Construction Continues during finals

LORI HIGGINS
writer

It will be business as usual for the construction of the Lumpkin College of Business during finals week. Physical Plant Director Vic Robeson said there are no plans to delay construction for a week while students take final exams. "Unfortunately, we have two projects going on and both of them are under time constraints," Robeson said. Time and money are the two main factors keeping the university from stalling construction. Verna Armstrong, vice president for finance and administration, said it would cost the university more money if contractors were forced to stop work for a week because workers are under contract. Glenn Williams, vice president of student affairs, said, "No contractor is going to stop a seven or eight million dollar project for a week."

However, some students are concerned about having to take final exams during the construction. Tim Gorman, senior accounting major, said he finds it hard to concentrate on exams while construction is going on. "I hope that the professors are sympathetic," he added. Several other students agreed that it is hard to concentrate with the noise. Armstrong said the university is sympathetic toward students. "We do care about the students ... we are going to do the best we can." "If an instructor is concerned, he or she may call to request a change of rooms," Armstrong said. However, Armstrong and Robeson said neither of them have received any requests or complaints from faculty members, yet. Robeson added he will talk to the contractors and tell them to "walk on tiptoes."

Art department celebrates building

administration editor

In connection with Celebration Week, the art department will be celebrating the construction of a new art studio building Sunday. At 12:30 p.m. Eastern President Stan Rives will preside over the ground breaking ceremonies of the building, which is located at the southwest corner of Ninth and Johnson streets. Participating in the event will be Vaughn Jaenike, dean of the College of Fine Arts and art department chair James K. Johnson. Sen. Harry "Babe" Johnson and Rep. Mike Weaver also have been invited to attend. Johnson said the studio building will be used by graduate students. "The primary purpose of the building is for individual graduate students and faculty members in pursuit of research creativity." Johnson said the building should open in the fall of 1989, and that it will be none too soon. "It is something that has been needed for a long time - it will provide much needed space," he said. Art classes and labs are currently held in Buzzard Building and the Doudna Fine Arts Building. But the new building will be for graduate students and faculty only. The building was approved by the Board of Governors.

Hollywood Squares draws crowd

By LISA ALLEN
Staff Writer

After three attempts the Residence Hall Association finally hosted "Hollywood Squares Eastern Style" Thursday evening on the South Quad. The event, which featured nine representatives from student organizations, attracted about 200 people. Students cheered on former RHA President Ken Wetstein, who was representing RHA in the center square, as he entertained the crowd with his antics. At one point, he went so far as to sing the theme song from the television show "The Brady Bunch."

Other people featured in the squares included sophomore Scott Florini from the National Residence Hall Association, junior Pam Magan from the Pan-Hellenic Council, University Board Chair Melissa Boehm, Interfraternity Council President Scott Kozlov, senior Latonya Bobo from the Black Student Union, Student Body President Michael Riordan, Pemberton Hall counselor Sandy Gallion and junior Tom Faulkner from BAACHUS and Lt. Colonel Lloyd McCannon from ROTC. Host Brett Gerber, committee chair of the event, asked questions ranging from topics such as campus life to sex. "What is the slowest day of the week at Disneyland?" was one of the questions asked. Sunday was the correct answer. Audience members joined the fun and competed for prizes such as free pizzas and cash. Freshman Katie Deitelheff won ten dollars. Deitelheff said she was going to pay for her lost keys. "It was cool," she said. Freshman Tammy Klein also won $10. She said she wasn't sure how she was going to spend the money, but was considering going out and "celebrating." RHA Vice President Chris Theisen said he was pleased with the high crowd turnout.

Play still performed after sprinkler malfunction

writer

The play "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," still went on Tuesday night, even after a newly installed fire/sprinkler system malfunctioned, causing gallons of water to cascade onto the stage. Between 12:30 and 12:45 p.m. Thursday, water poured onto the left side of the auditorium of the Fine Arts Theater when the fire/sprinkler system broke. The Physical Plant emergency crew responded 25 minutes later and shut off the water. "The malfunction was most likely caused by the cold winter and the warm, early spring," said E.T. Guidotti, acting chair of the theater department. "These factors, combined with the absence of air-conditioning, caused the cuff link holding the pipes together to burst and send water down onto the also newly installed lighting system and the stage." While waiting for the Physical Plant crew to arrive, members of the theater staff tried to minimize damages by catching water in buckets, and mopping and sweeping the water out of the theater. As soon as the water stopped falling, clean-up efforts began. After an hour of bailing the theater staff began drying the electrical circuits and lighting. They also nailed down the buckling masonite stage floor in the hopes of salvaging what they could of the set for "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," and the 8 p.m. performance. However, not even these conditions are halting the show. "The show will go on - no matter what," Guidotti said. Janet Novle, assistant director and stage manager for the production, said an important factor - the saving of the stage - was caught in time. "It was a freak accident," she added. When asked about the dangers involved in this incident and any accidents like this in the future, Guidotti said: "The only problem would be if the lighting circuits had been on and shorted out causing a fire to start. Music professor Vaughn Jaenike said he was surprised about the incident.

150,000 students call for democracy

BEIJING (AP) - More than 150,000 students and workers calling for democracy pushed through police lines Thursday and marched cheering and singing through central Beijing in communist China's biggest protest ever.

Workers by the thousands joined the students, giving them popsicles and bread in their strongest act of support in 11 days of protests.

Beijing residents escorted the students on bicycles and foot and tried to shield them from soldiers and police, who had issued harsh warnings against marches.

But the security forces were unarmed, and although they pushed fiercely against advancing students in a vain effort to halt their march, they did not use other force against them.

There was no immediate information of any injuries in the crush.

Minor quake rattles Missouri

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. - A minor earthquake centered in the New Madrid Fault in the Missouri Bootheel was felt over a large area Thursday, but caused no apparent damage or injuries, officials said.

Dr. David Stewart of the Center for Earthquake Studies at Southeast Missouri State University said the temblor was detected on a seismograph at the center but was not felt there.

"We got a good record of it," Stewart said. "It registered between 3.5 and 3.8 on the Richter Scale and was centered between Caruthersville and Steele, almost directly under Interstate 55."

Pemiscot County Sheriff's Deputy Rodney Ivie said the quake was felt at 11:48 a.m. He said his office had received many calls, but none of them reported damages or injuries.

"They were worried because they weren't sure what it was," Ivie said.

Shuttle mission revives space program

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) - Five astronauts tracked a perfect countdown Thursday as technicians prepared the shuttle Atlantis for a midafternoon launch on Friday. The mission will propel NASA's "Magellan" probe to Venus and revive America's deep-space science program.

"After an 11-year gap in the planetary program, we've anxious to get started," said John H. Gerpheide, Magellan project manager.

Officials described the countdown as the smoothest of four since the Challenger disaster. The chance of high winds provided slight concern as NASA looked forward to liftoff in an unusually tight launch window that opens at 2:24 p.m. EDT and lasts just 23 minutes.

Magellan, ready for its 15-month flight to Venus, "is 100 percent healthy and ticking along," said Lennard Fisk, NASA's chief scientist. "We're ready to go fly," said Richard Truly, who heads the shuttle program and is the incoming NASA administrator.

Earlier Thursday, three Soviet cosmonaut returned to Earth leaving the Mir space station unattended for the first time in more than two years. Two of the cosmonaut had been in space for five months, the other for eight months.

Atlantis' cargo is the Magellan spacecraft which has a radar system powerful enough to pierce the dense sulfuric acid clouds of Venus and map its surface. The mission costs $550 million, not including the $225 million cost of the four-day shuttle flight.

Little people to invade Eastern

MICHELLE GARREY
Staff writer

The typical campus scene includes students at the age of 18 and above walking, running or playing games on campus, but this weekend it's a different story.

Little People's Weekend begins Friday, so don't be surprised at the sight of 215 children walking, running or playing games on campus.

The purpose for Little People's Weekend, sponsored by the Residence Hall Association, is to get the little kids here (at Eastern) to see what college life is like and to spend the weekend with their big brother or sister," said Joanie Green, Little People's Weekend co-chair.

The event allows the participants to enjoy the weekend without spending much money. The cost of a movie for Little People's Weekend will be $1 and Saturday's lunch will cost $1.50.

Green said the theme for the weekend is "Don't Be Blue, Come Clown Around With Us At Eastern."

Little People's Weekend is for Eastern students and their little brothers and sisters, Green said.

Green said there have been more responses this year. RHA is expecting about 50 more kids than last year.

The weekend has been in the books since the end of January, a tradition since its beginning in 1971, said Michele Spaulding, Little People's Weekend co-chair.

"I worked on it (Little People's Weekend Committee) last year and it's very rewarding to see all the little people having a good time and seeing all their faces. All the hard work seems worth it," Spaulding said.

FRIDAY

The activities begin as the popular movie "Mary Poppins," will be shown both at 6:30 and 9 p.m. in the Gallery of the University Center.

SATURDAY

Events begin early as the breakfast will be served along with cartoons at 8 a.m. in the Stevenson Hall basement.

A balloon launch at 11 a.m. on the South Quad.

For $1.50, the kids and their brother or sister may enjoy lunch in the South Quad.

Various games will be organized for the kids follow lunch. The games begin at 1 p.m. on the South Quad.

The participants will be offered the chance to slip on the swimmer and dive into the Buzzard Pool from 2 to 4 p.m.

Stevenson will host a magic show for the kids in the lobby at 6 p.m.

The day's activities draw to a close with the bingo/ice cream social in the Stevenson lobby beginning at 7 p.m.

Alternatives to Chanute considered

By CURT DAWSON
Staff writer

The U.S. House of Representatives reaffirmed last week the resolution to close a number of air force bases, including Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul, by a 381-43 vote.

Currently, Eastern faculty members teach four extension courses at Chanute which approximately 400 students are enrolled in this semester. If Chanute is closed, Eastern's extension program will look at several other areas to fill the gap. Possible locations include Champaign, Danville and a location in Rantoul outside of the base.

By closing Chanute, the taxpayers will save $60 million annually, the Commission on Base Closures and Realignment said. The congressional vote echoed approval of those findings.

Mike Bushman, a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Terry Bruce, said

Bruce believes the commission figures are wrong.

And in a speech on the House floor, Bruce said he doesn't think the commission acted responsibly. "The whole tone of the commission was based on manipulating data, changing ratings, fudging dollar figures and misleading both Congress and the public."

Chanute Air Force Base is only one of 86 bases targeted for closing. The commission said the closing of the 86 bases will save $690 million annually. Bushman pointed out this is less than one-tenth of 1 percent of the Department of Defense's budget.

Bruce is scheduled to begin meeting with the members of the Appropriations Subcommittee on military construction. Bushman said Bruce hopes to work out a plan allowing the department to close a base only if it can be proved the closing will save money.

According to Bushman, some of the bases need to be closed, but Chanute is not among them.

James Beckley, a lawyer from Chicago, speaks to the Pre-Law Club about careers in law Thursday afternoon in Coleman Hall.

Attorney speaks out on law school

BY STEPHANIE CAMPBELL
Staff writer

A Chicago attorney spoke about the changes in the law profession to a group of students in a seminar in Coleman Hall Thursday.

James E. Beckley of James E. Beckley and Associates, Chicago, spoke about his speciality in "white collar crimes."

Beckley, a specialist in security litigation, said the law practice is not the gentlemanly occupation that it used to be.

Becoming a lawyer is not a great way to get rich and if someone wants to make a comfortable living, there are a lot worse things to do, Beckley said.

Beckley referred to lawyers as the "lineal decendent of the witch doctor."

"Lawyers use strange movements, words and incantations," Beckley said. "A lawyer can use all of these things for a result," he said.

If a lawyer takes a strange word and puts it on persons, places and things, and can make it stick in a court of law - that's magic, Beckley said.

"We're doing magic," Beckley said. "Sometimes you are balancing interest and deciding life and death," he said.

Logic and philosophy are excellent classes to prepare for the practice of law and it is important to know how to put a thought together, Beckley said.

"Take at least one logic class and also metaphysics can be handy," Beckley said. "I'm not seeing this in recent graduates," he added.

"When it's all over with you have the memory that you have saved people from despair," Beckley said. "And at the end of your careers you can look back and be happy, maybe not rich but happy," he said.

Junior political science major Linette Vogt said that the law profession is no longer male dominated.

"Law school admission is up 25 percent and a majority of that percent is women," Vogt said.

Proposal approved to reinstate geography

By MILENA RADJENOVICH
Staff writer

Plans for geography to be reinstated as a major at Eastern are developing after the Council on Academic Affairs approved the proposal at Thursday's meeting.

"None of the faculty was eliminated, the resources are there - the faculty, the courses - and it should be reinstated," said Alan Baharlou, chair of the geology/geography department.

"We want to give the students more opportunities in obtaining a degree," Baharlou said.

Geography was previously offered at Eastern as a major, but was dismissed due to problems in staffing.

The CAA expressed concern for students who would enroll in geography only as a requirement for distribution of general education courses needed for graduation. Currently, approximately 68 percent of the students apply geography courses to general education requirements.

"I would like to support this and lend my support to re-establishment of the program, but I think we need a survey to see who wants to enroll in geography and for what reasons. Such a survey would be helpful in our decision," CAA member Larry Bates said.

The CAA is also concerned that the major may require new courses and faculty to be added. But Baharlou assured the council the department is not proposing any new courses.

"We recommend no new courses because all of the courses have been kept," Baharlou said.

"I like the idea, but they need to tidy up their proposal," CAA member Dale Downs said.

The CAA also discussed a proposal submitted by the Lumpkin College of Business to reorganize.

"We are not proposing any new courses or majors within the department. We do not want that," said Ted Ivarie, dean of the business college.

The changes would differentiate between areas in the business field such as accounting, data processing and management. The proposal suggests that the prefixes of the courses listed in the catalog be changed. However, this will not change the content of the course itself.

Hey, it's time to live it up and celebrate

Something different will be happening on Eastern's campus this weekend - something we aren't able to experience everyday. All you have to do is walk out your door or down the street and there it is - Celebration.

This weekend could be the last one before finals to relax and enjoy the outdoors - and the campus is all set for the occasion.

Stages are set up on the quad, activities planned for little people, a huge variety of foods and arts galore will be a few examples of what students can find this weekend.

It is not often that students are able to experience all of these things in one weekend. People from all walks of life and all ages will be coming together to enjoy the visual arts, food and the outdoors.

The festival of the arts has grown a great deal since it originated 14 years ago at the Coles County Fairgrounds. It began as a revival of the old-time "tent Chautauquas," a public lecture series.

Two years later the festival changed its name to Celebration and moved to Eastern's campus. It has been here annually ever since, and it continues to grow.

The weather is always questionable, but so far the outlook for this weekend is good. We're sure there will be something for everyone to enjoy. For food lovers there will be many ethnic delicacies including Chinese egg rolls, Pennsylvania Dutch pastry and Chicago style hot dogs. Students living in residence halls can really take advantage of this Sunday evening.

Celebration '89 will also feature works and demonstrations from artists all over the country. The displays will range from furniture to stained glass. New ideas will be available at every booth and with every artist.

So take advantage of this opportunity to "celebrate" springtime here at Eastern.

Superficial signatures in the past

Once again I have been approached with one of life's biggest mysteries. And once again I don't know the answer.

A colleague of mine asked me, "Hey Amy, remember back in high school when the whole purpose of getting yearbooks was to get them signed? Why don't we do that anymore?"

Hmmmm, interesting concept. Could it be that we've outgrown it? Or maybe the quality of our yearbook has improved and the thought of having a complete history of our college careers is more important than having writing all over it. Or maaaaaybe we've all just realized what garbage all that stuff we wrote in yearbooks really was.

I guess I haven't really thought about yearbook signing much since high school, but it did have it's advantages.

Getting our yearbooks meant that we would get out of school early so we could sit out on the lawn and get them signed. I mean really, what is more important, learning that $E=MC^2$ or getting that cute guy in your math class to actually SIGN YOUR YEARBOOK!?!? Obviously the latter.

So we'd all go sit on the lawn outside our school and pass around yearbooks. This meant you got your yearbook and handed it to the nearest person to you and said, "Sign this and pass it on." How personal.

Without a doubt, the quality of these signatures reflected this personal touch. Anybody ever hear these before?

Note: The following Daily Eastern News exclusive never-before-published quotes are ACTUAL excerpts from an ACTUAL yearbook.

"To a great friend who I'm really going to miss over the summer. Can you believe school is out already? Have a great summer and keep in touch."

"To a really sweet girl who I really admire a lot because you're you."

"To a girl I met this year and hope to keep knowing for the rest of my life. You're a real sweetie and I hope to see you in the summer. If not maybe I'll see you next year."

OK, so after reading these, I had started to figure out why we don't sign our yearbooks anymore, but then I was inspired by one very special signature. It simply said, "Get laid, get drunk, get stoned."

Now this is something Eastern students need to be reminded of more often. I mean what could possibly mean more to a college graduate than looking back at your yearbook and seeing that Joe Blow wanted you to go out and sleep with strangers, possibly contract a venereal disease or two, then go forget about it over a beer, or two or 20 and then go smoke a joint and laugh about how silly it was to have followed Joe's advice in the first place.

How about this excerpt: "To a crazy girl I've known 4-ever. Good luck in everything, especially the gaps 'cause they're all that matter anyway."

I like guys as much as the next girl, but let's not give them more credit than they're worth. This in itself may be a good enough reason not to sign yearbooks anymore. After all, a statement like that in your own handwriting could kind of jinx you for life. For example, the last time I saw the author of the aforementioned statement she was scooping potato salad out of a huge plastic bin at the local grocery store. Oh well, at least she has a boyfriend.

How about, "To a really super sweet, cute and nice girl that I met this year. You are so cute and sweet, love ya! Have a good time this summer and I'll have to talk to you over the summer. Stay nice." Kind of sickening don't you think? Stay nice? I guess receiving yearbooks does kind of bring out the worst in people. I once saw someone pick up his yearbook and start to grow long hair, fangs and a tail. So I rushed over with pen in hand and scrawled "STAY NICE" in his book and everything was cool.

OK, so now that you've been reminded of how superficial all of this was, let's see if we can't improve on the quality of these signatures. Everybody rush over to Buzzard and pick up a Warbler, tell your teacher Amy canceled class and hurry over to Celebration to the yearbook signing party.

Oh, and for God's sake remember to stay nice.

Handicapped

Disabled student favors changes

Dear editor:
I am a student who uses an electric wheelchair. As a result, I was very happy to see the cartoon and article which were in The Daily Eastern News on April 11, pertaining to EIU's accessibility for handicapped students.
I was concerned, though, when I read that one solution to accessibility is to give students who have difficulty with stairs elevator keys. While this idea would help the handicapped students who have good use of their hands, for others, this idea would not be a complete solution.

This fact is true because some handicapped students do not have enough hand coordination to use any keys. Why not do away with elevator keys, making the elevators accessible to almost all handicapped individuals?
Having received my B.A. from Southern Illinois University, I would like to make another suggestion. If installing door openers is being considered, I would like to ask the EIU officials to purchase door openers that are like the ones in grocery stores that operate automatically when pressure is placed on mats.
I am making this suggestion because the door openers that work only after a person presses a button are difficult for some handicapped students to use. I know because SIU installed a few of the latter kind the year before I graduated.

EIU might have a way to go before it is completely accessible, but I was happy that I could get around as well as I could a year ago when I enrolled here. Now, I am very happy to hear that the accessibility will become better. Not only will it assist the handicapped students who are currently attending Eastern, but I think our small campus will be attractive to some handicapped students who otherwise would be forced to attend a larger university due to needing a campus that is accessible.

Balloon found in Canada

By STEPHANIE CARNES
Staff writer

When members of Sigma Sigma Sigma released nearly 1,000 balloons for charity during Greek Week, no one expected a single balloon to travel hundreds of miles into Canada. The balloon launch was held at the Campus Pond prior to the Greek games April 12. Two days later on Sable Island, 100 miles from Nova Scotia, Zoe Lucas picked up one of the balloons. Lucas, a marine biologist, wrote to the Sigma Sigma Sigma chapter and informed them of her find. Receiving several answers from places such as Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, the sorority agreed that the Canadian response was the winner.

Lucas will receive $25, as will Sigma Sigma Sigma member Lucinda Fryman who bought the winning ticket that was placed in the balloon.

The Sigma Sigma Sigma sponsored event, with the philanthropy "Play Therapy for Children," was a contest to see who could find the balloon the farthest distance from Charleston. Proceeds for the event go to the Robbie Page Memorial Fund.

"We sell tickets for a dollar a piece one month ahead of Greek Week," said Sigma Sigma Sigma president Stacey Green. "And then we put the buyer's names on pieces of paper and put them in the balloons," she added.

"We do this sort of thing every year," chapter member Rita Swinde said. "I think it's a good project because it's for hospitalized children."

The chapter contributes to the Robbie Page Memorial Fund throughout the year.

Charleston prepares for crowds

By SARA CRERAR
Staff writer

With the arrival of Celebration Weekend, Charleston and Eastern are preparing for the influx of family and friends who come through the area each year at this time.

But area motels and hotels may not be able to accommodate all the visitors.

Charleston's main lodging establishments are almost full. Managers of both the Charleston Motor Inn and the College Inn said they are not optimistic about people getting rooms at the last minute.

Robert Luy, an employee of the College Inn Motel, 415 W. Lincoln Ave., said the motel is booked solid for the entire weekend.

"We were about half full for both nights a month ago, and about two weeks ago the entire place filled up," Luy said.

The manager of the Charleston Motor Inn, 920 W. Lincoln Ave., Cheri Pierce, said the motel is full for Saturday, but only about 85 percent full Friday night. The walk-in space on Friday night is expected to fill quickly, though, she said.

Outside of Charleston, the motels in Mattoon could hold possibilities.

Closest to home, Mattoon's Super 8 Motel, E. Route 16, is full all weekend. Mattoon's Holiday Inn, 300 E. Broadway Ave., is filled, also.

Mattoon's Budget Inn, S. Illinois Route 45 and Interstate 57, reported vacancies for this weekend, however. Additionally, the L-K Motel, S. Illinois Route 45 and Interstate 57, has "quite a few vacancies for this weekend," employee Maryann Myers said.

"Eastern's functions are usually booked ahead of time," Myers said. "We are completely booked for graduation and Parents Weekend next year."

Helicopter due for inspection

By JAMES SCOTT
Staff writer

ROTC along with the Mattoon ROTC, will hold their annual field training exercises Monday through Sunday at Hood's farm in Ashmore.

Originally, the cadets were to be picked up by helicopter and flown to the farm. But due to an army-wide safety of flight message, the aircrafts have been grounded and are subject to maintenance inspection, said Mae Boyles, public information officer for the battalion.

The cadets will now be transported by trucks.

The inspection is a routine one that's done every once in awhile and could last anywhere from a couple days to a couple weeks, Boyles said.

While at the farm, cadets will be placed into two sections - basic and advanced.

The advanced section, which is preparing for an advanced six-week camp in the summer, will teach the basic section's cadets, Boyles said. The advanced section's goal is to develop leadership skills, Boyles added.

The basic group's goal is to familiarize themselves with military concepts and field training. To do this, they will be put through four stages.

This weekend is the most important part for many of the cadets training because it is prelude to all that follows, Boyles said. More than 80 cadets will be practicing at the farm this weekend.

Recognition presented to students

By CHARLA BRAUTIGAM
Campus editor

International students will be recognized for contributions made to Eastern and the community at a banquet Saturday evening.

"We want to do something in their (the international student's) honor," said Brigitte Chen, international student adviser. "They are a very important part of the student population at this institution."

The banquet will be held at Boomer's With a Twist, 506 W. Lincoln Ave. Around 90 tickets, priced at $7.50 per person, have already been sold for the banquet.

About 30 international students will be recognized at the banquet.

Among those attending are State Sen. Babe Woodyard, Eastern President Stan Rives, Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance, Daniel Thornburgh, director of university relations and several Eastern professors.

Entertainment will be provided by Suhrit Dey, professor of mathematics, who will maintain the international theme with a short program of Indian music.

Rives and Woodyard will speak at the banquet along with international student Tamoyo Kitazawa.

Last concert of year for Ensemble

By SCOTT QUEEN
Staff writer

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble will perform their last public concert of the school year at 3 p.m. Sunday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

The Ensemble will be conducted by Tom Brawner, assistant music professor. "These musicians are among the best in the department," Brawner said. "This is the best group that we have had so far. I am very proud of each of them, they play extremely well."

The music selected for Sundays concert will contain varied work by composers Eugen d'Albert, Gustav Holst, Mariano San Miguelm, Anthony Iannaccone, Paul Hindemith and Thomas Knox. "Each piece will reflect a different style of music, anywhere from romantic to more contemporary," Brawner said.

"This is the first time that the top wind group at Eastern has played during Celebration Weekend, so this will offer people an alternative form of music with a more serious theme," Brawner said.

The Ensemble will consist of about 55 students. "We held auditions and took the top people," Brawner added.

Lectures focus on textile production

By TAMMY HARDY
Staff writer

Production in the textile industry, such as the making of lace, costumes, coverlets, paislies and other items, will be the focus of two lectures Friday and Saturday.

Eastern's art department will host the free lectures on historical textiles, which will be presented by Naomi Whiting-Towner, professor of art at Illinois State University in Normal.

"Textile Treasures: A Gift From the Past," begins at 12:30 p.m. Friday in the Union Addition Charleston-Mattoon Room. The lecture will include a slide presentation given by Towner showing the exhibition put on by the McLean County Historical Society.

"Transitional Textiles: Coverlets and Paislies," will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Fine Art Building room 202. The presentation will include a slide show and a lecture on coverlets and paislies by Towner. Anyone attending the lecture is encouraged to bring antique coverlets or paislies, which Towner will evaluate.

Towner is a well-known artist, teacher, author and lecturer. Her work has been exhibited nationwide for the past 24 years.

FEE ASSESSMENT

You are responsible for providing accurate and current information so you will be billed correctly for tuition and fees. Pre-enrollment fee billing is based on the type and amount of scholarship coverage, the course load, the class level, and residency type DURING THE SPRING TERM.

If there are changes in the way you should be billed for Summer Term, you should give the new fee information to Registration Office personnel. A student who pre-enrolls has two convenient opportunities to correct fee status information: a student may complete a new fee certification card (1) during pre-enrollment OR (2) at early enrollment (Wrap-Up) JUST BEFORE paying the cashier.

A student who has questions regarding fee assessments should come to or call the Registration Office.

A current sophomore who expects to become a junior at the close of Spring Semester should pay upper-division fees for Summer.

Michael D. Taylor Director, Registration

INTERSESSION REGISTRATION

IF YOU ARE A CONTINUING STUDENT WHO DID NOT PRE-ENROLL FOR INTERSESSION 1989, you may register on Friday, May 5 in the Registration Operations Room (south basement McAfee) between 9:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

When you register on May 5, Bring your I.D. card and PAYMENT FOR TUITION AND FEES.

Conference review for Eastern

PHIL CHAPARRO
Staff writer

Eastern's women's track team get a dose of Gateway conference competition this weekend when it travels to Western Illinois-Carbondale to compete in the Saluki Invitational. The Lady Panthers will join a total of 14 teams and get their first look at league rivals Illinois State, Western Illinois and host Eastern before the GCAC outdoor meet to be held in two weeks at Macomb.

Eastern standout Tina Dawson will get a shot to qualify for the NCAA outdoor championships in the Saluki Invite's heptathlon, and Eastern coach John Craft said her performance will be enhanced if the weather cooperates.

Dawson piled up 4,998 points in the seven-event competition at the EIU Invite two weeks ago, leaving her just 202 points shy of the 5,200-point qualifying mark.

Christi Baum is another Lady Panther that will be looking forward to compete at Southern this weekend.

Baum, who was red-shirted for the entire 1988 outdoor season because of a severe knee injury, is coming off her finest performance of the season.

Last weekend at the Illinois State meet, Baum placed first in the 100-meter dash at 132.4, and Craft said she is back to the form that made her one of the event's top Midwest performers in 1987.

Baum is throwing well, and she can throw over 130 feet when she is throwing well," Craft said. "She's got a lot of confidence and she's looking forward to going back to SIU."

Lady netters drop Gateway opener

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's women's tennis team dropped a 5-3 decision to Western Illinois in Thursday's opening round of the Gateway Conference tournament.

"This is a match that we needed to get," Alexander said. "It just wasn't meant to be."

Missy Holste dropped a 6-0, 6-2 decision at No. 1 singles, Dawn Brannon lost at No. 2 singles 6-2, 2-6, 6-4 and Jill Bachochin fell at No. 3 singles 6-4, 6-4.

"Dawn Brannon played the best match that she's played," Alexander said. At No. 4 singles, Angel Hoffek, who ended the regular season with a 13-2 mark, fell 2-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Sue Cottingham raised her record to 10-6 with a 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 victory at No. 5 singles, while Lori Neate now sports an identical record after rolling to a 6-0, 6-0 win at No. 6 singles.

The Lady Panthers then needed to win all three doubles matches to win the meet, and Hoffek and Brannon did score a 6-4, 6-1 victory at No. 3 doubles to hike their record to 15-1.

But Holste and Kim Rhodes suffered a 6-2, 6-3 loss at No. 1 doubles, and the Westerwinds were declared the winners.

At No. 2 doubles, the team of Bachochin and Cottingham won the first set 7-6 and took the first game of the second set before the match was halted because the result was confirmed.

Eastern's men's tennis team will travel this weekend to the Association of Mid-Continent Universities championship at Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Tracksters to Southern

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's track team, ready for a final tune-up prior to the Association of Mid-Continent Universities meet, will head to Carbondale and a non-scoring meet at Southern Illinois this weekend.

Aside from the Panthers and Salukis, other teams competing include Arkansas, Arkansas State, Mississippi, Mississippi State and Illinois State.

"We're hoping to improve on a good performance from last week," said Eastern assistant coach Tom Akers. "We're looking for real good efforts all across the boards." For the third consecutive week, the Panthers will be without the services of decathlete Darrin Steele, who is suffering from a slight quad strain.

But Steele's brother, Dan, will get another shot to qualify for the NCAA meet in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles.

"This meet will probably be better for Dan than the conference meet," Akers said. "We may want to double him up (have Steele compete in other events) then."

Akers also expects sprinters Eric Childs and Greg Heggs to get set for next week's AMCU meet.

Streaking Panthers bomb St. Louis

TIM KOSKA / Staff photographer

Eastern centerfielder Matt Legaspi rounds third after hitting a home run in the Panthers' 14-2 victory in the first game of a doubleheader against St. Louis Thursday at Monier Field.

Eastern outscores Billikens 24-4 in home doubleheader

By BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Eastern's baseball team keeps rolling on.

St. Louis University was the victim Wednesday at Monier Field, where the Panthers brutalized the Billiken pitchers in the twinbill by counts of 14-3 and 10-1.

The Panthers (24-14) have swept their last three opponents and have won seven in a row dating back to April 19, when Eastern took the second game of a doubleheader against Southern Illinois.

Eastern now stays home for a four-game set with Northern Iowa at 1 p.m. Saturday and noon Sunday, with the Association of Mid-Continent Universities Gray Division title hopes on the line. The Panthers are currently in a dogfight with Southwest Missouri State, both squads sitting atop the division at 4-2.

Dana Leibovitz, the left-handed hitting first baseman of the Panthers, led the team in the first game with three hits in four at bats. The 6-2 junior punched in two runs, as well.

Leibovitz exhibited prowess in the field, as evidenced in the third inning of the second game. Centerfielder Mike Miller ripped the ball down the first-base line, but Leibovitz flagged down the ball straying into foul territory.

He then flipped the ball to a charging Mike Kundrat, who stepped on the bag to beat Miller by two steps.

Third baseman Greg Goodley knocked in three runs in the opener, with two coming on a bases-loaded single in the six-run fourth inning for the Panthers.

The nightcap was to be the Dan Hargis and Jeff Jetel show.

The junior catcher belted a home run in the third, a triple in the fifth and a double in the sixth, missing the easiest hit of the cycle — a single — before the seven-inning contest ended. Hargis was 3-for-4 with six runs batted in for the second game.

Hargis' shot came after Chris Steil got to first on a fielder's choice and Jetel walked. Hargis then, with a one ball and two strike count, sent the ensuing Mike Weiss fastball via air mail to dead center and over the 380-foot mark.

But as well as Hargis played, Jetel, who precedes the cleanup hitting catcher in the batting order, consistently set the table for him. Jetel was perfect for the second game going 3-for-3 with a walk. The 6-0, 180-pound left-fielder led the AMCU with a .401 average last year.

The freshman tandem of Mike

Conner and Mike Kundrat started the games for the Panthers.

Kundrat (1-0), a right-hander started and got the victory in the second game. Kundrat gave up one run in three innings of work. He combined in the game with Frank Jablonski, Mike Deese and Jim Sweeney.

Conner (1-0), notched the victory in the first game for Eastern. The freshman right-hander was five innings and gave up two runs on seven hits. He fanned three Billikens. Ryan Edwards pitched the final two innings, giving up a single run.

In only his third start, Conner was masterful in his work against St. Louis.

He said nerves were not as big a problem as in the Illinois matchup on April 11.

Conner said the reason for the gelling of the team is having game experience.

"With all of the new people coming in, we just had to get used to each other," Conner said.

Eastern coach Dan Callahan said he expected and was satisfied with the last two days' results which include Wednesday's sweep of Butler.

"Those definitely weren't two of our stronger opponents this year. We should have won four games and we did," Callahan said.

Panthers set for spring test

By DAVID BRUMMER
Staff writer

Five weeks of adjusting to new formations. Five weeks of dealing with uncooperative weather. Five weeks of bumps, bruises and — in some cases — injuries.

It all ends Friday with Eastern's annual Blue-Gray public intrasquad scrimmage 7:30 p.m. at O'Brien Stadium.

"This is another opportunity for players to put themselves in a game situation," said Eastern coach Bob Spoo. "Especially the quarterbacks."

If there are any quarterbacks.

Starting quarterback Eric Arnold is sitting out contact drills this spring while he rehabilitates a knee injury from last fall. And second-string candidate Quinn Steiner will likely be out with a bruised knee.

That leaves Eastern with only one quarterback for each team. Sophomore Mike Sahn (6-1, 200 pounds) will work for the Gray Team. Fellow sophomore Lee Borkowski (6-1, 180) will lead the Blue Team.

"We'll probably have to go with a fast whistle (to protect the quarterback)," Spoo said. "Maybe we'll put (different) shirts on them so they stand out more."

The injury situation at quarterback is but a sample of Eastern's health woes. Three defensive starters, including 1988 Gateway

Pepsi to sponsor Blue-Gray game

Pepsi-Cola Co. has a couple of promotions planned when it sponsors Friday's Blue-Gray intrasquad scrimmage.

The two Eastern intrasquad teams will be designated as the Pepsi-Blue Team and the Diet Pepsi-Gray Team.

Also, Pepsi-Cola will offer each person entering the stadium a Diet Pepsi or a regular Pepsi. Those choosing Diet Pepsi will be designated as Gray Team supporters, while those picking regular Pepsi will back the Blue Team.

There is no admission charge for the game.

Defensive Player of the Year John Jurkovic, will miss the game and All-Gateway receiver Ralph Stewart is listed as doubtful.

"We've got enough bumps and bruises that we're pretty thin at this point," Spoo said. "So, that's a real concern."

Also a concern for Spoo is seeing how well his team has adapted to new one-back offensive formations that were implemented this spring. Rained-out practice sessions prohibited the Panthers from getting a firm grip on the new offensive emphasis, but Spoo said that he thinks his team has gotten most of the formations down.

How many of them will be on display is a question, though. Austin Peay, Eastern's first opponent of the 1989 season, will scout the Blue-Gray scrimmage.

"I don't think we'll show all of our formations," Spoo said. "We'll probably stay pretty basic."

Players for the two teams were drafted by Arnold, Jurkovic, linebacker Jeff Mills, who'll miss the game because of a sore shoulder, and offensive tackle Brent Fischer, who'll sit out with a knee injury. Arnold and Mills picked the Blue Team, Jurkovic and Fischer selected players for the Gray Team.

Heading up the Blue offense will be junior fullback John Sengstock. The defense is led by cornerback R.L. Reynolds.

The Gray team features safety Daryl Holcombe and tailback Jamie Jones.

John Smith, Randy Melvin, Bill Legg and Darrell Hazell will coach the Gray Team. Brock Spack, Chuck Clemens, Eric Holm and Dave Andriano will coach the Blue team.

"I'd like to see a continuance of the same type of intensity that has been going on all through the spring," Spoo said of his goals for the scrimmage. "We'll be looking for some good hitting out there and intelligence out there."

Lady Panthers seek to even Gateway mark

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Sports editor

With Eastern's softball squad posting its worst start in coach Janet Marquis' four-season tenure, the Lady Panthers (7-17) are looking to pick up four crucial Gateway Conference wins this weekend in Iowa.

"Frankly, we're happy to be playing two teams (Northern Iowa and Drake) doing worse than we are," Marquis said. "If we have a big weekend, we can go over the .500 mark in the Gateway."

At 4-6 in league play, seventh-place Eastern could be considered the favorite when traveling to Cedar Falls, Iowa to meet UNI, which holds a 3-5 Gateway mark.

The purple Panthers, however, hold an eight-game win streak that includes a Wednesday twinbill sweep of Drake.

"Northern Iowa is pretty fundamentally sound," Eastern centerfielder Melanie Maynard said. "We need to hit well, because they don't make mistakes."

In earned run average, UNI's pitchers rank second in the Gateway behind league-leading Illinois State.

Krista Fosbinder, 12-11, is scheduled to pitch the first game for the purple Panthers, while Sarah O'Byrne (11-9) will take the mound for UNI in the nightcap.

"We need our big sticks to come through offensively," Marquis said. "Most of the runs that we've scored come from the top or bottom of our order."

Maynard, second on the team with a .286 batting average, holds a seven-game hit streak.

"I'm seeing the ball real well now," Maynard said.

"Melanie makes good contact every time at the plate," Marquis said of the senior who has struck out just six times in 218 Eastern at bats. "It's just whether the ball falls in or out. The last seven games it has."

Drake also holds a seven-game streak — or skid if one prefers — as the Bulldogs are winless in Gateway play.

"We should beat them," Maynard said of Saturday's doubleheader in Des Moines.

Although Bulldogs hitters lead the Gateway in batting average (.282), Drake's pitchers give up more than three runs a game.

Tarble provides art activities

SANDY SKADAUSKI
Editor

When you are trudging from the main Hall across the "tunnel," the last thing you are probably thinking about is art. The all-white building on the edge of the field signals the end to a long walk. The building's, better known as the Tarble Arts Center, basic purpose is to "provide art activities and stimulate people to participate in them," said the Arts Director Michael Watts. The center achieves this by offering a wide variety of activities ranging from exhibitions to enrichment programs open to the community and students. The only exception to this rule are the annual events open only to Tarble Arts members.

"Most people don't like everything but it gives students an opportunity to choose an exhibition they want to attend," Watts said.

Just what exactly does the Tarble Arts Center offer?

"We have an exhibition program that runs all year around and film and video series," Watts said. "For example, first semester we focused video and film as an art form and then this second semester we showed our film and video program as more of a documentary about artists."

In conjunction with the art department, the Center holds an all-student show, a graduate exhibition, and a faculty exhibition annually. "We serve as a sight for piano recitals for teachers and the Charleston area Art Council," Watts said.

The Center also serves as a meeting place for different groups such as the Illinois Arts Council, the Illinois Arts Alliance and other state and local groups.

Tours are offered to students and adults and are conducted by docents, people who "teach from objects."

Schools in the area have had the opportunity to partake in the many activities held at the center.

These activities include enrichment programs for schoolage children, which has focused on fifth graders in the past. The activities have now expanded to junior high levels, childrens exhibition featuring school childrens art works in about 20 area schools, childrens art from foreign countries and Celebration Weekend activities. The list goes on and on with many more activities and opportunities for students and residents.

With so many activities and options open to the center, it is no wonder Watts' job can be difficult at times. "You want to do it all but you can't. We are trying to reduce the number of ideas presented in order to give more time to plan present ideas and still maintain quality," Watts.

Watts has been with the Tarble Art Center for three years and says the variety of what goes on is one challenge. "Certainly, things are not routine around here and we are trying to make it more routine. It's interesting to put together a

Dear Reader

Most people simply walk by the Fine Arts Building and Tarble Arts Center without giving either a second look. I found out something interesting after doing interviews with the people in charge of what goes on at the Fine Arts Building. I found that those people who do go in there, never come out.

What I mean by that is they spend many hours a week in these campus buildings practicing their craft; whether it be music, art or theater.

Tarble Arts is interesting to the eye - inside as well as out. The completely white exterior is shaped different than any other university building.

Tarble displays everything from student art to professional displays and is available to the public as well as students.

Also, in other weekend events, Celebration, a festival of the arts, will take place on campus. There is a story on Puttin' On The Hits on page 3 and we have included a schedule of Celebration events on page 4

We also have a movie review of "Pet Sematary" on page 5.

Faculty is 'Puttin' on the Hits'

BY DONELLE S. PARDEE
Senior reporter

Once again Celebration Weekend will be closed by the faculty show 'Puttin' on the Hits.'

The show, directed and produced by Academic Adviser John Coffey, is the third faculty talent show of the type. Coffey said he started the idea in 1987 with only a handful of faculty members.

But this year even President Stan Rives is getting into the act with his lip-sync of "My Way."

The idea behind the show was to give students a chance to see Eastern's faculty in a relaxed atmosphere outside of the classrooms and offices. The first show was comprised of only lip-sync acts and it was performed in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Rathskeller.

The next year brought some changes to the show, Coffey said, in the form of more participants, including Verna Armstrong, vice president of administration and finance.

Two other changes involved scheduling the performance as the tailend of Celebration Weekend and moving the site of the show to Dvorak Concert Hall.

Coffey said the interest in the show from students and faculty has been increasing. More faculty members decided to participate each year and audience attendance has increased each year. He added he hopes the audience attendance increases again this year.

One improvement in the structure of the show is in the form of other types of acts other than the lip-syncs. Coffey said there will be dancing and air bands along with the original lip-sync portion.

One of the acts will involve eight faculty and staff members dancing to "Heard it Through the Grapevine." Jan Henkle, from the payroll office, said the eight women made California Raisin costumes.

Henkle said she performed in last year's show and decided to participate again because "it was so much fun. It's a chance for the staff to get together."

The other raisins will be Henkle, Patty Butler, Nancy Riordan, Debbie Black, Carol Strode, Bev Newcomb, Cathy Gray and Ursalla Smith.

Another act to be performed will be The Beach Girls. Janet Camp, from Eastern's records office, said she and the four other beach girls will lip-sync to the Beach Boys "Kokomo."

Camp said in addition to the lip-syncs, the faculty will perform a variety of dance steps. She added that she is looking forward to performing in the show and already has plans for next year's show.

CALL NOW!

'Pet Sematary' is a real scare

BY ROGER JOHNSON
Cinema writer

Hollywood has not been particularly kind to Stephen King. Stanley Kubrick's adaption of King's "The Shining" was one of the better horror films ever made and "The Dead Zone" was an above average tale.

But now there is another film attempt with a King novel and really a decent movie. Not on the level of "The Shining" but way above the invisible quality of titles like "Cujo," "Children of the Corn" and who could forget - um - hmm - oh yeah Maximum Overbore. Unfortunately that barely scratches the surface of bad King films.

The newest release is from King's hit novel (is that redundant?) "Pet Sematary." It's not a brilliant cinematic achievement, but it avoids falling into that vast celluloid pit of horror films that aren't scary. If you've seen the TV ads you may be lead to believe that this film reeks of what we in the movie review industry call "cheesiness." But the effects are better on screen than they appear on the tube.

This is the tale of the Creed family, Papa Louis, Mama Mabe, Brother Gage, Sister Elle and a cat named Winston Churchill. It seems that the Creeds have just moved to Maine (where else do King characters go?), where Papa is the new doctor at the local college. Across an incredibly busy street from the Creeds lives Jud, a kindly ole' beer-swillin' Maine-eack (Get it? Maniac? I crack myself up.) He is full of tales and legends about the area and especially that mysterious path that runs from the side of the Creeds new yard off toward the woods.

Before I get too far ahead of myself, let me explain that the road that separates the houses is only traveled by semi-trucks that have come from some nearby, but never seen, factory. I'm talkin' about the kind of traffic that could repave a road with squirrel entrails.

Old Jud takes a liking to the young kids and offers to take the whole family on a tour of the path and the woods that surround it. At the end of the path is the afore mentioned cemetery. The graveyard is filled with the pets of the locals. Most of which (pets not people) have been killed on the road.

The story gets interesting when Julie and the kids go away for the weekend, leaving Louis and Church, the cat, home alone. Before leaving, Elle makes him promise that nothing is going to happen to Church. At his wife's insistence he promises. They leave, and of course, Church bites it. Crushed - could describe both the father's feelings and the cat's condition.

Jud takes it upon himself to tell Louis about the other burial ground beyond the pet's cemetery. It is a special place where the dead are restored, sort of. The two travel the trecherous path and put the ex-pet in the sacred area. Before you can say George Romero, the cat's back. Funny thing is, he still looks like he did right after the accident. Try explaining that to young Elle the cat lover.

You get the idea. Take a family, a funky burial ground and few recently departed family members and you've got the makings of. . . well, you've got the makings of a pretty sick something.

The movie keeps its artistic head above water by treating the material with a keen sense of understanding. Far too often King's material falls into self-parody under the misdirection of heavy-handed directors.

Here Director Mary Lambert makes good on King's style, which is complete normalicy with a gruesome spin on it. It's real people put into extraordinary circumstances. It's not the best film, but it at least gives King fans hope to know that there are people out there who understand the work and can deliver a product that packs the same wollap as the book.

agood program," he said.

The exhibition art programs that are offered are varied in the kind of art that is shown. This is done deliberately so students can be "exposed to different areas of art" thus giving more of a variety to students.

Exhibitions, such as the recent the Gettysburg Address, are costly to hold at the Center and are often difficult to plan. The Illinois State Historical Society was looking for places to tour the address and one of the members at the meeting was from the Charleston-Mattoon area and suggested using the Tarble Center. Watts then called and inquired what dates were available and the rest fell into place. "Lots of times it just happens that way," said Watts. "Usually we plan about a year in advance."

In planning for these exhibitions, Watts looks for quality, experience and notoriety for the community. "Overall, we try to serve the region which is a seven county area and try to branch out," Watts said.

"It's tricky trying to balance the art. You try to give the wants and you try to give the needs too. Education is a strong component also."

Watt's biggest challenge is getting people to come in to the programs. "Given the rural situation, it will be a problem. But seeing a program come together that was more of a challenge is a better feeling when it comes out well," Watts said.

The biggest attraction at Tarble is the Childrens Show. "The teachers select works from the class so it's non-competitive. We have about 500 people plus 200 pieces of artwork at the show," Watts said.

Tarble Arts is funded from membership contributions, earned income such as the gift shop and sales/rental, small endowments from through Easterns funds, and grants from various agencies. Other funds are received through the community and the campus such as the art department and music department.

"If we can work with other programs and meet each others goals, we can get more bank for the buck and it helps build an audience."

Eastern's Fine Arts Center is doing 'Fine'

BY MICHELLE ZAWIN AND DEBBIE BULLWINKEL
Verge editors

From the award-winning jazz ensemble to the theater department, the Fine Arts program at Eastern is indeed very Fine.

The College of Fine Arts is divided into three sections: theatre, music and visual arts. Each of these sections has achieved their own special milestone in their specific area of art concentration.

Take, for example, the theatre department. This is the first year that the theater crew at Eastern has entered the 37th International Edinburg Festival of Fine Performing Arts in Scotland.

The festival will involve 90 participants and is slated to begin on August 13, 1989 and to conclude on Sept. 2, 1989. "Any student participating will do 23 performances in Edinburg and spend four weeks in Britian," Guidotti said.

Guidotti, who is in his first year with Eastern, has been invited to the festival two times before and is considered to be in the pool of recognized directors, "which allowed us to submit a 20 minute video tape (of "Jacques Brel") in lieu of traveling to New York to have the company's (Eastern's theatre crew) performance adjudicated by three festival judges," Guidotti said.

As a result of submitting a video tape of the "Jacques Brel" play, the Edinburg Festival invited Eastern's "crew to enter as a possible festival production," Guidotti said. "We are being strongly considered for a birth at the festival."

"Chances are slim (of attending the festival) because of the lack of funding," Guidotti said, adding, "it would probably cost $17,000 just for transportation from Chicago to Edinburg."

Now, turning from theatre to music, Eastern's jazz ensemble and quintet were both given outstanding ratings at the Notre Dame Collegiate Jazz Festival. Out of the 15 groups invited to play at the festival, only five total were given an outstanding rating, and Eastern's bands received two of the five awards.

Allan Horney, jazz band director, said that Eastern was the only school out of the 30 to 40 bands that audition to be considered for the festival to have both jazz groups chosen.

In addition, four of the members of the quintet, who also play in the ensemble, were given outstanding member awards.

The four individuals were James Warfield, alto sax; Carl Hose, trombone; Kevin Hart, drums and Mark Maegdlin, piano.

The judges, who are professional musicians, base their decisions on how the group sounds, the arrangement they play and the quality of the performance, said James Krehbiel, chairman of the music department.

Horney said earning the outstanding recognition is "A big shot in the arm for the jazz program because it helps us in our efforts to recruit strong jazz players."

The festival was held Friday April 7 and Saturday April 8.

The music department also has other forms of musical expression. According to Krehbiel, there are two choruses, which students audition for, a show choir, an orchestra, a band and a wind and percussion ensemble.

He said about 250 students make up these musical groups, half of which are non-musical majors.

The show choir is a special group which people audition for in the fall. The group puts on five concerts a year and their performances include singing songs and performing original dances to them, said Krehbiel.

He said the choir's theme musical selections "range from Irving Berlin to pop numbers like 'Johnny be Good'."

The choir is directed by Robert Hill.

The third section of the Fine Arts department is the art department, which consists of concentrations in studio, art history, art education and graphic design.

The art department, which held a fund raising campaign called "Make Room for Art," will have a groundbreaking ceremony for a new art studio house on the corner of 9th and Johnson streets Sunday. They netted $200,000 for the studio, which will cost $350,000. The state appropriated the additional $150,000, said James Johnson, chairman of the art department.

The studio will be for graduate students and faculty members in the art department, said Johnson.

He said the house will have 18 individual studios so the people will have individual working space for the "development of various art forms."

Eastern professor aspiring playwright

BY STACY ISRAEL

Staff writer

Modern drama may welcome a new masterpiece as soon as an aspiring playwright at Eastern Illinois University finishes his unique play.

Philosophy professor Robert Barford is in the process of researching and outlining ideas for the play which is tentatively titled, "The Historical Trial of Nikolai Bukharin."

Bukharin was an important figure during the Bolshevik revolution. In 1938, he was accused of anti-state activities during the Stalin purge trials and ultimately sentenced to death. He had a tremendous influence in the historical and the reactive laws of history.

A historical trial is different from a criminal or civil trial because everyone involved is dead. The purpose of the historical trial is to show how the past influences the future and how the future determines the past," Barford said.

Barford's historical trial will be a contest between Ghandi, who believes in non-violence and the trans-historical, and Bukharin, who is portrayed as the revolutionary who believes in history. In other words, it is a contest between the divine and politics.

The story is tragic because as a society we have forgotten the divine and replaced it with historical politics and the manipulative use of power. The theme is reinforced through the use of political and religious figures throughout history, he said.

Barford said there is also a chorus that offers poetic input about the events that occur on stage.

This is the first play Barford has attempted, but said he is ready for the challenge. He added that he is aware that good drama is very difficult, and anticipates seeking advice from other qualified individuals.

Barford feels that theater is a more living element than the written word and added that it has a greater impact. "Drama is passionate and is a live confrontation between the audience and actors," he said.

Barford, an instructor for 20 years, said besides teaching and working on the play he is one of the editors of "The Acorn, A Ghandian Review," which is published at Eastern. The publication is based on the non-violence of Mahatma Ghandi.

"We are entering one of the most traumatic times of human history and there will be a radical change in the world system," Barford said. "We need to think very deeply about human problems."

Frosh's first day nightmarish

BY JEFF SMITH
Staff editor

Do you remember your first day of classes at Eastern? For me, my memory of that glorious day is still fresh in my mind - unfortunately.

I arrived at Carman the night before that first day and didn't have time to check out the campus.

When I woke up the next morning at 6 a.m. to get ready for my first class, at 8 a.m., I decided to catch an extra few minutes of sleep since I had waiting for since May.

As I walked quickly to Coleman, I imagined what the course would offer me in the way of stimulating topics for the next four months at good old Coleman Hall, room 213 - or is that 312? 123? 321? I couldn't remember the room number. But, no problem. I had a trusty schedule in my right pocket - but it wasn't there. Left pocket? No. After a quick search, I realized I'd left it in my room.

Since my last class of the day wasn't until 10 a.m., I went up to my room and organized my belongings detail for my 10 a.m. class was status quo.

Time was now running out on me. I saw a student approaching, and, pointing to the red brick building next to the Physical Plant, stammered, "Is that the building they call Buzzard?" She peeked at the building from behind her shades, turned to me and replied, "They may call it Buzzard, but I call it Student Services, and you might as well call it a day, rookie."

A day. A glorious day, I don't think so.
