Instructors evaluate dean's performance

By MIKE BURKE

Staff writer

Eligible instructors have received questionnaires, making it the first time Eastern's faculty has become involved in the evaluation of college deans on a large scale.

Although, through advisory committees, faculty input on dean performance has been sought on a much smaller level in the past, this is the first time a questionnaire has been sent and the faculty as a whole, with a few exceptions, is participating.

"I'm very thrilled this has happened. I think it is the most important thing that we (Faculty Senate) accomplished last year," said Kenneth Sutton, who was the senate's chairman when the evaluation was approved.

However, the administration does not consider the questionnaire to be a performance evaluation of deans, but rather a way to provide deans with faculty "feed-back," as explained in a letter which accompanied each questionnaire.

Currently, there is only one official college dean evaluation, which is completed by Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs.

Faculty members are not required to fill out the questionnaire, but if they do, they are required to sign it. This is different from student evaluations of instructors, which are done anonymously.

Lewis Coon, a senate member who participated in the passing of the proposal, said he was not opposed to having to sign the questionnaire. He said that since he is tenured and three years away from retirement, there is no need for him to fear reprisals for a critical evaluation.

However, he did add that although instructors view their evaluations by students as impartially as possible, any criticism tends to "stick with you, and you know it will stick with you." He said he believed the same would be true with the dean evaluations.

Jeff Lynch, who was Faculty Senate chairman when the proposal was first brought up, said the signing of the evaluation had always been included in the proposal. He said there was "some debate, but not very heated," over that requirement.

Lynch said, given the maturity and responsibility of the faculty, most senate members didn't feel anonymity was needed to produce honest answers. He also said most didn't fear reprisals for a critical evaluation would become a problem.

"We wanted people to own up to the things they say," said Sutton, who said the signing would prevent instructors from "firing a shot in secret."

Don Dolton, president of UPI-BOG, the union which represents faculty, said the signing is not being considered a union matter.

He added that he personally favors the signing because the union has written into its contract a provision that does not allow anonymous material to be used in the evaluation of faculty, and therefore he believes it is fair that the deans have the same right.

The more heated debate, said Lynch, was not that the questionnaire be (See INSTRUCTORS, page 7)

Senate polls instructors on Fall Break issue

By BILL DENNIS

Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday will discuss the Student Senate proposal to reinstate Fall Break and begin polling instructors to obtain their views on the issue.

"We are conducting a poll asking faculty to respond to the petition," said Jayne Ozier, Faculty Senate chairperson. "It (the poll) should be in the mail to faculty this week." Ozier said she supports the reinstatement of Fall Break.

The Senate is scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. in the Martinsville room of the Union.

Student Board of Governors representative Michael Ashack said Monday the Faculty Senate is scheduled to vote on the Fall Break petition and if approved, a study commission would be formed by Eastern to decide its feasibility.

However, Ozier said, "that's just misinformation." She added that Tuesday's agenda includes discussion, but no action other than the poll is planned.

Although Ashack said he believes that most faculty members support the reinstatement of the break, Ozier said it would be "impossible" to determine faculty opinion until after the poll is completed.

She also noted that the Faculty Senate would not take any action on the Student Senate petition until after the faculty poll is complete.

The petition, asking for the return of Fall Break, was started by student senator Joe O'Mera on Sept. 31. Fall Break was eliminated by the BOG from the 1985-86 school year in all BOG schools to meet the Illinois Board of Education required number of class days.

Ashack said more than 5,400 signatures were gathered on the petition.

In other business, the senate will discuss the current policy concerning the process by which instructors are chosen for graduate courses.

The policy, recently adopted by the Council on Graduate Studies, states that instructors of graduate courses must apply for those positions.

Some instructors currently teaching graduate courses are objecting to having to reapply for those positions, Ozier said.

Council terminates two more posts

By JIM ALLEN

City editor

Terry Sharp, Charleston Building and Zoning Officer, along with Fire Inspector Mel Taylor, were notified early last week that they would receive notices to vacate office within 90 days.

Also planning to leave office is City Engineer E.O. "Buddy" Reed, who formally announced his resignation Friday.

Sharp's and Taylor's notices make them the fourth and fifth city administrators to announce leaving office in the past four months. Their terminations follow those by Fire Chief Les Hickenbottom, City Administrator Mike Steele and Reed.

Hickenbottom was recently replaced by former Assistant Fire Chief Tom Watson. The assistant chief's replacement is in limbo, according to Councilman Dick Corbin, who said the job may be eliminated in restructuring of the administration.

Steele's resignation will take effect Dec. 1, and Reed's will be effective within three weeks.

While a source close to the administration said the recent wave of firings and resignations have been "purely political" and "cleaning house to remove people from the former administration," the mayor and a city council member disagreed.

Finance Commissioner John Winnett said the people had to be replaced for lower salaries and certain posts needed to be eliminated in the face of public outcry against high salaries when the council

U.S. questions possible defector

BELLE CHASSE, La.—A Soviet sailor twice forced back to his ship after apparent defection attempts was taken off the vessel Monday for questioning by U.S. authorities who had spent the weekend seeking to interview him, officials said.

The seaman, Miroslav Medvid, was taken by a Coast Guard launch to the cutter Salvia, where a State Department official who speaks Russian and other U.S. representatives began interviewing him shortly before 6 p.m., State Department spokesman Peter Martinez said.

"Soviet representatives also are on the ship," he said. "They had agreed earlier in the day to this procedure."

U.S. officials earlier Monday renewed their weekend demands to question the man in a "non-threatening environment."

Governor seeks rate rehearing

CHICAGO—Gov. James R. Thompson said Monday he would seek a rehearing on Commonwealth Edison's $494.8 million rate increase—a move one of his political foes called "a sham."

"It's pure doubletalk" because the rate increase was approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission, whose members were appointed by Thompson, said Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan in a telephone interview.

Hartigan, a Democrat, is challenging the Republican governor's re-election bid.

On Sunday, Hartigan made an announcement similar to Thompson's. And both he and Thompson said they would seek to postpone immediate implementation of the 14.7 percent residential rate increase until the issue is resolved.

Former Nazi agrees to surrender for trial if certain conditions exist

MUNICH, West Germany (AP)—Alois Brunner, one of the world's most wanted Nazi war criminals, says he is ready to surrender after living for years in Syria, a West German magazine reported Monday.

The magazine Bunte reported the 73-year-old Brunner, who was an associate of Adolf Eichmann in the Nazi SS and the deportation of Jews to death camps, said he would give himself up for trial on condition he not be sent to Israel.

The Israelis captured Eichmann in Argentina and took him to Israel where he was tried, convicted and put to death in 1962 for crimes against Jews.

Brunner is considered the most wanted Nazi war criminal since the discovery this year in Brazil of a body believed to be that of concentration camp doctor Josef Mengele.

Nazi hunters such as Beate Klarsfeld have alleged that Brunner was responsible for the deaths of at least 100,000 Jews.

The magazine Bunte quoted the Nazi fugitive as saying that in his escape after World War II, he received official documents under a false name from American authorities and worked for the U.S. Army as a driver.

"I am ready to go and respond before an international court," Bunte quoted Brunner as saying.

Nobert Sakowski, Bunte deputy chief editor, said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press that Brunner set the condition that he "not be handed over to Israelis."

Walker pleads guilty to espionage

BALTIMORE (AP)—John Anthony Walker Jr. and the sailor son he recruited into spying for the Soviet Union pleaded guilty to espionage charges Monday in an arrangement that will mean the father must serve at least 10 years of a life prison sentence and his son more than eight years.

For the deal to stand, John Walker must cooperate fully with the government in future proceedings, including the espionage trial of his Navy buddy Jerry Whitworth. That trial is scheduled Jan. 13 in San Francisco.

"The reason we entered into this agreement is because John Walker has something of vital interest to this country," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Schatzow. "We need to know what has been broken and what needs to be fixed."

The principal beneficiary of the arrangement is the 22-year-old Michael, who was subject to two life terms plus 30 years if he had been convicted in a later trial.

RHA wants use of old mascot

By AMY CARR
Staff writer

Although the mysterious disappearance and recent resurfacing of Eastern's Pink Panther has still not been explained, the Residence Hall Association may be allowed to keep the mascot.

The Pink Panther suit was located by RHA advisor Mary Smith, who found it in the room of an RHA member last week. Smith would not reveal the member's name Monday.

Smith said the mascot was borrowed from the Athletic Department by RHA last year to take to the National Association of College and University Residence Halls conference in Florida. The mascot was never returned to the Athletic Department.

Smith said she decided to look for the mascot after the Athletic Department began to publicize the new black panther mascot. She said she saw it as an opportunity to receive permission for RHA to use the old Pink Panther at its conferences.

Smith said the student was asked to return the suit for last weekend's game against Western Illinois University, but refused to cooperate. Plans to use both the Pink Panther and the new black panther were in the works, Smith said.

National Communications Coordinator Penny Jones said RHA received permission from the Athletic Department to take the panther to the conference in Florida. Jones said the permission was granted on the condition that the panther be returned at the close of the conference.

According to Jones, the student now possessing the panther made several attempts to return it to the Athletic Department. The student was told to keep the Pink Panther suit because he was going to wear it at the games, Jones said.

However, Joan Schmidt, spokesman for the Athletic Department, said the department has no record of any attempt by RHA to return the suit.

The Pink Panther originated as part of a float presented by Carman Hall. Smith then took over responsibility for the panther, and began finding students to wear the suit to the games.

The mascot became so popular that the Housing Department gave the suit and the responsibility of filling it to the Athletic Department.

Schmidt said the Pink Panther was originally the property of the Housing Department, meaning if the Housing Department wanted it back, the Athletic Department couldn't prevent it.

Schmidt said the only contact she had with Smith regarding the issue was when Smith called her requesting permission to use the panther at RHA conferences if she could locate it.

The Athletic Department made plans last year to replace the old, battered Pink Panther with a new black one. Schmidt said this decision had nothing to do with the Pink Panther's disappearance. The new panther cost approximately $600.

Several damages have been done to the Pink Panther throughout the years. One of the ears is falling off, the head is cracked, and the suit is stained with dirt from years of use. Schmidt said these damages were already present before RHA borrowed the suit.

Smith said RHA would have to spend approximately $75 to repair the suit if it regained responsibility of the panther.

Applications for export internship available in Blair

By RUDY SCHELLY
Staff writer

In a move to include the business leaders of tomorrow in the development of international trade, the Illinois Export Council is sponsoring an export development internship program at 53 state and private colleges.

The internship is designed to match the energy and emerging skills of college and university seniors and graduates with the needs of new or existing exporters, according to a report by the council.

Ted Ivarie, dean of the College of Business, said, the program will provide practical learning experience to students and develop the export capabilities of smaller firms that may not have the expertise or manpower to enter international trade.

"The program," Ivarie said, "is divided into phases, the first of which is a government internship in one of four participating state agencies: the Departments of Commerce and Agriculture, the Export Development Authority and the Export Council.

"The second phase is a small business internship with a firm that could be exporting competitively and profitably, but, for various reasons, isn't."

In the first phase, Ivarie said, each of Illinois' 17 major colleges will select one student, of senior or graduate level with at least a 3.0 grade point average, who will compete for four internships lasting six months.

The second phase of the internship may be of varied length and number depending on individual negotiations with the participating businesses, he said.

In addition to providing valuable experience, Ivarie said the Illinois Export Council will pay $1,250 a month to undergraduates and $1,500 a month to graduate students during their internships.

Each university will conduct a screening process to determine finalists for each phase.

Selection among the finalists will be made by the participating business or agency, Ivarie said noting, "The selection process will be very, very competitive.

"This type of program could escalate to large proportions," Ivarie said. "Illinois is a major export center for the United States dealing in great amounts of machinery.

Judge strikes down seat-belt law

SALEM—A Marion County circuit judge has ruled Illinois' new mandatory seat-belt law is unconstitutional and has thrown out a traffic ticket against a woman cited for not wearing her seat belt.

Judge Richard H. Brummer said the Legislature does not have the authority to require motorists to wear seat belts. His ruling would apply only to those people within his judicial jurisdiction.

In his Friday ruling, the judge cited a case in which the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that the Illinois law requiring motorcyclists to wear protective helmets was unconstitutional.

In that case, Brummer said, "The Illinois Supreme Court found that the motorcycle helmet law was to protect the safety of the wearer and not to protect the general public" and, thus was unconstitutional.

Brummer said the state's seat-belt, which took effect July 1, does not conform with the high court's intent in the motorcycle case.

"Examination of the legislative debate on the issue indicates that the function (of the law) was to protect the wearer and not other members of the public. How the wearing of a seat belt would protect other members of the public is obscure at best."

The ruling came during a hearing for Elizabeth J. Kohrig, who had been charged with violating the state's seat-belt law.

Marion County State's Attorney Bob Matoush said he would review the ruling and decide if he would appeal the decision.

Awareness Week brought dangers of alcohol home

Alcohol Awareness Week, which officially ended Sunday, definitely deserves a hearty toast.

Alcohol is as much a part of the collegiate scene as are parties and football games, and is too often viewed in the same lighthearted way.

Editorial Alcohol Awareness Week was an admirable first step in opening students' eyes to the responsibilities that come with the fun of drinking. The sponsors should be commended.

Last week's project was more than just lip service about the dangers of alcohol. As part of Alcohol Awareness Week, taxi services were provided free of charge from the downtown square to campus over the weekend.

The Union Subway, a dry nightclub, offered free entertainment as an alternative to hitting the bars. And films, forums and discussions gave students easy access to information about the potential dangers of alcohol—although attendance at one such forum was low.

But this week should not mark the end of alcohol awareness for Eastern students. Aside from hangovers and the other common adverse effects of alcohol, there are drinking dangers everyone needs to keep in mind constantly.

The growing number of lives taken by drunk drivers every year hardly draws attention anymore. And the equally deadly disease of alcoholism quietly claims new victims every day.

Obviously, students will continue to use alcohol to socialize, and there is nothing wrong with that as long as it is done responsibly.

Alcohol Awareness Week stressed that responsibility well and should be brought back for an encore next year.

Students should not wait until next year to again be made aware of the dangers of alcohol. For Eastern students, and for everyone, Alcohol Awareness Week should be every week of the year.

Time to start prepping for parents' visit

Anxiety strikes. Parents Weekend approaches, and students begin preparation.

Most will begin by removing surface problems. Residence hall rooms, apartments and houses will experience their first real cleaning. Laundry will be washed, neatly folded and tucked away. And all the kids will dress in those itchy outfits that haven't seen the outside of the closet since mom and dad dropped them off.

Cleaning up these trivialities is certainly a step in the right direction. But there's more to getting ready for a visit from the folks than physical preparation.

Students must be psychologically set for what may be termed "Classic Parental Lines."

Keep in mind that parental units may not have had actual physical contact with their offspring for three months. Because even if students have forgotten how much time has passed, the parents will not.

This situation will, no doubt, provoke this parental monologue. "It's so good to see you. You know, we haven't had the pleasure of your presence for months. It would be nice if you could come home every once in a while."

Now, the average student would probably respond as follows: "But I haven't had time. All I do is study, study, study. Besides, I can never find a ride home."

This response is not enough for parents. In this situation, parents are playing on the off spring's emotions. Thus, a far more emotional plea is in order. Here's a good one. "I know it's difficult for us to be apart. I often find myself wishing I could be with you, but I think the more we see each other, the harder it will be to part."

Even if folks find this response as unbelievable as it probably is, they will be impressed that their child has learned the art of persuasion in their Speech Communication 1310 class.

What's the point?

Diane Schneidman

Another "Classic Parental Line" is a question rather than a statement. "So, do you have enough money?" Now, the unknowing child will probably say "no" under the misguided impression that this is simply a subtle way for parents to hand out money.

Actually, it is a technique to back the offspring into a corner to find out where all the money has gone. Don't fall for it.

If you want money, prove it is needed. Display empty refrigerators. Go on a crash diet for the next couple of days so you look too thin. These are far more effective than begging and pleading.

Of course, a normally pleasant weekend may be scarred by an argument or two. This will be when the folks decide to remind their children of all the things they've done for them—such as produce them.

The best response to this behavior is a nod and change of topic.

So remember kiddies, there's more to preparing for parental visits than straightening up the old pad. Be psyched. Now, let's have a safe and happy Parents Weekend.

Date set for burglary trial

Two accused car burglars arrested last week by campus police will go on trial Dec. 10, after pleading not guilty at a preliminary hearing Monday.

Lonzo Williams, 25, and Kenneth Neal, 26, both of Harvey, Ill., face four counts of burglary of a motor vehicle, a felony punishable by up to seven years in prison, Coles County State's Attorney Nancy Owen said Monday.

The two men were arrested by campus police at Regency Apartments, Ninth Street, after allegedly stealing both pieces of a T-top sun roof from a car.

A third man escaped on foot when police stopped the car the three were riding in, which was later discovered to have been stolen in Indiana.

Williams and Neal told police they did not know the third man.

Both men are being held at the Coles County Jail on $20,000 bond each.

signed, but whether it was to be sent out at all.

The issue of dean evaluation has been pursued by Faculty Senate since the 1982-83 school year. The senate wanted instructors to have some way of evaluating college deans, their immediate bosses, much in a similar way as students are asked to evaluate them.

However, Eastern President Stanley Rives and Schick were opposed to the faculty evaluation because they feel evaluating deans is the job of the administration.

Rives and Schick will be out of town for most of the week and were not available for comment Monday.

Faculty Senate amended the proposal and agreed not to call the questionnaire an evaluation before it finally passed in April of this year. Although now called "participation in leadership performance," the faculty does now have a channel to voice opinions as to the performance of the deans in their respective colleges.

The questionnaire will now be sent out during each fall semester. Instructors must be full-time tenured or probational faculty who have been at Eastern at least a year in order to receive a questionnaire.

considered raising taxes in September.

Mayor Murray Choate agreed, saying "the whole thing boils down to m-o-n-e-y."

Sharp, who said he was the indirect target of a charge leveled by city council student representative Joe O'Mera, said he was told of the notice before last week's Tuesday meeting.

Taylor was unavailable for comment Monday. However, Winnett said he had informed Taylor about the 90-day notice.

Sharp was originally the city's sole building inspector when he was hired in 1978. After leaving the post in 1981, he was re-hired to administer a $563,000 rehabilitation grant for the city and was later made the building and zoning officer, overseeing the inspector, purchasing orders and Board of Zoning and Appeals action.

BEGIN YOUR FUTURE AS AN OFFICER.

Many college courses prepare you for a job in management. Sooner or later. But successfully completing Army ROTC will place you in a management job right after graduation.

It's definitely not a trainee job. You could be accountable for millions of dollars worth of equipment. And responsible for many of the Army's top technicians.

You might find yourself supervising a staff of computer programmers in Heidelberg. Missile technicians in Korea. Or satellite trackers in Samoa.

To qualify, you take a few hours of ROTC classes weekly, along with the subjects in your major. You'll receive financial assistance — $100 a month, up to $1000 a year — in your last two years. And you might even qualify for a scholarship.

Booters from page 12 Ditka not surprised Bears unbeaten

Meanwhile, injury riddled Rick Lansing is probably feeling at his healthiest all year long. The senior tri-captain said he felt good ever since the St. Louis game.

Goal update

Standouts Ossie Molinari and Larry Pretto are still tops in goal scoring, each with six. Lansing follows with five goals and Neil Swindells with four.

Craig Hartman and his roommate Mark Noffert have six assist between the two of them. Hartman earned his fourth assist Sunday on Curt Elchuk's goal, while Noffert holds two. The pair also have five goals, Hartman three and Noffert two.

Chief Scout

Coach Mosnia spent Monday in St. Louis scouting out the best High School talent for recruiting possibilities which left DeRousse in charge of practice.

Mosnia should return on Tuesday in time to divulge the latest ISAA rankings.

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Coach Mike Ditka isn't surprised that his Chicago Bears are 8-0 and the only undefeated team in the National Football League.

"If you speculated before the season that we'd be 8-0, yes, it would seem tough and I'd be surprised," Ditka said Monday. "But now, no. We've earned every one of our victories. We haven't backed into any games."

Asked if his Bears could go undefeated and wind up 19-0 with a Super Bowl triumph, Ditka smiled and said, "Stranger things have happened."

As far as Ditka is concerned, the Bears have not reached the peak of their potential.

"We can execute on offense better," Ditka said. "We told the players early that if they'd cooperate, we'd be important. After that, we'll let the chips fall where they might."

"That's when we go into tough territory against Miami, Dallas and the (New York) Jets. We don't assume too much."

Because the Bears knocked off Green Bay 23-7 a week ago in a nationally televised game, Ditka is expecting the Packers to be sky high for the Bears. It is one of football's most intense rivalries.

"I think it goes back to the (Vince) Lombardi era," Ditka said. "That was probably one of the greatest teams ever assembled."

"I know the Packers don't like us, and we don't like them. Maybe they think we tried to run up the score on them. But that's the way football should be played. No buddy, buddy, stuff. I don't know why they don't like me, I'm really a nice guy."

Ditka was asked about a recent poll taken of about 200 NFL players who concluded the three coaches they would least like to play for were Tom Landry of Dallas, Don Shula of Miami and Ditka.

"I wouldn't want any of them playing for me," Ditka said. "If a guy doesn't want to play for Landry or Shula, then he's a lazy bum. Or he's stupid. That's where the championships and money are."

Unsung hero

Nelis plays her part well backing up spikers

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

The world of sports is filled with a special breed of athletes that do nothing but give of themselves totally, while receiving little in return. In short, they are unsung heroes.

In football, it's the offensive lineman; in baseball, it's the utility player; in Eastern volleyball, it's Pandora Nelis.

Nelis, the Panthers' sophomore defensive specialist, will never lead the team in kills or hitting percentage—yet she plays a vital role to team success.

Nelis is used by Eastern coach Betty Ralston strictly as a back row substitute for serving and defensive purposes.

"She's the kind of player every team needs," Ralston said. "You're never going to see her name in the paper, she's never going to get headlines and glory. She's just hard-working."

Nelis, known by the nickname Panda to her teammates, was discovered by Ralston in a fall volleyball class and asked to try out for the Panthers during the 1984 open spring season.

"I knew that's all she could do (play back row) because of her size (5-foot-4)," Ralston said. "I thought we could use her because her personality was right for being strictly a back row player."

Nelis, who prepped as a setter for Hillcrest High School under coach Ray Valiska, agreed to play during open ball season and went on to make the squad.

"I didn't think my skills were up to the college level," Nelis said. "Most of the people of our team have been down to (the) state (volleyball tournament) and my high school never made it out of the regional."

Filling a role that attains less respect than even Rodney Dangerfield gets, doesn't hold back Nelis.

"I don't really care what my stats are, I want to see the team do well," Nelis said. "I'm very fortunate to be able to play Division-I ball."

Nelis, who is majoring in computer management, views her role as keeping team morale up and helping the squad out whenever possible. This prompted her to begin reading the opponents' defensive alignments instead of simply watching the match from the bench.

"She was never told to do this, but just did it on her own," Ralston said. "On the bench her job is finding holes in the (opponent's) defense for our hitters."

Lately, Nelis has had more opportunities to look for those holes because Ralston has cut the sophomore's playing time.

"I'm trying to create momentum by having people play all around instead of subbing Panda in," Ralston said. "She understands—that's the kind of person she is."

"When the other kids are complaining about things I say to them, 'hey, how would you like to be Panda, she never gets to do that.'"

Nelis' biggest contribution to the team is her attitude of never giving up and always putting forth her maximum effort, Ralston said.

Nelis, who wants to travel overseas following her playing days at Eastern, has already taken a bigger step for Ralston and the Panthers than any of those journeys could ever take her.

"She's a good kid," Ralston said. "I don't think there's another kid on the team that could do what she's doing."

Booters bounce back after Northwestern win

A big win over a lesser Big Ten opponent has Eastern's soccer team thinking positive thoughts.

The 1-0 shutout victory over Northwestern puts the Panthers on the upswing, 10-3-1, before Intercollegiate Soccer Athletic Association rankings are announced on Tuesday.

And the victory should boost the confidence for the Panthers' showdown in Texas which commences Friday in Denton, Tex. against fourth-ranked North Texas State and concludes on Sunday against second-ranked Southern Methodist, so every little bit helps said assistant coach Randy DeRousse.

"Any victory is a good victory. We could have played better though. Hopefully, we can go with the success (into Texas)," DeRousse said.

Injury report

The most crucial games of the season are yet to come, but the injuries for Eastern have once again piled up.

Tri-captain Neil Swindells sustained the most serious injury last week in practice. Swindells is out with a severely sprained ankle for the rest of the season.

"I think I am out for the season. But if we we make the playoffs, I'll be there come hell and high water," Swindells said.

Swindells is biding his time as the new home game P.A. announcer until his situation improves.

However, Scott Taylor is doing better than he expected. Taylor has a badly bruised hip-flexer—the muscle which enables the thigh and hip to flex—but made a brief appearance Sunday's game.

Taylor is not practicing yet, but is taking the injury in stride. He is currently running laps around the soccer field.

Goalkeeper Mark Simpson said he is feeling better, following his crackup with a St. Louis University player two weeks ago. Simpson responded Sunday, with his sixth shutout performance to ease coach Cizo Mosnia's

Cardinals return to St. Louis unheralded

ST LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals returned home unceremoniously early Monday after losing to the Kansas City Royals in the seventh and deciding game of the 1985 World Series.

Had the Cardinals won Sunday night, a welcoming ceremony was planned for Lambert-St. Louis Airport when the players arrived around 1 a.m. But the festivities were cancelled when the Royals drubbed the Cardinals 11-0 to win the so-called "Interstate 70 Series."

A few diehard fans who showed up at the airport anyway found a stand set up on a designated parking lot vacant and the gate locked. Some said they got a brief glimpse of several players as they hurried through.

In addition, a ticket-tape parade planned for noon Monday in downtown St. Louis was called off. No other activities involving Cardinal players were planned for Monday, the club said.

St. Louis fans, watching the game on television Sunday night, were stunned when the Royals knocked Cardinal ace John Tudor out of the game in the early innings and proceeded to chew up a parade of relievers sent in by manager Whitey Herzog.

"It turned into a circus," said Scott Stream, 29, a St. Louis county salesman as he watched the game from a bar. "But, we're still proud of this team. They had a heck of a season."

The streets were quiet in downtown St. Louis after the game, and what few cars were on the street seemed to be occupied by fans.
