Self-defense training inadequate—teacher

Eastern trailing other colleges

By DAN REIBLE
Staff Writer

Self-defense courses and programs may not be as available at Eastern as they are on many other college campuses in Illinois.

Currently, Eastern has only one course in hand to hand defense, Beginning Karate, PED 1860. Any additional training a student may want through the university must be taken through the continuing education department. The continuing education department offers a non-credit karate course which costs $90 per semester.

Other universities in the state have either various physical education courses in advance training or university supported clubs that offer students work out facilities without a fee.

Of those universities contacted, the University of Illinois, Southern Illinois University, Loyola University and Northern Illinois University offered some form of advanced self-defense training for students. None of the universities contacted required any additional fee paid to the college other than student tuition for the advanced training.

Additional courses of self-defense training are on the agenda of the physical education department's curriculum committee, but they probably will not be discussed for some time because other matters are considered more pressing, said Joyce David, a member of the committee. "We won't be discussing the proposal until after the first of the year," David said.

Karate instructor Paul Nawa spoke about Eastern's self-defense program at a Sexual Abuse lecture Wednesday night.

"The existing program has already had a very positive effect," Nawa said. "Last year a girl in Lawson Hall awoke in her own room to discover a stranger in the room. She kept her head (wits) as she was trained to do, calmly told him to leave, and then called the police."

The woman involved in the Lawson incident was a brown belt in the continuing education program, Nawa said. A panicked response will often trigger an assault, he said.

"The goal of the training is first: prevention, escape and evasion; and second: survival in combat," he added.

"Eastern's program is the only one (See SELF, page 6)

Self-defense students practice their craft in class. Instructor Paul Nawa says Eastern is lacking in self-defense programs. Eastern trails other Illinois schools in self-defense courses offered in the regular curriculum.

Probation statistics for spring and summer released

By LEE DIEKEMPER
Staff Writer

Now is the time of the semester when most students begin showing concern for their grades; but, for some students, this semester's grades could determine their academic futures.

Following spring semester, 341 students were placed on academic warning, and 557 students were placed on academic probation, Registrar James Martin said.

Following the summer semester, 21 students were placed on academic warning and 88 students were placed on academic probation.

If a student's grade point average drops below 2.00 for one semester, he will be placed on academic warning, Eastern's catalog states. If a student's accumulative GPA is less than 2.00 for two semesters, he is placed on academic probation.

Students who fail to raise their GPA can be dismissed. Students who have been dismissed must "sit out" a semester and reapply for admission.

Martin said there are a number of stipulations that could keep a student on academic probation in good standing.

"If a student who is on academic probation brings their semester GPA up to 2.10 as a freshman or sophomore, but the students overall GPA is still below 2.00, the student will remain in good standing with the university and may remain enrolled," Martin said.

"If the student is a junior or a senior, or if the student is going to become a junior, that student must have 2.25 GPA for that semester," Martin added.

Martin added even if a student fails all classes one semester, it does not necessarily constitute automatic academic dismissal.

"If the student's overall GPA is still above 2.00 following the semester that he fails all his courses, he will still be able to attend classes, but will be put on academic warning," Martin said.

"However, if the student's overall GPA is under 2.00 following the semester that he fails all of his classes, that student will automatically be dismissed," he added.

Aquino fires cabinet after coup try

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—President Corazon Aquino fired her entire Cabinet, including controversial Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, after the army foiled a coup attempt Sunday by president officers and political bosses.

Aquino credited army chief of staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos with taking "preventative measures against the recklessness of some elements in the military."

She warned that "sternest measures" would be taken if anyone tried to undermine her nine-month-old government.

The president also accused the communist rebels, who have waged a 17-year insurgency, of showing no interest in peace and said she would end negotiations if a cease-fire is not reached this month. Enrile and other critics accused her of being soft on the rebels.

Mrs. Aquino spoke over national television. Ramos issued a statement confirming that politicians loyal to deposed President Ferdinand E.

Marcos, backed by "some elements of the military," had planned to set up a rival government. He said the situation was under control.

He did not identify the plotters or mention Enrile. The defense chief, who also served under Marcos but helped oust him last February, increasingly has been critical of Mrs. Aquino.

A senior government official said the plot involved taking over the National Assembly, reinstating the pro-Marcos National Assembly abolished by Mrs. Aquino and calling presidential elections.

The official, who demanded anonymity, said more than 100 members of a military faction identified with Enrile were in on the plot, with the coup to begin at 2 a.m. Sunday. The government learned of it at 10 a.m. Saturday, he said.

Troops loyal to Mrs. Aquino and Ramos surrounded radio and television stations in Manila and elsewhere Saturday, and tightened security measures at the presidential palace and other key points.

The official said he did not know if Enrile knew about the plot.

On Sunday, after holding a lengthy Cabinet meeting, Mrs. Aquino announced on television that she had asked all Cabinet members to resign.

She said Enrile complied, and she immediately swore in his replacement, Deputy Defense Minister Rafael Ilto.

Ilto, 66, later met with officers of the Reform the Armed Forces Movement, who like Enrile wanted a tougher line taken against communist insurgents.

"He (Ilto) asked for unity and we said yes," said Col. Gregorio Honasan, Enrile's security chief.

Enrile refused to see reporters who gathered outside his home at a fashionable suburban village, but sent out his daughter, Katrina.

She said Enrile "is taking it very well," and added, "We've waited for this day for such a long time," referring to her father's leaving government.

Prisoners flee in stolen chopper

ROME—Two gunmen hijacked a Red Cross helicopter Sunday, lifted two inmates from a prison and flew off firing automatic weapons at guards, police said.

A third prisoner dashed toward the helicopter but slipped in the rain.

The chopper landed a short time later in a Rome soccer field where a match was under way, and hijackers and convicts fled by car. Police set up two roadblocks and searched the region with helicopters.

Officials said the hijackers spoke French and that one jailbreaker, a Tunisian-born Frenchman was sought by French authorities in connection with a Paris bank robbery and murder. The other fugitive reportedly was a suspect of supplying arms to Italian terrorists.

Police said the hijackers walked into San Camillo Hospital in western Rome and cornered the helicopter pilot, 42-year-old Mauro Pompa.

Police question youths in assault

EAST ST. LOUIS—Two youths were in custody Sunday on suspicion of the shootings of six children and slashing of another's throat at their home Saturday night.

Lt. Robert Henry, chief of detectives for the East St. Louis Police Department, said police arrested a 14-year-old and a 19-year-old early Sunday morning for questioning in the attacks on the seven brothers and sisters.

Henry said police planned to interview some of the victims Sunday and that they would probably seek warrants Monday for six counts of attempted murder, one of attempted sexual assault and one of home invasion.

The victims are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilbourn. Three of the children were in critical condition Sunday at Cardinal Glennon Hospital in St. Louis, where they were taken by helicopter.

Alderman will fight extortion rap

CHICAGO—Alderman Wallace Davis, charged with extortion in a federal probe of alleged city corruption, says he will "fight tooth and nail" when his case comes to trial.

Davis was one of two elected officials among the seven people indicted last week in Operation Incubator, an FBI investigation that included a master con man who allegedly gave money to influence the awarding of city contracts.

Davis, a freshman member of the City Council and ally of Mayor Harold Washington, is accused of accepting $5,000 from Michael Raymond, the FBI mole and con man.

Davis also is accused of extorting money from small businesses in his ward, and demanding $10,000 from his niece and former secretary, Etta Harris, to keep her on the public payroll.

Volcanos shake Japanese towns

TOKYO (AP)—Mount Mihira subsided Sunday after a fiery eruption that forced 11,000 people to flee a small island, but hundreds of miles away another volcano erupted and sent a big rock flying into a hotel, injuring five people.

Officials said Mount Sakurajima hurled a rock 6.5 feet in diameter into an one-story concrete hotel just outside Sakurajima, about 620 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Officials of the Central Meteorological Agency said Mount Sakurajima has erupted often since 1955, including 474 eruptions last year. Police said 15 people were in the hotel at the time and two were seriously hurt.

Officials said the eruption was not linked with that on Mount Mihira, about 540 miles away on Oshima Island. Oshima is 70 miles south of Tokyo.

One Central Meteorological Agency official said about 30 gas explosions were recorded Sunday morning in the craters of Mount Mihira, compared with countless explosions Saturday, but that none were observed Sunday afternoon.

Only light smoke was seen coming from the mountain, but streams of yellow water were observed on the island's eastern and southern sides, indicating possible underwater eruptions, the official said.

He spoke on the condition of anonymity.

The volcano, dormant for 12 years, erupted twice last week. The second eruption, on Friday, sent lava streaming toward Oshima Island's main town and forced the evacuation of more than 11,000 people, including tourists and nearly all 10,300 residents.

The agency official said 54 earthquakes had been counted on the island by 8 p.m. The strongest measured 4 on the Richter scale.

On Saturday, 92 quakes were recorded, with the strongest 6.1 on the Richter scale, he said.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by ground motion recorded on a seismograph. A quake measuring 6 is capable of causing serious damage.

Hidehro Kato, an official of the Tokyo Fire Department, said lava had come within 165 yards of the town of Motomachi, but had almost stopped.

However, Professor Shigeo Aramaki of Tokyo University's Seismic Research Institute said, "volcanic activity has by no means ended."

Tokyo police said more than 400 people still were on the island, including 200 police and 130 journalists.

A broadcast from the island said 11 residents stayed on to take care of their cows and chickens.

Experts argue adviser scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Council, the center of a political storm over President Reagan's policy toward Iran, was formed nearly four decades ago as a low-profile group with instructions to leave policy-making to others.

Now the White House says that the NSC, along with the Central Intelligence Agency, conducted the "operational details" of Iranian contracts and arms deals, giving rise to demands in Congress for a greater role in overseeing the agency.

Some in and out of Congress are suggesting that John Poindexter, the president's national security advisor, be fired. Some suggest that Zbigniew Brzezinski, who held the position in the Carter administration, thinks upgrading the national security advisor would be a good move.

"I think we have to face the fact belatedly that in this day and age national security policy can only be made in the White House, because it's more than just diplomacy," Brzezinski said in an interview.

The members of the National Security Council are Reagan, Vice-President George Bush, Secretary of State George P. Schultz and Secretary of Defence Caspar Weinberger. Civilian advisers include Director William Casey and Adm. William J. Crowe, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and military advisers.

The council meets infrequently, however, and most of the controversy revolves around the activities of Poindexter and the staff.

Poindexter, a retired vice admiral in the Navy, is Reagan's fourth national security adviser. The first was Richard V. Allen, who resigned in 1981 and was succeeded by William Clark, a former California Supreme Court Justice. When Clark became secretary of the interior, his place was taken by his deputy, Robert C. McFarlane. McFarlane resigned in December and was sent to Tehran this spring as part of overtures to win the administration describes as Iranian moderates.

Shultz hit for not supporting Reagan on Iran

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leader Dole rebuked Secretary of State George Shultz on Sunday for "not doing anything" to support President Reagan in the Iran arms controversy, and suggested Reagan act quickly to "remove some of the problem."

Dole did not mention any administration officials by name when he said the president should move to "cut our losses," as the Iran issue continued to consume the administration and reports circulated that top advisers were calling for the ouster of Shultz, White House Chief of Staff Don Regan and National Security Adviser John Poindexter.

Dole, after praising Shultz's past performance, said, "But I think right now they ought to circle the wagons; either that, or let a couple of the wagons go over the cliff."

"I think the president was well-intentioned, well-motivated," in his decision to send arms to Iran, Dole said in an interview on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

"The next step is, I think, to remove some of the problem."

With his comments Sunday, Dole, R-Kan., added his voice to others calling for presidential action to restore administration unity as details continued to emerge about the Iran operation.

Reagan, returning Sunday from his weekend retreat at Camp David, Md., ignored reporters' shouted questions as he emerged from his helicopter and entered the White House.

White House spokesman Roman Popaduik said he had no information on reports in The Washington Post and Los Angeles Times that a group of presidential advisers was pushing for a high-level shakeup in Reagan's staff.

Dole said Regan told him earlier Sunday he knew nothing about such an effort.

"It's all a little bizarre, frankly," said Dole. "The only person who could put this to rest is the president, and it would seem to me the quicker the better."

The Post said Attorney General Edwin Meese III and others had sounded out former Secretary of Transportation Drew Lewis about taking over as White House chief of staff. But Patrick Korten, deputy director of public affairs for the Justice Department, said he knew of no such overtures. Harvey Turner, a spokesman for Lewis, who is now president of the Union Pacific Corp., said he would check with Lewis. When a reporter attempted to reach Turner later by telephone, however, there was no answer.

Date for jury trial in cuffing case to be set Monday

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

A hearing is scheduled Monday morning to set the date of a jury trial for the former Eastern student accused of handcuffing a Sigma Kappa sorority member to a stairwell while nude on Oct. 1.

Clark Schnepfer, 21, has pleaded not guilty to a misdemeanor charge of battery and has requested a jury trial, Assistant State's Attorney Avery Gerstein said. A date for the trial is scheduled to be set at 9:30 a.m. Monday by Judge Ashton Waller in Coles County Circuit Court, he said.

The charges stem from the handcuffing incident which occurred following a "Pimp and Whore" theme function between the now defunct Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity and the Sigma Kappa sorority.

According to court reports, Schnepfer allegedly handcuffed the woman to the stairwell at about 3 a.m., where she was left until about 8 a.m.

Schnepfer was a member of the fraternity, which lost its national charter after a university and national Phi Sigma Kappa chapter investigation of the incident. Schnepfer also withdrew from the university after the incident.

The university also has imposed sanctions against the Sigma Kappa sorority.

Gerstein said he has been in contact with Schnepfer's lawyer, but the specifics of the case have not been discussed.

The charge of battery is a misdemeanor punishable with up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Self-complainers are most boring, researchers find

NEW YORK (AP)—Researchers are studying an acute social disease whose victims at one time or another afflict almost everyone around them: bores.

The scientists are looking at why people are boring, in what ways they can be boring, and just how boring they can get. They've even established a "boringness index."

Among other things, their studies suggest that, to those who have to listen to them, people who complain about themselves and mutter trivialities are worse than people who overuse slang or try too hard to be nice.

They also found that boring conversation tends to include more questions and utterances like "Uh-huh," with fewer statements of fact or self-disclosure, than more interesting talk.

The experiments are among the first in an area that could lead to help for "chronically and excessively boring persons," the researchers wrote in the November issue of the Journal of Personality and Social Psychology.

"We're all boring sometimes and we're all interesting sometimes (but some people are more boring than others," said Mark Leary, assistant psychology professor at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C., co-author of the report with three students.

The work may sound tedious but it's "a first step in a whole new direction that we need to know more about," said Harry Reis, psychology professor at the University of Rochester in New York.

The experiments were based on a survey of undergraduate students and analyses of brief conversations between undergraduates who had just met. More work will be needed to see if the conclusions apply to other kinds of people and situations, Leary said.

In one experiment, 42 students suggested 210 tiresome things other people do that bore them, which researchers distilled into 43 themes for a second survey of 297 students.

That survey found that the most boring behaviors were banality, such as talking about trivial or superficial things or showing interest in only one topic, and "negative egocentrism," which essentially meant complaining about oneself and showing disinterest in others.

The least objectionable behaviors were "boring ingratiation," or trying to be funny and nice to impress others, and a mixture of distracting behaviors such as going off on tangents or overusing small talk or slang.

The Panthers— worth coming back to watch

Students should come back early to Charleston and support Eastern's football team in its first-round I-AA playoff game Saturday at O'Brien Stadium.

While it is true that students want to spend time at home with their families and friends over the Thanksgiving holiday, a chance at a national championship does not come along very often.

The road to the title game Dec. 19 in Tacoma, Wash. is not going to be easy. Coach Al Molde and his Panthers will face stiff competition every leg of the journey. Consequently, strong fan support is needed—beginning now.

While many have said they will see Eastern play in the second round, let us remind you that the Panthers must win Saturday against Murray State to advance in the playoffs.

Single elimination means once you lose, your season is over. There are no second chances.

Consequently, it is vital students return to Charleston and help the Panthers. There is no doubt the impact of a strong home crowd on the performance of a team—especially in the playoffs.

In addition, a number of promotions are being planned for students willing to return to support the Panthers. A free pre-game lunch highlights this list.

Another reason for returning early to view the playoff game is that it will allow Panther fans yet another chance to see the sparkling talent Eastern possesses.

Panther backers can watch All-American quarterback Sean Payton keep yet another defense busy guessing which of the many talented receivers he will throw to.

Eastern fans will get another chance witness to the Panther's "bend-but-don't break" defense fuel with turnovers in good field position.

Panther supporters will also get yet one more opportunity to see junior place-kicker Rich Ehmke boot field goals from yardage far enough to put him in the next area code.

And all this can be seen live. So give a little of yourself, come back for the playoff game.

Thanksgiving comes once a year. A national championship comes once in a lifetime.

Come back early, you won't regret it. And the Panthers will appreciate it.

Colorization—Ted's evil scheme

Hey Ted Turner, what you doin' to my favorite movies?

According to my two favorite movie critics, Gene Siskel and Roger Ebert, you're flirtin' with the annals of time. They say you're using computers to colorize legendary black and white films.

Ted, they say you bought out the MGM/UA film library for the sole purpose of colorizing these movies and they say you will never let them appear in their original form again.

Colorization of old black and white "B" movies is one thing, but Ted, some people can't understand your reasoning for tampering with classic movies that audiences have viewed countless numbers of times.

Ted, they say you're doing it because you love the color of money (and they don't mean the movie).

Oh, please Ted say it isn't so.

This is not the Ted who won the America's Cup—he was an American hero (a drunken one, but a hero nonetheless).

I can remember the time when you appeared before our nation's Congress three years ago, spouting-off about the greed of the three networks. You said you were interested in quality entertainment, not the quantity of your income like those other guys.

Ted, you were the epitome of the Horatio Alger story. You and Chicago Bears coach Mike Ditka are the only Grabowskis worth your salt.

As a matter of fact, the average guy could walk up to you on the street and talk shop any time.

But now Ted, the doubts have set in.

Siskel and Ebert would not be so upset at you if you at least made a herculian effort in coloring the films in a quality manner. I know some people would like to see some of the old black and white classic color. To some degree, so would I.

Dobie

But Ted, the consensus of opinion is that colorization benefits none of the viewers mainly because the color obviously reeks with artificial coloring and flavoring.

Remember when Humphrey Bogart and Marlene Dietrich Astor outsmarted Sidney "the fat man" Greenstreet and Peter Lorre in the Maltese Falcon.

Originally, the picture was filmed in black and white.

But it was in living blue and pink color on Turner's TV (and I casually use this word when I refer to Ted's) station.

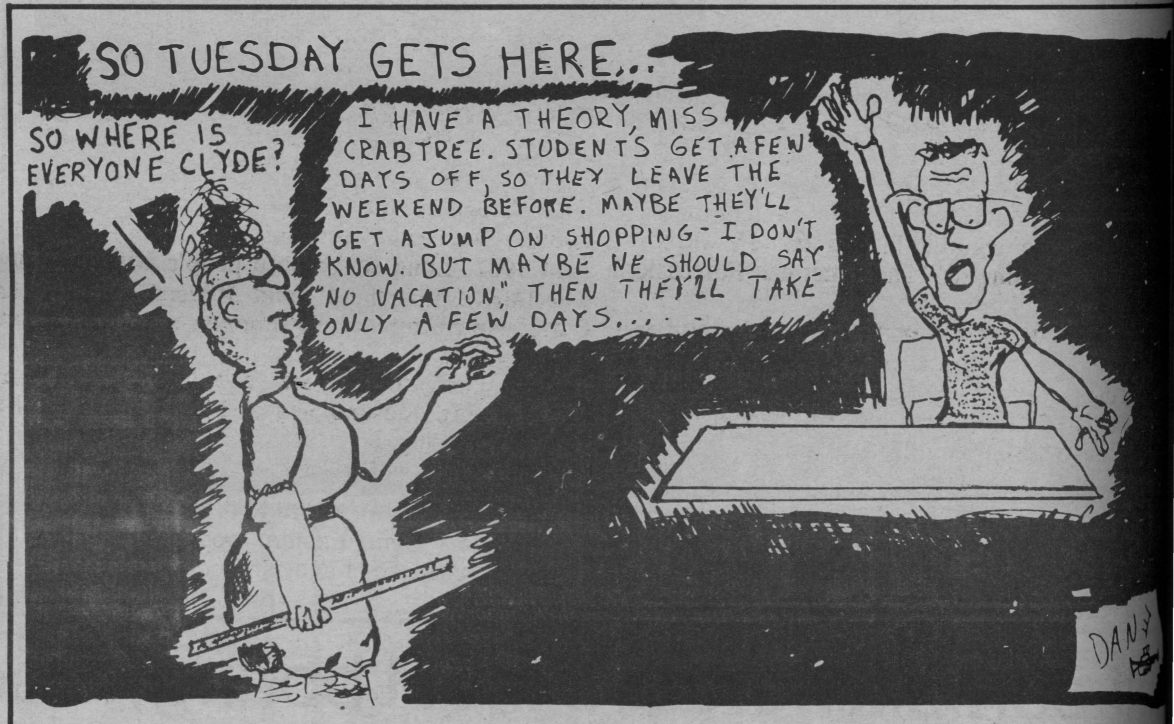

Another great movie also filmed in black and white had to be Casablanca. Remember when Bogie and Lauren Bacall were hiding in shadows and fog of the airport from Claude Rains? The movie was so well photographed brilliantly in black and white and it's the mood for suspense. No doubt in color the movie will be lost.

Speaking of suspense, Alfred Hitchcock's horrifying thriller Psycho was also filmed in black and white. The movie that made everyone afraid to take a shower was released in 1960 so it could have been made in color but Hitchcock chose black and white.

And if I had a dime for everytime all the TV stations aired It's A Wonderful Life after Thanksgiving up until New Year's Day, I'd be a millionaire.

And I would use all of my power to stop you Ted because this time, you're just in the show for the bucks. Your production crew is unproven, your direction is pointless and the script has a bad ending for the Horatio Alger of television.

—Dobie Holland is a reporter for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn

Greeks do more than just party

Editor:

I would like to make a few comments concerning the ever popular Phi Sigma Kappa-Sigma Kappa handcuffing incident. I wish I could believe that it will be the last note on the issue, but that would probably be unrealistic on my part.

I do not want to put the blame for the occurrence on anyone, I don't know enough of the truth to do so, does anyone?

I really don't think so. Rather I am writing in response to the letters from the people who think that the sorority should get its charter pulled.

I strongly disagree with this view.

I don't think the fraternity should have had their charter pulled either, but because they did, is that any reason to pull the sorority's also? I mean, the issue here isn't whose idea the party was or even what the theme was. The issue here is who performed the handcuffing. I have a problem with the statement from Richard K. Juretic stating that the Sigma Kappas "witnessed the entire event and did not lift a finger to help her." It's pretty hard for me to believe that he was there to witness the event, so who is he to condemn the sorority involved when he wasn't even present?

The final thing I would like to say is that it really disgusts me that people can go on and on for months about one unfortunate incident, especially when they go so far as to blame the entire Greek system. Does anyone realize all of the good things that Sigma Kappas, Phi Sigma Kappas and the rest of the Greek system has done? Fundraisers, philanthropies, conferences and speakers—you mean the Greeks do all that? Yes, of course they do! Maybe the media gave equal attention to the good things Greeks do and people wouldn't persecute them for partying once in a while. And then maybe, just maybe, an incident such as the handcuffing wouldn't be so blown out of proportion as it is has been.

Sheriff plans to move on to new challenges

By JOHN PLETZ
Staff writer

As he hurries to get through his few remaining stacks of unfinished paperwork, Chuck Lister has a quiet look of placidity about him.

A surprisingly cheerful and carefree attitude for a man who will be without a job after Dec. 1., Lister, who lost the November Coles County Sheriff's election to Republican Jim Kimball, will leave his post and the area after eight years of service.

Lister said he is not really sure where he's going, when he's going or what he'll do when he gets there, but he's also not worried about it.

"I'm putting my house up for sale and planning to move on," Lister said. "We are looking at the possibility of leaving the state, but at this point we really don't have any idea."

Although his wife has a teaching contract at Arcola High School and plans to stay in the area until it expires in June, Lister said he'll start job hunting "anytime after December first."

"We're looking really at just about anything right now, we're keeping our options open," he said. "Most of my professional experience has been in management and administration. I would like to experiment in the private business sector. I've worked in government for 12 years."

Lister was frank in admitting he was surprised by his feelings after the election. Instead, he said, he actually felt relieved.

"I'm a very competitive person. I

JOHN PLETZ / Staff photographer

After losing a bid for a third term, outgoing Coles County-Sheriff Chuck Lister says he is "leaving his options open," which may include moving from the area and going into private business.

always have been," he said. "And I've thought about someday losing an election eventually. I thought I'd have a lot of anger, tension and frustration due to the competitiveness of my nature, but after the election I kept expecting these feelings to appear and that never happened. The only prevailing feeling I have is one of relief."

Lister pinpointed the politics of the job and the recent absence of a challenge as the main reasons he wanted to move on. However, he said it took the election loss for him to realize it was time to leave.

"In retrospect, several years ago the department was running well and all the systems were in place, so I started thinking the challenge was gone and it was time to move on," he recalled. "Basically, the (turning) point was just around the corner with the election telling me it was time to move on."

"(The signal has) finally come and I'm relieved of the complacency of the job. When all your monetary needs are satisfied, you tend to get lazy instead of finding new goals and chasing them. This is the point that has made me move on to bigger and better things."

Lister said he lost the chance for a third term because he wasn't campaigning as hard as he had in the past. He also didn't want to retain the position as badly as he had in his first re-election effort.

"For me there is just no challenge here anymore," he said. "There's some difficult times ahead, but they won't be near as challenging as when I first got here."

Lister said the main reason for his lack of enthusiasm with the sheriff job is the politics of the position.

The position of sheriff shouldn't have anything to do with politics, he said. Lister believes the sheriff should be a hired like a city manager.

"I never liked politics and not just now (after having lost the election). I found (politics) a necessary evil to get and retain the job. I liked the law and administration of the sheriff's office, but I hated the politics."

"I'm glad it's a period of my life that's over," he said. "I could work for a person that's politically locked into a position again, but I could never be that person again. I've worked in government for 12 years and I'm not going to stay in politics—leave politics to the politicians. I don't ever care to be one again."

Forecaster predicts the ins and outs for coming year

DENVER (AP)—"Yuppie gardening," luxury four-wheel-drive vehicles and Caribbean cuisine will be hot in 1987, while guns, skiing and MTV will lose their luster, according to "The American Forecaster 1987."

Other 1987 hits will be instant yogurt, cashmere women's clothes, bifocal contact lenses, stuffed animals, diet pet food, adult comic books, disposable pens, animated Bible stories on videocassette, homework and desktop publishing.

Kim Long, 37, of Denver, who researched and wrote the 192-page book that goes on sale this month, says many of the trends, especially consumer trends, are guided by the demands of the 20-to-40 group.

"It's not a universal rule, and it's going to change in appearance, but it's still going to be the baby boomers who will affect consumer trends," he said.

In 1987, Long said, more people will buy four-wheel-drive Porsches, Land Rovers and will eat Caribbean cuisine, already popular in New York and Los Angeles.

Vegetable gardening will continue to attract affluent young householders and will "boom with a capital b," Long said.

In the toy world, Rock Lords—transformable figures that evolved from the GoBot characters—will be one of the biggest sellers this Christmas, along with talking bear Teddy Ruxpin and his electronic sidekicks.

Cabbage Patch Kid fever is subsiding, but not demand for military doll figures, led by Chuck Norris and Karate Kommandos, according to the fourth annual edition of the almanac.

On the filp side, "American Forecaster" says the gun market will be glutted in 1987 and MTV, the cable television rock video network, will continue to lose viewers.

Also on the way out in 1987 will be sexy phone services, diesel cars, meat, "Dallas" and "Dynasty," and coupons and canned vegetables. And men's facial hair will remain in disfavor.

Long said the ski industry is at the beginning of a bust cycle.

Retiring Jackie Bacon ends era

By STUART TART
Staff writer

After more than 45 years of service in the Coles County Clerk's office, Jackie Bacon said she is ready to retire.

"I'm old enough to retire," she said. "I think it's time I have a nice personal life with my husband in our golden years and with my family. I'll have a chance to do some extra baking and cooking and to have the grandkids around."

Although she is looking forward to retirement, Bacon said she has enjoyed her years as county clerk.

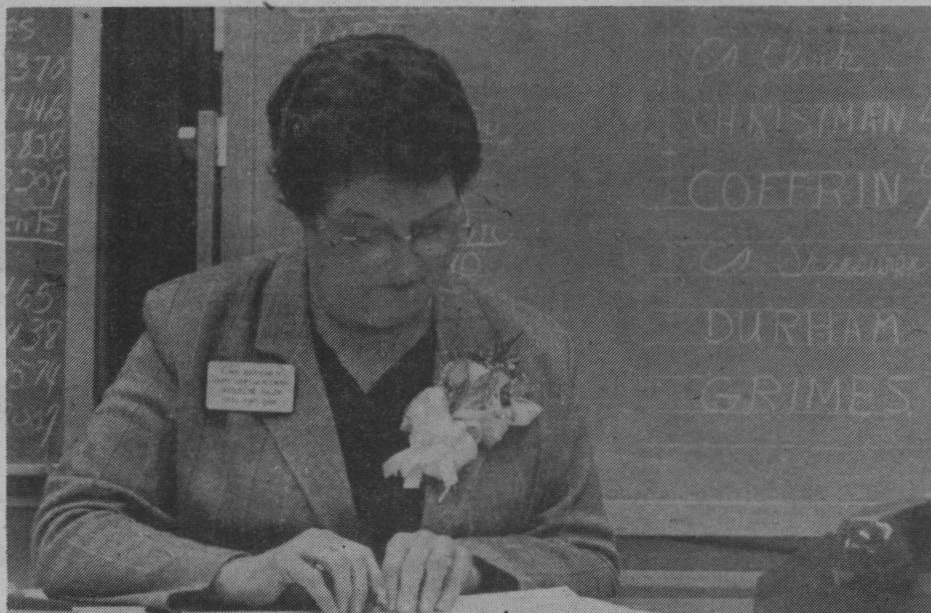

"This office touches the life of every person in the county," she said. The county clerk's office handles birth and death records, marriage records, administration of elections and election registration, county board records and figuring tax rates.

"I've enjoyed it," she said. "It's been challenging."

Bacon, who has served as Coles County clerk and recorder since 1974, ends her third term Dec. 1. Bacon made Coles County history as the first woman to be elected to a county office in a county-wide election.

"I'm proud to be the first woman in the history of Coles County to be elected to county office," she added.

Bacon succeeded Harry Grafton as clerk in 1974, but she wasn't new to the office even then. She has been working in the office since 1941, before she graduated from high school.

During her 12 years in office, Bacon has made several changes.

One of the first things Bacon did was update the Plat book system. Plat books contain thick, heavy maps of county subdivisions. Because she was afraid someone would get hurt using them, Bacon had the information put on microfilm.

Bacon was named Women of the Year by the Mattoon Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association in 1976 and Boss of the Year by the Charleston Charter Chapter of the ABWA in 1980. She has also been listed in the 1977 edition of Marquis' Who is Who in Government.

of it's kind among state supported schools in Illinois, but it is also the most under funded," Nawa said. The beginning karate courses are always over crowded and the continuing education course averages about 30 people per semester, each willing to pay $90 for additional self-defense training, he said.

Nawa said the physical education department has previously asked for funding from the university for additional self-defense courses with success, but it is going to try again. "The courses have already been developed and are waiting in the wings," Nawa said.

"We have a good security force on campus but they can't be everywhere," Nawa said. Personal safety is ultimately up to the individual, he said.

More self-defense courses is not the only thing needed at Eastern to combat safety problems, counseling center officials said.

"Self defense is one way to go, but education is needed also," said Eleanor McCabe of Eastern's counseling center.

"Eastern is not a safe campus, but it's not any worse than the other campuses," she said.

McCabe feels a lot of the students from the larger cities think that because Eastern is in a rural area they can let their guard down.

Senior music major Brian Justison puts the finishing touches on a drum solo he composed titled "Fuga." The piece will be presented by student musicians Monday night at a forum in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Forum set for student composers

Eastern's music composition students' goal to have their pieces performed will finally be realized at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Composer's Forum director Peter Hesterman said, "It is a goal for all composition students. It gives them the opportunity to have their works performed."

Ten pieces of varied musical type written by composition students for class credit will be performed by student musicians recruited by the author, Hesterman added.

The forum is open to the public and free of charge.

Despair greets jobless who flock to 'Boom Town'

BLOOMINGTON (AP)—Jobless families from as far as Texas and Florida, their suitcases stuffed with hope but no skills, are trickling into town on a mistaken belief that a new auto plant is hiring thousands, officials say.

"These people are desperate. They've left nothing and there's nothing here for them," says Tina Sipula, who operates a shelter that she says has been full of such migrant families nearly every week since late summer.

Diamond-Star Motors Corp., a $600 million steel-girder giant rising over the rich dirt of harvested cornfields west of here, is nearly two years from hiring most of its 2,900 employees. It has said nearly all must be highly skilled.

Some officials are doubtful, but Sipula and others contend that more unskilled drifters are planting roots in the area that public agencies acknowledge. They say the trickle will widen into a flood and that someone needs to relieve the deep despair the migrating families face.

"We had two families—three children and four adults—come up from North Carolina crammed in a compact car," Sipula said in the living room of her wood-frame Clare House, which can shelter 10 people a night. "They found jobs raking leaves and are now cramped into one apartment."

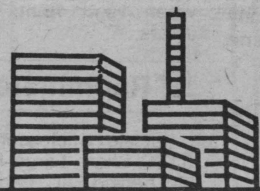

"We had another family drive up from Texas in an old beater. They didn't have luggage; they didn't even have toothbrushes for the two kids, nothing."

"They're now cleaning toilets and vacuuming rugs," she said.

"It's going to get a lot worse and nobody around here is making any plans for how to take care of these people," Sipula said. "We tell them they'll never get a job at the auto plant and that surprises them."

"But they say there's got to be something better here than the nothing they left, so many are deciding to stay."

Sipula refused to disclose names or locations of migratory families she said were staying in the area.

Bears gain win

CHICAGO (AP)—Kevin Butler's 32-yard field goal with 2:37 to play Sunday lifted the Chicago Bears to a 12-10 victory over the Green Bay Packers in a vicious 133rd renewal of the teams' rivalry.

The winning kick came shortly after Dave Duerson recovered a Gary Ellerson fumble at the Green Bay 34-yard line. With Walter Payton carrying three times, the Bears moved to the 14-yard line to set up the winning field goal.

It came after the Packers had taken the lead on Randy Wright's 46-yard touchdown pass to Ed West which gave the Packers a 10-9 lead.

The victory left the Bears at 10-2 and in position to gain the home field advantage in the playoffs. The Packers dropped to 2-10.

The game also marked the return of Jim McMahon after missing three straight games because of a shoulder injury. McMahon extended his streak to 23 straight wins but he was ineffective for the most part.

yards and 10 touchdowns on 122 carries.

Leading the Murray State receiving corps are wide outs Stanley Howard (30 catches for 732 yards) and Marc Murray (23 catches for 414 yards).

Defensively, the Thoroughbreds are spearheaded by linebackers 5-10, 210-pound Tony Woodie and 6-foot, 215-pound Luke Curry along with 6-3, 200-pound defensive end Willie Blester.

Should the Panthers defeat Murray State Saturday, Eastern would face the winner of the Eastern Kentucky-Furman game in the Dec. 6 quarterfinals.

LeFevour earns Gateway honorable mention pick

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Eastern senior middle hitter Maura LeFevour was named to the honorable mention team of the this year's All-Gateway Conference squad this weekend.

"It's a good way to end my career at Eastern," LeFevour said. "But I would gladly trade it in to have finished higher in the conference standings."

Eastern finished in an eighth-place tie with Indiana State in the 10-team Gateway. Both teams were 2-7 in league play.

The basis for LeFevour making the all-conference squad undoubtedly was the result of her fourth-place ranking among the Gateway leaders in hitting percentage at .319.

LeFevour had previously become the first sophomore to be named all-Gateway in the 1984 season. However, LeFevour was not selected as a junior.

"It (being named all-conference) was an individual goal I set for my senior year," LeFevour said. "It's always a good feeling to reach your goals."

LeFevour also added that Panther sophomore Gianna Galanti should have received consideration for the all-conference team.

"I was really hoping that Gianna would make it this year," LeFevour said. "But, I'm sure that she'll be all-conference in her junior and senior years."

Galanti ranked fourth in the Gateway in blocking average. The LaGrange native averaged 1.06 blocks per game this season.

The All-Gateway first team consisted of: Kathy Crotty, Southwest Missouri; Sue Orstrom,

Maura LeFevour

Western Illinois; Chris Rehor, Illinois State; Mary Bernhardt, Northern Iowa; Pat Nicholson, Southern Illinois; and Lisa Meeker, Northern Iowa.

The second team was: Becky Wells, Wichita State; Jan Tremblay, Southern Illinois; Betsy Buckhold, Bradley; Jill Sprague, Northern Iowa; Maryellen McCann, Northern Iowa; and Mindy Struckhoff, Southwest Missouri.

Joining LeFevour on the All-Gateway honorable mention list were: Kari James, Wichita State; Tracy Benson, Western Illinois; Kim Aufderheide, Indiana State; Sue Sinclair, Southern Illinois; Angie Rolf, Illinois State; and Vicki Goth, Southwest Missouri.

Crotty was named the Gateway's Most Valuable Player. Southwest Missouri's Linda Dollar was selected Gateway Coach of the Year.

Northern Iowa wins crown

Northern Iowa captured the 1986 Gateway Conference volleyball crown Saturday by defeating Southwest Missouri in five games.

The purple Panthers topped the years 11-15, 15-9, 11-15, 15-4 and 15-10. Northern Iowa will thus advance to the NCAA Tournament.

The purple Panthers are 30-2 on the season. Southwest Missouri finished at 26-7.

Northern Iowa earned its way into the title match by defeating Southern Illinois. The Salukis had been the only Gateway team to have beaten Northern Iowa during the regular season.

Southwest Missouri won its way into the championship by toppling defending champion Illinois State.

Swimmers take third straight win of season

By JOE LEWNARD
Staff writer

Eastern's swimmers won a dual meet against the University of Indiana-Indianapolis at Lantz Pool Saturday for their third consecutive victory.

Both meets were close through the early events, but in the end the Panthers pulled through with the men winning 69-44 and the women triumphing 79-32.

Earlier in the week Eastern coach Ray Padovan was expecting a young Indiana-Indianapolis team without much depth in their lineup. But by the middle of the meet he found that its men's team had several quality freestyle swimmers.

"It was not an easy meet like I anticipated," Padovan said. "We were in real trouble at one point in the guy's meet."

Padovan said last year Indiana-Indianapolis only had a competitive distance freestyler on the men's team. This time it had much greater team balance.

Padovan said the Panthers are shallow in the freestyle events after Steve Dempsey and Paul Mulcrone graduated last year.

Backstroke Gary Urban said the meet was won after the breast stroke events when John Ryan and Tim Schnittker took first and second in the event.

Ryan won the race with a time of 2:15.60 and Schnittker came in second with a time of 2:18.21.

Urban won the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:07.94, and he this is close to his best time in the event.

Urban said he felt the meet was quite competitive, and that the Panthers did well even after a tough week of practice.

"Ray (Padovan) has been killing us this week in practice," Urban said.

Dave Young won the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 50.67, and he also won the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:50.67.

Scott Conover won the 200-yard butterfly with a time of 2:01.0. Mark Brandt won the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:05.23.

The combination of Brandt, Young, Jay Hunt and Urban barely won the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 3:19.91, beating Indiana-Indianapolis by .63 of a second.

The swimmers of the two teams were even throughout the race, but Urban won the event by the length of his hand.

The women had many victories as well. Linda Malone, Ann Body, Michelle Harsa and Betsy Watkins teamed up to win the 200-yard medley relay with a time of 2:07.1.

Ann Body won the 200-yard I.M. with a time of 2:29.3, and the 200-yard breast stroke with a time of 2:43.3.

Among the other victories were Connie Wieck's wins in the the 1,000-yard freestyle with a time of 11:26.3 and the 200-yard butterfly with a time of 2:36.1.

Carolyn Guditis won the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 56.7, and the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 2:04.4.

Tracy Saal won the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 25.6, and Stacey Krzywanos won the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:33.3.

defense, and we responded well to penetration.

"I think we will have a more fluid offense as we get to know each other better," he added. Samuels was definitely pleased to see more than a five-man effort as well.

With solid players like sophomores Vince Macciocchi and Don Peavey and freshman Cass White, who didn't see action Friday also on the bench, Samuels thinks depth is a positive for Eastern this season.

"There are still more players" other than the ones who played, Samuels said. "We have more kids we can bring in and count on to do a good job."

Eastern to face Murray State in I-AA playoffs

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Ohio Valley Conference champion Murray State was named as Eastern's first-round opponent in the NCAA I-AA football playoffs.

The Panthers, 10-1 and seeded third in the 16-team field, will host Murray State at 1 p.m. Saturday at O'Brien Stadium.

Murray State, 7-3-1, tied for the Ohio Valley title with Eastern Kentucky although the two schools had tied in the conference standings. Murray State had defeated Eastern Kentucky 17-15 in their head-to-head game this season.

"I've only seen Murray State when we looked at game films of this year when we were preparing for Southern Illinois," Eastern coach Al Molde said.

Southern Illinois pounded Murray State 31-0 in that contest. Eastern drilled Southern 52-7 one week later.

Eastern and Murray State also share one other common opponent in Western Kentucky. While the

• See I-AA playoff pairings, page 10

Thoroughbreds tied the Hilltoppers 10-10 in the season's third game, the Panthers downed them 35-18 a week ago.

"Basically, I think they're like most OVC teams in that they are a power football team offensively. Defensively, they're a lot like Northern Iowa in that they play a wide-tackle six (defense)," Molde said.

Molde added that both schools are in the process of trying to work out the mandatory NCAA film exchange in which both schools request films of three different games of their choice.

Should the teams not be able to agree on which films will be sent, NCAA officials are in charge of the film selection.

"We'll try and get films of what they did against passing teams and that sort," Molde said. "The way it looks now, we probably won't get anything until tomorrow (Monday)."

At the midpoint of the season the playoffs seemed very unlikely for Murray State. Through six games, the Thoroughbreds held a 2-3-1 record.

But, following a 24-13 loss to Akron on ESPN, Murray State ran off five straight victories. The Thoroughbreds closed their season Saturday with a 24-14 conference win over Austin Peay State.

Much of the credit for the Murray State turnaround goes to quarterback Michael Proctor. The 6-4, 195 pound red-shirt freshman took over the Thoroughbred helm three games into the season.

Proctor completed 102 of 209 passes for 1,500 yards and nine touchdowns on the season. He was intercepted 11 times.

The Murray State ground game is paced by Bill Bird who was moved from fullback to tailback when starter Rodney Payne was hampered by a deeply bruised knee.

Bird, who has come on of late, rushed for 580 yards. (See EASTERN, page 10)

Defense, balanced attack leads cagers to 97-92 win

By JOHN STROUD
Associate sports editor

Eastern combined tough defense and a balanced scoring attack for a 97-92 men's basketball exhibition win over Fort Hood Friday in Lantz Gym.

It was just what the doctor ordered for coach Rick Samuels and the Panthers as they successfully utilized the bench to keep a consistent scoring punch on the court against a veteran Fort Hood team.

The Tankers, an Army-based team from Texas, fell to 13-7 on their season to complete a week of nearly non-stop competition.

Although the win didn't count on Eastern's record, it did provide a solid base as the Panthers prepare to open the season Dec. 1 when they host Illinois Tech.

Samuels liked what he saw Friday, but he knows a long season lies ahead for a young Panther team embarking on a "transitional" season.

"Our effort was what really carried us," Samuels said, adding that once the Panthers played as a team, "we knew the pieces would fit together."

Junior guard Norm Evans, who scored 15 points, drove all the way for a fast break lay-up with 11:13 in the first half to give the Panthers an 18-16 lead.

The Panthers clung to a slim lead before taking a 43-42 advantage into the locker room at the half.

Junior forward Tony Hemphill, who led the Panthers in scoring with 25 points, connected for a three-pointer at the top of the key with 37 seconds remaining only to be answered by the Tankers' Jerry Carter who bombed a three-pointer at the buzzer to cut the lead to one.

Those baskets proved that the new three-point goal will be a factor this season. Samuels reminded the Panthers of that when he called a time out at 8:24 in the second half with Eastern up 73-66.

"We weren't taking good care of the ball" at that point, Samuels said.

"And I wanted to remind them that they (Fort Hood) could get back in the game quickly," especially with the three-point goal.

Carter had 26 points for the Tankers, while Wayne Golden led with 30 points.

Hemphill, who redshirted last year after transferring from Stetson University in Florida, was surprised to see such a strong team effort considering the Panthers' youth.

"That was the hardest we've played" since being together as a team, Hemphill said. "I was surprised that we came out and played that hard. I was pleased with our effort."

Junior forward Daye Stein answered some questions concerning the Panthers' depth in coming off the bench to score 18 points.

Stein took an Evans pass up and in underneath with 4:36 in the second half to give Eastern its biggest lead of the game, 86-76. He added two more 30 seconds later to make it 88-78.

"We wanted to come out and play as hard as we could," Stein said. "We knew we needed to come out and play with some team unity" considering the Tankers' experience.

"It's a good start, but we've got a long, long way to go. We're just really starting to get to know each other," Stein added.

Sophomore guard Jay Taylor, who connected for 21 points, thought the win was a real confidence-builder before heading into the season.

"It was our defense that did it," Taylor said. "We had a good team effort and great intensity. We have to continue to play like this."

Sophomore forward Dave Vance, Evans, Taylor and Stein each had seven rebounds for the Panthers. Samuels thought rebounding was one area Eastern could have improved in.

"We need more aggressive rebounding," Samuels said. "We need to try to play good aggressive defense. We were acting well in our half-court
