Beirut, U.S. marines attacked

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—U.S. jets thundered over Beirut Monday after two overnight attacks on American Marines, and gunners shelled the capital's harbor for the first time since the summer of 1982.

In Tripoli, PLO chief Yasser Arafat accused Syria of massing troops near the port city.

The American jets flew reconnaissance parties over Beirut and nearby hills after the attacks on Marine positions. The shooting caused no casualties to the Marines and only minor damage to the Beirut airport where the Marines are stationed.

But the 15-minute bombardment of the port wounded 5 construction workers shortly after noon. Officials were unable to determine who was responsible for the first attack on the harbor area since Israel's 1982 summer invasion of Lebanon.

One salvo of five shells and rockets slammed into the harbor area about a mile east of the U.S. Embassy on West Beirut's seafront.

"Nothing fell close enough to alarm us," embassy spokesman John Stewart said.

The artillery and rocket-propelled grenade attacks on the U.S. Marine contingent at Beirut's international airport came before midnight and at daybreak, said Dennis Brooks, a Marine spokesman, said.

A grenade and some small arms fire hit the northern perimeter of the base, Brooks said. He also said Marines returned the fire with small arms and machine guns.

At daybreak, two artillery rounds hit the airport runway. Brooks said the origin of those shells was not determined.

In southern Lebanon, 12 Israeli tanks crossed the Awali River, which has been the self-imposed front line for Israel. The tanks apparently were a warning to warring Druse and Christian militiamen in Lebanon's Chouf Mountains to stop fighting, Lebanese reporters in the area said.

Reporters said that quiet prevailed shortly after the Israeli intervention, which followed two days of artillery and rocket exchanges that left eight combatants dead and five wounded.

In Damascus, Syria, municipal leaders of Tripoli joined talks on the evacuation of warring Palestine Liberation Organization forces. No agreement on an evacuation timetable has been announced.

While inspecting his troops in Tripoli, Arafat refused to say when he planned to leave.

He also claimed Syria had moved one parachute battalion to new positions north of Tripoli late Sunday and had redeployed about 40 tanks near villages to the east.

A leader of an insurgent PLO faction continued to insist that his troops would not leave the Palestinian refugee camps near Tripoli which they captured from Arafat.

Col. Saeed Mousa insisted the camps are not part of the Tripoli area.

The ceasefire agreement mediated by Syria and Saudi Arabia calls for all PLO forces to leave the Tripoli region.

Aid refunding criticized by administration

by Graham Whitehead

An Eastern official recently called the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's method of refunding ISSC-eligible schools "a mess" and a financial aid official at another state institution agreed with the evaluation.

However, two officials recently interviewed said they do not believe major problems exist in obtaining ISSC reimbursements.

Mike Taylor, director of registration at Eastern, who called the system "a mess," said frequent decision changes made by ISSC create additional work for his office.

Under the current system, students receiving an ISSC award pay tuition costs themselves. When the university receives notification that a student has received an ISSC award, the university refunds the student.

The university later receives reimbursement from the ISSC for the money it paid out for the student's award, Taylor added.

Taylor said Eastern handles the refunds to students through three billing sessions. Problems arise when ISSC notifies the university that a student will be receiving an award and later recalls the aid, he added.

"Money that we may have refunded, we have to get back," Taylor said.

"We're not talking about a few, but many occurrences," he said. "This semester we've even received changes from the fall 1982 semester."

Taylor attributed the problems to "ISSC's tendency to work after the fact." He noted that some students think they are going to receive aid, but find out later in the semester that they will not get awards.

Regarding student opinions about the system, Taylor said, "Sure, students are upset."

In addition, Taylor added, "I have complained to financial aids about the situation, but there is nothing they can do about it."

Janet Ruge, director of financial aids at Western Illinois University, said, "We've experienced a great deal of problems with the delay of money."

However, she added, "The only significant complaints occur when the roster changes are made later in the year."

Jerry Augsburger, Northern Illinois University director of financial aids said, "I don't know it (ISSC roster changes) has never happened, but it is not a particular problem."

Although Pearl Mounte, a financial aid adviser from Sangamon State University, agreed that there is "a problem," she said Sangamon State's relatively

C-c-c-cold temperatures predicted for this week

by Crystal Schrof

Winter wear was necessary for many Eastern students to ward off Monday morning's below-average temperature.

Loren Boatman, weathercaster for WAND in Decatur, said cool temperatures will continue throughout the week while rain and snow flurries should leave the area by Wednesday.

"The colder temps will be lasting until the remainder of the week. Maybe at the tail end it will warm up some," Boatman added.

"We are going to have morning temperatures in the upper 20s with afternoon temperatures struggling to reach the 40s," he added.

Judy Fraser, weathercaster for WCIA in Champaign, said temperatures throughout the week will range from 24-40 while the average temperature range for this time is 26-42.

"We can expect cloudy, windy weather with some snow flurries but there will not be any accumulation," she added. "By Thursday we can expect to be back to sunny skies."

The cool, wet weather is due to an "intense low pressure attached to a cold front of frigid Canadian air," Fraser said.

"It was a slow-moving pressure which resulted in a lot of moisture," she added. "Slow moving pressures accumulate a lot of moisture which also makes the weather last longer."

"This system is what caused the accumulation in the plain states," Fraser said.

The Charleston area has received 1 1/4 inches of rainfall from the frontal system while Denver, Colo. has received 22 inches of snow. Wisconsin has received 12 inches of snow thus far, Fraser added.

Boatman said Central Illinois residents can expect cool, damp weather throughout December and January, with February and March weather being cold and snowy.

"For November, December and January the forecast is for above normal temperatures. It should be in the low to mid 40s," he added. "We are going to have above-average precipitation in the form of rain rather than snow."

"However, in February and March we will have snow with cooler temps. Then we will have a full-blasted winter," Boatman said.

Fraser added that "there is no indication in the prognosis that the temperatures will be getting warmer."

"The days of 50s are probably over. We had an exceptionally mild winter last year. There is no indication of a mild winter this year," she said.

Columbia expedition underway

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Columbia blasted into orbit Monday carrying six astronauts who quickly put the $1 billion Spacelab to work, beginning one of the most ambitious scientific expeditions ever undertaken—nine days of non-stop experiments.

The launch was precisely on time, 11 a.m. EST, despite a looming weather front that threatened a two-day delay.

"It's so neat up here," said Mission commander John Young, 53-year-old veteran making his a record sixth flight, sounded like a rookie as Columbia orbited 155 miles above the Earth.

"It is really something."

The crew had a bit of trouble opening the hatch that covers the tunnel from Columbia's cabin to Spacelab. NASA beamed down TV pictures that showed the astronauts tugging and yanking to no avail for several minutes.

Sixteen experiments will study how life forms from Earth, including man himself, react to the weightless environment of space. Included are investigations into the space sickness phenomena that has affected nearly half of the 26 shuttle astronauts.

Sale of helicopter parts delayed

WASHINGTON—The Reagan administration, upset over a resurgence of human rights violations in Guatemala, is delaying the sale of helicopter parts to the Central American nation's rightist military government, officials say.

State Department officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the delay in the sale reflects U.S. concern over the upturn in political violence—including attacks against employees of U.S.-funded educational programs.

The latest chill in U.S.-Guatemalan relations also complicates President Reagan's strategy of drawing Guatemala more directly into regional efforts to reduce leftist influences in Central America.

Two factors cause of plane crash

WASHINGTON—Federal investigators have evidence that poor judgement by a pilot who "wanted to make the schedules" and questionable maintenance may have been key factors in the crash of an Illinois commuter plane last October that killed all 10 people aboard. The circumstances surrounding the crash of Air Illinois Flight 710 has raised new concern about whether small regional airlines are being adequately monitored to ensure they follow proper safety codes.

Closer U.S.-Israel ties expected

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir raised Israeli proposals with President Reagan on Monday to strengthen U.S.-Israeli military and economic ties and to counter what both nations say is a Soviet-backed threat in Lebanon.

U.S. and Israeli officials said they expected agreement on closer military cooperation, such as building a U.S. arms depot in Israel and joint military exercises.

A meeting between the two leaders was scheduled for Tuesday, preceding the arrival in Washington on Wednesday of Lebanese President Amin Gemayel, who also is expected to seek more U.S. aid.

White House Spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan stressed to Shamir, "We will continue to improve our cooperation with Israel while at the same time continuing our relations with moderate Arab states."

A senior U.S. official, insisting on anonymity, said Syria "is going to have to take into account" closer U.S.-Israeli cooperation in deciding its moves in Lebanon. The United States reportedly is asking Israel to show itself as a viable deterrent to what the official called the growing "Syrian strength and assertiveness."

Mather: Lit should teach, please

by Shelly Armstrong

Although English instructor Merrilie Mather has witnessed many changes during her 31 years at Eastern, she said her affection for her students has been unaltered.

Mather, a New Englander who came to Eastern in 1952, said students and faculty inspired her to remain in the Midwest although she only planned to stay at Eastern for six months.

The changes Mather has noticed at Eastern, such the expansion of Eastern's facilities and the increase in student enrollment, have had good and bad results, she said.

"There are advantages to growth, but I think there also can be drawbacks," Mather said. "In earlier years, there was closeness. Now, one doesn't necessarily meet everyone in his or her department.

"There is a real loss of knowledge about other people," she added.

Although students may not know each other as well as past students did, Mather said today's students have a better attitude toward education.

"I'm noticing now that students are more serious about education than past students were," she said.

Mather attributes the change in students' attitudes about education to the "seriousness of the world situation.

"I loved the students I had during the Vietnam War because they were interested in the welfare of the world," she said.

Reflecting on the past, Mather noted changes in children's literature classes she teaches to Eastern students.

Unlike earlier years when Mather primarily taught children's literature to elementary education majors, she said she now teaches students with other majors.

But, she said her students often have a poor attitude toward children's literature. "Some believe that children's literature is not dignified enough. This attitude is less prevalent today than when I first began teaching."

Mather, who grew up reading fairy tales, mysteries, classics and poetry, said another change has occurred in children's books.

"One growth that is obvious is those books that deal with issues such as death, divorce or a handicap," she noted.

Although Mather said she believes some of these books are worthwhile, she said she does not believe literature should be primarily used to discuss issues or problems. "Literature should be used to teach and to please."

Mather added that good children's literature should be sincere and humorous. "Children should have much variety in what they read and study.

"I believe in keeping folk fantasies even though some disagree. It's important for children's hearts and imaginations to explore freely," she said.

Good children's literature is poetic, Mather said, meaning that the author's attitudes reflect their interest in life.

Merrilie Mather

Children's literature should be fun, she added. "One reason I love the subject is because I simply enjoy it. I love to tell stories because it's fun for me and I like others to enjoy them," she said.

Mather suggests that parents do some "homework" on the subject of children's literature before choosing books for their children.

She suggests library research on the subject as well as story-telling conferences.

Mather, whose father was an English instructor, said she became interested in teaching at age seven. She said she taught a playmate how to read and count to 100 by playing school with her.

Mather said there were times when she had doubts about being a instructor, but she said she maintained her philosophy of "a person is a person first and what he does is second."

John Holt to discuss national education

by Jane Erickson

John Holt, a well-known author and leader of educational alternatives, will speak to Eastern faculty and students during various lectures Tuesday.

With background as a visiting lecturer at the Harvard Graduate School of Education and the University of California-Berkley's education department, Holt provides solutions for today's educational problems.

Sue Radosti, an Eastern elementary education undergraduate and coordinator of Holt's visit, said she sees Holt's ideas as "timeless."

She added that Holt believes "a person's schooling is as much a part of a private business as his politics or religion."

In addition, Richard Hosstrand, director of occupational education, said Holt may provide a "vision for the future" by influencing educational views among Eastern faculty and students.

Radosti said she believes Holt will "offer a solution or other ways of learning."

Hosstrand said Holt will give "new wisdom" to students on "what they want to do in life" and will help students become more self-sufficient.

He added that Holt will provide guidance and counseling to Eastern faculty and students and added that Holt's views on home learning are good.

"Eastern needs to be more international. We need to be internationally cognizant," Hosstrand said.

Holt has been on radio and on such TV programs as "Donahue" and the "Today" show, and is the author of several books.

Sponsors for Holt's visit include Eastern's faculty development office, School of Education, elementary and junior high education department, and Illinois Public School Regions three, 10, 11, 12, and 18.

Holt will speak at 10 a.m. in Old Main room 303, at 1 p.m. in Applied Arts room 316 and at 2 p.m. in the Buzzard Auditorium Tuesday.

He will deliver a keynote speech at 7 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. The topic is "A Personal Response to the Recent Studies of U.S. Education: What Would Really Help?"

Panthers learned valuable lessons

Winning has become a nationally respected trademark of Eastern's football program. But as the Panthers hopefully realized this season, winning isn't everything.

Although Eastern concluded its sixth-straight winning season Saturday, the team's biggest triumphs in 1983 probably came via learning experiences.

The Panthers, 9-3 this season and 56-18-1 over the past six years, overcame difficulties in meshing with first-year head coach Al Molde's coaching philosophies and game plans.

Molde, the Mid-Continent Conference's 'Coach of the Year,' in turn had trouble adjusting to a squad comprised of 16 returning starters.

Differences between Molde and his players threatened the team's success and no one clearly understood how to reverse the team's woes.

But when it came down to advancing to the NCAA's I-AA post-season tournament, Molde and his players came together.

After a childish one-day player boycott, Molde and company talked out their differences. The players said their pride in winning was more important. Following a regular season marred by player discontent, the team managed a positive attitude before their playoff contest with Indiana State.

Editorial

The Panthers may have lost their bid for a national championship, but learning how to deal with their differences made them winners.

More than 40 of those winners will be returning to compete next season, and the future of Eastern's football program could be as successful as its recent past. We hope it is.

But even though the Panthers didn't win the I-AA championship, pride and cooperation helped solve some internal problems within the program and added to the process of compiling a winning season.

Your turn

Idiocy threatens peace

Editor:

After watching the movie The Day After and the subsequent ABC news program Viewpoint, I would like to voice my opinion. First, I thought the movie was an excellent way to awaken the people of America and the people of other parts of the world to what we have led ourselves into.

Since the beginning of time, man has been in constant competition and conflict. Man started with rocks and sticks, and now we fight with missiles and propaganda.

It is ironic, since man can decide his own fate and since we have become more intelligent over time, that we have little control as individuals over our own destiny.

For us to say that the average Russian wants global thermonuclear war is simply ridiculous. Neither President Reagan nor Yuri Andropov want nuclear war. We may never get rid of all the nuclear weapons on this planet. If we want to lessen the burden of the constant worry of nuclear war, propositions and agreements have to be made.

For those to work, we must have trust. We have to trust that all the people on this planet are not idiots and that there is a chance for peace.

We spend too much time deciding who is the lesser of the evils. We should realize the fact that we are different people of different cultures and live with that fact. If we don't, we may not live at all.

Fred Szymanski

Meeting place secured

Editor:

We are writing this letter in hopes of convincing Eastern students to attend the Conference Regarding Campus Security, 7 p.m. Tuesday in Phipps Lecture Hall (Science building).

Student Senate President John Cole will talk about a possible escort service on campus. Answering questions regarding security will be a lawyer, a Charleston policewoman, an Eastern security officer and Keryl Keller, a health instructor.

Once again we urge all students to take a role in the safety and future of themselves and the people they care for.

Nuclear 'propaganda' film stirs reactions

I've had nightmares the last two nights.

The first nightmare came after I watched the controversial ABC presentation "The Day After" Nov. 20.

Scenes from the movie in which the bodies of children were being incinerated filled the nightmare. I saw people becoming sub-human because of radioactive fallout.

The scene shifted to a baseball park in my hometown, where my 13-year-old brother was playing. Seconds later his body disintegrated as a nuclear explosion erupted in my parent's neighborhood.

I woke up sweating and frightened.

Monday morning, I read that the New Hampshire Sunday News printed an editorial on the day of the movie, labeling the show a "propaganda attempt."

This point is correct according to Jacques Ellul's book "Propaganda." In this book, Ellul said propaganda was only "propaganda" if it was successful—if it totally surrounded an individual or group.

Therefore, calling the movie a "propaganda attempt" is accurate, as far as I'm concerned. The movie has truly become a part of my life.

However, Monday night, I had another nightmare.

During this, I was surrounded by people who saw the movie, but didn't react to it at all. They were mute.

"Don't you see what could happen?" I screamed, but no one reacted. They simply walked away, leaving me alone.

Then, it happened again; the bombs began to explode. I felt the heat of the explosions. Once again, I woke up sweating and frightened—even more than before.

What if the "propaganda" was ineffective?

Think about it. The morality of nuclear war would probably

Personal file:

Matt Krasnowski

not be discussed as extensively as it is now. Newspapers would not be filling space on their editorial pages with copy debating nuclear arms issues. The papers would not place stories on their front pages dealing with how citizens and leaders reacted to the arms race.

People who saw the movie had to be affected by it one way or another. It was a frightening bit of viewing which had to have left many people thinking and losing sleep.

From reactions reported from all parts of the U.S., the public seems concerned about the possibility of the movie becoming reality.

In the future, as in the past, some will say that it is proof that we must disarm. Others will say we should gain peace through more arms.

What they say matters, but not as much as the fact that more people will be saying something and saying it to their leaders.

The public will be reacting so our leaders will know they must work for peace. Their constituents saw what could happen in a nuclear war.

If the human race can be saved because of a movie, which has been called propaganda, then bring on more propaganda like it.

I, and many others, will rest easier.

—Matt Krasnowski is editorial director for the Warbler.

Committee readies report

The campus security commission will discuss Tuesday information to be submitted in a final semester report, Commission Chairman Meg Hart said Monday.

The report, which will include what the commission has accomplished during the fall semester, will be completed over winter break, Hart said.

Copies of the report will be given to Eastern President Stanley Rives, Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams, campus security office and student senators, Hart added.

The commission is scheduled to meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Shelbyville room.

Meeting set

The Faculty Senate will conduct their regular meeting Tuesday with an open agenda, Senate Chairman Richard Goodrick said Monday.

The Faculty Senate is scheduled to meet at 2:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Be aware!

Lecture focuses on crime

by Linda Wagner

A conference dealing with Eastern's campus security and student awareness of crime on campus will be sponsored by a speech-communication class Tuesday.

"Conference Regarding Campus Security" will consist of five guest speakers, sophomore Paul Robinson, coordinator of the conference, said.

The speakers include John Cole, Eastern student body president; Keryl Keller, health education instructor; Pat Mahoney, a Chicago personal injury lawyer; and Charleston Police officer Brenda Arnold.

The fifth speaker will be the on-duty officer of Eastern's campus security department.

Freshman Peggy Mahoney, conference production manager, said the conference will deal with the "seemingly problem" of crime on campus. She added that it "is not obvious to Eastern administration and to campus police, but we, as students, hear about it."

Mahoney noted that the conference members will also propose solutions to make the administration more aware of such crime and will also attempt to "close the gap" between student awareness and administration awareness of crime.

Robinson said the format of the conference will be open so that the audience will be allowed to pose questions to the guests.

"Students will field the questions and the panel will answer them," he noted. "The student moderator will then summarize the discussion and form possible solutions with the aid of the panel."

Mahoney said the conference is required for Frank Parcells' Speech Communication 1310, "Introduction to Speech-Communication" class. A similar conference concerning tenant and student relationships was hosted by a recent summer class.

The conference is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Phipps Lecture Hall of the Science Building.

Aid

Small enrollment allows discrepancies to be kept to a minimum.

The problem is kept under control because student refunds are not processed until all the personal details on the ISSC form have been validated, Maunte said.

Robert Clement, director of Informational Services for ISSC, said "the major problem is one of timing."

He noted that because many students miss application deadlines, ISSC recipient rosters sent to state universities change.

Clement said another problem arises when a student is enrolled at a different school than the one he informed the ISSC he would attend.

"There is a time lag involved in dealing with these situations," Clement said.

Clement added that of the few students who have called the ISSC office, he has not received any major complaints about the current system.

He added the third roster of ISSC recipients was recently sent to Eastern.

Shula comes to terms with Dolphins' owner

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula signed a new contract with the National Football League team Monday, ending flirtation with a rival league that had offered him at least $1 million a year.

Neither Shula, 53, nor Dolphin owner Joe Robbie would disclose any terms of the new deal, saying they were "personal to both of us."

He was already the NFL's best-paid coach, earning a reported $450,000 a year under a contract that expires this February. There have been reports that Robbie wanted to make Shula the league's first $1 million-a-year coach, but neither would elaborate Monday. Shula said "tremendous loyalty" from Miami fans, players and assistant coaches was one of many factors that convinced him to stay with the team he has directed to 138 victories in 197 games.

Texas gains ground on Nebraska

— Top-ranked Nebraska continued to rule college football Monday, as the Cornhuskers lost ground to Texas in the next-to-last season Associated Press poll. Nebraska received 52 of 55 first-place votes and 1,097 of a possible 1,118 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports columnists following Saturday's 28-21 victory over Oklahoma. Meanwhile, Texas crushed Texas Tech 45-13 and received three first-place votes and 1048 points. The Cornhuskers have been second for eleven consecutive weeks.

Last week, with 59 voters participating, Nebraska led Texas 58-1 in first-place ballots and 1,179-1,118 in points. Nebraska, 12-0, and Texas, 11-0, finished the regular season as the only unbeaten-untied major-college teams in the country.

Auburn, Illinois, and Miami held onto the 3-4-5 positions with 973, 910 and 885 points, respectively. Auburn, 9-1, winds up Saturday against Alabama, while Illinois and Miami have completed 10-1 regular seasons.

The Top Ten remained the same as last week, with Southern Methodist, Georgia, Michigan, Brigham Young and Iowa completing the list.

SMU defeated Houston 32-14, Georgia shaded Georgia Tech 27-24, while the others finished the season earlier. The points were 824 for SMU, 732 for Georgia, 694 for Michigan, 649 for BYU and 586 for Iowa.

...figured I would get it because I was in the conference in rushing." ...my main goal this season was to win the national championship," he said. "Personally, I had a goal of 1,000 yards, but I learned that I have to be realistic with my goals." ...I didn't know teams would be playing me like they did this year," he added. "It seemed they were geared and prepared to stop me."

Staple's finest outing as a Panther came earlier this fall when he set a single-game rushing record of 283 yards against Grand Valley State University.

Eastern's women cagers drop 69-60 decision to SIU

by Kirby Flowers

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Despite a 15-point effort from junior Lori Conine, Eastern's women's basketball team fell to SIU-Carbondale 69-60 Monday in its final game of the Lady Tiger Invitational Classic.

The Panther loss marks the team's second-straight tournament loss and drops Eastern's season record to 1-2.

"We did not play an exceptionally good game," Eastern head coach Bobbie Hilke said. "It was more of a first-game-of-the season type of effort."

Hilke said the Panthers' biggest problem Monday night was a lack of team unity which led to several critical mistakes.

"There were too many individual efforts instead of an overall team effort," Hilke said. "Too many of the girls were trying to win the game by themselves."

"We needed more court discipline," Hilke added. "But we are a young team and it is still early in the season."

The Panther coach said, however, that her squad's execution of its full-court press late in the game was effective and successful.

Trailing 56-42 at 6:25 of the fourth quarter, Eastern put on the press and closed the gap to nine points, but the Panther rally fell short.

"I was really pleased with the press," Hilke said. "We were able to close the gap a little and make it respectable at the end."

Hilke also said that the Salukis deserve praise for their performance, but added that it was still early in the season and the Panthers would be better prepared the next time two clubs meet Feb. 4 at Lantz Gym.

"We have never beaten Southern Illinois as long as I have been coaching at Eastern," Hilke said. "They are a good ball team."

"It is unfortunate that we have to play them so early in the season," Hilke added. "We will be ready for them the next time."

In addition to Conine, Eastern was led by junior Toni Collins and senior Jodi Corson, who registered 10 and eight points respectively to round out the Panther scorers.

The Panthers will attempt to put their early season problems behind them this weekend when they play the Heath Candy Classic at Lantz gym.

Molde receives league's respect; selected MCC 'Coach of the Year'

by Jeff Long

Eastern first-year head coach Al Molde was named the Mid-Continent Conference's 'Coach of the Year' Friday.

"I'm extremely pleased for the university," Molde said Monday. "But the credit should go to the entire coaching staff—they've done an excellent job."

Molde, who has developed three collegiate football teams into winners, coached the No. 6 ranked Panthers, 9-3, to their second consecutive NCAA I-AA playoff appearance Saturday.

"The award usually goes to the coach of the team that wins," he said. "Our team had a lot of talent and a lot of returning players who put forth a great effort for a strong season."

Molde, who also led the Panthers to their sixth-straight winning season, improved his personal record to 10 winning campaigns in 13 years.

Al Molde

In addition, Molde's winning percentage, 65 percent, ranks No. 14 among active NCAA Division I-AA coaches.

Molde, who replaced Darrell Mudra, inherited 16 starters which helped Eastern finish 11-1-1 in 1982. Faced with continuing Mudra's winning ways, 47-15-1 over five years, Molde "survived sensationally," the MCC said.

The margin of the Panthers' three defeats this season, to top-ranked SIU-Carbondale and Indiana State University twice, totaled just 10 points.

"It's ('Coach of the Year' award) a reflection of the team's accomplishments," Molde said. "Just look at the number of Eastern players on the All-Conference first team."

For Molde, the MCC's award marked the fifth time he has been named 'Coach of the Year.' During his seven-year stint at Minnesota-Morris, Molde was named Northern Intercollegiate Conference 'Coach of the Year' four straight times.

Panthers grab 13 first team league spots

by Jeff Long

Eastern's football team has received both the Mid-Continent Conference's offensive and defensive 'Player of the Year' honors for the third consecutive year.

Panther running back Kevin Staple and defensive tackle Chris Nicholson were selected for the league by the league's coaches Friday.

"I'm really pleased," Staple said Monday. "It's a goal for me to work towards and I look at it as an honor."

Nicholson, who could not be reached for comment Monday, anchored the Panthers' defensive line and registered 60 tackles and assisted on 32 others.

In addition, Nicholson had two interceptions, one for a touchdown, and was one of Eastern's top tacklers with 152 total tackles in his last two seasons.

The two players' awards also marked the first time in the last five years that two Panthers have been selected for the four-team league's highest honors.

Last season, quarterback Jeff Christensen and defensive tackle Keith Wojnowski were recipients of the award.

Staple's award capped off a highly successful college career which left him as Eastern's No. 2 all-time rusher with 3,338 yards—second only to the legendary Poke Cobb, who finished his career in 1977 with 5,042 yards.

Staple's 1,050 rushing yards this season made him only the third running back in Eastern history to have more than 1,000 yards in back-to-back seasons.

Staple also led the MCC in rushing (91.6 yards per game) for the second straight season and was the league's top all-purpose runner.

"The award usually goes to seniors," he said. (See PANTHERS, page 11)

Santas start holiday tasks

by Becky Lawson

Two kinds of Santa Clauses will be busy around Charleston this Christmas season—the "real" Santa in his red suit and some "plainclothes" Santas.

The "real" Santa will be hearing Christmas wishes from 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays until Dec. 17.

He will also be visiting Charleston from 10 a.m. to noon, 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. on the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday immediately before Christmas.

Santa's house is located at Benedict's, downtown on the square.

Posing as "plainclothes santas," the Charleston Civic Association is collecting food, toys and cash donations to be used for food baskets and gift distribution to Charleston's needy.

Irma Justice, president of the Charleston Civic Association, said that much of the food that goes into the food baskets will be collected through canned food drives at local schools and part of it comes from individual and business donations.

Justice added that the association would like to have food donated by Dec. 15.

The toys that the group distributes are all donated and then designated for either boys or girls of a certain age, she added. Toys need to be brought to the Human Resources Building at 825 18th St.

Justice said that the civic association will be making Christmas merrier for about 400 people this year.

Cruz said people in the Phillipines attend midnight masses beginning at 4 a.m. from Dec. 16 to 25. On Christmas Eve families celebrate "Noche Buena," she added.

During "Noche Buena" families attend mass at midnight, then eat dinner and open gifts.

School-aged children participate for 10 days in "monito-monita"—the equivalent of the Secret Santa game played in the United States, Cruz said.

Mussnug said that on Dec. 6, Germans celebrate St. Nicholas Day. On this day, children receive stockings full of candy from St. Nick.

"Holy Night" on Dec. 24 is the highlight of the season, Mussnug said. On this night, Germans attend church and open presents.

However, some students believe few differences exist between Christmas in the United States and in their countries.

Senior Aldo Esposito said Christmas in Canada is "completely the same" as in the United States—with one exception. Christmas is not as commercialized in Canada as it is in the United States, he said.

Mussnug said regardless of where she is, Christmas "is greatest when you're with your family."

Festive traditions

Highlight Christmas

by Diane Schneidman

Thanksgiving feasting has come and gone and the spirit of Christmas is warming its way into the depths of America's heartland.

Eastern students can now begin looking forward to the invigorating pine smell of Christmas trees, the gentle sound of carols ringing through the late night air and the electric beauty of multi-colored lights strung throughout the city.

All of these add to the excitement and glory of the holiday season. But where did these splendors come from? The heritage of the American Christmas is as diverse as the heritage of its people.

The history of caroling is no exception to the rule. There's nothing like the lilting sounds of carols being sung to melt the coldest of hearts.

As J. Walker McSpadden explains in his book "The Book of Holidays," "These delicate and fanciful songs for the Christ child have come down to us from many countries. The word carol in medieval England meant dancing in a ring while singing and before that flute music also went with the dancing and singing."

Carols may warm our hearts, but when Jack Frost is "nipping at your nose," more than the heart may need warming. The Dutch and Saxons were well aware of this fact when they brought us the fiery tradition of the Yule log.
