Bartholomae and Petrosky, Ways of Reading: An Anthology for Writers, 8th ed.
 Gibaldi, MLA Handbook, 7th ed.

Catalog Description

This advanced course covers a range of academic and professional writing, and requires the development of skills in the following areas:

- interpretation and critical thinking
- review of critical literature in a discipline
- collaboration and peer review
- oral and visual communication
- résumé and letter writing
- portfolio construction

Learning Objectives

During this semester, you will learn to:

- constructively criticize peers' thinking and writing
- use peer responses to improve your own thinking and writing
- read challenging texts
- carefully research a problem or issue in your discipline
- produce polished written and oral work for academic and professional audiences
- show initiative and professionalism, and be thorough and precise in your work

Writing-Centered Course

You should consider submitting an essay written for this class to the Electronic Writing Portfolio (EWP). Please visit the following web address for information about the submission process: <<http://www.eiu.edu/~assess/ewpmain.php>>. The course deadline for EWP submissions is Friday, May 1, 2015.

Short Descriptions of Assignments

Explaining a Specialized Subject: you will review an article or book chapter, explaining key concepts to an educated but non-expert audience.

Group Analysis/Presentation: in groups of three, you will carefully analyze a visual image (or set of images) chosen by the group.

Review Essay: you will write a critical overview of journal articles or book chapters dealing with a specific problem or issue.

Job Letter and Résumé: you will find an available internship, research assistantship, or other advertised position in your field (preferably, one that somewhat matches your qualifications). Then, you will write a letter and résumé that could actually be sent as part of an application for the position. The position may be located through a personal contact; a career center or job information service; or a newspaper, library, or online source.

Portfolio: you will revise selected work from the course and construct a portfolio. You will need the word-processing files and earlier drafts of all of your papers in order to put together the portfolio—so keep them!

Peer Reviews: on several occasions, you will respond to your peers' papers; your peer reviews should be honest and descriptive, explaining in detail your reading experiences.

Examinations: a mid-term and a comprehensive final examination will test your knowledge of grammar, style, and course readings, as well as your ability to read and analyze texts.

Daily Assignments: you will do reading workshops, prewriting, peer evaluations, group work, and various other daily assignments. If discussion logs, quizzes or additional in- and out-of-class writing may be assigned as part of the daily assignment grade.

Policies and Statements

Email: Recently, the English Department removed phone lines from most faculty offices. If you need to speak to me outside of class, email me or drop by during my office hours. I try to answer emails quickly, but please do not expect (or depend on) an immediate response to an email. Sometimes my schedule will not permit me to answer emails within a day, much less an hour or two.

Attendance: More than five unexcused absences will result in failure in the course. If you miss class, you are responsible for finding out what happened from another member of the class and for picking up missed handouts. Absences will be excused only in the case of a documented illness or emergency, or of documented participation in an official university activity. You must provide me with a legible photocopy of your documentation for my records, and if your absence is excused, I will return a copy of your documentation indicating as much. You must provide documentation either before you miss class or on the day you return. Missing a mandatory conference will count as two absences. Please do not come to class late. Every third time you come to class late, you will forfeit 5% of your participation grade for the semester.

Late work: Daily assignments will not be accepted late, and missed peer reviews cannot be made up. Presentations must be given on the dates for which you have scheduled them, except under the most extenuating circumstances. All major assignments are due at the start of class on the final due date. If you want an extension on a major assignment, you should seek the extension at least twenty-four hours in advance of the class period during which the assignment is due and cite compelling reasons for the request; otherwise, you will be penalized one letter grade for not turning in the paper on time and an additional letter grade for every twelve hours thereafter. After forty-eight hours, the assignment will not be accepted, and you will receive a zero on it. Only in the case of an excused absence may an examination be taken before or after the scheduled date. A rescheduled examination may cover different material than the original.

Grading Scale: 100 to 90 = A, 89.99 to 80 = B, 79.99 to 70 = C, 69.99 to 60 = D, 59.99 and below F

Percentages for Major Assignments

Explaining a Specialized Subject	15%
Group Analysis/Presentation	10%
Review Essay	15%
Job letter and résumé	5%
Portfolio	5%
	50%

Exams and Other Requirements

Mid-term Examination	10%
Comprehensive Final	20%
Average of Peer Reviews	5%
Daily Assignments	5%
Participation	10%
+	50% = 100%

Assessment: For each of the major assignments listed in the left column above, I will provide a formal assignment sheet. Your grade for a given major assignment will be determined by how well your work fulfills the requirements outlined in the assignment sheet. You must submit all major assignments to receive a passing grade in the class. You will receive worksheets to guide you through peer reviews, and written or verbal descriptions of daily assignments. Your participation grade will be based on the regularity and quality of your contributions to class discussions, and your level of engagement during group work and class activities.

Academic dishonesty: According to the MLA Handbook, the word "plagiarism" has its origin in the Latin term for "kidnapper": plagiarists kidnap other writers' sentences, phrases, or ideas and present them as their own. The Random House Dictionary defines "plagiarism" as "The appropriation or imitation of the language, ideas, and/or thoughts of another author, and representation of them as one's original work." As these sources suggest, plagiarism often results from faulty documentation or careless note taking. Always place quoted materials in quotation marks, and always cite quoted and/or paraphrased sources, even in rough drafts of papers or in presentations. Respect for the intellectual work of others should encompass all formats, including print, electronic, and oral sources. Inexcusable acts of plagiarism include downloading or buying a paper from the internet; copying and pasting phrases or passages from electronic sources into your paper without citing them; submitting a paper written by another student as your own; borrowing the language and content of a website verbatim and using it as an "original" presentation; and so on. The penalty for academic dishonesty is failure in the course. All instances of academic dishonesty will be reported to the Office of Judicial Affairs.

The Office of Disability Services: If you have a documented disability and wish to receive academic accommodations, please contact the Office of Disability Services (581-6583) as soon as possible.

The Student Success Center: Students who are having difficulty achieving their academic goals are encouraged to contact the Student Success Center (www.eiu.edu/~success) for assistance with time management, test taking, note taking, avoiding procrastination, setting goals, and other skills to support academic achievement. The Student Success Center provides individualized consultations. To make an appointment, call 217-581-6696, or go to 9th Street Hall, Room 1302.
