Defense cross-examines Dean

WASHINGTON (AP) - Confronted with the realization that the Watergate scandal was about to break open, Richard Nixon sought assurances from John Dean that he would not be hurt by what would be telling prosecutors.

Dean, former White House counsel, took the witness stand in the Watergate trial for the fifth day as prosecutors played the tape of a meeting between Nixon and Dean on April 16, 1973, and the June 17, 1972, break-in.

Defense attorneys, who began their examination later in the day, had pressed for playing of the tape. In it Dean tells Nixon: "I think you're still five steps ahead of what will ever emerge publicly."

Earlier Dean had testified that he met Nixon reluctantly on March 28 with John N. Mitchell and Jeb Stuart Magruder, once the top two officials of Nixon's re-election committee.

He said he asked Mitchell what had happened between the Feb. 4, 1972, meeting when Mitchell rejected a political espionage plan and June when re-election committee burglars broke into Democratic Party headquarters.

"All I've ever been able to do is to put the pieces together from tidbits that the plan was approved later but in a way that it wouldn't be traced to the committee," Dean recalled telling Mitchell.

"Mr. Mitchell said to me, 'Well, John, that's pretty close but we thought it would be two to three times removed,'" Dean said.

"Two to three removed from what?" asked the prosecutor James F. Neal.

"From the committee," Dean said.

Mitchell, one of the five defendants in the trial flushed red at that point. The other defendants are H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Robert C. Mardian. All five are charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice.

Dean said that near the end of March he hired a criminal lawyer and first met with prosecutors on April 8.

He said he told Haldeman what he had done and received the reply, "John, you ought to think about that because once the toothpaste is out of the tube, it's awfully hard to get it back in."

Dean said that on April 15, 1973, he told Nixon, "I didn't think my having gone to the prosecutors was an act of disloyalty, that the best way for me to handle it was to tell what I know."

The White House said no tape recording of that conversation was made because the recording machine filled up in early afternoon. Nixon that day was told of the full involvement of his aides in the scandal by Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Peterson.

Collective bargaining approved at Western, Chicago State

By Ryan
A majority of faculty members at Western Illinois University and Chicago State University voted for the use of collective bargaining last week. The 578 faculty members voting at Western, 88 per cent of them voted in favor of the recent collective bargaining referendum which was held at the five state Governors of State-Colleges and Universities (BOG) schools.

The news incorrectly reported that the vote of Governors State University was given later Tuesday instead of Wednesday's results.

At Eastern, 253 faculty members voting at the referendum, 233 voted to adopt the bargaining agent, George Rommel, coordinator of the referendum at Eastern, reported to the faculty Senate Thursday.

Chicago State has thus far had the highest majority of turnout with 253 of 311 faculty members voting and has had the highest percentage in favor of collective bargaining with 92 per cent.

A majority of the faculties at the five schools is needed before the COF will make a recommendation to the BOG for the election of a bargaining agent.

Collective bargaining would mean the negotiating of the faculty at the schools, would negotiate for wages, working conditions and benefits."

The referendum for the bargaining agent was conducted Oct. 11-18 at the five schools by the Council of Faculties, an advisory board to the BOG.

Rommel, one of the three COF representatives at Eastern, said that on Wednesday 71 per cent of those eligible faculty members voted for its adoption.

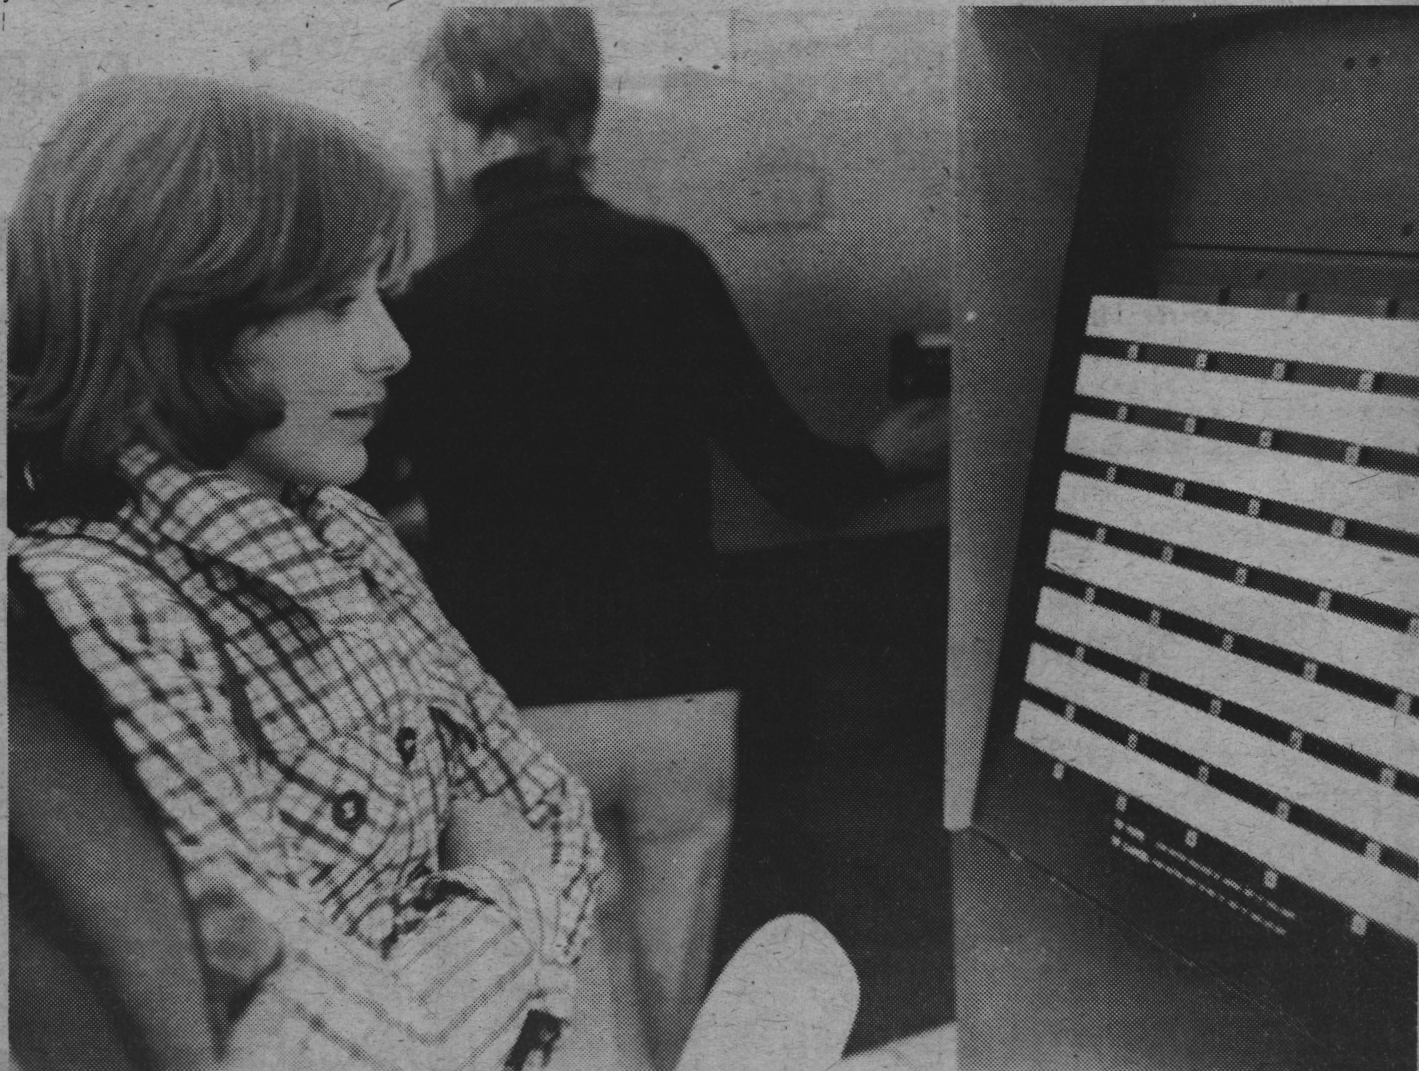

With Western's, Chicago, State's and Eastern's faculties in favor of collective bargaining, two schools are left whose results have not yet been reported,

Cloudy, mild

Wednesday will be partly cloudy with a chance of showers. Highs should be in the upper 60s to 70s.

Wednesday night will be fair and a little warmer with lows in the 40s.

The chance of rain is 30 per cent Wednesday.

Irish extremist, Devlin, to talk here Sunday

By Scott Jones

Bernadette Devlin, a former member of the British Parliament, will discuss the turmoil in Northern Ireland at 8 p.m. Sunday in McAfee Gymnasium.

Bernadette Devlin was chosen to speak at Eastern because "Eastern has not had a speaker from another country for a long time and I feel that she will give Eastern an international flavor," Bill Clark, director of student activities, said Tuesday.

"She is also involved in a current issue because she represents Northern Ireland," Clark said, where the Catholic minority is striving for equality.

She was born in Northern Ireland in 1947, the third child in a Catholic, working-class family of six children. Devlin interrupted her university studies to serve in Parliament.

At the age of 21 she became famous when she delivered her first speech to the packed House of Commons and was known as the most irreverent member of Parliament.

At the age of 25 Devlin was thrown into jail for inciting a riot.

While serving in her country's legislative body, she lectured to tens of thousands of college students. This will be her third tour of the United States, Clark said.

Admission is free for Eastern students with an I.D. and 50 cents for all others.

New voting machines demonstrated at Union

By Susan Black

Student voters got their first close-up look at what County Clerk Harry Grafton calls the "voting machine of the future" Tuesday in the University Union.

Two "Video Voters," which are to be used in the Nov. 5 elections, were demonstrated in the Union Lobby from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. by volunteers familiar with the workings of the machine.

The voting machines, to be used for the first time in Coles County, will be demonstrated Wednesday and Thursday in the Union.

The first thing that must be done before a person can vote is for the election judge to activate the machine.

Once the machine is activated it is suggested that the voter declare party loyalty although it is possible for him to cross party lines once he begins to vote.

To cross a party line, all the individual has to do is first push the button lit beneath his party's candidate to erase the vote and then push the button beneath his new choice.

Freshman attendant in ceremonies, too

A story in Monday's edition of the Eastern News on the Homecoming queen coronation neglected to mention that Jenny Lynn Bugg, the freshman attendant, also took part in the ceremonies.

Bugg, an art major from Galesburg, was escorted by Jay Wright at the coronation Friday night.

The machine also has instructions on how a person can write in a candidate and change his vote.

Until the "Register Vote" button at the bottom of the machine is pressed it is possible for a person to review and change his votes.

Once the button registering a person's vote is pushed it is impossible for him to make any changes.

All the voting done on the Video Voter is registered in a small data computer which is hooked up to the machine.

At the end of the voting period compilations will be tallied for each data center and added to determine the final

Dixon to give campaign talk

Alan Dixon, incumbent Democratic state treasurer, will give a campaign address at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Coleman Hall Auditorium.

Dixon, who is running for reelection against Republican Harry Page, is a former state representative and state senator. He was first elected to public office as a police magistrate at the age of 21.

He will be speaking in Mattoon earlier in the day before coming to Charleston for the speech at Eastern and a press conference.

Grafton said Tuesday that one of the advantages of the Video Viewer is its accuracy and speed in tallying votes.

For this accuracy the county has paid more than $264,000 for the viewers and their accompanying data centers.

Each voting machine costs $1,600 and each data computer costs $2,500, Grafton said.

He said that the county bought the machines because it was "required by state law that counties with a population of over 40,000 must have machines by the November election.

Grafton said that present population of Coles County is 47,000.

Each of the 50 polling places in the county will have "at least one" new voting machines, he said.

Those voters still unfamiliar with the machine will receive written instructions on how to operate the machine when they enter the voting booth. He suggested that voters become familiar with the machine before that time.

Two mini courses offered Physics Dept. for spring of the three mini courses which offered by the Physics Department in the fall semester will again be during the spring semester.

A third course, "Space Exploration," will not be offered during the spring semester because the instructor is on sabbatical.

Scott Smith of the Physics Department will be on leave, but the course will be offered again in the summer.

Each mini course meets only once a week for an hour and lasts the whole semester. It is worth one credit hour.

These mini courses from the Physics Department are more for a person's interest than for academic credit. Paul Ruddell of the Physics Department said Tuesday.

The Physics Department was among the first to have mini courses, starting in the fall semester," Ruddell said.

One of the mini courses to be offered is in photography and it will be taught by Robert Fite.

The course number is Physics 3012 in the spring schedule.

The course will be taught on Tuesdays at 4 p.m. Students can sign up at pre-registration.

"View of Energy" will be offered on Mondays in the spring semester and it will be taught by Robert Fite.

"View of Energy" will cover the use of energy and ways it can be measured and applied in modern physics, Ruddell said.

The course number is Phy 3010.

"Space Exploration" will cover such things as life on other planets, what scientists have discovered about outer space, what scientists of the United States hope to do in the future and how the solar system was created.

'Murray' tickets to go on sale

Tickets for a concert by Anne Murray, a popular singer and recording artist, will go on sale Thursday at the University Union.

Murray will appear in concert Nov. 7 with Denny Brooks, a ballad singer, in the Lantz Building at 8:30 p.m., Bill Clark, director of student activities, said Tuesday.

Reserved tickets are $4 and $5 and general admission tickets are $3.

She is known for her recordings of "Snowbird," "What About Me" and one of her latest recordings, "You Won't See Me."

Brooks has toured with the USO and has sung folk songs at Disneyland.

Enters third day

Blood drive 435 pints short of goal

By Tom Otten

After the last person had donated blood on Tuesday, Eastern's blood drive was 435 pints of blood short of their goal of 1,000 pints.

On Tuesday, when appointments were not necessary, 336 people donated blood.

On Monday, when appointments were needed, 229 people donated blood.

A good turnout is needed on Wednesday and Thursday to make the goal of 1,000 pints possible.

Sandy Alexander, co-chairperson of the blood drive at Eastern, said there are still plenty of appointment times left for Wednesday.

Appointments can be made at the University Ballroom for times from 11 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

However, Alexander explained that nobody will be turned away on Wednesday if they do not have an appointment.

Thursday, the last day of the blood drive, is also a walk-in day when appointments are not needed.

After Eastern's blood drive is over, the blood mobile will move to another location.

In other action the senate passed a recommendation addressed to Fite calling for next year's salary raises to be divided 80 per cent for the basic increase, and 20 per cent for merit raises.

The recommendation, made by Joe Connelly, head of the Political Science Department, also asked that no salary increases be given for special merit.

Action on Connelly's motion came after Fite told the senate in a memo that he could not accept its proposal to eliminate all merit and special merit pay raises.

Merit and special merit raises are given to faculty members who are judged by the department and deans as doing an extraordinary job. Special merit is judged by Fite and the University Personnel Committee, and is given to very few teachers.

June Johnson, Music Department, said that in her original motion she had intended that the merit raises not be given for a one-year period only.

The senate voted to send a memo to Fite explaining Johnson's position on the issue.

Also the senate approved the naming of Carol Helwig, of the School of Education to an alternate position on the Intercollegiate Athletic Board.

James Earl Ray tries for freedom

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - As James Earl Ray looked on without emotion, his lawyer opened the battle today to win freedom with a declaration that Ray was coerced and badgered into pleading guilty to slaying Dr. Martin Luther King.

Edward Fensterwald, of Washington, told a federal court hearing that one of his former attorneys, Foreman of Houston, Tex., locked Ray in a "struggle" over whether Ray should plead guilty to the assassination. Fensterwald said. Ray's resistance to the plea yielded and two days later, on March 10, 1969, he admitted to firing the rifle that killed King on April 4, 1968.

Fensterwald's statement opened an evidentiary hearing before U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. McRae Jr. on whether Ray is entitled to withdraw the plea and stand trial for murdering King.

But McRae denied the request on grounds that he has no power to subpoena witnesses beyond a 100-mile radius.

Two professors, but Leigh our choice for County Board

It is seldom that students have a chance to vote in an election where both candidates for a particular office are university professors.

Such is the case, however, in the race for a seat on the County Board from the third district, where the majority of Eastern students will vote.

The two candidates for the office are Dalias Price, an Eastern geography instructor who is on the Democratic slate, and Peter Leigh, an Eastern Political Science instructor who is on the Republican ticket.

We feel the students and other voters in the third district should cast their vote for Leigh.

Although Price has served on the County Board previously for five years, many of the programs he is now emphasizing are ones that could have been worked on when he served on the board earlier.

Price has said that something must be done with the county jail; by either building a new addition or a separate new building. He has also proposed a manager for the county, a post similar to that of the city manager, and has expressed a need for better management of county land.

Price has also failed to bring these proposals before the people, however, saying that his campaign is just now getting underway, in order to keep it from losing its effect by an early start. The end of October is definitely not too early to start a campaign for a November 5 election.

We feel that Leigh, who specializes in state and local government in the classroom, would immediately put his knowledge of local government to work for the county.

Leigh, who campaigned strongly in the March primary although he ran unopposed, is in favor of renovating the county jail, but has also mentioned the possibility of a multi-county regional setup if other counties are interested.

Presently serving as chairman of the Charleston Board of Zoning and Planning, Leigh has also stressed the need to renovate the courthouse and improve voter registration methods.

International outlook ... by Michael Chen

Foreign students are misunderstood

"Oh my goodness! How terrible!" That was the reaction when a friend of mine glanced over the photograph of Lily Tomlin in the last issue of the Rolling Stone. Lily posed with her hands behind her head, exposing her underarm hair. There was nothing wrong with the picture itself, but indeed, it takes an open-minded person to understand the reality and (if not deliberate) frankness of a person.

In much the same way, a foreign student is faced with the problem (due to their cultural differences) of being misunderstood by the Americans. "Oh my goodness! He is wearing a skirt!" "Christ! She is giggling every time I speak to her" are some of the misconceptions a foreign student faces.

Some got so fed up with comments that they simply came to the American way of living and behaving. My former roommate in India ate hamburger and chili every day when he was in Charleston.

One thing the Americans can understand about a foreigner is a variety of foods he eats. An interesting occasion found my friend and I at Eisner's foodstore, buying some pig for our dinner soup, which happens to be a Chinese delicacy. A lady at the checkout line spotted what we were buying and kept whispering to her husband. She stared at the package with unbelieving eyes that seemed to say, "Oh my goodness! They even eat this!"

Obviously they did not realize how delicious it can be. After that incident, I am increasingly aware of the fact that the French would eat snails and Japanese raw fish, all foreigners must eat.

The problem with most people (including the international students) is that they are too comfortable with their own habits of thinking, and everything new becomes unacceptable. In other words, to be open-minded is to become a threat to their personality.

It happened a month ago when I was looking for a new place to stay. In my house I had the pleasure of meeting this long-haired gentleman who was in charge. He told me, "This is a nice house and I am looking for some guys," implying that my stay would definitely intrude upon his "free" lifestyle.

I was about to say, "Are you kidding? I am the coolest guy in town. I have a cold every day," but I didn't mean if the idea of having a Chinese doing a kung fu boogie dance once a full moon does not appeal to him, he has nothing to say.

So get yourself acquainted with foreign students. They might not be as open-minded, but they all very often are. It is also a good chance to find out what pig feet soup tastes like.

Advice leads to strange results

Dear Mr. President,
I'm having a helluva time. I watched you on television the other night while waiting to see the World Series, and your message really got to me. Ever since I heard you tell us that the best way to fight inflation was not to spend money and not to waste anything, I've been trying to follow your advice with very questionable results.

For example, the next morning I went down to the supermarket and bought some soup bones. I made the mistake of telling the butcher I wasn't going to buy any steak until the price came down.

That evening I received a visit from two members of the cattleman's association who said they had heard about what I said in the supermarket, and they wanted me to know that they were having the worst year in their history and if I didn't give a damn about the food industry in this country, they wouldn't give a damn about me. I explained to them that you had said the only way to fight inflation was to live within my budget — and you know what they did? They shot two steers in the head on my front lawn. It cost me $89.50 to have the carcasses carted away.

The next day I had a call from an automobile dealer who told me the new models had just arrived at the showroom and advised me to come down right away. I told him that, because of your plea in Kansas City, I decided to forgo the luxury of a 1975 car until the economy was straightened out.

An hour later three officers of the United Auto Workers Union broke into my office and asked me what I thought I was doing. I told them the car I owned was perfectly satisfactory, and I really didn't need a new car.

Well, you should have heard what they said, Mr. President. They accused me of creating unemployment in the most important industry in America and shouted that if everyone thought the way I did we would have the greatest depression in the history of the country.

I tried to calm them down by pointing out that everyone in this country had to bite the bullet — but they were so infuriated, they threw a chair through my window, which cost me $56 to replace.

Well, I got home that night and had a visit from Richard Kaltenborn who works in a children's clothing store. Richard had just been laid off from the store because no one was buying clothing. Ever since your message, they haven't sold two pairs of jeans.

The store told Richard if people started buying again, he would be rehired. The reason he came to see me is that he was strapped for cash and asked if I could loan him $400. I had no choice but to loan him the money since we hadn't bought children's clothing ourselves, and I felt responsible for Richard's unemployment.

Just as Richard left I received a call from Mr. Rumstead who owns the local theater. He wanted to know if I was coming down to "The Great Gatsby" that night. I said no, we weren't, because we were fighting inflation.

"That does it," he said. "I'm closing the theater for good."

Because the kids have no movie theater to go to any more, they're now hanging around the house with their friends, and it has cost me $45 for beer and pretzels alone.

Of course, we're not going to go near a store for Christmas, as that is really throwing money down the drain. Somehow the newspaper I work for found out about it, and I got a call from the advertising department. The man said if we're not going to buy anything for Christmas, they're not going to get advertising and they won't be able to pay me for the column. I'll be very frank with you, Mr. President, this could put me in a class with my friend Kaltenborn.

But this is neither here nor there. What I'm really writing to you about is, could I please have my WIN flag to fly over my house, because I want everybody to know how easy it is to fight inflation? — Economically yours, A.B.

Another increase in cost of living causes worst inflation in 25 years

Verbal and visual puns come so quickly that viewers may find it difficult to catch all of them.

First time with Fite

Student Senate to sponsor open forums

By Barry Smith

Students will have a chance to talk with President Gilbert Fite next Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in an open forum in the Union Ballroom.

The forum, coordinated by the Public Relations Committee of the Student Senate, will open with a few brief remarks followed by a question and answer period, Jeff Baker, committee chairperson, said.

"This is the only time students have a chance to meet with President Fite,"

Baker said, adding that he hopes "everyone will attend for this reason."

Baker also approved the results of the "campaign to the constituency" made by the Student Senate last Thursday.

Sixteen Student Senators visited residence halls, Greek houses, off-campus apartment complexes, and local bars to distribute a questionnaire and talk with students about problems they may be having.

"It was a pretty worthwhile project," he said. "We have some pretty decent background on students' problems and, also, some new things to look into."

General apathy reigned among students, he said, "People still don't know things such as when the senate meets."

Baker said there was about an even split among students asked if they favor a campus pharmacy.

"Some said it was an excellent idea while others said it was a good idea but wanted more investigation" into other sources for its funding, he said.

From other responses to the questionnaire, the senate found that "80 to 90 per cent" of the students had "never contacted a senator about a problem," Baker said.

Also, Baker added, the students "very much recognized voter registration as "a real positive thing."

Events to honor U.N. Day here

By Mike Shortal

Eastern and Charleston are co-sponsoring special programs Thursday in honor of the United Nations Day.

United Nations Day, which declared an annual event by President Richard M. Nixon, is for both Eastern and Charleston.

Events at Eastern will be presented at 7:30 p.m. in the Booth Lecture Room, Becky McGee, chairperson of Eastern's Model Nations Council, said Tuesday.

Speaking at Eastern on the problem of increasing agricultural production and the potential of developing nations to meet their food needs will be Sheldon Williams and Melvin Wagner.

Meditation talk to be presented

A free introductory lecture on transcendental meditation as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi will be presented

Wednesday evening a member of the group said Saturday.

Richard Robbin, an Eastern student and member of the group, said the lecture will be presented by Eric Randall, a full-time teacher of transcendental meditation at the University of Illinois, at 7:30 p.m. in room 301 of the Life Science Building.

The lecture will be sponsored by the Students International Meditation Society (SIMS), a non-profit organization at Eastern.

Transcendental meditation first gained prominence in the mid-1960s when the Beatles, the Beach Boys, Mia Farrow and others went to India to see Maharishi Mahesh Yogi and to learn about the benefits of transcendental meditation, Robbin said.

KD's to celebrate sorority founding

Kappa Delta social sorority will have a chapter dinner for its members at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday to commemorate the 77th anniversary of its founding.

Angela Dannenberg, press chairperson of the sorority, said that the sorority was founded at Longwood College in Farmville, Va., in 1897.

Dannenberg explained that Eastern's Delta Beta chapter recently celebrated its 10th year on campus.

The sorority house is located at 2211 S. 9th St. and everyone is invited to visit.

Harriers performance Saturday blessing in disguise

Saturday's upset at the Southwest Invitational may well have been a blessing in disguise for the Panther cross country team.

"We learn from our mistakes," Mike Larson pointed out. "We'll forget the lowest Missouri Invitational except for mistakes."

"We're forgotten, but look at the experience gained."

Mike Livezey learned that he could run a front without Larson or Ken Bowman, said assistant coach Rick Sparks after the meet.

"Don Sparks learned that he could run a race," said Rich Bowman.

The Illinois Intercollegiate Cross Country Championships are at Macomb

Saturday.

Then there is the freshman sensation John Christy who has already proven his ability from an overwhelming tie for third place past the old Augustana course record in 24:51.

All things considered, the 24:56 time turned in at SWMO by Christy was probably even more of an accomplishment.

As Bowman noted, "Running a big meet is completely different from running in duals. There are a lot more runners who get in your way and mess up your pace. It's a lot harder."

"Dave Nance, Burke, and hopefully Mike Brehm learned what they'll have to do in order to be tough Saturday, and Larson learned that you can't let a pain bother you in a race and if it does slow you down, you can't freak.

With Larson's PMA (Positive Mental Attitude) he's sure to place 1 to 5 Saturday, pain or no pain.

The team learned some valuable experiences Saturday. They've worked extremely hard all summer and fall, and I have a ten dollar bet that says they'll have it together for an upset Saturday-Eastern over the University of Illinois, the meet favorite.

collegiate meet, in Woodall's words "adjusted quite well" to the large meet.

"I was pleased," said Christy, "Since I haven't been running the hills. They've got some sort of slight hills. I didn't do as well on them as I would like, but I am satisfied with my performance."

finisher (23rd), thought Larson's absence made a difference but was quick to point out, "We should have made it up. I saw him drop back and I should have worked that much harder."

Hagenbruch cops 'Panther of week' award

By Gene Seymour

Steve Hagenbruch, the ex-quarterback-turned halfback of the football Panthers, has been a major component in the sudden rise to success his team has recently experienced.

For three games Hagenbruch has been a running back in the new wishbone offense, and for three weeks, has turned in solid performances.

Of the 153 total rushing yards the Panthers garnered in their 14-9 Homecoming win over Illinois State, Hagenbruch collected 105 of those.

Combine this and you come up with an effort worthy of the News' "Panther of the Week".

It was the first time this year that an Eastern running back had collected over 100 yards.

"Steve had a real good afternoon" said coach Jack Dean, "not only did he run well, but he did an excellent job on blocking and returning punts and kickoffs."

The senior from Clinton was quick to point out that part of the credit should be given to the blocking.

"Without the line blocking as well as they did, I couldn't have done it," said Hagenbruch.

"Also the backs, Gerald Bell, John Beccue, and Mark Stettner did a real fine job of clearing people out," Hagenbruch pointed out.

In addition to rolling 105 yards on the ground, Hagenbruch collected 79 yards in punt and kickoff returns, while catching a 12 yard pass to jack his offense up to 196 yards.

However, what possibly turned the game around was Hagenbruch's 51 yard run in the late part of the fourth quarter that set up the second Eastern score and provided the Panthers with the necessary margin of victory.

Hagenbruch also had three of the eight Panther first downs of the game.

Harriers perform well despite 'fifth'

By Tom Jackson

Eastern harriers ran up against a tough field in the Southwest Missouri Invitational and came away a somewhat disappointing but hopefully educational fifth place finish.

Wichita State (42), Arkansas (46), Southwest Missouri (89), Kansas State (140) all placed ahead of Eastern's 148 in the 19-team field.

Rick Livesey, Eastern's best finisher (13th) thought that since it was the first big meet for the Panthers this year that it might have had some effect.

"It's hard to say, but I think it might be because it's the first big meet we've ran in. In dual meets (which the Panthers have won 22 straight) the race usually breaks off after three miles and you coast the rest of the way."

"But in a big meet you're in a pack all the way."

Cross-country coach Tom Woodall said, "If we could go back and do it over it would have been nice to have another big meet early in October."

Mike Larson, who has been first in all the other Eastern meets, developed a stitch in his side and did not place among the top five Panthers.

"It's something that unfortunately happens to the best of runners," said Woodall.

"I think one of the lessons we learned Saturday was that we can't depend on one runner. We've got to go out and run our race."

Greg Browne, also received consideration for the award.

After the way the defense played against State, it was hard to overlook the jobs they did, but then again it could be inappropriate to have 12 Panthers of the week.

The defense shut off the Redbirds four times inside the ten yard line, as they forced three field goals rather than touchdowns, to account for the only scoring by the losers.

Turning in stellar efforts were Alex Russell, Orville Erby, Wayne Ramsey, Jim Easter, Pete Schmitt, and Rich Bucher, who filled in admirably for the injured Craig Baldacci.

McCabe steps down after 11 years

By Gene Seymour

Eastern's baseball team will be under new leadership in the 1975 season, as former assistant coach J.W. Sanders has been named to replace Bill McCabe, who stepped down as head coach to become assistant dean of the school of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

McCabe ends an 11 year stint at the head post in which his Panther teams have posted a 201-133 won/loss record.

McCabe's overall coaching record is 269-183.

His two most prominent Eastern teams were the 1963 team when the Marty Pattin-led Panthers played in the NAIA World Series, and the 1973 squad which placed third in the NCAA College Division playoffs.

McCabe was Region 4 "Coach of the Year" following the '73 season, when the Panthers recorded a 27-13 mark.

Walter Lowell, whom McCabe will be serving under, told the News that he was "very happy" to have a "highly respected person and teacher" in McCabe to help him out with his duties.

Lowell stressed the point that he needed an assistant because of the added responsibilities placed on his department with the acquisition of the Buzzard School and its facilities.

"I've been asking for an assistant for a year and a half now" said Lowell, "and I'm awfully glad that Bill accepted this time" (McCabe was asked to fill that position a year and a half ago, but wasn't made available until this fall).

McCabe, whose responsibilities will include preparing graduation plans, assisting with the certification of graduates, and co-ordinating the use of facilities, will also stay on to teach.

"With these added responsibilities" McCabe said, "I found it necessary to eliminate something along the line."

"Baseball was what had to be eliminated. I couldn't handle both," McCabe continued.

McCabe indicated that he had full knowledge of the move, and that money wasn't a factor in his retirement from baseball.

Sanders, who came to Eastern in the fall of 1971, has been given credit by many as the one who has been a great deal responsible for the recent upgrading in the Panther program.

Last year was the first time that a team with Sanders had not gotten a post-season tournament bid.

The soccer team, who ran it's record to 6-2 with weekend wins over Wisconsin-Parkside and Wisconsin-Milwaukee, got top-notch performances from several of it's members.

Leonard Mason scored two goals in the Panthers 3-1 win over Parkside, as Fritz Teller's crew, particularly the defense, turned in a solid effort.

Defensemen Mike Alhassen, Gordon Martz and Bob Casey all played tough, while Greg Milburn, the link from St. Louis played a superb field game, as his passing, tackling, and hustle stood out.

Goalie Zenon Balchunas, although not severely challenged throughout the two games, turned in his fourth excellent game in a row. He has allowed only two goals in the last four outings, recording two shutouts in that period, to gain "Panther consideration."

Cross country runners Rick Livesey and John Christy all had good days in the Panthers so-so showing at the Southwest Missouri Invitational, as they were the first two Panthers to cross, taking the 13 and 23 places respectively.

Bill McCabe- kicked upstairs?

J.W. Sanders- in like Flynn

Sanders, who was named most valuable player on his 1959 Southern Illinois team, has coached the Charleston-Mattoon Twins of the Central Illinois Collegiate League for three years.

Two years ago, his team won the league title.

Sanders was "very pleased" with the appointment. There has been some speculation that he was interested in moving up from his assistant position and had been doing some mooning, but to this all Sanders would say was "got what I wanted."

Athletic director Mike Mullally had to have something to do with the appointment, was unavailable for comment as he was out of town.

Six teams in IM flag football playoffs

Six intramural flag football teams will be playing off for positions in the university playoffs this week.

Phi Sigma Epsilon and Kappa Alpha will square off in an intramural flag football game scheduled for Wednesday at 5 p.m.

Both teams will advance to the university playoffs, but the winner will get preferred position.

Thursday will pit the Birds and the Titans in a 5 p.m. game.

Earlier in the season the Titans defeated the Birds in a 32-13 win.

Representing the dormitory division will be Carman and Stevenson Halls, who finished the regular season with identical 4-0 records.

They will determine their seeding in the university playoffs.

Phi Sigma Epsilon advanced to the playoffs with a 25-7 win over the Alpha Kappa Lambda unit.

Pi Kappa Alpha had tied Sigma Chi 13-13 in their playoff meeting.

After Sigma Pi won the first overtime by less than half of a foot, it was that a second overtime period should be played. The Pikes won, and Sigma protested.

The protest stood up, and the Pikes had to settle for a 13-7 win Monday.

Volleyball entries

Closing entries for girls' intramural volleyball close Wednesday with season beginning the week of Oct. 28.

Practice games will be held Wednesday from 6-10 p.m. in the north and south gyms.

Team rosters should consist of 12 members.
