FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

CULTURAL DIVERSITY WEEK

CHARLESTON, IL--A one-man play, "Rated Malcolm X"; a presentation by Jack Gladstone, an American-Indian lecturer and storyteller; and other events have highlighted Cultural Diversity Week activities at Eastern Illinois University.

Designed to create an awareness of the diversity on Eastern's campus by encouraging students to become actively involved in learning the importance of cultural diversity, the week will conclude Friday with an awards presentation for groups that participated.

CULTURAL DIVERSITY

Eastern Assistant Director of Student Activities/Minority Affairs Ceci Brinker extended her special thanks to Eastern's student organizations that contributed to the success of the activities, including Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, BACCHUS (Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students), Black Student Union, Hispanic Student Union, International Student Association, Lawson Hall, Residence Hall Association, Sigma Nu fraternity, Student Government and University Board.

"Given the support we have received this year, I know we can build upon our program for next year," Brinker said.
