Governor may not have say in student trustee

By AMY THON
Staff Writer

The second bill concerning the student trustee vote Tuesday was unanimously approved by the Committee on Higher Education and was amended so the governor would not be allowed to select the trustee.

The new bill will go to the House floor today with three of the four changes made by Gov. Jim Edgar. The bill was amended by Rep. Rick Winkel, the original author of the first bill concerning the student trustee's right to vote.

The one change made by Edgar, which was not included in the amendment, is that the governor will not be able to choose the student trustee.

"We would be able to select our

Clerical union files complaint alleging 'bad faith' bargaining

By DEANA POOLE
Administration editor

Eastern's clerical/technical union filed an unfair labor practice complaint, claiming the university violated labor relation acts by engaging in regressive bargaining.

Eastern's American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees clerical/technical union 981 filed the complaint Friday with the Education Labor Relations Board in Springfield. The union represents about 200 Eastern secretaries, typists and transcribers.

"(The complaint was) filed because at the last bargaining session they committed an unfair labor practice, they made a proposal to us that was less money than the previous proposal which is bad faith bargaining," said Rick Prince, staff representative for AFSCME Council 31.

According to the complaint, "at contract negotiations held on Sept. 11, 1997 employer representatives from Eastern Illinois University engaged in bad faith bargaining by making economic proposals which were regressive from their previous proposals."

According to an article in the Oct. 21 edition of The Daily Eastern News Prince said the administration initially offered clerical workers at 3 percent raise in June, but after the union refused the offer, the administration reduced its offer to 2.7 percent.

The union is seeking the university "be ordered to bargain in good faith with the exclusive representative, that the employer be ordered to cease and desist from its bad faith bargaining and any other relief deemed appropriate by the Board," the complaint stated.

Prince said the Education Labor Relations Board will now investigate the charges and determine if "there is probable cause for a hearing."

In a written statement from Eastern's representative on collective bargaining Bob Wayland he said he was unaware of the charges.

"We are unaware that a charge of unfair labor practice or any other charge has been filed by the union against the university. We continue to offer to meet with the union and have a meeting scheduled with representatives this Friday," Wayland said.

Prince said negotiations are scheduled Friday.

"We are going to get a contract out of this," Prince said. "We aren't going to settle until we get a good, fair, equitable contract. We will continue to meet until we are able to get a good contract."

According to Chapter 115, Section 5/14 of the Illinois Statute, "educational employers, their agents or representatives are prohibited from refusing to bargain collectively in good faith with an employee representative which is the exclusive representation of employees in an appropriate unit ..."

Chapter 115, Section 5/15 of Illinois Statute states after a complaint of unfair labor practice is filed with the Education Labor Relations Board, the board will investigate the allegations.

If the board determines the charges are valid, a list of charges will be issued to the other party.

A hearing will then be held and each party will receive at least five days notice of the hearing.

Panelists: Third World women live in societies dominated by males

By HEATHER CYGAN
Staff writer

Since the beginning of the 20th century, women in Third World countries have received more responsibilities in and outside of the home, leaving them with little free time, panelists said Tuesday.

Four women from Egypt, Thailand, India and Columbia spoke of their countries' patriarchal societies during a panel discussion.

"Women are twice burdened since the turn of the century," said Jyoti Parrjivarri, assistant professor of English. With the responsibility of education and running the home, spare time is hard to find, she said.

Although they have recently received more rights, "transition is still happening," Parrjivarri said. "It's a positive thing."

Karina Elmonznino, a graduate student in guidance and counseling, said it is tradition not to fight because "women are tough."

In Elmonznino's native land, Columbia, the men are starting to help more in the household she said.

The panelists agreed the ideas of feminism were brought back from women who visited the United States.

"In the next eight years (she believes they) will have a female president," Elmonznino said. "It all just takes time."

Although the freedoms of women were talked of in their countries, they had to be implemented slowly, said Duangrudi Suksang, assistant professor of English. She said keeping their own values and traditions was important for women.

"Women must fight (the patriarchal society)," Parrjivarri said.

In Thailand, women are passive and avoid confrontation, Suksang said.

"Fighting takes energy, but if I am pushed far enough I will do something," she said.

Suksang said she agrees with the idea of "twice the burden" in her culture. She said Thailand is mainly governed by patriarchal societies and the women find their power in managing the Former coroner found guilty of tampering with witnesses

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - A former coroner was convicted of witness tampering today by a jury that was unable to reach a verdict on charges alleging he broke a bone in a dead man's neck to make a suicide look like a murder.

Claus P. Speth, a former assistant state and Gloucester County medical examiner, could face up to 5 years in prison when sentenced Dec. 5.

Jurors had deliberated 7 days over more than two weeks and twice told Judge R. Benjamin Cohen they were deadlocked on charges of evidence tampering and lying under oath.

The month-long trial centered on the death of Ronald Puttorak, a 43-year-old accountant who was found hanging by bedsheets in his Essex County jail cell in 1993.

Puttorak's family suspected foul play rather than the official autopsy finding of suicide, and they hired Speth, who had a reputation for finding suspicious deaths where others didn't, for help pursuing a possible wrongful-death lawsuit against the state.

Speth claimed he found a break in the small, U-shaped hyoid bone at the base of the tongue, an injury more consistent with a strangulation death than a hanging. He also said he found surrounding bleeding tissue, indicating the bone had broken when Puttorak was still alive.

However, the state medical examiner's office contended the bone was not broken until Speth examined it, and said there was no bleeding tissue.

The witness tampering conviction related to Speth's alleged contact with Michael J. Baden, a nationally known coroner and former New York City medical examiner.

Prosecutors said Speth asked Baden to intervene on his behalf with then-acting state Medical Examiner Geetha Natarajan, who had already told prosecutors that she believed Speth had broken the bone.

Prosecutors said Speth had a vendetta against Natarajan and created a phony citizens' group that mailed out critical letters about her. Speth's attorneys noted that Baden was a godfather to Natarajan's children and argued that he was biased in her favor.

Baden was a chief prosecution witness during the trial, while the defense called Cyril Wecht, one of the nation's most prominent coroners.

Besides the patriarchal society, "women always get the benefit of the doubt," Parrjivarri said. She said socially women also get a tremendous amount of respect.

Eman Ghanem, graduate student of chemistry, said in 1919 women participated in an important revolution, which resulted in the unity of Islam and Christianity. As a result, men began to want women to be more educated and participate within society, Ghanem said.

Patriarchal societies place many restrictions and limitations upon women, including chastity and divorce.

Because of religious beliefs in India, women who bear children out of wedlock lose their respect.

"The highest virtue is chastity," Parrjivarri. She said waiting until marriage to have sexual intercourse is a moral value for women.

Ghanem said in Egypt the family executes their daughter if she becomes pregnant while single because it goes against moral code.

"We don't have an abortion problem like the states," she said.

Elmoznino said Columbia is similar to the United States, as the culture is family-oriented. She said the family would support their daughter before and after the pregnancy.

India, Thailand and Egypt force women to wear clothes and not reveal any body parts to avoid getting males "sexually excited," Ghanem said. "Covering ourselves helps to defocus on appearance," Parrjivarri said.

own (trustee) and it would not go through the governor," said Chris Merrifield, Eastern's liaison to the capital.

According to the new bill, the governor will be able to choose the voting student trustee member at both the University of Illinois as well as at Southern Illinois University. The reason for the stipulation is both U of I and SIU have multiple campuses and have more than one student trustee. Edgar will choose which of the student trustees from each school will be the voting member.

If the bill is not voted on Wednesday or Thursday, there is still three more days in November during the fall session in which the bill can be voted on.

Merrifield said the bill has both Democratic and Republican support.

"I'm pleased to hear that it was unanimously accepted with the amendments, and from here on out goes through the House and Senate with the same speed and enthusiasm as the (higher education) committee," said Ruthie Rundle, Eastern's student trustee.

Although he had not had an opportunity to speak with Edgar, Tom Livingston, Edgar's assisstant for higher education, said he thought the governor would not be in support of the bill.

"I would suspect he would be opposed to the bill as changed," Livingston said. "When members have full vote, we tend to want (the way they get on the board) to be consistent. We feel there is room for student involvement. We thought it was within reason to put some safeguards in to make sure there is a consistent way these members get on the board."

Livingston also noted that in other states such as Wisconsin and Iowa, the voting members are appointed by the governor.

Referendum voted down

Faculty Senate votes against seeking opinion of constitutional planning process

By JUSTIN KMITCH
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday opted not to hold a campuswide referendum to assess the faculty's view on Eastern's constitutional-planning process by a vote of 2-11-2.

The motion, proposed by senate member John Allison and seconded by member Lankford Walker, would conduct a referendum to gauge faculty opinion as to whether or not the university should proceed with constitutional planning.

Eleven senate members voted against holding a referendum because of the time a referendum would take because planning was a vital part of the university.

"To run a referendum impedes on hours that can be used doing other important things such as planning and teaching," said Senate member John Simpson.

Allison and Walker voted in favor of the referendum, claiming that a referendum would not stop the planning process, but would further examine the process. "There is no reason to keep (the process) going without really, really analyzing it," Allison said.

Allison said the referendum would be "an informational gathering to be used in the fall."

"If changes are necessary, then do the changes in the process, but don't stop the process," Simpson said. "If we must adjust the process, we must do so as we continue."

"Any pause is self-destructive to the planning process itself. If we pause now, we may end up letting others plan for us and we will no longer be sailing our own little boat," Simpson said.

Referring to it as "beating a dead horse," senate member Chuck Eberly said planning is a requirement and should be accepted.

"Constitutional planning is simply one way ... to ensure we think as clearly and precisely as we can," Eberly said. "I don't sense it is a topic that's debatable."

Allison said faculty members petitioned for a referendum in 1994 but the Faculty Senate denied their petition.

"There have been a significant number of faculty members asking for such a referendum for a long time," Allison said.

When asked by Senate member Ron Gholson whether or not a petition would be started by faculty members opposed to the constitutional planning process, Allison said a petition was a possibility.

"It could happen," Allison said. "I don't want this to be read as some kind of threat, but my hunch is that a number of faculty members are concerned."

The constitutional plan is a list of goals and objectives the university plans to accomplish by the year 2,000.

The results of the referendum would have given the Faculty Senate a better idea of the faculty's stance on constitutional planning.

In other senate business: The Nominations Committee appointed Janet Lambert the new IBHE Alternate Faculty Adviser and Carl Bridges was appointed as an alternate on the Apportionment Board.

Lawson parking lot temporarily relocated

Due to the addition of shrubbery and the usage of heavy equipment, 58 parking spaces in the Lawson Hall parking lot have been relocated to a grassy area across the street.

Workers are adding shrubbery to the concrete islands and the surrounding areas of the parking lot.

The heavy equipment being used to do the work made it necessary for the entire lot, including the food service area, to be closed, said Sgt. Ron Osborne of the University Police Department.

Lawson parking lot holds 58 parking spots for upperclass students.

Osborne said he has not had any complaints from students because of the lot being closed.

Osborne expects that the additional parking lot will be necessary through the end of the week.

The work being done in the parking lot is expected to be finished by Friday afternoon.

Organizations planning events to scare the socks off Eastern's campus, Charleston

By HEATHER CYGAN

Eastern organizations are hosting various Halloween festivities to take students to different dimensions.

The Residence Hall Association will host a unique haunted house which will be open from 8 p.m. to midnight on Wednesday and Thursday and 8 to 10 p.m. Friday in the Lawson Hall basement.

The haunted house will be equipped with a hospital scene and an element of humor as "there will be crazy doctors chasing people around," said RHA Vice President Haley Pope.

There is a $2 charge for the event or $1 with a canned good.

The level of fright for the event will be "more gross than anything," Pope said.

The "Rocky Horror Picture Show" will be shown at 8 p.m. Thursday on a big screen at the campus pond.

This event is unusual because "it's like an outdoor movie or drive in," said Amy McGoogan, University Board coordinator of special events.

Horror packets will be sold for $2 and will include rice, a newspaper, toilet paper, dried bread, confetti and other fun items said Anne Ybarra, a coordinator chair of the AIDS memorial quilt.

"The costumes and designs for the whole movie set the theme (of Halloween)," Ybarra said. "(The atmosphere will be) weird, hilarious and very Halloweeny,

Dorms open to area trick-or-treaters

Eastern's residence halls and Greek Court will be opening their doors to community trick or treaters Thursday night.

Trick or treating will be offered at the following residence halls:

- Andrews Hall and the Gregg Triad from 6 to 8 p.m.
- Lincoln, Douglas and Stevenson Halls from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.
- Carman and Lawson Halls from 7 to 9 p.m. Carman Hall will serve complimentary cookies and punch in their lobby.

Trick or treaters should wait in the lobby for assistance from a representative to assist them, said Kelly Miller, assistant director of housing.

Greek court houses are inviting trick or treaters to come from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday. They will be decorated for the "Ghosts, Goblins and Greeks" competition. The winners of the contest will receive $50 to donate to the charity of their choice.

Each chapter house has been assigned a specific candy to give out, Miller said.

"The past (turn out) has been unbelievable even when it rains," Miller said. "The kids always come out with a grocery bag full of stuff."

"I've had several calls from the community and they feel this is one of the safest ways for their kids to trick or treat," Miller said.

(which is) good preparation for Halloween spirit."

The rain date for the movie is 8 p.m. Saturday at the campus pond.

Other Halloween events around the campus and community include:

- A haunted house hosted by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, which will be open from 5 to 10 p.m. Thursday and 6 to 11 p.m. Friday at their fraternity house, which is located on the corner of Greek Court and Twelfth Street.

Highlights will include a live remote by 92.1 FM-The Party- on Thursday night. The cost is $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

- Riley Creek Stables is hosting a Haunted Hayride and Haunted Barn from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Oct. 23 through Nov. 1.

- Pemberton Hall will hold a haunted house from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday. The event will include a maze and someone dressed up as Mary, the Pemberton Hall ghost, said Tracie Darter, president of Pemberton Hall.

Admission is $1 with an ID and $2 without.

The trip through the haunted house will start in the lounge, travel through the meat lockers and end up on the fourth floor landing where there will be story telling, Darter said.

Help campus explore the integrated core at today's workshop

Faculty and staff members, along with students, must take advantage of an opportunity Thursday to voice concerns and opinions about Eastern's general education and integrated core curriculum.

Ten sessions in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union will address various aspects of the integrated core, from its beginnings and purpose to seat availability in classes.

Editorial

Everyone on campus should take this time to learn more about how general education at Eastern has developed over the years and how it is structured the way it is today.

Students, especially, should set aside an hour or two to attend the all-day workshop to learn specifics on seat availability for integrated core classes.

This workshop could give students a chance to make a difference in Eastern's curriculum. Students will be able to voice opinions about their experiences to the people who originally designed the curriculum.

Students will be given the chance to explain their frustrations about getting into core classes or having to graduate later because of seat unavailability in core classes.

Also, students can inform these originators if the core classes are even worth their time and effort.

Last year, the General Education Assessment Committee conducted an extensive, yearlong research into the integrated core curriculum.

The results of this research showed that instructors do not completely understand the integrated core or the meaning behind these classes.

The Council on Academic Affairs, along with the other groups sponsoring the workshop, are on the right track with having speakers explain general education to not only faculty and staff members.

The CAA and the other committees sponsoring the workshop are willing to listen to different ways to improve Eastern's general education. People across campus should take advantage of this opportunity because they may not get another chance to voice their opinion on the curriculum any time soon.

Students are not fee-approving machines

Students are starting to get a bad reputation.

Last Tuesday at the Fall Faculty Forum, a member of the faculty suggested tuition should increase 6 percent or more to pay for faculty salary increases and other faculty-oriented goals.

This faculty member made the comment that students seem to be passing all increases without much thought and probably wouldn't put up a fight if tuition were to continue increasing.

Any student in the room was probably fuming at the faculty's insinuation that when the university needs money it can always increase tuition.

But no faculty member seemed to be too concerned that students are already forking over $1,062 in tuition and an additional $452.05 in fees each semester. On top of that, fees will increase by $50 a semester beginning in the spring for the campus improvements that the student body passed last November and another $51.75 next fall for the increases that were just passed by the Student Senate.

Both of these recent fee increases were passed by the students or their representative body without much of a problem.

While Eastern students were increasing fees without a hitch, students at the University of Illinois in Champaign/Urbana were battling a $34-a-semester increase.

Oct. 9, the same day that the senate passed our latest fee increase, about 100 U of I students demonstrated at a trustee board meeting to protest their increase.

The U of I fee increase proposal was ultimately passed by the university's governing board, but at least the trustees could physically see that students did not approve of the increases and thus probably stopped to think a little more critically about the extra burden they were putting on students.

What makes little sense is how economical students are when buying everyday things such as beer or soap. Most students buy what is cheap and what is on sale.

So why don't we put up a fight when it comes to increasing fees so much? If we want to be economical, let's start with a big chunk of change we pay the university each year.

In order to destroy the image of a student body that does not care about its own purse strings, we need to begin questioning why fees need to be increased. We need to make the fees be justified to us.

This faculty member who suggested the 6 percent increase is probably not the only one outside the student body who looks to students to supplement what the state gives to the university.

But that is not the students' job, and we should not be responsible for bailing the university out of a jam when the state doesn't give Eastern enough funds.

Students need to begin standing up for themselves and saving their money (or their parents' money). Once the faculty and administration see that the student body will not pass each increase that is handed our way, maybe they also will stop depending on increasing fees to fund new projects on campus.

DiBianco case creates new, Orwellian version of word 'harassment'

To the editor:

It's an interesting world we live in. As The Daily Eastern News article on the Doug DiBianco fiasco pointed out, offending someone now constitutes harassment. The alleged "harassment" need not even be directed at anyone specifically. If we have reached a threshold where simply uttering something that might offend someone can be equated with harassment, it's hard to imagine what can't be.

It is not my intention to defend DiBianco's alleged classroom antics. But is it really necessary to equate questionable taste in teaching material with the serious offense of sexual harassment?

Apparently so, according to the State of Illinois. Evidently, it was not enough that DiBianco was already investigated (and exonerated) by two government agencies. Now he must face the state's Human Rights Commission for the alleged offense of teaching distasteful material in class. Not only does this proceeding make a twisted mockery of the commission's name, but it also shows that George Orwell was nothing less than a prophet.

your turn

Don't forget to goose-step to your next class, comrades.

Counseling for victims of sexual assault is available at Eastern

To the editor:

I am writing to you in regard to the recent articles on Rohypnol. The articles provided excellent information to students on the hazards of that particular drug. I have seen the devastation caused when a person is sexually assaulted following the drug being slipped into a person's drink.

It is important to note that Rohypnol is involved in an extremely small percentage of sexual-assault cases. It is excellent for students to learn safety tactics to protect themselves from Rohypnol misuse by would-be attackers. There is a great deal to learn about sexual assault beyond the issue of Rohypnol, however.

The Sexual Assault Counseling and Information Service conducts a wide variety of programs dealing with date rape, other types of sexual assault, sexual abuse and sexual harassment. All people on campus may feel free to contact SACIS to schedule a program or to receive victim services no matter how long ago the victimization occurred. Interested people may visit SACIS in Lawson Hall or call 348-5033 between 1 and 5 p.m. to receive further information.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News accepts letters to the editor addressing local, state, national and international issues.

They should be less than 250 words and include the author's name, telephone number and address. Students must indicate their year in school and major. Faculty, administration and staff should indicate their position and department. Letters whose authors cannot be verified will not be printed.

Depending on space constraints, we may have to edit your letter, so keep it as concise as possible.

Student Senate to discuss tuition and fee increase approval process

By AMY THON
Staff writer

The Student Senate tonight will discuss legislation that would change the tuition and fee review process.

The senate will meet at 7 p.m. in the Arcola/Tuscola room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The legislation would require increases proposed by the tuition and fee review committee to be tabled for at least one week. The legislation is being authored by senate members Doug Stepansky and Liz Halbert.

"Basically what it says is that next time tuition and fee legislation comes up, (the increases) have to be tabled for at least one week," Halbert said.

Her reason for authoring this legislation is to give senate members more time to discuss the increases with students and groups on campus.

"Well, actually the night of the senate meeting (when the previous increases were passed) I was very upset and I voted no on three of the increases and abstained on one. I didn't feel the RSO's were informed," Halbert said. "I don't think administration's or anyone else's deadlines should be affecting how we vote. There was a lot of pressure last time."

The Senate also will continue the discussion of tuition waivers for Student Government executive members. Last semester, the student body voted they wanted to see a change in the tuition waivers.

At last weeks senate meeting, the sub-committee formed to create a recommendation about tuition waivers suggested the waivers be abolished. The money saved from the elimination of the waivers would be used to award outstanding student leaders at Eastern.

A proposed constitution revision by Senate Speaker Erin Weed is also on the agenda. Weed is proposing that the positions of student vice presidents for student and academic affairs should be consolidated into one position.

A majority of the responsibilities of student vice president for academic affairs would be redistributed to the student vice presidents of student and financial affairs.

Weed said she authored the legislation to better define executive board positions and save students money by eliminating a tuition waiver.

The senate must table the constitutional amendment for at least one week, however discussion will begin tonight.

Evacuation of courthouse a result of bomb scare

By JAIME HODGE
Staff writer

Coles County Courthouse experienced its first bomb scare Monday that caused the evacuation of the building.

Carl M. Hubbard, of 3416 Walnut Ave., Mattoon, was arrested at 9 a.m. Monday for failing to appear in court on charges of possession of a vehicle with the identification number removed and possession of a fraudulent driver's license.

As he was being arrested, however, witnesses say he left his briefcase behind he was seen carrying earlier and denied it was his. This prompted officials to call for the evacuation of the building at 1:30 p.m. because of the possible threat of a bomb, Coles County Sheriff Jim Kimball said.

Kimball said it took about 30 to 45 minutes to evacuate and everyone left in an orderly fashion.

"The cause of denying the briefcase that other witnesses saw him carrying allowed the decision to evacuate the building and call the bomb squad," Kimball said.

The briefcase was examined and was not found to contain any explosives or bomb making materials, Kimball said.

"I think it's just an isolated incident. The court security took adequate care of it," Kimball said. "They did a good job and everything came out positively."

Hubbard is now in jail on a $25,000 bond for his failure to appear in court, Kimball said.

Kimball said he doesn't expect many bomb threats in the future.

"Again, we don't expect to have to deal with this in the future, but the way things went, we appreciate it," Kimball said.

Cult lecture held tonight

A private investigator and law enforcement consultant will be presenting a lecture on the operation of cults and underground groups.

Larry Kahaner will present the lecture at 8 p.m. tonight in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Kahaner will discuss what cults and underground groups believe, what attracts people to them and how leaders can persuade their followers, said University Board Chair Tom Ryan.

Ryan said Kahaner was chosen based on the response to last year's lecture on serial killers by Robert Ressler.

"The response was unbelievable," Ryan said. "Based on audience response to Robert Ressler we thought Larry Kahaner would be a good choice."

The lecture will be sponsored by UB. Admission is $2 for students and $4 for the public.

Attorney general's wife makes a full recovery

MAYWOOD (AP) - Ten days after she lay unconscious in an emergency room while doctors shocked her heart to restore its beat, Marie Ryan, wife of Illinois Attorney General Jim Ryan, walked out of a hospital under her own power Tuesday.

Her cardiologist pronounced her fully recovered.

"Very good, thank you, a whole lot better, I can say that," the 50-year-old Mrs. Ryan said, waving to reporters as she left Loyola University Medical Center.

Dr. Firouz Amirparviz said that despite being "very close" to death when she collapsed 10 days ago she has "made a full recovery." Doctors have fitted her with a defibrillator designed to stem any recurrence of the rapid heart-beat that caused her cardiac arrest.

HIV-positive man kept lists of women he had sex with MAYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) - A man accused of infecting at least nine young women with the AIDS virus was "some sort of scorekeeper" who kept lists of the names of dozens of females he had sex with, authorities said today.

Authorities believe Nushawn Williams lurked near parks and schools in western New York state and talked young women into having sex with him, after he had been counseled about his HIV-positive status.

Williams last week gave New York City health officials a list of 50 to 75 names of women with whom he's had sexual contact, said State Health Commissioner Dr. Barbara DeBuono. She said she did not know where those people lived or whether they include his 28 known sex partners from western New York.

"He seems to take some delight in keeping records," said Chautauqua County Health Commissioner Dr. Robert Berke.

Police make effort to end standoff

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - State police dropped off a package of food Tuesday and planned to restore power and water in a goodwill gesture to an armed Roby widow who has kept troopers at bay in a five-week standoff.

"It's our hope she'll see the package, read the letter, eat the food and again have some calming effect that at some point we could reintroduce someone to talk to the woman," said Illinois State Police Director Terrance Gainer.

"This is one more attempt to try to win her over," he said.

The decision to restore Shirley Ann Allen's utilities, which have been shut off by police for more than a month, comes three days after she shot at troopers and injured a police dog.

Allen has been holed up in her green frame farmhouse since Sept. 22, when her brother and Christian County sheriff's deputies tried to bring her in for a court-ordered psychiatric evaluation requested by her family. She brandished a shotgun and ordered them off her property.

'Gender canyon' emerges for Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans face a "gender canyon" among middle-aged voters, according to polling data counseling prospective GOP House challengers that many women favor government action in education, health care security and environmental protection.

"Too often we are intent on teaching (President) Clinton a lesson' and ultimately boxed in by policy and process and lose the rhetorical debate," said the briefing provided at a candidates' school for potential GOP contenders in next year's congressional elections.

"Too often we seem intent upon putting ideological purity above political reality," added the analysis, presented by Republican pollster Linda DiVall.

DiVall reviewed her polling data with Republican hopefuls gathered at the National Republican Congressional Committee two blocks from the Capitol. "We had about 50 candidates from all over the country," said Mary Crawford, a spokeswoman for the committee, the political organization for House Republicans.

In a telephone interview, DiVall said her presentation was designed to make Republican contenders aware that "the gender gap is a significant electoral problem," yet it can be addressed without wavering from Republican principles if GOP candidates "understand how women react to some of our policies." As a difference in views between men and women, she cited a question about the potential uses for a budget surplus.

Clinton seeks support for academic standards

CHICAGO (AP) - President Clinton sought anew Tuesday to build support for national testing standards, urging more school districts to promote children on the basis of academics rather than for social reasons.

In a speech at Oscar Mayer Elementary School, the president said Chicago has been able to turn failing schools around in part because of its decision to stop advancing children from grade to grade based on their social development.

"People used to say that asking a child to repeat a grade was too high a price to pay for learning because of the damage to self-esteem," Clinton said. "We are not punishing children by making sure they know what they need to know."

He urged critics to consider the consequences of pushing children through school without adequately measuring skills.

"Think about the thousands of Americans who are sitting in GED (high school equivalency) classes today, struggling in literacy programs, standing in unemployment lines, who can tell you there is nothing more damaging to self-esteem than wanting a job and not being able to get one," Clinton said.

Importer pleads guilty to bribing inspector to allow leaky rubbers

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The owner of a Beverly Hills import company pleaded guilty to bribing an inspector to import and distribute defective condoms from Malaysia.

Max Naami, 52, the owner of U.C. Imports, admitted Monday that he offered $2,000 to a Food and Drug Administration inspector as part of a scheme to conceal the distribution of 430,000 potentially leaky condoms and continue distributing even more.

Naami faces up to 14 months in prison when he is sentenced Feb. 6. Assistant U.S. Attorney S. Robert Raskin Jr. said he would try to learn whether anyone was actually harmed before prosecutors make a sentencing recommendation.

The case led the FDA in May 1996 to warn consumers in seven states not to use condoms distributed under the names Pamitex, Maxi, Black Jack, Magic and Ginza. The states were California, Florida, Michigan, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee and Texas.

Astronaut able to perform civic duty in space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - For the first time in history, an American astronaut is about to exercise his right to vote while in orbit.

A ballot has been sent to David Wolf aboard the Russian space station Mir, thanks to a new Texas law. It was prompted by John Blaha's inability to vote from Mir last year.

Under the old law, an absentee ballot had to be sent by U.S. mail.

But in June, Gov. George W. Bush signed a bill saying astronauts registered to vote in Texas - where most of them live - can cast ballots from space.

Using new software developed by NASA, Tony J. Sirvello III, Harris County's elections chief, sent a ballot last week to U.S. flight controllers in Moscow, and they transmitted it to Wolf 240 miles above Earth.

The 41-year-old doctor and engineer, who arrived on the station in September for a four-month stay, will open the e-mail on a laptop computer. He has until 7 p.m. CST on Nov. 4, Election Day, to get the ballot back to Sirvello via the flight controllers in Russia.

Sirvello will read Wolf's e-mail and punch a ballot by hand with the astronaut's choices.

"He's lost that one bit of secrecy, but that's a give-and-take situation to where that's the only way he can vote," Sirvello said. "No one else will know other than myself."

NASA plans to use similar software once the international space station is up and running. Assembly of the station begins next summer.

VICTORY

Holding on:

Southwest Missouri State holds the third spot in the conference. The Lady Bears have a season record of 11-4-2. Sophomore Jamie Hautzinger leads the MVC in goals, with 11.

Most recently, the Lady Bears played to a 1-1 tie at Saint Louis University.

Two in a row:

Illinois State holds the fourth place spot in the MVC. Freshman Betsy Doogan helped the Redbirds to its second consecutive conference win this past week as she scored two goals in a span of 30 seconds in ISU's 2-0 victory over Valparaiso.

ISU will be watching the Eastern/Southwest Missouri game very closely this weekend as they will face the loser in the first round of the conference playoffs.

Eastern faced the Redbirds on Oct. 12 and won the game 1-0.

Five and out:

In fifth place, Creighton's record stands at 1-4. The team's only win came from its match with Valparaiso. Seniors Lisa Dispense and Molly Malone will finish their careers in the top ten of Creighton's all-time scoring charts.

On the bottom, the Valparaiso Crusaders will enter the MVC tournament with a record of either 1-19 or 2-18.

Either way, this team is a long shot to win the conference.

Valparaiso's perspective on future seasons is bright; the Crusaders are made up of over 90 percent freshmen.

NBA hires two women refs

NEW YORK (AP) - Two women are set to be hired as full-time NBA referees, marking the first time in major pro sports in the United States that females will officiate regular-season games in an all-male league.

The hiring of Dee Kantner and Violet Palmer was expected to be announced today by the NBA.

Kantner, 36, was the supervisor of officials in the WNBA.

Palmer, 33, was an official in the women's professional league.

Both have officiated women's college games. Kantner and Palmer have been working exhibition games the past three weeks. They also officiated preseason games in the past two seasons, although they did not make the final cut for the regular season.

They will join three other new members of the NBA's 58-member officiating crew. The hirings were not unexpected. The league office sent a memo to all teams over the summer ordering them to set aside a spare room as a locker room for female officials.

Men booters drop to seventh

With an Eastern loss to Southwest Missouri and a tie between Vanderbilt and Western Kentucky, the Panthers have dropped out of the final Missouri Valley Conference playoff spot with three games left to play.

The Hilltoppers of Western Kentucky have four points on the strength of their 1-3-1 conference record. They currently hold the No. 5 spot in the conference.

In the sixth spot in the standings are the Commodores. Vanderbilt has three points with a 0-2-3 conference record, edging out the Panthers with their 4-7-3, and percentage.

Eastern also has three points, with a 1-3-0 conference record, but are now in seventh place due to a .250 winning percentage and a 2-13 overall record. If the playoffs were to start today, the Panthers would be staying home.

Only Bradley (9-6), winless in the conference at 0-4, remains lower in the standings than Eastern.

The Panthers will host the Braves at 2 p.m. Friday at Lakeside Field.

Everyone is still alive at the bottom of the Missouri Conference.

Western Kentucky will close its season against the Braves and the Panthers, playing both games on the road, where the team is 1-6 this season. A win in either of these two games will insure a trip to the MVC tournament for the Hilltoppers.

Vanderbilt will also end its season on the road against Bradley and Eastern. The Commodores must break into the win column against one of these two teams. If Vanderbilt continues its trend of ties, having played its last three conference foes to 2-2 draws, they may not make the post season.

To insure a playoff berth, Eastern will have to keep Bradley winless and at least tie Vanderbilt and Western Kentucky.

Bradley will play three conference foes in its last four games, ending at home against Western Kentucky. The Braves were winless in the conference last season, and are headed that way again this year. Bradley started the season at 9-2, but have lost four straight since starting conference play.

Bluejays flying high:

The Creighton Bluejays stretched their winning streak to seven games, with a 2-0 win over Tulsa. Included in that seven game stretch are four conference wins and five shutouts.

The only two games in which the Bluejays surrendered a goal was an 8-1 drubbing against Charleston and a 2-1 victory over Eastern. With its spot in the playoffs all but secured, Creighton will close out the year with games against Southwest Missouri, Evansville and a make-up against Drake.

Do the math:

Three goals divided into two games equal one Offensive Player of the Week award for Southwest Missouri senior midfielder Brad Jordan.

With twin tallies against the Panthers and a third goal against Bradley, Jordan has taken the team lead in scoring, with 20 points. Jordan has scored points in each of the Bears' last three games, and four out of the last six.

Climbing back up the hill:

Senior goal keeper Andrew Cecil has turned around Western Kentucky's Missouri Valley fortunes, improving the Hilltoppers' record from 0-3 to 1-3-1 over the weekend.

For his efforts, which included a 1-0 shutout against defending tournament champs Evansville, Cecil was named the Defensive Player of the Week. Cecil has made 60 saves this season.

can still lose one game.

Come on, have you guys ever heard of an at-large bid.

Men's soccer:

The fate of the men's soccer team's playoff hopes will be decided in the next two weeks.

Eastern is currently in seventh place in the conference and only the top six teams make the MVC tournament.

Eastern will host Bradley on Friday in a must-win game.

Bradley is currently 0-4 in conference play, but has a 9-6 overall record. Eastern then finishes off the season next week against Western Kentucky and Vanderbilt.

For Eastern to make the playoffs, it will have to win at least one of these games and tie another.

Even if the soccer team was to make it to the playoffs, they would probably have to play the 11th ranked team in the country, the Creighton Bluejays.

I'm going to go out on a limb here and say that if the team makes it to the playoffs, they will lose in the first round.

Women's soccer:

Unlike the men, the Eastern women's soccer team has already guaranteed itself a spot in the MVC playoffs. The only question now is what they will be seeded when they travel to Springfield, Mo.

The seeding will be decided on the Lady Panthers' final game of the season, a game on Wednesday at Southwest Missouri.

Eastern is currently ranked second place in the MVC with a 3-1 record. The Lady Bears are in third place with a 2-1 record.

The No. 1 seed is already taken by Evansville but the No. 2 seed is still up for grabs.

To get the No. 2 seed, Eastern would have to beat Southwest Missouri.

This would give them a bye in the opening round of the playoffs. If they were to lose to Southwest, the Lady Panthers would be the No. 3 seed.

Led by the duo of Tracie Strother and Beth Aussin, the Lady Panthers will upset Evansville in the finals and bring a MVC championship to Charleston.

Trio hopes to bring conference trophy home

By JASON CANGE
Staff writer

For the women's cross country team, a lot of its success at the upcoming Ohio Valley Conference Championship meet will be determined by the front-running trio of senior Christen Conrad, junior Sue Langer and sophomore Jo-Ann Trevino.

All three women will be vying for repeat First Team All-Conference honors, but more importantly a team conference title.

"I would love to see us win, because realistically we know we can," Conrad said. "Sure I'm looking to improve on my seventh place finish, but I'm more worried about the team. When I cross the finish line, I just want to be able to tell myself I did my best for the team."

According to the Lady Panther runners, the championship meet is where they hope to have their peak performances.

Head coach John McInerney said he has given the girls added incentive to perform well in the championships.

"Coach Mac has dubbed the race as 'payday.' The one chance for us to show everyone what we're all about, and the time when all of our hard will finally 'pay' off," Trevino said.

"Being realistic, it's tough to make the NCAA (championship), so the conference championships become the biggest meet," Conrad said.

Trevino said she is confident due to her past encounters with particularly hilly courses, much like the course at Tennessee State.

"I like hills. My home course in high school was hilly, so I'm used to them. The key is to just run with the hills and really attack them. You must stay mentally focused and not concentrate on how much hill remains. If you can do that, it becomes second nature," Trevino said.

McInerney also cited the importance of the Langer-Conrad tandem.

He said the women have pushed each other all season to new levels of competition. Last season, the runners finished sixth and seventh in last year's conference championships with seconds separating them.

"These girls love to compete and hate to lose to anybody. It's unfortunate because Sue and Christen have been training together all year, pushing and pulling each other, and are still five seconds apart. But doing things together takes the pressure off of each other," McInerney said.

The race covers 3.1 miles (5,000 meters) and will require consistent efforts from all of the runners.

"Sue's biggest strength is her consistency. She's had to fight through some slight injuries this year and we expect her even keel to prevail in the race," McInerney said.

To prepare for the race and help curb some of the anxiety which accompanies any big race, the team has sought the assistance of sports psychologist Dr. Gary Canivez.

"He's been really helpful to the team and me personally," Conrad said. "He takes time away from his teaching to help us with mental imagery."

According to the women, Canivez's techniques can be quite extensive and assist the runners with everything from visual to relaxation techniques.

"He has been especially helpful with his easing the anticipation and helping us relax. We'll go over the entire day's events from getting off the bus, to stretching exercises. He also encourages us to do it on our own and I like to visualize where I'll make my move (in the race)," Trevino said.

Conrad cites the advantage of almost feeling as if the team has run the course even before the gun sounds.

"We haven't run the course, although we know it's hilly, so we pretend we're running the course the night before the race in the hotel, and come race day it feels like deja vu." When asked what kind of approach she will take in her run on Saturday, Conrad said she's not going to change anything.

"I'm going to come out strong, not too fast, and stay with the front of the pack," she said. "Sue and I work off of each other, talking and encouraging during the race. She has helped me physically and mentally to run stronger." Trevino said she has a key to staying in the front of the race.

"The key is staying with the front-runners from Eastern Kentucky, one runner from Tennessee Tech and a particular runner from Murray State," she said. "If we run well, we can take second place, but if we run what we're capable of, we will win."

because it was good experience and she learned a lot there.

She also said there was one major difference between Northern and Eastern.

"Northern was a fully funded scholarship school so they had more money to do different things with," she said.

Ruf said Padovan played a big part in her coming to Eastern.

"I wanted to have the opportunity to work with Ray again," she said. "I swam for him for four years and I wanted to work with him."

Not only has Ruf helped out with the improvement of the women swimmers, Padovan said she is very good about getting new swimmers in.

"She's had a real impact because she is increasing the amount of recruiting," he said. "She is always going places or on the phone."

"She gets along with the team and does a lot of individual corrections with the swimmers."

Fingello is quick to agree with Padovan, saying Ruf is always there for her.

"She's willing to help me in my events and tell me what I need to do better," she said.

Recruiting has been made much easier for Ruf because she said the team this year has some outstanding freshman.

Ruf said she has a couple of things she wants to get accomplished while she's at Eastern.

"Education-wise I am going to leave here with a degree," she said. "Coaching-wise I hope to gain more experience with Ray and what I learn here I hope will help me get a job in the future."

Padovan said another reason why she is such a good assistant coach is because of her attitude.

"She's nice, she's good (and has) a real good personality," he said. "She takes things in stride and knows what needs to be done. This is a long season, so you can't be a hard nose for six months and be able to get along with everybody."

After getting her degree at Eastern, Ruf said she would like to become a head coach.

Ruf said Eastern would be a great school to coach at.

"I would love to start here if a full-time position ever opened up," she said.

FOOTBALL

against their opponents. Their total offense comes in at 116th.

"I don't think you ever anticipate that you're going to struggle as much as we have," Raetz said. "We've been trying to change that all year."

Junior Sycamore quarterback Matt Gajewski has seen the majority of playing time this season and has connected on 47-of-94 passes for 416 yards, two touchdowns and two interceptions.

"He's not a pure option quarterback or a pure drop back quarterback, but he's a versatile athlete," Raetz said.

Gajewski is the third leading rusher on the team with 176 yards on the ground. Sophomore tailback Sha Caldwell leads with 235 yards while sophomore running back Calvin Thomas has 226.

Compare that with the Panthers' top two rushers, junior tailback Justin Lynch and sophomore tailback Jabarey McDavid. Lynch has 739 yards on the season and McDavid contributes 660 yards.

Third down situations have been more like missed opportunities, as the Sycamores are converting on only 22 percent of them.

Defense has been the strength of the Sycamores so far this year.

They rank third in the Gateway in total defense by giving up 328.5 yards per game and are also third with the 22.1 points scored on them each game. The Sycamores lead the conference in turnover margin at 1.13. This is partly due to the three interceptions by senior defensive back Kyle Bibbs and another two from sophomore linebacker Antonio Pryor.

"The defense has played relatively well, but they've been on the field too long," Raetz said. "We've got to continue to be productive on the defensive end."

Senior Sycamore free safety Robert High leads the team in tackles with 86. Bibbs has 67 tackles to go with his three interceptions and three sacks. With the defense strong, Raetz said he must shift his concern to the other side of the ball.

"The most obvious thing we've got to do is score more points," Raetz said. "If we struggle to score points every game, it's going to leave you drained. The bottom line is we have to figure out how to score more."

A new month means a new season for all athletic teams

It's that time of year again. The most exciting time for an Eastern athlete, the conference playoffs.

Eastern will be represented in both the Missouri Valley Conference tournament and the Ohio Valley Conference tournament yet again this season.

While some Eastern teams have already guaranteed themselves a spot in the post season, others will have to see what pans out in the next couple weeks.

Here is a run down of all the Eastern teams and where they will be come post season time.

Cross country:

The team is training hard as they travel to Tennessee for the OVC tournament this weekend. Led by seniors Ryan Meece, Todd Moroney and Mike McBride, the men hope to defend last year's conference crown.

The women hope that a strong performance by senior Cristen Conrad and a group of younger runners led by Jo-Ann Trevino will let them do what the men were able to do last year.

Winning won't be easy though, as many teams will be gunning for Eastern after its performance last year. If anyone gets in the way of the Panthers, shoving and elbowing is allowed in cross country.

Volleyball:

The volleyball team has a little more time to prepare for its conference championship, as it still has seven remaining conference games.

If the team were to win the remaining seven games, they would go into the OVC tourney with a record of 13-5. Of the seven remaining games, the team has three of them in the friendly confines of Lantz Gymnasium.

The three games are against Southeast Missouri, Murray State and Tennessee-Martin.

The key to doing well in the tournament will be that they don't let any matches go five games.

Football:

Football has no conference tournament, it just goes by the regular season winner.

At this moment Eastern is atop the standings with a 4-0 record, but the Panthers have three tough conference games remaining against Indiana State, Murray State and Eastern Kentucky.

If the Panthers want a ticket to the post season, they can still

When the season's over, 18-year Indiana State head coach Dennis Raetz won't be sending out any thank you cards to the schedule makers.

As if things had not been rough enough for Raetz when his team opened the season against the Division I-AA's then 13th ranked Murray State with a 13-0 loss, the Sycamores followed up with games against No. 1 Youngstown State and a No. 5 Western Illinois team.

Now he has to play the No. 8 Panthers who are riding a seven-game winning streak. The Sycamores dropped all three of their previous games against ranked teams, by a combined score of 81-3. They currently sit at 3-5 overall and 2-3 in the Gateway Conference.

"Well, it's been frustrating to a degree," Raetz said. "Our schedule has been exceedingly tough. We're not mature enough to deal with teams like that."

Indiana State is coming off a double-overtime 16-13 victory over Illinois State Saturday in Normal. It was the Sycamores' first overtime win since they came out on top in another 16-13 double-overtime decision, although it was against Eastern in the 1983 I-AA playoffs.

With Murray State, Youngstown and Western already out of the way for Indiana State, Raetz will know the routine all too well when the Panthers travel to Terre Haute Saturday.

"We're going in as the underdog," he said. "Eastern is a top rated football team and we're going to have to scratch and fight to hang in there."

Hanging in there is something the Sycamores have not been able to do, as opponents have been outscoring them in every quarter. Even if Indiana State can stay in the game, odds are the team will surrender the victory - they have been outscored 59-9 in the fourth quarter.

"Our schedule has something to do with that," Raetz said. "We also have immaturity in our skilled positions. The combination of those two things is not good."

The offense as a whole has been a headache for Raetz all season long. Out of the 118 I-AA teams, the Sycamores are 117th in passing offense with only 70.7 yards per game in the air.

They are also 117th in scoring, as Indiana State's offense puts up just under nine points

With victory Friday, lady booters get bye

The Missouri Valley Conference standings this week place the 3-1 Lady Panthers at the second place spot. Eastern won both matches over the weekend and lead the Southwest Missouri State Lady Bears.

"We have overcome tremendous adversity this season and a conference victory would be a good way to end it," said head coach Steve Ballard.

The Lady Panthers must come up with a win at the home against the Lady Bears to keep their ranking and to receive a bye on the first night of conference tournament play.

When Eastern faces Southwest Missouri Friday, it will give the Lady Panthers a chance to check out the tournament field as Southwest hosts the conference tournament on Nov. 6. All six teams in the MVC will be admitted into the conference tournament, even the Valparaiso Crusaders, who are without a conference win.

Throughout the season, Ballard has emphasized that there is much of the team that he and the fans still have yet to see.

"Right now, this team is playing the best they ever have in the last two and a half years. They have my total confidence to finish out the season victorious," Ballard said.

The Lady Panthers currently lead the MVC in shots, goals, assists and total points. Also junior forward Beth Aussin joined teammates junior forward Tracie Strother, and sophomore goalie Jessica Graczyk in MVC accomplishments.

Aussin received MVC Offensive Player of the Week and helped lead the Lady Panthers to two victories over the weekend, and leads the team with 10 assists. She ranks second on the team in goal scoring, with seven.

Other Lady Panther conference leaders include junior midfielder Heather Ory, junior forward Tracie Strother and junior defensive player Diane Markus.

Ory ranks third in the conference in total points, fourth in assists and third in goal. Strother ranks fifth in overall points, tenth in goals and fifth in assists.

Though Markus has been out for two weeks, she still made the top ten in the MVC in total points and fifth overall in goals.

"From this point on we have to continue the 'Aplay to win' philosophy that has helped us get this far," Ballard said.

Aces lead the pack:

At the top of the conference, the University of Evansville Aces have won their last five games. The last game for the Aces resulted in a 2-0 shutout of the Illinois State Redbirds.

The Purple Aces outscored the rest of the MVC 13-1. Dating back to last season, Evansville has won 11 straight matches against MVC competition.

New swimming assistant coach Donna Ruf works at her desk during swim practice today. Ruf swam for Eastern until 1995.

Eastern swimmer Donna Ruf graduated in 1995, but now she is testing the waters of the assistant swimming coach position.

"Donna is somebody who is real capable of doing a good job," Eastern head swimming coach Ray Padovan said. "We had an opening for a graduate assistant and since we have a men's and a women's team. I really needed a female, but that's not the reason I hired her."

"Donna coached at Northern (Illinois) last year as a graduate assistant so I got just what I wanted; someone with a good background that knows something about our program."

Not only is Padovan a fan of Ruf's, other swimmers are too.

"I knew Donna before and I've always liked her," senior Katie Fingello said. "She was also a coach at Northern and I knew some swimmers there and they loved her, so I was glad to hear she would be our coach."

In her swimming days at Eastern, Ruf swam in the 50-meter freestyle and the 100-meter freestyle. She said in the beginning it was difficult for her to think she could not put on her suit and take a dip anymore, but now she can resist the temptation.

"At first when I finished it was hard," Ruf said. "After a couple of years out I like being a coach. I now have the mindset that coaching is what I'm supposed to do and I don't miss swimming."

Ruf said she liked it at Northern
