Faculty questions Buzzard stage alterations

by Lola Burnham

The Faculty Senate voted Tuesday to circulate petitions among the faculty in an attempt to delay alterations to the Buzzard Education Building auditorium stage which was recently allocated to the proposed TV-radio stations.

The petitions will request the administration to "postpone a decision on the Buzzard stage until further study involving the faculty more extensively has been made."

The Council on University Planning and Budgeting approved, by consensus, a recommendation which includes the moving of the proposed TV-radio station into available space in Buzzard. Marvin approved the recommendation last week.

"If the Buzzard auditorium is worth saving, all we've got to do is start a petition and get 75 percent of the faculty to sign," Senator Lavern Hamand, who proposed the petition, said.

Senators will begin distributing petitions as soon as they are printed.

The decision to draw up and circulate petitions arose from discussion among senators about faculty involvement in administrative decision-making.

Senate Chairman Leonard Wood said he believes the faculty is interested in "how decisions are being made and the extent to which they are or are not involved."

Senate Secretary Dick Rogers said he believes the administration needs to inform the faculty of changes it is considering so they can study the changes and voice opinions.

"It (information) is not getting out to us in a way that we are aware of it,"

Rogers said.

"It appears to me the administration is not inviting faculty input at all," he added.

Senator Fred Preston said problems may be caused by differing views taken by faculty members and the administration.

Preston said the faculty takes a "collegial" look at running the campus while the administration takes a "business" view.

In other business, the Senate approved the results of the recent faculty election.

Ceremony marks TAC kickoff...

by Cathy Crist

University administrators, community leaders and students signed a drawing of the Tarble Arts Center at the site Tuesday, to officially commemorate and kick off the construction of the $1.4 million center.

The piece of artwork, which will be placed in the center after its completion, was designed by Tarble Arts director Don Carmichael.

The kick off ceremony was not a typical one. TAC campaign coordinator Ken Hesler said, "The campaign cabinet thought this kind of groundbreaking ceremony would be different than the usual spade and shovel."

Construction at the site actually started a few weeks ago, he said.

In addition to signing the drawing, several campaign workers spoke at the "arts breaking" ceremony.

Dean of Fine Arts Vaughn Jaenike, said, "This will be a center for people of all walks of life and of all ages. The center will take the arts to the people as charged by Newton Tarble, founder of the center."

The arts center will be the first major construction at Eastern in seven or eight years. Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said ground breakings are unusual at college universities now and said the center will be a great addition to communities in central Illinois as well as the campus.

Campaign cabinet chairman Aubert North, Eastern alumnus, said "We're very proud to see the actual work on the project has begun. It was a real effort of hundreds of people in both time and money."

About forty people were present at the ceremony, which chairman of the alumni division Charles Titus said "was more than we expected—although it was an unusual ceremony and an important occasion."

The ceremony was video-taped and was presented at a reception and dinner in the University Union Grand Ballroom for approximately 115 people.

"We began our campaign with a budget of $21,500 which was to go for all the campaign's expenses—such as this dinner," he said.

Hesler said he expects to spend about $2,000 less than the anticipated budget.

...while fundraising effort ends

by Cathy Crist

After raising a total of $302,762, the Tarble Arts Center campaign cabinet officially ended the fundraising campaign Tuesday following the "arts" breaking ceremony.

Campaign treasurer David Riddle said gifts and pledges to the Eastern Illinois University Foundation total $220,031 and contributions directly to Eastern are at $82,731.

Although the cabinet "officially" closed the campaign, campaign coordinator Ken Hesler said he expects more contributions to come in from the various areas including a $5,000 pledge from a corporation which he declined to name.

Campaign cabinet chairman Aubert North, an Eastern alumnus, said, "I thought our $250,000 goal would be very optimistic, but I see now it was quite feasible because we have gone over the top."

Chairman of the Major Donors and Businesses Committee Vaughn Jaenike said that during the course of the campaign he had 129 scheduled appointments with prospective major donors, about 200 letters sent out and at least 150 phone calls for over $200,000 among 40 major donors.

Charles Titus, Alumni Division chairman, said his group met its goal through several direct mailing campaigns and twelve nights of "telefunds".

Chairman of the Campus and Community Division Don Carmichael said his division's efforts are also not complete. "We have closed the campaigns in Charleston and Mattoon but we are still following up with prospective donors."

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, member of the TAC cabinet, said the campaign has exceeded its goal.

"We have more than enough funds for the construction including funds for special purchases which we could not afford to include in our original bid," he said.

Thompson seeks tax for transportation plan

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. James R. Thompson gave wary lawmakers his long-awaited transportation plan Tuesday asking for a new 5 percent state tax on oil company receipts that could add up to 3 cents a gallon to gasoline prices.

The Republican governor's plan was greeted by sharp opposition from Democrats and Republicans. Oil companies and the state chamber of commerce also quickly lined up against it.

Assistant House Majority Leader Rep. Peter Peters, R-Chicago, said the odds were "1,000 to one" against the General Assembly passing Thompson's proposal intact.

An oil industry spokesman denounced the new tax as a "thinly disguised" sales tax that would hike gasoline prices at least 6 cents a gallon and raise the price of every petroleum-related product from a farmer's fertilizer to a fast food hamburger.

Thompson's proposal also included an organization overhaul of the controversial, near-bankrupt Chicago-area mass transit system, which generated the sharpest Democratic opposition.

The huge Chicago area system faces a total shutdown by April 18, which could leave almost 1 million people without a way to get to work and cost the state's economy millions of dollars.

Thompson called for a $200 million loan to keep the Regional Transportation Authority's buses and commuter trains running in the six-county Chicago area until his full, long-range plan was in place.

Thompson, seeking re-election next year, said legislators must act "by the end of April."

The heart of Thompson's plan is the new tax on oil companies and other firms that refine and/or distribute in Illinois.

The new tax would generate some $1 billion in the next two years.

Polish union leaders call for nationwide strike Friday

BYDGOSZCZ, Poland—Communist Poland's top labor negotiator warned Tuesday of economic chaos and civil war unless Solidarity moderates its demands, but angry union officials scheduled a nationwide warning strike for Friday.

Solidarity, seeking the firing of officials it blames for the beating of union members, voted a four-hour warning strike for Friday and a general strike next Tuesday.

Mieczyslaw Rakowski, deputy premier in charge of union affairs, accused the independent union's leaders of trying to become the "new owners" of this Warsaw Pact nation, where Soviet-led maneuvers are under way.

Rakowski issued the challenge as he prepared for critical negotiations with Solidarity leader Lech Walesa in hopes of averting new strikes.

Walesa threatened to resign unless his proposal for a two-stage strike plan was adopted and stormed out of a meeting Monday when his plan appeared headed for defeat. But Solidarity's policy-making national coordination commission backed his plan 35-5 with 2 abstentions Tuesday and Walesa returned.

Federal courts will not help taxpayers avoid high taxes

WASHINGTON—Illinois taxpayers cannot turn to federal courts when trying to avoid paying allegedly excessive property taxes, a divided Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

By a 5-4 vote, the justices upheld an Illinois law

Wednesday's (AP) News shorts

that requires property owners often to wait at least two years before collecting, without interest, overpayments they were forced to make on property tax.

The decision thus overturned a federal appeals court ruling that federal court access was permissible even in the face of a 1937 law that bars federal courts from blocking "collection of any tax under state law where a plain, speedy and efficient remedy" is available in state courts.

The high court's majority today ruled that the Illinois tax-refund procedure is a "plain, speedy and efficient remedy" within the Tax Injunction Act's wording and therefore federal courts have no right to interfere.

Reagan announces more aid for Salvadoran economy

WASHINGTON—The Reagan administration announced Tuesday it will give El Salvador an additional $63.5 million in economic assistance this year to help strengthen its war-scarred economy, subject to congressional approval.

The increase would raise to $126.5 million the amount of economic aid provided by the United States this year, almost double what former President Carter wanted.

"It's an expression of faith in the government," said State Department spokesman William Dyess. He said the aid will be provided unconditionally for any economic purpose the Salvador government wants.

The administration previously announced an increase of $25 million in military aid, raising the total military assistance for the year to $35.4 million.

Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte has said economic aid is much more important to the survival of his government than military aid.

Dyess said the new assistance would help repair roads, bridges, dams and farms damaged during the fighting and which, by many accounts, have brought the Salvadoran economy to its knees.

Byrne wants to avoid media; make move with dignity

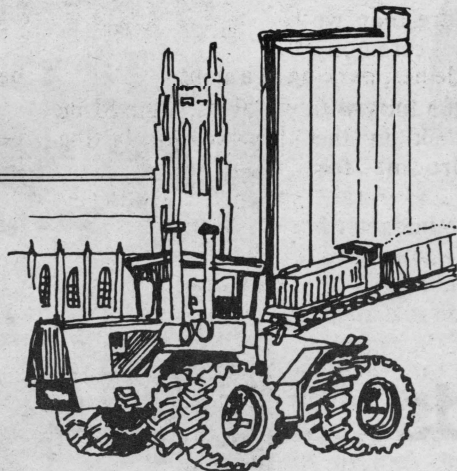

CHICAGO—Mayor Jane M. Byrne decided Tuesday to forego a first-hand look at her new apartment in a crime-ravaged housing project, saying she wanted to avoid reporters and photographers and move from her luxury high rise with "dignity."

The mayor, who is moving in the project to dramatize the city's commitment to combat violence at Cabrini-Green, will live in a two-bedroom unit on the fourth floor of a 19-story building.

Mrs. Byrne's husband and political adviser, Jay McMullen, chose the apartment Monday. He said of the couple's new residence, "It ain't the Ritz, but we'll get by."

On Tuesday, Chicago Housing Authority workers began sprucing up the mayor's new apartment and an adjacent unit, expected to be occupied by the mayor's bodyguards. Workers installed windows and made other improvements and outsiders were not allowed in the building.

Third proposal would cut Senate size to 24 members

by Patty O'Neill

Student Senator Bill Mueller will try for a third time Wednesday to present a proposal which would cut the size of the Senate from 30 to 24 senators.

Two weeks ago Mueller presented a similar proposal to the Senate which would have cut the number of senators to 20, but the proposal was defeated unanimously.

Last week, the Senate would not allow the revised proposal to cut the Senate to 24 to even be considered by the Senate.

Mueller said he would put the proposal on the April 15 ballot by initiative if the Senate defeats the proposal again Wednesday night.

Initiative requires 500 student signatures in order to place a referendum on the ballot.

Other sections of the proposal include a mandatory cumulative grade point average of 2.30 for student senators. Currently, all senators are required to be in good standing with the university, which requires a GPA of 2.0.

The proposal also deals with when the Senate session begins.

Under the proposal, the new session would begin immediately following the current session's last meeting.

Another change in the proposal specified that if a Senate seat opens up after five weeks into the semester, it should remain open for the remainder of the Senate session.

The final section of the proposal concerns recalling senators, and would enable the Senate to remove any elected or appointed student government official from office.

In other business, Senator Jim Kaestner will present a proposal which would change the initiative process.

The proposal requires that 15 percent of the student body sign a petition instead of the 500 student signatures which are now required to get an issue on a referendum.

The proposal would increase the amount of signatures needed to about 1,500.

Kaestner said requiring more signatures will make it harder for a senator to "jam" a proposal onto a referendum.

Requiring 1,500 signatures will make an initiative more representative of the student body than the current 500 signatures, he said.

He proposed the increase in signatures in conjunction with the revised Students Coordinating Optional Referendum Efforts proposal.

SCORE II will require Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin to carry informational referendum results directly to the Board of Governors.

Student charged with battery after incident

by Sandy Young

Eastern sophomore Mark Gronowski was arrested on charges of battery and leaving the scene of an accident early Tuesday morning.

Gronowski has since been released from the Coles County Jail after paying $100 bond, a spokesman from the sheriff's department said.

The charges stemmed from an incident occurring at about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, in which Gronowski allegedly backed into sophomore Cathy Wangler's car and then assaulted her and one of her passengers.

Wangler said she and two friends were traveling south on Sixth Street when they stopped to pick up three more friends and Gronowski "came to a screeching stop right behind the car."

Wangler said Gronowski then trailed her vehicle, and when she pulled into the parking lot next to the Life Science Building to let him pass, he pulled up beside her, parking at a slant.

"He looked down at us, figured he didn't know us and backed up, hitting my car," she said.

Wangler said she got out of her vehicle and yelled at Gronowski, but "he was very nonchalant about it."

She said Gronowski was very close to her and she pushed him back, then he pushed her.

At that time, one of Wangler's male passengers told Gronowski to "leave her alone."

Wangler said Gronowski then pushed the passenger into her car, leaving another dent in the vehicle.

The passenger tried to throw a "karate kick," and Gronowski grabbed his foot and threw him to the ground, leading him to hit his head, Wangler said.

Gronowski declined to comment on the issue.

Atlanta case could use your help

Sometimes tragedy brings out the best in people.

This is the case with the campus fund-raising project to help finance investigations into the murders of 20 black children in Atlanta.

Despite months of intensive investigation, authorities have not discovered any leads or even motives for the killings. Atlanta police have been taxed to the limit in an effort to capture the killer. State and Federal authorities have also been called in to end the case. The Atlanta community is demanding protection and an end to the slayings.

Recently, organizations nationwide have started raising funds to help solve this crisis. Some funds are being raised in sympathy for the victims' families or to pay for the extra investigative measures needed to end this nightmare.

The Black Student Union, Eastern's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the National Panhellenic Council are collecting money in the University Union Lobby to help fund investigations into the unsolved murders.

Though these efforts may not directly affect the outcome of the case, maybe it will ease some pain. At least those contributing will know they have done something.

Although the monetary gain from the venture may not be much, it is good to see the conscientious attitude shown by the groups in working together for a common cause.

The organizations have also been distributing green ribbons in the Union.

Tyrone Watts, president of Eastern's chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the green ribbons are being worn in an upside down 'V' while the murderer of the children is still free.

"When the criminal is apprehended, we'll turn the ribbons up for victory," he said.

We urge students to show support for the Atlanta case by wearing the green ribbons and donating money to the investigation. A little support from everyone will go a long way.

News did not bias its greek coverage

At a time when racial tensions between campus organizations seem to be heightened, the Daily Eastern News has been cited as probable cause for the development. Instead of remaining objective and unbiased in its coverage, it appears that the News has acted in a prejudiced manner.

On the surface this accusation may seem correct. A closer look will reveal that, although some may feel we are partly at fault, our actions were not purposely directed at promoting racial tensions.

The issue stems from the News' coverage of a minor stabbing incident in the University Union involving two black fraternities, Phi Beta Sigma and Omega Psi Phi.

We were criticized for our "sensationalized" coverage of an event that some thought was not very newsworthy. Later, the other critics said the Daily Eastern News was biased or pro-white in its Greek coverage because we did not give equal newsplay to law-breaking incidents involving two white fraternities, Delta Chi and Pi Kappa Alpha.

A distinction between the incidents needs to be made so that those who feel that the News has slighted them in its coverage will be able to understand why the News handled the incidents the way we did.

First, one incident involved a stabbing, although minor. And, a stabbing, however minor, is an occurrence that happens rarely at Eastern. The other two incidents (one a disturbing the peace incident, the other involving "hazing" of pledges) occur from time to time at Eastern. They did not merit the coverage the first incident received simply because the latter two were not as newsworthy.

Judging an event as newsworthy is based on several factors, none of which involve race. The decision to play the

News notes:

stories in the manner we did was based on each incident's "newsworthiness," not on any undertone of racial prejudice. We did not see color when covering these events, we simply saw separate news stories and dealt with them accordingly.

It's easy to point a finger at the News and blame us for racial tensions at Eastern; what's more difficult to do is analyze the issue of racial prejudice, recognize the real root of the problem and act to solve it.

The complaints and criticism we have received are a step in this direction. We appreciate any input, positive or otherwise, that is given in a constructive, helpful way.

So far, all input dealing with this issue has been given in that manner.

But, we need more than complaints after the fact. Positive input is not only criticism on how the News handled a story. That is not nearly as helpful as making us aware of potential problems in our coverage of an event before the story appears in print.

One of a newspaper's main goals is to serve its readers in the most effective way possible. Part of this goal involves the public's input into our (and your) product—the Daily Eastern News. Communication is the key to this goal—your communication with us. We always try to keep these lines of communication open, but that won't do any good unless you help by speaking up.

Your Turn

Don't blame us

Editor:

I would like to express my response to the letter headlined "Armies invade Booth" (Your Turn, March 10).

Whoever you are, I would like to say that a portion of your statement is true. That is the part about organizations requiring their "aspiring" members to put in a specific amount of time at the library. I along with 900 other students on this campus understand that you are talking about the "Black Greek Organizations."

I happen to be a student who spends an average of about four to five hours a day in the library. While I'm there, there is a tremendous amount of noise coming from "everyone" during the hours of 7 to 10 p.m.

I don't feel that certain organizations are the main cause of this. Also, I must add that they do not march like soldiers in the areas that are designated "study areas," especially the stacks.

I do feel that the library should put stricter restrictions on the talking that goes on in there except in the areas where conversing is allowed.

Just for the record, I did at one time this semester hear the entire history of a sorority on this campus, being recited by a pledge class while waiting for a test that was to be given in the R&R room of the library. This sorority was not one of those organizations that you categorized as armies either!

Ms. D. Ramsey

Quality is costly

Editor:

In response to Mr. Brown's letter (March 16), I ask that he and all students who live in residence halls to think about how much they pay for their meals.

Eastern, being the least expensive of state universities, charges approximately 83 cents for breakfast, $1.56 for lunch and $1.99 for dinner. The total for all three meals is $4.38. There is no place in Charleston where a student can get three meal for less. No one would complain about the "lousy" food unless he is ready to pay more for "better" food. In other words, "Don't expect filet-mignon at hamburger prices."

Above all, there is no justification for the vast amount of food wasted daily. True, some of the food gets rancid tasting, so it shouldn't be taken when passing through the line. In addition, please do not complain to the student workers. Most of them do not prepare the food but serve it. If there is a complaint, take it to the food service supervisor. The complaint given there may be the first step in improving the quantity and ultimately the quality of the food served.

Carl Pugliese

AB approves 25% publication budget hike

by Cathy Crist

The Apportionment Board Thursday approved a 1981-82 student publications budget of $268,715—a 25 percent increase over last year's budget—which includes a $66,000 allocation of student fees.

The budget's approval marked the first time since 1972 that student publications has received an increase.

The budget is an increase of $53,565 over last year's $215,150 budget. Student fee support was increased $30,368 in the 1981-82 budget.

Last year's budget included the Warbler, Vehicle and Daily Eastern News. However, the Vehicle's was deleted from the 1981-82 student publications budget.

The Vehicle will be funded by the English and journalism departments next year under an auxiliary enterprise funding system which transfers the funding of certain academic organizations from the AB to their related academic departments.

The AB recommended an 8 percent increase from last year's Vehicle budget of $662 and will send a $715 proposed budget to Stanley Rives, vice president for academic affairs, for his approval under the new funding plan.

The Vehicle had requested a budget of $1,150, which would pay for an increase in the number of magazines from 1,500 to 2,000.

The increase in student fee support was made possible, in part, by a Publications Board-initiated student referendum held in February asking for a $3.50 yearly increase per student in student fees. The increase would generate about $35,000.

Another proposal to separate $70,000 from the AB in student fees to a newly structured Publications Board was stalled when the Student Senate voted not to let the question be put to students in a referendum.

Financial Vice President Todd Daniels said the AB gave student publications most of the fee monies that will be generated from the fee increase, although the AB was not obligated to.

The only line-items that were cut were in printing and press supplies. The proposed $36,000 printing line-item was cut to $34,000 with fee support of $33,000.

Legal service directors approve new budget

by Mary Holland

The board of directors of the student legal service recently approved a revised 1981-82 budget of $36,339 after Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin vetoed a plan which would require part-time students to pay for the service.

The budget was revised after a proposed charge by the legal service of 16 cents per credit hour fee was vetoed by Marvin.

The original proposed budget totaled $39,142. After Marvin vetoed the part-time student fee, $2,800 in cuts had to be made.

Steve Davis, the legal service's attorney, said he feels Marvin vetoed the proposal because he did not think part-timers used the service enough to justify a fee.

Technically, part-timers are not allowed to use the service because they do not pay a fee. In practice, however, Davis has given part-timers advice after full-time students have been advised.

Although Davis said he is unsure what the board's future policy will be regarding the use of the legal service by part-time students, he said part-timers probably would not be able to use it.

"I venture to say their decision will be—if they do not pay the fee, they can't use the service," Davis said.

Full-time students pay a $2 legal fee each semester and $1.20 in summer.

Some of the cuts made to the budget included the reduction of the graduate assistant's stipends to $3,600 from the original $4,800 request and printing was reduced from the requested $600 to $300.

The budget includes a proposed salary of $17,380 for Davis, which is a 10 percent increase over Davis' 1980-81 salary.

The equipment line-item request was also cut in the revised budget from the original proposal, from $1,300 to $736.

Bud Bower, a Coles County lawyer, said if additional cuts were necessary in the budget, the stipends of interns should be reduced or eliminated.

Interns are pre-law students who assist Davis in research and other matters and work 15 hours a week and are paid about $150 a month.

Third presidential nominee says he's 'tired of the same old thing'

by Jerry Fallstrom

Because he is tired of the "same old thing," junior Jeff Francione said he will run for student body president against already announced candidates junior Bob Glover and junior Terry Teele.

"I'm tired of the same old thing: the same old people doing the same old job," Francione, a political science major, said.

Francione said his only experience in student government is as a member of his high school student council. But he added that his lack of experience will not affect his ability as student body president.

"A lot of people would say I'm inexperienced. That's true," he said. "But that's what they said about Reagan and Carter."

He said executive officers should not be paid, because they are "servants" of the student body who have in the past only "screwed up our fees."

Francione said he is against a mass transit service at Eastern, disagrees with those who want to cut the size of the Student Senate, and thinks the revised Students Coordinating Optional Referendum Efforts proposal would accomplish little.

COTE approves increased credit for geology course

by Holly Roberts

The Council on Teacher Education unanimously accepted Tuesday a proposed revision for Geology 2430 which would change it from a three-hour course to a four-hour course.

"We have to extend the course one hour to be able to include more theories and laboratory," geology department chairman Alan Baharlou said.

Baharlou explained that the course time extension would allow for "more practical application" of the developing concept of energy exploration.

"We felt all our courses had to be expanded and modified to train our students in this direction," Baharlou said.

The COTE also approved a proposal to accept those academic areas that had submitted their course revisions for the secondary education option for special education COTE Chairman Russel Fischer said.

Eleven of thirteen academic departments excluding social studies and music have submitted their revisions to COTE for the secondary education option, Fischer said.

The revisions consist mainly of course re-numbering, changes in course titles, and course drops, Fischer added.

"The academic departments have suggested what individuals should have toward certification in special ed," said Fischer.

Student fundraiser earns only $30 for TAC drive

by Dawn Morville

A low student turnout caused only $30 to be collected at Monday's Student Entertainment Night, which was held to raise money for construction of the Tarble Arts Center, Val Averill, student chairman of the TAC fundraising campaign committee, said Tuesday.

Averill said that although only $30 was raised, the student talent was "very good" and the poor attendance was due to "students having other things to do."

Four bands entertained the audience throughout the evening, and representatives from the greek community, Residence Hall Association, and the Daily Eastern News competed in a "doughnut gorge," and "root beer chug."

Junior Kurt Evenson, representing Delta Chi Fraternity won the doughnut gorge, and junior Bill Jarrett, RHA representative, won the root beer chug, Averill said.

She said that although the entertainment night closed the student fundraising campaign for the center, "money is still coming in from the telefund" so the total of student fundraising is unknown at this time.

She said the committee has raised about $3,000.

Self esteem key to child development

by Lisa Maday

Building a child's self-esteem is one of the most important jobs an adult can undertake as a parent, Virginia Vogel, of the School of Home Economics, said Tuesday evening.

"It takes an effort. It's work to make somebody feel good about themselves," Vogel said. "More than you give, you will receive."

Vogel is not only a faculty member at Eastern but she is a parent—the mother of a 21- and a 24-year-old, she said.

Leading an informal discussion on "Building Your Child's Self-Esteem," Vogel reviewed with a group made up mostly of parents and students at the Charleston Day Care Center what it takes to get children to feel good about themselves.

Early in a child's life, the child will separate himself from his parents as he begins to find out more about himself, she said.

It is important for parents to help children see the good in themselves and also to help the child develop a feeling of worth—a sense of purpose in his life, she added.

By reading a story to the group about the benefits of touching, Vogel illustrated that touching is just one of the many ways to build a child's self-esteem.

Although touching is effective to demonstrate love in many cases, Vogel said not everyone likes to be touched.

She said using the process of descriptive praise and active listening are also effective means of demonstrating love.

Descriptive praise tells children specifically what they are being praised for and the process of active listening indicates to the child that the parent is listening and appreciates his/her feedback.

Giving rewards for good behavior or merely being happy around children are also good ways parents can build their child's self-esteem, she added.

Virginia Vogel

Vogel said some of the signs of a low self-esteem are a child seeming withdrawn, moody, misbehaving, quiet, apathetic or lack of interest.

Paper donations pass last drive

by Cy Gaffney Jr.

Although it is too early to tell, donations for the spring paper and aluminum drive look as if it will surpass last semester's total, coordinator Tom Lamczyk said Monday.

Lamczyk said he is pretty sure that the paper drive brought in more paper than the fall drive did, however he added that he would not know the exact total until after spring break.

The total for the fall drive was seven tons. The proceeds from materials collected last fall amounted to $191.50.

Although Lamczyk did not have a total on the amount of paper collected in this semester's drive, he said 117 pounds of aluminum products were collected.

Paper collected from this semester's drive sold for $20 per ton for newspaper, $40 per ton for magazines and general ledger paper; and $100 per ton for IBM cards.

Uniting two Germanies not feasible—Birke

by Rose Marie Meegan

Although polls indicate that both East and West Germany favor the unification of the two Germanies, a representative from the Free University of Berlin said Tuesday that he does not see the possibility as feasible in the near future.

Adolf Birke of the Free University of Berlin spoke about the status of the unification of East and West Germany to a small group of faculty and students in the University Union.

Speaking about East Germany's views on the unification, Birke said, "Those people are more than willing (to unify). I feel East Germany is much more in favor."

Although Birke said the polls indicate the West German's would support such a move, he said in his opinion, "The West people wouldn't take the risk to do it. They have only achieved economically and politically.

Adolf Birke

It would be like a traitor to your country now (to wish to reunite.)"

The west side of Germany, called the Federal Republic of Germany, is a free and wealthy nation similar to the United States. East Germany, on the other hand, is communist and life there is not as rich.

The main issue at hand in Germany right now seems to be the recognition of East Germany as a separate state. In 1949 during the Allied occupation after World War II, the western and eastern states "just split. There was no real peace treaty," he said.

"All agreements, pacts, etc. from the war are concerning the western sector—stated 'agreement on Berlin West'. The East always wanted real international recognition," he said.

Wolfgang Schlauch, of the history department, later explained that East Germany wants to be fully recognized as a sovereign state. "They receive this recognition from the West to a certain extent."

In addition to the issue of unification, Birke also discussed the tension and strife in Berlin today.

"Berlin is a very curious and special place," Birke added. "It is very vulnerable."

Berlin contains much of the German nation's wealth and is caught in the middle of the East and West dilemma. The city is divided by the Berlin Wall and contains many services such as universities, the German's national insurance company and many other things not easily divided.

Because of the shared services, Berlin could not be made strictly East or West Germany's.

"Traffic is terrible," he said. "You must stop at every interchange and show your papers."

Citizens must have papers because of the constant threat of people escaping from East Germany to the West.

"There was a large drain of refugees from East to West up until 1969. This was bad for the republic (East Germany.) They built barriers; the Berlin Wall," he said.

Local reactions to cocaine ruling varied

by Tim Broderick

Local reaction to the recent Illinois Appellate Court decision ruling that cocaine is not a narcotic and urging lesser penalties for possession has revealed varying opinions.

Laura Dyer, a health teacher at Eastern, said cocaine should not be classified as a narcotic, but rather as a stimulant.

Dyer said, however, that she is against the court's ruling.

"I'm a little worried about more lenient laws on one drug would bring more lenient laws on others," she added.

An increase in the heart and respiratory rate, weight loss, and potential malnutrition with prolonged use are some of the dangers of cocaine use, Dyer said.

She said the more severe effects with prolonged use include hallucinations and a feeling of anxiety. In addition, Dyer said that because the drug can be psychologically addicting, with prolonged use the addict could rot out his nasal passages.

However, a former dealer of the drug said "you'd have to be awful rich to afford to be addicted."

He said a gram of cocaine costs $90 to $100.

The ex-dealer said he is in favor of the decision because he does not feel the drug is dangerous.

"It's a classy drug—you could maybe get some bad stuff in the ghetto, but good coke is simply an emotional up," he said.

Student opinion on the court decision also tended to be diversified.

Senior Ernest Newman said he felt that the selling of the drug, rather than plain possession, should be more severely penalized.

He also said that a gram or less should be classified as a misdemeanor.

Drew Snyder agreed the penalties should be relaxed "a little bit."

He added that he feels the penalties for possession should be put on the same level as marijuana.

However, sophomore Vikki Reed expressed an opinion against the ruling.

"Any leniency toward any of that stuff just makes the problem worse," she explained.

Junior Tony Coleman said he was against the ruling because he said he felt that relaxing the penalties would increase cocaine usage, especially among younger people.

The Central East Alcoholism and Drug Council has stated in a recent press release that it agrees with Dr. Schuster and Dr. Schwartz, Chicago psychiatrists with the University of Chicago, in their views on cocaine.

The two psychiatrists said they feel the growing acceptance and the public's "blase attitude" toward cocaine's potential affects.

With prolonged use, a psychological addiction to cocaine could develop, the statement says.

Shirley O'Connell, a social worker and spokesperson for Hour House, a local center sponsored by the council, said the symptoms the press release names and that Hour House are most concerned with, are the addict's "total preoccupation with obtaining and using the drug," and the danger of the addict suffering a mental breakdown caused by cocaine's toxicity.

Textbook sales to begin April 6 in 'new' library

by Peggy Schneider

Textbook sales are scheduled to begin April 6 for three weeks at the Textbook Library's new location in the south end of Pemberton Hall, Textbook Library Director Richard Sandefer said Tuesday.

The sale will be held during the library's regular hours of 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m., he said.

Students may purchase texts they are currently renting or had used previously, "as long as the book is in stock," Sandefer said.

Book prices are determined by the number of times a book has been checked out multiplied by a basic 10 percent discount off the library's original purchase price, he said.

For instance, a student would receive a 30 percent discount for a book which has been rented for three semesters, Sandefer added.

Students interested in purchasing a book they are currently using should bring the book to the Textbook Library so the library can determine how many times it has been checked out, he said.

Students who want to purchase a book they used previously should know the title, author, or course for which it was used, he said.

The books will be stamped sold as proof they were purchased, he added.

The library's move from Buzzard Education Building to Pemberton will be completed this week so that book sales could begin after spring break, Sandefer said.

The last of the shelves and textbooks are being removed from Buzzard and installed in Pemberton, he added.

Correction

It was incorrectly stated last week in the Daily Eastern News that candidates for graduation from the Cooperative Education Program will participate in ceremonies at 2 p.m. May 9. Candidates from Career Occupations will participate in the afternoon ceremonies.

Rehearsals for those participating in the morning ceremonies will be at 4 p.m. May 8. Those graduating in the afternoon ceremony will rehearse at 7 p.m.

Also, it was incorrectly reported in Monday's edition of the Daily Eastern News that Rep. Josephine Oblinger headed a panel discussion on abuse of the elderly Friday in the University Union.

Richard Goodrick, of the political science department, said Alice A. Milner, a counselor for the Senior Citizens of Sangamon County, headed the panel discussion. Oblinger was scheduled to head the panel discussion but could not participate because she was hospitalized Wednesday, Goodrick said.

Downs to promote reading skills as VP of Illinois Reading Council

by Julie Held

A faculty member from Eastern's elementary education department has been appointed vice president-elect to the Illinois Reading Council, an organization of teachers of elementary-level to college-level reading courses.

Dale Downs, an Eastern 18-year teaching veteran, said Monday that he will serve as vice president-elect, vice president, president and past president, respectively, during his four years on the IRC.

The main goal of the IRC is "to improve reading skills and make people more aware of reading problems," Downs said.

Downs said he will assume the duties of his new position June 1.

"As vice president-elect, my responsibilities include submitting all memberships for the coming year to the International Reading Association. I will also try to increase membership in the IRC," Downs said.

Downs said he will also serve on the IRC's executive committee and the board of directors.

Although Downs will assume new duties outside the campus, he said he will not be given time off from teaching at Eastern to fulfill the duties.

"I will still be teaching here full-time," he said.

Attached kiln planned to ease fire code rules

by Peggy Schneider

A proposed change calling for Eastern's kiln shed to be attached to the Fine Arts Building and for its conformity to building and fire codes, is under discussion by groups involved with the construction of the kiln.

The kiln shed will replace a shed which exploded last April due to a student operating error.

Members of Eastern's art department, the Capital Development Board, project engineers and a representative of the engineering firm said that if the kiln is attached to the Fine Arts Building, its construction must conform to the fire and building codes.

The shed was originally designed as a separate building until it was discovered that construction would require stronger materials, sending the project above its $97,100 budget, Dick Sandberg of Brown, Davis, Mullins, & Associates said.

Brown, Davis, Mullins & Associates is the Champaign-based engineering firm which is designing the shed.

Both Sandberg and Eastern Physical Plant Assistant Director Marty Ignazito said they could not estimate how much over the budget the separate building would cost.

An attached building will also be assigned a lower fire code rating than a free-standing building. A free-standing building may be given a four-hour rating compared to a one-and-a-half hour rating for an attached building, Ignazito said.

The hour rating represents the length of time a building can safely contain the type of fire for which it was constructed.

Sandberg said he expects design plans for the masonry and steel building to be completed in "a matter of weeks" after his firm's meeting with the Capital Development Board next week.

The 50 students enrolled in ceramics courses this semester have used outdoor gas kilns and smaller indoor electric kilns since the explosion, James Johnson, chairman of the art department, said.

Firing schedules must be adapted to the different size kilns, and firing in the outdoor kilns depends on the weather, but Johnson said the adjustment has caused no real problems.

Eastern class studying Gin Seng restaurant

by Lee Ann Franklin

An Eastern consumer behavior class is conducting a marketing research study on Gin Seng Chinese Cuisine Restaurant to find out what people like and dislike about the restaurant, Gary Clark of the management-marketing department said.

The class is studying the consumer behavior of people who eat at Gin Seng and the students in the class will compile data and make recommendations to the restaurant, Clark said.

The marketing teacher explained that the class chose Gin Seng restaurant because it has just recently opened in Charleston. Clark said that since the restaurant is fairly new, the results from the study will be especially beneficial to the owner in determining its target market.

The project involves a four-part process which will include defining the problem, developing data, analyzing the data, and making recommendations, Clark explained.

To carry out these steps, Clark said he divided the class into three "independent consulting agencies." Each group of 15 students has a president, and vice presidents of development, administration, and analysis, Clark said.

Junior Jayne Bednarik, president of one of the "agencies," explained that her group has been collecting information on the market for Chinese food in Charleston.

"We have put together questionnaires to survey Gin Seng's customers," Bednarik said. "Students work on two-hour shifts to distribute questionnaires to customers who eat in the restaurant, to those who use the carry-out service, and to those who have their food delivered."

"Questions such as 'Would you like to see beer or wine sold at Gin Seng?' and 'How long did you wait for your food?' should help us determine what customers like and what needs to be improved," Bednarik said.

After all the data has been gathered, the students will analyze the data and make recommendations to Barbara Riggins, Gin Seng's owner.

The conclusions will be presented in both a written and oral report prepared by the students.

Riggins said she believes the study will benefit her restaurant and said, "They (the students) will give us our target market and show what people are looking for.

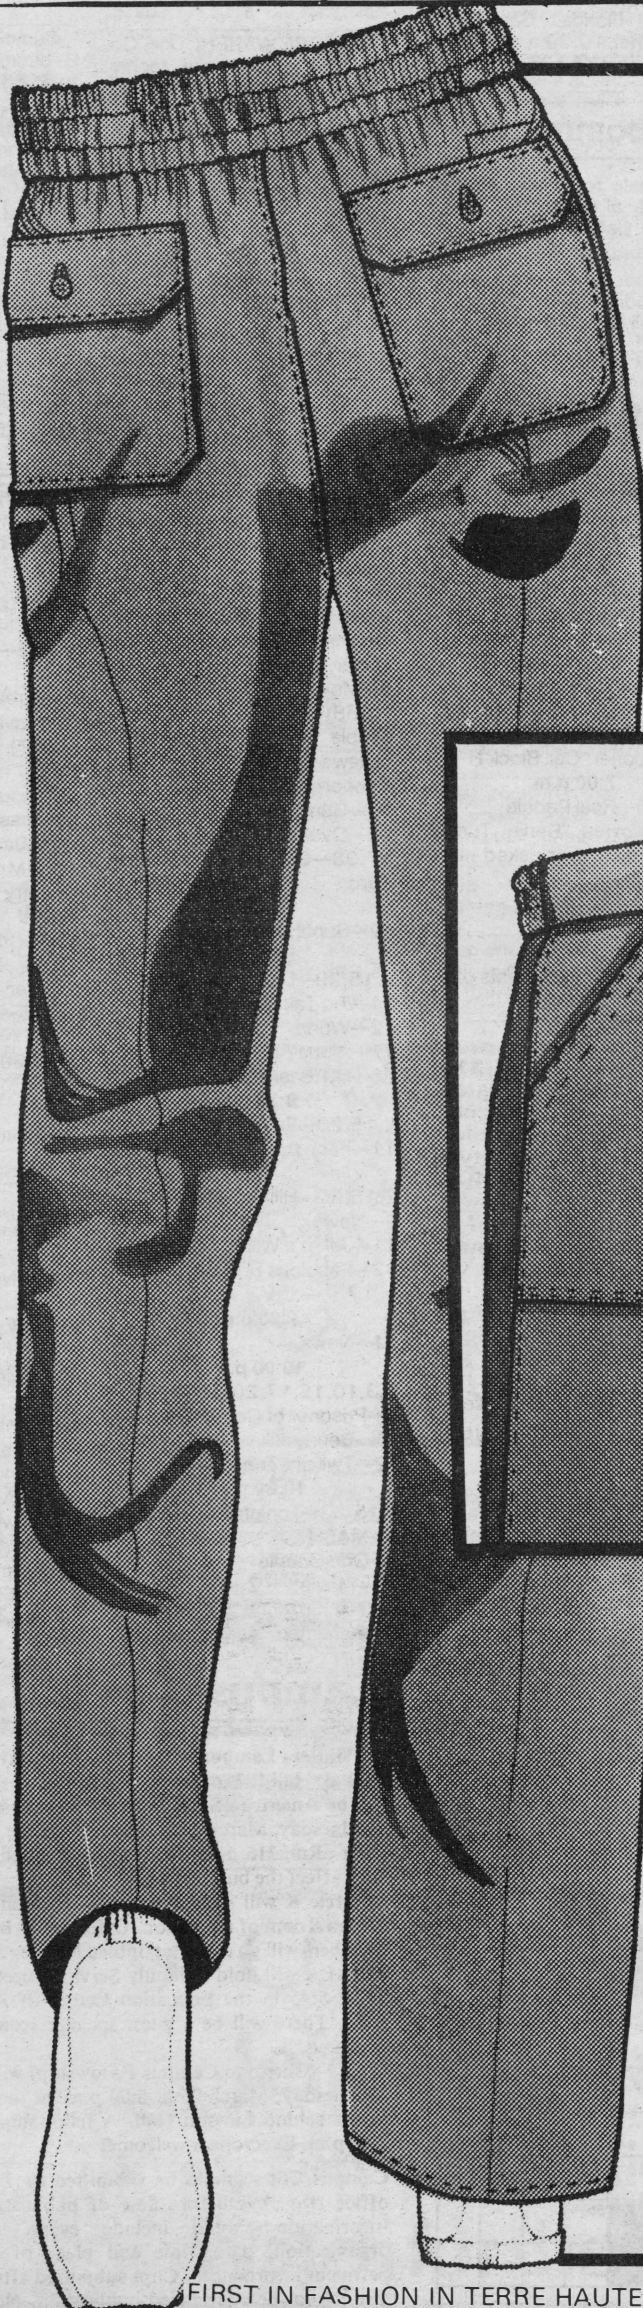

"I am sure I will take some action on their recommendations," she added.

Clark said the study is also benefiting the students. "Through this process, they are learning what it means to use goals, strategies and tactics in solving problems.

"Students are learning what it means to draw conclusions and make real world recommendations," Clark said.

Senior Jana Hermann, president of another "agency," said she is very enthusiastic about the method of learning. "I love it. We're learning on our own," she said.

Bednarik said, "We are doing everything a marketing research company would do. It's on the job training, and it's a lot better than reading from a book."

Grappler overcame injuries for successful year

by Dan Brannan

Despite an injury-plagued season, Eastern's 177 pound junior wrestler Dennis McCormick took second in the NCAA Division II national tournament and won two matches before elimination at the Division I tournament.

McCormick lost in his third consolation match to the eventual champion, Ed Banning of Iowa, at the

White Sox blast St. Louis 17-3

by the Associated Press

SARASOTA, Fla.—The Chicago White Sox exploded for five home runs in three innings Tuesday and went on to over-power the St. Louis Cardinals 17-3 in an exhibition baseball game.

Shortstop Bill Almon broke a scoreless tie in the third with a two-run shot off St. Louis starter Bob Sykes.

Lamar Johnson led off the fourth with another home run off Sykes and catcher Marc Hill added a two-run blast later in the inning.

Tony Bernazard and Rusty Kuntz added homers in the fifth off John Martin. Bernazard's was a two-run blast and Kuntz hit his over the center-field wall with two men on.

Kuntz later added a two-run triple and finished the day with six runs batted in and four scored. Jim Morrison also provided four hits for the White Sox.

Division I tournament.

But McCormick's road to the exceptional season he had was no smooth one.

The 177-pounder was troubled with nagging injuries throughout the season.

"I tore some ligaments in my wrist before the season even started, and then I popped some ribs in my sternum," McCormick said. "The injuries lagged on through the season."

Despite his injuries, McCormick was a success.

But McCormick's success did not begin at Eastern. Before coming to Eastern, McCormick had an outstanding career at Springfield High School.

He capped his senior year with a fifth place finish in the 167 pound weight class at the Class AA State wrestling tournament.

McCormick also placed second in the AAU Freestyle National Tournament at 178, during the summer after he graduated from high school.

McCormick attended Minnesota University during his freshman year of college and missed the entire wrestling season because of knee surgery.

McCormick then decided to attend Eastern during his sophomore year because of its outstanding wrestling program and because he had a lot of friends going to school here.

McCormick, a physical education major, said he might want to coach for a few years, but he does not want to make it a career.

"My goal right now is to graduate, and after that I'm not sure what I want to do for a career," McCormick said.

McCormick said he also wants to have a real good season next year.

"During the summer, I won't do too much wrestling, but I will run and lift weights to stay in condition for next season," McCormick said.

Sluggers——from page 16

Pyznarski cracked a solo home run, and went up 2-0 in the fourth inning after two Wright State errors gave Eastern another run.

However, after Wright State pulled in front 3-2 in the fifth inning, catcher Jeff Yocum singled in Tom Detmer to knot the score at 3.

Then, freshman right fielder Kevin Seitzer belted a solo home run in the following inning to secure the win for the Panthers.

Panther pitching paves way to Classic sweep

by Steve Binder

PANAMA CITY, Fla.—Led by the pitching of Gerry Schlechte and Lenny Lundberg, Eastern's baseball squad swept its double-header Tuesday by crushing Tennessee Martin 9-3 and dropping Wright State 4-3 in the nightcap.

The double victory boosts the Panther's season record to 4-2.

In going the distance for Eastern against Tennessee Martin, Schlechte gave up just five hits while striking out four batsmen and walking three.

Panther skipper Tom McDevitt said Schlechte did a fine job of pitching while recording his first victory of the season.

Again, while the Panther's pitching subdued their opponent's bats, offensively Eastern continued to execute.

In their first six ballgames, the Panther bats have slugged out an impressive 44 runs.

Against Tennessee Martin, Eastern tallied seven runs after just two innings of play and leading the way for the Panthers was All-American third base slugger Tim Pyznarski.

The junior two-time letterman collected three hits in three trips to the plate, including a two-run home run in the sixth inning which McDevitt said sailed about 400 feet over the right center field wall.

"All the professional scouts down here just love Pyznarski," McDevitt said.

Eastern swatted 10 hits in the contest, including two by first baseman Gordie Smith, who also drove in three runs.

In the nightcap against Wright State, who the Panthers blanked 4-0 Monday, Lundberg earned the victory by pitching 6 and one-third innings. He gave up just five hits while striking out seven Wright State batters and walking just one.

"Lenny pitched a fine, fine game with good control and he just got tired late in the game," McDevitt said.

Freshman hurler's experience could help softball squad

by Nancy Saegesser

Kathy Richards brings one very successful year of experience to the Eastern women's softball team's pitching staff this season, but freshman Donna Ridgway may just have the edge on experience.

"I was born with a ball in my hand," Ridgway said and it is easy to believe when you learn that her mother was recently inducted into the Illinois Amateur Softball Association Hall of Fame.

"She didn't teach me to pitch, but she caught me," Ridgway said, adding "You can't teach anybody how to pitch."

Growing up around her mother's teams, Ridgway soon made the transition from batgirl to starting pitcher on teams of her own.

Summer ASA leagues gave her experience against college-level players. So she said she is not very worried about her adaptation to the college game.

"It (ASA) is really the same game as in college," she said.

Richards, the staff "veteran", was an All-State and All-Regional hurler last season and she said she is expecting to give opposing hitters even more problems this year with a newly-perfected knuckle-change pitch.

"I'm not going to be afraid to use it in a game," she said. "You just have to say 'I'm better than the batter.'"

Freshman Connie Stout, who played her ASA ball for Memphis, said she is expecting to spend her mound time mostly in relief of Ridgway and Richards.

But, she is quick to point out, that role is fine with her. "I'm used to it from my summer team," she said, adding, "I'm happy just to be on the team here and to get a chance to play anywhere is fine."

Although Eastern coach Carl Sexton said his squad turned in a respectable performance, Eastern's mens tennis team dropped its match 7-2 with the Braves from Bradley University Tuesday at the Weller Courts.

"We had a real good match with respectable scores," Sexton said. "I thought we played well and had a very competitive match."

The only two Panther victories over the Braves came courtesy of EJ Karsten and Tim Buwick.

No. 5 Karsten edged by his Brave opponent 6-4, 7-6 while Buwick, at No. 6, squeezed by his opponent 7-5, 6-3.

However, Eastern's first four singles swatters were not as successful.

At No. 1 singles, Jay Johnson lost to Jack Niemeer 6-4, 6-1, while at No. 2 Eastern's Dave Branding was knocked off by Mike Ooring 6-3, 6-2.

Rick Hayden, at No. 3 for the Panthers, was extended to three sets before succumbing 2-6, 6-4, 2-6.

"I had some good shots, but I didn't hit them throughout the match," Hayden said.

At No. 4, Rob Hopkins lost in straight sets 6-2, 6-2.

Jon Tuft, playing exhibition wiped out his Bradley opponent 6-2, 6-0.

In doubles action, the Panthers could not break through the Bradley squad, losing all three matches.

At No. 1, Johnson and Karsten put up a tough fight before losing 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

"Everytime you turned around, all four players were up at the net playing out fantastic points," Sexton said.

Branding and Hayden at No. 2, were defeated 6-3, 6-2.

At No. 3, Hopkins and Buwick lost 4-6, 6-3, 7-6 after having two match points.
