school, Lauda said he is considering introducing an aviation program into the existing curriculum around 1983 or 1984. This projected programming will be mentioned in the upcoming budget in the area for budgetary needs for four years from now.

Lauda compared the speculation necessary to prepare curriculum for future needs to man's quest to reach the moon.

"First we said 'we'll go to the moon', then we had to work backwards in figuring out how to do it."

Illustrating the way in which the schools must anticipate projected needs years ahead of that actual need, Lauda pointed to a NEIPR, (new expanded and/or improved program requests), which the School of Technology asked for in 1979.

Lauda said the school anticipated a need for funding to obtain and repair some of the larger pieces of equipment, like machine lathes and presses, so the request was submitted two years prior to the time when the money would be needed.

The money for the project, if funded by the legislature, is expected to arrive during this summer, he said.

Lauda also said the budgetary process makes the justification of program needs easier.

BOG degree requires 'C' average — official

by Marc Pacatte

Students must maintain at least a C average in all courses taken in order to receive a Board of Governors degree, a BOG official said Thursday.

Robert Pringle, BOG deputy executive director for academic affairs, said no credit is given for any grades lower than a C in the BOG program.

In addition to discussing the requirements for a BOG degree, Pringle presented information to the council on its annual program review.

Pringle said program reviews are a "very, very substantial part of all programs at universities."

CAA member Robert Hennings asked Pringle when the BOG is reviewing programs, "What are the things that stick out like sore thumbs?"

Pringle said if the BOG looks for "any one thing," it is "especially sensitive" to low enrollments.

Pringle asked for questions after discussing the BOG degree program and the annual program review.

Don Rogers, CAA member, asked why it seemed that Pringle's role had changed over the years from an advocate for the universities' programs to a critic of them.

Pringle said part of the reason his role changed is that the BOG is not as simple as it was ten years ago.

He said years ago he used to send 20 to 25 programs per university to the BOG for its approval, accompanied only by figures establishing a maximum budget the university could operate under.

Consider issues before voting

Eastern students will be faced with a choice of 31 candidates in Wednesday's Student Senate election, and the decisions made in the voting booth should not be taken lightly.

However, due to limitations of time and space we have chosen not to endorse specific candidates, but rather to offer our readers a profile of the qualities we would like to see in the senators elected this semester.

Therefore, we urge readers to turn to pages 8 and 9 in today's Daily Eastern News where a summary of each candidate's background and stand on the issues is presented.

Two issues which are currently of major importance to Eastern students—and which also will appear on Wednesday's ballot for a referendum vote—are the proposed increase in students' athletic fee and the Student Coordinating Optional Referendum Efforts (SCORE) movement.

We have supported the athletic fee increase and urge students to elect senators who will work for its implementation. However, we do not agree with the method behind the SCORE movement, and we believe senators who will attempt to find other ways of increasing the strength of student referendums should be elected.

The SCORE proposal—which states that results of a student fee referendum would be sent directly to the Board of Governors for approval, bypassing Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin—is an unrealistic approach to gaining student input on student fee allocations, because the BOG bylaws have already designated Marvin as the final authority for Eastern.

We support senators who will work to increase the authority of a student vote in a more practical manner; for example, they could organize a movement among other BOG student bodies to approach the board directly.

Check our summary of the candidates on pages 8 and 9 and give careful consideration to the ideas they represent.

And above all, remember to cast your vote on Wednesday.

Book buyers beware

Editor:

In dealing with state universities (no names of course), the policy must be "Buyer Beware."

This has been brought home to me this semester. Especially after standing in line for two hours last August, I was told I had an "unclear record" because two textbooks were not returned last spring. Of course, they couldn't tell me why I had a clear record when I picked up my books this summer, nor why they had no way of confirming the fact that I had purchased the books last May. I had to go home to Mattoon and get my copy of the receipt to get the books.

I went to the Records Office to get a copy of my transcripts and guess what? I have an "unclear record" at Booth Library. It seems that the book that I returned has not been returned after all. The gentleman at the counter explained that if they can't find the book, all they can assume is that it wasn't returned. They will make a special search for it, but if it isn't found, guess who pays for it?

This letter is not written to criticize a humanly fallible records system, but to warn the potential victim of such inevitable errors to protect him or herself by asking for receipts for whatever is returned.

David Peterson

It's our money

Editor:

What's this—another student referendum? Why should I waste my valuable time voting on something that will not amount to a small hill of beans? Presently student referendums are for informational purposes only. This simply means that a large majority of students can democratically vote to obtain things to better ourselves and our university, and one man can rule that our decision is worthless. This happened in our last student referendum.

I am in college to be a future leader of society. I voted for the presidency. I am expected to (and am ready and willing to) give my life for my country in case of a war. Yet the Eastern student constitution does not feel that I am responsible enough to handle my money.

COME ON! The majority of us work hard during our summers and usually at very undesirable jobs. I know the value of money. If the majority of students feel that we need more money for girls' athletics, and we are willing to pay for it, we should get it.

We as students know what we need it at OUR university. I know that I am personally responsible enough to handle my money and I know what this school needs. Therefore I will be voting YES for SCORE, a group that is working for you the student so that your voice will be heard.

If you want your vote on issues that will improve our university to really count and think you are mature enough to handle your money properly, then you should also vote YES on this issue.

Gregory G. Gibbons

Drinking area is bright idea

The installment of a drinking area outside O'Brien Stadium eliminates inconsistencies in university policy toward drinking on campus and will help save money, but important questions concerning its enforcement must be raised.

Three weeks ago, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said football spectators wishing to drink before or during the games may do so if they drink in the parking lot directly behind the main stands or the area directly south of the football field.

Marvin said he had realized that there was an inconsistency in university policy which allowed students to drink in some areas and prevented them from drinking in other areas. This inconsistency was pointed out by the actions taken against students who were drinking on the Library Quad during Ok'toker'fest last month.

We believe this new policy will cut down on the vandalism of the aluminum fence stripping on the O'Brien field fence which is costing the university and student body money. With the drinking area located away from the northern section of the fence, students will migrate to the drinking area and damage to the aluminum stripping will be cut down. The new drinking area on the south side may be more desirable for students wishing to drink and watch the game because no stripping will be obstructing their view.

But establishment of the drinking area still raises questions, mostly concerning enforcement. Will the greek organizations' threatened boycott of the drinking area make enforcement impossible? Can the organizers of a tail-gating party be expected to make sure everyone drinking in their group is at least 21-years-old? Will students ask for extended drinking privileges to other campus areas? Will drinking in the stands increase with this new drinking area by prompting students to take their "supply" with them into the stands during the game?

Despite these possible problems, we believe this policy can and should be enforced and the university administration should establish criteria to guarantee such enforcement. Without such enforcement, someone will probably abuse this policy and it will be revoked.

The new drinking area at O'Brien Stadium is a positive step in clearing up discrepancies in university policy. We commend President Marvin for having the foresight to stop ignoring a problem and start taking affirmative action to correct it.

Bus route to Elk Grove to begin on trial basis

by Sue Ann Rentfrow

Parents concerned about the traveling time and safety involved in picking up their children at Chicago bus stations have prompted an experimental bus run from Eastern to Chicago suburb Elk Grove over Thanksgiving break.

Joan Gossett, assistant director of business operations, said she has received a number of calls from parents who requested a change in the current bus schedule.

She said parents have cited reasons such as less traffic in the Elk Grove area and they feel the Elk Grove bus station is in a safer location.

Gossett said Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams did a preliminary check with zip codes and found that more than 500 Eastern students live north of Chicago in the Elk Grove area.

"If there is enough interest in the bus schedule it will be available weekly beginning in January," she said.

Gossett said because of the bus company's prior commitments the service could not be offered on a regular basis until January. However she said there will probably be a bus to Elk Grove over the Christmas holidays if the Thanksgiving experiment proves successful though.

Two buses currently leave at 4:15 p.m. each Friday from the University Union, Gossett said. "If they're full they go directly to Chicago, if not they stop in Champaign for more passengers," she said.

She said the buses usually make four stops in the Chicago area.

Tickets for the Elk Grove bus will cost $16.45 for one way and $31.30 for round trip compared with $14.15 for a one way ticket to Chicago and $26.90 for round trip fare.

All tickets must be purchased by 4 p.m. Nov. 20 at the check cashing window in the University Union. Gossett said a minimum of 30 tickets must be sold or the trial run bus will be canceled.

The buses will leave from the University Union at 5 p.m. Nov. 25 and will return Nov. 30 in the evening. The regular buses to Champaign and to the Chicago area will still be available, she said.

Anna Marie Loconte

Annamarie Loconte, junior, is vying for re-election in the Residence Hall District of the Student Senate.

During her first term, Loconte served on the Academic Affairs Committee, working on the grade repeat policy. Currently, Loconte is working on the SATI committee.

Loconte is in favor of the proposed athletic fee increase.

"I feel it would benefit the university and the entire athletic program," she said.

Scott Campbell

Freshman Scott Campbell, a political science major, is running for Student Senate in the Residence Hall District because "I can do something for the residence halls," he said.

Although he has no past experience in government, Campbell said he is running for Senate because he is interested in politics.

Campbell supports the athletic fee increase.

"I feel the increase is necessary for us to compete in another Division," he added.

There is a need for more money for transportation and lodging if the Division move is made, he said. Campbell said he is also in favor of the SCORE referendum because it is "worthwhile and needed."

John Modder

Freshman John Modder is running for the Student Senate as a SCORE candidate on the residence hall ticket.

Modder said if elected he will "express the feelings of the students in the residence halls."

The athletic fee increase is not the most important issue, Modder said.

"The most important issue in this campaign is SCORE," he said. "If SCORE passes, then the athletic fee increase won't matter because it won't effect me as a Senate member because the students will have the final say."

Yvonne Mathews

Junior Yvonne Mathews, running for Residence Hall District Senator, is in favor of the athletic fee increase and opposed to the tuition increase.

Mathews said, "Without the increase we (athletic department) will have to resort to a more unstable income, such as gate receipts to support athletics."

Mathews said she might change her mind and oppose the increase if money could be used from the current athletic budget to help support minor sports.

She is in favor of SCORE, although she questions the Student Senate's ability to actually succeed in passing the proposal.

Kirby Ballard

Kirby Ballard, a junior transfer student from Lewis and Clark College in Alton, Ill, running for Residence Hall District Senator has worked on student government in high school.

Kirby is apprehensive of the proposed transit system issue. "I'd like to see it pay for itself instead of the student body continually paying for it," he commented.

Kirby is against to the athletic fee increase. He is also opposed to SCORE. "Referendums should go through President Marvin simply because he is the administrator," he said.

Stephen McGrath

Sophomore Stephen McGrath is running for Student Senate for the first time for a Residence Hall district position.

He has been active on the Outstanding Faculty Award Committee for Student Government.

McGrath, a political science major, said he has always been interested in politics. "Student Senate is a good experience for a career."

He said he favors SCORE and strongly supports the athletic fee increase.

Bob Erio

Sophomore Bob Erio is a newcomer to Eastern's student government, running for a first term in the Student Senate for a Residence Hall district position.

Erio said he supports SCORE because it would get students more involved with government.

"Students should have the power to make law," he said. "This proposal would get students involved and encourage voting."

Erio said he favors the athletic fee increase, but he disagrees on another tuition increase.

Deneen Bradford

Junior Deneen Bradford is a newcomer to student government activities on campus and will be running for Residence Hall senator in Student Senate.

Bradford said she favors an athletic fee increase because she feels it is the only way to make Eastern's teams better.

Sheriff said. Besides incurring no additional scholarship costs, Johnson also said Eastern will have no extra recruiting expenses because of the Division I move.

"We're not going to change our recruiting area at all," Johnson said. "We think going Division I will help us in that a kid from Decatur will come here instead of going to Illinois State."

Akron, a former MCC school which moved to Division I this year, has experienced few recruiting changes, Akron Athletic Director Gordon Larson said.

"We recruit pretty much in our area. We still recruit pretty much within a 100-mile radius of Akron," Larson said.

However, the athletic director did say "we have expanded our recruiting budget somewhat, but it's not that significant."

Larson said he did not have exact figures available on the amount of the increase.

Peterson also does not foresee any major differences in Western's recruiting at the Division I level.

"I don't anticipate much change in our recruiting at all. I don't anticipate we can get too many good athletes 200 to 300 miles from Macomb," Peterson said.

"I don't think we'll be recruiting in any bigger geographic area or any more athletes," Peterson said. "We'll just be doing essentially the same thing, just trying to stay where we've been."

At Northern Iowa, Sheriff said recruiting will be aided by the Division I move.

"I think it will enhance it, but not overnight. We have started to see some affect already," Sheriff said.

Gridders from page 16

"Sandon is a high percentage thrower," Eastern defensive coordinator Chuck Dickerson said. "He will sprint out to get away from the rush, but not to run."

"They've only used six dropbacks in the last three games," Dickerson added. "They'll send three receivers to one side and run a combination of routes with these."

And perhaps UNI's best feature is its ability to use all of its receivers.

Northern Iowa has five receivers who have caught more than 200 yards in passing, including Ken Harvey with 30 receptions for 566 yards and Kirk Hobbs who has 19 catches for 306 yards.

Dickerson also said that along with Sandon's sprint out passing style, confusion is another tactic of Northern Iowa.

Football seasons to be replayed

"Instant Replay-Do it Again," a slide show reviewing Eastern's 1978 and 1979 football seasons, will be shown Friday and Saturday in Room 108 Buzzard, Eastern professor Mike Leyden said.

The show will be shown at 7 p.m.,

7:30 p.m., 8 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. Friday and at 9 a.m., 9:30 a.m., 10 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Leyden said.

The 23-minute show is set to music and also has commentary by ABC television announcers, Leyden said.

Gridders can clinch MCC title against UNI

by Dave Claypool

Eastern can wrap-up its first and only Mid-Continent Conference title and inch one step closer to a post-season playoff berth when it plays host to ninth-ranked University of Northern Iowa Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at O'Brien Stadium.

Saturday's showdown will mark the first time Eastern has defended its No. 1 status this season and will pit the Panthers against their second straight NCAA Division II ranked team.

It will also conclude the conference schedule for Eastern and a win would leave them as the sole recipient of the MCC crown and virtually a shoe-in for a playoff berth.

"We want this one because it's our chance to win the only conference title left," All-American defensive end Pete Catan said. "It'll be history after Saturday and we don't want to share it with anyone."

The Mid-Continent Conference's future is uncertain after this season when the Panthers will enter into Division I-AA play.

Despite the obvious motivation of the Panthers, UNI has its own reasons for wanting a win Saturday.

Northern Iowa, who has crept into the Division II ratings for the first time this season with their 6-2 record, is vying for a share of the prestigious conference title and a chance for post season play.

And if statistics are any indication, the clash of these two title seekers will be quite a show.

Northern Iowa has compiled a 400-yard per game average and has scored an average of 31 points a game, while the Panthers are gaining 369 per clip and averaging 31.6 points.

Defensively, the stats are just as close.

Panthers Alonzo Lee (51) and Ira Jefferson (46) prepare to pounce on Northern Michigan running back Mike Dellangelo in Eastern's 35-28 come-from-behind victory last Saturday. The Panthers will battle Northern Iowa for the MCC title Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at O'Brien Stadium (News photo by Dave Claypool)

Eastern allows 245 yards and 16 points per game and Northern Iowa allows 258 yards and 15 points.

"On paper, it looks as though it could go either way (a high scoring game or a defensive battle)," UNI head coach Stan Sheriff said. "Both teams have some impressive statistics, so it should be a thriller."

Yet more important than stats is that

UNI is red hot.

Coming off an impressive 38-17 rout of Youngstown State University, Northern Iowa has chalked up four straight wins and is in top form for their stretch run.

Going against the second best efficiency passing game in the nation and the No. 4 ranked team in total offense, Panther defenders will get no rest from last Saturday's aerial show with Northern Michigan.

And the man behind the top-ranked efficiency passing team in the MCC is quarterback Steve Sandon.

The UNI junior has thrown at a completion rate of 63 percent while compiling 1,861 yards and 16 touchdowns through the air.

Hockey team begins regionals against Milwaukee

by Steve Binder

Eastern's field hockey team will begin action at 9:30 a.m. Friday at Sauk Valley, Mich., in the AIAW Division II Midwest Regional.

The Panthers will be trying to earn a spot in the national finals, slated for Nov. 21-23 at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, by winning the eight-team regional.

In first round competition the Panthers will face the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, which ended its regular season with a 9-7 record and is seeded sixth in the tournament.

Eastern finished its regular campaign with a 9-11-1 mark and is seeded third.

Panther coach Betty Temple said she expects a relatively easy contest against Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Presuming the Panthers beat Milwaukee, Temple said her squad would probably face top-seeded Northern Michigan, which plays No. 8 Notre Dame.

"Northern Michigan is a fast team with fast players returning from last year, so they are also an experienced team," Temple said. "If we play against them it would be a hard fought game with a one goal difference."

The lower bracket features No. 4-seeded Valparaiso against No. 5 Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, which received an at-large berth in the regional, and No. 2 Dayton against No. 7 Franklin College.

"I would say Dayton is the strongest team in the bottom bracket," Temple said.

If her team plays against Northern Michigan, Temple said her squad possesses an advantage because of the competition Eastern has faced.

"Northern Michigan has played six Division I schools. We've played 14 Division I schools. It's going to be to our advantage that we've played teams of higher caliber," Temple said.

The Panthers will be without the services of junior link Sue Carr, who contracted a high fever during Thursday's practice.

Scholarship and recruiting costs will not increase

(Editor's note: This is the last in a series of six articles examining the ramifications of Eastern's move to NCAA Division I next year)

by Andy Savoie

Scholarship and recruiting costs will not go up as a result of Eastern's move to Division I status next year, Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson said.

Eastern will compete in Division I-A next year in all sports except football, which will play at the I-AA level.

Although allowable yearly scholarship levels increase at the Division I and I-AA level, Johnson said "we're not going to ask for any more money for scholarships."

Allowable yearly scholarship levels

Moving to Division I: A closer look

from Division II to Division I will increase from 12 to 15 for basketball, 55 to 75 in football and from 60 to 80 in all other sports.

He said no additional scholarship money will be required because of federal aid which many Eastern athletes are eligible to receive.

"A lot of our athletes qualify for BEOG money," Johnson said.

Consequently, Johnson said federal money received by athletes is counted by the athletic department as an awarded scholarship and will cover the expense of additional scholarships.

Several athletic directors at other Mid-Continent Conference schools plan a similar approach in dealing with the increased scholarship levels.

Western Illinois Athletic Director Gil Peterson said federal grants will allow WIU's basketball program to spend the same amount of scholarship money per year in Division I that it did in Division II.

"We don't think we're going to have to put any more money than enough for 12 full scholarships to give 15 scholarships," Peterson said.

As for Western's football program, Peterson said his school's first objective in Division I will be "to get back to 60 scholarships and have a 75 head count (with federal aid).

Northern Iowa Athletic Director Stan Sheriff said "very little net increase" in scholarship costs will result in UNI's Division I move.

He also said UNI has made a commitment to keep its football scholarships below the allowable Division I level.

"Institutionally, we have made the statement that we are not going to go past 60 athletic grants, period."

Football players appreciate their parent's presence

by Dave Claypool

Parents' Weekend—it is the time of year when mom and dad come to visit, check under your beds for dirt and ask your friends how often you visit the local pubs.

It's also the time when students and their Parents' can enjoy a buffet dinner and entertainment ranging from Rich Little to Andy Williams.

But through the years, the major attraction during the celebrated Parents' Weekend activities has become the show on O'Brien Stadium's gridiron—the Eastern football team.

Taking over as the top-drawing special event on the football schedule from Homecoming, one can always expect the Parents' Weekend crowd to be the largest of the year.

Dads especially go for this show, because it is their one chance to see what could very likely be one of the best forms of entertainment in college football.

And likewise, the Panthers have usually responded to provide a favorable outcome—even when the only top ten list it made was the Terrible Ten.

In the past decade, Eastern's gridders have compiled a 5-4-1 record in Parents' Weekend outings which, compared to its overall 40-65-3 mark, is much more encouraging.

Included in the five victories in the past ten years was the Panthers' convincing 43-21 rout of Chicago Circle in 1971 and its 40-8 thumping of Circle in 1973.

And especially memorable was the 1978 Parents' Weekend game with Northern Iowa, in which Eastern pounded the UNI Panthers 38-22 and got its championship campaign into full gear.

But despite the packed stadium with cheering moms and dads and the Panthers' past success during the festive weekend, Eastern tight end Rob Mehalic does not believe Parents' Weekend plays a part in the play or outcome of the game.

"It means a little more to me, (playing in front of his Parents'), but once I get out on the field, I forget about who's up in the stands and just

Parents of Eastern football players are frequently seen at home games, but these parents were watching the Eastern-Northern Michigan game in concentrate on the game," the junior said. "Maybe if my parents were from out of state I'd think more of them coming down, but to me it's not that much different."

Mehalic is one of the few Panthers whose parents are able to attend most of the Eastern games.

"My folks missed the Northern Michigan game but that's the only one this year," Mehalic said. "I don't know what the other players do with their parents after the game, but last year my folks and I went to the bars."

Another Panther who enjoys his family's backing is defensive end Pete Catan. The senior's father and brother make the trip from New York to attend his games.

"It's nice to know they came," Catan said. "Ever since I started playing football they have supported the program."

"It means a lot to me, them coming all the way from New York," he added. "It shows a lot of emotion and love and I appreciate that."

But Catan agreed with Mehalic, stating, "Once I get on the field, my mind is on the game."

'Miracle' shows facets of Bro

by Laura Ziebell

Mention the name Ray Bradbury and you will usually get one response—science fiction. It is true that author Bradbury is more famous for his outerspace stories, but Interpreter's Theater director Donna R. Shehorn has intent on proving that theory wrong.

"Bradbury has a wide range in his writing style, not just science fiction," Shehorn said. "And we, in combining some of his writings, will present a portrait of Bradbury as a well-rounded writer."

Through the efforts of Shehorn, cast and crew, the play "Miracle of Rare Device" will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Monday Nov. 10 and at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Playroom of the Doudna Fine Arts Center.

The idea of combining five of Bradbury's stories was created by Shehorn and her husband last spring.

"We read through many, many of Bradbury's works and selected the ones we felt would present the optimistic way Bradbury sees the world.

"If we could have done all the stories that we would have liked," Shehorn continued, "it would take a week to perform the show, but as it is it's two hours of entertainment that's funny, touching, interesting and very enjoyable."

The five stories presented in the play differ greatly in mood and message. The stage itself will represent many different locations as it changes from a lighthouse to mountains atop the planet Mars, from an Arizona desert to a London town to the Illinois farm region.

Technical director Dwight Parker said this variety of scenes will be accomplished through the use of a multi-level thrust stage and "a lot of lighting effects." The stage, made entirely from materials recycled from previous sets, has numerous levels for the three-sided stage, Parker said.

Special effects lighting will add to the presentation. "We're using such things like dry ice as fog, and a red flashing beacon in the lighthouse scene, and we're using a new light filter, called a prism filter, that will highlight the actors' movements," lighting designer Merel Ray said.

"There are twelve members in the cast of "Miracle," but each one plays about two to four parts throughout the Shehorn said. The first story presented called "The Foghorn," Shehorn said, is based on a story by Bradbury that was the basis for an old movie in the 1950s.

"There's a monster in this show called by the sound of this foghorn, but there isn't the Hollywood type. It's a story about loneliness, time and the effects of violence that destroys love.

"April Witch," the second story, is about a young witch that poisons another girl's body and falls in love with her through the girl, Shehorn said.

The third story is a humor called "Medicine for Melancholy" and involves a young girl suffering from melancholia in London, back in 17th century. The story is about an old street sweeper prescribed a cure—that she must be left out on the moonlight overnight.

"Dark They Were and Golden They Are" selected from the "Martian Chronicles"—is about the first group of earth settlers on Mars.

The title story involves two drivers who come across what they think is a mirage. As it changes along with the desert, these drivers, they realize that it is not a mirage, Shehorn said.

"This story parallels what Bradbury thinks art should be. He believes there's a vision to be seen by those who want to see it," Shehorn said.

Junior Beth Adams is the show's coordinator of the show.

"There was a lot of work done on costumes in the show because first of all each member of the cast plays up to 10 parts, which makes for a lot of costumes. There has to be a lot of research done for the different periods that are in the show," Shehorn said.

The costumes were coordinated by pulling different clothes from the costume vault and adding to them to suggest character and the period of time in the scene.

Freshman cast member Beth Adams Rayburn has three roles in the Interpreter's presentation. She is in the title story, the outer space scene and the scene that involves human belief.

Playing various roles is more of a challenge to Rayburn than just having a straight part.

"I think it's more fun this way than to think Interpreter's Theater doesn't use the actor's interpretation of the part."

type of theater always keeps your mind guessing," she said.

An elementary education major from Wilmington, Rayburn plans to go on leaving her theater minor after college to open a children's theater.

Sophomore cast member David Neely is also an elementary education major.

"I have four parts in the play where in one scene I am a father, the next, a tough, strong-captain and then next a money-hungry guy," Neely said.

"At first the different characterizations were hard to change too, but it got easier to do during the rehearsals. There's a lot of pantomime in interpreter's theater and that calls for a lot of concentration on the part of the actors. I think although it is difficult to do correctly it will be easy for the audience to pick up," Neely said.

Tickets for the Interpreter's Theater production are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for children and senior citizens and $2 for Eastern students.

Andy Williams just one of weekend features

by Dru Sefton

The 1980 Parents' Weekend will highlight the appearance of singer and recording star Andy Williams.

Ann Cavanagh, assistant director of student activities and one of the Parents' Weekend organizers, said there are still plenty of reserved tickets available for the 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday shows for $8.

Cavanagh said the weekend's activities will begin at 8 p.m. Friday in Dvorak concert hall with a music department faculty show, "A Music Extravaganza."

The show will feature vocal and instrumental performances by members of the music faculty, Cavanagh said.

"It's going to be a very peppy, lively show," she said.

Tickets for the performance are available for $3.

From 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday is the time scheduled for a box-lunch distribution, Cavanagh said.

Parents who purchased the box-lunches in advance will receive a submarine sandwich, cole slaw, potato chips, fruit and dessert.

The lunches can be picked up in the University Union vending lounge.

Kick-off time for the Eastern-Northern Iowa football game is 1:30 p.m. Saturday. Cavanagh said although a few seats are still available, "most of the tickets are taken."

A candlelight dinner for students and their parents will be served from 4:30-7:30 Saturday evening in various areas in the University Union, Cavanagh said.

In past years this has been a buffet-style dinner, she said, but this year it will be a sit-down meal.

Cavanagh said parents and students have chosen in advance either a chicken breast with rice pilaf or a roast beef with mushroom gravy dinner.

Cavanagh said included with each dinner will be a tossed salad, California-style vegetables, rolls and butter, dutch apple pie and a choice of coffee or iced tea.

The areas in which the dinner will be served include the University Old Ballroom, the Grand Ballroom, the Lair, the Rathskeller and the cafeteria, Cavanagh said.

Cavanagh said the classroom buildings on campus will be open, and some department chairmen have open houses planned.

"The residence halls also have some receptions planned for the parents," she said. "The sorority and fraternity houses will also probably have open houses."

Cavanagh said Parents' Weekend was started "around 1965" for several reasons.

"Parents' Weekend gives the parents a chance to see the university, to visit the community and to participate in a family-oriented activity," Cavanagh said. "It also helps to ease their minds that their children at the university are happy and living comfortably."
