Leary: Psychedelic era altered by computerized individualism

by Dave McKinney

"I should have been paid $1 million a year for what I did in the '60s," '60s psychedelic leader Timothy Leary told a capacity crowd in the Grand Ballroom Wednesday night.

But instead of pushing LSD on the nearly 800 audience members, Leary tried to shed his drug-cultured image in favor of individualism, saying, "It's not the drug; it's your brain that counts."

Now age 63, Leary underscored several times what he considered to be the two most important pieces of advice he could give in 1984: "Think for yourself and question authority."

"There are a number of reasons why you're the most important people on the planet," he said. "You're a part of history that's unique—you, the baby boom children are coming of age. ... That's where my job starts."

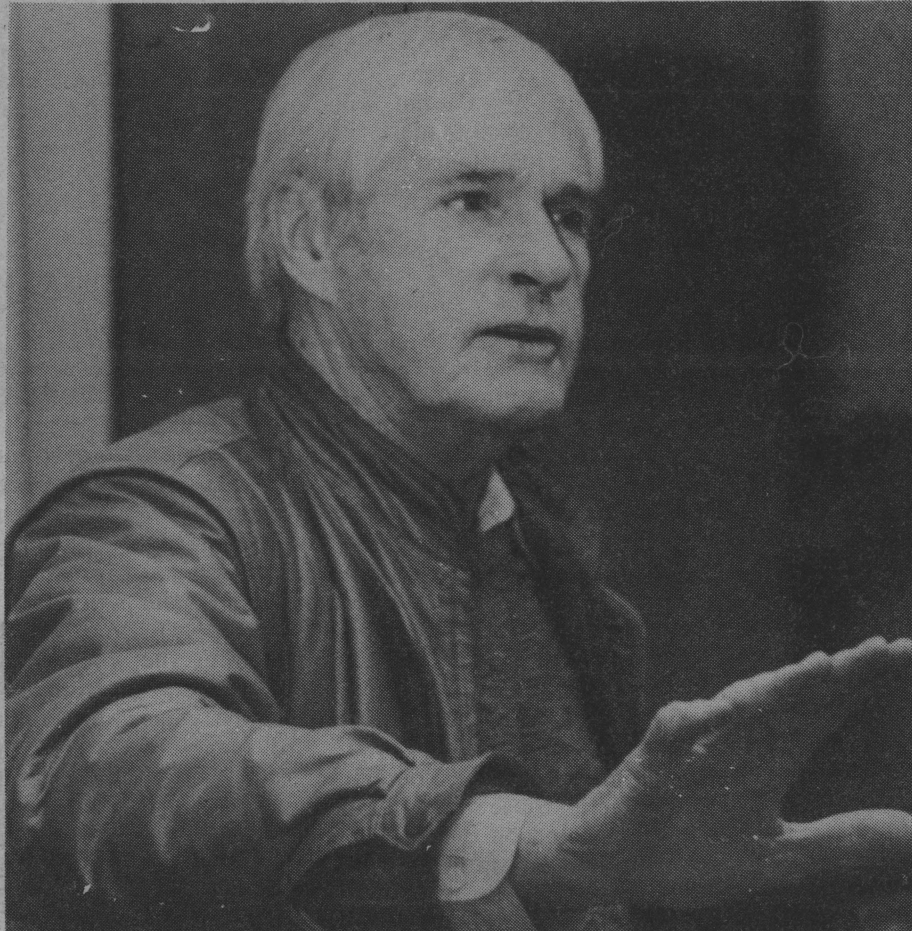

Leary, who called his current profession a "cheerleader for change," predicted that by 1988, the country would evolutionize away from what many have coined a conservative era.

"When it looks like the game's up, there's always a generation to move in and change things," Leary said.

"The president of the United States doesn't believe in evolution," Leary whispered jokingly to the crowd. "But in 1988, three-fourths of all the voters will be post-1946 born."

Leary explained that 1946 brought on "a new definition of the human race." He said from that point until 1964, the birth rate was doubling while Dr. Benjamin Spock was teaching new parents to treat their children as individuals in his revolutionary book, "Baby and Child Care."

"The pudding hit the fan when this new generation hit high school and college age. They did think they were individuals," Leary said, referring to the '60s and later doing a Bob Dylan impersonation of "I Ain't Goin' to Work on Maggie's Farm No More."

"They wanted better sex and better drugs and didn't want a black and white war. They didn't want Vietnam," he said. "Drugs are the way to the brain."

"The trouble with psychedelic drugs is that they work," he added.

In the '60s, Leary was an international figure of the consciousness movement, urging a huge following to "Turn-on, Tune In, Drop Out" through the use of hallucinogens.

"I'm convinced if any study was done of the ten million or so who took LSD from 1966 to 1976, 90 percent would say they benefited," Leary said.

In response to a question of whether Leary felt guilt by those who sustained injury or death from overdoses, Leary responded, "Of the 50,000 boys who died in a hallucinogenic war ..., at least none who died of LSD had to show up at the draft board."

However, Leary said that LSD "looks like Girl Scout cookies" compared to what he predicts holds unlimited potential to "unleashing the brain": the micro chip.

"The good thing about that is it's legal."

"All this knowledge shouldn't be in the hands of the bureaucrats in Washington, D.C.," Leary said. "The only protection from a Big Brother society is for you to have your own personal micro chip."

Leary, dressed in a three piece suit and tennis shoes, spoke to 779 persons for about two hours at an expense of $3,350, University Board officials said.

Senate will request cash for retreat

by Nancy Bridges

The Student Senate voted Wednesday to request $300 from the Apportionment Board for a January senate retreat.

Senate Speaker Ron Wesel said the location request for the Jan. 18-19 retreat would include $210 for hotel rooms at the Terre Haute Ramada Inn, about $50 for a conference room, and the cost of a doughnut breakfast on Saturday.

Although the senate originally requested $500 in student fees to fund this year's retreats, the AB approved only a $200 allocation.

However, the senate used this $200 allocation for a retreat conducted in October for the fall senate.

Wesel said Tuesday that in order to obtain funds for a spring senate retreat, the senate had the option of seeking additional AB funding or paying for the retreat individually.

Past retreat funding caused some controversy when the 1984 spring senate spent $1,157.07 in student fees for their retreat conducted at Brown County State Park in Nashville, Ind.

Wesel said the schedule for this year's spring retreat was expanded to include sessions on Friday evening because the senate ran short of time at the fall retreat, where sessions were conducted only on Saturday.

Wesel also said the retreat would include three hours of seminars on Friday, in addition to those conducted on Saturday.

In other business, the senate approved a line item transfer of $138.53 in the University Board Homecoming account.

Financial Vice President Tammy Walker said the transfer was necessary to reimburse the city of Charleston for damages during Homecoming.

Walker said the UB requested the transfer "in order to keep good rapport with the city."

A barricade along the parade route was stolen at 5 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 20, she said.

The one dissenting vote was cast by senator Mark Erwin, who said the university should not be responsible for barricades stolen during the early morning hours.

In addition, the senate tabled a bylaw proposal concerning senate approval of unbudgeted expenditures, as required in the senate constitution.

The proposed bylaw, submitted by Auditing Committee Chairman Larry Markey, reads: "The senate must approve any purchase over $10 which is not specifically budgeted for in that fiscal year."

If approved, this bylaw would set a specific policy on expenditure approval. Currently no such policy is included in the senate bylaws.

Program's fate closer to decision

by John Best

The College of Business Curriculum Council approved a recommendation to terminate the Energy Management Program, leaving only two steps before the program's fate is determined.

The curriculum council's approval repeats action taken by management-marketing instructors who also voted to terminate the program.

Jerry Geisler, management-marketing department chairman, said the recommendation will now be presented to the Council on Academic Affairs for its approval.

If the CAA approves the recommendation, it will then be presented to Eastern President Stanley Rives for a final decision.

The recommendation to terminate the program, which was voted on by the curriculum council last week during a closed meeting, was approved 19-2, with two abstentions and two absences.

Ted Ivarie, dean of the College of Business, said the proposal which will be submitted to the CAA requests that the program be terminated because of resource problems.

He added that the College of Business does not have adequate resources for its current programs and cannot afford to support the EMP.

Geisler said the termination of the program is a necessary step. However, he added that "just because we are terminating it does not mean we are pleased to see it go."

Before the curriculum committee addressed the EMP issue, management-marketing faculty members also voted 19-2 to terminate the program.

After the curriculum council's vote, Brian Fron, energy management fraternity Beta Tau Epsilon vice president, said, "It looks like there's not much we can do now."

Fron noted that he hopes either the College of Arts and Sciences or Industrial Technology would pick up the program if it is dropped from the College of Business.

The program, initiated in 1975, was designed to instruct students in ways to keep energy costs down and productivity high. The program has had a total of 102 graduates during its eight years of operation.

State senate defeats seat belt bill

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois Senate on Wednesday narrowly defeated a bill that would have required automobile drivers and front-seat passengers to wear seat belts.

The vote on the bill was 29-21, one vote short of the number needed for passage.

It was the second attempt to win Senate passage of the bill, which had the strong backing of the auto industry. The measure was passed by the House last May, but was defeated in the Senate in June.

Under the proposal, drivers and front-seat passengers could be fined as much as $25 if found driving without wearing seat belts.

U.S. business productivity drops

WASHINGTON—U.S. business productivity dropped 0.7 percent in the third quarter of this year, breaking a two-year string of increases and reinforcing recent indications of a sharp national economic slowdown, the government reported Wednesday.

Economists inside and outside the government said the figure would almost certainly climb above zero again before long. And at the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes indicated no alarm by the Reagan administration.

However, the analysts also said strong future gains in productivity depend heavily on increases in the money that businesses spend on new plants, machinery and technology development.

Elected officials start schooling

WASHINGTON—Illinois' newly elected congressmen on Wednesday began their schooling in the intricacies-and pitfalls-of life on Capitol Hill.

"This is a business anymore of staying out of trouble," observed Democrat Terry Bruce of Olney.

Bruce, who defeated incumbent Republican Dan Crane of Danville to earn a trip to Washington, made the comment as freshmen congressmen from around the nation huddled for two weeks of orientation lectures and political party conferences.

Many of these lectures concerned House rules on spending public money, disclosing personal finances and living according to official standards of conduct.

Ruckelshaus resigns post at EPA

WASHINGTON (AP)—William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, submitted his resignation Wednesday to President Reagan, who accepted it.

Ruckelshaus said he is returning to private life with "both regret and a sense of accomplishment."

He said that during his term of office, the second time he has held the job, he has succeeded in restoring employee morale that had been shattered during the controversial direction of EPA by his predecessor, Anne Burford.

"Employee morale and competence is high," Ruckelshaus told Reagan.

"First-rate presidential appointees are in place," said Ruckelshaus. "A management system has been installed that is functioning well and all of the programs have generated momentum."

"In short, the ship called EPA is righted and now steering a steady course."

The president, accepting the Ruckelshaus resignation "with great regret," told him in a letter that he has "justified fully the faith which and so many Americans have in you."

"You have made absolutely clear our commitment to wise stewardship of the environment," Reagan said.

"In doing so, you have established the firm foundations on which your successor can continue to build and in which Americans can have complete confidence."

Reagan said in his letter that he chose Ruckelshaus to take over once again at EPA during a period of turmoil inside the agency because of a "reputation for leadership, thoughtfulness and personal integrity... based on a record of outstanding performance in every job you ever held."

Treasury: revamp would curb loss

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury Department claims its plan for revamping the federal tax system will do much to close the $90.5 billion a year lost to cheaters, but the agency flatly rejects temporary amnesty as an incentive for delinquent taxpayers to settle their accounts.

"Amnesties can only reinforce the growing impression that the tax system is unfair and encourages taxpayer non-compliance," the Treasury said this week in a voluminous report to President Reagan on ideas for overhauling the income tax.

Several states' recent success with amnesty has prompted members of Congress to suggest a similar program at the federal level.

In general, those who had failed to file a return or had cheated on their taxes would be given a brief time to pay up without the government imposing a penalty on past-due taxes or threatening criminal prosecution. In return, advocates say, the government would get a substantial amount of revenue that otherwise might be lost.

The Treasury report concluded that amnesty is not worth the risk.

Even without amnesty, the agency said, its sweeping overhaul plan will make a big dent in the $90.5 billion tax gap, the Internal Revenue Service's 1981 estimate of what cheaters cost the government each year in lost revenue.

Primarily, the report said, the department's proposal to restrict itemized deductions would cut the number of taxpayers who itemize, in the process, the number who cheat on their deductions.

The IRS estimated that it loses $52.2 billion a year because people fail to report all their income from legal sources; failure to file any return costs $2.9 billion. Another $6.3 billion is lost to overstated business expenses and $6.6 billion to exaggerated personal deductions, exemptions and adjustments.

Failure of employers and individuals to submit what is owed costs another $6.8 billion. Corporate cheating boosts the tax gap by $6.2 billion.

Unreported income from illegal drugs, gambling and prostitution deprives the federal government of about $9 billion a year, but the Treasury report said that going after that money is essentially hopeless.

Grant continued for emergencies in Coles County

by Diane Nowak
A $21,817 federal grant has been awarded to the Coles County area for an emergency food and shelter program for the second year in a row.

The grant, part of a $70 million food and shelter appropriation by Congress, is administered nationally by the Federal Emergency Management Agency and United Way of America, and is distributed in Coles County by an ad hoc local board.

Area organizations which co-chair the local board include Eastern Coles United Way, Charleston Township and the Salvation Army.

Bruce Stoffel, a local board staff member, said the United Way of America determines which counties are eligible to receive the funds and what amount of money they will receive.

Stoffel added that funds are granted according to the unemployment and poverty rates of a given area.

That rate is determined by comparing the local and the national unemployment rate. "It (the grant) is timely, we've had a series of layoffs (in Coles County recently)," he added.

"The funds are not provided by our service directly," Stoffel noted. "There are no direct cash payments. We make the awards to agencies."

He said area agencies use the funds to provide food and shelter to needy families. Agencies which have received funding in the past include the Salvation Army and the YMCA.

Stoffel said shelter is provided to "those people who do not have facilities"

The local board will be accepting applications from the agencies until Monday.

Ordinance reduces square parking

by Kevin McDermott

Downtown shoppers will have to be a little quicker from now on because of a new parking ordinance passed by the Charleston City Council Tuesday.

The ordinance, which was passed at the insistence of Charleston's Downtown Merchants' Association, reduces the parking time in the spaces around the square from two hours to one.

The merchants had requested the parking ordinance because of people leaving their cars on the square for long periods of time, which tied up parking spaces for regular customers.

Before the vote, which passed 4-0 in the absence of Finance Commissioner John Beusch, Mayor Clancy

Pfeiffer said he had talked to several of the merchants on the square and had gotten a favorable response to the proposal.

"I've been approached by a few merchants on the square...and most of them were in favor of it," he said. "My feelings are, it's worth a try."

Pfeiffer noted that the ordinance changed the parking times only on the square itself, and not on the surrounding streets.

The ordinance, which goes into effect immediately, designates a one hour parking limit on Sixth and Seventh Streets and Monroe and Jackson Avenues around the square.

Marijuana, LSD, heroin and other hallucinogenic plants and their many uses will be illustrated by an expert Thursday through a film and slide presentation.

Richard Evans Schultes will discuss hallucinogenic plants and how man uses them during a lecture at 7:30 p.m. in the Library Lecture room.

Schultes, a well-known ethnobotanist from Harvard University, is the author of many books and publications in the area of drug and narcotic plants.

Terry Weidner, chairman of the botany department, said Schultes was asked to speak at Eastern while he was in the area.

"He (Schultes) was written about in Omni magazine and he is the person who really knows about hallucinogenics," Weidner said.

The presentation is being sponsored by the botany department and office of faculty development.

Polling places deserve values of democracy

The presence of any material at the polling place which might be construed as less than objective contradicts the basic values of democracy.

In our free society, unlike nations under totalitarian rule, citizens have the privilege of making voting decisions without governmental pressure at the polling place.

For this reason, campaign material is not allowed at the polling place in U.S. general elections; information concerning referendums is distributed to voters well before election day.

Nor is campaign material for Eastern's Student Government elections allowed within 100 feet of the polling place. However, in contrast to the safeguards built into national elections, information from the Student Government concerning the athletic fee hike referendum was offered at the polling places on election day.

Granted, to mail information sheets to the student voters would have been expensive. But because the sheet was not made available until the time of the election, students did not have time to digest and interpret the information presented.

We believe that time to digest information about issues of importance is necessary, especially in the case of the fee hike information sheet because the authors of the sheet were very selective—and therefore, biased—in their choice of information.

The information sheet, which was not submitted to a system of checks, failed to mention that the proposed increase was $7 per semester rather than per year.

The sheet did mention all the atrocities—such as the possible cut of some sports teams—which would occur if the referendum did not pass.

Because of these problems, we believe informational sheets should not be provided in future Student Government elections. The presentation of a referendum to be voted on should be limited to the ballot in question form.

Students are able to obtain information about referendums through the media.

Such a method of presentation would keep our Student Government elections in step with our basic values of democracy.

Your turn

Lens is one-sided

Editor:

In reference to Brian Ormiston's latest dribble concerning WELH and "their waste of a semester," once again you have all the hindsight solutions to someone else's problem.

If my memory serves me, you were one of those "dedicated disc jockeys" a few years ago. Why weren't you so quick to help with solutions back then? Maybe because you were so "dedicated" you often never even bothered to show up for your own air shift.

However, that really isn't the bottom line. The bottom line is that you've once again unjustly criticized a problem that does not need your narrow view of the facts, and your broad range of hindsight solutions.

Maybe in the future you can find a subject and provide a solution before their is a problem. Anyone can pass judgment "after the horse gets through the open gate." Ross Olsby, Joe Heumann and John Beabout seem to be in a better position to handle WELH than a guy who looks through the world from a very narrow and one-sided "lens."

Civil rights have not yet triumphed

Many of us have all-too-confidently assumed that a major cause celebre of the 1960s—the civil rights movement had triumphed over racism. Events in Chicago last weekend shattered that illusion.

A black family of three moved into an all-white neighborhood, an area on the West Side known as the Island. Unfortunately for Spencer Goffer and his wife and son, their $280-a-month apartment came furnished with two nights of violence and terror, as an angry mob hurled bricks, rocks and obscenities through the apartment's windows.

The family, unable to contact police because their phone was not yet connected, finally fled. Not surprisingly, they say they will not go back.

Many Island residents, rather than expressing outrage at the incident, condoned it. A minister who called on community leaders to welcome the family back to the neighborhood was threatened.

Words cannot express the ugliness of racism. Racial or religious prejudice can easily be found in any nation in the world. Even in a major northern city in a country known as a haven for democracy.

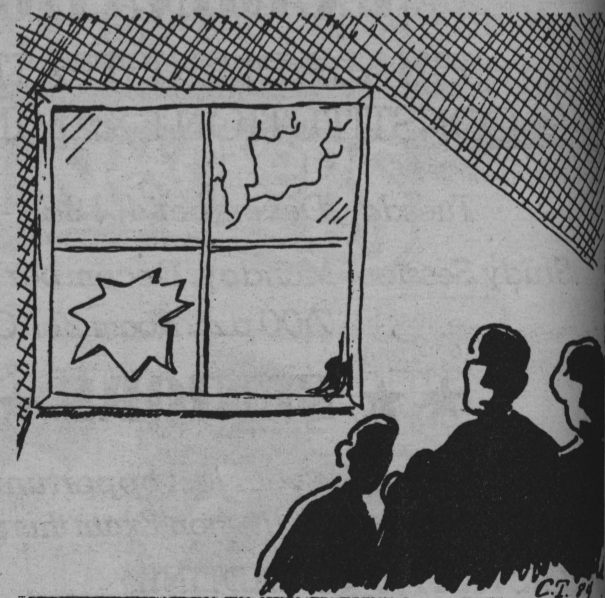

However, that does not excuse the actions of the mob on the Island. Maybe there are a lot of Archie Bunkers out there; that is indeed a sad comment on our society. Americans are free to believe and say what they wish, but that freedom does not extend to acts of brutal violence.

As long as racism exists, racially motivated violence will remain a blot on our society's record. The Island incident is not as isolated as we would hope; it has just been more publicized than most.

The key to eradicating racism is not wish its existence-away, but to recognize its pervasive influence on our society. Only when we realize a problem exists can we tackle it.

Crossview:

The Daily Illini

And tackle it we must. Then everyone—regardless of race—can face the bigotry embodied in the incident at the Island—and win.

Journalists offer career tips

by Allison Ekstrom

Eastern students busy organizing a collegiate chapter of a national journalism society are sponsoring a presentation by two professional journalists from Champaign Thursday.

Carol Vorel of WICD TV and Mike Howie of the Champaign News-Gazette will discuss careers in print and broadcast journalism at 7 p.m. in Buzzard Building room 207.

Vorel is president of Champaign's chapter of Society of Professional Journalists/Sigma Delta Chi and Howie serves as treasurer of the chapter.

Eastern journalism instructor Howard Price, who is organizing the campus SPJ/SDX chapter, said, "I think it's a very valuable organization for students to join."

Sophomore Scott Lovett, acting president for Eastern's organizing group, said the purpose of having two professional members of SPJ/SDX speak at Eastern is "to inform students how their two respective fields work."

"It's a very good chance for students to learn about the ins and outs of both print and broadcast journalism," he added.

The society fraternities currently have more than 24,000 active members, 140 professional chapters, and 180 campus chapters.

Professionally, SDX includes such prestigious members as Diane Sawyer of "60 Minutes" and Al Hunt of The Wall Street Journal.

Price said members of the society enjoy such benefits as national conventions, regional conferences, professional development workshops and internship programs.

Also, many campus chapters of SPF/SDX have sponsored a number of programs which include inviting speakers and taking field trips to newspapers and radio and TV stations.

If enough interest is shown in the organization recently formed at Eastern, the group could be a fraternity; however, Price said it takes two years before recognition as a collegiate chapter is granted.

"Students who desire to join now instead of waiting two years can be initiated by the professional chapter in Champaign," Price said.

These students "would still be members of the organizing group on campus and would be listed as founders of the campus chapter when it is recognized by the national office," he noted.

CAA will vote on proposed honor program

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday will vote on a new honors program being proposed by the economics department.

To be eligible for the honors program, students are required to have a 3.50 grade point average and permission from the honors program director and the economic honors coordinator.

The departmental honors program is geared toward juniors and seniors and concentrates on their major area of study.

Departments collaborate with the Honors Council and design an honors program that fit individual departmental needs.

Eastern's honor program, established in the fall of 1982, is divided into a lower division program and Departmental honors program for upper division students.

The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola.

Working for success

Women learn management strategies

by Beth Lander

Women have natural management abilities; however, there are several areas that need to be focused on if women are going to be successful in the management field, a principal of a Charleston school said Wednesday.

"Women are natural supervisors, although we tend to find it hard to manage conflict," Patty Tucker-Ladd, principal of the Mark Twain school, said. "If there is conflict, we need to find out what both people need and strike a bargain."

In a Counseling Center seminar on "Management Strategies for New-Age Women," Ladd talked about several areas women need to concentrate on as professionals and described herself as a "strong feminist who gives her lifetime to that."

One area Ladd discussed was the desire of everyone in an office to "be a star" and the necessity of meeting everyone's needs.

"As managers, it is important to meet the needs of the people in the work place. Maslow's (a psychologist) theories of needs are: physiological, safety, acceptance, esteem and self-actualization," Ladd said. "The last one is emphasized because 60 percent improvement is made by recognized workers."

"Delegating can make others feel like a star, yet it is not always easy for women," she added.

It is also important for successful managers to establish a rapport with employees; however, this is also an area which is sometimes difficult for women, Ladd said.

"Women cannot afford to get emotionally involved with the people," she said. "The structure can suffer if people tie-up together."

In addition, "We need to give up the part that is coy and cute. We also need to leave the nurturing nature in another place because they do not belong at work," Ladd said.

"Women need to shake hands. Young men are taught this, yet women are not," she noted.

Also, "The clothing women wear should imitate mens and women should have a conservative wardrobe that is convenient," she added. "A conservative wardrobe is dealt with equally."

Women also need to concentrate on support. "Women have a job to share with and support other women as human beings," Ladd noted.

Exhibit featured at Tarble

by Angela Paoli

Art students who enjoy working with shadows and still-life reflections may be interested in attending the Farwell-Day art exhibit in the Tarble Arts Center.

Through shape, color and form, Mary Farwell-Day and Gary Day, have depicted their perception of today through the invention of computers and the ability to process information and images.

TAC curator Janet Messenger said she encourages students with an interest in those areas to view the exhibit, which will be on display until Dec. 21.

Both artists are graduates of Florida State University and currently teach at the University of Nebraska.

In addition, the annual Art Faculty exhibit will remain on display until Tuesday at TAC.

This exhibit features 22 displays submitted by Eastern faculty members including watercolors and oil paintings, large scale sculptures, examples of clothing, wire weaving and photographic displays.

Past CIA agent held for spying

NEW YORK (AP)—An investigation that led to the arrest of a former CIA employee accused of spying for the Czechoslovakian intelligence service took more than two years and included an interview in which he admitted spying, a federal prosecutor said in court Wednesday.

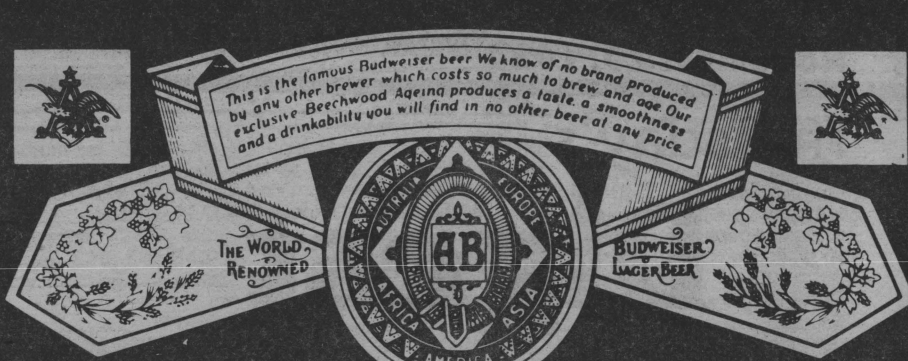

Karl F. Koecher, 50, gave the Czech intelligence agency "virtually any classified or other material, information, assessments and CIA personnel identifications" that he obtained, an FBI affidavit said.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph W. Giuliani refused to give details of the investigation, saying only that it took more than two years. He also refused to describe the seriousness of the intelligence leak. The CIA has declined to comment on the case.

Giuliani said Koecher worked for the CIA for four years, not two years as initially reported.

Giuliani said Wednesday that after working as a translator for the agency in Washington from 1973 to 1975, Koecher became a "contract employee" for the CIA in New York from 1975 to 1977. He would not discuss the type of work Koecher performed in New York.

Eckersley signs three-year agreement with the Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Pitcher Dennis Eckersley, one of four free agents among the Chicago Cubs, has agreed to sign a new contract with the team that will pay him almost $3 million over the next three seasons, according to published reports.

"I think it's a good indication to all our fans and players that we are serious on signing our people," General Manager Dallas Green was quoted as saying in Wednesday's Chicago Sun-Times.

The verbal agreement with Eckersley calls for annual payments of about $850,000 a year, the Chicago Tribune reported in Wednesday's editions. It leaves the Cubs negotiating with three other free agents: starters Rick Sutcliffe and Steve Trout and reliever Tim Lincecum.

Team spokesman Jim Small would neither confirm nor deny the reports early Wednesday afternoon.

Eckersley was quoted as saying, "I wanted to get it done as soon as possible so I could get my head together and get ready for next year. It makes me feel good that Dallas wanted me back, too."

The 30-year-old right-hander was 10-8 with a 3.03 earned run average since coming to the ball club from Boston May 25.

"He had a darn good year for us, especially in the second half, and we're very pleased he'll be with us again," Green said.

In his last 13 starts of the regular season, Eckersley was 8-3 with a 2.06 ERA. He walked 22 in 105 innings.

The contract, negotiated through agent Ed Keating of Cleveland, includes an option for a fourth year at the discretion of the Cubs.

Byars running for Heisman

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP)—Thomas "Pepper" Johnson, Ohio State's All-American Ten Linebacker, says yardage comes harder for teammate Keith Byars than Boston College's record-breaking passer Doug Flutie, the leading candidates for the Heisman trophy.

The Heisman, which goes annually to the nation's No. 1 college football player, will be announced Saturday night in New York. Miami (Fla.) quarterback Bernie Kosar, Flutie and Byars, the three leading candidates for the 1984 award, have been invited to the ceremonies announcing this year's selection.

Johnson, the sixth-ranked Buckeyes' top defender, said of Flutie, "He may throw a 12-yard pass and then the guy who caught it may run for 20 more. And Flutie gets all the credit."

Johnson then spoke of his 235-pound junior teammate: "Keith lines up eight yards behind the line to begin with, so he's working with a deficit. And then, when he gains yardage, he's got to go through 11 guys to do it."

Two Panther harriers capture all-conference honors

by Dan Verdun

Two of Eastern's men's cross country runners have been chosen to the All-Mid-Continent team.

Seniors Nick Whiteside and Scott Pillsbury were honored for their performances in the Oct. 27 Mid-Continent Championship at Valparaiso, Ind.

Whiteside, a Mt. Vernon product, finished third in the MCC event by running a 33:01 timing over the 10,000-meter course.

"Making the all-conference team was a pre-season goal of mine," Whiteside said. "I feel really good about it."

"Nick did an outstanding job," assistant coach Tom Akers said. "One thing we lacked last year was a solid performer and Nick provided that this fall."

Pillsbury, a Petersburg-Porta High School graduate, earned all-conference honors for the second straight season by finishing fifth overall in the MCC event at 33:44.

"At the beginning of the year, Scott wasn't up there but you knew that you could count on him at the end," Akers said. "With Scott and Nick, we had the toughest 1-2 punch at the conference meet, so we have some tough shoes to fill."

In addition to making the all-conference squad, Whiteside was unanimously voted Eastern's MVP by his teammates.

"I'm honored, of course," Whiteside said. "I feel good about it because it shows I have their (teammates) respect, which makes me feel good."

Mattoon's Dale Righter was chosen as the Panthers' Outstanding Freshman for the 1984 campaign. The walk-on ran in all seven meets this season with his best outing being a 33:34 showing to earn 19th place at the Illinois Intercollegiate.

"Dale ran into some problems at the end of the season because a lot of pressure was placed on him to be among the top five (of Eastern runners), but overall he did an outstanding job," Akers said.

Righter said although he was pleased to win the award, the Panthers had several other strong freshmen harriers.

"We had a lot of outstanding freshmen," Righter said. "We're going to have a tough team over the next three or four years."

Lady cagers trounce Butler with defense

by Dan Verdun

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Strong defense and hot shooting led Eastern's women's basketball team to a 69-41 rout of Butler University Wednesday night.

"It was a good win for us," head coach Barbara Hilke said. "We played much better defense than against Central Florida (a 75-49 loss)."

The Panthers, 2-1, raced away to an early 17-4 lead in the game's first nine minutes. Junior Sue Hynd scored eight points to lead Eastern in that stretch. The Panthers' man-to-man defense shutout Butler for the first 5:42 of the game.

By the 9:40 mark, Eastern's stifling defense had forced Butler into nine turnovers and a dismal one-of-nine shooting from the field.

The Panthers, who held a 35-9 bulge at one point, rolled to a 39-17 halftime advantage. Eastern shot a blistering 64 percent from the field in the first half, while limiting the Bulldogs to an icy 22 percent.

"I was pleased that we shot better tonight," Hilke said. "It was a good effort."

The Panthers never looked back in the second half, steamrolling to a whopping 69-33 lead at one point. By the contest's end, Eastern had nailed 32 of 56 shot attempts from the floor for an impressive 58 percent.

Hynd paced the Panthers' offensive attack with 16 points. The Ottawa product canned 8-of-15 field goal attempts during the contest.

Senior Lori Conine, starting in place of the injured Pat Hamilton, came through with a banner performance. The Kansas High School graduate netted 12 points, pulled down seven rebounds, dished out six assists and recorded five steals on the night.

Junior Kim Maxey collected 13 boards and seven assists to aid the Panthers' cause. Junior Melanie Hatfield also boosted the offense by scoring 11 points. The Lawrenceburg, Ind. native burned the nets with an incredible 71 percent success rate from the floor.

Eastern will see action next when it opens its home season against Miami (Ohio) at 5:15 p.m. Saturday in Lantz Gym.

Adade selected for Senior Bowl Classic

by Brent Feeney

One of the reasons for Eastern's 11-5-1 soccer season was the outstanding play of senior defender Albert Adade. The native of Kumasi, Ghana was all over the field, making key defensive plays. He even found time to score two goals this year.

Now, the three-time All-Midwest selection has been given an even greater honor. On Dec. 22 in Tampa, Florida, Adade will play in the 13th annual Senior Bowl Soccer Classic.

"I'm very honored and very happy to be selected," Adade said Wednesday. "When I found out that I was chosen to go to the game, I was shocked and delighted."

Adade isn't the only one who is happy about the whole thing. Panther coach Cizo Mosnia was extremely pleased when receiving word on Adade's selection.

"Albert really deserves an honor like that," Mosnia said. "I went to the 1974 Senior Bowl in Orlando, Florida, and it's a really great feeling."

Adade's name was submitted to a regional committee chaired by Northeast Louisiana coach Jim Cain, who then submitted it—with strong recommendations from several regional coaches—to a national committee which made the final selection.

Adade will play on the West squad in the game, which will be held at the University of Tampa's Pepin Rood Stadium. The game is sanctioned by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. It is sponsored by Budweiser and Adidas USA.

An added bonus for Adade, in addition to being selected to the team, is that scouts from both the Major Indoor Soccer League and the North American Soccer League will be in attendance.

"It's possible that if I can perform well in the game, I might be drafted by a professional team," Adade said.
