Teaching program faces possible cuts

By ROBERT SANCHEZ
Staff writer

Eastern's student teaching program may be cut back if an upcoming bond referendum for Charleston schools fails, educators say.

On Nov. 8, local residents will decide whether to permit the school board to issue bonds to raise $3.4 million for the district's education fund.

The education fund consists of several main areas of spending, including teacher salaries, building supplies, stipends for extra-curricular activities, books and bills.

Without the bonds, Charleston Superintendent Terry Weir said, the district would have to make up to $500,000 in cuts from the education fund. The district has already made $1.5 million in budget cuts over the past few years and raised student fees.

Balancing the budget, Weir said, would require reducing teacher staff and perhaps eliminating extra-curricular activities. This could have a harmful effect on Eastern's student teaching program because fewer teachers mean larger class sizes.

"Some cooperative teachers may choose not to have a student teacher in the classroom," Weir said. "Increased class sizes mean cooperating teachers will have to pay more attention to the class and less attention to the student teacher."

If the referendum is approved, the district's property tax rate would increase by 56 cents for five years until the bonds are repaid. For example, the property tax for a home worth $50,000 would increase by $93.33 per year.

No more coffee talk

By TRAVIS SPENCER
City editor

A local restaurant and bar owner said Friday he plans to open a coffeehouse in a section of his existing establishment by early December.

Don Yost, owner of Stix Restaurant Bar & Banquet Facility, 1412 Fourth St., said at a press conference he will open the new coffeehouse in his restaurant area for all Eastern students.

"I'm proud to announce we'll start Monday getting together the planning of the construction ... for the new coffeehouse," Yost said.

Yost said the coffeehouse will open by the first of December.

"I'd love to open it by Nov. 15, but probably not until Dec. 1," Yost said. "When we get excited about something we get after it."

The coffeehouse will be located where a portion of the restaurant area is now. Yost said the restaurant entrance will serve as the door to the coffeehouse.

Carman RA draws praise for efforts in dorm blaze

By BRIAN HUCHEL
Campus editor

Every year the Charleston Fire Department teaches campus resident assistants the proper actions to take if a fire starts in the residence halls. But on the night of Oct. 7, none of that training meant a thing to Joe Cantona.

"The only thing I remembered was making sure I pulled the pin on the fire extinguisher," said Cantona, an RA for Carman Hall.

Cantona's actions proved to be one of the deciding factors in extinguishing of the Oct. 7 fire in Room 610 of Carman Hall's north

Jorns proposes 4 percent hike to IBHE, BOG

By REAGAN BRANHAM
and DAVE HOSICK
Staff writers

Eastern President David Jorns told the Tuition Review Committee last week that he doesn't expect a tuition hike to exceed 4 percent.

Jorns said he will recommend an increase of 4 percent to the Illinois Board of Higher Education and the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body.

"There will be no indication that (the increase) will be that high," Jorns said. "Four percent will be the maximum I'll ask for."

The Board of Governors will vote on the amount of a proposed tuition increase at its Oct. 27 meeting at Chicago State University.

If approved, the proposed hike of between 3.5 and 4 percent would mean an increase of roughly $66-$75. The increase would affect all BOG schools, which include Eastern, Western, Governors State, Chicago State and Northeastern Illinois universities.

The Tuition Review Committee will meet again at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the President's Conference Room in Old Main.

"President Jorns felt that we had this tuition increase immediately upon us, and it needed to be discussed," said committee member Jason Anselment, a sophomore.

Anselment said the committee was not established to discuss the recent tuition increase proposal, but is usually geared toward long-term goals.

Anselment thinks the tuition increase is "inevitable" for next year.

The committee needs to develop a method for proposing moderate tuition increases in the future, Anselment said.

"This committee hopes to develop a method so we have more moderate and consistent tuition increases in the future,"

Anselment said. "We also want to know where the extra funds from an increase are going."

Anselment said tuition increases have been inconsistent over the last eight years, although tuition has increased an average of 7 percent each year.

"Rather than having an increase of 5 percent one year and 15 percent the next, the committee thinks it would be more efficient to have smaller increases consistently over the next four years, if they are needed," Anselment added.

Jorns, the committee and Vice President for Student Affairs Lou Hencken all agreed at the meeting that an increase would be beneficial to the campus.

Hencken said every percentage of an increase will cost each Eastern student about $10 a semester.

The extra funding is needed to make campus improvements such as better library facilities, repairs to academic buildings and better teachers' salaries, Hencken said.

Eastern President David Jorns said the coffeehouse is a needed addition to Eastern's student body.

"It should be very successful," Jorns said. "I hope the student body supports it, I know I'll enjoy it."

Yost said he and his wife Louise have been considering the coffeehouse plan during the past few months.

"We are going to attempt to give Charleston a very fine coffeehouse consisting of some of the world's best coffee," Yost said.

Yost said he encourages students and faculty to talk with him for further ideas for the coffeehouse.

"We want it to be a social place for students and an academic place to study," Yost said.

Yost has researched the campuses of University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, Indiana State University at Terre Haute, Ind., and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale to look at the various coffeehouses there and learn what would be most effective.

He said he has already discussed the addition with Charleston Mayor Dan Coughlin, Jorns and the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce.

"I'm very pleased with it," Coughlin said. "He always does stuff with class."

both agree with Weir.

"It's probably going to hinder our program," Summers said. "The teachers will have less material, more students and less time for the student teacher."

Eastern has 32 student teachers assigned this semester to cooperating teachers in Charleston schools.

Because student teachers are required to instruct classes by themselves, Gochanour said, the ideal class size is 25 students.

Still, there are some cooperating teachers who said increased class sizes would not change their decision to accept student teachers.

"I've always taken student teachers, so class size would not enter into my decision," said Robert Lawrence, a cooperating teacher at Charleston Junior High School.

Lawrence said larger class sizes could make a student teaching experience more challenging, but that he would compensate.

"I just wouldn't leave the student teacher alone with the class as much," he said.

"I don't think larger class sizes will hurt Eastern's program," said Gary Francis, a cooperating teacher at Lincoln Elementary.

"The reasons I have student teachers is because I've always enjoyed working with Eastern and instructing Eastern students - not because I want extra help in my classroom," he said.

four years, was at the residence hall's front desk when he found out about the fire.

"I grabbed a master key and headed up there," said the first-year RA. "I wanted to check to make sure there was no one up there.

"When the fire alarm goes off you think it is just another false alarm," Cantona said. "Some of the students coming down the stairs were joking around.

"Some of the other students were panicking because they were from the sixth floor and they knew there was a fire," he added.

Cantona said he had a rough time trying to get to the sixth floor because of the numbers of people coming down the stairs.

The fire, which was started by a hot curling iron left on a bed, was small when Cantona first arrived at the room.

"I saw a fire between one of the beds and the floor," Cantona said. "I got a fire extinguisher from the hall and started to put it out. As soon as I got it out, another fire popped out from the same place.

"I didn't know what to expect when I was heading to the room," he said. "I hoped it was small. I definitely wasn't expecting it to turn out the way it did."

The fire gutted Room 610 and caused more than $100,000 in damage to the hall.

It has also displaced 45 residents for approximately four to six weeks until floor renovations can be made.

No one was injured during the fire. Jen Pfister and Donna Murany, who lived in Room 610, were not home at the time of the blaze.

Although thoughts of the incident still make him uncomfortable, Cantona said he is sure of one thing.

"Yeah, I would do it again," he said.

"You never know what you're going to do until the situation occurs. If it did happen, I probably do the same thing."

Student Senate applications for Nov. 9 elections available

By DAVE HOSICK
Student government editor

Students interested in running for one of 17 open Student Senate seats can pick up an application from the Student Government office beginning today.

Applications will be available until Friday in Room 201 of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union. Senate elections will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 9.

Students interested in running for senate must complete an application, sign a grade release form and get the signatures of 25 students who live in their district. All applicants must be full-time students with a cumulative grade point average of 2.25.

Elections Committee Chairman Glenn Fundator said he hopes a new group of interested students will apply for the positions.

"We definitely need a newer and more diversified group of students in senate," Fundator said. "A lot of senators now have been around for quite a while, but I think it is time some fresher faces get involved with senate."

Fundator said the effectiveness of the senate has been stymied by the number of same people who have held senate seats for a long time.

"I don't know how many current senate members will run for re-election, but I think it is important that some new people get into office to end the stalemate that has been created in senate," Fundator said.

"I know when I was first elected, Student Senate was just like a big group of friends," Fundator said. "Now, with everything that has happened in the past, I am not so sure that is the case. That is why we need some new people in office."

Fundator said the recently tarnished image of Student Government should be a catalyst to "get people stirred up and involved to change things for the better."

The Student Government's reputation was damaged in last spring's election when members of both parties running accused each other of

Fitness week begins today

Activities promote exercise

By STEPHANIE CARROLL
Activities editor

Eastern will be part of a weeklong national fitness program starting today that features various free fitness activities and assessments.

Timex Fitness Week includes more than 300 colleges in a recreational program designed to measure students' fitness against national standards.

Pattie VanMierlo, a graduate assistant of informal sports, said Eastern was chosen by the National Intramural Sports Association to be part of the program. Eastern has participated in the program three out of its six years.

All activities will be held in Lantz Gym and the Student Rec Center located in Lantz.

A Human Performance Assessment will be from 2 to 8 p.m. today in the Health Performance Lab in Lantz Gymnasium. The test includes body fat composition, blood pressure screening, flexibility testing, weight training assessment, and cardiovascular evaluation.

There will also be free-throw contest at 4 p.m. today in the Student Recreation Center.

VanMierlo said the fitness week is also a good alternative to bars because it promotes fitness instead of drinking.

In past year's, the attendance for the activities has usually consisted of the people who are already in the Rec Center at the time of the activities, VanMierlo said. She said she hopes to see attendance increase this year.

"We've done a lot more publicity," she said. "We've also made the events less competitive by changing some of the activities. You don't have to be an athlete to participate. Anyone can win."

Prizes, including watches, t-shirts and juice will be given away for some activities, VanMierlo said.

There is no charge for the university to participate in the week, VanMierlo said. Timex and Ocean Spray, the national sponsors, provide all the prizes and materials for the program.

Other activities during the week include:

- A bicycle tune-up workshop at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday on the upper level of the Rec Center.

- A Supercondition Contest at 4:30 p.m. on the upper level of the Rec Center. The contest will include push-ups, sit-ups and shuttle running.

- An Estimated Time to Win contest at 4:30 p.m. on the upper level of the Rec Center. For this activity, participants will predict their own time for riding the exercise bike, running or walking. The two who come closest will receive prizes.

- The World's Largest Aerobics Class at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Rec Center. The other schools participating in the program will be conducting the aerobics at this time also. Last year, almost 25,000 students nationally participated in

Faculty Senate looks to address policies

By CHAD GALLAGHER
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday is expected to discuss a variety of issues that have been set aside recently, including sexual harassment and letter-grading policies.

Many issues have been pushed off the senate's agenda in recent weeks because other topics, such as strategic planning and referendums, have dominated its meetings.

The senate will meet at 2 p.m. in the Board of Governors Room of Booth Library.

Senate Chairman John Allison said the senate will continue to discuss adding pluses and minuses after letter grades and the process for filing sexual harassment claims.

"The faculty concerns that have been on the agenda for some time, but haven't been talked about, will probably be addressed," Allison said.

Allison said he has "no idea" what direction the discussions will take, as there are a variety of interests within the 15-member senate.

Allison said he thinks the recent amendment proposal by senate member Lankford Walker "probably won't come up" because there isn't a deadline attached to it.

The proposed amendment would allow faculty to call their own referendums if a signed petition with 20 percent of the eligible faculty requests it.

"There may be some discussion, but my hunch is that it probably will be minimal because there is no hurry," Allison said.

Allison said strategic planning will probably not be discussed because a committee has been formed to meet monthly to address the plan.

The six-member committee, which is composed of the senate executive staff and three random senate members, will meet with Jill Nilsen, special assistant to the president, to discuss the strategic plan to free up more time at senate meetings for other items.

The senate executive staff is composed of Allison, Vice Chairman Gary Foster and Secretary Gail Mason.

Blood drive falls short

The regional American Red Cross again fell short of its blood-donation goals Friday, missing its target by 126 pints in a second attempt to meet demand for blood.

The one day "emergency" blood drive was scheduled after the annual fall blood drive on campus failed to meet its goal last month.

Dave Cline, regional coordinator for the American Red Cross said the Red Cross' goal for Friday's blood drive was 200 pints. Only 74 pints were donated, however.

A "code yellow" alert has been in effect throughout the Missouri-Illinois region, meaning supplies are dangerously low, Cline said last week. Type O blood is down 40 percent and type B is down 50 percent.

"We really expected a stronger day with it being Friday," Cline said. "Usually more people come out to give on Friday."

Although he was disappointed with the turnout, Cline said, the extra blood drive was worth holding.

"It was definitely worth it," Cline said. "We needed to make up those missed pints. We did get 74 units. We'll have to get what we missed from outside sources, though because we're falling behind by over 100 pints."

Booking Hill will require quick action by Senate

Let's hope that the University Board has a long memory because how many students can say they remember Deborah Norville?

Seventy-five people attended Norville's Women's History Month speech last March. Perhaps the former NBC "Today" show co-host just wasn't the draw the UB's first choice may have been.

Five months before the scheduled speech, the UB made a lot of noise by touting Gloria Steinem as the month's keynote speaker. All the UB needed was funding approval.

But by the time the Student Senate got around to approving Steinem's $14,500 fee, the noted feminist author was no longer booking speaking engagements.

The UB then had only two months to book another speaker - thus the zero-hour naming of Norville as the Women's History Month speaker and a paltry 75 paying customers.

Cut to the present where the UB is promising yet another big name.

Last week, the UB announced its intention to book Anita Hill for Women's History Month.

"What's great about Anita Hill is she's a very current speaker on human rights, human dignities and current issues," Eileen Sullivan, adviser to the UB Lectures Committee said last Tuesday.

"That's what's exciting about Anita Hill and the opportunity to have her speak on campus." But Sullivan's excitement will be dulled and the opportunity lost if history repeats itself.

And when it comes to UB, history easily can.

The effort to bring a "name" speaker will take everyone involved. The UB has done their part. Now it's up to the Apportionment Board and the senate.

Both parties will need to act, and act quickly, to allocate the $12,350 needed to bring Hill to Eastern lest they force the UB to find another Norville at the last minute.

Lethargy can be blamed on calendar

The only thing different from last year is that feeling of hopelessness you have right now.

As usual, the only things heavier than the pages in your school book are your eyelids. It's been more than a month-and-a-half since the last school-sanctioned day off, and you're only halfway through what is traditionally the longest stint of uninterrupted school in the academic year.

But the aching, laziness, lethargy, boredom and academic apathy have always been here around this time. Why do you feel so hopeless?

Because unlike previous years where you received a reprieve - a three-day fall break - administrators have asked you to continue on until Thanksgiving.

That pathetic feeling of hopelessness you have right now? Blame it on the academic calendar.

Traditionally the fall break was the end of October or beginning of November, and it ended a streak of two months of straight school. But this year's new calendar eliminates that, allocating the day off to Thanksgiving break and letting students continue consecutive five-day school weeks through the end of November.

For many students, the fall break was more than an excuse to sleep or drink. It was used to get a jump on big, end-of-the-year projects, catch up on basic studies or regain the hours and hours of lost sleep.

Now it's gone, and all of us - beer drinkers and studious students alike - are suffering.

The break was always an issue of practicality. At no time during the year is there a break as long as this. Christmas, spring break and individual holidays would always stop the monotony and siege of continual work.

Chris Seper

"That pathetic feeling of hopelessness you have right now? Blame it on the academic calendar?"

Rarely in the regular working year is there a stint of continual work this long. When there is a long continuous stint of work, employees can take personal days off.

Everyone gets tired. Everyone gets burnt out. Everyone gets so tired of monotony - or so overwhelmed by the work - that they need a day off to break it up.

Fall vacation was that break.

Admittedly, all this whining can be perceived as a bit petty. Many students argue they can now work during the Thanksgiving week. Other say they prefer the new set up; the change was made in response to student suggestions, said Lou Hencken, vice president for student affairs.

After all, many students can say the vaunted fall break is only one day and isn't a big deal. The only reason I liked it was because of the break's timeliness; it can be argued that no one should just arbitrarily demand time off and throw off the schedule of the whole university.

After all, look at next year's calendar - it was rearranged for a very good reason. Next year, students will have an extra week off during Christmastime and stay a week longer they would have to under the old plan.

The reason? According to Hencken, faculty needed more time to fit their vacations around their work during Christmas.

It's good to have your priorities straight.

Working together can secure strength of university's future

Dear editor:

The Daily Eastern News has recently reported on university budget problems and other discussions related to proposed tuition increases. It is indeed unfortunate that from these reports one is given the impression that Eastern's central administration has positioned faculty compensation in a negative and primary cause and effect relationship with budget difficulties and tuition increases.

I am not arguing that The Daily Eastern News has misrepresented the administration's position. On the contrary, I have to note that in 25 years of association with higher education, until these recent statements, I have not witnessed an administration's attempt to pit student needs and concerns against faculty needs and concerns. This is equivalent to "turning a house against itself."

Astute readers will have noticed in these various reports that the administration has made no mention of the high cost of administration itself, administrative "bloat," costly "pet" projects and, in general, poor financial planning.

One striking example of high cost might be noted in the attractive "golden parachutes" that have been offered to administrators upon their retirement. It must also be noted that the reader has not been offered the facts (figures) on the actual cost of faculty salaries.

This year's annual continuing based for tenure/tenure-track faculty (the backbone of the university) is approximately $17.8 million. This figure amounts to 32 percent of Eastern's $55.2 million appropriated 1994-95 budget.

As you know, faculty salaries are well below national averages for comparable institutions, and fortunately Eastern's tuition is also below national norms. These two facts have little relationship and are not the cause of the problem. We can not succeed as a strong university if students and faculty are turned against one another. Please do not be misled by simple and incorrect interpretations. Eastern has budget problems because it has historically been underfunded by the state of Illinois.

We all face difficult challenges in the economic and political climate that besets our state and its institutions. Working together we can secure the strength of our university and protect our shared future.

Organ donors give those in need the gift of life

My mother is celebrating her first birthday today.

This isn't an attempt on her part to fight off old age, rather it is her way of commemorating the day she received the gift of life from a stranger.

After her kidney failed at the age of 47, my mother was placed on a waiting list for a kidney transplant. While waiting, her only means of survival was a dialysis machine.

Sam McKee

She had to perform four fluid transfers each day in her bedroom in order to cleanse her blood of the poisons her failed kidney could no longer remove.

As time wore on, she began to feel despair. She began to doubt she would ever live without a machine. Near the end of her 14 months of dialysis, she told me she just didn't want to live anymore.

Then we received the call. The hospital had found a kidney that was compatible.

My mother went into surgery that evening, and at 1:30 a.m. the doctor came into the emergency room to tell my father and me that it was successful.

With that assurance, I drove home from the hospital. I walked in the door at about 3 a.m. to the sound of the phone ringing. It was my father, and he said he had someone who wanted to talk to me.

In a tired and distant voice, I heard my mother say, "He was a 29-year-old male ... it's a perfect match."

Her first words weren't about herself or even about me, but rather they were about a stranger she had never met - a man who had given her life.

Organ donation can be a blessing for both the giver and the receiver.

Crystal June Melton was one of those life-giving strangers.

She was injured in a hit and run accident over two years ago, while riding her bike down Harrison Avenue. On the way to the hospital, her mother made a decision. Mary Melton decided if her daughter was going to die, she would donate her organs.

Melton died in the hospital, and her organs and skin tissue benefited 15 or more people. Her mother said this act was characteristic of Melton.

"She was the most giving person I know," Mary Melton said.

Within days, Mary Melton was notified that a blind person had received sight from her daughter's corneas. One of the other recipients was an infant.

In those first days of shock, grief, anger and pain, Mary Melton and her 14-year-old daughter Angela found solace in knowing that June's body was giving life to others.

"It was the only relief we had in those first few days after June's death," Mary Melton said.

Amidst the continuing pain of their loss and the frustration over legal concerns surrounding June's death, it remains the only light of remembrance through the darkness of the past two years.

"It's hard for Angela, but when she sees a show about organ donors, it reminds her of the only good thing that's come out of all of this," Mary said.

My mother is just one of many who have received life from people like June. However the number of those in need continues to outnumber those who give.

According to the Regional Organ Bank of Illinois, someone is added to the national waiting list for an organ every 20 minutes, and six to seven people die everyday waiting.

If you wish to become a donor, you can simply sign the back of your drivers license and tell your family members so they will know what to do when the time comes.

If you choose to donate your organs, you may help or save as many as 25 people who are currently waiting on those long lists.

Today, my mother is celebrating her first new birthday - the day a man took her off a long list and freed her from a dialysis machine.

My mother told me she will no longer celebrate her birthday in November. Instead, every year on Oct. 17, she will remember a man, who in passing, gave her life.

Student teachers need to change the learning process

Dear editor:

In the past couple of weeks much attention has been brought to student finances, especially the tuition hike. I would like to address another situation that seems to go unnoticed but affects the money of students.

The student teaching process is one that many students are involved in and go through. As I have begun to do the paper work necessary to student teach in the spring, I have realized that student teaching is going to break me financially.

In the classes and literature, student teachers are persuaded to leave the realm of the university and their hometowns to teach elsewhere. This is to make sure they begin to think like a teacher and not to be tempted by Marty's.

Student teachers are also encouraged not to work during the semester because "student teaching is a full-time job." So we are told the "ideal" assignment would be outside of university area and our hometown and to live in that school's town without a job.

The way I see it is the advisers would like us to find an assignment somewhere else (but within a 60-mile radius), live there, look professional, drive everyday, pay rent and utilities along with full-time tuition, without a job. Of course, these suggestions are not enforced, but are made for good reasons. Unfortunately, they are unrealistic for most.

What I don't understand is why this has not been discussed before now. I have never heard any protests against this policy, a policy that should be protested. Those students involved in internships may get paid for their work outside of the university.

Why? Because it is a full-time job. How many of these interns have to go home every night to prepare for their job the next day? Some interns may spend time outside the job preparing, but they may also get paid.

I think that our future teachers of the world should take a stand. They are not getting paid what they should on the job and are having to go into debt to get that job. We are the future educators of the world, so let's educate the campus on the student teaching process and change it.

Power-hungry incumbents should not be re-elected

Dear editor:

Do you realize or even care that in the last 10 to 15 years more of our liberties and civil rights have been taken from us than any other 50 years in history?

Illinois is in big trouble financially, economically and morally! The politicians who have been in Springfield more than two years cannot solve any of these problems. They are the problem!

They think they can do anything, pass any bill they choose to, and we the people won't or can't do anything about it. After the primary, the leader of the Senate was quoted as saying, "We can do anything we want to. We have voter apathy in this state."

Less than 50 percent, and in several places less than 25 percent, of registered voters cast their ballots. Do you care?

The politicians in Springfield do not care about the young or the elderly. They are making criminals out of young people. They are telling the elderly that there is no money for medical bills or other financial problems, but there is money for their pay raises every year, and in 1994, two pay raises.

I believe we should not re-elect anyone who has served in Springfield for more than two years. It doesn't make any difference if they are Democrat or Republican. One is as bad as the other!

I am writing letters to the editors and voters of Illinois not because I have an ax to grind (I have none) but because I am a small businessman trying to stay in business.

I believe Gov. Jim Edgar, Secretary of State George Ryan and my own representative should not be re-elected. They are power-hungry money grubbers who care nothing about our civil rights or the constitution of the United States, especially the Bill of Rights.

Unbiased budget, faculty salary study should be conducted

Dear editor:

I was shocked and dismayed to learn that the current budget for Eastern shows the lowest percentage increase of all Board of Governors universities and the second lowest of all state universities.

I remember just a few years back that it was almost universally acknowledged that Eastern was the most underfunded university in the state system. If we were not at the bottom, we were next to the bottom.

The BOG knows this, the Illinois Board of Higher Education knows this and our senator and representative know this. I presume that the governor's staff knows this. By what principle of fairness, equity, need or business then is the state budget determined

It is especially difficult to understand how another university (Western Illinois University) in the same system with essentially the same enrollment already receiving more than $7 million more in state appropriated funds would receive a higher percentage increase than Eastern!

Is it fair or equitable that Eastern's students should have to pay a higher percentage of their total university budget than do students at other state universities

It is also common knowledge that Eastern's faculty salaries are significantly below their peers at peer institutions in state and out. Why should a faculty member at Eastern have to subsidize higher education in Illinois to the tune of $1,000 to $10,000 a year?

I call on Gov. Jim Edgar to appoint and authorize an unbiased body to make a thorough study of the budgets of the state universities and of faculty salaries of the respective universities compared with their peers at peer institutions for use in determining state university budgets.

Surely in our state universities the rich should not get richer and the poor get poorer.

Playing the name game

Contest looks to title coffeehouse

The new coffeehouse being built in Stix Restaurant Bar and Banquet Facility needs a name - and the owner is willing to pay for one.

"We are struggling with a name," said Don Yost, the owner of Stix who is putting a coffeehouse inside his facility. "We did not want to call it Stix's Coffeehouse."

Yost is holding a contest to find the best name for the new coffeehouse. The winner will get $200 in cash.

Anyone interested in entering the contest can send their would-be name to Stix, 1412 Fourth St. in Charleston.

Some ideas for a name have been "Just Java," "Cup of Java" and "Supreme Bean," Yost said.

"We would like to have a catchy name," he said.

Yost announced Friday he would be opening the new coffeehouse in an unused section of the existing restaurant. He said it will open no later than Dec. 1.

He said the coffee would come from Central America, South America, Hawaii and other world-wide destinations. Cappuccino, espresso and other coffee-related drinks will also be offered in the new establishment.

Yost said he plans to also have a large supply of pastries, cakes and pies. The house will be 850 to 1,000 square feet, seating about 60 people.

Art or pornography?

ISU exhibit 'too erotic' for critics

NORMAL (AP) - The artist says he's trying to show how children gain power in a world of adults; his critics say he's creating child pornography by linking girls' sexual awakenings with sexual desire.

The crux of the debate is an exhibit of paintings titled "Discontents and Debutantes" on display at Illinois State University.

New York artist Mike Cockrill's work depicts adolescent girls - in various states of undress - in what some call suggestive and provocative poses.

Cockrill said he's interested in showing the social and sexual strategies children learn to win approval or gain power in an adult-controlled world. That includes poses and gestures that some people find offensive, he said.

"I picked the sexuality of the girls because I knew it was an emotionally charged issue," Cockrill said. "In the paintings, they're aware of their own body developing and the power that accompanies that."

But Mark Siderits, a philosophy professor at ISU, said the girls' poses closely resemble many positions and gestures associated with pornography.

"These paintings help make the pain of sexual abuse invisible because it makes it look as if little girls really want sexual contact, so it really isn't sexual abuse. That's the thought it puts in men's minds," he said.

Siderits said the exhibit is especially insensitive because the ISU campus has many adult survivors of child sexual abuse.

"Having a display like this legitimizes sexual abuse and says 'We don't care about your pain and trauma,'" he said.

Philosophy professor Alison Bailey said Cockrill's depiction of adolescent girls is inaccurate and "done through a pornographic lens."

"Young girls experiencing sexual awakening are very coy, very shy and experience this very privately," she said. "Maybe a way to show it would be a young girl sitting with her mother. To say sexual awakening means girls suddenly become hot and erotic is not only inaccurate, but inappropriate."

Despite the heated debate, Barry Blinderman, the director of the university's galleries, says he'll continue to hold shows that examine contemporary culture and society.

And he said he's happy that nearly 400 people turned out Friday to hear a panel discussion about the exhibit, which continues through Nov. 6.

Cross country teams finish 7th at tough meet

By JOHN COX
Staff writer

Big schools gave Eastern's cross country team some big problems at the Midwestern Collegiate Meet this weekend, but the last of the big meets are over and the Panthers can now concentrate on the conference meet.

Reflecting on the rare Sunday meet at Michigan State University, the results could have been worse than a seventh place for the women's team and a sixth place for the men's squad, especially considering that the nine-team field featured teams from big name conferences – the Big Ten, the Mid-American and the Midwestern Collegiate.

Justin Weiss was the men's top finisher in 15th (26:00), with Steve Cunningham hanging right with him in 20th (26:10). Dave Venhaus took 31st (26:32), Rodger Ebert placed 32nd and Todd Moroney rounded out the top five in 38th place (26:46). The men's race had 84 runners compete on the 8k course.

Eastern's top five has been finishing consistently within one minute of each other and Sunday's meet was no exception – Weiss was only 46 seconds ahead of fifth man Moroney. This kind of packing will be a big key if the Panthers are to succeed at the conference meet on Oct. 29.

Taking seventh place in a nine-team invitational usually isn't something to get excited about.

But after finishing seventh in a meet featuring teams from major college conferences, like host Michigan State's conference the Big Ten, one can't complain, especially after out-running a school with a substantially larger enrollment in Central Michigan University by a narrow four-point margin.

On the women's side, Cristen Conrad paced the Lady Panthers, finishing 13th (18:55) out of 79 runners for the 5k course. Irma Perez finished second for Eastern and 21st overall (19:13). Amy Bersig took 32nd (19:48), Julie Perkins placed 43rd (20:14) and Carey Dunker finished 45th (20:20).

Head coach John McInerney said earlier in the week that after a meet of this caliber, the Mid-Continent Conference Championship Meet should be "a walk in the park."

NHL players turning to other leagues as lockout continues

NEW YORK (AP) – Jari Kurri is going back to Finland, Peter Forsberg to Sweden – and Marty McSorley looks like he's headed for Las Vegas.

They are among several NHL players looking for work during the NHL's current lockout.

A spokesman for the Las Vegas Thunder confirmed Sunday the International Hockey League team is "very, very close" to a deal with McSorley, the Los Angeles Kings' veteran forward-defenseman.

"We're hoping (the deal is) done," said Kevin Gallant, public relations director for the Thunder. "He wanted to stay in shape and play." Gallant said if things could be worked out, McSorley would probably play Tuesday night when the Thunder hosts the San Diego Gulls.

"He is expected to come into town to skate (Sunday or Monday)," Gallant said.

In playing for the Thunder, McSorley will join his brother, Chris, an assistant coach with the team. McSorley would be the first established NHL player to join a minor league team since the lockout.

Others, like Kurri, are starting to move around the globe as players explore their options to play hockey in other leagues.

The Kings said Sunday that Kurri will return to his native Finland and play in the Finnish League during the NHL lockout.

Students detained after Penn State win

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) – Thousands of jubilant Penn State fans swarmed their football stadium, carried goalposts across campus and jammed traffic to celebrate the Nittany Lions' win over Michigan.

Police detained dozens of students briefly during the frenzied carousing Saturday night and expect to charge about 15 with minor offenses. No injuries were reported.

Nearly 10,000 fans, most of them students, streamed from dormitories and off-campus apartment buildings to roam town and campus in three groups after the 31-24 Penn State victory at Ann Arbor.

Most headed to empty Beaver Stadium, where they scaled the barbed-wire fence or slid underneath.

Ex-Cub, White Sox named Orioles' new manager

BALTIMORE (AP) – The Baltimore Orioles chose Phil Regan as their new manager Sunday, gambling that the baseball savvy he gained over several decades would outweigh his lack of managerial experience at the major-league level.

Regan, 57, was given a two-year contract with a club option for the third year. He replaces Johnny Oates, fired on Sept. 26.

Regan was pitching coach for two American League teams, most recently with the 1994 Cleveland Indians, and spent seven years as a scout for the Los Angeles Dodgers. His most important qualification, however, was the experience he gained over the last 10 years by managing in winter ball.

Regan has managed in the Dominican Republic or Venezuela every year since 1985. He took a break from managing a team in Caracas to travel to Baltimore for a second interview on Saturday, and will return to Venezuela until his team can find a replacement.

Regan was the only person granted a second interview among the nine considered for the job.

The others were Cincinnati Reds manager Davey Johnson, St. Louis Cardinals hitting instructor Chris Chambliss, former Orioles Rick Dempsey and Elrod Hendricks, Baltimore first-base coach Davey Lopes, and former big league managers Bill Virdon, Buck Rodgers and Jeff Torborg.

Regan made his major league debut with the Detroit Tigers in 1960, pitching in Baltimore against the Orioles. He also played with the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs before closing out with the Chicago White Sox in 1972.

Western not looking past anybody, including Panthers

By RANDY LISS
Associate sports editor

In talking to Western Illinois football coach Randy Ball before last week's match-up with Indiana State, one gets the feeling that he describes each game on his schedule in the same manner.

"This game (with Indiana State) is big," the fifth-year coach said, "but this time next week I'll be saying that (the Eastern) game has the most impact."

Actually, Ball sees each game as more important than the previous one, building and building until the Leathernecks' final conference game, which is against first place Northern Iowa at the UNI Dome next week.

But he realizes that, with Western's 38-17 victory over the Sycamores on Saturday, his 4-2 Leathernecks still have to get past Eastern, which his team faces on Saturday, first.

"(Northern Iowa) will be a tough game, just huge," Ball said. "What you hope for is that you're playing for the conference title at that point, but we still have (Eastern) standing in the way. I wish I could say I'm glad we're playing them, but there's not one team in the conference that you can say that about."

Western finished only 4-7 overall last year, but those four wins came in Gateway Conference play as the Leathernecks wound up tied with Southwest Missouri State for second in the league with a 4-2 mark.

The Western defense was expected to collapse after losing All-Americans Ken McMillan and Rodney Harrison, but other faces have stepped up to keep the Leathernecks tough to score on.

Linebacker Jason Vasconez, who led the team with 113 tackles last year, is back at it again, leading the Leathernecks with 66 tackles going into the Indiana State game last week.

And redshirt freshman Frank Spraggins is putting up some numbers in his first college season at free safety, ranking second on the team in tackles and picking off five passes.

Leading the charge on offense is senior quarterback

Ron St. Sauver, who threw for 1,764 yards last year and five touchdowns, but was intercepted 15 times.

This season, St. Sauver has thrown for 1,122 yards and seven touchdowns on 77 of 151 passing, including a 304-yard, three touchdown day against the Sycamores last week.

The Leathernecks also return flanker Gunnard Twyner, the Gateway's leading receiver a year ago with 42 catches for 560 yards. Twyner continues to star this season, leading the team in receiving with 20 catches.

Tim Ardis and Kendall McDonald have split the backfield duties, and have nearly split the amount of yards they have gained as well, with Ardis rushing for 346 yards and McDonald collecting 336 yards on the ground going into the Indiana State game. Ardis scored a pair of touchdowns against the Sycamores and has seven this year.

Four-year starting guard Richard Huddleston has returned to anchor the offensive line, along with guard Bob Mehorczyk and tackle Adam Love.

Rodney Harrison left school a year early last season to join the National Football League, leaving a void at the defensive back position.

But freshman Frank Spraggins has filled the hole in the secondary very nicely.

Spraggins, who was also scouted heavily by Eastern, leads the conference with five interceptions and is currently ranked fourth in Division I-AA in that category.

Also in the Leatherneck secondary is senior cornerback Sherwood Anthony, who leads the conference in passes broken up/defended with eight. Eastern's Jay Buchanan is second with six.

Leathernecks take control of second place in Gateway

Western Illinois took sole possession of second place in the Gateway Conference with a 38-17 drubbing of Indiana State in Macomb on Saturday.

The Leathernecks, 4-2 overall (3-1 in the Gateway), were led by the rushing of Kendall McDonald, who scored two touchdowns on runs of one and two yards.

Quarterback Rob St. Sauver carved up the Gateway's best defense, and No. 7 overall in Division I-AA, on 20 of 31 passing for 304 yards and three touchdowns.

Entering Saturday's contest the Sycamores, 4-3 overall (2-2 in the Gateway) were allowing just 11 points a game.

Fabien Bownes (12 yards), Tim Ardis (10 yards) and Chris Sabino (92 yards) each caught a touchdown pass for the Leathernecks.

Indiana State took an early lead on an eight-yard touchdown run by Ben Wolfe. But then the Leathernecks exploded for a 31-10 lead at the half.

Quarterback Tom Cerasani paced the Sycamore attack on 13 of 27 passing for 119 yards.

'Prime Time' leads San Francisco past old mates

NEW YORK (AP) - Who says the NFL has to be a team sport?

Certainly not Deion Sanders, who again starred solo Sunday in San Francisco's 42-3 rout of the Atlanta Falcons.

Playing for the first time against the Falcons in the city where he played football for five years and baseball for four, Sanders made the most of the moment.

He returned an interception 93 yards for a touchdown, got in a fistfight with Andre Rison and then sat on the bench for the second half with a groin injury. After the game, Sanders and Rison met near midfield and hugged - twice.

Sanders overshadowed Steve Young's near-perfect day - 15 of 16 for 143 yards and four TD passes - and left no doubt about the best team in the NFC West. The 49ers are 5-2, the Falcons 4-3.

"This is my house," Sanders said. "I built this house."

The 49ers jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first 15:06 on Young's 10-yard TD pass to Ricky Watters, Tim McDonald's 49-yard TD return of a Craig Heyward fumble and Young's 1-yard TD pass to Jerry Rice.

Then the game went into Prime Time. Just 3:22 into the second quarter, Sanders locked up with his former teammate and when the play ended, Sanders swung first and each player got in a few punches before officials stepped in and penalized the cornerback. The play led to a 34-yard field goal by Norm Johnson and set up an exciting sequence as the Falcons got the ball again and moved to the 49ers' 10 on a pass interference call against Sanders.

Three plays later, Sanders intercepted Jeff George's pass raced down the sideline past the Atlanta bench. He turned and started pointing at the Falcons and talking to them as he went into his patented high-step routine.

Chargers 36, Saints 22 - At New Orleans, San Diego (6-0) remained unbeaten as Natrone Means had three TDs and 120 yards and John Carney added five field goals. The Chargers, who scored on their first five possessions, are off to their best start since going 11-0 to open the 1961 season.

Stan Humphries was 17 of 29 for 186 yards, while Means' TD runs came from 1, 8 and 16 yards. Carney's field goals were from 49, 31, 29, 29 and 28 yards. The Saints are 2-5.

Cowboys 24, Eagles 13 - At Irving, Texas, Troy Aikman had two TD passes, Emmitt Smith had 106 yards and a score and Dallas intercepted Randall Cunningham four times to take over sole possession of first place in the NFC East.

Early in the third period, Dallas (5-1) made it 21-7 when Darren Woodson picked off Cunningham at the Eagles' 31 and Aikman followed with a 14-yard TD pass to Jay Novacek.

Rookie Charlie Garner, who rushed for over 100 yards in the past two games for Philadelphia (4-2), was held to 57 yards on 17 carries.

Dolphins 20, Raiders 17, OT - At Miami, Bernie Parmalee rushed for a career-high 150 yards, including a 26-yard dash to set up Pete Stoyanovich's 29-yard field goal 5:46 into overtime. Parmalee also recovered a fumbled punt by Tim Brown to set up the tying TD in the fourth quarter.

Miami (5-2) moved into sole possession of first place in the AFC East.

The Raiders (2-4) had their own problems, with Jeff Hostetler (8 of 23 for 95 yards and one TD) arguing with coach Art Shell on sidelines after being benched late in the first half.

Cardinals 19, Redskins 16, OT - At Washington, Steve Beuerlein threw a tying TD pass with 19 seconds left in regulation and Todd Peterson kicked a 29-yard field goal with five minutes left in overtime for Arizona (2-4). Redskins rookie Heath Shuler was intercepted five times, the final time by Terry Hoage, who returned it to the Washington 12 and set up the winning kick. The Redskins are 1-6.

Rams 17, Giants 10 - At Anaheim, Calif., Chris Miller (13 of 26 for 197 yards) threw two first-quarter touchdown passes - 19 yards to Isaac Bruce and 12 yards to Tony Drayton - and the Rams (3-4) handed the Giants (3-3) their third straight loss.

Dave Brown had another poor outing (15 of 27 for 165 and two interceptions) for the Giants, while Jerome Bettis had 30 carries for 88 yards for the Rams. Rodney Hampton scored on a 27-yard run for the Giants.

Jets 24, Patriots 17 - At East Rutherford, N.J., Johnny Johnson rushed for 122 yards, Brad Baxter had two short TDs and the Jets overcame six sacks and two turnovers by shutting down Drew Bledsoe (22 of 41 for 242 yards and one interception).

Steelers 14, Bengals 10 - At Pittsburgh, the Steelers' Neil O'Donnell (15 of 22 for 190 yards) threw TD passes of 14 yards to Ernie Mills and 13 yards to John L. Williams in just over three minutes of the second quarter.

Cincinnati dropped to 0-6. Barry Foster, the AFC's second-leading rusher, twisted his left knee on his first carry and will be out for as long as three weeks.

The Steelers are 4-2. Colts 27, Bills 17 - At Orchard Park, N.Y., Jim Harbaugh threw for 206 yards and two TDs and the Bills fell out of first in the AFC East.

Harbaugh was 18 of 22 before leaving in the fourth quarter with a bruised throwing hand. On Don Majkowski's first pass, he hit Floyd Turner for a 19-yard touchdown score - the Colts' first fourth-quarter TD all year - to make it 24-10 with 8:14 to go.

Panthers jump over Roos with 2-1 win

Kansas City latest victim in "overanxious" victory

By DAN FIELDS
Staff writer

It may not have been pretty, but the Eastern men's soccer team escaped with a 2-1 victory over the University of Missouri at Kansas City Friday at Lakeside Field.

Panther assistant coach Dan Isidor explained that his team's inconsistency has been nothing new when it hosts opponents. When asked if he noticed anything negative in his team's play, Isidor noted in "how well we play at home."

"I think (we) got excited and overanxious," Isidor said. "We made some bad passes."

Isidor also noticed that once the Panthers got a 1-0 lead that his team began lagging.

"At times we played well and at other times Kansas City played well," Isidor said. "Once we got the lead, (they) came at us."

Co-captain Brad McTighe began the games' scoring with about 27 minutes left in the first half when he notched his fifth goal of the season. The score gave Eastern (9-1 overall, 4-0 in the Mid-Continent Conference) a 1-0 lead at halftime.

With about 15 minutes left in the game, Kansas City (5-7, 1-2) evened the score at 1-1, and gave the Roos a chance to hand Eastern its first loss in the conference.

But the Panthers caught a break with 10:04 left in the game on an unusual play.

Sophomore forward Henry Ospina chased after a loose ball that was heading toward Kansas City's goal. But just before he reached the ball, Roo goaltender Tim Silin shoved Ospina and then was given a yellow card from the official.

Since the foul was committed in the penalty box, Eastern was awarded a penalty shot opportunity.

Senior Robert Tomic was chosen for the shot, and when he knocked the ball into the lower left corner of the goal, the Panthers regained the lead and held the 2-1 advantage until the final whistle.

"Rob Tomic played well," said Isidor. "And Brian Ritschel had a solid game in goal."

Eastern's next contest will be Oct. 14 when they travel to Kansas City for a rematch with the Roos. Kickoff is scheduled for 4 p.m.

Volleyball team sweeps way past Western

Second game rally from 11-1 deficit keys big conference win

By TIM BROZENEK
Staff writer

In an important conference volleyball match-up Friday, Eastern spoiled Western's Homecoming tipoff in a three-game sweep over the Leathernecks by the scores of 15-10, 16-14 and 15-5.

While improving its conference record to 4-1, Eastern quieted the loud Western throng of 576 and caused many of them to leave after a comeback victory in the second game.

Coach Betty Ralston said game two was the pivotal game of the match.

"It was a great, great comeback win," she said. "We were down 11-1 at one point in the game, but our kids just did not give up."

"During a timeout, I said to the kids, 'look, this game is not over. Let's just take this one point at a time.'"

"They had a lot of fans there blowing horns and making a lot of noise at the beginning. When we came back and won game two, a majority of those people left. Western really didn't have any momentum left then."

Kaaryn Sadler led the way with 24 kills and 13 digs in the match, including only five errors in 42 attempts for a .452 hitting percentage. Ralston said a good hitting percentage for an outside hitter is around .250.

"Kaaryn was the key to the entire match," she said. "As far as the comeback in game two, Heather Brewster came in and gave us four kills in that game. Her performance was one of the main factors why we came back. It was a big boost to everyone."

Other contributors to the victory were Amy Poynton (three service aces and eight digs), Monica Brown (four blocks) and Kara Harper (43 assists).

Eastern's conference record is second only to Valparaiso, which handed Eastern its only conference loss, and which Eastern hosts on the last game of the regular season. Winning the conference means hosting the conference tournament in mid-November.

"Our goal is to win the last five conference games," Ralston said. "We think we can get to host if we do that, if we can get help with someone beating Valparaiso."

"We'll take 4-1. We've only played one of those (five) matches at home and we've only got one conference road match at Missouri-Kansas City left. So it's looking good for us."

This week, Eastern will travel to Butler on Tuesday and Kansas City on Saturday. Both games will start at 7 p.m.

But for Ralston and the rest of the Lady Panthers, whose overall record stands at 9-12, it's just one week at a time.

"We're looking forward to two more wins this week," Ralston said.

Dismissal changes backfield picture

By PAUL DEMPSEY
Staff writer

Eastern running back Bill Korosec, who was dismissed from the football team Tuesday, said he would like to come back if it was possible, but head coach Bob Spoo said Wednesday that it will not happen.

"What happened was very unfortunate but it was necessary," Spoo said. "So now we move on."

With Korosec gone, Spoo will have to make some changes, and that includes Willie High and Chris Hicks as the starting backfield with newcomers Ibrahim Bawa and Kelvin Russell as backups.

Starting full-back Bryan Jasker is still nursing a knee injury, and his status for next week's game is still uncertain.

• With the dismissal of Korosec, Eastern loses a solid punt return-er, and it could not have come at a worse time.

When the Panthers take on Western they will be facing the No. 1 punter in Division I-AA in Ross Schulte.

Schulte is averaging 43.4 yards a punt, close to the Gateway single-season record of 44.1 set in 1988 by Illinois State's Mike McCabe.

• Freshman quarterback Mark Swinning will see some tough coverage when the Panthers travel to
