Budget seeks hall addition for business

by Julie Cambria Brechbill

The proposed expansion of Coleman Hall to include a College of Business facility in Eastern's fiscal year 1987 budget was discussed Monday by the Council on University Planning and Budget.

The proposal would provide $275,325 in planning funds for the facility if approved by the Board of Governors in July and the Illinois Board of Higher Education in January 1986.

Eastern President Stanley Rives said the BOG approved the proposal twice, but the IBHE turned it down both times.

"I hope they will approve it this time," Rives said. "We really need it."

Rives added that the IBHE's position on the proposal has been to relocate the College of Business in other campus facilities rather than expanding Coleman.

"If they turn it down again, we will keep proposing it," Rives said. "We clearly need it now."

According to the proposal, class enrollment for the College of Business increased 287 percent from 3,012 in fall 1971 to 8,657 in fall 1983.

The proposal states that it would be more economical to add on to Coleman than Blair Hall, the current College of Business location, because of the cost of bringing the 70-year-old building into compliance with building codes.

State Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Charleston, has proposed a bill in the General Assembly which would provide planning funds for the expansion of Coleman in fiscal year 1986.

Rives said Eastern's proposal to expand Coleman and Weaver's bill are the same. But if Weaver's bill is approved by the General Assembly, Eastern would receive the funds to expand Coleman a year earlier.

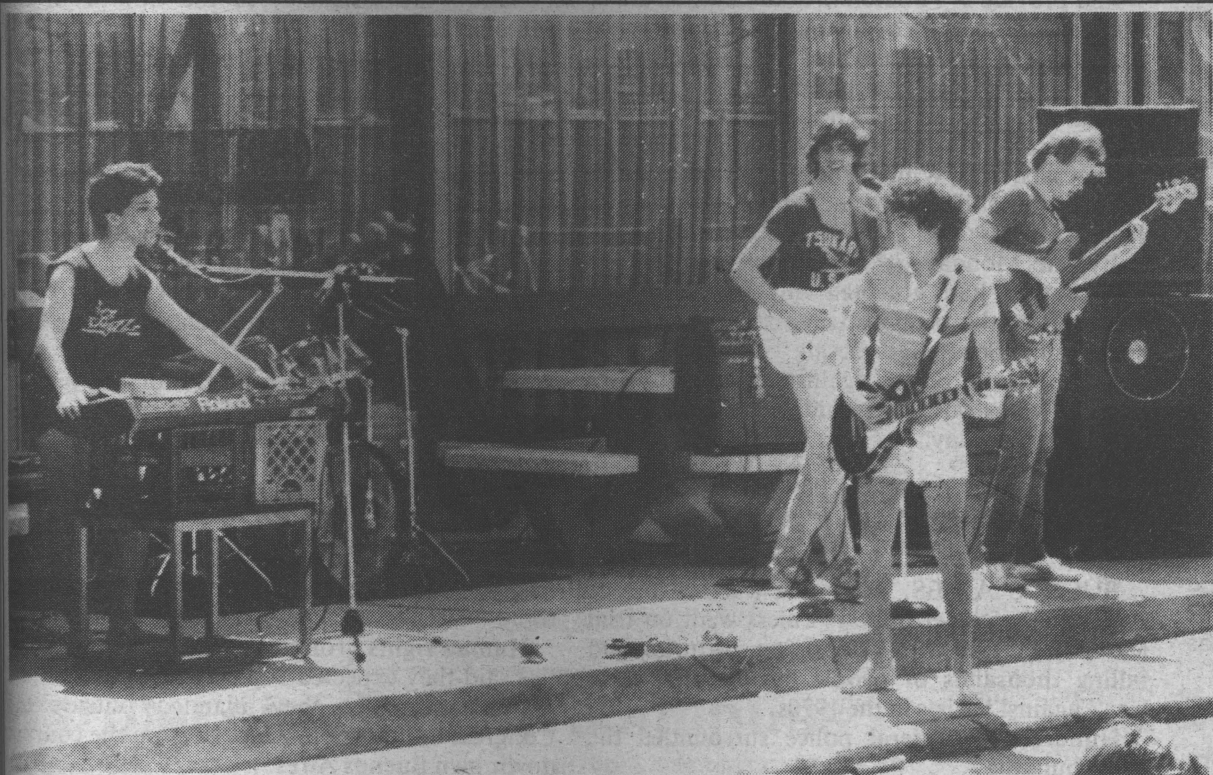

Weaver said he thinks the bill has a good chance of being passed if it gets out of the appropriations committee.

"Being a business instructor at Eastern, I've had classes in some strange places," Weaver said. "It's hard to maintain continuity administratively when instructors are all over campus."

"Eastern's the second lowest funded college in the BOG system," he added. "If anyone deserves it, we do."

The CUPB also discussed the proposed $4,170,600 academic FY '87 budget which is based on four themes: Education for Economic Growth, Improving

Senate to discuss dean evaluations

by Jean Wright

The Faculty Senate Tuesday will discuss the outcome of the April 16 meeting on faculty evaluations of deans between Eastern President Stanley Rives, Faculty Senate Chairman Ken Sutton and Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs.

Sutton would not comment on the outcome of the meeting until he had discussed it with the senate in executive session, but said, "I was surprised at how much was agreed upon."

The meeting was a result of the senate's proposal to have the faculty evaluate deans as well as Schick who currently does the evaluations. Schick said he is opposed to the faculty having input on the dean evaluations.

"It is a personnel matter," Sutton said. "We could proceed better if we don't get it into the press before the senate has had a chance to decide on what action they are going to take."

"We just finished a negotiation," he added. "I want the senate's reaction."

Sutton added that he did not know what the senate's action would be but said it would make a recommendation to the administration following Tuesday's meeting.

The senate, which will meet at 2 p.m. in the Union

Martinsville room, will also hear feedback on its proposed changes to the 1986-87 calendar year.

Sutton said the senate received about 150 responses (about 1/4 of the faculty) to a questionnaire asking about the five-part proposal.

Sutton said a "couple parts of the proposal were very popular, but one got a flat-out 'no'."

The proposal to have the Wednesday before Thanksgiving a class day with the break starting at 5 p.m.—instead of starting the break on Tuesday as it does now—was overwhelmingly rejected.

In other business, the senate will discuss reorganization of committees, after Sutton expressed concern that the faculty was not adequately represented on the Council on University Budget and Planning.

"We would prefer a greater faculty input on academic proposals," Sutton said, saying the CUPB might not have the background to make academic decisions.

The senate will also have elections of senate officers for 1985-86.

A progress report will be given by the Student-Faculty relations committee regarding a tentative May 3 meeting between the Student and Faculty senates.

Akins proposes plan for greater student involvement

by Julie Zook

When senior Floyd Akins won student body president race last Wednesday during student government elections, he only wanted to win by one vote.

However, Akins defeated Senate speaker Ron Wesel by 507 votes in a hotly contested race for the highest student-held position on campus.

Akins also defeated Dane Bucrowski, Jon Pierre Frenza and Dan Piccarelli, who ran far behind Wesel and Akins.

Akins said Monday there are many things he wants to accomplish during his term of office, which begins the first day of summer school.

"I want to get students involved," he said, adding, "I want to make students aware of what's going on."

Akins plans to make students more aware through his proposed recruiting program, which would begin in the fall.

"The recruiting program I've set up is designed especially for students," Akins said.

And to make students more aware of senate, Akins said he plans to change senate committees.

"To take the pressure off senators, the chairmen will be senators and the students will be on the committees (as members)," he said.

He added that the chairmen would talk to students about the committees during the recruitment program so the students could decide which committees they would be interested in.

"I expect a lot of people (to show at the program). These people do want to work with us," he said.

"The working relationship (between TIME and Quality, a party which gained seven senate seats) is going to be really good," he said, "but some don't believe in some of my programs. They're too extravagant."

Akins said a few senators are opposed to his security plan proposal.

"But it's so creative and so far-fetched, it's going to work," he said.

"With the support of the student body, we can do anything we want to do," Akins said, adding, "without that support, we won't have any power."

"Since I've won, a lot of people who don't even know me have come up and said good things," he said.

"I'm now a reflection of the student body and the student senate. Students will start to care more," he said.

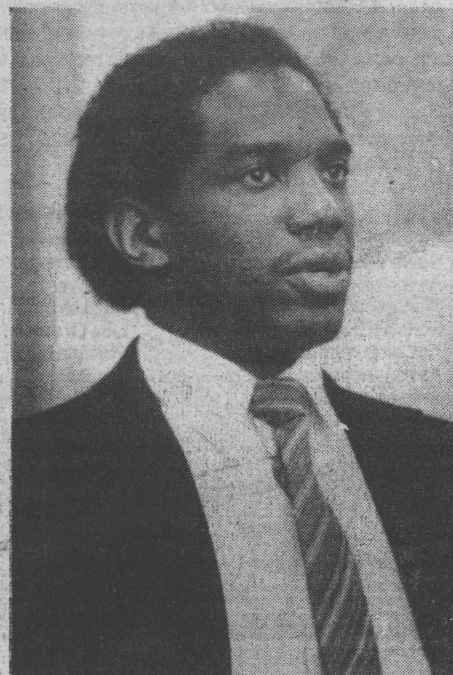

"That's the goal that stands out from everything else. I'm going to surprise everyone," he said.

When Akins returns from summer vacation, he said he has plans for getting involved with all student groups.

"I'm going to hit every area I'm supposed to hit. That's my job."

"The first thing I'm going to do is to

World's Fair referendum urged

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Illinois taxpayers should be allowed to vote on whether their tax dollars will help pay for the proposed Chicago World's Fair, political activist Patrick Quinn said Monday.

Quinn, founder of the Coalition for Political Honesty, said the group would circulate petitions on local ballots next March.

The advisory referendums would ask voters whether state money should be used to finance the proposed fair. Quinn said he thought the answer would be a resounding "no."

"I think the taxpayers of Illinois are going to vote overwhelmingly to make sure taxpayers don't have to pay a single penny," he said.

Quinn said recent fairs in New Orleans and Knoxville, Tenn., were "bottomless pits for public money" and contended that taxpayers' money shouldn't be risked on a project that might fail.

The General Assembly last year agreed to finance a one-year study of the fair's chances for success.

Town supports rape recanter

JAFFREY, N.H.—Outside of the 80 men, women and children who belong to the Pilgrim Baptist Church, few of Jaffrey's 4,500 people know the young woman who has recanted testimony that sent a man to prison for rape.

But in a town in which most people know each other or know of each other, lack of familiarity is no bar to gossip.

Residents have discussed Cathleen Crowell Webb's story since she confessed to lying about being raped by Gary Dotson in Chicago in 1977. A judge didn't believe the new claim by Mrs. Webb, 23, and has ordered Dotson to continue serving his prison term.

But much of the talk about Mrs. Webb is protective toward a stranger who has lived in Jaffrey less than two years.

"Live and let live," said accountant Wayne DesRosiers, 38. "We are kind of parochial up here in many ways, but this isn't the first rape case and this one wasn't even in Jaffrey."

Doctor accused of poisoning six

QUINCY, Ill.—A doctor accused of poisoning co-workers with arsenic-laced snacks cheered when a lone gunman massacred 21 people at a California McDonald's restaurant, a prosecutor charged Monday at the doctor's trial.

Dr. Michael Swango "was enamored with people being hurt, people who were unsuspecting," Assistant Adams County State's Attorney Chet Vahle said in opening arguments.

Vahle said Swango, 30, was entranced by trauma, the thrill of emergency scenes."

Swango is accused in the non-fatal poisonings of six colleagues last summer and fall, when he worked as a paramedic for the Adams County Public Health Department while awaiting medical licensing in Ill. and Ohio.

Package offers $14 million in aid to Contras in return for cease-fire

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats proposed a Nicaraguan aid compromise to President Reagan under which the United States would provide $14 million in humanitarian aid to the Contra rebels if the insurgents and the leftist Sandinista government agreed to a cease-fire.

The plan was discussed at an all-day bargaining session—briefly attended by the president—among several key Senate Democrats, top White House aids, and senior Senator Republicans, including Majority Leader Robert Dole.

By late Monday, it was not clear if the administration had accepted any or all of the elements of the proposal suggested by a broad spectrum of Senate Democrats.

The proposal comes against the backdrop of decisive votes on Contra aid in the Senate and House on Tuesday.

It would:

- Provide the $14 million for the rightist Contras, but only if its delivery can be independently monitored.

- Allow the assistance to the Contras if the Sandinistas refused to negotiate.

- Cut off the aid to the Contras if they violate a negotiated cease-fire.

- Require direct negotiations between the United States and the Sandinistas.

- Provides a mechanism for imposing economic trade sanctions against the Managua government if the Sandinistas refuse to negotiate seriously toward a peace settlement.

- Relieve the Contras of the obligation to continue a cease-fire if it were violated by the Sandinistas.

- Provide U.S. help to the Contadora nations seeking to negotiate a cease-fire if they were successful.

Former Argentine rulers on trial

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Nine of Argentina's former military rulers went on trial Monday charged with kidnapping, torturing and killing thousands of people during the "dirty war" against leftists in the 1970s.

Hundreds of federal police surrounded the court building.

The day before the trial began, elected president Raoul Alfonsin said that plotters had urged the army to overthrow his civilian government. Alfonsin was elected in 1983, ending nearly eight years of military rule.

Police blocked off streets around the Federal Criminal Court of Appeals and officers with automatic weapons patrolled the area. A police communique said the security measures would be maintained around the clock until the end of the trial, which is expected to take at least three months.

Human rights groups and leftist political parties said they expected 50,000 people to attend a march and rally they planned outside the Congress building a few blocks from the court in downtown Buenos Aires.

They said the purpose of the demonstration was to demand punishment of all military and police officials who committed human rights abuses during the period of military rule that began with a coup in 1976 against President Isabel Peron.

On trial before the civilian court are nine generals and admirals who made up three successive three-men juntas that ruled the country until Alfonsin was installed.

Brazil's new president sworn in BRASILIA, Brazil (AP)—Jose Sarney became president Monday and said he would carry out the plans of Tancredo Neves, the veteran politician who died before he could take office as Brazil's first civilian president in 25 years.

Neves died in a Sao Paulo hospital Sunday at age 75 after a series of operations that began hours before he was to be sworn in March 15. His body was brought to the capital Monday, carried through thousands of mourners who chanted his name as the coffin passed.

Congress met in special session earlier Monday and declared the presidency vacant, allowing Vice President Sarney, 54, to become chief of state of Latin America's largest nation.

Neves was a master of Brazilian politics and held offices ranging from city councilman to prime minister in a half-century career. The new civilian government that he was to have led ended a generation of military rule that began with a coup in 1964.

Sarney spoke on radio and television early Monday, declaring in a breaking voice: "Our program is Tancredo Neves' program. The memory of Tancredo Neves will be our unity, our inspiration, a lighted candle in the darkness of our sadness."

He promised to fight inflation, hunger, violence and unemployment—all pressing problems in Brazil.

Warbler distribution continues

by Julie Zook

More than a third and less than half of the copies of the 1984-85 Warbler were distributed Monday.

Warbler adviser Mary Wohlrabe estimated 3,000 yearbooks were given to students on the first distribution day from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

"I think (Tuesday) will be a busy day," Wohlrabe said, adding, "I think Wednesday will be a busy day, too."

"Usually the first day is busy. (Monday) was a busy day," she added.

Wohlrabe said most students had to wait in line somewhat less than "10 minutes."

Students who have attended Eastern full-time both semesters can receive their books free. The remaining fee schedule is:

- full time one semester and summer—$2.50.
- full time one semester—$5.
- summer only—$7.
- no full time credit, students—$10.
- faculty, non-students and offices—$12.

An Eastern ID must be presented when students come for their books.

The Warbler staff will continue distribution through Friday. Students may pick up their yearbooks at the Warbler office, located at 126 Buzard.

Milk victims total 11,097; second death attributed

CHICAGO (AP)—The salmonella food poisoning outbreak appears to be tapering off, but a second death has been blamed mainly on the disease, which has afflicted more than 9,500 people, officials said Monday.

An autopsy showed that salmonella food poisoning was primarily to blame for the April 8 death of Mary Kierzek, 61, of suburban Alsip, said the Cook County Medical Examiner, Dr. Robert Stein. Kierzek had also suffered from heart disease.

An additional 678 cases of salmonella food poisoning were reported in Illinois over the three-day period ending Monday afternoon, about one-third the number reported during the same period last week, said inspector General Jeremy Margolis. The total of reported cases in Illinois and five other states rose to 11,097, with 9,533 confirmed.

The latest autopsy reports brings to two the number of people killed by salmonella and to five the number of deaths linked to the disease. In addition, four other deaths are under investigation.

In Coles County alone, 24 cases were confirmed and all were directly related to intake of bad milk. Another seven cases have yet to be confirmed while 16 cases tested came up negative, Cathie Reynolds, Director of Nurses for the Coles County Health Department said.

Many more people have taken ill than the official totals show. The counted victims are those who called doctors, and most salmonella victims don't get that sick.

The nation's biggest salmonella outbreak on record included only 100 reported cases out of an estimated 16,000 victims in California in 1965, said the federal Centers for Disease Control. So, the Illinois outbreak is probably far bigger.

Now, three weeks after the outbreak was recognized, health officials hope to limit it by blocking its expected second punch—person-to-person spread. And at a dairy in suburban Chicago, they are trying to solve the central mystery of the outbreak: how the bacteria managed to reach their victims in pasteurized milk.

Salmonella bacteria are not uncommon in raw milk, but pasteurization—heating the milk to about 160 degrees for 15 seconds—is designed to kill them. In Illinois, where the bacteria appeared in only part of the contamination batches, tests showed they were vulnerable to pasteurization.

To find their source at the Hillfarm Dairy, state and federal investigators have swabbed pipes to try to pick up traces of salmonella bacteria, X-rayed valves and connectors for cracks in what should be a sealed system and pumped fluid through valves to see if they leak.

Salmonella tests have been ordered for 281 employees at the plant and related jobs. In Wisconsin, inspectors have sampled raw milk from five dairies that supply the Hillfarm operation.

And yet, nobody knows why four batches of contaminated milk emerged from what Jeremy Margolis, acting director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, called "as fine a dairy as you'll find anywhere in the country."

"This is not the kind of place you'd expect this to happen," Margolis said.

Despite kinks, Greekfest bash worth 2nd try

This past weekend's Greekfest was a success and worthy of another shot next year.

Although there has been some criticism of the first-time-ever event, held at the Waterworks park in Ashmore, the organizers seemed to have met their primary objectives. Before the event, which drew more than 2,000 participants, Jay Lueken, Greekfest committee chairman, said the party's purpose was to show that "we can have a good time and do it responsibly." Reportedly, no one was arrested for driving under the influence, and there were no accidents.

Some of the complaints of Greekfest, organized by the Sigma Chi fraternity, stemmed from problems with the shuttle buses which carried students out to the park. One of the safety measures disallowed cars from entering the area. When it was time to return home problems with the buses forced many students to be delayed for two hours.

However, by chance, organizers of the event said the beer and the band both became exhausted at the same time, and the crowd became unmanageable. It would've have been impossible to safely return 2,000 students to campus at one time.

But whoever said the first time's a charm? Lueken, Sigma Chi and other fraternities involved in the planning made a worthwhile effort to provide students with an evening full of entertainment.

The cost for attending Greekfest was only $6, while the organizers provided a local band, "Outside the Lines," and the "Ooze Magazine," a dance band from Chicago, disc jockeys and two food vendors. Lloyd's of London was also contracted to insure Greekfest for $1 million, which protected the organizers from possible lawsuits related to liquor consumption at the party.

We believe the Greekfest organizers should make plans to hold another such event next year. Possibly, with a little more planning and having an idea of what size crowd to expect, this year's flaws could be wiped out.

Your turn

Fest was 'well done'

Editor:

Aside from a few minor problems, I feel that Jay Lueken and the rest of the other organizers of Greekfest '85, ought to be congratulated on such an awesome turnout and for a job well done.

I feel that it was a pretty successful event. Sure, like I said there were a few minor flaws with Greekfest. But when you have about 2,400 people attending a major event some unanticipated problems are bound to arise and some will enjoy themselves more than others. I had a great time. I do have to say that for an all-campus event that wasn't organized by the university, Greekfest definitely blew away any university sponsored activity of this sort that I have ever attended, including concerts.

I don't feel that the criticisms of the party hold much water when you consider how successful this bash was without much advertisement other than word of mouth. Sure, you couldn't find your friends because it was a little dark, but it would be tough trying to find anyone in a crowd of 2,000 people roaming over three or more acres of land, even if it were lighted.

And sure, it was a drag for waiting for the buses to get there and back, but hey, the crowds were larger than expected. No one got a DUI and most importantly, no one got hurt. A few minor problems but what do you want for the first time? There was bound to be some oversight.

These minor bugs can easily be worked out for any other plans for future fests out at Spring Haven. I for one would definitely like to see other fests such as Greekfest held again. And for those who have nothing but complaints about the party, I would certainly like to see to see you take the time and effort that the organizers of Greekfest obviously took. See if you can top it, seriously!

Is cartoon idol headed for trouble?

I'm worried about one of my buddies. I think he's really headed for a breakdown. I don't understand it. He used to be the image of sanity in a world of insanity. Now, he has become the victim of many human frailties, and he doesn't seem equipped to cope.

He's a really nice creature—not much to look at—but a nice guy nonetheless. He's short. He's overdressed for every occasion. He has a big nose. And, he's a penguin.

In case you haven't figured out who my friend is, his name is Opus, and he is a regular character in the comic strip "Bloom County."

Ever since I started reading the strip a few years back, I considered Opus one of this planet's finest specimens of life.

He is one guy whom I could really respect. He's smart. He knows how to treat a lady. His nose size almost matches mine. Heck, we'd be the perfect couple. But as I said, I've been worried about my fine feathered friend lately.

His sudden collapse began about a year ago. Opus would stay up late at night to watch television and become mesmerized by commercials. All students who have attempted all-nighters are probably familiar with these warped little advertisements. They go something like this: "But wait, don't pick up that phone yet. Because if you order now, we'll also send you a handy nose-hair clipper. . ."

After watching many of these commercials, Opus jumped from his chair to order dozens of the items. I could understand this behavior. I've often found myself on the phone doing the same thing late at night.

Tragically, however, this was only the beginning. A few months later, Opus was running for vice president. As the saying goes, "You'd have to be crazy to want that job."

But as the campaign got started, I renewed some of my faith in the old boy. He carried off most of the campaign with his usual brilliance.

Yet, Opus hasn't really been the same since. He went to work doing personal ads. Periodically, Opus would be seen jotting down the sex fantasies of some elderly woman. Listening to such babblings would be enough to make anyone a little wacky.

Well, it all became a bit too much for my buddy. He decided to seek out a love of his own. He filled out his own ad and got a date. He was so crazy at that point that he walked around with a typewriter on his head.

Now, he has found himself becoming a pro-wrestling star to gain the heart of who would appear to be Cyndi Lauper.

My worries are justified, as you can see. I mean, I've walked around with typewriters on my head when I've been in love, but I was never known for my ability to maintain control. This is Opus—the guy I idolized.

Wait a second.

I've been idolizing a cartoon penguin. Hmmm. Perhaps I'm the one who needs help.

Council evaluates budget

By Joe Lewnard
The Charleston City Council Tuesday will conduct a hearing on the municipal budget, vote on police and Mayfest street closing resolutions and four traffic ordinances.
Stepping down from their posts will be Mayor Clancy Pfeifer and Health and Public Safety Commissioner Olga Durham, who both lost in their bids for election to the mayoral post. The transition will be made after the meeting during which mayor-elect Murray Choate will be sworn in.
Incumbent Finance Commissioner John Beusch, who was edged out in the April 2 municipal election by challenger Bruce Scism, will also step down at 7:30 meeting in the City Council Chambers.

Among the resolutions to be voted on is authorization to purchase a sludge application truck. City administrator Michael Steele said, "The sludge applicator injects a wastewater by-product into the ground, and the estimated cost will be around $96,000."
Also on the agenda is a resolution to adopt new rules and regulations for the Police Department. Steele said the regulations affect the number of people per shift and the internal operations in the police department.
The council will also consider a resolution to close streets surrounding the town square for the May 4 "Mayfest."

Jazz ensemble performs variety of big band music

by Scott Mountford

A wide variety of big band jazz styles will be performed by Eastern's Jazz Ensemble during the annual Spring Concert.

The concert, which will be held at 8:30 Tuesday in Dvorak Concert Hall, will also feature a number of selected arrangements, Allen Horney, jazz program director said.

Highlights include Rob McConnell's "Just Friends," Phil Wilson's "Outrageous Mother," and Bob Eidenier's "Camel Rise."

He added that several soloists will perform at the concert. Laurie Hadfield, the band's singer for the past three years, will be singing a Ron Nimmer arrangement of the "Make Me Blue" medley.

In addition, saxophonist Joe Ott will be featured on Kurt Anderson's arrangement of "In A Sentimental Mood," and alto player Ann Hendrickson will perform Matt Catingub's "My Mother The Jazz Singer."

"Anderson wrote two of the arrangements that will be performed," Horney said. "This will also be Laurie's (Hadfield) last performance as a singer for the band because she will be graduating."

"It's difficult to say how many people will come and see the performance," Horney said. "It has been publicized around the state, so I expect between 150 and 300 people will be in attendance."

Admission to the concert, which is open to the public, is free.

Instructor from China lectures

by Pamela Lill

Ke Xin, an exchange faculty member from the Shaanxi People's Republic of China, will present the lecture "Modern China: Reality and Myth," at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Kansas room.

A "great gap" exists between what is in school textbooks and what is really like in China, Xin said, adding that some textbook facts are "out of date."

Xin chose the lecture's topic because "Americans know little about China," which is caused partly by the "closed-door policy" of China, Xin said.

The "so-called cultural revolution" and the educational system of China will be discussed in the lecture, he said.

In addition, Xin will discuss the discovery of the ancient army near the emperor's tomb, he said. Terra Cotta warriors were unearthed from vaults east of Quin Shi Huang Mausoleum.

Xin, who teaches spoken Chinese at Eastern is an instructor of English in the Department of Language at Northwestern Polytechnical University, Xian, People's Republic of China.

The lecture is free, and questions and discussions are welcome during the presentation.

go out and talk to all the groups and organizations. My doors are going to be open no matter who or how crazy the ideas," Akins said.

As the second black student body president at Eastern, Akins said, he wants to improve Eastern's minority recruitment program.

"We need some good recruiters to show all aspects (of campus life)," he said, adding, "people can do anything they want to if they try."

"Eastern has a different culture. We need that," he said.

"Prejudice is everywhere, but I think people have risen from that ignorance," Akins said. "I think it showed in this election."

The transition from Student Body President Angelynn Richardson to Akins is going well, he said.

"It's going great. She's (Richardson) helping a lot," he said, adding, "it's very important to have a smooth transition."

"The job is a lot tougher than it seems, but I need a challenge," Akins said. "My success and the senate's success depends on the students."

the Quality of Undergraduate Education, University/School Relationships for Improvement of Education and Enhancing Minority Educational Opportunities.

To improve the quality of undergraduate education, Eastern is requesting $2,014,100 to support the core disciplines, general education and teaching labs "which are central to undergraduate education as well as other academic areas where student demand is outstripping university resources."

To support its activities aimed at improving education through school/college cooperation, Eastern is requesting $869,000 to upgrade preparation in teaching basic disciplines and improving administrative expertise through on-campus courses and workshops.

The university is also requesting $813,600 to fund staff and equipment needed to upgrade and update instructional programs and teaching labs in technology and business.

To "enhance minority educational opportunities," the university is requesting $473,900 to fund staffing and equipment to expand programs which help its minority students through efforts in recruitment, retention and instruction.

Men's tennis

One out of 3 isn't too bad

by Frank Polich

One out of three isn't bad for Eastern's men's tennis team—especially against teams like St. Ambrose, Principia and Augustana.

The netters' only team win in a weekend quadrangular came when the Panthers defeated Augustana 7-2 Friday night. "We played our best match of the season against Augustana," Eastern coach John Bennett said.

One of the Panthers' two losses came at No. 1 singles when Scott Fjelstad lost 7-6, 6-3. "He (the opponent) pulled a lot of key points in both sets and played tough throughout. It was just a nightmare for me," Fjelstad said.

"St. Ambrose was the toughest competition we've seen all year. They beat Illinois State 5-4 and the Redbirds beat us 9-0. That says it all," Bennett said.

Fjelstad also lost a close 6-4, 5-3 decision to St. Ambrose's No. 1 player who "played on the pro circuit in Germany," Fjelstad said.

"He didn't play spectacular, but he hit the ball solid and kept it in play all the time. That was the key," Fjelstad added.

By the time the Panthers played Principia College, the heat and exhaustion from playing two matches took its toll.

"Everyone played well against them. But the heat forced Eric (Laffey, No. 3 singles) to forfeit his doubles match," Bennett said.

The 9-0 team score didn't indicate the closeness of the match. "We played well all weekend. A lot of the matches came down to a few key points," Fjelstad said.

The netters will host Sangamon State University Tuesday for their last dual meet of the season at Weller Courts. "The outcome should be about what it was last time we played," Bennett said.

The Panthers defeated Sangamon 6-3 in Springfield on April 9. After the Sangamon match, the Panthers head for Chicago to compete in the conference meet Friday and Saturday.

"We don't know what type of competition to expect this weekend. The only teams we know about are Western Illinois University and Southwest Missouri State University," Bennett said.

"We beat Western 8-1 last time so they won't be too tough. But Southwest Missouri is a different story. They're the cream of the crop," he added.

Lady netters hope to end skid at Principia

by Joseph Anglum

The tide may turn Tuesday for Eastern's women's tennis team when the lady netters travel to Elsah to battle the Indians of Principia College.

Eastern, in the midst of a seven-match losing streak, may get a reprieve against the Indians.

The Panthers defeated Pricipia 6-3 at the March 23 Southern Illinois University-Carbondale Quadrangular tournament.

However, the Indians were without No. 2 singles player Suzy Verheul, forcing the remaining players up one spot against Eastern's regular lineup. Principia also defaulted two other matches against the Panthers.

Lady luck was with the Panthers—Eastern faced Principia after the school had been quarantined with an outbreak of the measles, and March 23 some of their squad members were still recovering from the illness.

Eastern coach Gail Richard thinks Tuesday's match will be a true test of her team's ability.

"Pricipia is always tough," Richard said. "It will be a real good workout for us."

The Panthers need a "good workout" heading into this weekend's Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference championships, and the Principia match will serve as a final tune-up for conference.

The Indians, currently 8-4-1 on the season and ranked nationally in the latest NCAA Division III poll, took last year's Division III national championship.

Although Eastern sports a dismal 3-9 dual-match record, it's had some impressive conference matches which could have gone either way. A win rather than a loss in two of these matches could change the seeds at the conference championships.

The Panthers lost 5-4 in two consecutive conference matches against Western Illinois and Indiana State universities.

Softball team suffers double defeat to SIU-E

Injury-bitten sluggers to host Illini

by Jeff Long

Eastern's baseball team has been talking potential ever since coach Tom McDevitt opened training last fall.

And after blazing out to a 9-1-1 start this season, not too many people were doubting the Panthers.

But they did cool down, and even went cold during a mini-slump over the last two weeks in which they lost five of eight.

Then along came Western Illinois, which may prove to be the sparkplug the Panthers needed to get the ball rolling.

Eastern swept four from the Leathernecks with complete team efforts in what was the biggest series for the Panthers thus far.

Tuesday, they'll be trying to remain hot when they meet up with Illinois for the second time this season in a single game at Monier Field. Game time is 3 p.m.

Earlier this season, Eastern, fighting injuries of its pitching staff, used five Illinois errors to their advantage en route to an 8-2 victory over the Illini in Champaign.

The Panthers are in a similar situation this time around. With shoulder and elbow problems plaguing the mound staff, Eastern may find itself shorthanded if those injuries become long-term.

"I'm out of pitching," McDevitt said. "I used seven pitchers against Western and (Bill) Jose has arm problems."

As a result, junior righthander Sam Light (1-0) will make his first start of the year Tuesday. Light, normally a reliever, has seen action in only five games this year, posting a 3.38 ERA with two saves in eight innings pitched.

"I'm not worried about being rusty," said Light, a curveballer who will make his first start since his freshman season. "Skip (McDevitt) makes us throw every day. I'll just have to treat it like a relief appearance."

Light, who holds a 2.76 career ERA at Eastern, has seen limited action this season, but it hasn't dented his morale.

"Personally, I feel I should be pitching more," he said. "But it's up to Skip's personal feelings. I've lived by his intuition for three years, and when you look at his record you can't question him."

Light and McDevitt will be looking for continued support from the Panthers' offense, which continues to pound out hits at a .317 pace.

Monty Aldrich remains the team's leading hitter with a .389 average and also leads in runs (32), hits (42), triples (2) and walks (35).

Designated hitter Bernie Holland, coming off an impressive weekend against Western, has taken over the team lead in doubles with nine and RBI's with 32.

Following Tuesday's matchup, Eastern will host SIU-Carbondale for two games on Wednesday.

by Dan Verdun

It was just one of those days.

Eastern's softball team was swept in a non-conference double-header by Southern Illinois-Edwardsville Monday at Lantz Field.

The Panthers, 17-16, dropped the opener 1-0 to the Division II 10th-rated Cougars. Southern, 30-8, also copped the nightcap 9-4.

"We just didn't have it today," coach Deanna D'Abbraccio said. "They flat out-hit the ball on us."

Game one was a scoreless pitching duel between Eastern's Zam Mogill and Southern's Sandy Montgomery through the first six innings.

Southern pushed across the game winner in the top of the seventh when center fielder Mia Smith doubled home pinch-runner Nancy Swain from second base.

The Panthers then had a chance to tie the game in the last of the seventh. Catcher Tangi Waldrop walked to open the inning and was moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Tammi Rettig.

Waldrop appeared to be picked off second when she rounded the base, but an errant throw allowed the Panther to advance to third. However, Montgomery nailed down the win by retiring the next two Eastern batters.

Mogill, who gave up just four hits while striking out five, saw her record drop to 9-7.

"I take responsibility for the loss in the first game," D'Abbraccio said. "I coached too conservatively, I should have tried to steal or squeeze bunt."

The nightcap was an up-and-down affair that saw Southern break out to a 1-0 first inning lead.

Eastern rallied to tie the game at 1-1 in the third. Sara Karcher scored when Cougar shortstop Kyr Schroeder booted a sharp ground ball hit by pitcher Shelly Eddington.

Things didn't stay tied for long, however, as Southern rocked Eddington with a four-run fourth to stake a 5-1 lead. Mogill came on in relief of Eddington to end the Cougar uprising.

The Panthers, however, came back with three runs of their own in the bottom of the frame to cut Southern's lead to 5-4.

But Montgomery—who replaced Cougar starter Stacey Johnson—came to Southern's rescue. The Cougar righthander pitched out of a one-out jam to deny the Panthers.

The game then settled back into a repeat of the opener with Mogill and Montgomery mowing down the hitters.

Southern, however, put the final nail in Eastern's coffin by scoring four runs in the top of the seventh to take a commanding 9-4 advantage.

Catcher Deb Higgins knocked in the first two runs with a base-loaded, two-out double.

Moments later, Cougar first baseman Patti Smith delivered the knockout punch with a two-run single. Eddington then returned to the mound under the re-entry rule to record the final out.

Eddington, 8-9, was saddled with the loss.

"They (Southern) would beat a lot of teams in Division I," D'Abbraccio said.

Eastern will resume Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference action Friday by hosting Western Illinois in a double-header.
