FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

ALCOHOL RELATED SAFETY PROBLEMS IN HIGHER ED TO BE DISCUSSED

CHARLESTON, IL -- As the city of Charleston -- home to Eastern Illinois University -- and other Illinois college towns debate the issue of raising the bar entry age from 19 to 21, more than 200 college administrators, counselors and others will convene in Springfield on Feb. 28 for a two-day conference that addresses student alcohol and safety issues.

Gov. Jim Edgar, Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra and Illinois Board of Higher Education Director Richard Wagner are among the invited guests.

Eastern Illinois University's Office of Safety Programs is co-sponsoring the conference which will give representatives from both two- and four-year institutions a chance to discuss problems, strategies, barriers and successful programs on alcohol and safety prevention.

Becky Markwell, a conference organizer, said, "I think it's important for university personnel to share these ideas and realize they're not working in a vacuum out there."
