Plans uncertain for privacy law

ck Popely

University officials are still uncertain they will handle requests from students to see their school records with any scheduled to be the first day to such requests.

President Gilbert Fite said Friday that he has appointed a committee to recommend guidelines for implementing the Federal Privacy Act of 1974, which requires universities to make school records available to students.

Schools which do not comply with the law can have federal funds they now receive cut off.

Members of the committee which will recommend guidelines to Fite are James

Hesler, director of the Placement Office,

James Martin, registrar, and Herbert

Wing, director of counseling and placement.

The three were chosen because they all deal with student records, Kenneth Hesler, director of university relations, said Friday.

Even though guidelines have not been set, starting Monday students will be able to submit written requests to see their records. The university has 45 days to comply with the request.

"There are a great many questions yet to be answered," Fite said. "We really don't know if individuals can see records from before the 19th (last Tuesday, when the law went into effect.)"

However, last week the university issued a statement which cautioned students that "materials which were confidential prior to the effective date of the Privacy Act legislation will remain confidential."

One of the uncertainties facing the university is what to do about confidential records—keep them or, like some colleges, destroy them.

Fite said that destroying records would be "kind of foolish, but this may be the thing you have to do."

He said that if the university would make confidential recommendations available to students, the Privacy Act would become a kind of "ex post facto law," and be unfair to those who wrote them.

"I write quite a few letters for students I know," he said. "But I won't write any more. My personal view is that in fairness to the people who wrote them, confidential recommendations should be destroyed or sent back to the author."

Fite also feels the new law will be "a handicap to students" who are hoping that a good recommendation will help them secure a job. If the recommendations aren't confidential, he said, employers will give them little weight.

Whether Eastern is correct in assuming it can withhold confidential records which were on file before Nov. 19 will have to be decided in court cases, he predicted.

Eastern is not the only college that isn't sure of which way to go on the Privacy Act, Fite continued, and whether there will be "any amendments to clarify things is anybody's guess."

If Fite was hoping for help from the Board of Governors in setting up guidelines, he didn't get it Thursday when the BOG met in Chicago.

"They talked about it informally, but the board didn't discuss it at the meeting," he said.

Strike settlement reduces need

Student response low for chartered bus

ne Duvall

Settlement of the Greyhound Bus strike and lack of interest will probably cause the cancellation of a chartered bus scheduled to take students to Chicago Friday, Bill Clark, director of student activities, said Friday.

An agreement reached Sunday called for all Greyhound employees to return to work immediately. The bus have been idle since the strike began at noon last Friday.

The Student Senate had arranged the charter to take the regular bus which would not have run because of the Greyhound strike.

However, with only one day left to register, only six students had signed up for the bus being hired from the Crown Transit Co. to take the route usually covered by Greyhound.

Glen Edman, local Greyhound agent, said it was definite that Greyhound would now provide their usual service, leaving the Lantz Building parking lot at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday and arriving in Chicago at 8 p.m.

Clark said a decision concerning the chartered bus would be made Monday, but the outlook was doubtful for retaining it.

However, the original charter contract said that if the strike is settled, Crown Transit would go ahead and make the run provided enough persons had signed up to use the bus.

The deadline for purchasing tickets for the chartered bus is 5 p.m. Monday. Tickets are $9 one way and can be purchased in the Student Activities Office.

In a related matter, because only eight persons have signed up for the shuttlebus going to Mattoon Tuesday, the reservation deadline has been extended to 5 p.m. Monday.

Al Rundle, adviser of Bridges, the group sponsoring the bus, said Sunday that students can call him at the Speech Dept., 581-2016, to make reservations.

Shuttlebuses will leave from the parking lot north of Coleman Hall at 5:15 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Sigma Alpha Iota members crowd around the piano Sunday to belt it out in the final hour of their 48-hour marathon. (News photo by Scott Weaver)

Women's longest concert earns world's record here

By Debbie Pearson

Eastern's latest claim to fame occurred Sunday when the women of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity, set a world record for non-stop singing.

Not only did they sing for 48 consecutive hours, defeating the standing world record of 36 hours set in England, but they also collected over $580 to be used in their "people-to-people program." The funds will go towards music and equipment for underdeveloped countries.

The marathon, which began at 3 p.m. Friday in the lobby of the Fine Arts Building, came to a close at 3 p.m. Sunday with over 30 observers listening to the women wind up their final hour.

Fraternity adviser Jackie Snyder said, "the spirit of these girls has just been unbelievable."

She added that during an eight-hour span she recorded 279 song titles in the marathon log book which must be sent in to The Guinness Book of World Records.

Both the first and final hour of the marathon were sung by all the fraternity members, including actives and pledges, she said.

After the first hour, girls sang in shifts of four every hour with a pianist playing at all times.

Fraternity members originated the idea of the marathon early this semester when they learned that the record was only 36 hours. The singing marathon "seemed appropriate" for them, she said.

On a table near the piano were stacks of music, from which each shift of girls could select music, and a copy of a poem entitled "It Couldn't Be Done."

Snyder said someone had probably just put the poem there to keep the girls going.

Company questions supply

City needs another water source — Hickman

By Dave Poehler

Officials of a company which is considering building a new plant in Charleston are concerned about whether the local water supply is adequate, Mayor Bob Hickman said last week.

Speaking at a question-answer forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters Thursday night, Hickman used this example to show that the city's water problems go beyond the needs of individual homeowners.

He would not name the company involved, but said there is no doubt that Charleston needs another source of water now that almost two-thirds of Lake Charleston has filled in with sediment.

Damming Wet Stone and Polecat Creeks, which feed Lake Charleston, would be too expensive for the city to do alone, he claimed. The projects would cost an estimated $12.9 million and the city would need financial help from the state.

The City Council will decide in January what to do about the water problem, Hickman said, and other plans, such as tapping underground wells, will also be considered.

The mayor said the water rate increase, effective Dec. 1, will keep the city from running a $90,000 deficit in its water and sewer operations. He added that water rates should "be okay for five more years."

In his introductory remarks, Hickman said he had received 500 letters and 100 to 150 phone calls against increasing the number of people who sell liquor on Sundays.

Fire alarms cause evacuation of two dorms over weekend

A practical joke and a lit candle wick in some trash resulted in Carman and Lawson Halls being evacuated over the weekend because of fire alarms.

Shortly after 1 a.m. on Saturday morning someone pulled a fire alarm in Lawson, Jo Stuebe, residence hall counselor at Lawson said. It was the second time in a week the dorm had a false alarm, she said.

Concert set Monday by string orchestra

Eastern's string orchestra will present a concert at 8 p.m. Monday in the Dvorak Concert Hall, with Donald Tracy, assistant professor of musical performance, conducting.

The concert will be free.

Included in the program will be the "Concerto in D Major" with Burton Hardin of the Music Department as French horn soloist.

Gary Zwicky, also a musical performance professor, and Johnny Lane, timpanist, will be featured in a performance of Poulenc's "Concerto in G Minor for Organ, Timpani and Strings."

End in sight for coal strike?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations for the nation's coal industry and miners workers announced a new proposed agreement Sunday night to end the nationwide walkout.

Details of the proposed settlement were not released, but it is expected to contain industry concessions to demands made by the United Mine Workers' 38-member bargaining council.

The council must approve the proposed agreement before it can be submitted to the nation's 120,000 striking miners, who on Nov. 12 struck coal mines producing 70 per cent of the nation's coal.

In a joint statement, UMW President Arnold Miller and chief industry negotiator Guy Farmer said both sides "have tonight agreed in principle to improvements in the tentative contract package. We intend to devote Monday to the task of finalizing contract language so that a complete and final document can be presented for the ratification process without delay."

Revision in court appeals placed on ballot

John Ryan

A referendum to change the procedure for appealing student Supreme Court decisions will be on the ballot with the Dec. 4 Student Senate elections.

This referendum, which now makes the number of referendums on the Dec. 4

VP Kerchner relinquishing AISG post

John Ryan

Kevin Kerchner announced at last Thursday's Student Senate meeting that he was going to "gradually" give up his duties as vice chairman of the Association of Illinois Student Governments (AISG). Kerchner, also Eastern's financial vice president, was appointed vice chairman of the AISG last summer after he lost an election for chairman by one vote.

The AISG, in which Kerchner has also represented Eastern for over a year, is an interest group that represents about 10,000 students throughout the state.

In his announcement to the senate Kerchner said, "Within the next couple of months I am going to relieve myself of AISG duties."

Kerchner added that his main reason for withdrawing from the post is that next semester he will be carrying an academic overload and will not be able to fulfill his AISG duties or attend the meetings, which are usually held out of town.

"I am not submitting my resignation at this time," he said, "but I am going to pick it up by next semester."

He said that the person taking his place will not take over his duties as vice chairman.

ballot three, was approved by the Student Senate at its meeting last Thursday.

Because the change in the university court procedure would also be a change in the Student Government Constitution, the student body must approve the referendum before the procedure can be altered.

If approved by a majority of those voting on the referendum, the constitution would be changed so that Supreme Court cases can be appealed only when the president of the university initiates the appeal.

Presently, the student court rules allow all Student Supreme Court cases to be appealed to President Gilbert Fite.

The president could hear appeals, if the referendum passes, only if a student was subject to dismissal from the university, if the case involves a violation of Board of Governors' policies or if an obvious miscarriage of justice has occurred in the case.

The senate voted 15-0 with one abstention to have the referendum. However, Elections Committee Chairperson Tom Wade cautioned the senate that adding the referendum to the ballot could be a mistake.

He said that the ballot will have to have the constitution law as it now stands and also how it will be changed.

Wade said that "students don't read the ballots anyway and if a lot of words

Senate petitions due on Monday

The deadline for submitting petitions to be a candidate in the Dec. 4 Student Senate elections is 5 p.m. Monday.

To become a candidate, a student must pick up a petition in the Student Activities Office in the basement of the Student Services Building and obtain 25 signatures from students who live in the district the person is running for.

Tom Wade, Elections Committee chairperson, said there will also be a candidate's meeting at 5 p.m. Monday.

All candidates must attend.

are on the ballot they for sure won't read it."

Mick Chizmar, an At-Large District senator who abstained, said he did so because there is no pressing need for the change to be placed in a referendum at this election.

He added that he feels the referendum could be put off until the February elections so that the student body could be better informed of the change.

The senate also heard a motion by Jeff Brooks, a senator from the At-Large District, calling for the elimination of the senate's Greek District.

The motion, which has to sit on the floor for at least one week, would reduce the number of districts from the present four to three.

In Brooks' motion, the number of representatives would be increased in the Off-Campus and Residence hall Districts from six to eight and in the At-Large District the number of senators would increase from 12 to 14.

After the Thanksgiving break, the motion will be brought to a vote. However, if the motion passes the senate it would then have to be placed in a referendum for the student body's approval.

New CAA proposal only good for university pocketbook

The liberalization of long-standing university academic policies can be good—to a point.

We agreed with the Council on Academic Affairs (CAA) when it recently approved a proposal dropping foreign language as a requirement for English majors. We felt that the old requirement had been unfair to English majors.

We also agreed with the CAA when it passed a proposal extending a student's option for dropping a course with the grade of W until the 70th day of a semester. This option, we felt, gave students more time to improve a course grade, and hopefully prevent some from dropping classes needlessly.

The CAA passed a proposal Thursday, however, which we feel goes too far in the "liberalizing" of academic policies.

The proposal, which now must be approved by President Fite, will allow students to continue on academic probation as long as they improve their grade point average by at least one one-hundredth of a point each grading period.

Presently, a student on probation has two semesters to raise his or her cumulative grade point average to 2.00, or be dismissed from school.

Along with this change, the CAA proposal also contains an option for students who are still on academic probation when they reach senior status. The option allows students with a g.p.a. of less than 2.00, which is required for graduation, to have his or her record reviewed.

After computation of the student's previous grades, the cumulative g.p.a.

would be based on work done after the re-evaluation option.

In both of these changes, the CAA has not helped the student, but has instead reduced a student academic policy to an insultingly low standard. The only entity that might benefit from the policy changes is the university, which would be able to keep a few more warm (fee paying) bodies around a while longer.

If a student on probation cannot pull his or her grade point up to 2.00 in two semesters, what good will another semester or two do?

What incentive will students on probation have if they only need to raise their average by one one-hundredth of a point each semester? Learning will take the back seat for some students, and those who are motivated to work to stay in school under the present policy might say, "Why should I be in any hurry?"

Students who reach their senior with less than a 2.00 under the prop will have nothing to worry about ei They can start with a clean slate, speak, while some poor Joe with a 2.00 is disregarded.

We again feel that the liberal academic policies can be beneficial. CAA's latest proposal, however, is neither beneficial nor fair, and should be vetoed by President Fite.

Inflation won't dampen 'feast day

It's almost that time of year for turkey, dressing and cranberry sauce, in other words, Thanksgiving.

Have you noticed what seems to remind the general public about Thanksgiving? FOOD!

Families who may scrimp a little during most of the rest of the year fix a whopping big meal for this holiday.

Students who have eaten poorly during the first of the school year simply stuff themselves when given this opportunity to feast.

An Associated Press (AP) poll has noted that most Americans are letting inflation dampen their spirit year, as far as Thanksgiving dinner goes.

Housewives have admitted to doing without other things, just to set an abundant table for Thanksgiving.

Turkeys themselves are not an expensive item on the shopping list, however. The AP shows that the price of this product is about 49 to 69 cents a pound, which is quite reasonable.

Why is the price of turkey so agreeable? AP cites last year's scarcity of beef and pork as the reason.

When those two meats were scarce, turkey demands increased and the price went up.

The turkey farmers produced more turkeys, but the demand for turkeys decreased when beef and pork prices reached a lower level.

For other Thanksgiving meals, though, those which the public is eating with their turkey, have shown results of inflation.

For example, in some places, turkey stuffing has gone up from 39 cents a box to 49 cents during the past year.

Other favorite products, such as cranberry sauce and canned pumpkin, have also taken a considerable price hike.

Also charities that prepare meals for deprived families during holidays are feeling the pinch of inflation.

The point is, nobody ends up cutting down. Because tradition dictates that the public must have a large meal for Thanksgiving, the public scrimps and saves during those few weeks prior to Thanksgiving just to have a turkey match the size of the neighbor's.

A family can give thanks for a medium-sized meal as well as a large-sized one, can't they?

A more sensible approach can be taken toward Thanksgiving, such as eating good meals for a month instead of saving food for one big feast.

No, I'm not knocking tradition. I think Americans can find a better way to celebrate the holiday.

Let's stretch out Thanksgiving.

Auto dealers are getting desperate

WASHINGTON—As each day passes by, the automobile dealers are getting more desperate to move their 1975 cars. They've tried almost everything under the sun to no avail—well, almost everything.

"Attention all cars—attention all cars—go to Overview Terrace—a family is being held as hostage by a madman."

"Zipkind, we know you're in there. Throw your weapon out the window and come out with your hands up and you won't get hurt."

"Not unless the Friedkins agree to my terms."

"What are your terms?"

"They buy a new four-door Buccaneer station wagon with genuine leather seats, power steering, air conditioning and white-wall tires. I'll throw in the radial tires for free."

"Zipkind, that is no way to sell an automobile."

"I've tried everything else, copper. I begged them to come into the showroom. I promised the greatest trade-in of their lives. I offered them financing over 48 months. But they just laughed at me. Well, now it's my turn to laugh. They either sign a contract or else....."

"Listen to us, Zipkind. We'll talk about it later. Just let the hostages go. We'll find you somebody else who might want to buy a station wagon."

"Don't kid me. Nobody wants to buy a station wagon now. The only thing the consumer understands is force. No one leaves this house unless I have a signed contract in my hand."

"Let me speak to Friedkin."

"Here he is, copper, but I warn you, if he makes one false move....."

"Friedkin, are you willing to give in to Zipkind's demands?"

"I'd like to, commissioner, but I don't have the money. Who can afford a new car these days?"

"He's stalling, copper. He's got the money; he just won't part with it. All right, if he can't afford a station wagon, what about a four-door 1975 Whiplash with vinyl bucket seats, disc brakes and a rear-window defroster?"

"Zipkind, we can't negotiate with you for a new car until you release the hostages."

"Fie on you, copper. I'm going to move those cars off the lot one way or another."

"Zipkind, here is your wife Esmerelda."

"Horace, please come out of the house. Even if you sell the Friedkins a car, you can't keep holding people as hostages every time you want to make a sale."

"No dice, Esmerelda. If I don't sell any '75 cars, they'll take my dealership away from me. I have to think of us. I warned Friedkin something like this would happen if he kept stalling on the new models."

"Zipkind, we're losing patience with you. You either come out or we're coming in after you."

"All right, copper, I'm coming out. But Friedkin is going to be sorry. When he goes to buy his next new car he'll be paying $500 more than they're selling for right now."

"Get in the cruiser, Zipkind. We're taking you down to headquarters."

"Hey, copper. What are you doing with a 1973 cruiser? How about a new '75 Amazon? I'll throw in a siren and a red light gratis, and you get a two-year warranty on all parts except the engine. I'll give you $800 for this heap, no questions asked."

"Sorry, Zipkind, but there's a freeze on in the department and we can't buy any new cruisers."

"That's what I thought, copper. When it comes to a new car you're all talk."

Ford: Talks with Soviets went 'very well'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford arrived home from his week-long Asian journey Sunday night and declared to an airport audience that he had established with the Soviet Union "a sound basis for a new agreement that will constrain our military competition over the next decade."

The President said his summit meetings near Vladivostok with Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev went "very, very well" and that the two found "a large measure of agreement" on the important issue of further limitation of strategic arms.

"We discussed the issue fully, and, in the end, we established a sound basis for a new agreement that will constraint our military competition over the next decade," he said.

Ford's jet arrived at Andrews Air Force Base, where members of his family, the Cabinet, congressional leaders and a small crowd welcomed him home from his trip to Japan and South Korea as well as the meeting with the Russian leader.

Ford said the talks with the Russians represented "the beginning of what I hope will be a productive personal relationship" with Brezhnev and a continuation of relations with the Soviet Union.

Two Namath strikes lead Jets past Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath hurled two touchdown passes to Rich Caster, the second with just over five minutes left in the game, lifting the New York Jets to a 17-14 National Football League victory over the mistake-prone Miami Dolphins Sunday.

The victory ended a five-game winning streak for the defending Super Bowl champions, who were burned on a 45-yard touchdown bomb for the winning score.

Bob Griese had put Miami in front for the first time with a six-yard pass to Jim Kiick midway through the final period.

But Namath came back throwing and in less than two minutes, the Jets were

A 22-yard interference call against Tim Foley put Namath in striking distance and the veteran Jet quarterback wasted no time.

He found Caster on a simple pattern in the middle of the Dolphin secondary on the next play and hit him with a perfect pass.

Griese, who had scored Miami's first touchdown on a six-yard run to tie the score in the third period, tried to bring the Dolphins the Dolphins back again. But Miami's drive was halted when rookie defensive back Roscoe Word picked off a pass at the Jets' 40.

Ohio State again gets 'roses' over Michigan

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State was selected to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl following a secret vote Sunday of conference athletic directors.

It will be an unprecedented third straight appearance for the Buckeyes in the New Year's Day Classic.

The vote was a blow to Michigan seniors who have fashioned a 30-2-1 record in the last three seasons but have never been to the Rose Bowl.

It was the second consecutive year Ohio State was selected over Michigan in a controversial vote. The actual vote count will not be announced, according to Commissioner Wayne Duke.

Not even the athletic directors were informed of the final tabulation. Only Duke and the Big Ten attorney know the outcome.

Duke also said the athletic directors agreed not to divulge or publicly discuss their individual votes.

Ohio State and Michigan finished in a tie for first place in the Big Ten Saturday when Ohio State handed Michigan its first loss of the season 12-10. Ohio State had lost earlier 16-13 to Michigan State.

Schnorf eliminated; table tennis finalists down to seven, two

By Gene Seymour

Havoc and chaos marked the championship session of the US World team tryouts Sunday at Lantz Gym as a four hour delay marred an otherwise smooth three-day elimination session.

At press time, seven men were still in the running for the five man team, while two of the four female spots had been decided.

Theoretically, the nine positions were to be decided by 8 p.m. Sunday, but because of the extensive mixup, which came about as a result of the top five seeded men players wishing to discontinue play, the championship round didn't resume until 6 p.m.

Eastern student Jim Schnorf was eliminated on the first day of play, losing two games to one.

At press time, Angie Rosal and Judy Bochenki made the women's team, while top ranked Dan Seemiller, Lim Ming Chui, Lee, J.G. Park, Errol Resek, Peter Pradit and Paul Raphael remained in the men's bracket.

Panther swimmers 3rd at Relays

by Randy Pingree

Eastern's swimming team placed a respectable third in a highly competitive field of five in Saturday morning's Saluki Invitational meet at SIU-Carbondale.

The five teams competing were Southern (first), 385 pts., Kent State (second), 317 pts., Eastern (third) 215 pts., Northwestern (fourth) 187 pts., and Southeast Missouri (fifth), 34 pts.

Individually Tim Sullivan took second and Jon Mayfield third in the 200 breast stroke.

The 400 medley relay team of Scott Bolin, Jon Mayfield, Don Cole and Dave Toler placed third.

Sophomore transfer Scott Koznar, in first Eastern competition, showed promise by placing fifth in both the 1000 yd. freestyle and the 200 yd. backstroke.

Rounding out the scoring for the Panthers, Tim Sullivan placed fifth in the 100 individual medley.

Southern's national champion from Ecuador and world-ranked Jorge Delgado outclassed everyone including his own teammates as he raced to first place finishes in the 1000 freestyle, the 500 freestyle and the 200 yd. butterfly.

Eastern's co-captain Mayfield stated that the team was mentally psyched but physically tired due to some real hard workouts of late, primarily the Big 10 relays Friday night.

He went on to say that competition was rough with the other teams in the meet coming out of the University division.

Swimmers 6th Friday

Different rules played an important role in Eastern's sixth place finish at the Big Ten Invitational Relays Saturday in Champaign.

Jon Mayfield said that changes in the turn rules caused the Panthers some problems.

He said the team was unaware of the difference in the rules and this caused the breaststroke relay team to lose valuable time, thus giving them a lower finish.

Despite their sixth out of eight team finish, the Panthers were out of fourth place by only six points.

Six people chosen by Fite to find new football coach

By Gene Seymour

A six-person search committee for a new head football coach was appointed by President Gilbert Fite Friday.

Three members of the Intercollegiate Athletic Board, the student body president and a financial aids representative will join chairperson Tom Jones in finding a replacement for the resigned Jack Dean.

The committee, in addition to Jones, who is Dean of the School of Business, includes Joan Schmidt, Arlen Fowler and student Dave Davis, all from the Intercollegiate Athletic Board, student body president Mark Wisser, and Elmer Pullen from the Financial Aids department.

"We don't know how long it will take to select a new coach," Fite said, "but I doubt if it will be before the end of this week."

Fite also mentioned that he hoped a new coach would be picked before the end of this semester "so he can begin recruiting as soon as possible."

Fite said that probably "many" people outside knew of the opening, but that to the best of his knowledge, no one has been contacted about the job.

Soccer Panthers St. Louis bound!

Eichhorst's goal paves way in 2-1 win over WIU

By Dave Shanks

"We're on our way to St. Louis," coach Fritz Teller said after Eastern's 2-1 regional championship victory over visiting Western Illinois University on Saturday.

Eastern's strong defense and pressuring offense held Western scoreless until the 34 minute mark of the second half.

Western seemed unable to cope with a strong southerly wind as much of the first half action took place in the Leatherneck's zone.

In addition to the strong wind, a light rain fell during the first half which turned into a steady downpour just prior to the end of the period and continued throughout the second half.

The field was slippery and some of the players had trouble maintaining their footing.

Eastern picked up their first goal at 29:45 of the first half as Leonard "Chicken" Mason took a pass from Siggie Eichhorst directly in front of the net.

Mason booted the ball. It nipped Western goalie Jack Weisberg's right shoulder and bounded into the top of the net.

The one goal lead held until the Leathernecks got on the scoreboard with just under 10 minutes remaining in the game.

A mix-up took place in front of the Panther net as no one could seem to come up with control. The ball rolled around, uncontrolled, for about 10 seconds before Western recorded their lone goal.

Normally, after the opposing team, scores, the other team loses momentum and the play goes in favor of the scoring team.

This fortunately was not the situation in the Panthers case.

Eastern took the ball, moved into the Western zone and, with accurate passing, found Eichhorst wide open on the left side of the field.

Eichhorst's shot from about 30 yards out slithered through the Leatherneck defenders and into the right side of the net.

As quickly as Western had tied the score, the Panthers were back on top, this time to stay.

"The last 10 minutes of the game seemed like it took forever," Teller said after time ran out.

Eastern had two other scoring opportunities, one of which found Gordon Martz kicking a penalty shot. Martz' shot went wide of the net, however.

With three minutes remaining in the first half, Mason put a header shot just over the top of the net and out of play.

Western, normally a well-disciplined team, was guilty of errant passing which enabled the Panthers to control the ball more totally.

The Panthers had a slight problem with the wind in the second half, but they coped much better than Western did.

Eastern came out in the second half and began pressing the Western defense in the Leatherneck zone.

Despite the weather conditions, the Panthers had excellent passing and outstanding defense.

Western recorded 12 shots on goal but Panther goalie John Anderson was called on only five times to make important stops.

Eastern had 15 shots on goal.

The victory was an overall team effort on the Panthers part. There was no individualism on Eastern's part as they passed well and controlled play throughout much of the game.

Western looked unsure of themselves during much of the game as they were guilty of poor passing and relaxed ball control.

In spite of this, Western battled the Panthers until the final gun.

The Eastern locker room was a madhouse after the victory as the team joked and congratulated each other for 10 minutes.

Teller was overjoyed with his team's play as he said, "We deserve to go to St. Louis," referring to Thursday's semi-final game in the NCAA playoffs.

"It was great overall. A very good team effort. I can't single any one player out. It was just a super game."

All Eichhorst could say was that "all the team played well."

Mason commented, "We are really doing well. We were a little tense for a while, but we got over it. We're on our way to the NCAA now."

Western Illinois' goalie Jack Weisberg makes a futile stab at Leonard Mason's first half goal, while Panther team members mob Siggie Eichhorst after his second half score gave the Panthers an insurmountable 2-1 lead and sent them to St. Louis for the NCAA finals. (News photos by Jeff Johnson)

Sports hangup... by Jim Lynch

Teller gets tremendous mileage out of limited funds

During the civil service strike last year, soccer coach Fritz Teller said that "Soccer is a poor man's sport. We don't need much but some towels and a ball."

It's a good thing for Teller and his team that soccer is a poor man's sport, because they don't get much financial aid from the athletic department. His total operating budget is only $2,750 annually, and out of that he spends $275-$300 on recruiting. As athletic director Mike Mullally puts it, "We get more for our money than we deserve."

"More for our money than we deserve" is right. Year after year, on a budget that wouldn't pay for the supplemental feedings for the football team, Teller has produced winner after winner. In 10 years at Eastern, he has compiled a 72-38-7 record, and has taken his team to the 1969 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship.

Teller has developed such outstanding athletes as Tony Durante, Carmelo Rago, Gerardo Pagnani and Chuck Weisberg. How has Teller managed to keep finding such high quality players on, literally, a shoestring?

"It takes a lot of personal contact," Teller said. "Guys who have played for us in the past recommend players to me and the school to players. We get a lot of players this way."

"The winning tradition and our program attracts a lot of kids, too. The fact that we were national champs one year doesn't hurt."

Teller said another factor that helps greatly in recruiting is the fact that he's been coaching at Eastern for 10 years.

"The high school coaches get to know you. They know what type of players you use and if they have somebody they think can help you, they send him along."

The coach says that he makes the most of Eastern's diversified academic programs, the small class size and the facilities when going after an athlete.

"I've found that the campus sells itself," Teller said. "Once a prospect gets a look at it, a lot of them decide to go here."

He said that he has lost some players to schools like Quincy and SIU-Edwardsville because these schools have a more extensive program. "But then, they don't have football, either. Soccer is their main fall sport."

Not only does Teller have a small recruiting budget, but he doesn't have a single player at Eastern on a full ride, in contrast to the football team, which has approximately 35.

Saturday, Eastern beat the Western Illinois Leathernecks 2-1 for the right to advance to the NCAA Division II finals in St. Louis. If he can win it all, maybe the athletic dept. will raise his budget to as even $3,000.
