“The Luttrell Psalter,” to be presented by members of Eastern's Medieval Studies Committee, explores one of the most splendid books that has survived from the Middle Ages with the help of technology. “The Luttrell Psalter” was created for an English knight who died about 1340. It deserves to be called not just a book but, rather, a multi-media work of art featuring calligraphy and a multitude of extraordinary color paintings which depict individuals and events linked to the life of its patron.
