Marcos' decision applauded

Aquinos must get country back to 'order'

By DIANA WINSON
Staff writer

Delight and jubilation were among the responses to Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos' decision to relinquish power and leave the country Tuesday.

"I'm delighted about it," said Eva Calderon, a graduate student from Manila, after hearing the announcement.

Prior to Marcos' announcement and escape from the country, Calderon was skeptical of his willingness to step down from power.

"Maybe he's realized he's lost his friends—the groups and troops" which have supported him in the past, Calderon said.

Despite her delight at Marcos' leaving the country, Calderon said she was "amazed" that Marcos accepted the decision that Corazon Aquino had won the election.

"I have feelings of jubilation" over the outcome of the election, Philippines graduate student Manuelito Ordonez said.

"The people are free again; it's the rebirth of the Philippine Republic," Ordonez said, adding that he was not surprised that Marcos stepped down, after "seeing he was no longer popular—he had no more grip on his people."

Eastern political science instructor Joe Connelly said he was happy about Marcos' decision to leave the Philippines.

"It should've happened a long time ago," Connelly said. "He (Marcos) probably saw the handwriting on the wall, and he should've stepped down a long time ago."

See related stories on page 5

Connelly added that Marcos is "through politically," but will probably be welcome in the United States, which has been an ally of Marcos'. Also, Connelly said Marcos has "put away enough money" to be financially secure.

Ed Brazil, a political science instructor who spent time in military service in the Philippines during the late 1960s, said he was not that surprised at Marcos' decision.

"In a way I am (surprised), but in a way I'm not," he said.

He said one of Marcos' reasons for stepping down from power could have been out of a "sense of patriotism" for his country.

"The election fraud was unfortunate" for Marcos, whom Brazil thinks is "not as bad as some other dictators we've supported in the past."

"Marcos could very well be sincerely contrite," he said.

Brazil said he felt "delight, more than surprise" that Marcos' relinquishing of power was not as violent as some people predicted it would be.

The "pretty mild" level of violence "speaks well for the Filipinos," Brazil said.

U.S. Rep. Terry Bruce, D-Olney, said Tuesday that he was "very pleased" about the "orderly transition of power" in the Philippines government.

Bruce said he was pleased that "democracy has returned to the Philippines," and that "hopefully the same 'cement bond' that we've historically had (See MARCOS', page 6)

Speakers call education best defense against AIDS

By DOUGLAS BACKSTROM
Senior reporter

Education is the best defense against the fatal disease AIDS, several panel members said at an AIDS forum Tuesday night.

Eight panel members, mostly educators and doctors, told a crowd of about 100 students and area residents that the best defense against Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome is to educate the masses.

AIDS is a breakdown of a part of the body's immune system. This breakdown leaves the body vulnerable to a variety of unusual, life-threatening illnesses.

It is these diseases, not the AIDS virus itself, which can result in death. Infection with the AIDS virus does not necessarily result in AIDS or AIDS Related Conditions (ARC), Carol Gibson, from the Illinois department of public health, said.

Alcohol, drugs, poor nutrition, stress or other illnesses that weaken the immune system help in the development of the disease, Eastern counselor Genie Lenihan said.

High risk groups who are most susceptible to the disease are:

- Gay and bisexual men.
- I.V. drug users.
- Hemophiliacs.
- Sexual partners of the people in the above group.

Panel members explained that AIDS is caused by a virus that attacks a particular type of cell in the immune system known as HTLV-III or ARV.

Some panel members believed that many people are not aware of safe sexual practices or what testing to determine exposure to the virus is available.

A gay Champaign task force distributed a number of pamphlets to inform people at the forum about safe sexual practices.

According to the pamphlet, the AIDS virus may be transmitted any time a bodily fluid comes in contact with a cut on a mucous membrane. The degree of risk varies by activity and research is continuing.

There are five area task forces that are attempting to educate areas about AIDS, panel member Michael Quam, from Sangamon State, said.

There is one each located in Murphysboro, Springfield, Quincy, Peoria and Champaign, he said.

These community groups are preparing for AIDS in their community, Quam said. "They picked areas with AIDS victims already in the community."

Bud Sanders, Eastern's Counseling Center director, said in about a year or two, Eastern might have its first AIDS case. "And we don't want to treat him like a leper. It's very important that we start preparing now."

As of February 1986, Illinois had 387 AIDS cases, said Gibson. Although most of the cases are in Chicago, three are in Champaign, three in Macon county and one in

Crazy Daze '86 theme is rock'n'roll

By BETH CARLSON
Staff writer

Crazy Daze '86 will make its debut beginning at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Subway with rock impressionist/comedian Skip Griparis.

Crazy Daze Coordinator Bob Beodeker said Griparis does such impressions as Bruce Springsteen and Billy Joel, Beodeker said.

"History of Rock 'n' Roll," a presentation detailing the last 10 years of rock music, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Subway by Barry Drake, Beodeker said.

There will also be slides to accompany the presentation, he added.

This year's Crazy Daze theme is "It's Only Rock 'n' Roll But I Like It." The annual event is sponsored by the University Board.

Crazy Daze is a two-day festival, Beodeker added. Originally the event was held in the spring, but proved more popular in winter, said Anita Craig, director of student activities.

It's "a pick-me-up in the winter months," Craig said.

Free food, such as nachos and popcorn, will be available at each show.

A rock 'n' roll trivia contest will also be held, with questions appearing in the Crazy Daze ads in The Daily Eastern News, Beodeker said.

The answers must be turned in at the Skip Griparis show and the winners will be announced at the Barry Drake show, Beodeker said.

Winners must be present to win the prizes, Beodeker added.

The first place prize is a $25 gift certificate from Mazuma Records; second place is a $10 gift certificate from Mazuma; and third place is two free movie passes for the remainder of the semester.

The cost of putting on Crazy Daze is about $2,000, which covers the two shows and the free food, Beodeker said.

Revenue from the two events should pay most of the bill but student fees will cover the rest, Beodeker said.

Admission to both events is $1.

Court lessens theater restrictions

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court on Tuesday made it easier for the nation's communities to restrict the locations of adult movie theaters and other adult-entertainment attractions.

By a 7-2 vote in a case from Renton, Wash., the court said communities may use their zoning powers to "preserve the quality of urban life" by relegating all adult movie houses to one isolated area or by requiring that the theaters be scattered.

Hartigan's candidacy in trouble

SPRINGFIELD—The rhetoric in the Democratic primary battle for attorney general is laced with references to another contest—incumbent Neil Hartigan's short-lived candidacy for governor.

"He doesn't want the job...It's kind of a consolation prize," said challenger Martin Oberman, a Chicago alderman.

Counters Hartigan: "People who are behind...get pretty desperate and they've got to come up with something to say. ... Government is my life."

Oberman, who decided against a 1982 bid for attorney general, announced for this year's contest when Hartigan was considered the leading Democrat to challenger Gov. James R. Thompson's unprecedented bid for a fourth term.

Loophole causes longer sentence

URBANA, Ill.—Champaign County authorities have found a loophole in the law that works against the criminal—allowing a seven-year prison sentence for a crime usually called shoplifting.

It works this way. If a person has a history of criminal convictions and is accused of stealing something from an open store, prosecutor Tom Difanis may file a charge of burglary.

That could mean a sentence of up to seven years in prison instead of one year for shoplifting or three years for theft with a prior conviction.

NAACP official chained to office

CHICAGO—A top official of the local NAACP, chained outside the city's first black-owned daily newspaper to protest criticism of Chicago's first black mayor, said he's waiting for a "fair and honest assessment" of Mayor Harold Washington's administration.

"I've been out here 24 hours, but I've been on the hunger strike three days," the Rev. Herbert Martin said at midday Tuesday, bundled in a heavy overcoat and equipped with a small portable heater as he sipped hot coffee and met with about 30 supporters outside the Chicago Defender newspaper offices.

His goal, Martin said, is to continue the hunger strike until the Defender's board chairman, John Sengstacke, "gives us an honest and fair assessment of the progressive reforms made by the mayor."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Indicted NASA Administrator James M. Beggs resigned Monday, allowing President Reagan to name a new top space agency executive, congressional officials said.

One aide, who refused to be identified by name, said Beggs telephoned Rep. Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., and notified him he had submitted his letter of resignation to the White House.

This aide said Beggs "did not talk about a successor at all," even though he has been quoted in recent days as disparaging his stand-in, acting administrator William Graham.

He said Beggs told Lujan he had initially hoped to stay in his job while he fought criminal charges unrelated to his tenure, but said "the tragedy (the loss of the Challenger on Jan. 28) changed the ramification of the situation."

Beggs, 60, had been administrator of NASA since July 7, 1981, three months after the first space shuttle flight. He has been on unpaid leave since Dec. 2, when he and three other former General Dynamics executives were indicated by a grand jury on charges they plotted to hide cost overruns on the ill-fated Sgt. York anti-aircraft gun—before Beggs joined the space agency.

"I will not resign," he said then.

But Beggs since has told associates he recognized the need to step aside so NASA could regroup in the wake of last month's shuttle disaster.

The criminal case has yet to come to trial. In the interim, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been run by acting administrator William Graham.

Grotberg remains on GOP ballot

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aides to Rep. John Grotberg, R-Ill., said Tuesday that family and staff are determined to maintain his re-election candidacy after seeing signs that the lawmaker may be recovering from a five-week coma.

Grotberg's office said his name will remain on the March 18 GOP primary ballot for re-nomination to the state's 14th Congressional District seat.

"He most definitely will be the primary candidate," said Steve Trossman, the congressman's press secretary.

Grotberg, of St. Charles, is the only person who filed candidacy papers in time to have his name placed on the Republican primary ballot. A second candidate, however, has since launched a write-in campaign.

That candidate is 26-year-old Mark Powell, program director at a De Kalb radio station.

Trossman also said there are no plans to have the seat declared vacant pending a recovery from the coma.

Trossman quoted Grotberg's physician, Dr. Steven A. Rosenberg, as saying "there are encouraging signs" that the 60-year-old lawmaker may be regaining consciousness.

"At this point, the doctors are being cautious, and they're saying it's too early to make a positive prognosis," Trossman added.

Trossman said Grotberg has been observed making facial expressions and moving his eyes toward people who are speaking. He said the congressman has smiled and frowned in response to statements made by relatives.

Prices up 0.3 percent in January

WASHINGTON (AP)—Consumer prices rose a modest 0.3 percent in January, held down by moderating energy and food cuts, the government reported Tuesday. Analysts predicted an even better performance in February because of plunging oil prices.

The Labor Department's Consumer Price Index showed inflation increasing in January at the same average monthly rate it had advanced since late 1981. The January rise followed increases of 0.6 percent and 0.4 percent increases, respectively, in November and December.

"We really haven't begun to see the impact of lower oil prices yet. Gasoline prices at the pump are down just slightly. But over the next three or four months, we are going to start to see significant declines," said Robert F. Wescott, senior economist for Wharton Econometrics in Philadelphia.

In January, a slight decrease in the pump prices of gasoline was translated into a 0.1 percent increase in the index after adjustments were made for seasonal factors.

Economists said the index reflected prices in mid-January, before pump prices began to fall significantly. Yet even the reported 0.1 percent rise was down from increase of 0.8 and 0.5 percent in November and December.

Police waiting for right time to check bars

By JIM ALLEN
and DONELLE PARDEE
Staff writers

Police "walk throughs" of Charleston bars are down but not out, Chief Maurice Johnson said Tuesday.

The police have not checked local bars for the past two weeks, but Johnson said he's only waiting for another complaint to be registered or the right time to go through the bars again.

"We can't go every night," Johnson said. "It's kind of like running radar—we might not be running it right now, but we might in 30 minutes."

"If I get a complaint or if I get a feeling (the minors) are in there, we'll do it again," Johnson said. "We're going to enforce the ordinance as long as we have it on the books."

Charleston's ordinance on bar entry—which has stirred periodical controversy over the past 10 years—allows 19- and 20-year-olds to enter the bars but not drink.

But non-student Charleston residents contacted at random Tuesday had mixed opinions concerning the bar raids and the bar entry age ordinance.

Claude Burtcheard, 67, 905 S. E St., said, "They ought to change it (the ordinance) and keep the students out until they are 21."

"Then they wouldn't have a problem." However, Burtcheard said he couldn't tell if the raids have helped or hurt the situation.

Lloyd Smith, 70, 1709 S. 11th St., said the raids should continue and the city should not let the students go into the bars.

"I didn't drink when I was that age," said Smith, who lives in an area formerly used by students when going to the bars. He said he could hear them "yelling and shouting at night."

"It didn't really bother me," Smith said, "but I think they (the police checks) have helped, because I haven't heard the students yelling anymore."

Others weren't so opposed to the drinking, but instead to the ordinance's gray areas.

Michael Carlyle, 33, W. Route 16, said he wished the city would decide on what age can enter bars and stay with that age.

He added he feels the whole situation has "confused the students and it's not fair."

"Since this is a college town, the (entry) age should be 18 and the city should stick with 18," Carlyle said. "One day you're legal then the next day you're not."

"If students are causing problems and harming others I could agree with the raids, but right now I don't agree."

Bill Monken, a Charleston High School instructor and one of the directors for the Students Against Drunk Driving program there, noted that the SADD chapter supported the mayor in a letter to the editor of a local newspaper.

Monken said the organization is only concerned with keeping high school students out of the bars and have no concern with the college students, except "when drinking and driving is concerned."

Monken said there is "no question" that the raids are helping. The bar raids should subside, he said, and the police should start up again whenever "they want to."

Political science instructor Joe Connelly said the drinking age is a state law and should be enforced.

"It would have been better if the mayor had been upfront and explained his policies more carefully," Connelly said. "Most of the students were caught off guard."

Connelly said he had only heard second-hand that the raids were helping. "The students are being more careful."

Last November, Mayor Murray Choate vowed to enforce Charleston's bar entry-age ordinance and warned bar owners to be more stringent with carding policies.

January saw the first full-scale raids of the bars, which brought charges against more than 40 Eastern students, one Charleston High School student and 10 bar owners. Students caught up in the raids were extremely vocal and opposed to the raids, but bar owners hardly peeped, even while paying their $125 fines.

Senate hopes faculty will approve alterations to present constitution

By CAM SIMPSON
Staff writer

If things go as planned, the Faculty Senate will have more say so on issues dealing with the university.

The senate redefined its stand Tuesday on the administration's communication responsibilities and is hoping the faculty will agree and approve an alteration in the senate constitution at the March 12-13 senate elections.

But that won't be the final step in the revisions addition to the constitution. After faculty approval it must be approved by the university president and the Board of Governors chancellor.

The revision falls under the part of the constitution dealing with senate, faculty, student and administration communications. It says basically that the administration should have a responsibility to communicate any major changes it is planning to the senate before the administration makes a final decision.

Senators said even if the effort fails they are once again saying to the administration that they would like more input "out front, not after the fact."

Senate member Ken Sutton said on certain university issues the president "was just asking us to react when nothing else could be done."

Jayne Ozier, senate chair, said the constitutional change was an attempt to alleviate communication problems that have arisen in the past and also said, "there have been things occurring that have been somewhat of a surprise to the faculty."

The senate also heard a final report from its ad hoc committee on the recent realignment of the controlling body of the Radio-TV Center. In July, the center will fall under the control of Academic Affairs as opposed to University Relations, the center's current overseer.

Committee chair Gerald Sullivan reported that after certain alterations, the committee's final recommendations were submitted to Eastern President Stanley Rives.

Ozier said that no reply has come from Rives' office but she expects input at her next executive meeting with him.

Sullivan expressed his dismay with the communication and Radio-TV problems, two intertwining issues, and said, "the president doesn't need to do anything we suggest from our committees."

One of the major issues that fed the communications fire was Rives' Jan. 21 announcement to the senate about his decision to realign control of the center.

Akins proposes new election sites

By AMY CARR
Staff writer

A proposal that voting booths be set up in Buzard Building and Lantz Gym in future elections will be presented to the Student Senate within the next two weeks, Student Body President Floyd Akins said.

Students would be allowed to vote in one of the two proposed sites, the Union or Coleman Hall as in past elections, Akins said.

The proposal, initiated by Akins, would do away with the traditional computer sheets used at past elections to prevent students from abusing voting privileges.

Instead, students would receive a "hot stamp" on their Eastern ID after they have voted, similar to the type of stamp used to validate IDs, at the time of voting, Akins said.

This would give a wider range of students an opportunity to vote in elections, Akins said.

A potential problem with the proposal would be that students could have duplicate IDs made, therefore allowing them to vote several times.

Akins, however, said that a list of all the students who have had additional IDs made is available and would be present at each of the polls.

"People working the polls would have to be really on the ball," said Steve Hogan, student senate election committee chairman.

The proposal was developed after a plan to put voting booths in each of the residence halls failed to meet senate approval.

Senators argued that booths in the residence halls would strictly cater to those students living in the halls and would not be fair to those students living off-campus.

Also, four senate members from Southern Illinois University will attend this week's Senate meeting, which is at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room, as part of a senate exchange program between Eastern and SIU, Akins said.

The senators will also visit the senate office in the Union to get a feel of campus life and to see how Eastern's student government is run, Akins said.

EISCAP makes sizable dent in student apathy

A campus organization, still in its "infancy," has already made a mature effort to put a dent in the apathy most student leaders admit is abound.

Eastern Illinois Students Concerned About Peace, an organization that emerged about the middle of last semester, has waged a lobbying effort to have Eastern be declared a nuclear free zone.

Editorial Eastern Illinois Students Concerned About Peace, an organization that emerged about the middle of last semester, has waged a lobbying effort to have Eastern be declared a nuclear free zone.

EISCAP, led by senior Spenser E. Grimshaw, presented a proposal to the Student Senate at its Feb. 11 meeting. The proposal, which EISCAP was hoping to get the senate to sign, asked that Eastern be declared "an area where the storage, transportation, testing, detonation of, or research on nuclear weapons or materials is prohibited."

EISCAP also garnered 1,350 signatures onto a petition supporting the proposal. Yet, the senate—comprised of individuals we elected to represent us—decided that it could not speak for the majority.

An initial vote among the senators showed 12 for and 15 against the resolution. However, because of the split, the senate then voted 23 to 1 to place the resolution on the ballot in April.

It seems that the 1,350 signatures on the petition should have given the senate a clue; that number is far greater than the 3 percent turnout in the last election in which a student fee referendum was on the ballot.

As senator Nancy Wagner pointed out, senators are elected to represent and make decisions for the students, not simply to decide what issues should be placed on the ballot.

But for now, the proposal must take the long route. Grimshaw realizes that the proposal would be a "symbolic gesture," and not legally binding. But for once, a group of students is doing more than just talking about an issue.

Other students on campus who haven't been involved because they felt they didn't have the backbone to be a leader should take note. We should all be involved with some group that's "concerned" about something.

Your turn

Senate needs to speak for students on issues

Editor: On Feb. 19, the Student Senate voted down the resolution to declare Eastern a nuclear-free zone, a resolution backed by over 1,300 signatures.

Most of those who voted against the resolution did so because they did not think that the Student Senate, nor the 1,300 signatures were "representative" of the majority of opinions of Eastern students. They felt that putting the resolution on the April 16 ballot would be more "representative" of student opinions.

Addressing those senators who hold these views, I'd like to ask you two questions. One, how often have you had 1,300 legal, tangible signatures supporting any vote you have made? And every time that you have voted, did you have a clear concise idea that your vote represented the views of your student constituents?

The point I'm trying to make is that the Student Senate's main function is to be a representative voice of Eastern students. And if certain senators argue that they can't vote in favor of this resolution, because they can't speak for the students, then there is no representative function of the Student Senate! Eastern Illinois Students Concerned About Peace presented the resolution to the senate, therefore it was the senators' duty to follow through by finding out the opinions of students. If they were unable to gather an adequate amount of information, they they shouldn't have voted "no" (which is technically saying that they were personally against the resolution). They should have abstained from voting asserting that they were in no position to vote.

Matt Sronkoski

Lowell good role model

Editor: Let me get right to the point. I would like to take this opportunity to recognize a man who has had a great impact on the faculty and staff at Eastern, not to mention thousands of students and the Charleston community.

His accomplishments are too many to even start noting, but to those that have known or worked with Dean Walter S. Lowell, they need not be mentioned.

As a matter of fact, he would prefer it this way. But after 25 years of service to Eastern, we are losing someone very special. In the four years I have known him, he has become an inspiration to me, someone I would be proud to pattern my life after. He is the best role model a young man can have. We will miss him when he retires this week. he has made a difference.

Color Purple provides worthwhile experience

Editor: Norris Clark, director of black studies at Bradley University, calls The Color Purple racist and unrealistic. Why is writer Alice Walker racist? Because her novel has a cruel, complex, and driven male character in it? What makes her vision less realistic than Clark's? He is criticizing her for having the temerity to explore conflict between men and women within the black community. Fortunately, she doesn't need his permission to do so.

For an English professor, Clark is startlingly innocent about how to read fiction. Is Bigger Thomas in Native Son a version of all black men? Is Pip in Great Expectations representative of ex-blacksmith's apprentices everywhere? Not through committee consensus. What if public pressure obliged writers to present MacNeil/Lehrer reports—showing every side of a question—in their works? Can you see it? Ishmael to Captain Ahab: "Come on, old son, there's good and bad in every whale." Moby Dick is just a whale. He's not whaledom. What's more The Color Purple does speak to the experience of a lot of people: Black, white, male, female.

I would like to see fine writers like Walker praised for their achievements and not cut down for having found a vision and voice.

Honors' ad gives insight

Editor: If it is correct to assume that the Association of Honors Students obtained permission from each of the 71 students it advertised as having a 3.8 grade point average, then we have a pretty good insight into the mentality of those students and of the Association of Honors Students.

What poor taste! What a false sense of achievement, even for the academic world! Now they can make a copy of that ad and send it along with their applications for grad school or for jobs in the outer world. Hopefully, they will let us know what success it brings them.

Restoring order is newest battle

Marcos resigns, flees Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Ferdinand E. Marcos fled the Philippines after 20 years in power Wednesday and Corazon Aquino, the new president, told her nation "the long agony is over."

Marcos resigned the presidency Tuesday night, driven from office by a military and civil rebellion. He was taken with his family in U.S. helicopters to Clark Air Base. Officials in Washington said they left for Guam shortly after 5 a.m. Wednesday.

A State Department official said the Marcoses would remain in Guam "for some time," but he did not know their ultimate destination.

After Marcos left the riverside presidential palace, where he had been isolated for days by a revolution Aquino called "people power," Filipinos swarmed into the streets for a carnival of joy.

They created traffic jams at midnight, chanting "Cory! Cory!" for their champion, who had refused to concede after the National Assembly declared Marcos the winner of a Feb. 7 election marred by violence and fraud.

Aquino said in a brief television appearance early Wednesday: "The long agony is over. We are finally free, and we can be truly proud of the unprecedented way in which we achieved our freedom—with courage, with determination and most important, in peace."

A crowd broke into the palace, wolfing food left on the tables, carrying off shoes, monogrammed towels and other loot. They fought with Marcos supporters left behind, and Associated Press photographer Bullit Marquez saw one body in the lobby.

Aquino's military commander ordered soldiers to prevent looting or violence against Marcos loyalists.

Increasing U.S. pressure combined with military and civil revolt to end Marcos' rule. He fled to the U.S. air base 50 miles northwest of Manila barely nine hours after a last hurrah of being formally sworn in for another six-year term.

Aquino took the oath as president in a rival ceremony.

Chief Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said in Washington that the Marcoses would spend the night at Clark base, but "I do not know what their plans are thereafter."

Maj. Thomas Boyd, a Clark public affairs officer, said they stayed in the Distinguished Visitors Quarters.

Official word of the resignation came first from Washington. Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Marcos, a U.S. ally throughout his presidency, would be "welcome to come to the United States."

In announcing U.S. recognition of Aquino, 53, Schultz said: "The new government has been produced by one of the most stirring and courageous examples of the democratic process in modern history. We honor the Filipino people. They have resolved this issue nonviolently and in a way that does them honor."

Aquino said in her television appearance, which began at 2:45 a.m. and lasted less than a minute: "A new life starts for our country tomorrow, a life filled with hope and I believe a life that will be blessed with peace and progress."

She urged people to "please stay calm and observe sobriety for the sake of our country."

The departure of Marcos, 68, ended an intense, four-day drama.

Victorious Aquino faces economic, political turmoil as new president

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Corazon Aquino, the self-effacing widow who inspired millions of Filipinos to drive a president from power, now must sit down to grapple with the economic and political turmoil troubling her nation.

Mrs. Aquino, who took up her husband's political mission after he was assassinated, mounted a "people's power" revolution backed by the Roman Catholic Church and much of the business community. It promises a far different style of government than Ferdinand E. Marcos led during two decades as president.

She already has accomplished something that eluded experienced politicians: unifying an opposition that was divided and demoralized by Marcos' dominance of Philippine life.

"We must get somebody who is almost the complete opposite of what Mr. Marcos is," the 53-year-old Mrs. Aquino said in announcing her presidential candidacy last Dec. 3, the day after 25 military men and a civilian were acquitted in the 1983 assassination of her husband, Benigno S. Aquino Jr.

In the aftermath of Marcos' ouster Tuesday, one of those acquitted men, Maj. Gen Prospero Olivas, suddenly appeared on television with newly promoted Chief of Staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, Mrs. Aquino's military chief.

But dealing with men once accused of killing her husband—she said Marcos was always her No. 1 suspect—may be the least of her problems.

From Marcos, she inherited a $26 billion foreign debt, a sliding Philippine currency, increasing inflation, widespread poverty, apparently endemic corruption in government, a discredited judicial system, an often-hated military, a constitution designed for Marcos and a growing Communist insurgency.

Her accession to power also poses new problems: The existing Philippine Parliament is controlled by Marcos partisans opposed to her, and her own support covers such a wide political spectrum that many inevitably will be dissatisfied with her performance.

Mrs. Aquino also has a powerfully articulate vice president, Salvador H. Laurel, who has yearned for the presidency himself for years. She has designated Laurel to serve also as her prime minister.

Marcos added to exiled leader list

By the Associated Press

Until they were deposed and forced to leave their countries, they enjoyed absolute power.

In recent years, the list included Francois "Baby Doc" Duvalier, Idi Amin, Jean-Bedel Bokassa, the shah of Iran and Anastasio Somoza. The list may also include Ferdinand Marcos.

Marcos, who stepped down as ruler of the Philippines on Tuesday, was offered asylum in the United States, but his final destination was not immediately determined.

Duvalier, whose flight from Haiti ended 28 years of family rule, also has an unclear future. He was accepted reluctantly by France on Feb. 7, but the French intend to expel him as soon as a third country agrees to accept him.

No country has indicated a willingness to do so. "The sooner he goes the better," said Prime Minister Laurent Fabius, who criticized the United States for its refusal to provide a refuge for Duvalier. The issue of asylum can be a hot potato. When the United States allowed the deposed shah of Iran to receive medical treatment in New York in 1979, it led to the taking of hostages at the U.S. embassy in Tehran.

France, where Duvalier's presence has drawn protests, traditionally has served as a land of asylum. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini lived there while trying to overthrow the shah. The shah's last prime minister, Shahpour Bakhtiar, and the ayatollah's first president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, have been granted permanent refuge there.

France is also home to Bokassa, the deposed ruler of the Central African Republic. Last week, he demanded to be expelled from France, where he says he is kept as an impoverished political prisoner.

Bokassa, a self-proclaimed emperor who was deposed in 1979, arrived in France in 1983 from the Ivory Coast, where he had lived in exile.

Reagan's effort to remove Marcos dates back to 1983

WASHINGTON (AP)—While proclaiming neutrality, the Reagan administration and the Congress went to extraordinary lengths to pressure President Ferdinand Marcos to change the way he ran his Philippine government and, ultimately, to force his resignation.

Begun soon after the assassination of opposition leader Benigno Aquino on Aug. 21, 1983, the effort culminated in American helicopters flying Marcos away from the National Palace on Tuesday and immediate recognition for a new government headed by Corazon Aquino, Benigno's widow.

The American involvement stemmed from concern that the longer Marcos maintained his dictatorial rule, the greater the chances that a communist-backed insurgency would seize control.

A communist takeover would be a strategic disaster. It would force abandonment of the two huge American bases in the Philippines, Clark Field and Subic Bay, and tip the balance of power in the South Pacific and Southeast Asia overwhelmingly in favor of the Soviet Union and its allies.

The pace of U.S. involvement picked up after the Feb. 7 election in which both Mrs. Aquino and Marcos claimed victory. The United States came to embrace Mrs. Aquino as a successor to Marcos, but the replacement was less important than the longstanding main goal of drastically reforming Marcos' government or encouraging his removal through democratic processes.

Richard Armitage, an assistant secretary of defense, said there was virtual unanimity in the administration on the policy once it was decided. "The administration is totally together," he said in a recent interview. "That's been our one strength. It's been the difference between a Nicaragua, the difference between an Iran, the difference between a Vietnam."

Marcos' _____ from page 1

with the people of the Philippines" will remain.

Political science instructor Abdul Lateef said "in terms of peace and stability," Marcos' resignation is "best for the Philippines—but also good for our interests."

Lateef said he was "not surprised at all" that Marcos stepped down.

"Marcos has been there nearly 20 years" and has stirred up "a lot of dislike from people" in the Philippines and abroad, Lateef said.

He added that the United States will probably give Marcos political asylum.

Now that Marcos appears to be out of the Philippines' political picture, the task facing Aquino is one that seems monumental.

Connelly said Aquino has a "very difficult" task ahead of her: getting the country back in order.

One reason for this, he said, is the "tremendous amount of poverty" in the Philippines. Solving the problem will involve a redistribution of wealth.

Another problem the country faces is that of the ever-present threat of communists, who tend to take advantage of the corruption which has plagued the Philippines government in the past, Connelly said.

Calderon, who was in the Philippines just six months ago, said that one of Aquino's major problems—political instability—has been somewhat alleviated by Marcos' leaving.

However, Aquino still has to "start from scratch," Calderon said.

Aquino will probably have to change some members of the Philippine Cabinet, as many are still loyal to Marcos, Calderon said.

In terms of the economic problems facing the country, Aquino will undoubtedly work on changing many of the policies the country now has, she said.

In the past, for example, foreign investors have been somewhat leary of investing in Philippines resources and commodities. "No one wants to (invest) because of the political unrest," Calderon said.

Part of Aquino's chores as leader of the Philippines will be getting rid of the "graft and corruption" in the country, Ordonez said.

However, her most important duty will be "getting the country back on its economic feet," he said.

Campus police beat not necessarily routine

Officers say work is never done

By STEVE SMITH
Staff writer

The smoke-filled meeting room doesn't exist. And there is no overpowering police chief reading off daily assignments.

The reality was just two campus policemen in a simple office, awaiting the start of another beat.

Ron Carroll and Kevin Kersey, both relatively newcomers to Eastern's Campus Police force, allowed a Daily Eastern News reporter to ride along with them on a Friday night.

The evening started off rather routinely. Kersey checked the report board, found nothing new, and awaited the first call.

It came rather quickly. The request was to open a locked car door for two girls in Carman Hall's parking lot.

"A simple call," Kersey admitted. The officers were 10-6 (on assignment) in no time. The girls were waiting anxiously by their car. Kersey got the tools out to open the car, while Carroll talked with the girls. In four minutes the car was unlocked and they were 10-8 (ready to take another call).

While leaving the lot, Kersey admitted, "We have the stigma of being security police. It's hard to lose it."

"People are suprised when we issue a state citation," Carroll said. "We have fully empowered authority to enforce the law."

Carroll is a five-year veteran of law enforcement, although he has only been with Campus Police since October of 1985. Before coming to Charleston, he worked as a sheriff in a small southern town.

"I got involved in law enforcement for the need of a job," said Carroll, who is married and has three children.

"The title was nice, but there was a lot of work involved. Sometimes you may be out 24 hours working on a case.

"I like this because I can go home and enjoy my family. When I was chief I was always busy," he said.

Kersey joined the force in August of 1984 after rigorous training.

"There is a mandatory 10-week training period that all officers must take. The training is the same as the city police," Kersey said.

From Jan. 6 to March 16, 1985,

Kersey was at the state facility in Springfield. His schedule included a 5 a.m. workout in the gym and classes from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., a few night classes on occasion, a little studying, and lights out at 10.

"It was kind of like boot camp," Kersey said. "The first few weeks were really tough, but after about the fifth or sixth week we could go out on Wednesday nights to the bars."

Kersey said he has considered applying for a job with state police, but hasn't gotten around to it.

The basic campus police beat consists of driving through the parking lots on Eastern's campus and looking for anything suspicious, Carroll said, which includes broken windows, or cars with expired license plates.

A shift for a campus policeman can last from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. or from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. Each officer has two days off a week.

"I like to go fishing, if I can get away from home," Carroll said.

Kersey said waterskiing is his favorite pastime.

But on the job, both Carroll and Kersey agreed the driving can get monotonous. And the calls on this particular Friday were few and far between.

The second call came after a few laps around the campus.

The officers spotted a car with expired plates. The lights went on, and the driver was pulled over.

"First, we try to find a spot to pull them over," Carroll said. "We then check his license and the severity of the violation. It is up to the officer to determine the punishment."

As Kersey wrote out the ticket, Carroll talked to the driver—telling him how to remedy the problem, and how to prevent it from happening again.

"Most of the police contact is negative," Kersey admitted. "People complain that we are not fair. If they would look at the Illinois Vehicle Code they would see that we are not going out of bounds."

As Carroll pulled out a code book, about 3 inches thick, Kersey said, "If you wanted to stick somebody bad, you could."

"We can now issue an Eastern

citation instead of a state citation," Kersey said. "It is handled entirely through the university, and it is only $25. I don't think that some people realize this is a break for them."

To the untrained ear, it sounded like static was coming from the radio. The officers reacted immediately to the call for assistance.

A city police officer had seen a Dairy Queen promotional sign in an apartment, and went in to investigate. The room also had a University Union sign hanging over the window.

The campus officers had to confiscate the stolen sign, and return it to the station, which was no easy task since the sign was 12 feet long and the squad car has only 8 feet of room inside. Carroll explained, "We will run him through the J-board. We get quite a bit of stuff we run through the Board."

The drizzle, that had been falling since the start of the beat (7 p.m.), starting coming down harder.

"The weather plays a big factor in how many calls we get," Carroll said. "When it's cold or raining out, not a lot happens."

And even when the policemen retire their police car, their shift still isn't complete.

"We have to write out an arrest card on the ticket and the sign," Kersey said. "This doesn't take too long, maybe five to 10 minutes."

Motorists question jurisdiction, authority of campus police force

By STEVE SMITH
Staff writer

Campus police surprised 20-year-old Charleston resident Jim Morice with a ticket one day in January.

The former Eastern student had allegedly violated the Charleston noise codes with a loud muffler on his motorcycle while driving on Ninth Street.

The power and authority of the campus police may be in doubt to many drivers in the Charleston area.

According to Campus Police Chief Tom Larson, Morice drove off Ninth Street upon seeing a campus police officer. The officer pursued, and the ticket was issued.

"We have arrest powers in any county that the university has property," Larson said. "We restrict that to areas most affected by the university."

Herb Morice, an Eastern sociology instructor and Jim's father, said, "I didn't know police had jurisdiction off campus. Of the faculty that I talked to only one person knew."

Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said, "The campus security has the same powers as state troopers. They are sworn police officers."

Johnson added, "I welcome their (Campus Police) assistance."

Despite the surprise, the elder Morice still believes if the city police need help that campus police should be able to assist.

"There is constant criticism that they have 16 officers," said Morice, which is a low number according to "Crime in the United States," a national police report. "I'd sure like to know that we have a secure campus," Morice added.

Campus police officer Kevin Kersey said that campus police can issue a ticket in any area that Eastern owns property.

Morice was issued a $75 ticket for the infraction.

Eastern music instructor Burton Hardin will present a horn recital at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Dvorak Concert Hall.

He will be playing three different pieces. They are: Michael Haydn's Concerto in D major, Ludwig von Beethoven's Sonata in F major and Reinholdt Gliere's Concerto in B flat major, Hardin said.

Hardin has performed several recitals. "You name it and I've played there," Hardin said.

Before coming to Eastern, Hardin said he played in the Army Field Band in Washington, D.C., and in Hollywood, he recorded with Steve Allen on the Dinah Shore show.

He received his bachelor's degree and doctorate from the University of Oklahoma and his master's degree from the University of Wichita.

Hardin, who has been at Eastern since 1969, said he gives one faculty recital each year.

All of the performing music faculty generally give a recital each year, Hardin said.

"They do it for their students" and for the people in the community who enjoy music, he said.

However, 51 percent of those people are dead, she reported. She added that all of the victims fell in the 20-49 age group.

There are currently 17,000 cases of AIDS in the United States and that figure is doubling every 11 months, Lenihan said.

However, the doubling time is beginning to slow down because of educational efforts of the disease, Gibson said.

Students wanting to take the HTLV-III screening test can do so at Eastern's Health Service or the Coles County Public Health department, located at 825 18th St.

The test detects antibodies produced by the body in response to infection with HTLV-III, Cathie Reynolds, of the Coles County Public Health department, said. However, the test does not detect the presence of HTLV-III itself and is not a test for AIDS.

However, there are a number of psychological effects that come with the test. English instructor Pat Wright, who is with an AIDS task force in Champaign, said, "If the test comes out positive, you have to live with that the rest of your life and you may never get the disease."

Those seeking additional information can call a toll-free number 1-800-AID-AIDS. The hours for this line are after noon until 10 p.m. weekdays and 2:30 p.m.-4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

Benefits of hypnosis featured in seminar

To help students become better self-managers, Eastern's Counseling Center will sponsor an hour-long seminar on hypnosis at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Tuscola Room.

The seminar is to "help students with problems on motivation," Counseling Center Director Bud Sanders said.

In addition, hypnosis can help students stop bad habits such as smoking and overeating, Sanders said.

The seminar will focus on the background of hypnosis, its development and what hypnosis can and cannot do for students, he added.

Famine relief song wins Grammy of year

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"We Are the World," the charity anthem by an all-star rock choir which raised $30 million for African famine relief, won the Grammy for song of the year Tuesday night.

"The most important thing was, when we called, you responded and we thank you for it," singer-songwriter Lionel Richie told the talent-laden crowd at the Shrine Auditorium.

"When you leave her, remember the children," added Michael Jackson, who teamed with Richie to pen the song sung by 45 celebrities.

Whitney Houston—snubbed for the nomination as best new artist—won the Grammy for pop female vocal performance for "Saving All My Love for You," an award handed to her by her delighted cousin, Dionne Warwick.

"Oh my goodness. First I must thank God who makes it all possible for me," squealed Miss Houston, the daughter of song stylist Cissy Houston whose debut LP, "Whitney Houston," was nominated for album of the year.

Phil Collins, Genesis' drummer, won the pop male vocal performance award for "No Jacket Required."

Nominated in six categories including record and album of the year, "We Are the World" also won for best pop performance by a duo or group and for best music video, short form.

In other early awards, Dire Straits' leader Mark Knopfler, nominated in eight solo categories, won with country guitarist Chet Atkins for his guitar work for best country instrumental performance for "Cosmic Squaredance." Aretha Franklin won best female rhythm and blues performance for "Freeway of Love," which also won best rhythm and blues song.

Nominations accepted for Hobart Heller scholarship

By CARRIE FLESZEWSKI
Staff writer

Nominations are being accepted for the Hobart F. Heller scholarship, a $300 distinguished service award established in honor of Eastern's first vice president for instruction.

To be eligible, a student must be a junior or senior and have spent the majority of his or her college career at Eastern.

Glenn Williams, vice president of student affairs, said the student must also be a person who by scholarship, responsible character, sense of purpose, growth, and service to the university community, give promise of a life of distinguished service and leadership.

Student nominations must be completed by a faculty or staff member, accompanied by a letter of recommendation, and returned by March 28 to Williams.

Applications are available in the Student Affairs Office, located in Room 115 of Old Main.

The scholarship honoring Hobart F. Heller was established at the time of his retirement in 1968.

"Heller was personally appointed to his position as vice president for instruction by Livingston C. Lord (a former Eastern president), and he worked hard to serve Eastern for 32 years," Williams said.

The committee which screens the applications and determines the winner is comprised of people who knew Heller. Committee members include M. Dawn Neal, an alumni of the Board of Directors; Garland Bryan, retired director of Eastern's Textbook Rental Service; James Johnson, assistant dean of student services; and Williams.

Previous winners of the scholarship include Ronda Leathers, 1985; Diane Kay Gronewold, 1984; and Katharine Anne Taitt, 1983.

Chicago school on record losing streak

CHICAGO (AP)—The varsity basketball team at the city's Benito Juarez High School is closing in on a state record no one wants to claim—the 96 consecutive losses that stand as the most ever suffered by a public or private high-school team.

The distinction as the losingest team in state history now is held by University High School in Urbana, but the Juarez Eagles are catching up, with 84 losses already under their belts. The Eagles haven't won a game since 1982 and are 0-20 so far this season.

Losing is such a foregone conclusion at Juarez that even the cheerleaders don't show up regularly for the games.

"They say 'Why should we?' They're just going to lose," said Juan Calderon, a member of the freshman-sophomore team.

Losers, they may be—but quitters, never.

At a game last week against Austin High School—among their worst, the Eagles say—Juarez missed eight layups in the first half, which ended with a score of 43-23, and then missed a ninth in the third quarter when one of their players found himself alone under the basket.

"They call them 'scrubs' because they're not good enough to play," said Lashanda Warfield, a cheerleader at Austin.

In the final quarter, the Eagles were still battling, allowing themselves to be outshot by Austin only 22-18. At the end, they were drenched in sweat and one player nursed a bloody nose. But the Eagles lost 87-48.

Still, Warfield thinks Juarez fields a better team this year than last.

Nets' Richardson banned from further play in NBA

NEW YORK (AP)—New Jersey Nets guard Michael Ray Richardson was permanently banned from the National Basketball Association Tuesday after testing positive for cocaine, Commissioner David Stern said.

Stern called it "a tragic day for Michael Ray Richardson, nothing less than the destruction by cocaine of a once-flourishing career."

A player who is disqualified is eligible for reinstatement in two years.

"However, the reinstatement is not automatic. In order to be reinstated, it must be approved by both the NBA and the Players Association," Stern said.

Richardson, whom Stern said was tested Monday night, is the second NBA player banned from the league since its drug agreement with the union was instituted in January 1984, John Drew of the Utah Jazz was kicked out of the league last month for a similar infraction.

Early last month, when Richardson tested positive for drug use after a five-day disappearance, the league ruled that it constituted his second violation, although he had twice previously undergone treatment.

Later last month, Richardson failed to appear for a doctor's appointment for treatment for the flu. When he was treated for drugs on that occasion, the results were negative.

Duke from page 16

televised victory over then-No. 13 Georgetown.

Memphis State, St. John's, Nevada-Las Vegas and Michigan rounded out the Top Ten.

Memphis State, 24-3, fell three spots to No. 7 after losing its only game of the week, 82-80 at Florida State, and finished with 865 points. St. John's, 25-4, dropped one place to No. 8 with 766 points after the Redmen lost to DePaul 81-72. Nevada-Las Vegas, 11th last week, improved two notches with 759 points, 12 more than Michigan, which dropped three spots after losing 74-59 to Michigan State.

The second 10 consisted of Bradley, Notre Dame, Louisville, Oklahoma, Georgetown, Indiana, Michigan State

North Carolina State, Navy and Purdue.

Last week's second 10 was Nevada-Las Vegas, Bradley, Georgetown, Notre Dame, Indiana, Louisville, Navy, Virginia Tech, Michigan State and North Carolina State.

Purdue, 21-7, is the only newcomer to the Top Twenty. The Boilermakers tightened the Big Ten Conference race with an 85-68 victory over Indiana. Michigan and Indiana are 10-4 in conference play, one-half game ahead of Purdue, 10-5.

Virginia Tech was replaced in the Top Twenty by Purdue as the Hokies, 21-7, dropped a 69-66 Metro Conference decision to Southern Mississippi last weekend.

Boros named manager of Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Steve Boros was named manager of the San Diego Padres on Tuesday, a day after Dick Williams quit the job.

Boros, 49, who has been minor league coordinator of instruction for the Padres, is known as a cool-headed manager. Williams' fiery temper and handling of players often brought confrontations.

Boros last managed in Oakland, where he was fired 44 games into the 1984 season. His Oakland team finished in fourth place in the American League West in 1983 with a 74-88 record.

An infielder during his major league career, Boros played with Detroit, the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati.

He has been a coach with the Kansas City Royals and Montreal Expos and managed in the minors.

Come out and get CRAZY tonight!

Skip Griparis
Rock Impressionist
Appearing TONIGHT

As part of University Board's Crazy Daze, rock comic impressionist Skip Griparis will be performing tonight in the Subway at 8 p.m.

He'll transform his voice and appearance into Paul McCartney, Bruce Springsteen, Billy Joel and over 30 others.

Keeping with the theme, "It's Only Rock 'n' Roll But I Like It," Barry Drake, a rock specialist will speak tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the Subway.

Drake will be presenting, "The Roots of Rock 'n' Roll 1953 - 63," an entertaining multi-media presentation.

Free food will be given away at both programs. Admission is $1.

Answer the rock trivia questions which are running in the The Daily Eastern News. Prizes will be given to the winners.

This week in the video lounge . . .

See how determination and love are combined to define Loudon Swain's (Matthew Modine) destiny in "Vision Quest." In his senior year of high school, Loudon Swain is to compete against the state's best wrestler, but he first must lose 23 pounds, risking his health and a chance at a college scholarship. And to complicate matters, he falls in love with Carla (Linda Fiorentino).

Also showing is the music of "The Kinks: One for the Road," and the music of Rockworld.

Videos run 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. each day in the Union Walkway.

—Leanne Thulin

Are You a Sex Expert?

Well, Dr. Ruth Westheimer is and she is coming to our campus.

You've seen Dr. Ruth appear on "Late Night with David Letterman" and "The Tonight Show," and now you can see her at McAfee Gymnasium, Monday, March 3 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Westheimer is a sex therapist who has her own television program titled, "Good Sex! with Dr. Ruth" and is also the author of "Dr. Ruth's Guide to Good Sex."

If you have an extra personal question for Dr. Ruth, drop it in the box by the candy counter and she may answer it during her appearance.

Advance student tickets are available February 24 through March 3 at the Union Box Office for 50¢ or $1.50 at the door. All students will be required to show I.D.'s at the door.

Join the fun - Join UB

University Board is currently looking for enthusiastic individuals to fill the following coordinator positions:

CONCERTS — This committee brings major concerts to Eastern's campus including the annual Parents' Weekend Show. The committee's responsibilities include selecting acts, set-up the day of the show, ushering and hospitality.

HUMAN POTENTIAL — Building awareness of minority cultures is what this committee is all about. Programs include speakers and entertainment for diverse campus populations from ethnic groups to the handicapped.

MAINSTAGE — Provides music from the top 40 to acoustic artists and comedy shows in both indoor and open air concerts.

If interested in any of the positions, submit a letter of application to the Student Activities Office, second floor Union, no later than Friday, Feb. 28. Interviews will be held Wednesday, March 5. Call 581-5117 for further information.

Endless comedy and love equals "The Sure Thing"

It's a Sure Thing you can't miss this comedy love story. Remember your first love? Then celebrate the joys, heartaches and laughs once again. It's a Sure Thing the first is the best. This is a story of two college students who are thrown together as they travel cross-country to California. One is out for the sure thing, the other after the real thing. "The Real Thing" shows love conquers all. Roger Ebert of the Chicago Sun-Times gives the Sure Thing a thumbs up with three and a half stars, "The Sure Thing is a small miracle . . . a special love story." This miracle starts at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Friday, February 28, in the Buzzard Auditorium. Admission is $1.

Duckworth, Collins nearing school records

When Eastern center Kevin Duckworth pulls down his first rebound in Saturday's final home game, the 7-foot senior will assume sole possession as the Panthers' all-time rebounding leader.

Duckworth, who grabbed a game-high 14 rebounds Monday against Cleveland State, is tied with Bob Rickett (1962-65) as Eastern's career board leader with 828 rebounds.

In addition, Duckworth stands in fourth place on the all-time Panther scoring list with 1,468 points. "Sir Duck" has shot 37-for-53 from the field over the course of the last five games.

Duckworth leads Eastern in rebounding (251), free throws (110), blocked shots (36) and field goal percent (.614). However, the senior also leads the team in fouls (102).

All-American candidate Jon Collins will enter Saturday's contest against Illinois-Chicago needing 32 points to move into the top spot on the Panther career scoring list.

Cage corner/Dan Verdun

Collins—who netted 20 points against Cleveland State—trails only John Milholland's (1956-58) 1,655 career point total.

Collins leads Eastern in scoring with a 19.8 points-per-game average and has netted 553 points this season.

Guard Doug Crook, the Panthers' third-leading scorer (13.4), also appears to be a sure bet to move into the all-time Top 10 of Eastern scoring leaders.

Crook is tied for 12th place with Bill Geurin (1962-65) at 1,129 career points. Crook is within reach of No. 11 Gary Yoder's (1969-72) 1,144 points and No. 10 Jeff Furry (1973-76) with 1,146.

Rising rookie

Panther freshman Jay Taylor seems a solid bet to hold down his recently-acquired starting job at point guard.

The 6-foot-2 rookie from Aurora East High School was given a starting nod by Panther coach Rick Samuels in last Saturday's game at Valparaiso for the first time this season.

Taylor responded to the challenge by scoring 15 points, dishing out seven assists, pulling down two rebounds and recording one steal.

In his second consecutive start, Taylor played nearly the entire game against Cleveland State's pressure-oriented defense.

Taylor shot a blistering 8-for-10 from the field to score 16 points. The freshman also earned eight assists and raided the AMCU-8 front-running Vikings for three steals.

On the downslide

Eastern has dropped five of its last six games and is in a disappointing fourth place in the AMCU-8 standings.

The Panthers—picked to finished second in the conference's pre-season poll—are 16-12 overall and 7-6 in league play.

Illinois-Chicago, 7-5 in league action, plays second-place Southwest Missouri Thursday before coming into Lantz Gym to battle Eastern Saturday.

Front-running Cleveland State has already clinched its second straight AMCU-8 crown with its 12-1 league record. Southwest Missouri holds down second with an 8-4 mark.

Following Illinois-Chicago and Eastern, Western Illinois is fifth with a 6-7 record. Conference shocker Valparaiso, which has upset Eastern twice this season, is sixth at 5-8.

Monday's 67-52 win by Wisconsin-Green Bay over Northern Iowa dropped the purple Panthers into a last-place tie with the Phoenix.

Panther this weekend and he has hopes for being a Division I All-America.

Grapppler McFarland enthusiastic about last go-around in regionals

Eastern wrestler Chris McFarland is in his final year in a Panther uniform, but he is just beginning his quest to become an All-American in Division I wrestling.

"This is my last go-around," the 158-pounder said confidently as he prepares for this weekend's Western Regionals. "I'm approaching regionals very enthusiastically."

This will be McFarland's second appearance in regional competition. He will most likely be seeded No. 1 at this year's meet.

"I've wrestled and beat half of the guys in the regionals, but I'm definitely not taking the No. 1 seeding for granted," said McFarland.

McFarland has compiled an impressive 79-27 career record in his four years at Eastern. To him, the regionals are the most important tournament of the season.

"If I don't perform well, I won't advance to the National meet," he said. "I hope to put everything together and continue to wrestle consistently."

Last year McFarland was eliminated from regionals and didn't qualify for the National meet. But he's worked diligently in the past year to make sure that doesn't happen again.

"I'm mentally tougher and more prepared this year," McFarland said. "Before, I had a fear of my opponents. I didn't have confidence. Now I have confidence in my ability, and I feel I have the ability to compete with the best in the country."

McFarland is riding a 32-2 record into regionals and has won 21 consecutive matches. He needs only three more victories to break the Eastern record for most consecutive wins.

"I feel I had the potential to have won both of the matches I lost," McFarland says now. "Overall I've been very happy with my individual season and the team's season."

His most memorable bout of the season came at Purdue when he beat the Boilermakers' Dave Lilovich 4-2. Lilovich had finished fourth in the nation the previous year in the 158 division.

"That win was definitely the highlight of my season so far," McFarland said. "After that match I knew I could compete with the best."

In May, McFarland will graduate with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

"I've really enjoyed competing for Eastern. The thing I'm going to miss most of all is the fan support at our wrestling matches," he said.

Duke becomes third ACC team on top of AP poll

By the Associated Press

Duke basketball coach Mike Krzyzewski said he's happy that his Blue Devils are ranked No. 1 in the nation, but he's more concerned with his team staying No. 1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"To have Duke No. 1 in anything is nice," Krzyzewski said. "But we're much more concerned with what's going on in our conference this week. We're in first place in the ACC and that's the No. 1 we're concerned about."

Duke became the third team—all from the ACC—to hold the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press Poll this season as the Blue Devils jumped over North Carolina in the latest rankings released Tuesday.

Duke, 27-2, received 62 of the 64 first-place votes and 1,278 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. The Blue Devils joined Georgia Tech, which was No. 1 in the preseason poll, and North Carolina, which held the top spot each of the 13 weeks in the voting since the season began.

In four of the past five weeks, the Tar Heels were unanimous choices.

The Blue Devils posted two victories last week, beating Miami, Fla. 104-82 and then-No. 10 Oklahoma, 93-84. Duke, which plays at Clemson Wednesday night, is 10-2 in the ACC—one game ahead of North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

Kansas, 27-3, jumped from third to second in the poll with 1,181 points and one first-place vote. The Jayhawks clinched the Big Eight regular-season title with an 84-69 victory over Kansas State Saturday. Monday night, the Jayhawks beat Oklahoma on the road 87-80.

North Carolina received the other first-place vote and 1,140 points after suffering two losses last week. The Tar Heels, 25-3, were beaten at home by Maryland 77-72 in overtime and fell to then-No. 20 North Carolina State 76-65.

The Tar Heels, second in the preseason poll, meet Duke Sunday at Durham, N.C. North Carolina beat the Blue Devils 95-92 earlier this season.

Georgia Tech, 21-4, moved up one notch from last week to fourth with 1,077 points, while Kentucky, 24-3, and winners of the Southeastern Conference regular-season title, reached its highest ranking of the season at No. 5 with 979 points. The Wildcats were 93 points in front of No. 6 Syracuse, 22-3, which held on Sunday for a 64-63 nationally
