Arctic air invades
to bring shivers,
possible snowfall

by Starla Stensaas

Temperatures in the teens will continue throughout the week because of an invasion of Arctic air, Dalias Price, local meteorologist and member of the Geography-Geology Department, said Sunday.

Arctic air is the "bitterest air" from Canada, Alaska and Greenland, Price said, and will keep the temperatures down although they should be a little higher toward the end of the week.

"It has been much cooler this year and we haven't had as much snow," Price said, creating a 40 per cent greater heating load so far this year.

There should be snow at the next major weather break which should be at the end of the week, Price said.

"Chances are one in four for snow on Christmas day, this year," he predicted.

"Although it's a long way off, chances are excellent that we will have a white Christmas," Price said, and the snow should stay on the ground.

In comparison with other years, there has not been much precipitation this year except for the one and one-tenth inch of rainfall Friday, which was the first "measurable precipitation since October," he said.

There was also a trace of snow that was not measurable a week ago, he added.

"The big question for the farmers is the rainfall," Price said. It will depend on if there will be a reserve of water in the ground to fill up lakes, wells, springs, and rivers again.

"I happen to be an optimist and think there will be," he said.

Last year at this time we had a "lovely snow," of about six inches for Thanksgiving, Price said.

Driving on I-57 was hazardous, and trucks were jack-knifed off the road.

Three years ago there was a record breaking snowstorm of 18½ inches during finals week and traffic was jammed into one lane so that many students couldn't go home, Price said.

Meteorologists aren't expecting anything like that this year, however, he added.

President to be announced Tuesday

by Denise Hesler

If all goes as planned, Eastern's fifth president will be named on Tuesday.

The Board of Governors (BOG) is scheduled to announce Eastern's president at its meeting at Northeastern Illinois University, ending a search process which began in April with the resignation of former President Gilbert C. Fite.

Fite resigned in order to accept the Richard B. Russell Professorship of History at the University of Georgia.

A reception for the new president will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Union West-Pass Lounge, located in the cross

Although the actual announcement and final approval of the president will not be made until Tuesday, the BOG is scheduled to pick the new president Monday evening in executive session after interviewing the three finalists that afternoon.

The names of the three finalists have not been released but the five candidates who were reportedly recommended to the BOG search committee two weeks ago by Eastern's Committee committee were:

Donald Dedmon, president of Radford College in Virginia; Richard Fontera, dean of faculty and dean of the graduate school at Southeastern Massachusetts University; Sam Frank, dean of the H. Gaylon Greenhill, professor of political science and former vice chancellor at the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater; and Daniel Marvin, director of the Council of Higher Education for Virginia.

Reflecting back over the seven-month search while thinking forward to future searches, Eastern Presidential Search Committee Chairperson Terry Weidner cited a number of difficulties the committee had and some improvements that could be made.

He said that joint meetings of the Eastern and BOG search committees were important but that the local committee should have more input in deciding which candidates would come for on-campus interviews.

Weidner added, "I wish we'd have been able to interview fewer candidates" and that it would have been "easier if we only had to choose three" finalists to recommend to the BOG.

"Getting 16 people (the campus search committee) to agree on five candidates is very, very difficult," he said.

Concerning the timing of the search, Weidner said that the period during which people could apply for the position was "a little too short" and that the search "took more time, even without the additional four candidates, than some of the people on the committee anticipated."

He said the input on the candidates provided by the groups was "very useful to the search committee," and that the meetings were "informative for the candidates and helped to sell the university to them."

"Part of our job was to sell the campus to the candidates as well as to interview them," Weidner said. "I think the campus groups did a very good job in this."

Weidner said that this search differed from the search for Fite in that there were not as many candidates and that when the candidates came to campus for interviews, they did not meet with as many people.

Faculty, administration list collective bargaining guides

by Norm Lewis

General guidelines for collective bargaining negotiations were decided Wednesday at a meeting of the faculty and administration of the Board of Governors (BOG).

Richard Dulka, Eastern's chapter president of the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) said Sunday no issues regarding a contract were discussed at the Springfield meeting.

Dulka said the AFT will present its "rather long list of demands" at the next meeting, Dec. 11, at the Illinois Federation of Teachers office in Hinsdale.

While the role of students at the negotiating table remains as an observer-participant, Dulka said some guidelines concerning the conduct of the student representative was discussed.

"If any student breaks the confidentiality, they will not be invited back to the negotiations," he said.

Although the student representative from each of the five BOG schools can make public statements, Dulka said when something is declared confidential by both sides no group can release that information.

Two members of the national AFT staff, Tony Anderson and Jack Samit, are putting into contract language the proposals submitted to them by the faculty among the BOG schools, he added.

Most of the basic ideas in the preliminary contract have been published in a pamphlet entitled "AFT's Proposed Collective Bargaining Program," which was compiled through the faculty's responses to AFT questionnaires circulated earlier in the semester.

After the contract is presented at the Dec. 11 meeting, Dulka said the next meeting will probably not take place for a month or so to enable the BOG to examine the proposals.

Although Dulka said he did not know how the BOG will present its proposals, the AFT will use the organization president in the BOG, Margaret Schmid, as their main spokesperson.

The BOG and the AFT agreed to alternate between Springfield and Chicago for meeting places, he explained.

The Dec. 11 meeting will also be the first for the student representative at each campus to take part in the proceedings.

Thanksgiving Regency theft results in total loss of $2,450

A theft in Regency Apartments over Thanksgiving break resulted in the loss of approximately $2,450 worth of items to an Eastern student.

Charleston Police Sgt. Joe Van Gundy said Sunday the apartment of Terrance Ingram of 21 Melrose, was entered between 3:30 p.m. Wednesday and 2 a.m. Thursday.

The thief or thieves stole a 19-inch television, a receiver, turntable, amplifier and two tape decks, Van Gundy said.

The theft was reported to police by Ingram at 2:21 a.m. Thursday, Van Gundy said.

Entry to the apartment was gained by forcing open the front door, Van Gundy said.

Investigation into the theft is continuing by Charleston police.

Carman voter turnout tops all

Carman Hall had the highest percentage, 54.7, of any group voting in the Nov. 17 student government elections.

A total of 2,552, or 26.9 per cent of Eastern's enrollment voted in the election.

A total of 40 per cent of Andrews, Lawson, Taylor and Thomas halls residents voted, or 765 of 2,070 students.

The Lincoln-Stevenson-Douglas complex, which voted in the Union, had a 38.7 per cent turnout in the election.

Pemberton, Ford, McKinney and Weller voted in the Union also, and had a 35.8 per cent turnout between the four dorms.

All other students, including off-campus, East Hall and Married Student Housing, had the lowest turnout, with only 15.8 per cent of the 4,917 in that category voting.

Thornburgh announces plans to seek council re-election

by Ann Dunn

Dan Thornburgh, director of journalism studies at Eastern, Friday announced his candidacy for re-election to the City Council.

Thornburgh joins fellow incumbent commissioners Bud Adkins, Wayne Lanman and John Winnett in seeking reelection. Other candidates for the four positions are Clancy Pfeiffer, William Rardin and John Buesch.

Incumbent Mayor Robert Hickman has expressed his intentions for reelection but will be vying for the top position with Jim Pelton, and Walt Childers.

Thornburgh, who served as commissioner of public property for the past four years, cited water supply, feeder streets, property insurance rates, taxes and governmental cooperation as major items facing the next council.

The current water supply problem is "not an emergency now but we need to be concerned with the water supply and the future of it. We need to do something now rather than waiting till a true emergency arises," Thornburgh said.

"Dredging is the only way," to solve the water problem of Lake Charleston as opposed to a side channel or dike would be more economical and more beneficial to city water users, he added.

Concerning feeder streets, Thornburgh said that both the north and the south sides of the city would benefit from feeder streets. Although Eastern officials proposed Taft Street, which runs east-west between Carman Hall and Brittany Plaza Apartments, as an extension to Route 130, Thornburgh still feels McKinley Street would be the best outlet.

"Taft Street is very close to Woodlawn Drive and I don't see that this would be helping the university of the city," Thornburgh said.

The council had decided to barricade Woodlawn Drive as an access to Route 130 with the possibility of opening it in two years.

Thornburgh noted that Eastern officials had agreed to the McKinley Street extension some time ago. He said that the city and Eastern "ought to discuss the situation more thoroughly."

City commissioners probably work close with the people than any other public official, Thornburgh said. Getting an answer about the city government is the most often heard complaint, he added.

"I have tried to help anyone who has a problem or question. When I ran four years ago, I promised to represent all of the people all of the time. To the best of my ability I have carried out that pledge," Thornburgh said.

Between rich and poor, unions are difference

by Casey Banas, Education Editor
Reprinted by permission of the Chicago Tribune

Two events which occurred simultaneously recently 130 miles apart illustrated an apparent paradox in Illinois higher education.

In East Peoria, university officials at an Illinois Board of Higher Education meeting were lamenting the low salaries for faculty members and the prospect that top professors will leave for more money elsewhere. At the same time, City Colleges of Chicago was releasing a report from a consultant firm that found pay and fringe benefits for faculty members to be far too generous.

The paradox can be explained easily. The City Colleges faculty is unionized. Professors at the state universities are not union members as such, although the American Federation of Teachers has been elected collective bargaining agent at the five universities under jurisdiction of the Board of Governors.

In the last five years, the average salary increases for university faculty members have totaled 25 per cent, while the cost of living has soared by 50 per cent. This year, budgets provide for an average 2.5 per cent raise, with a chance for another 2 per cent if the General Assembly this week overrides Gov. Walker's veto reducing higher education funding.

But university officials fear an exodus of faculty members unless legislators approve budget increases permitting more substantial pay raises.

Then read the consultants' study of faculty personnel practices at City Colleges of Chicago and you may reach one of two conclusions: Either Norman G. Swenson, president of the Cook County College Teachers Union, is the world's best labor negotiator, or Oscar Shabat, City Colleges chancellor, and the board members are extremely stupid. Or perhaps both.

Consider the main findings of the report:

Among urban colleges surveyed, City Colleges stands near the top in faculty salaries and compensation. The maximum annual salary of $28,040 is first among Illinois community colleges, third among the 10 largest community colleges in the nation, and third in a representative group of 32 urban community college systems.

No other community college surveyed provides its faculty with as light a teaching load as the 12 hours at City Colleges.

Faculty members are paid $876 for each credit hour they teach above the maximum load. That not only is the highest in the nation, but $340 more than at the second highest, Moraine Valley Community College, Palos Hills, where the faculty union also is part of Swenson's operation.

The union contract sets a maximum class size of 35 and that, linked with a restriction on class load, limits flexibility and lowers productivity.

The maximum pay for substitute work by full-time faculty members is $48 a class hour, the highest rate in the nation and $30 more per hour than the second highest.

The report also could have said that more than half of the faculty members — 684 or 1,359 — are paid more than $19,000 a year — for teaching 12 hours a week in a 36-week school year. It further could have reported that 5,000 people have applications on file for teaching positions at City Colleges.

Professors at the four-year public universities around the state look with envy at their supposed junior counterparts in Chicago's two-year community college. And with good reason.

The union's goal is to organize faculties at all Illinois public universities. The next target is Southern Illinois University. The chief organizer on the Carbondale campus, a scholar in English literature, has been on the faculty 12 years, and his salary is only $15,000 a year.

There are people in the state who display horror at the thought of distinguished professors giving up their individual freedom to the dictates of a faculty union. But I suspect that many of our intellectual titans on campuses will agree with the old saying that money is way ahead of whatever is in second place.

Illinois public universities may be ripe for plucking by the teachers union.

Recognize Inglis

Editor,

I was pleased and quite impressed by the large number of votes received by Samuel Inglis in the recent student vote on a name for East Hall. I would like to congratulate Taylor Hall for submitting the name of Mr. Inglis.

I believe many of your readers would like to know a few interesting facts about Mr. Inglis:

— He was quite active in supporting passage of a bill in 1895 authorizing establishment of Eastern. John W. Cook wrote in his "Educational History of Illinois" that much of the credit for passage of the bill should go to Mr. Inglis, who was serving at the time as Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction.

— In 1898 the Board of Trustees unanimously chose him as Eastern's first president, but Mr. Inglis died a few months later.

— Mr. Inglis' name is among those which appear on the cornerstone at the front of Old Main.

— His wife, Mrs. Louise B. Inglis, was a member of the original Eastern faculty in 1899-1900. She died in 1957.

I might also note that last year the Coles County Historical Society voted to recommend that proper recognition be given Mr. Inglis. Specifically the society recommended that a room in the University Union be named in his honor.

On several occasions during the 1960s the Eastern News editorially recommended that a campus building be named for Mr. Inglis.

Letters to the editor

Appropriate recognition of this man is long overdue.

We're obliged

To Barry Smith,

I disagree with comments you wrote in your column of Nov. 23 that satire and the threat of a demonstration proved its point. I think satire has its place and I also think student activism began to decline after Kent State.

I hope you don't think Dr. Schaefer vetoed the CAA attendance proposal due to uncontrolled laughter or fear.

I think an attendance policy is a good idea. Unfortunately for too many people the need exists. Because you are in college does not make you responsible.

One of five basic developmental tasks of college is the formation of a personal value system. (Coons, Student Development and Education in College Residence Halls; DeCoster and Marble, editors; 1974) Responsibility is a value; you are not fully developed if you are still forming.

Look at Carman Hall corridors to see how responsible some are. Look in any residence hall room to see how responsible any one individual is. Responsibility and meeting obligations is a lifetime happening.

Only the exceedingly rich can play all of their lives. The rest of us are going to be meeting someone else's demands.

I think more responsibility is gained by meeting obligations than by being left to blow about by oneself. Too much freedom can be as destructive as not enough.

In previous writings it was pointed out that just to take attendance at a large group lecture could take as long as ten minutes. I suppose whoever said that meant the professor must be the one to take roll.

I suggest others than the lecturer, those assigned to the smaller groups, could do that during the lecture; however, I suggest that Eastern not let too many large groups grow. One of the main points I use to recruit students to this campus is the fact that the student gets taught by a real professor (not a T.A.) early in the academic career and the intimacy of a small class.

Economics of the times is having many people look askance at small groups. And that in a time when individualizing instruction is stressed!

But you can't teach someone who is not there. Why are they absent? If the professor is not teaching, then I think the student should privately discuss this with him or her; if that fails to satisfy the student I think it would be proper to discuss the problem with the head of the department.

Too many complaints to a department head should create an atmosphere in which the problem is looked into.

If the student wants to learn alone, why sign up for the class at all? If that is a viable alternative, then push for a "CLEP-Test" educational system. I don't recommend that.

I think the professor is just as responsible to teach as the student is responsible to attend class and learn. (Imagine how the whole group learned when Socrates was in dialogue with someone. But if the most intelligent boycott class to grow their own responsibility then who wins and who loses?)

Furthermore, hard times have hit education. Many Moms and Dads are paying for students to be here. I suggest that bad publicity comes from a headline which could have read "Students Demonstrate Against Attendance Policy."

Consider the legislative impact; the money used to come from Springfield — today we ask where can it come from? Illinois is not supporting its schools...but why support such frivolity? Remember that when tuition goes up! This is how the great un-colleged masses think: "Let them pay if they only go to demonstrate against going to class."

And, Barry, you're not alone. In that same issue I disagree with Steve Murray that he should meet with students once a month to tell them what is happening. I depend on you to do that daily in the Eastern News.

Charles A. Carpenter

Vocalists to combine in 'Sing-In Messiah'

by Phil Carey

A "Sing-In" version of Handel's "Messiah" will highlight the Christmas season for not only those who would enjoy listening, but for those who would like to sing also.

The "Sing-In Messiah" will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 11 in Dvorak Concert Hall and will be open to anyone, Rev. Richard Anderson, director said.

It is sponsored by the United Campus Ministry, the American Guild of Organists and Eastern's Department of Music.

One rehearsal will be held at 1:30 p.m., Dec. 4 in Dvorak, and Anderson hopes that most of those planning to participate will attend this rehearsal.

Three soloists for the performance will be Eastern faculty members: June Johnson, soprano; Barbrea Sullivan, alto; Delbert Simon, tenor and Anderson on bass.

Gary Zwicky will be the organist.

The "Sing-In" has been done before in several cities across the United States, Anderson said, and it is "not expected to result in a definitive musical performance of 'The Messiah,' but rather will be a spontaneous musical experience with some gratifying results," Anderson said.

Anderson is a Presbyterian minister and holds a Masters of Music and Masters of Divinity from Yale University.

He also sang opera in Germany for six years and was conductor of the Yale Glee Clubs and the English Oratorio of Hamburg, Germany.

Girls in male choir met with sour notes

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "I don't mind women getting jobs and equal rights but they're going too far when they try to cut out boy's activities," said Emerson Kellogg.

Emerson is a 12-year-old former member of the all-boys choir of the Wethersfield elementary schools, an organization that fell victim this year to the women's movement and federal sex discrimination guidelines.

"Women's liberation? I think it stinks," Emerson said, who also acknowledged that he didn't like girls but got along "pretty good" with his 15 year-old sister.

"If they want to be equal let the girls have their own choir and the boys their own choir."

"I'm in agreement," chimed in the boy's father, Emerson Kellogg Jr., a telephone repairman. "Women can do some things but they can't do everything."

The all-boys choir was disbanded earlier this year to comply with a Department of Health, Education and Welfare regulation implementing Title IX of the Higher Education Act.

Title IX prohibits sex discrimination by schools and colleges that receive federal funds.

The HEW regulation prohibited single-sex choirs.

Vaughan A. Howland, the director of elementary and secondary education in Wethersfield, said the district disbanded its all-boys choir rather than risk losing about $70,000 in federal funds.

The money is used by the district for tutoring children of low-income families.

"I think the law is rather ridiculous," Howland said. "Choirs for strictly boys have existed for decades. People enjoy the sound of a boys' choir, the sound of their voices before they go to adolescence and a lower-pitched voice."

"The interpretation of the law by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is carrying it to the absurd."

Nebraska-Omaha nips cagers by one in opener

by R. B. Fallstrom
Eastern whittled down a five-point deficit to one in the last 1:20 minutes of the game, but failed in a last-ditch effort to overtake Nebraska-Omaha in a 64-63 opening basketball game loss Friday night in Omaha.

The Panthers cut the margin on a basket from the top of the key by guard Charlie Thomas, and a rebound basket by Jim Oldham with 40 seconds left.

Nebraska-Omaha threw the ball away with 34 seconds remaining and Eastern elected to play for one shot. "We played for the open shot, however quick it came," coach Don Eddy said.

"We passed up some good shots though, and ended up with no shot at all," the coach added.

A 20-footer by Thomas missed with five seconds left on the clock. "We had plenty of time, but the players became too conservative," Eddy said.

"It was too far out, not a choice shot." Eastern had led by a small margin before guard Derrick Scott fouled out with 3:30 to go. "That has to be an important part of it (the loss)," Eddy said.

"He (Scott) was real good on offense and defense." Scott collected 12 points, but pivotman Jim Mason surprised by leading the Panthers with 17 points in a reserve role.

Mason has won his starting center spot back, at least temporarily, because of his performance. "He (Mason) played with good authority," Eddy said.

"It's the best game he's had ever since he's been here," the coach added. Mason pumped in eight of 14 shots and hit on one of two free throws.

Torrejon, Ayres third, Nix fourth in Oklahoma tournament

by R.B. Fallstrom
Eastern's wrestling team garnered two thirds and a fourth place finish individually in the Oklahoma Invitational tournament Friday and Saturday in Norman.
158-pounder Ed Torrejon, as well as Robbin Ayres in the 190-pound class, each grabbed third place. Jack Nix (177) finished fourth in his weight division.
The host school dominated the action with seven individual champions.
"I was pleased with the way our kids did, performing mainly against Division I

Bears defeat Packers second time

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bob Thomas kicked three field goals, including a go-ahead 22-yarder late in the third quarter, and Walter Payton rushed for 110 yards to lead the Chicago Bears to a 16-10 National Football League victory over Green Bay Sunday.
Thomas' second field goal, with 31 seconds left in the third period, broke a 10-10 tie. He added an insurance 25-yard field goal with 9:46 to play, capping a drive started when Bear cornerback Allan Ellis intercepted his second pass of the day and returned it 22 yards to the Chicago 49.
Payton carried 27 times to run his season rushing total to 1,158. His 23-yard scamper to the Packer 30 set up Thomas' first field goal, a 40-yarder on the Bears' first series. The Bears made it 10-0 later in the first quarter when James Scott got behind cornerback Willie Buchanon and caught Bob Avellini's long pass for a 49-yard touchdown.

The Packers scored in the second quarter on a 45-yard field goal by Chester Marcol and tied the score at 10-10 on Carlos Brown's 11-yard scoring pass to Ken Payne. A fumbled punt by the Bears' Bill Knox sustained the drive. Backup quarterback Randy Johnson, signed recently as a free agent, twice drove the Packers into Bear territory in the closing minutes. However, he fumbled the ball away once and threw incomplete on fourth down at the Bear 39 with 1:17 to play.
Scott added 12 points to the Panther attack, and Thomas contributed 10.
Nebraska-Omaha's guard Dennis Forrest was the game's leading scorer, bombing in nine of 21 shots "from everywhere," Eddy said, and five of seven free throws for 23 points.
Eastern fell behind at the outset 14-2, and battled back to within two at 26-24. Nebraska-Omaha took a 40-34 halftime advantage.
"We played real well in the second half and we had an excellent chance to win," Eddy commented. "It just didn't work out."
The cagers return to action Monday night, hosting St. Ambrose in the home opener 7:30 p.m. in Lantz Gym. The Panthers ripped St. Ambrose 86-51 last year in midseason.
"Five of their top six are back," Eddy said. "They have real good balance and play a control-type of game."

Open last weekend, had a 2-2 record.
Rick Johnson (134) and Dave Klemm (heavyweight) both compiled 1-2 records in the tourney.
Eastern didn't compete in the 118, 126 or 167 pound classes because of injuries to regulars Doug Schafer, Gilbert Duran and Bob Holland, respectively.
"I had a few injuries, and I wanted to make sure they healed," Clinton commented. "They probably would have gotten hurt again if they had gone."
Schafer received a shoulder injury in the last workout prior to the tournament. Duran and Holland have been troubled by bad knees, but all three should be healthy for the opening dual meet Wednesday at the University of Illinois.
"We're ready for the dual meet season now," Clinton noted. "The kids know where they are."
The University of Illinois defeated the Panthers 26-17 last year, but Clinton thinks the decision may be reversed this time around.
Increased talent in the higher weights, a trouble spot last year, has been evident this season. Torrejon, a mainstay of the 1975-6 squad, leads the team along with Ayres with a 7-2 record.
Hintze has logged a 6-2 record.
"I think we are better than last year," the coach explained. "Our kids are comparable to theirs and we have a good chance of upsetting them."

Steelers keep playoff hopes alive

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers kept their slim hopes alive for a third straight Super Bowl title with a 7-3 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals Sunday.
Fullback Franco Harris scored on a three-yard run in the third quarter of the National Football League game, played in a driving snowstorm.
The victory, Pittsburgh's seventh straight, left the Steelers 8-4, one game behind AFC Central Division leading Cincinnati, 9-3.
The Steelers would get their fifth straight playoff berth if they close out the season with victories over Tampa Bay and Houston and Cincinnati loses one of its two remaining games, against Oakland and the New York Jets. Pittsburgh has beaten Cincinnati in both their meetings this season.
Rookie quarterback Mike Kruczek directed the crucial victory, completing 10 of 15 passes for 163 yards, while running back Rocky Bleier gained 97 yards in 16 carries. Harris rushed for 87 yards.
