CAA petition sent to Rives; fate unknown

by Julie Cambria

The petition to reduce the number of student members on the Council on Academic Affairs from three to two has reached President Rives' office with about 350 faculty signatures.

Rives would not comment on the petition, but did say, "I will be doing something with it, but I want to study the issue more before I make any comment."

The petition first went to Vice President for Academic Affairs Edgar Schick, who met last week with five circulators of the petition to discuss it.

Pat Wright, former CAA chairman and one of the circulators of the petition, said he was pleased the meeting.

"We tried to explain our reasons for the petition to Vice President Schick and we were listened to seriously," Wright said.

"Schick didn't take a stand on the issue because he is new to the university," Wright added. "But he will report his findings to President Rives."

Schick could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

However, several student government officials said they did not believe that any action would be taken concerning the petition.

Angelyn Richardson, student government executive vice president, said she got the impression the petition had died from CAA student members.

"I heard it was dead," Richardson said. "That's the idea we got at the last senate meeting."

"But student government will definitely get involved if the issue is still alive," Richardson added.

CAA student member Leslie Garrigan said she doesn't think the petition will go anywhere, "but I hate to say that it's dead."

"We did advise Ron Wesel, who wanted to start some action on the petition, to wait and see what happens with it," Garrigan said.

"If it does come up, it's important that we take action on it," Garrigan added.

Student CAA member Glenn Good also said he believes student representation on the CAA will not be changed.

"I don't think the CAA body will be changed because the CAA is working sufficiently the way it is," he said.

The petition, written by former CAA faculty member Jane Lasky, calls for the removal of one of the three student members on the CAA and asks that student members be elected at large instead of appointed by the student body president and approved by the Student Senate.

In-hall escort service under study

by Julie Zook

Ford and McKinney residence halls may have discovered an alternative to the university escort service proposed by the Student Senate.

A permanent in-hall escort service is currently under consideration in an attempt to provide their residents with a safe way to walk around campus.

A senate committee has been researching an escort service which would train students to escort other students home late at night.

Pam Gruszka, Ford counselor, said the residence hall implemented a temporary escort service last spring after an Eastern student was raped in Pemberton Hall.

Gruszka said the volunteer escorts last year were more like "friends escorting friends" than a formalized service. She noted the service was "not used a lot."

McKinney counselor Beth Tankersley said her hall's service was approved through housing supervisors, and because escorts lived in the same hall as the students they served, the university could not be held liable for injuries.

Steve Davis, Eastern's legal adviser, recently questioned whether the university would be liable if injuries incurred through the senate's escort service.

Davis said he believes the university "probably" would not be liable for injuries caused through the service.

Consequently, all escorts were advised that they were volunteering "under their own risk," Tankersley said. The escorts, both male and female, mainly serve female residents.

One male is assigned to escort, but females must be pairs to serve as escorts, Tankersley said.

However, residents of Weller Hall—the other Triad hall in addition Ford and McKinney—are not using an escort service, and counselor Brian Jones said he "was not aware of any (Weller) residents who use" the service available in Ford or McKinney halls.

Both Ford and McKinney halls have set up student awareness committees to look into the service. If the service is deemed feasible by the committee, it will be proposed as a permanent system.

Two candidates debate

Financial VP candidates compare goals

by Kevin McDermott

The two candidates for the office of financial vice president compared experience and goals at a political forum Tuesday.

Junior Tammy Walker, acting financial vice president, and senior Grant Sterling are vying for the seat left vacant by the resignation of John Cole July 30. A special election for the office will be held Oct. 1.

Sterling, a philosophy major from Charleston, admitted that he has no experience in student government at Eastern saying, "I certainly can't compete with her (Walker) on the basis of experience."

However, he said, "I think my ability to work well with people gives me the edge."

Sterling said he chose to run for office without any previous experience because he "thought it was in the best interest of the student body to see that this election was contested."

He also expressed a commitment to make sure university funds are spent more wisely and to get students involved with student government.

"We're living in a time when everyone thinks they can get student funds to pay for anything they want," Sterling said making references to the controversy surrounding the faculty coffee shop and last year's student government retreat. "This money can be used more wisely."

Although Walker agreed that student apathy is a major problem in student government, she focused more on the problems with the university's reserve account.

Walker said there is currently about $118,000, because of leftover money from student boards. "That is a big, big increase from last year," she said. "We're budgeting the money and they're not using it. I would like to see it (the reserve account) at about $50 or $60 thousand."

Walker also stressed her concern about the effectiveness of the Apportionment Board. Seven of the eight student members and one of the three faculty members on the board are new, she said.

Chernenko, Tass: U.S. assurances of arms control wish 'groundless'

Bank discusses rescue bailout

CHICAGO—Stockholders of Continental Illinois Corp. will have their chance Wednesday to question the new leadership of the bank holding company as they decide whether to approve a rescue giving the federal government 80 percent of what was once the mightiest financial institution in the midwest.

"There's little choice for the stockholders. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. has said it will declare the bank, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., insolvent if the rescue plan fail to gain stockholder approval.

Directors of the corporation, in a proxy statement announcing the special meeting, said the failure of the bank "would almost inevitably result in the insolvency of the corporation and the loss of stockholders' common stock investment."

Jordan, Egypt renew relations

AMMAN, Jordan—Jordan announced Tuesday that it was resuming diplomatic relations with Egypt after a break of more than five years.

Jordan, one of 17 Arab countries that severed relations to protest Caier's peace pact with Israel in 1979, became the first of the 17 to renew ties with Egypt.

A statement from the Jordanian Foreign ministry said the decision was made at a Cabinet meeting earlier in the day and stemmed from Egypt's "current role, and the support it gives to the Palestinian, Iraqi and Lebanese causes."

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency on Tuesday rejected President Reagan's assurances of a U.S. desire for arms cuts as "absolutely groundless," and the top Kremlin leader charged the White House has no real desire for better ties with Moscow.

"The president tried to present in a somewhat modified form the self-same policy aimed at further aggravating international tension, achieving military superiority and interfering in the international affairs of other states," the news agency Tass said.

The Tass report and a speech by Soviet President Konstantin Chernenko made clear the Soviets are not retreating on major East-West disputes, despite milder U.S. rhetoric and Reagan's scheduled meeting Friday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

In a speech to the jubilee meeting of the 50-year-old Writers Union, Chernenko renewed charges the Reagan administration is responsible for what the Kremlin calls the increased nuclear war threat.

Chernenko, in his first major speech since last spring, also charged that Washington is conducting psychological warfare against the Soviet Union. And he exhorted Soviet writers to join the "ideological struggle" and issued new warnings that those who "blacken" the image of the state won't be tolerated.

"The grim truth of the present international situation is such that the nuclear threat is, regrettably, great. One cannot hide from it nor turn it into a joke," Chernenko said in a possible reference to Reagan's much-publicized quip about the bombing of the Soviet Union.

'85 defense bill: billions to be cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate negotiators agreed Tuesday to a 1985 defense spending plan that trims billions from President Reagan's original budget and delays further production of the MX missile pending a chance for either chamber to scuttle the nuclear weapons in April.

After months of deadlock, conferees on the defense authorization bill resolved 1,200 differences between the House and Senate versions of the measure in a final, round-the-clock session that began early Monday.

Reagan originally had sought $313 billion. Under a leadership agreement that triggered the breakthrough, the appropriations bill, which accompanies the authorization bill, will call for $292.9 billion, or less, in actual spending for fiscal 1985.

That amounts to a 5 percent "real" or inflation-adjusted increase for the Pentagon.

Statistics compare universities' crime rates

Eastern crime rate lower...

Amy Zurawski
Eastern's rate of major crimes, when compared to several Illinois universities, is slightly below the calculated 1982 average crime rate.

Eastern had an average crime rate of one crime per every 49.5 students, which falls below the overall average rate of one crime per 31.3 students.

Crime statistics were compiled from overall enrollment figures and the number of reported crimes at several Illinois universities for 1982.

However, Eastern Campus Police Captain Jack Chambers said statistics do not always show the actual totals because of "certain variables that affect the total number of crimes reported."

In addition, the crime statistics, obtained from "Crime in Illinois-1982," published by the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, only account for major crimes including murder, voluntary manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault and battery, burglary, breaking and/or entering, theft, motor vehicle theft and arson.

However, Eastern Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said since 1983, Eastern's crime rate "has gone down slightly," with 231 crimes reported in 1981, 209 reported incidents in 1982 and an incomplete figure of 120 crimes reported in 1983.

He said Eastern's low crime rate "could be related to non-student population of Charleston." He added that the communities low crime rate helps in preventing a "mushrooming of crime onto campus."

Other Illinois universities' crime statistics were also compiled with data from 1982 because 1983 crime statistics have not been compiled yet.

According to the figures, Western had the worst average crime rate among the surveyed schools with one crime per 24.7 students.

However, Joe Sylvester, Western Illinois University public safety director, said the overall amount of crime at WIU "has recently been on a downward trend."

The lowest crime rate for major crimes was recorded at Southern Illinois University, which had an average crime rate of one crime per 68.59 students.

Paul Lane, administrative assistant at Southern Illinois University Campus Police, said SIU's crime rate has been "fairly constant year to year but the types of crimes that occur the most often changes every couple of years."

Lane did not cite any reasons for the

...but no thanks to alcohol

Amy Zurawski
A comparative study of several Illinois universities shows an increase in the number of reports of alcohol-related disturbances.

Eastern's Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said reports of alcohol related disturbances on campus have risen "a small amount" over the past year.

"This could be caused by the raising of the drinking age a few years ago, but I really can't speculate on any exact reasons," he said.

In addition, several other Illinois universities reported alcohol-related disturbances on their campuses have also risen in previous years.

Joe Sylvester, Western Illinois University public safety director said, "We (officials at Western) can pick out alcohol to be the cause of much evil on our campus."

He noted that a study done by the Western Michigan University Public Safety Office noted that at WMU, every person they arrested on their campus for disturbances had been drinking."

"We haven't done such a study on our campus but through my analysis, it seems that a lot of our problems stem from the abuse of alcohol," he said.

Don Knapp, Illinois State University investigator, said ISU has also experienced an increase in alcohol-related disturbances, with a total of 212 such cases reported for 1983.

However, Knapp said ISU recently added several new members to their police force and noted this could be a reason for the increase in disturbance reports.

"The officers are out looking for crime. That is their job," he said. "Crimes rates, such as disturbances, are always effected when you have more people looking for things out of the ordinary."

Paul Leifneit, captain of campus security at Northern Illinois University, said he is not pleased with the large increase of alcohol-related disturbances on NIU's campus.

"We have experienced about a two-thirds increase in alcohol reports in 1983. That is the largest increase in any one crime area last year," he added.

He said several situations could contribute to the increase in disturbance reports including a change in policy which no longer allows 19 year-olds to drink alcoholic beverages.

However, he could not cite this as the only cause and said it "could be one attribute."

Paul Lane, administrative assistant at Southern Illinois University Campus Police Office, said the number of reported alcohol-related disturbances, a total of 157 in 1983, had increased "a small amount."

"I don't know if there has been a big push to keep up with the town's alcohol ordinances," he said adding, "we act on the concern's of the town people and they don't like to see people under the age of 21 drinking."

Officer Tom Summers, public security officer at University of Illinois, could not be reached.

constant crime rate.

Don Knapp, Illinois State University investigator, said the overall number of reported crimes has been dropping since 1981.

ISU had an average crime rate of one crime per 32.69 students.

Paul Leifneit, campus security captain at Northern Illinois University which had an average crime rate of one crime per 56.55 students, said, "We have had an increase in our total crime rate of about 27 percent."

However, Leifneit said he could not pinpoint a reason for the increase, but added that a major reason could be because "more crimes being observed or a better method of observing."

The University of Illinois had an average crime rate of one crime per 29.9 students.

Officer Tom Summers, public security officer at University of Illinois, could not be reached.

Chambers added that one reason for Eastern's comparably low crime rate is that the student body "has a good attitude."

He said having a low crime rate is a progressive process. "If more students than not are law abiding," he said, it "is a form of prevention in itself."

Put democracy to work for you; register to vote

Illinois Comptroller Roland Burris once said more people watched the final episode of "M*A*S*H" than voted in the 1980 presidential election.

That might be an amusing piece of trivia to some, but we cannot overlook its serious implications regarding our priorities as citizens.

Editorial

Our right to vote is not a one-sided arrangement for the benefit of the individual alone—the survival of any democracy hinges on whether its citizens use that right.

All over the world, people are fighting and dying to secure various rights from their governments, which is a situation that we haven't experienced here in America for more than two centuries.

Yet in the U.S., where government can be changed with the cast of a ballot, not everyone is voting.

And the voter turnout among younger voters is particularly embarrassing. At Eastern, 4,500 students living in Precincts 15, 16 and 17, which include most of the residence halls, were eligible to vote in the 1980 election. But only 700 of those students actually voted. There can be no legitimate excuse for this result.

With 10 newly appointed registrars on campus, Eastern students can easily register to vote until Oct. 1 without an excuse. After Oct. 1, students also can register at the Coles County Courthouse from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. until Oct. 9.

If you think your vote can't make a difference, consider the Kennedy-Nixon election of 1960. Illinois handed Kennedy the presidency following one of the closest American elections. And only 8,000 votes—that's less than Eastern's enrollment—decided that Kennedy had won Illinois.

Or how about the most recent Illinois gubernatorial race? Gov. Jim Thompson beat Adlai Stevenson by less than one percent of the total vote.

As Americans, we can't passively sit back and expect democracy to continue working for us unless we help make it work. Don't ignore your greatest right and your most important responsibility. Turn off your television set, register, and vote.

Your turn

30 texts ridiculous

Editor:

I wish to respond to Hal Malehorn's Viewpoint published Sept. 20 under the heading "Teachers ignore student uniqueness."

First, it is clearly untrue that when 30 students are assigned the same textbook "...the same money could be spent for 30 different textbooks." Ask the staff at the textbook library or ask any commercial bookstore manager.

The increased cost might be justifiable on pedagogical grounds; but in my opinion, any instructor assigning 30 different textbooks either cannot tell the good ones from the bad ones or is indifferent to such distinctions. Let's use the Latin expression "reductio ad absurdum." One instructor, four classes, 120 students...120 textbooks?

Let me admit, more than one textbook per course is desirable in many areas. But will the instructor of 20th Century American Literature assign one student Hamlet and Spillane, the next l'Amour and Brand, a third Steinbeck and Faulkner, etc.?

Will classes meet, each student having 1 1/2 minutes to discuss his or her individual readings, or will the instructor just allot 20 minutes times 120 students equals 40 hours per week?

The instructor can then spend Saturday and Sunday frantically leafing through all those textbooks, hoping to be able to respond meaningfully to students the following week.

I suggest that our students need to begin with many more shared ideas and experiences rather than all this diversity.

Individual excellence is a wonderful goal, provided that it begins with an understandable framework to which others can relate, such as that students can talk to each other and perhaps even get excited by some common intellectual experience. At the undergraduate level, the university should provide such a framework.

Richard L. Crouse

Looking at students behind headlines

It's a weird feeling when you're on the other end of the ax as it falls on the unsuspecting readers of The Daily Eastern News.

In the newspaper business, one can get used to being on the telling or showing end of the news, whether the news is fit to print or, as this case may be, not fit to print. But after all, the constitution states: "The public has a right to know."

So often as a journalist, you lose a concept of what it is like to be on the receiving end of the news. To open the paper in the morning, half asleep, and BOOM, there is your name.

Seeing my name in the paper is a real eye-opening experience and not too pleasant, but none the less it woke me up.

If you haven't guessed by now, I'm referring to the page one article on the late Buddy Button System.

In the Sept. 20 article it states, "She said she showed ...News photographer Brian Ormiston one button..."—words that will live forever in my mind.

I might not have thought twice about seeing my name in a news article if I wasn't personally involved, but I was. I was on the receiving end, a taste of my own medicine in the very newspaper that I work for, written by my friends.

The worthless Buddy Button system was extensively covered by the Summer Eastern News staff as well as the current News staff. But it is news, and the students should know about it. It makes good news, but when an article runs three weeks after the fact, it's hardly a hot-breaking news story worthy of page one coverage.

If a few ex-student government hotshots get together, have a party until 3 a.m., invite lots of people, (not to mention a few News staff members), drink kegs of beer and then pass out a few stupid buttons, the students should know about it. Well, the students now know, but did they have to learn about it on page one?

The problem here is perspective. We're all students, here to get an education, learn about life and have a good time. The perspective of everyone being a student is often lost when it comes time to put out a newspaper, lost in the heat of a deadline.

Through the lens:

Brian Ormiston

Everyone in the newsroom wants to be a professional journalist. But everyone in the newsroom is a student—just like you. Because this paper is not a commercial paper, with real professionals banging out copy every day, we shouldn't treat our subject matter as if they were in the "real world." They, after all, are students also.

But, as humans, we all screw up. I'll be the first to admit it—I screw up as much as anyone. We, those students at that party, should not have brought the buttons out of the closet and exposed them. No, we should have been responsible college students and not have had a drunken good time.

If I ruined my image and tarnished my reputation, I'm sorry. If someone can't deal with me the way I am—tough.

The point here is that I'm not too concerned about what people think of me, but other people are very concerned about what is thought about them. When you read something in print, it's very hard to talk your way around it.

Students, administrators and teachers alike all read that story and some reputations are tarnished, tainted and maybe even ruined because of it.

I sometimes wonder if the reporters that write the stories for The Wall Street Journal and The Chicago Sun-Times really think about who is on the other end of those bold headlines. I wonder if the reporters at the News, who are learning how to deal with people for the first time, think about the people on the other end of their articles. What do the readers really think when the paper hits the stands in the morning?

Perspective. It's tough to teach, tougher to learn and even tougher to practice. I know I've learned a little more perspective from this experience. I hope others have, too.

Senate to discuss salary funds

by Linda Wagner
The Student Senate Wednesday will discuss possible approval of a $93.80 allocation from this year's senate budget to pay Summer Senate Speaker Cindy Keller for her term as speaker.

Senate Speaker Ron Wesel said former financial vice president John Cole "misinterpreted the bylaws" and did not compensate funds for Keller's salary.

The bylaw states that the Speaker of the Senate may work a minimum of four hours per week or a maximum of 32 hours per month for seven weeks during the summer.

Wesel noted that he and Cathy Moore of the business operations office, figured the net salary for Keller as four hours a week for seven weeks at $3.35.

The Student Senate is scheduled to meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

OCSHA to discuss Housingfest

The Off-Campus Student Housing Agency Wednesday will discuss plans for Eastern's Housingfest.

OCSHA president Terra Yarbrough said the agency has reserved the Union Ballroom for the April 9 and 10 event which is designed to provide students with information about available housing.

In addition, Yarbrough said preliminary work will continue on the proposed presentation for residence halls about the pros and cons of off-campus living.

She noted that Cheryl Enk, OCSHA vice president, will contact Eastern's Housing Director Lou Hencken and the Residence Hall Association for input about the idea.

The group will also resume work on the OCSHA booklet which is expected to be presented to the Student Senate for approval by mid-November, Yarbrough said.

The Off-Campus Student Housing Agency will meet at 6 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Government office.

Possible changes in tuition payment system studied

by Joni Taylor
The Faculty Senate Tuesday discussed the possibility of changing Eastern's current tuition payment system for class pre-registration.

Senate member Harold Nordin said the program would include a nominal pre-registration fee, with the balance of the fees to be paid upon registration.

Senate member Terry Perkins said fall tuition is currently paid during the summer, but "a lot of students need the summer to raise their fees.

Senate chairman Ken Sutton noted that other schools have implemented similar programs, and "if we can give students a break here, we can compete."

He added that the senate needs to determine what the nominal pre-registration fee should be before any formal recommendation is made.

In other business, the Senate discussed their role, as defined by their constitution.

Senate member Scott Smith said the senate should be able to look into the matters of any faculty councils.

"We cannot be delimited from looking over the shoulders of anyone who does anything," he said.

In addition, Sutton said the senate should be able to "challenge" whatever the faculty's union does, even though the senate is not a representative voice of the faculty in collective bargaining.

In other business, the senate formed a subcommittee to meet with Judith Anderson about Affirmative Action programs on Oct. 16. The committee will discuss the prospect of hiring women and minorities for temporary university employment.

Conversion plans set, bids requested

by Kristi Wells

Eastern's coal conversion project has reached the final stages before actual construction will begin.

Marty Ignazito, physical plant superintendent, said the blueprints that arrived early in the semester were approved with no changes, after a waiting period when interested parties could recommend blueprint changes.

Currently, final bids are being taken for the construction work to be done on the site.

Ignazito said bids were taken Sept. 21 for the plumbing, ventilation and electrical sub-contracts.

He added that all bids are made to Gov. Jim Thompson's capital development committee in Springfield, which approves all bids and makes the final decisions for the project.

A second package of bids will be taken Wednesday for the heating contract, which is the prime contractor for the job, he added.

Ignazito said the heating contractor was selected as the main contractor because the job will cost $4.7 million out of the $7 million dollar project.

After final bids are approved, 15 to 30 days notice will be given prior to the start of construction. At this time, all sub-contractors must submit their own work schedule on the project, he said.

Once these bids and work schedules are approved, Ignazito said, the blueprints will be "locked in" and no major changes can be made.

Ignazito said although coal is harder to utilize than gas, Eastern decided to change over because coal costs one-third less than gas.

He added that the coal changeover will also provide needed speed to create steam for the heating and air-conditioning.

Campus police: band vandalism still unsolved

by Peter Brouil

Campus police have not received any information concerning the Sept. 4 destruction of the observation platform used by Eastern's Marching Band.

The Marching Blue is offering a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for destroying the stand.

In addition, the band reported that on several occasions, rocks and water balloons were being thrown at members during practice.

However, Band Director Greg Clemons said the band has not been the victim of any harassment since the platform was destroyed.

In addition, Clemons said the band was probably being harassed by students upset with the loud music.

Clemons said the band has not received any complaints this semester about loud music, which could be because the band has aimed themselves away from the residence halls and instead of practicing at 8 a.m. on Saturdays before home games, the band practices at 10 a.m.

The band practices on a field south of the Tarble Arts Center, which is between Seventh and Ninth streets.

Many students who live near the band's practice field said the Saturday morning practices do not disturb them, however a few students who live in Thomas Hall said they have been disturbed.

Freshman Bob Lomber said, "We mind them but don't complain. We just shut our windows."

John Healy, also a freshman agreed, but added that the band "should move to a more secluded area."

Settlement approved for Vietnam vets

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge, saying "hardships will be reduced to some small degree," tentatively approved a $180 million settlement Tuesday for Vietnam veterans and their families who claim they were harmed by the herbicide Agent Orange.

U.S. District Judge Jack B. Weinstein said the settlement, financed by seven chemical companies who made Agent Orange and were sued by the veterans, might not be much if divided among thousands of claimants.

"It is not possible for class members to receive significant individual compensation from the settlement funds," Weinstein said. But he said there was little chance the plaintiffs could collect more by going to trial with their class-action suit. The settlement was reached May 7, the day the veterans' suit was to have gone on trial.

More than 25,000 veterans have blamed Agent Orange for illnesses ranging from skin rash to cancer, miscarriages and birth defects. The ultimate number of claimants, counting spouses and children, could top 120,000, according to attorneys in the case.

Hundreds of veterans had urged Weinstein to reject the settlement. Many said the fund is far too small to compensate everyone for their injuries, while others complained that they wanted a day in court or a contribution from the federal government.

Weinstein said the settlement

"provides funds to help at least some men, women and children whose hardships will be reduced to some small degree."

Weinstein said he would withhold final approval of the pact until a method of distributing the money is worked out.

Because of the difficulty of proving a link between chemical exposure and illness that develops years later, Weinstein said the compensation program should be governed by "compassion not scientific proof."

A proposal for a compensation plan is to be drafted and submitted in November, he said. Hearings on the plan will begin next March 5.

Weather possible cause for low donor show

by Diane Schneidman

The Red Cross collected another 332 pints of blood Tuesday falling under the expected 450 pints, Dan Zicarelli, general blood drive chairman, said.

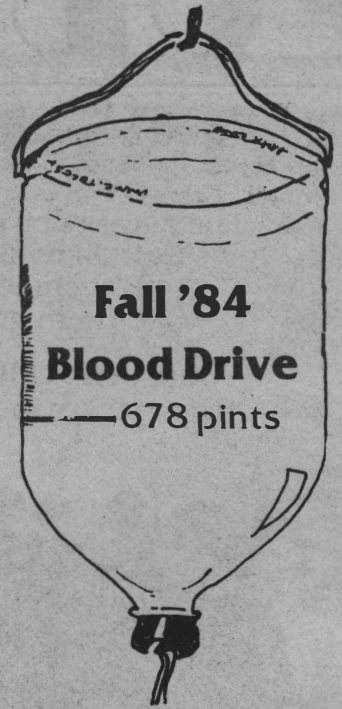

The total number of pints collected this fall is now 678, which leaves 1026 more pints left to collect to reach the goal of 1,770 this fall, Zicarelli noted.

"It's kind of discouraging," he added. "I've never seen a day as slow as today." Zicarelli attributed Tuesday's low turn out to the rain.

The rain caused other problems for the blood drive. The first 75 pints donated Tuesday were scheduled to be shipped to St. Louis because there is a tremendous need in that area for white blood cells, Zicarelli said. The shipment has been rescheduled for Wednesday.

Rain was not the only set back which the drive faced. Zicarelli said 30 individuals were turned away due to colds, low iron counts and other ailments.

On a brighter note, there were 48 first time donors. "We'd like to get more first time donors so they can find out it doesn't hurt, and then keep coming back," Zicarelli said.

Zicarelli said he hopes that Wednesday's turn out will be higher.

Donations will be taken at 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Wednesday, and 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Thursday in the Union Ballroom. All donations will be taken on a walk-in basis.

What an Institution!

One of the greatest comedies released this year is "Police Academy" will be shown on Friday at 6:30 and 9:00 p.m. For only $1.00 you can see a light-hearted comedy about a group of urban misfits who try to run the police academy while under the control of Commander Lassard. Ralph Novak of "People Magazine" wrote, "It does for 'Police Academy' what 'Stripes' did for Army basic training."

Throughout the movie, the recruits throw the institution up for grabs by pulling gags and stunts, but during a real crisis they pull through with flying colors. The movie can also be compared to "Caddy Shack", and like it will leave the audience in stitches.

BLUE THUNDER

On Friday, the movie "Blue Thunder" played to an enthusiastic crowd of Eastern students.

The movie, which starred Roy Scheider (Jaws), was about a highly technological helicopter which aided police in crime fighting. As the movie progressed, so did the action, with Roy Scheider using the helicopter to bring down a crooked Los Angeles police force.

A good cast, plenty of action, and a lot of cheers from the audience made "Blue Thunder" an enjoyable movie.

McCarthy to speak

The University Board Lecturer Committee will present former Senator Eugene McCarthy on Wednesday, October 3, 1984 at 8:00 p.m. in the Union Grand Ballroom. Admission is $1.50 for students and $3.00 for the general public; groups of twenty or more can receive discount tickets of $1.00 for students and $2.50 for the general public.

Mr. McCarthy has had a life of public service from teaching high school to leading opposition to the Vietnam War in his 1968 presidential campaign. McCarthy has had a broad range of experiences including being a code breaker for the War Department in World War II, a leader of national politics, and author of fourteen books on topics from politics to foreign affairs and poetry to children's stories.

Eugene McCarthy represented Minnesota on Capital Hill for 22 years. During his ten years as a member of the House of Representatives, McCarthy attempted to aid migrant workers and pushed for tax reform on the Ways and Means Committee. He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1958 and re-elected in 1964. During his tenure on the Senate he served on the Agriculture, Finance, and Foreign Relations committees as well as chairing the Special Committee on Unemployment Problems.

Being an independent candidate for the presidential race of 1976, this indeed is a timely lecture just weeks prior to the presidential election and days before the candidate debates. Advance tickets are now available in the University Union Ticket Office. If you would like more information on the McCarthy lecture, contact Mary Gaulke, Lecturer Committee Chairperson, at 581-5117 or the Student Activities Office at 581-3829.

Aura of luck sweetens Cubs' winning formula

Shortly after the Cubs opened their home season before a less-than-friendly Wrigley Field crowd, first baseman Leon Durham received a boost of assurance.

A small religious card had found its way to his locker. "Here, look at this," he said, pulling an off-white card from the top shelf. "I've been keeping this one."

The sentiments from a female well-wisher dated April 14, one day after the Cubs were booed on opening day, were encouraging. "Keep your chin up," it read. "Real fans don't boo."

Monday night in Pittsburgh, the Cubs, who finished their exhibition season at 7-20, clinched their first division title after 39 years of mediocrity. Durham carted his lucky card along.

Silly as it seems, that card was a big motivating factor behind Durham's success this season, his four-year campaign as a Cub.

He's driven in 95 runs, scored 84 times, accumulated 129 hits, including 22 home runs, and has batted .281. That's not anything to boo about.

However, early-season competition with Bill Buckner for the first base job did generate boos from Wrigley Field dwellers, who weren't too pleased with the Cubs to begin with.

But Durham constantly recalled the card's message. And by the end of April, his smart play, excellent leg speed and quick bat had earned enormous respect. Buckner was later traded to Boston.

So you're wondering what else the Cubs have in their closets. Aside from Durham's card, the Cubs' have some outstanding players, that's all.

Monday night, they all came out. They didn't concentrate on the nic-nacs, rather Ryne Sandberg, Gary Matthews, Ron Cey, Jody Davis, Bob Dernier, Keith Moreland, and Rick Sutcliffe among others, displayed images of true champions.

"I think we've kind of amazed ourselves," Sandberg admitted this summer. But Moreland perhaps summed up the Cubs' overnight success the best.

"As soon as we start winning ball games, everyone gets the attitude that we can't lose. We feel we can win everyday, because somebody different will pick up tomorrow."

But if luck could be measured, then perhaps Durham's card, Moreland's favorite country and western music, Lee Smith's clubhouse pranks, or Jim Stoddard's stuffed buzzard are important.

While dominating the National League, each Chicago victory seemed to have an aura of luck and good feeling. That became more obvious as collections grew rapidly. Everything appeared lucky.

When Durham cracked two home runs Aug. 26 to blank Atlanta 5-0, it was a lucky t-shirt he boasted to reporters.

"See this," he said. "I got this from a fan wrapped around everything, so I thought I'd wear it today. Now I think it will stay with me for a while."

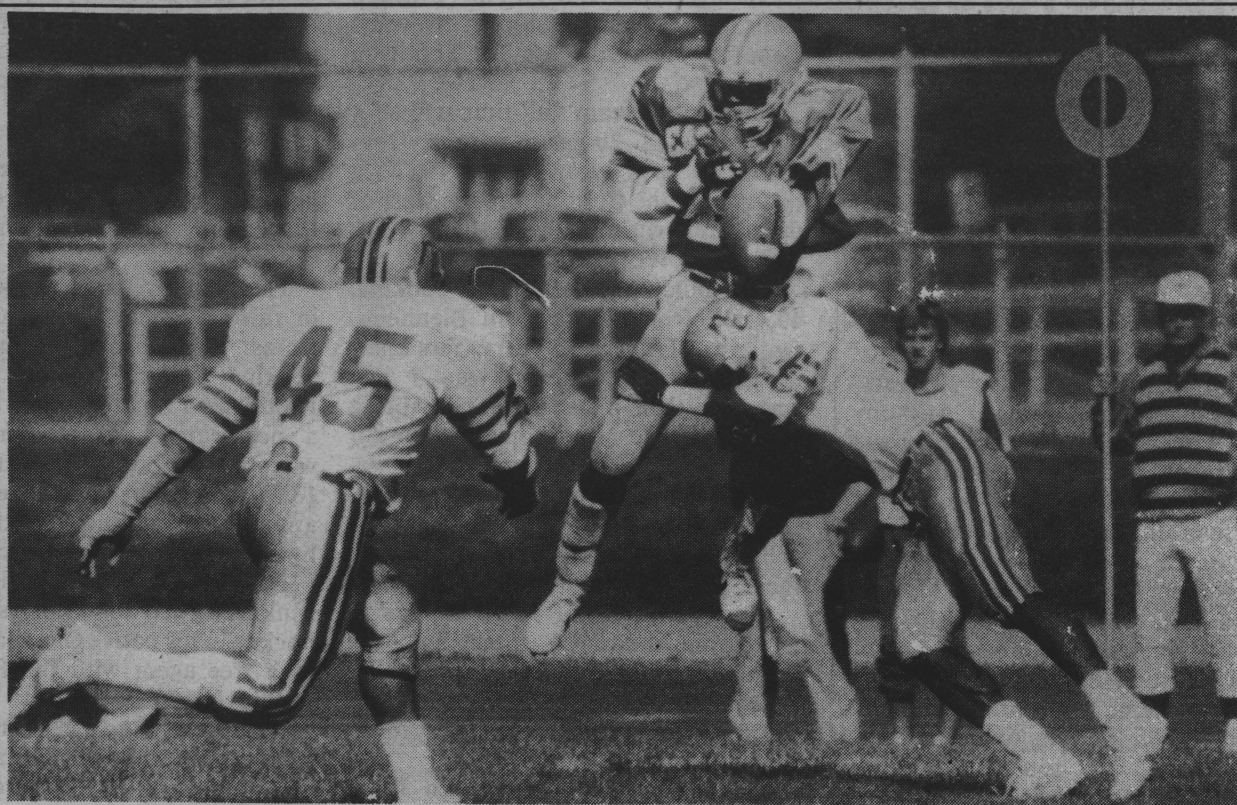

Spelled out in white letters on the black shirt was the saying, "The Bull is back in Chicago." Durham quickly added that to his collection.

But it wouldn't be fair to note the Cubs lucked their way into the playoffs, but winning and luck do go hand-in-hand. After years of frustration, luck seems to be helping.

Playoff teams usually get more than their share of breaks. Durham will be the first to tell you.

So if you're counting, this season marks the third year of General Manager Dallas Green's "new addition." All you need is a little luck to sweeten the formula for success.

I wonder what the San Diego Padres have in their lockers, or for that matter, what do those American League boys collect?

Spikers down Butler in five

by Joseph Anglum

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Overcoming sloppy play in game one, Eastern's volleyball team bounced back to win three of four remaining games Tuesday against Butler University to raise its season record to 7-6.

Although Eastern dropped the first game of the match by a 15-5 count, games two and three proved to be all Eastern needed, winning 15-6 and 15-8.

"Overall I thought we played pretty well this evening," Eastern head coach Betty Ralston said. "We still need to work to develop more consistency in our game."

Eastern, now boasting a modest three game winning streak, had outstanding performances turned in by junior setter April Deer and sophomore outside hitter Maura LeFevour.

Deer had a total of nine aces and 20 assists to spark to the sputtering Panther offense.

LeFevour was credited with a season high 17 kills and a blistering 325 attack percentage. She was also credited with two solo blocks and three block assists.

Down 7-0 in game two, Deer led the Panther offensive attack by serving the squad back to a 7-7 tie with the Bulldogs. She also was credited with two aces in that stretch.

Game three proved to be the stage for another outstanding performance by Deer.

Leading the contest by a 5-0 margin, Deer led the squad to an 11-0 lead which they would never relinquish. She was credited with two of her nine aces in that stretch.

However, the Bulldogs came back in game four and thumped the Panthers by a 15-10 margin.

The contest saw the game see saw back and fourth, but Butler held on for the victory giving both teams two games apiece.

Game five proved to be all Eastern as the Panthers jumped all over the Bulldogs and stung them by a 15-2 count.

"A lot of people saw playing time for us this evening," Ralston said. "This should definitely help us in the conference."

Other bright spots for the Panthers were Eiserman's 11 kills, Donna Uhler's 12 kills and Lori Berger's 10 kills.

Overall, the team had a kill rate of .350 percent, up from the previous rate of .288 percent.

Payton becomes top passer in I-AA

It hasn't taken Eastern quarterback Sean Payton long to rise from that of a reserve role to one of the premier passers in NCAA I-AA football.

Last year, Payton threw only 18 passes while seeing limited playing time behind starter John Rafferty. But this season, the sophomore won the starting job and has definitely paid off thus far.

Entering Saturday's game against Ferris State, Payton has hit on 103 of 176 attempts, a 58.1 completion percentage, and has thrown nine touchdown passes to only four interceptions. His 1,226 passing yards are tops in the country among I-AA quarterbacks.

Surprising poll

Not too many people expected Eastern to be in the NCAA's top twenty poll of I-AA teams after their 38-17 loss to Toledo. The poll did contain some surprises though, including Mid-Continent Conference opponents Western Illinois (12th) and Northern Iowa (16th). Here are the nation's top ten I-AA teams and number of points in the poll.

- 1. Furman (4-0) ..... 80
- 2. Indiana State (3-0) ..... 74
- 3. McNeese State (4-0) ..... 72

Football Notebook/Jeff Long

- 4. Holy Cross (2-0) ..... 64
- 5. NE Louisiana (3-0) ..... 62
- 6. Murray State (3-0) ..... 61
- 7. Delaware State (3-0) ..... 57
- 8. Boston U. (3-0) ..... 56
- 9. Arkansas State (3-1) ..... 47
- 10. Alcorn State (2-0) ..... 40

Patching the holes

In their struggle to keep up with the recent rash of injuries, the Panthers have been forced to make several lineup changes. Sophomore Calvin Pierce, who began the season as a fullback, has now assumed the starting tight end duties, replacing Scott Sanderson, who had replaced the injured Charlie Vinson. Pierce caught six passes for 37 yards against Toledo and "gives us some additional speed and quickness at the position," head coach Al Molde said.

In addition, freshman Jon Moore has assumed the starting slot at strong side linebacker.

Kuhn could alter Series, judge rules

CHICAGO (AP)—A circuit judge Tuesday threw a lawsuit challenging Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's authority to change the World Series schedule and steal a potential home date from the National League East champion Chicago Cubs.

Ruling one day after the city erupted in celebration of the Cubs' first post-season trip in 39 years, Cook County Judge Anthony Scotillo said Major League Baseball's Basic Agreement grants the commissioner "unbridled discretion" in altering schedules.

In a light-hearted moment before the ruling, Scotillo questioned attorney Pat Dwyer, who represented Cub fan and plaintiff Martin Hennigan.

"I assume the World Series will only go four games (with the Cubs sweeping all four). Are you suggesting otherwise?" the judge said.

In one of his final acts as commissioner, Kuhn decided that if the Cubs qualify for the World Series this year—for the first time since 1945—only the three middle games of a seven-game series will be played in lightless Wrigley Field on the weekend of Oct. 12-14.

Cub title success one year too late for Jenkins

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chicago Cubs' first championship in 39 years came one year too late for Ferguson Jenkins.

Jenkins, the team's all-time strikeout leader and a 20-game winner from them in each year from 1967-72, released by the Cubs before the start of the season without ever reaching the playoffs or World Series.

"It would have been nice," Jenkins, 40, said from his farm in Blenheim, Ontario. "I played 18 years. You knew the team was going to win. I just wasn't in their plans. I went to spring training and it was a numbers game. I was expendable.

"You go to spring training with 40 individuals, but by the time June 15 rolls around, there could be 25 new faces. It's part of the game."

He is only one of four pitchers to win more than 100 games in each league. And he is the only pitcher in baseball history to strike out more than 3,000 batters (3,192) and walk fewer than 1,000 (997).

Jenkins, who was 25-12 with Texas in 1974, finished his career needing just 16 victories to reach 300. That he failed to achieve it is a disappointment, he said, but one he can live with.

"You make a point of trying to reach a few goals while you play," he said. "But that's sports. You just can't think of what will happen from year to year. I can definitely still pitch. You pitch with your head at my edge. But I wasn't surprised at my release."

Today, as he has done for the past 15 years, Jenkins works his cattle farm, and spent the summer pitching in an amateur league.

"We had an intercounty league here and I won 10 games. Before I started, I had to contact the (Major League) Players' Association to get my amateur status back."

The Jenkins name proved valuable in raising money for local Canadian teams. One benefit game featured Jenkins pitching against his former Boston Red Sox teammate Bill Lee. In a performance reminiscent of days when he was both feared at bat (he hit 13 career homers and drove in 85 runs) and on the mound, Jenkins hit two homers off Lee in an 8-7 victory.

Banking on a career in baseball, Jenkins turned down offers to play pro hockey in his native Canada and signed as a free agent with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1962.

After compiling a 43-26 record in the minor leagues, he was obtained by the Cubs early in the 1966 season and went 6-8 with three saves in 12 starts.

In each of the next six seasons Jenkins won 20 or more games and was named to the National League All-Star team three times. In 1971 he won the NL Cy Young Award, but after going 14-16 in 1973 he was traded to the Rangers.

"They were trying to make some changes," Jenkins said.

Knee injury may sideline Hampton for Dallas game

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Dan Hampton, the Chicago Bears' outstanding defensive tackle, took a hit Sunday in a 38-9 loss to Seattle and "in an instant, my bad knee became my good knee."

Limping on his left knee which he injured when Seattle left guard Edwin Bailey applied the hit, Hampton said he hoped to be ready to play against the Dallas Cowboys this Sunday.

"The bottom line is there is nothing wrong," said Hampton, who is in his sixth year with Bears after starring in college at Arkansas.

"There's a series of strained muscles. I got hit full speed. I'm lucky—it looked a lot worse than it feels. It was a legal block but it shouldn't be legal. He dove into the knee and it hyperextended. There is no cartilage or ligament damage."

Hampton last year suffered a twisted right knee and had arthroscopic surgery. Three weeks later he started against Tampa Bay and was awarded the game ball.

Hampton was disappointed the Bears suffered their first loss of the season Sunday after winning three games in a row.

"We had high hopes of going into the Dallas game with a 4-0 record," said Hampton, "but you can't get the blues when you lose."

"I don't want to miss the Dallas game unless it would jeopardize my career," said Hampton. "If I can play and do a good job, fine. If I can't play, (Jim) Osborne will do a good job. We have the depth and the talent if I don't play."

As for the loss to Seattle, Hampton said, "It's hard to win a game if you don't generate any offense. We couldn't get anything going. They had enough points (10) to win the game and they hadn't even made a first down."

Hampton insisted he didn't want to start any offense-defense controversy.

"We can't win without the offense and they can't win without us," he said. "If you have to lose, you might as well lose to Seattle because it doesn't mean anything. They're not in our division."

Although his leg bothered him, Hampton cracked a joke about the two interceptions which the Seahawks returned for touchdowns.

"If we get our guys to tackle those guys with the interceptions before they get into the end zone, we'll have a fighting chance."

On the serious side, Hampton said, "It is evident that we can have an off day and still allow the opposition only 200 yards."

Aside from the two interceptions which went for touchdowns, Seattle also recovered a Bear fumble in the end zone for another touchdown.

Defensively, the Bears allowed the Seahawks a net of 203 yards, 93 rushing and 110 passing.

"Seattle didn't beat us, they had nothing," said Hampton. "We beat ourselves. We've seen better teams the last two weeks, but we never did anything to put them away."

Blazers reach contract agreement with Bowie

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Portland Trail Blazers have reached a contract agreement with 7-foot-1 Sam Bowie of Kentucky, the National Basketball Association team announced Tuesday.

"The contract is still to be drafted," Blazer spokesman John White said. "It should be prepared and signed in time for Bowie to be at the first official practice Saturday."

Terms of the six-year contract were not revealed, but White released a statement saying it is "the third-largest ever agreed to by a rookie in the NBA."

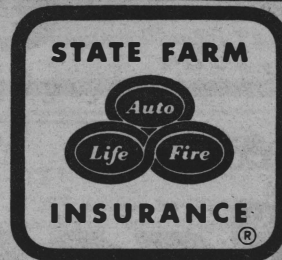

Bowie was the second player taken in this year's NBA draft of college players. He was represented by Larry Fleisher in the negotiations with the Blazers' representative, Alan Rothenberg, who also serves as general manager of the Los Angeles Clippers.

Punt, pass and kick is delayed until next week

Due to poor weather conditions, the punt, pass and kick competition was postponed, Intramural Director David Dutler said Tuesday.

The competition, originally scheduled for Tuesday, has been rescheduled for 2-6:30 p.m. Oct. 2 behind the women's varsity softball field. Dutler said anyone interested can enter on the spot with a validated student ID card. Team competition and individual competition will be featured. For more information, contact Dutler at 581-2821.

TEAM ENTRY FORMS require signatures and ID numbers (social security number) and phone numbers of each team member this year. Entry forms will not be taken unless all required information is provided. Our hand writing expert tells us that several team members signatures have been forged so far. This practice could result in a team losing a game as a result of an eligibility protest being upheld. A word to the wise usually suffices.
