Residents remove alarm; receive bill, hall probation

by Carl Pugliese

Following repeated false fire alarms in Stevenson Tower, residents of a four-man suite in the hall disconnected the wires of their suite's "fire horn."

Stevenson Hall Counselor Kaylin Payne said fire horns are installed in all A, F, J and D Stevenson Tower suites in addition to the standard fire alarms in the building's hallways.

The students, whose names cannot be released for confidential reasons, were placed on residence hall probation and charged a total fee of $142 to cover repair expenses, Judicial Hearings Officer Keith Kohanzo said.

"The residents of a specific suite took the horn off the wall and disconnected it," he said.

He added that although residence hall probation is a serious penalty for the offense, he thought it was fair.

At the time of the offense, Kohanzo said, "the residents didn't think disconnecting the wires was serious, but doing so affected the safety of all the residents."

Housing Director Lou Hencken said the students acted similar to students who pull fire alarms in that "they don't realize the consequences."

Kohanzo said when the residents of the suite tampered with the fire horn, a malfunction "trouble light" in the system lit up at the main system board at the campus security office.

The system board, which has malfunction lights for all the fire alarms on campus, is there to prevent the system from failing, he said.

The horn may have been disconnected during an alarm which was activated during a trash chute fire last week in Stevenson, he said, because the workmen could not reset the alarm later.

Workmen cannot reset the alarm if there is a malfunction anywhere in the system. Kohanzo said the workmen had to search the entire circuit until they found the problem.

Hencken said it took two to three electricians to discover the malfunction in the system.

CHICAGO—In Saturday's final debate in a series of four, gubernatorial candidates Adlai Stevenson and James R. Thompson concentrated on their stands concerning Illinois' economy and unemployment problems.

The debate, sponsored by the Illinois League of Women Voters, allowed the candidates to question one another. The candidates answered each other's questions and were then allowed to either rebut or pose another question. Time also was provided for opening and closing statements.

Democratic candidate Stevenson, in his opening statement, said, "The people of Illinois are losing their jobs, their homes and businesses faster than any other state. People know they are worse off...they are suffering in our great rich state."

"We have a governor that is making promises but not keeping them. We need a governor that defends the people of Illinois not one that punishes them," Stevenson said.

Stevenson concluded a governor needs to tell the people what the economic situation really is, "not just what they want to hear."

Republican incumbent Thompson opened with guidelines for his "personal involvement" in state government if elected for a third term.

Thompson said "education for employment" for children at the elementary, secondary, community college and university levels will be one of his priorities if re-elected.

Thompson added he would like to see a renewed emphasis placed on math and science courses for employment education.

However, he pointed out he would not "dictate the curriculum of a public institution," but instead will work with institutions to provide direction for the curriculum.

In addition, Thompson said his priorities also include the economic development of Illinois by concentrating on high technology which may help create jobs.

He added he would like to solve Illinois' transportation problem and concentrate on conservation and the environment.

Winning the flip of the coin to begin the questioning, Thompson asked Stevenson how he would pay for his proposed economic recovery programs.

"My proposed programs could be paid through total reform of the Medicaid, welfare and other programs," Stevenson said. "Illinois is one of the most corporately wasteful states."

Stevenson cited an example, stating that if the Medicaid system was reformed the state could save 15 percent of what is currently spent on the program.

These programs would be feasible "if the system was properly managed," Stevenson said.

Thompson, however, said Stevenson's proposed program would cost Illinois $260 million if put into effect.

Stevenson questioned Thompson about why he does not take responsibility for having twice as many Illinoisans out of work than before he took office.

Thompson countered by saying he has tried to keep businesses in Illinois and by doing this has increased employment.

However, Stevenson said currently over 700,000 Illinois citizens are unemployed.

Thompson said that recently federal money has created 68,000 new jobs in Illinois. Stevenson interjected, "I wrote that bill (which created Illinois jobs) and steered it through Congress."

Stevenson said, "A governor keeps jobs—he does not lay people off."

"It was a hard decision for me to make to lay off 300,000 state workers," Thompson said. "I understand the pain of layoff."

Thompson added the reason he did this was to "tighten the state's budget."

He added he has kept Illinois jobs by assisting corporations such as Chrysler.

Stevenson said if his proposed transportation plan was put into effect 84,000 new jobs could be created.

Stevenson questioned Thompson on why it took him so long to get a transportation plan for Illinois.

Thompson replied "because members of your party would not pass it (Thompson's transportation plan)."

Thompson said Illinois receives more federal dollars for roads than other state.

Stevenson said, "If the road fund was cleaned up, an additional $75 million alone could go to the RTA."

Thompson said in his closing remarks, "In my six years as governor of this great state we have not been able to do everything we have wanted to accomplish, but the schools are open, transportation is running and were are attracting investors to Illinois."

Stevenson closed with, "As a U.S. senator I helped to bring more federal dollars to Illinois. He concluded the people of Illinois are ready for a "fair and new deal."

Heeeeeere's Doc! buy tickets now for Mom and Dad

Tickets for a performance by Doc Severinsen and his band next month during Parents' Weekend will go on sale Monday in the Union Ticket Office, Denise Turk, University Board adviser, said.

The show, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 13 in Lantz Gym, is being sponsored by the UB concert committee. Ticket prices are $8 each for students and the general public.

Turk said order forms were mailed earlier this month to the parents of all registered students to give them the first chance to purchase tickets.

As of last week, 2,500 tickets were still available, although order forms from parents were still being received, she added.

Diabetic mother kills kids, self

GENEVA, Ill., — A 46-year-old mother suffering diabetes persuaded her three children to sit with her in the family station wagon until exhaust fumes filled the garage and all four died, a coroner's jury has ruled.

A panel on Friday also ruled that the children were not drugged, as authorities first thought.

The Sept. 7 death of Norma Moran, who faced further surgery after undergoing a leg amputation, was suicide, the Kane County panel ruled.

Student killed while playing joke

EVANSTON, Ill. — A Michigan college student who was in the city to see a football game was struck and killed by two cars early Sunday after he started doing push-ups in the middle of the street as a joke, police said.

Jeffrey Delisle, 22, of Warren, Mich., had been in the northern Chicago suburb for Saturday's game between Northwestern University and the University of Michigan.

Marijuana disappears from jail

FLORIDA CITY, — Two weeks ago, 1,280 pounds of marijuana disappeared from a jail cell. Now, some residents are donning T-shirts celebrating the incredible vanishing act.

Labeled "Florida City Gold," the shirts sport a cartoon showing a pot-smoking rodent hauling a bale of marijuana from the city jail.

Cops strip-search Walesa's wife

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Security forces stripped Lech Walesa's wife naked and tried to undress his two screaming daughters in an attempt to find evidence that would place the detained labor chief under formal arrest, the wife said.

Danuta Walesa, visibly upset after her return home to Gdansk, said the strip-search by female agents took place Friday in a police station in southeastern Przemysl, near the resort where she visited her interned husband for five days. Walesa, leader of the now outlawed Solidarity labor federation, has been in detention without charge since martial law was decreed Dec. 13.

Mrs. Walesa told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview in her Gdansk home Saturday that she protested at the time of the strip-search and planned to file a protest with the Communist government's martial-law authorities.

There was no immediate comment from Polish officials on Mrs. Walesa's claims.

She said her daughters Magda, 4, and Anna, 2, screamed and cried when the agents tried to strip them in a room next to the office where she was forced to take all her clothes off.

"It was the most horrible thing. It's impossible to put into words," she said when asked what went through her mind when she was forced to submit to the strip-search and heard her daughters screaming. She said Magda and Anna finally were frisked with their clothes on after the agents gave up trying to undress them.

Reagan's policy faces judgment

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Candidates running for governor for New York and senator from Missouri argued Sunday about the merits of President Reagan's economic policies but unanimously criticized his blueprint for a huge buildup in Pentagon spending.

Republican and Democratic alike, they agreed that Reagan's plan including an 18 percent budget increase for the military in fiscal 1983—called for too much spending, but they differed about how much and where it should be trimmed.

The candidates, appearing on the ABC-TV program, "This Week with David Brinkley," included Republican Lewis Lehrman said Democratic Lt. Gov. Mario Cuomo, rivals in the race for governor of New York, and Republican Sen. John Danforth and Democratic state Sen. Harriett Woods, running for the Senate from Missouri.

Both races are considered very close, with the election only a week away.

Local psychologist hired for affirmative action post

by Stacy Wells

Eastern's new affirmative action director, Judith Anderson, said she will make an attempt to serve women and minorities beyond the role required by the university.

Anderson, who replaced former director Jane Ziegler who resigned last spring, began her half-time position as director at Eastern on Monday.

"I took the job because it looks challenging and it will give me the opportunity to develop some programs and use my administrative skills," Anderson said.

"Because of my background as a registered psychologist, I believe the human relations experience I have will be put to good use here."

Anderson, who currently is phasing out of her position as a therapist for the Cumberland County Mental Health and Family Counseling Center in Toledo, Ill., said she will continue her private practice as a registered psychologist in Charleston.

Although Anderson has not set definite goals as director, she said she hopes to make a creative attempt to assist women and minorities beyond compliance of university regulations.

The affirmative action director is expected to ensure that Eastern does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex or religion, especially in employment.

"My job is to help inform and assist with any problems of discrimination and establish processes for both formal and informal grievances," Anderson said.

Anderson said her duties would include coordinating an affirmative action program which complies with regulations on recruitment, promotions and compensation.

She said Eastern has a well-established program for recruiting minorities and that it is the responsibility of the different departments to recruit minorities themselves.

Anderson has a doctorate in guidance and psychological services from Indiana State University. She also administrated a statewide demonstration project which addressed employment barriers for minority populations.

Speakers scheduled to discuss on-, off-campus student services

by Fred Zwicky

The Student Senate Housing Committee is sponsoring a housing forum at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union Ballroom to inform students of on- and off-campus services available for them.

Student Housing Committee Chairman Glenn Good said, "The main idea behind the forum is to make students more aware of services available to them so that when they do have some problems they will know who to turn to for aid."

Charleston police officers Hank Pauls and Rob Conforti will speak on the off-campus party policy and various ways to avoid problems while having parties, Good said.

Conforti said, "Presently, we issue one warning after the first complaint call to the party-goers and on the next we issue a ticket for a city criminal offense and take the people responsible for the party down to the station."

"We have to see the situation on both sides. On one hand, students want to have a good time, while on the other, neighbors object to beer cans on the lawn and other disturbances. Our job is to see that both sides are happy," Conforti said.

Also speaking at the forum will be Student Legal Service Director Steve Davis, who will talk on the functions of the Legal Service and ways students can use the services it offers.

Also scheduled to speak is Housing Director Lou Hencken. He will speak on what is being done with money made from video games installed in the residence halls and future increases in housing costs to students.

Others scheduled to speak at the forum include Residence Hall Association President Lynn Vokac and Ed McClain from Eli Sidwell Realty.

In addition, Bob Erio, chairman of the Off-Campus Student Housing Association, and Terry Teele, Student Body President, will speak on the functions and services of OSCHA.

CUPB to discuss budget requests

The status of Eastern's fiscal year 1984 budget requests will be discussed at Monday's meeting of the Council on University Planning and Budgeting.

Eastern's capital and operating budget requests for FY '84 currently are before the Illinois Board of Higher Education and must still go before the governor and state legislature for revisions, Vice President of Administration and Finance George Miller said Friday.

Eastern originally requested about $34.6 million in operating funds and $2.5 million in capital funds, Miller added. This figure is revised during each step of the hearing process a budget goes through, he said.

Eastern's capital budget is a request for funds for new buildings and programs, while the operating budget is a request for money to maintain the campus and pay bills such as utilities, Miller said.

The CUPB will meet at 1 p.m. Monday in the Union addition Casey Room.

State, national candidate endorsements

Members of The Daily Eastern News editorial board met for two nights last week to discuss and formulate endorsements for candidates in the five statewide and three legislative representative races in the upcoming election. Those endorsements follow.

The board endorsed candidates in the following races: governor/lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, comptroller, attorney general, U.S. representative, state senator and state representative.

After intense discussion of the pros and cons of each of the major candidates in each race, the board arrived at its decisions. In each endorsement, the decision represents the majority opinion of the 15-member board.

We based our decisions on each candidate's past public record and his stand on the major issues facing the state today.

We offer these endorsements as a guide to our readers for their consideration on election day. We also make these endorsements in an attempt to encourage our readers to make their own informed decisions at the polls.

Endorsements

We realize that everyone will not agree with the opinions we have stated today. For this reason, we encourage reader response to our endorsements for publication in the "Your Turn" column of our editorial page.

We will open Page Four to reader opinion as much as possible this week. Friday has been set as our cut-off date for endorsement letters. Therefore, we urge all readers to respond quickly.

We encourage thoughtful consideration by our readers of each candidate's qualifications and of our endorsements, which we made based on knowledge we have acquired by following the campaign activities of each candidate. Consider our opinions and let us know if you disagree.

Thompson for governor of Illinois

The Daily Eastern News endorses incumbent Gov. James R. Thompson for a third term over Democratic challenger Adlai Stevenson.

By a one-vote margin, we chose to endorse Thompson because we favor the Republican platform's theories about reviving Illinois' economy over the Democratic platform Stevenson represents.

Put simply, Republican theory calls for strengthening business through the private sector to improve the economy and for decreasing governmental costs—at the expense of some social programs. The Democratic platform would call for an increase of taxes to support and expand existing social programs and for governmental intervention to improve the economy.

Since his election, Thompson has increased funding for education, although his recently announced five-part education plan appears to have been formulated hastily in an attempt to win votes.

However, Thompson has done a reasonably good job of getting our financially-troubled state back in shape. He has worked to balance Illinois' budget and we favor his idea of taxing luxuries, such as cigarettes and liquor, to raise revenue for the state.

Also, the governor has maintained the state's AAA bond rating which will help attract more industry to the state.

During his term in office, Thompson has resisted raising taxes. Instead, he has approved a bill to reduce the state sales tax on food and medicine from 5 percent to 3 percent, which is especially beneficial to those on the lower end of the economic scale.

Stevenson's political experience includes a one-year stint as a representative in the Illinois House, three years as Illinois treasurer and 10 years as a U.S. senator.

Stevenson, who has formulated a detailed plan for bailing out the state's economy, does not appear to offer the leadership needed to push that plan through the General Assembly.

Thompson's running mate is George Ryan, candidate for lieutenant governor. Ryan was elected Speaker of the House in 1981 and has served in the General Assembly since 1971.

Stevenson's running mate, Grace Mary Stern, is currently Lake County clerk, a position she has held since 1970. She has also been active in Democratic politics.

Thompson, strong in political experience and leadership ability in office, should be re-elected to a third term as governor of the state of Illinois.

Re-elect Jim Edgar secretary of state

Incumbent Republican Jim Edgar is the best candidate for Secretary of State.

Edgar, who was appointed to office by Gov. James Thompson in 1980, has achieved admirable results in his war against drunk driving and has outlined a plan for future improvement of the Illinois driving program.

Although Edgar's Democratic opponent, Jerry Cosentino, is well qualified to be state treasurer, a position he held for the past term, we believe he does not possess the background necessary for the office of secretary of state.

At a recent press conference, Edgar and Cosentino were in agreement on most of the issues discussed. The ideological similarities of the candidates led us to our decision to endorse Edgar, the more experienced candidate. We believe Edgar, who has accomplished much in his short term in office, will do the best job for the citizens of our state.

Edgar said he plans to continue his fight against drunk drivers by pressuring states which have lower drinking ages than Illinois to raise their legal drinking age to 21.

Like Edgar, we advocate a uniform federal drinking age to put an end to the many problems which develop when underage citizens cross state lines in order to drink legally.

Although we advocate a uniform drinking age for the nation, we could not reach a consensus as to what that age should be. Edgar supports a 21-year-old drinking age.

Edgar also has specific plans to economize in the secretary of state's office, while Cosentino said only that he would work to eliminate wasteful spending.

Edgar said he would like to extend the life of licenses and license plates. Edgar said extending a driver's license's life from three to four years would save paperwork and may lead to personnel reductions.

Expanding auto and truck license plate life would save an estimated $6.7 million, Edgar said. Extending the life of licenses would not only save money for Illinois taxpayers but would also mean less trips to the Secretary of State's office.

Republican Jim Edgar should be elected for a second term because he is familiar with the Secretary of State's office and has reasonable, specific plans for improving the Illinois driving program.

Roland Burris for Illinois comptroller

The editorial board unanimously supports Democrat Roland Burris in his bid for re-election to the position of Illinois comptroller.

We believe that Burris' record in office merits our support, unlike his opponent, Republican Calvin Skinner, whom we believe has run his campaign largely on allegations against Burris, rather than on the strength of his own qualifications.

Burris has served the state well for four years, instituting measures that have speeded up the payment of state checks and creating a circuit-breaker tax system that reduced the tax burden on the state's senior citizens.

In addition, Burris began the practice of publishing a monthly balance sheet to disperse state financial information to the people.

The comptroller's duties, which include collecting, investing and disbursing state funds, is an extremely important position and requires experience in banking and finance.

Burris, who served as bank examiner for the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency in Chicago and later held a vice president's post with Continental Illinois bank, possesses the necessary experience for the state comptroller's position.

However, Skinner's financial experience is limited to a term as McHenry County treasurer and a stint as budget examiner for the U.S. Budget Bureau. He joined the Republican ticket only at the request of Gov. James Thompson. Thompson's invitation to Skinner was prompted by a vacant slot on his party's slate after no other candidate filed for the position.

Therefore, we endorse incumbent Burris for re-election as comptroller of Illinois.

John Dailey for state treasurer

For Illinois treasurer, we endorse Republican John Dailey over Democratic opponent James Donnewald because of the plans he has outlined to improve the office.

Dailey's background will serve him well in the treasurer's office. He has experience in business as an executive vice president of a construction firm, in the field of finance as managing vice chairman of a bank and has had experience as an attorney.

Donnewald cannot offer the diversified background Dailey does, having had no experience in the field of finance. Donnewald is an attorney and a member of the Illinois General Assembly.

Although Dailey's former position as senior assistant to Gov. Richard Ogilvie is his only experience in state government he has definite ideas on the changes he wants to make in the treasurer's office.

Dailey has said he will support a constitutional amendment to place a ceiling on taxes. We believe seeking tax relief by this method is more economically prudent than the tax-freeze method.

A tax freeze would only temporarily ease the tax burden. Tax freezes create artificial rates which do not reflect current economic trends. When the freeze is lifted, tax rates skyrocket to catch up with other economic factors. On the other hand, a tax ceiling would allow for gradual tax increases up to a certain point—avoiding the economic backlash of a freeze.

Donnewald has said he cannot specify any changes he would institute "until I am elected and am in the office." Although the state treasurer's office is not as visible as some, it is an important position that deserves more prior consideration than Donnewald seems to have given it.

Dailey has announced his intention to express views independent of the governor's. He has said he would like to see a return to "issue politics," stating that the office of treasurer should not be merely a patronage position.

Donnewald has said his main goal in the office will be to create jobs in the private sector. While embarking on such a crusade is admirable, it is not something the state treasurer should list as his top objective.

Dailey, on the other hand, states that his first duty as state treasurer would be to "protect and safeguard the state's money"—and this is what a treasurer should be most concerned with.

Harry Woodyard for representative

Republican Harry "Babe" Woodyard of Chrisman seems to be the best choice in the race against Democrat David Lee Weir of Mattoon for the 106th district seat in the House of the Illinois General Assembly.

Although both candidates are vague and broad in their campaign promises and their stands on the issues, Woodyard is the better candidate because of his experience and his reasons for seeking the office.

Granted, Woodyard's stands on the issues are unclear, particularly where unemployment is concerned. Woodyard has been quoted as saying his approach to unemployment is simply to continue state involvement through existing programs.

However, because Woodyard is the incumbent he has more experience. Also, he has said one reason he is seeking re-election is to give farmers a voice in the legislature—a reason that is important in a primarily rural district.

Weir's reasons for running, on the other hand, seem somewhat questionable. Originally, he ran in the Democratic primary for the nomination to Congress but lost to John Gwinn.

Weir said he then decided to run against the unopposed Woodyard because he felt he owed it to the 28 percent of the voters who supported him for Congress.

Although both candidates have avoided addressing the issues and their solutions to specific problems, Woodyard is the better of the two because of his experience and reasons for seeking re-election.

Tyrone Fahner for attorney general

Our endorsement of Republican incumbent Tyrone Fahner for the office of attorney general is based on his concentrated law background.

Democratic challenger Neil Hartigan has limited law enforcement experience while Fahner has concentrated his political efforts on the law for the past 10 years.

Also, Fahner boasts the talent of being able to work effectively with Federal as well as state officials, as is evidenced by his handling of the recent cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol case in Chicago.

Ten years ago Fahner was one of a team of assistant U.S. attorneys who developed a reputation of being hard-nosed prosecutors, fighting official corruption.

Fahner was a member of a private law firm until then-U.S. Attorney James Thompson appointed him to head the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement in 1977.

He returned to his private practice in 1979 and was appointed to fill the attorney general position vacated by William J. Scott in 1980.

Since his appointment, Fahner has started a rural law enforcement assistance program and worked with county sheriffs to improve local law enforcement.

If elected, Fahner said he plans to crack down on student loan violators and defaulters. He also believes Illinois Commerce Commission members should be elected so they will be more accountable to the public.

Conversely, Hartigan believes ICC members should remain appointed.

He has been out of politics officially since 1976 while he worked his way up to the senior vice president position at the First National Bank of Chicago, a position he relinquished to run for the attorney general's office.

Fahner has worked to make the attorney general's office more accessible and helpful to the public. He has made more than half of the 200 full-time lawyers in employment at the office available for public use.

Hartigan, on the other hand, wants to set up regional offices to serve the public—a plan that would take valuable time and money that could be used for other needed programs.

Because he possesses a solid law enforcement background and has been actively involved in the law recently, Fahner should be elected for the position of Illinois attorney general this November.

John Gwinn for U.S. representative

Because we agree with his stands on revitalizing agriculture, aiding higher education and balancing the budget, we endorse Democrat John Gwinn for U.S. representative of the 19th district.

With an economy that is in poor shape, Illinois must look for answers to problems affecting each segment of the economy. And, because agriculture makes up a large part of the state's finances, we believe a candidate who will represent farmer's interests needs to be elected.

Gwinn, an attorney from Champaign, has expressed interest in serving on the House Agriculture Committee if elected. Because he is from a farm family and takes time to visit farm communities and talk with farmers, we feel he has a first-hand view of the problems agriculture is facing.

Gwinn's campaign focuses on farm programs that would raise commodity prices by lowering farm surpluses. He has been endorsed by agriculture leaders, including six Farm Bureau presidents.

We believe Gwinn's opponent, Republican Daniel Crane of Danville has been too unsympathetic to the needs of the farmers in his district and in Illinois. Crane did not speak up for farmers during the 1981

Farm Bill debate; we believe that Gwinn will be more supportive in future discussions.

Even though Crane has served two terms in Congress, we believe he has been too conservative and unwilling to compromise. He has been concerned with overspending, but through this has voted down important environmental and social issues.

Crane has opposed bills that would have extended youth employment programs, restored monthly minimum Social Security benefits and provided business loans and additional educational benefits to Vietnam veterans—all in the name of cutting government spending. Crane also advocates an uncontrollable nuclear arms race and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

Gwinn is also concerned with keeping spending down, but does not favor a constitutional amendment for a balanced budget. He is more concerned with environmental and social issues; favoring a nuclear arms freeze, continuation of the clean air act and student loan programs.

Because he has demonstrated a clear interest in reviving the Illinois economy through his proposals, we endorse John Gwinn for Congress.

Incumbent Coffey for state senator

In the race for Illinois state senator for the 53rd district we support Republican incumbent Max Coffey for re-election this November.

In 1976 Coffey was elected to the 79th General Assembly in the Illinois House of Representatives, a position he was re-elected to in 1978.

Coffey's opponent, Democrat Jerry Nikitas of Charleston, has no practical political experience, his only background being that of a businessman.

Coffey played a fundamental role in obtaining an AAA bond rating for Illinois. An AAA bond rating makes Illinois more attractive to out-of-state industry, industry Illinois desperately needs to provide jobs to its unemployed.

He has helped to form legislation concerning drunk driving, child abuse and inheritance tax relief.

Coffey is minority spokesman for the Transportation Committee and serves on the Motor Vehicle Law Committee in the House.

He has said one of his main goals if re-elected will be to work on lowering property taxes for Illinois citizens.

Coffey believes that through grants, already-existing jobs will be sustained and new jobs will be created. He believes grants have helped save and create jobs at General Electric, Superior Manufacturing Co. and R.R. Donnelley and Sons in Mattoon.

Nikitas favors abolishment of sales, property and excise taxes. This would leave only income tax to support the state and the tax burden would fall heavily on the middle class.

In addition, much of higher education's funding is provided by property and excise taxes. If these taxes were to be abolished, higher education funding would suffer tremendously.

We are supporting Coffey because we believe that Nikitas cannot compare with Coffey's background and experience.

With his experience and past working record speaking for itself, Max Coffey is the right choice for state senator.

Student design competition set

by Andrea Nykiel

Students interested in "leaving their mark" on Eastern as well as earning $250 may enter the Lantz mural design competition.

Dorothy Hart, assistant to the dean of the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, said interested students may design a mural as part of an effort to beautify the Lantz Building.

The mural should "project the essence of movement" because there is a close connection between the flow of art and the flow of movement, Hart said. The mural should illustrate this connection.

A winner is not guaranteed, she added. If none of the entries meet the criteria, there will be no winner.

If a winner is selected, his 28-by-8-inch mural will be located at the south entrance of the lobby by the Lantz pool, Hart said. In addition, the winner will receive $250.

The entries will be judged by an art committee, Hart said, and the selected design will be transferred to the wall in April.

Students may use any form of art for their design, but it should be drawn so the mural will not lose its effectiveness when enlarged.

Additional information concerning contest rules can be obtained from Terry Roller in Fine Arts Building Room 307, Hart said.

All entries must be turned in to the art office, Fine Arts Building Room 216, no later than Dec. 10.

Cartoonists honored with NCCPA awards

Senior Phil Conrad and sophomore Marvin Breig, two cartoonists for The Daily Eastern News, were named winners in the 1982 National Council Collegiate Press Association's cartoon contest.

Conrad received a third place award for his comic strip, "Drive," which appeared three times a week in the News last semester, and Breig received an honorable mention for his daily comic strip, "From The Wizards Closet."

Conrad now draws the comic strip, "The Pond," which appears in the paper three times a week.

Student publications adviser David Reed said the awards are a "wonderful accomplishment." The two cartoonists should be proud of their awards because there were a large number of entries nationwide, he added.

Conrad is a geology major and Breig is a physics major.

Tickets for Gregory lecture now on sale

Tickets are now on sale for a lecture Tuesday by Dick Gregory, a professional comedian and human rights activist.

The lecture is being co-sponsored by the University Board human potential and lecture committees, UB Chairman Steven Jones said.

Gregory is a recording artist, author, lecturer, actor, human rights activist, social satirist, critic, philosopher and political analyst. He speaks at more than 200 colleges yearly.

The show is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Grand Ballroom. Tickets will be available in advance at the Union Ticket Office or at the door for $1 for Eastern students and $2 for the general public.

Although the Panthers lost their first bid for a 30th victory, Eastern performed admirably against a much taller Redskin squad.

"We played well against them," Eastern coach Carol Gruber said. "We did not start slowly, which was a good thing, because they would have run away from us."

Both games were very close, with Miami pulling out to a two or three-point advantage and then the Panthers rallying. But Gruber said her squad could not run off a string of five or six pull ahead.

"The teams were really fairly even," Gruber said. "But they were a very cocky team. If we played them again, our team would be mad enough to be out for blood."

"Their coach seemed like a very nice person, which is really interesting because most teams reflect their coaches in some shape or form," Gruber said.

The match with Kent State turned out to be similar to the Miami contest except this time the Lady Panthers were on top, Gruber said.

After Eastern's spikers gained a slight advantage, Kent State would rally to tie, but the Lady Flashes could not take the lead.

The Panthers dropped a 5-15 decision in the opening game with Western, partly due to four errors by Eastern servers.

In addition, Gruber said a lack of confidence in substitute players contributed to her squad's first-game defeat.

But Eastern rallied, notching 15-7 and 15-9 triumphs to secure the victory.

"I think Western was thinking about the first two times we beat them and they wanted to come out like gangbusters," Gruber said. "I think it's possible that we didn't realize how hard we'd have to play to beat them again."

Saturday's matches gave the Panthers a 31-9 mark entering Wednesday's contest with Bradley. The two squads have split two meetings this season, with the Lady Braves downing Eastern to open the season and the Panthers avenging that defeat with a five-game victory in Peoria.

Wright, Panthers catch Western off guard

by Paul Black

Daily Eastern News correspondent

MACOMB—Eastern's football team has added a new dimension to its passing game and Saturday the Panthers made a move in the Wright direction—Panther split end Jerry Wright, that is.

Wright caught four passes for 87 yards and two touchdowns as the Panthers unleashed a second-quarter aerial assault en route to a 31-7 pasting of Western Illinois Saturday.

The 5-foot-10 split end from Chicago took over for starter Roger Holoman when Holoman was moved to flanker three weeks ago. Wright's performance proved instrumental in Eastern's 184-yard passing attack against the Leathernecks.

"I'm more relaxed than in the last two games," Wright said. "Last week, I was real tense and I found that when pressure plagues you, your performance isn't as good."

Meanwhile, junior running back Kevin Staple added a pair of touchdowns on runs of 25 and nine yards en route to a 100-yard rushing performance. The Panthers ended the contest with 189 yards on the ground.

Eastern's stingy rush defense, ranked ninth in the NCAA's I-AA rankings, crushed Western's ground game, limiting the Leathernecks to a mere 42 yards. Saturday's performance will improve on the Panthers' 92.8 yard allowance.

Depth played an important role in the romp, as the Panthers were without running back Wes Nixon, who is out with a knee injury, and All-American offensive guard Bob Norris, who has pneumonia.

Darryon White started in the backfield, finishing with 51 yards in 11 rushes, while offensive line-reserve Steve Martin was credited with an excellent line performance by the Panther coaching staff.

"One of the greatest things about this team is that we are two-deep in practically every position and it's proven to be a plus so far," Eastern assistant coach Chuck Dickerson said. "When we have an injury, there's someone to step in and take over."

Wright's presence was felt early as quarterback Jeff Christensen fired a 40-yard completion to set up the first Panther touchdown. Two plays later, Staple sidestepped three tacklers and rambled 25 yards for the touchdown.

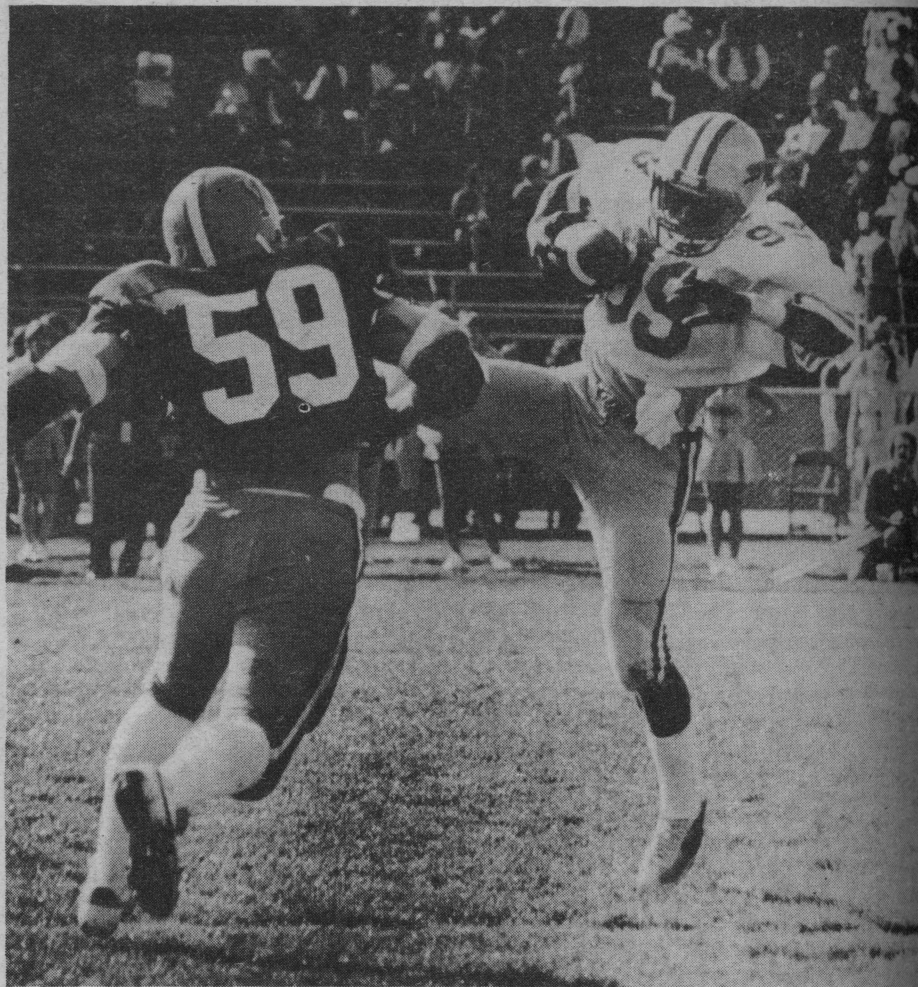

Sophomore place kicker Dave Strauch added the extra point and Eastern was on top 7-0 with 7:40 left in the first quarter.

Eastern had a chance to extend that lead when Randy McCue blocked and recovered a Western punt on the Leatherneck's nine-yard line. However, that drive stalled on fourth down and one yard to go when Staple was nailed for a five-yard loss.

Western took the initiative and in five plays, covered 93 yards to knot the contest with a 36-yard touchdown pass from Brad Blakely to running back Danny Jenkins.

Western's Dan Knuese's kick tied the game with 3:40 remaining in the first. But from that point, Eastern dominated.

Christensen found Wright across the middle with 4:58 left in the half for the go-ahead touchdown. The 15-yard peg culminated an eight-play, 61-yard drive including a crucial third and 15-yard completion to Wright.

The Panther defense got into the act as cornerback Charlie Persons intercepted Blakely's pass and returned the ball to the Eastern 33-yard line.

Christensen connected with Wright on two occasions for 19 and 18 yards before the drive stalled at the Western 37-yard line.

Eastern's Tyrone Covington intercepted a pass in the third quarter to set up Eastern's next score. Six plays later, Strauch booted a 25-yard field goal for a 17-7 advantage with 7:34 left in the quarter.

The Panthers' defense continued to frustrate Western as Reggie Taylor's sack of punter Ray Ferrier set up a first-and-goal situation at the Necks' nine. Eastern capitalized quickly as Staple scampered for his second touchdown on a draw play with 5:09 remaining.

Wright rounded out Eastern's scoring on a 13-yard reception with 4:22 left in the game.

The contest also saw Christensen with 184 yards passing bring his total offensive career yardage to 5,224, surpassing Poke Cobb's mark of 5,161 (1977-79).

Booters flat in 1-0 shutout over Indians

by Jim Woodcock

Looking to keep their post-season bid hopes alive, Eastern's soccer Panthers played well enough to edge Southeast Missouri 1-0 Sunday at Lakeside Field.

"We played a little flat today," Eastern head coach Schellas Hyndman said. "The unfortunate thing is that we ran against the same problem we have had for years at Eastern, and that's the fact that we play only as well as our competition."

Eastern All-American midfielder Agyeaman Prempeh took the scoring honors in the match, which was marred by the repeated foul tactics employed by the SEMO squad.

The triumph lifted the Panthers' 1982 record to 8-2-5. They have four matches remaining in which to do something positive for the NCAA pollsters, Hyndman said.

The Indians, now 3-7 this season, were a step behind the Panthers all afternoon. As a result, they committed 23 infractions to only eight for the Panthers, while being on the short end of the corner-kick ledger by an 8-3 margin.

"The officials could have called it a little tighter," Hyndman said. "It is kind of sad that they had all those fouls and I'm just pleased nobody got ejected or hurt."

Although the Panthers controlled the action in the SEMO zone, the first half was uneventful. The only scoring opportunities for either team was a flurry of three Eastern corner kicks in the final seconds of the half.

However, Prempeh went to work in the second half with the help of defender Randy DeRousse, who sent a pass through a maze of Indians to Prempeh.

Prempeh hit a low shot to the right of SEMO keeper Greg Powderly and hit the bottom corner to give the Panthers their 1-0 winning margin.

"I feel good when Agyeaman has the ball in the box area," Hyndman said. "If he doesn't get off a real good shot he lays off a nice pass to Damien (Kelly) or someone in the middle."

Soon after Prempeh's goal, the Indians committed 15 of their 23 fouls. The SEMO squad played much of the remainder of the match sliding around, usually dumping the Panthers to the ground.

"The fouls were a little one-sided out there," said Hyndman, "but they still played solid in the back. They never gave up. If we could have perhaps scored one more goal we may have put them away and really opened up the scoring."

But the Panthers could not find the formula to that second goal, even though they outshot the Indians by an 8-2 margin.

"There were seven scoring opportunities that we just blew," Hyndman complained. "We are losing our composure and giving up the chance to score an awful lot of goals."

"It's something we've talked about before, and we are going to have to do something big to open up some eyes is we are going to post-season," he continued. "Whenever we play a team like this we always do just well enough to get by."

Spikers place second in tournament

by Susan McCann

OXFORD, OHIO—Eastern's spikers dropped a hard-fought contest with Miami University Saturday, but the Lady Panthers roared back to notch their 30th and 31st wins of the season.

After the opening loss to Miami, the Lady Panthers rallied for a three-game victory over Western Illinois—Eastern's third win over the Westerwinds this season. The spikers then wound up tournament play with a 15-11, 15-10 triumph over Kent State.

The Miami University Tournament host topped Eastern by 11-15 and 9-15 scores to open play and went on to sweep through matches with Western Illinois and Kent State, taking the tournament
