Course Requirements

This course is writing intensive and consists of outside and in-class writing, interactive classroom discussion, peer review sessions, independent writing in the form of five major writing assignments, and ten one-page journal entries.

Come to class prepared to participate and interact with the material and your peers.

This class will be challenging, but with determination, a readiness to grow and learn, and an investment in the material, you will succeed!

Formatting and Documentation

For all formal, journals, and in-class writing assignments use MLA: Times New Roman, 1-inch margins, 12-point font, and double-spacing.

MLA also requires a centered title and your last name and page number in the top right header.

In the upper left part of the paper (not in the header) you should format your information like this:

Your name

Course Number (ENG 1001)

My name (Professor Flach)

the date (19 August 2019)

Journals

You will be required to write 10 one full-page double-spaced journals formatted in MLA. (They may be longer.) The first journal will be an introduction journal in which you will tell me anything you think I need to know about you as a person, a student, your home life, etc. You may be completely honest with me.

The middle 8 journals will be open journals. That means you can write about whatever you want. No, really, you can. Don't stress about these in regard to content. What you need to do is ensure they are polished. You can treat it like a diary, brainstorm for upcoming papers, or write about things that concern you, etc. You may also use the journals for creative work. Also, if you choose to write creative work for these journals, you still must meet the page limit requirements. Again, they may be longer than one double-spaced page.

All journals must be original. Do not use work from other classes or reuse creative work you've already written.

Just because these journals are considered "low stakes" writing, you still need to give it time and attention. They must be free of grammatical errors, organized, cohesive, and polished. For example, don't use text talk and don't forget punctuation. Also, make sure these are all formatted in MLA.

Peer Review Discussion Posts (worth 10 points each)

For every unit we will have a discussion board dedicated to peer review. These are worth 10 points. Though you don't get 10 points just for giving any kind of feedback. You must deeply engage with your partner's paper through close reading and thoughtful and helpful feedback based off of the peer review prompts I will provide. That means you can't just write, "This is good," "I like your paper," "Your paper sucks," etc. You need to go beyond surface comments and explain why. Again, the prompts will help you do this.

Peer review discussion posts are more than just helping your partner strengthen their paper. It's mostly for the peer reviewer. You get to see how someone else approached and fleshed out his/her paper. By engaging with someone else's writing, not only are you helping them, but, more importantly, you're helping yourself because, more than not, you will see through study of someone else's writing how to strengthen your own writing. Do not blow these days off.

Revision

You may revise all five major writing assignments required for this course. You will have one week from the date of return. I expect deep revision, not just surface editing. If you engage in deep revision and you receive a higher grade, I will replace the existing grade. Upload revisions to the same Dropbox as original paper.

Final Portfolio

You will submit a Final Portfolio for your final in this class consisting of all major writing assignments and journals for the whole semester. This will include all drafts of your major writing assignments. It should be in a Word doc. with a title page, page of contents, and an artist statement discussing your writing processes for this part of the semester's work. We will discuss this more in-depth during the semester.

Late Work Policy/Extensions

I do not usually allow extensions for major writing assignments. At this point in your academic career you are expected to follow the syllabus, be prepared, and meet all deadlines.

Having said that: I understand that sometimes things happen that are beyond our control. If for some reason, you are struggling, you need to contact me as soon as you know, and I will help you get back on track. Don't go uncommunicative. I have found that students who do not have open communication with me don't do as well. You will find I am a very reasonable person, and if you come to me early and let me know if something is wrong, I will work with you.

Though if you come to me the day before a due date or even after the due date and then tell me you're struggling, I will not accept any late work from you.

It is not fair to the students who get their work in on time, and it's not fair to me because I told you from the beginning I'm willing to help. If you don't take advantage, unfortunately, that tells me you don't care and aren't interested in helping yourself.

Your Instructor

If at any time you feel like you are having trouble with the material, or if you need additional resources or reassurance, please contact me via email or schedule a meeting with me. I want you to succeed in this class, and I am here to support you!

Attendance

Emergencies arise in the form of illness, accidents, and happenings that you cannot control. I understand this. Though you must do your best to attend every class. If you miss, excused or unexcused (not having a doctor's note, university/sports event, accident report, etc.), you are responsible for all missed work. It's best to always openly communicate with me.

Email Policy

I welcome emails, though please use a professional and polite manner when doing so. Use a clear subject line that provides the topic of your email, begin with a greeting, such as "Hello Professor Flach:" or "Dear Professor Flach:" state your purpose in clear and organized prose, and close with a short sign-off, such as "Cheers," or "Best," and then your name.

Also, title your emails with your name and section number.

Class Conduct

The classroom is a place for learning and growth, and as we will be doing important work this semester, I expect you to have good manners, engage in careful listening, and have respect for diverse backgrounds and opinions. I also expect maturity, participation, and for you to come to class prepared and to be ready to write and discuss!

Unless otherwise noted, please do not engage in activity on your cellphone during class. Perusing social media and texting are not permitted. Also, once you come to class, please remove Air Pods or headphones.

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Students are expected to maintain principles of academic integrity and conduct as defined in EIU's Code of Conduct (<http://eiu.edu/judicial/studentconductcode.php>). Violations will be reported to the Office of Student Standards. If you believe that you have a specific instance in your work that might be considered plagiarism, please come to me prior to turning in the final draft.

The official statement on plagiarism by the EIU English Department is as follows: "Any teacher who discovers an act of plagiarism – 'The appropriation or imitation of the language, ideas, and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one's own original work' (Random House Dictionary of English Language) – has the right and responsibility to impose upon the guilty student an appropriate penalty, up to and including immediate assignments of a grade of F for the assigned essay and a grade of F for the course, and to report the incident to the University Student Standards Board. Respect for the work of others should encompass all formats, including print, electronic, and oral sources.”

If we all work together, we can ensure ethical resource use in our papers!
